Bootleg Builders Thrive; L.B. Cracks Down

By GEORGE WEEKS

Bootleg building is big business here and has probably been increasing in recent years—but Long Beach city officials are tightening controls in an effort to curtail the illicit construction.

In the language of the trade, bootleg building means any kind of construction done without permits required by city or state laws. It includes general construction and electrical and plumbing installation.

No responsible official would hazard an estimate as to the extent of the illegal activity.

"We know it goes on, just as other laws are violated," said Edward M. O'Connor, city superintendent of building. "The only cases we have on record are those we detect—and they are considerable."

Interior installations such as plumbing and electrical work in existing buildings are the main problem, O'Connor added. Outside violations can usually be detected by inspectors in the field.

One reason for the suspected bootlegging increase is the growing trend toward the installation of garbage disposal and dishwashing devices. Both of these categories require permits, as do nearly all construction jobs except routine maintenance and small roofing replacements.

O'Connor pointed out that the 20 inspectors in the field have no way of finding out about interior violations unless they are tipped off or happen to see a contractor's truck parked in front of an address where no permit is listed.

Members of Plumbers Local 494 have expressed concern about violations in that industry.

A three-man committee headed by Business Agent Harold McCray has been appointed to discuss trade promotion with master plumbers and contractors.

One of the committee members, E. J. Galvin, financial secretary of the union, said the bootlegging problem probably will come up in the course of the discussion.

Another union member, John T. Verant, a journeyman plumber, said the city may be deprived of $300,000 annual revenue in permits that should be issued for all types of construction work.

Officials consider that estimate much too high. An audit report just issued by City Auditor John R. Mansell lists total revenue of the department last fiscal year at only $198,237.11, against budget expenditures of $251,015.34.

Permit fees range upward from a minimum of $2 for a project costing $500 or less. Charges equivalent to one-half the permit fees are levied for checking plans, with a few exceptions.

Until recently, the usual money cost to an illicit contractor was a doubling of the permit fee if illegal work was detected, plus a requirement that any work done in violation of the code be brought up to standard.

Now the city is enforcing a $10 investigation fee for illegal electrical projects. A similar fee will become effective July 1 in the plumbing code under terms of recent amendments favored by the industry.

Since most of the violations are on smaller jobs, the effect will be to increase the cost.

Amendments in preparation for submission to the City Council will provide a minimum investigation fee of $10 for violations in general construction, with a sliding scale upward for larger projects.

In addition, the department prosecutes flagrant offenders with the assistance of five investigators in this area for the Contractors State License Board. The latter agency also presses for revocation of state licenses of offending contractors.

In one instance a neon sign constructor's license was revoked and he was sentenced to serve eight weekends in jail after pleading guilty to 21 violations. He gave up his business and left town before serving the sentence.

* * * *

THE INVESTIGATORS handle thousands of complaints in the course of a year and usually have 500 active at any given time.

One further step taken by the Building Department and recommended by Mansell's office puts additional teeth in the enforcement of the double-penalty requirement.

In a recent change of procedure, field inspectors telephone

WAR GAMES SHELL KILLS 4 GI'S

Russ H-Weapon 'Thorium Bomb'

NIIGATA, Japan (AP)—A Japanese nuclear physicist said Saturday the Soviet nuclear weapon exploded April 16 "was apparently a thorium bomb."

Dr. Seitaro Koyama, professor at Niigata University, said: "My assumption is based on analysis of atomic fallout collected here April 17, which contained no uranium at all but thorium 231 among other elements."

He reported the thorium, a comparatively rare radioactive element occuring in combination in thorite, monazite and certain other minerals, constituted 1 per cent of the fallout.

* * * *

RECORD HIGH radioactivity was recorded over Japan after the April 16 blast, described by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission in Washington as the fifth Russian test set off over a period of 13 days.

"The test occurred at a site in Central Asia previously used for such operations," the AEC said April 18.

"The weapon tested was one of the largest thus far in the current Soviet series."

The AEC declined comment on Dr. Koyama's statement.

Significance of the presence of thorium in fallout from the Soviet weapon apparently would be that the Russians are using this element to make nuclear bombs instead of uranium or its products, which the West uses.

The Russians have been reported experimenting with thorium as an atomic explosive for a number of years.

* * * *

THORIUM HAS been found in many parts of Asia and beyond the Arctic circle in Norway, so it presumably is available in the Soviet Union.

Dr. Koyama told a meteorological conference in Tokyo in April of 1956 he believed the Russians had exploded a new-type H-bomb using thorium in their nuclear tests in March of that year.

Japan to End Curbs on Red China Trade

WASHINGTON (UP) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi has informed the U. S. government that Japan soon will follow Britain's lead and cut restrictions on trade with Communist China to the level of the western embargo against Russia.

Informants said Japan will act as soon as the 15-nation Allied Committee on China Trade Controls meeting in Paris formally confirms the American defeat in the embargo battle.

That decision is expected soon — at least within the next few weeks. Diplomatic sources here said an eight-nation majority of the committee has decided to vote to scrap the special embargo list which made curbs on exports to Red China more strict than those on sales to Russia and eastern Europe for the past seven years.

* * * *

KISHI PROMISED President Eisenhower Japan would be careful to avoid shipping any strategic materials to Communist China.

He was understood to have predicted that Japan's annual trade with Red China would increase to around 100 million dollars each way, compared with 1956 exports of 60 million dollars to China and imports of 80 million dollars.

The Japanese leader found that U.S. officials had what he considered an "exaggerated" idea of how much trade Japan wanted to conduct with the Peking regime.

He explained that Japan, acting on her own, probably would not have gone as far as Britain in lowering the China trade barriers. But now, he said, the majority of the Allied committee had agreed to follow the British lead and Japan can not afford to hold back.

Trains Collide

NEW DELHI (UP)—Two express trains collided early Saturday at Chata station 70 miles from here, injuring 32 persons.

IT'S WAGON WEEK IN L.B. SHOWROOMS

Station wagons in all their practical glory will blossom this week in new-car dealers' showrooms across the city.

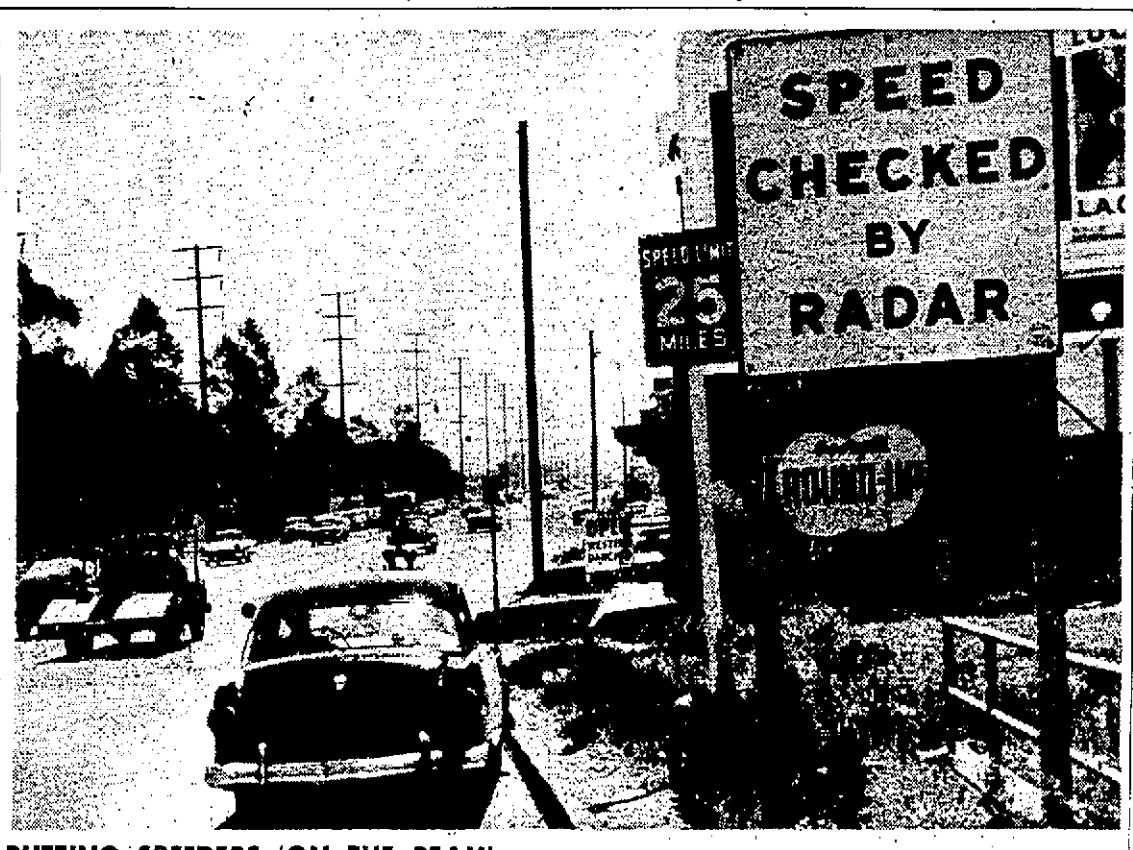

Observing "Wagon Week," dealers will feature special station-wagon displays and offer attractive values on this popular vehicle. A special section of today's Independent, Press-Telegram features pictures and stories explaining the practicality of station-wagon ownership.

L.A.C. Says: From Underground

The Supreme Court decision freeing five Communists and ordering new trials for nine others has brought many fellow travelers up from their underground operations. They are gleeful in their great victory. They proclaim it a victory for the American people. This is from people who preached the violent overthrow of the American system. When they were convicted of teaching and preaching this doctrine, they were sentenced to jail. Now they say they are made respectable by the Supreme Court decision. But they will hardly be acceptable to true Americans.

The Court did not deny these people were guilty. But it said in effect that teaching or preaching the violent overthrow of our government was different from

PUTTING SPEEDERS 'ON THE BEAM'

In full view of traffic, Long Beach radar patrol car awaits speeders who don't believe in signs. The car, working with motor officers in front, went into action Wednesday but citations will not be issued until July 3. Intervening period is for "education-demonstration." Radar to Check Absent Minded

This is another traffic safety article by Independent, Press-Telegram reporter Bert Resnik. A previous article of Resnik's, which recounted in grim detail 24 local traffic deaths, has been credited with being a "powerful factor" in reducing traffic fatalities locally.

By BERT RESNIK

I'm the first person in Long Beach to be pinched by an aluminum speed cop.

The pinch didn't hurt for it came during a demonstration of radar's speed-detecting abilities.

It was the radar mechanism in an aluminum box that caught me Wednesday, but I knew about the trap.

In fact, police made sure the traffic lanes were clear before I took the bait.

The radar car was at Judson Ave. and Pacific Coast Hwy. I zipped by it at 68 miles per hour.

Though I knew it was coming, the wail of the motorcycle officer's siren trebled through my brain like a million horns of fear.

There is something terrifying about the whine of a motorcycle officer's siren. You know the policeman's not going to shoot you. He's not even going to slap your wrist.

* * * *

BUT I'VE SEEN war heroes turn pale as paste under this clarion summons to pull over to the curb.

It's an experience not soon forgotten — and that's good.

I had obeyed the clarion summons. Officer Bland Watkins wheeled up and played his role like Gary Cooper prepping for an Oscar.

"Sir," he said, "Your speed has been checked by radar. You have been going 62 miles in a 25-mile zone."

I almost smiled.

"You are wrong, officer," I replied, "I definitely was not going 62 miles an hour. I was doing 68."

* * * *

IT WAS ONE of the happiest moments of my life.

But it turned out I was

Potent U.S. Jets Tuned for S. Korea

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—The Allies began gearing their outmoded defenses in Korea Saturday for any attack by the beefed-up Communist forces to the north.

Observers said late-model U. S. jet fighter planes capable of handling virtually anything the Communists can put in the air are being prepared for shipment from Japan to the Republic of Korea early next week.

The ROK army canceled all leaves for its 700,000 men and went on full alert after the United Nations Command's notice to North Korea on Friday that as a result of the illegal Red buildup the allies will rearm their own forces with up-to-date weapons and scrap the clause in the 1953 armistice treaty forbidding such rearmament.

* * * *

ROK DEFENSE officials denied that their alert was designed to prepare the country for a possible retaliatory Communist move, but this was the impression received by the average man in the street in Seoul, the capital.

The South Koreans were jubilant at the news that the United States and its allies planned to modernize defenses.

Pigs in 'Star' Role of Today's A-Test

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP)—Pigs—835 of them—have a starring role in today's scheduled "above nominal" atomic test.

The shot, fifth in the current nuclear test series, will be exploded from a balloon at 6:30 a.m.—if the weather is right.

This will be the first shot of the series above nominal—more than 20 kilotons or about as powerful as the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

* * * *

THE PIGS will be used in two of 33 military-effects projects to be conducted in conjunction with the blast. In one project, 760 pigs will be exposed at varying distances from ground zero. Authorities hope an examination of the animals after the blast will extend knowledge of treament of injuries resulting from exposure to heat, radiation and pressure.

In another experiment, 75 pigs will be covered with material used in military clothing. Six to eight dogs and a number of rabbits also will be used. The military later will study the effects of the blast on the material.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration also will conduct tests on the effect of the blast on mass shelters, family-type shelters and a vault.

* * * *

FOODS — PACKAGED and raw—also will be exposed. Civil Defense men will try to decontaminate some of the food with laboratory equipment following the shot. The rest will be sent to Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science at Manhattan for study.

In another FCDA test, the effects of radiation on vacuum containers and blood-substitute solutions will be studied.

More than 850 military observers will watch the shot from trenches about 4,500 yards from ground zero.

13 Soldiers Hurt in Public Show

FT. SILL, Okla. (AP)—Four soldiers were killed and 13 were injured, five seriously, Saturday when a high-explosive mortar shell landed among them during a public demonstration.

Capt. Robert E. Kren, public information officer at the world's largest artillery training center, said none of the spectators was injured by the blast, which occurred about one mile from where they were standing.

The Army identified the four dead as Sgt. Alonzo Cartlidge, 33, Ft. Sill; Sp 3. c. David L. Robinson, 20, son of Henry T. Robinson, Oshkosh, Wis.; Pvt. Percy A. Reevey, 20, son of Mrs. Carmen Reevey, Neptune, N.J., and Pvt. Russell L. Somers, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Somers, Rosenberg, Tex.

* * * *

KREN SAID an Army board under Col. O. L. Tobiason has been named to investigate the accident.

He said the mortar shell, fired from a weapon which also can be used to fire chemical shells, was believed to have been a "short round," one which falls short of its intended target.

It fell among members of Company B, 522nd Infantry Battalion, as they moved toward their objective of "Adams Hill" on the East Artillery Range.

* * * *

APPROXIMATELY 175 soldiers from Company B were involved in the ground part of the simulated attack on a hill position. They were supported by 537th Field Artillery Battalion, 548th Field Artillery Battalion, 6th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, 88th Searchlight Battery and an Army Aviation Training Command unit.

The supporting units were laying down a barrage of shells ahead of the advancing infantry unit when the explosion occurred.

U.S. to Bring Thousands of Troops Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of the American military men stationed in foreign lands will be coming home as a result of a global review of defense needs, it became clear Saturday.

The communique issued Friday night by President Eisenhower and Japanese Prime Minister Kishi announced a prompt withdrawal of all U. S. ground combat forces from Japan, numbering about 30,000. They will begin coming out next month.

* * * *

OFFICIALS said Saturday they did not know exactly how the world-wide study would work out in the long run. But there was no denying the fact that American commitments abroad, as expressed in numbers of men stationed in foreign lands and the amount of foreign territory put to American use, steadily are being curtailed.

The operation is being carried out, officials said, in such a way as to accord as fully as possible with the wishes of Allied governments and yet avoid any vital reduction in free world defensive strength. At the same time, it must conform to tightening American government budget requirements.

* * * *

THOSE ARE major considerations. How well the plans now being brought to conclusion within the Eisenhower administration will meet them and other important considerations is a question which undoubtedly will come up for debate as the operation progresses.

Inquiry at the State and Defense Departments brought out that the reduction in Japan was not solely the result of Kishi's visit here although the announcement was nicely timed to assure him of political credit back home for progress toward a popular Japanese objective—fewer foreigners in the island country.

Typhoon Virginia Bears on Luzon

MANILA (UP)—The Weather Bureau issued typhoon warnings for Luzon today and said Typhoon Virginia is expected to slam across the island's east coast with 175-m.p.h. winds this morning.

The advisory warned all ships and aircraft to stay out of the storm's path.

FREE RIDE?

2 Rob Flier of Uniform

NORWALK—A young Air Force corporal, hitching a ride from Pomona to Whittier, was robbed of his uniform here by two motorists with whom he accepted a ride Saturday.

John Lawrence Donovan, 19, stationed at Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, told sheriff's deputies his clothing was stolen near Rosecrans and Carmenita Aves. He said the driver of the car and the other man told him they had a gun and forced him to remove the uniform.

He said the men told him they would return in an hour with the uniform and "will give you $500 for using it," officers related.

The shivering airman didn't wait. He called sheriff's deputies from a nearby house.

From Underground

putting the teaching into practice. In other words it is all right to teach treason to children or adults as long as you are not caught in an actual revolt. The decision was apparently made on the basis that the Smith Act does not spell out that teaching or advocating is the same as actual participation in attempting to overthrow our government by force and violence.

The five California Communists have long been in the news. They have been active in labor unions, the Peoples World and Communist party activities. While they represent comparatively few people, they are potential trouble makers in unions, racial groups and anywhere there is a chance to create trouble. Since their conviction under the Smith Act—by juries and California courts—they have been comparatively quiet. But we may be sure they will make the most of the encouragement given them by the Supreme Court.

This writer has had considerable experience with Communists. He met with some in labor unions in the past. In 1946 he had a long conference with the then secretary of the Communist party in Long Beach. It was then the Communists were being friendly because we were supposed to be friends with Russia. The party met openly. In our conversation the party secretary frankly told us that its program was to change our system of government peacefully—but if it could not be done peacefully it must be done by force and violence.

We saw Communists in labor unions scurry for cover when the Taft-Hartley law called for affidavits from labor leaders that they were not Communists. We saw some of them make deals just ahead of that law going into effect. We saw many of these leaders driven from union office as the decent men and women took charge of their own affairs. One has to experience some of these things to really despise the people who preach overthrow of this country while demanding all its protections.

It seems to this writer that the Supreme Court leaned far over backwards in its decision. But if it is a legal loophole it should be closed by Congress. There should be no chance of an ultra-liberal court making the laws rather than Congress. That is what happens when the court interprets a law contrary to what Congress intended. But in this case it seems certain that Congress should immediately provide that teaching treason is just as bad as practicing it.—L.A.C.

House Seen Ready to OK Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Despite a rampaging economy drive, the House Saturday seemed ready to give President Eisenhower a major victory on a key program—foreign aid.

The Chief Executive has asked for $3,864,410,000. Most of the money, $2,900,000,000, is earmarked for military hardware and defense support.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee plans to complete its investigation of the administration request next week, then start approving the various items, one by one. The committee started taking testimony from military and civilian leaders a month ago today.

* * * *

THE SENATE recently completed action on an authorization bill by voting for an overall program to cost $3,617,333,000. That was a cut of less than seven per cent.

Congressional leaders doubt the House will approve a deeper cut.

Lack of House controversy over the program is unusual. Informed sources explained it this way:

—Four independent groups made searching investigations of foreign aid and unanimously agreed the programs must be continued as long as Russia threatens the world.

—President Eisenhower has asked that a new emphasis be placed on aiding this country's allies economically through loans instead of outright gifts.

—Eisenhower has also asked that military aid be included as part of the U. S. defense appropriation.

* * * *

THE FOUR investigations of foreign aid—by the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a presidential commission headed by Benjamin Fairless, and a citizens' committee headed by Eric Johnston—gave strong support to the argument that these are not "give-away" programs.

Abandonment of the programs, the groups said in effect, would endanger the independence of the free world, including the United States.

Shifting emphasis on economic aid through loans in place of gifts took steam out of the "give-away" argument. The State Department has promised to lend the funds on a sound financial basis. Our allies will be expected to repay them.

'Diabolic' Tortures Disclosed by Priest

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—A Roman Catholic missionary who spent six years in Chinese Communist prisons told Senate investigators his captors tried to make him spy against the United States to win his release.

The Rev. Fulgence Gross, a Franciscan father from Omaha, told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee his captors were "men possessed by the devil." He said the Chinese subjected him to unspeakable atrocities, including trying to wring off his ear, and three years of "mental torture" which he said was worse than his physical mistreatment.

* * * *

AFTER THE TORTURE, he said, the Chinese for a year "tried to make a spy out of me . . . if I shouldd get out, I should find out certain things they wanted."

Father Gross said the Chinese torture methods were "diabolic."

"Those who too readily condemn our American soldiers who found their way into Communist prisons and made confessions or who even might have revealed secrets committed to them, should themselves pass just one month in a Communist prison or court," he said.

* * * *

FATHER GROSS was arrested 18 months after the Communists took Tsingato, where he had remained voluntarily after the Nationalist army pulled out in 1949.

He said he was arrested as a spy and condemned to death by "slow painful torture." On Oct. 28, 1955, after the United States negotiated at Geneva with the Chinese Reds for return of American prisoners, he was sentenced to six years.

Sweetheart of Page Boy Flying Home

NEW YORK (U.P.) — Christina Wennerstrom, 16-year-old Swedish diplomat's daughter, left for Stockholm Saturday weeping, clutching a Teddy bear and vowing her love for the Senate page boy with whom she went on a two-week "honeymoon" without benefit of clergy.

Christina, accompanied by her mother, did not say a word to newsmen who saw her off at Idlewild International Airport. But she replied to their questions with vigorous nods of the head when they asked if she still loved her boy friend and if she still wanted to marry him.

THE GIRL RAN off with Huw Williams, 18. They were taken into custody in Pennsylvania, Thursday, on their return from Canada. Huw went home to his mother in Falls Church, Va., and lost his Senate job.

Christina was taken in tow by her mother, Mrs. Stig Wennerstrom, who appeared to take a forgive-and-forget attitude toward her daughter's escapade.

Checks Radar 'Scientist'

'Go Get Him'

wrong. My speedometer, not the radar, was the liar.

Bill Keith, the Public Service Department radioman who installed the $1,700 radar apparatus, explained.

"The average speedometer is not accurate," he said. "The average registers faster than actual speed."

Radar's accuracy is checked by tuning forks fixed at speeds of 25, 45 and 65 miles per hour. These forks are "scientists" that can't be disputed, according to Keith.

• • • •

IN LONG BEACH, the scientific radar apparatus has been set to register speeds at a mile lower than actual speed. This is to give the motorist the benefit of the doubt.

There are several other aspects of the radar setup in the driver's favor.

Forty-six signs have been posted at entrances to the City of Long Beach. The signs state: Speed checked by radar.

They mean what they say.

They're telling you in advance to watch your step on the throttle.

Unless you can't read, you can't ask for a bigger break than that. And if you want to learn how to read, there are always adult education classes in which you can enroll.

The radar car is not concealed on a side street or behind billboards. It's parked on the street it's patrolling. If you're looking, you can see it.

• • • •

AND CAPT. WILLIAM E. Kummer, head of the traffic division, hopes motorists will see the light and drive safely, for safe driving, not entrapment, is Kummer's objective.

And he considers radar a tool for safe driving.

It's a tool that's going to be used before you reach 68 miles per hour in a 25-mile zone.

"In a 25-mile zone, we could start citing anything moving over 32," Capt. Kummer said.

But they won't for a while. Speeding motorists checked by radar will not be cited until July 3.

• • • •

THE INTERVENING period will be used to acquaint the public with the new radar equipment, Capt. Kummer said.

An introduction to the acquaintanceship could begin with the sound of the siren. It's an experience just as soon missed as met.

Radar, though a "scientist," needs the siren and the man behind it.

Here's how it works.

The aluminum radar box sits inside the open trunk of the car. A 20-degree, cone-shaped radar beam, like an invisible searchlight, covers a 175-foot area behind it.

• • • •

WHEN A CAR passes through, the beam's frequency is changed. This changed frequency, received by the radar box, is transmitted to the officer in the driver's seat.

It is transmitted in terms of miles per hour. It is registered on a meter and on a graph resembling a lie detector.

The explanation takes longer than the occurrence. It is an almost instantaneous procedure.

The officer in the car, who has been observing traffic in his rear-view mirror, knows which reading is for what automobile.

• • • •

THROUGH A PUBLIC-address system, the radar car officer announces to the motorcycle officer in front:

"Gray Ford at 52."

That was exactly what Radar-car Officer King Head announced and the words to which Motor Officer Jerry LePay reacted in pursuit of Speedster No. 2.

It wasn't one of the happiest moments of his life for speedster No. 2.

Informed that his high speed had been radar-checked, he said:

"Oh, my God!"

Radar-car Officer Jim Kelly and Motor Officer Bland Watkins teamed for Speedster No. 3.

He was an aviation-plant employe. He told Watkins he was going to inform all his fellow employes about the radar setup.

"This is murder," he said.

But he was wrong.

It's just the opposite. It's an attempt to stop murder on the highways.

Hawaiian Girl and U.S. Pen Pal Wed

ABINGDON, Ill. (UP) — Richard Andrews, 20, was married today to the Hawaiian girl whom he came to know through a pen pal correspondence started when they were in the 6th grade.

Andrews and Kathi Takata, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Koki Takata, of Waimea Kauai, Hawaii, were married in the First Congregationalist Church here at a ceremony read by Rev. Ralph A. Harris.

The altar was decorated with flowers imported from Hawaii. The bride's parents were not able to be present, however.

• • • •

ANDREWS' 6th grade school teacher got the class interested in corresponding with pen pals in other countries, and Kathi became young Andrews' pen pal.

After exchanging letters for about seven years, Miss Takata came to Abingdon last April and, about three weeks ago, she and Archer announced they would marry.

When she arrived here in April Miss Takata said she came out of a "woman's curiosity. Dick wrote such nice letters about Abingdon I wanted to see what it looked like."

Andrews works for Admiral Corp., in nearby Galesburg and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Andrews.

Succeeding weeks will feature talks on "Motivating People," "Organizational History, Philosophy, and Structure" and "Mechanics of Meetings."

N.Y. Police Have New Mad Bomber

NEW YORK (UP) — Police were confronted Saturday with the possibility they are being pestered by a new "mad bomber."

A device similar to the scores pieced together by the original "mad bomber," who now is in a mental institution, was found in a subway station.

Service on one subway line was halted for 15 minutes while police bomb squad experts gingerly plucked the device from behind a stairwell and took it away for examination.

It was the second crude "bomb" to be found on the same subway platform in 10 days. It consisted of a five-inch length of galvanized pipe with a red fuse. The pipe was filled with black powder.

Written in black crayon on the device was the query: "Is this still crude?"

The message apparently referred to police reports that the "bomb" found 10 days ago was crude.

George Metesky, known for 16 years as "the mad bomber of Manhattan," was arrested earlier this year. He told police he had planted scores of bombs, some of which exploded, to call attention to a grievance he had against the Consolidated Edison Company.

No Aircraft Slowdown in Local Plants

Southland aircraft industry officials say there are no plans for any major layoffs and employment levels will be maintained at least through 1958.

The assurance was given Saturday amid speculation there would be substantial employment cutbacks in this area as a result of new Defense Department policies.

Approximately 230,000 workers are employed by aircraft plants in Southern California.

A summary on a Washington conference attended by Air Force and aircraft-industry representatives Wednesday said in the future many present production facilities will not be needed and that an "overall reduction" is in prospect.

Douglas Aircraft reported it has a commercial backlog of more than $1,000,000,000 and continue production of DC-6 and DC-7 models at a "maximum rate" at its Santa Monica plant until the end of 1959.

The Long Beach plant will produce DC-8 models and the C-133 military transport. Other Douglas plants will keep up production at Torrance-El Segundo.

Other aircraft companies had similar forecasts.

OZONE THICKEST HERE

Tire-Protection 'Dope' Gets Roughest Tryout

By WILLIAM BROOM
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Because the air around Long Beach fairly crackles with ozone, the city has been selected for a national experiment on automobile tires, the National Tire Retreading Institute revealed here today.

Ozone, which is oxygen in concentrated form, is one of the greatest enemies of tires, the Institute said. It causes tiny cracks in sidewalls, and eventually leads to rotted casings. It is especially prevalent in the Long Beach-Los Angeles metropolitan area because of smog.

FIFTY AUTOS, equipped with specially treated tires, are moving around Long Beach streets in a national test of a new compound designed to protect tires against cracking from smog and other chemicals in the air.

The Institute selected the area because its atmospheric conditions do the most damage to rubber. If the tests over the next 45 days are successful, the new compound will be placed on the market.

Chief ingredient is Hypalon, a synthetic rubber. Compounded with resins and other chemicals into a gooey paste, Hypalon has been smeared on the tire casings of 50 cars by Barnes & Delaney Inc. of Long Beach and Gladman & Wallace Tire Co. of Santa Ana. They are among four Southern California tire sellers taking part in the test.

The Hypalon compound will be marketed under another name. If the tests prove its worth, motorists will get longer life from their tires and safer and more economical tire mileage, said the Institute's secretary, W. W. Marsh.

Marsh said 70 per cent of a motorist's investment in a new tire is in the tire casing and only 30 per cent in the tread rubber.

• • • •

THE PRACTICE of retreading tires has received more favorable acceptance on the West Coast than in any other section of the nation, he said. Partly for this reason and also because of smog-eaten casings, a shortage in used casings has developed in the area, Marsh said.

If the Hypalon compound works, the shortage can be relieved, he said.

The Tire Institute said that tires are damaged by ozone and other atmospheric irritants in other sections of the nation as well.

"But we chose the Los Angeles-Long Beach area," Marsh said, "for an obvious reason. The smog problem is worse there than anywhere else."

GOP Solon Raps Girard Trial Plans

CHICAGO (UP) — Rep. Bow (Ohio) Saturday night said the United States "lost face" when it decided to "surrender jurisdiction" of American soldiers to Japan for criminal offenses.

"It is obvious that our Armed Forces are no longer a symbol of the dignity of the United States," the Republican congressman said.

Bow addressed a huge protest rally against the surrender of Army Specialist 3C William S. Girard, Ottawa, Ill., to the Japanese on manslaughter charges for killing a Japanese woman on an American firing range.

Disaster on Mormon Island

By Alys Phreaner

NO ONE alive today knows exactly what caused the explosion aboard the 500-foot tanker Markay, early on the morning of June 22, 1947, but the entire Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor area is better safeguarded today as a result of the greatest disaster in local waterfront history.

"That was a night I'll never forget," says Joseph Smithers, chief pumpman of the ill-fated ship, who still visits this area two or three times a month on coastwise tankers.

At 2:05 on that Sunday morning 10 years ago, the Markey rested quietly at her moorings alongside the Shell Oil docks on Mormon Island, taking on a mixed load of petroleum products. That portion of the cargo which included diesel fuel, aviation gasoline and stove oil was already aboard and the third mate was supervising the loading of red ethyl gasoline and highly volatile butane-blended gasoline.

ALL OF THE required safety measures were being observed and, in addition, because of the high combustibility of the butane-blended commodity, further precautions were taken. All watertight doors were kept closed, the portholes were closed and dogged, and no smoking was allowed anywhere on the vessel. The galley was locked and crew members had been taken into Wilmington for their evening meal.

The night was sultry under a partially clouded sky. Such a faint breeze moved up the channel and across the ship toward the dock that it scarcely stirred the heavy vapors flowing out through the ullage holes of the Markay's tanks and they hung in a noxious blanket above the hot steel decks. The fumes pressed relentlessly into the officers' quarters in the midship housing, where the radio operator and the shipping company's port captain were sleeping.

AT MIDNIGHT, because of the stuffiness and the accumulated fumes in his room amidships, the chief mate had taken a pillow from his bunk and gone out to sleep in his car, parked in the terminal yard a hundred feet or so from the ship. And so his life was spared when, at approximately 2:06 a.m., the tranquil vessel shuddered with the impact of a violent explosion.

Instantly, the thick layer of gasoline vapors ignited and within seconds the ship was enveloped in fire as the flames roared upward from the tank tops like giant blowtorches. A great stream of burning gasoline spurted from a ruptured tank directly abaft the midship housing, and within three minutes it had swept across the smooth surface of the water to set afire the docks on the opposite side of the channel. As the gases in adjacent tanks ignited, explosion followed explosion in rapid succession, hurling blazing steel fragments into the air to spread destruction farther ashore. Newspaper accounts reported that the blasts were felt for at least 12 miles and the flames were visible for the same distance.

"I SPENT SEVERAL hours uptown that evening," Smithers said, "but got back to the Markay about 9:30 and went to bed. When the explosion woke me up, I ran back to the fantail and slid down a stern line to the dock."

More than a dozen other crew members who were also in the afterdeck housing reached shore as Smithers did, by sliding down the stern mooring lines or by diving into the water and swimming to safety, but three or four men were overcome by smoke in the dark passageways before they were able to escape. Eight crew members and the port captain, as well as three wharfingers working on the pier, were counted dead or missing in the catastrophe.

THE FIRE RAGED for 12 hours before it was brought under control, and the Markay's twisted hulk smouldered for two days longer as she lay at her berth. The shattered midship section settled to the bottom of the harbor.

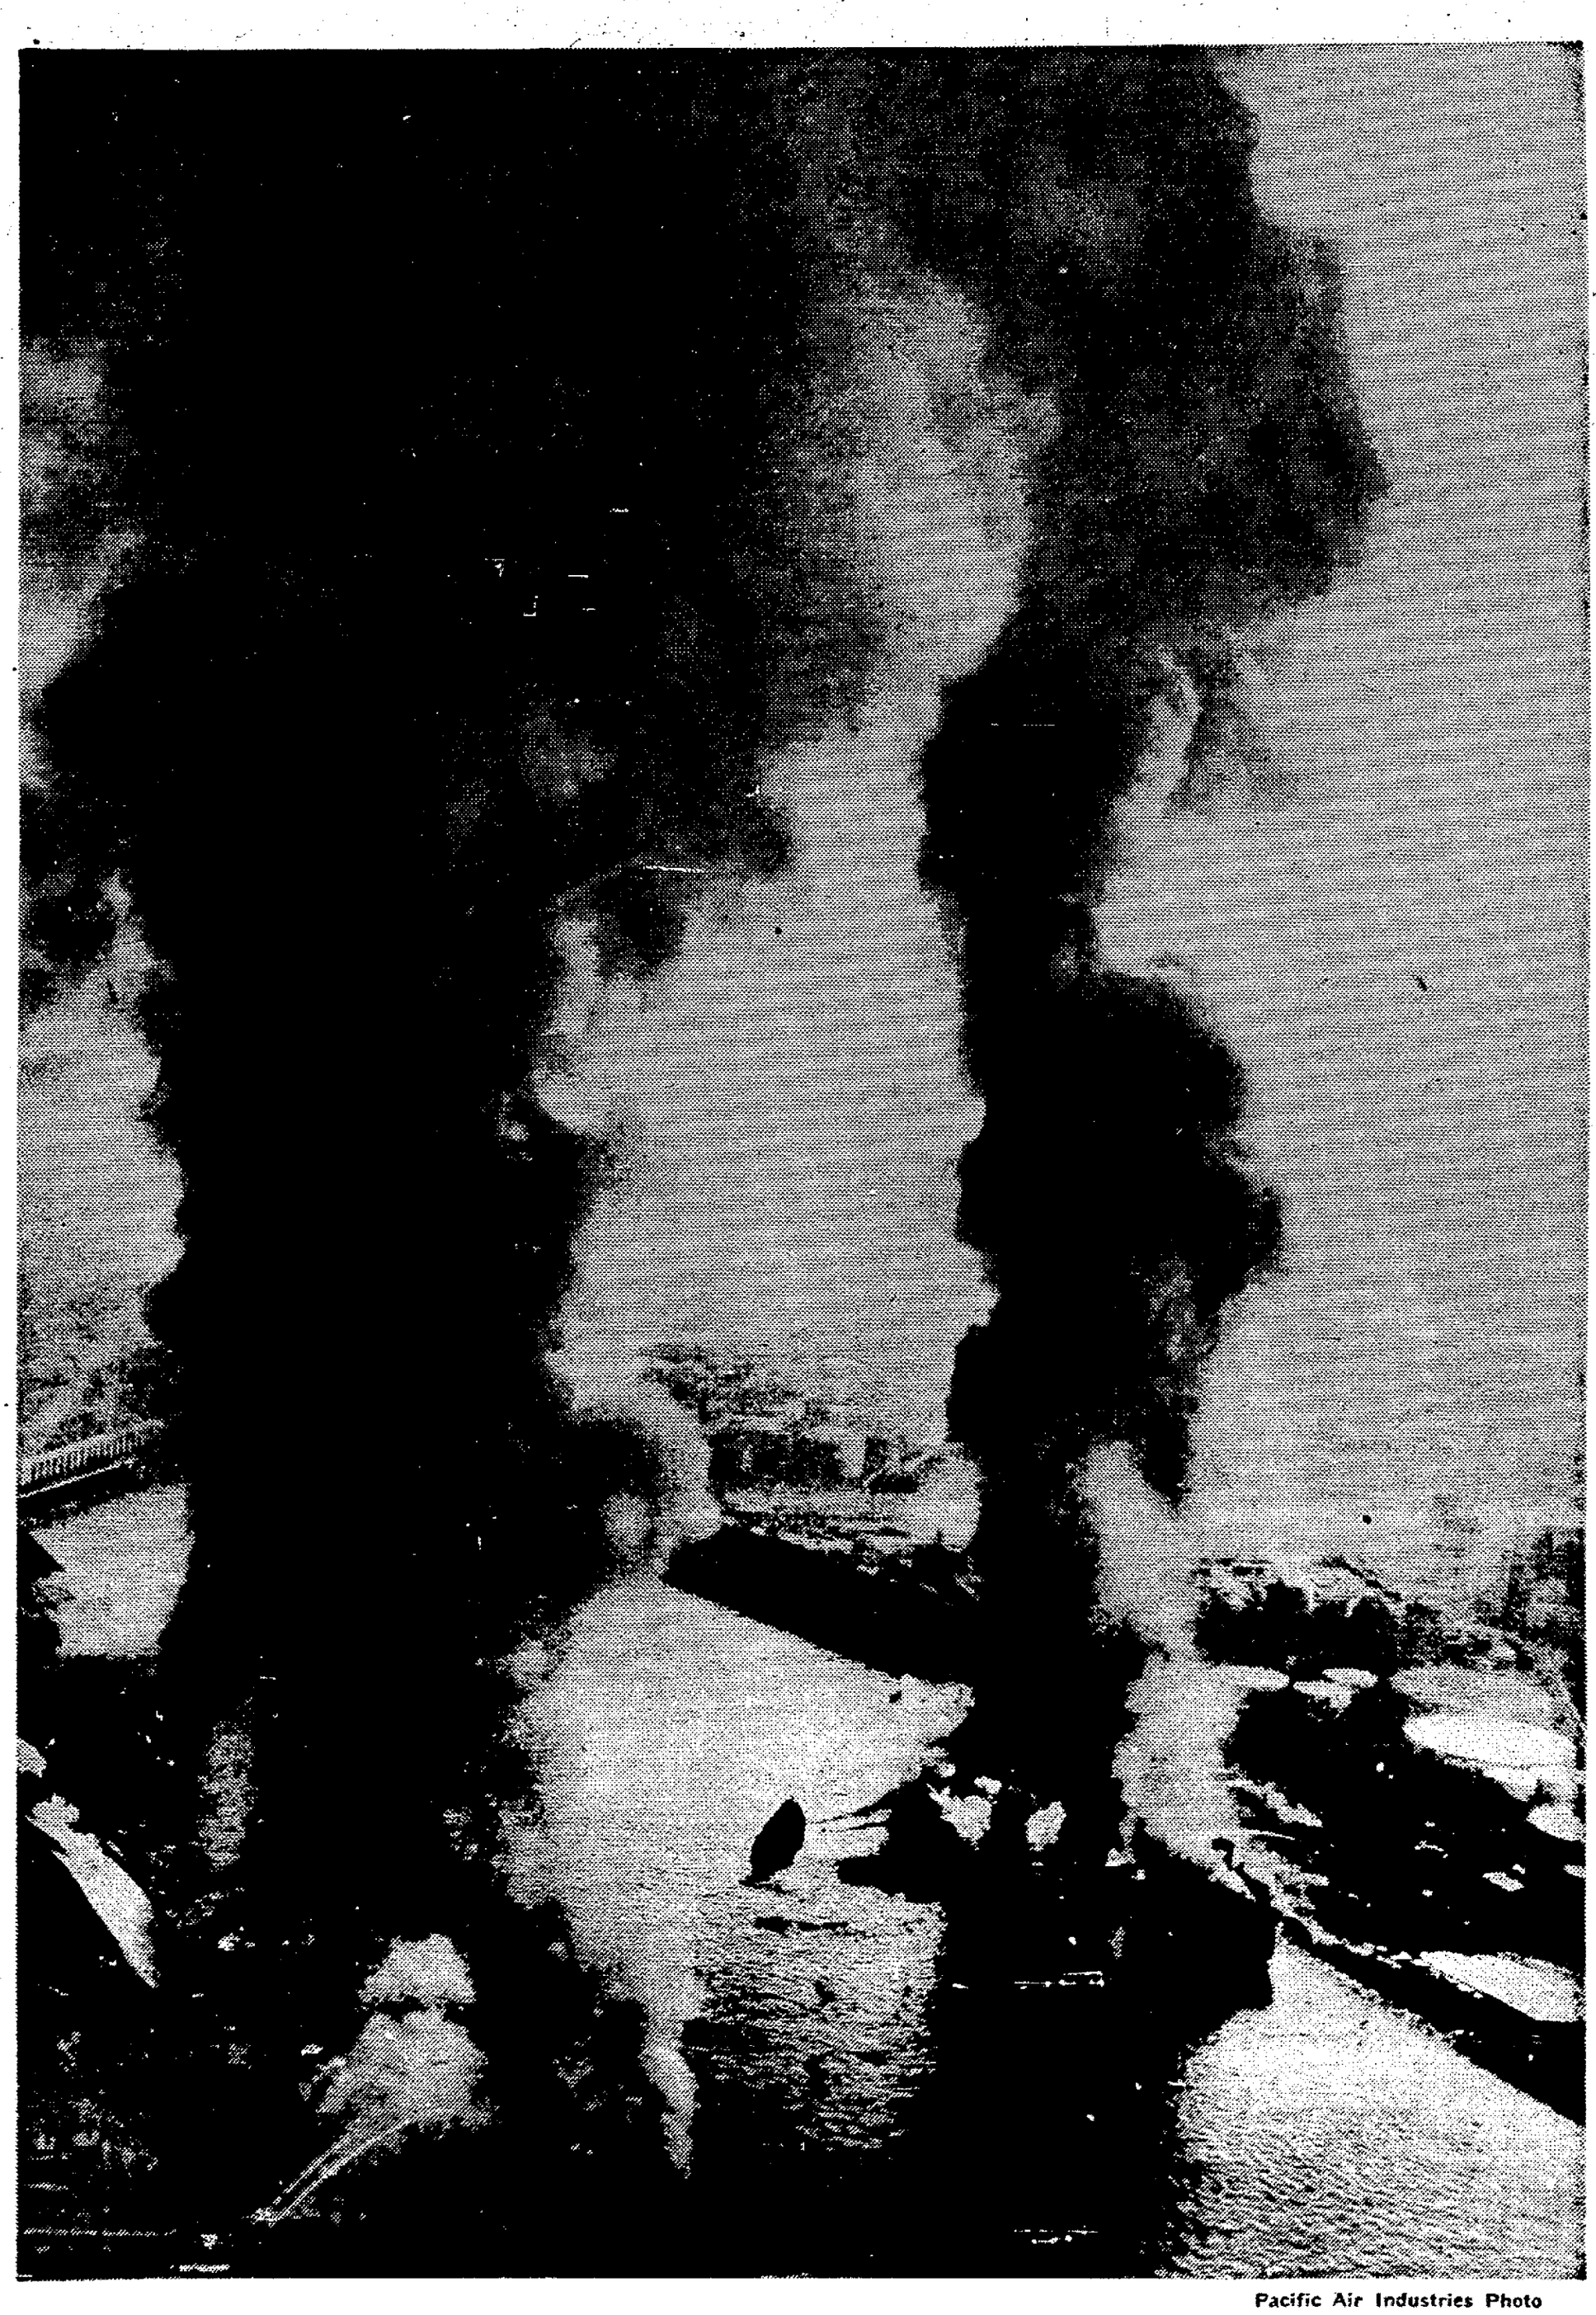

The oil pier and installations alongside the tanker were completely destroyed. Six storage tanks in the vicinity and the freight warehouses across the channel were gutted by the fire. Including the ship itself, valued at 2½ million dollars, the total damage was estimated at 10 million dollars.

On Wednesday, June 25, a U. S. Coast Guard investigation board convened to determine, if possible, the cause of the explosion and "above all, to prevent further occurrence of such tragedies." For two weeks, the group of Coast Guard officers listened to the testimony of survivors and witnesses, visited the Markay's charred hulk and weighed their findings.

SO TWISTED and torn were the Markay's bulkheads that it was impossible to determine whether the initial blast had occurred within the tank being loaded with butane-blended gasoline or in the vapors accumulated in the midship housing, which was melted into an almost unrecognizable mass by the intense heat. Possibly a static electricity spark had ignited the vapors, or perhaps one of the men in the midship quarters awakened and turned on a light or flicked the switch of an electric fan. No one will ever know.

From the hearing, however, came recommendations concern-

Grandma's a Daredevil!

By Bob Whearley

AT THE MOMENT, Grandma Brown is retired to her cozy little honeymoon nest at 1080 Elm Ave. But if you peek under her rocking chair, chances are you'll find a pair of paratrooper boots, size 6, and a revised schedule of upcoming air shows.

If you're worried about the propriety of nosing about under the rocker—fear not. Grandma probably will be off having herself a ball up in the wild blue.

With 62 parachute jumps to her credit, 41-year-old Emily Brown now has left the air show circuit to become Mrs. James C. Myers, wife of a Long Beach Coast Guard chief yeoman.

The chief grounded Grandma right after their April 27 wedding, and she had to cancel her bookings for jumps at shows in Canada and Czechoslovakia. No more wing stands, either. But nothing was said about flying (Grandma's a pilot, too.)

JUST HOW LONG Grandma's retirement will last is a matter of speculation. And those who know her best—her three married daughters—won't even venture a guess. She's surprised them too many times.

A trim, well-groomed brunette who closely resembles comedienne Martha Raye, Emily got started on her career as a professional daredevil because she couldn't turn down a nickel bet.

In the fall of 1954, she was vacationing in Fowler, Mich. One day, she went flying with a friend who introduced her to an acquaintance of his.

Later, over coffee in the airport snack bar, the topic of conversation got around to parachute-jumping and just what special kind of courage it took to dive out of a plane from a couple thousand feet in the air.

"Oh, I don't know," said Emily, airily. "It doesn't sound very dangerous to me."

HER FRIEND'S FRIEND drew himself up.

"Young lady, I'll bet you couldn't do it!"

"How much do you bet?" demanded Emily, who never was able to turn down a dare.

"A nickel. And if you jump, I will, too."

"You're on," said Emily.

She was at the airport bright and early the next morning. She checked out a parachute, all the while "kind of hoping this fellow would back out."

There was no sign of the man. But Emily went ahead with her part of the deal.

Her friend flew her to 2,000 feet in his plane and patiently circled the field. Swallowing hard to keep her heart in place, Emily pushed open the door and crawled out onto the struts.

"I kept wondering if I was doing the right thing," she recalls. "But, doggone it, I had made myself a bet and I wasn't about to back down. Whatever I've set my mind to, I've been able to do."

ABOVE THE ROAR of the engine, the words of the pilot rang in her ears:

"Emily, you got to remember—pull that ripcord. When you jump, there's not a thing I can do for you. I'm not going to land until I see you're safe on the ground."

Only Emily Brown could have read any humor into this warning. ("What on earth would he have done if the chute hadn't opened?" she wonders.)

Summoning up all her courage, Emily took a long look down.

It didn't help.

She closed her eyes for a second and heard the pilot yell: "Are you going to jump?"

"Doggone it, yes!" cried Emily.

And down she went, feet first.

"It's hard to put into words exactly what it was like," she says. "When you clear the plane, somehow you begin to feel wildly independent; you're floating in air, the wind wailing past your ears, and you start wondering if you really will remember to pull that ripcord."

EMILY REMEMBERED. She's sure she would have done it unconsciously, even if she had blacked out on her way down.

The pilot chute sprang out of her backpack, pulling the main parachute after it. With a sudden, plopping sound, the white nylon canopy filled with air and put the brakes on her descent.

"It was the most glorious feeling I've ever had in my life," Emily says. "I knew right away that this was for me."

Her sudden addiction to parachute jumping came as much of a surprise to Emily herself as it did to her friends and family.

But, then, Emily had been doing the unexpected all of her life.

Born in Sneedville, Tenn., Emily left home at 13 to get married. Her first husband, an interior decorator, died five years ago.

IN THE SUMMER OF 1944, Emily began taking flying lessons at Kenilworth, Ill., where she was operating a restaurant.

"There was something strange and wonderful about the thought of flying," she says. "I don't want to say that it's like feeling you're mightier than anyone else, but that's as close as I can come to it."

When her husband died, Emily found the sedate life of a small town widow didn't appeal to her. Her three girls—Arabella, Mary and Lois—were married and raising children of their own. Emily's health was good and she always had liked outdoor activities.

What happened after that impromptu jump at Fowler gave her the idea of becoming a professional parachutist. She admits she "wanted to make some money and I didn't know of any other grandmothers in air show work."

AFTER THE JUMP, a man approached her and identified himself as a fair promoter. He asked her if she'd care to jump at one of his shows.

Emily said she would be happy to—for $500.

The promoter informed her the going rate was $200.

"It's a deal," said Emily.

A few days later, she made her second jump. No hesitancy this time. Grandma Brown was in business.

She made several other jumps in the Illinois-Michigan area, and in the summer of 1955 placed an advertisement in Trade-a-Plane, an aviation publication, seeking jobs as a professional jumper.

She received more than 100 replies—most of them "from people who wanted to offer me every kind of job under the sun except jumping."

Among the letters she received was one from John Fitzpatrick, a 34-year-old Emmetsburg, Iowa, air show performer who was looking for a partner. They arranged a meeting, and hit it off from the first.

IN THE SUMMER OF 1955, they made 10 jumps together at various shows from New York to Oklahoma City. Once on the air show circuit, Emily added a wing-riding act to the duo's repertoire.

For the act, she used a Stearman 450 monoplane which had a metal stand secured to the top of the fuselage. She strapped herself against the metal railing and hung on while the plane took off and circled the field. To top off the act, Emily plucked a handkerchief off the ground while the plane flew upside down.

She didn't use a parachute for that act.

"I really should have," she admits. "but I think it would have made it look like it was too easy. The more dangerous an act is, the bigger the crowds. Besides, at the altitudes we did our tricks a chute wouldn't have been much use."

In August 1955, while Emily and John were appearing in their 10th air show together at Escanaba, Mich., misfortune struck. Fitzpatrick's parachute partially collapsed in the air, and he hurtled to earth, breaking his back.

IT WAS THE FIRST serious parachuting accident Emily had witnessed. But it didn't change her mind about the business. She personally arranged a benefit air show for John in his home town, raising money to pay his medical bills.

Fitzpatrick was in a cast for four months. Doctors say he never will jump again.

Grandma Brown had to do her jumping alone after that.

In her performances, she jumped with two parachutes—a backpack carrying a canopy of 28-foot diameter and a reserve pack, attached to the front of her harness, carrying a 24-foot chute.

AFTER 62 JUMPS, Emily doesn't feel especially lucky in never having had a serious accident. Even in retirement (at this writing) she keeps in trim with an hour of pushups and other exercise each morning.

She's been injured only once in a jump—last June in an air show at Chicagoland Airport.

Emily had made a perfect landing and was gathering in the suspension lines when a nearby photographer yelled at her to look up.

"I looked," said Emily. "Before I knew what was happening, a guest of wind whipped open my chute

With 62 parachute jumps to her credit, 41-year-old Grandma Brown has left the air show circuit to become Emily Myers, wife of a Long Beach Coastguardsman

1st Universe Fan Letter Arrives

It's Official —Pageant Is Under Way

It's official now. The 1957 Miss Universe Pageant is really under way.

Last week, the first fan letter to a contestant arrived at Pageant headquarters in Municipal Auditorium.

It was addressed to Lisa (Miss France) Simon and came from Baton Rouge, La.

The letter, first of a stack of mail which soon will be deluging the pageant office, was promptly channeled to the local woman who will serve as hostess for Miss Simon. The Gallic beauty will arrive early next month.

• • • •

AND SO ANOTHER YEAR'S production begins—rolling along slowly at first but gathering momentum during the next four weeks until the breathless moment on the night of July 19 when Miss Universe of 1958 will be crowned here.

Behind the scenes, executive producer Oscar Meinhart and his staff have been working on the coming pageant almost since an Iowa girl named Carol Morris became Miss Universe of 1957 here nearly a year ago.

This year's eliminations and judging will feature scenes from famous musical shows as entertainment.

The Singers Workshop has been in rehearsal for two months whipping "The Merry Widow," "The Desert Song," "Nina Rosa" and "The Mikado" into shape.

• • • •

ARRANGEMENTS HAVE been made for the New York arrival of a planeload of European beauties July 7.

There, they will appear on the "Ed Sullivan Show" on television July 7 and on Dave Garroway's "Today" television show and the "Arthur Murray Show" the next day.

Other public appearances are scheduled for the girls on the east coast before they enplane for Long Beach.

The European contingent along with many U. S. contestants from the east are scheduled to arrive at Municipal Airport on a special plane July 11.

• • • •

FIRST CONTESTANT to hit the area will be Kyoko (Miss Japan) Otani. She will fly into Los Angeles International Airport July 7, then will stay with friends in Los Angeles for several days before coming here.

As of this writing, many of the contestants have not yet been chosen in local elimination contests.

The Miss California finals, for instance, will be held next Friday in the Los Angeles Ambassador Hotel under sponsorship of the Los Angeles Press Club. These proceedings tentatively will be televised on Channel 5 from 9 to 9:30 p. m.

This year, two new rules have been instituted. No girls may be married and none is eligible to compete in the pageant a second time.

• • • •

THE LATTER rule came about after an announcement by last year's Miss Florida, Beverly Rodgers. Miss Rodgers had represented New Jersey in the pageant in 1955 before moving to Florida to win there in 1956.

"She said she was planning to move to Montana this year and enter the contest there," Meinhardt said.

One of the more interesting contestants expected this year is Miss Poland. Although all visa formalities are not yet completed, a Polish girl is scheduled to represent her country at this year's pageant.

She will be the first queen from an Iron Curtain country to appear in the contest.

Negotiations are under way for a Russian queen to come here from Moscow for the 1958 contest.

• • • •

THIS YEAR, besides Poland, other countries never represented before in the pageant will be Morocco, Paraguay and Martinique.

In all, more than 80 girls are expected to appear in the competition at Municipal Auditorium—the biggest field ever.

Officials estimate the beauty queens who are sent here are the pick of some 50,000 contestants in elimination contests all over the world.

First formal event in this year's contest is the introduction of the candidates Saturday night, July 13, in Veterans Memorial Stadium. Tickets are on sale now for this event at the Miss Universe office in the Auditorium and at the Chamber of Commerce.

DANCERS Les Bruckner and Sandra Bedard receive instructions from Director Henri Scanlon (center) as they rehearse dance sequence for "The Merry Widow" which will be presented at Municipal Auditorium July 16 at opening of Miss Universe Pageant.

Sails to U.S. for Checkup

NAPLES, Italy (UP) — Crown Prince Feisal of Saudi Arabia sailed for New York Saturday with six wives, 17 other members of his family and retainers, 105 trunks and four automobiles — two Lincolns and two Studebakers.

He said he wanted a "thorough medical checkup" by American doctors.

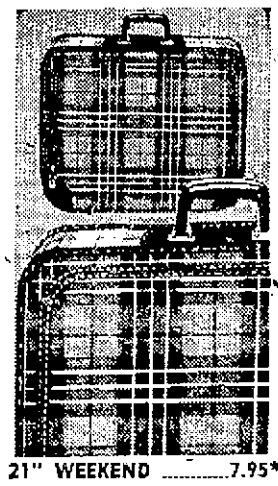

Feisal, younger brother of King Saud and heir to the throne, wore a black Arab cloak and white headdress as he boarded the liner Independence with his retinue.

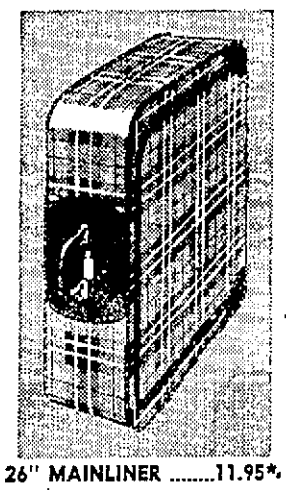

He said he did not know whether he would have to undergo surgery. He is believed suffering from a kidney ailment.

Burglary Suspects Arrested

NORWALK—Two men sought as burglary and arson suspects were captured by sheriff's deputies, Saturday evening, lying in a field a short distance from their wrecked car, from which they had fled shortly before.

They were identified by deputies as Myron Floyd Burt, 18, of 929 Via Carmelitos, Long Beach, and Kenneth Leonard Sturgeon, 23, of 14710 Blaine Ave., Bellflower.

They were being sought by officers as suspects in a burglary at the home of Arthur Monroe Richardson, 50, at 11714 E. 215th St., Hawaiian Gardens.

* * * *

OFFICERS SAID Richardson reported his home had been ransacked and an attempt made to set it afire sometime before 4 p.m. Saturday, when he returned home. He told officers he suspected Sturgeon, who previously rented the place, and gave a description of his car.

Richardson said someone stole .22-caliber rifle ammunition from the house, killed a prize rooster worth $50, dumped clothing on the bedroom floor and threw a lighted cigarette atop the pile. The cigarette went out without igniting the clothing, officers said.

* * * *

LESS THAN AN hour after Richardson made his report, a car occupied by Sturgeon and Burt went out of control while turning a corner, jumped a curb and stopped in the yard at 13911 Flatbush Ave., officers said.

Witnesses saw two men run from the car, sprint across back yards and disappear from sight into pastureland. Deputies say they caught the two lying in a pasture at 10637 Rosecrans Ave. about a half hour later.

Baby Sitter Leaps From Car and Man

A baby sitter, injured when she leaped from the car of a man who offered her a ride, was reported to be in good condition in Hoag Memorial Hospital in Newport Beach Saturday night.

The girl, identified as Linda Gail Norman, 21, of 2029A Appleton St., said that she accepted a ride from a stranger Friday night after she left the home of James Delago, where she lives and works as a baby sitter.

When the man made improper advances, the girl leaped from the car on Pacific Coast Hwy. near "Tin Can Beach." The man sped away in a car described by witnesses as an "old four-door sedan."

The girl, at first hysterical and suffering from gravel cuts and head injuries, is expected to be questioned today by Orange County sheriff's deputies.

Benny's Bill Canceled

Furor ended Saturday over a $1,500 doctor's bill for services to 7-year-old Benny Hooper, Manorville, N. Y., boy trapped in a well. Dr. Joseph H. Kris, Benny Hooper, Manorville, N. $1,500 Bill Canceled by Ben's Doctor

BAYSHORE, N.Y. (AP) — Young Benny Hooper's widely assailed $1,500 doctor bill was tossed away Saturday by a medical committee and Dr. Joseph H. Kris.

The veteran Long Island specialist in anesthesiology had been bitterly attacked by private citizens, high medical officials and even U. S. senators for seeking the $1,500 fee. He contended it was a fair amount, if the parents were able to pay.

The storm of controversy ended with the physician and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hooper Sr. chatting happily following the committee ruling.

Together they decided that any money contributions already sent by well-wishers, if earmarked for Benny's medical expenses, would be turned over to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

* * * *

DR. KRIS SAID he put in about 100 hours. He said his usual fee was $30 an hour. Thus his bill to the Hoopers was half what he ordinarily would have received.

He said he felt it a fair charge, inasmuch as he understood that the Hoopers had received large public contributions for medical expenses.

The parents said this was not the case.

Both the parents and the medical committee praised the work of Dr. Kris but the committee said in a statement:

"Dr. Joseph H. Kris determined the amount of his charge while he was under the mistaken impression that a considerable sum of money earmarked for medical purposes had been received by the Hooper family."

the building office immediately upon detecting a bootleg job.

That prevents an illicit builder—whether contractor or do-it-yourself addict—from rushing to the office and paying the normal fee before the violation can be recorded.

* * * *

"THE GREATEST HELP in enforcing the permit and inspection provisions should come from the person who is having the work done," said O'Connor. "The building code was established for the protection of the public. Violations may cause fire hazards, structural hazards, even death.

"Anyone who is having a building job done should realize that if there is no inspection the code is being violated. Our office investigates every call. And the person who lets a contract has the right to see the permit. After all, its cost is almost always included in the contract."

* * * *

THE BUILDING OFFICIAL made it clear that most contractors, and almost all who handle large projects, take out permits. The offenders are chiefly smaller operators and owner-builders.

The Builders Exchange, whose membership includes most of the larger contractors as well as related technicians in the building field, does not countenance unethical practices.

Jules Brady, vice president of the exchange, said known violators are not admitted to membership or are expelled. The exchange has no police organization or authority, however.

Noted Actor MacBride Dies at 63

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Funeral services were pending Saturday for veteran stage and screen comedian Donald MacBride who died in a sanitarium here Friday night at the age of 63.

MacBride's film career started after he appeared in the Broadway stage hit "Room Service." His films included "The Great Man Votes."

He also played in the "My Friend Irma" television show.

The actor, a native of Brooklyn, was survived by his widow, Esther.

Joseph Wall Named I, P-T Ad Director

New duties as advertising director for The Independent, Press-Telegram will be assumed Monday by Joseph P. Wall. He succeeds Don L. Nutter who left here to become general manager of the Pasadena Independent, Star-News.

The executive will have charge of all advertising departments of the I, P-T.

Wall comes here from Chicago where he has worked as an account executive for Ridder-Johns, Inc., national advertising representative for the I, P-T. He was with the firm 3½ years.

* * * *

PRIOR TO HIS association with Ridder-Johns, Wall was employed in the classified, retail and general advertising departments of the Chicago Sun and Chicago Sun-Times.

Wall received part of his schooling at the University of Chicago, Xavier University in Cincinnati, and Marmion Military Academy, Aurora, Ill. He is a veteran of 3½ years with the U. S. Army.

Japan Minister Ends U.S. Stay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Kishi of Japan ended his official stay in Washington Saturday, flying off to New York in a twin-engine plane provided by President Eisenhower.

Secretary of State Dulles headed the farewell delegation and told the prime minister the four days he spent in the capital "will prove to be historic days."

Dulles said they have laid the foundation "for a new stage" in U.S.-Japanese relations.

Zoli Stays as Premier

ROME (UP) — A legal maneuver by President Giovanni Gronchi Saturday restored Adone Zoli to office as premier with a moderate one-party government.

Gronchi took advantage of a technicality in the resignation of Zoli who left office 13 days ago to reinstate the regime in an attempt to end a 47-day-old crisis.

When Zoli resigned his Christian Democrat Party government June 10, Gronchi reserved decision on whether to accept and asked Zoli to remain as caretaker premier until another regime could be found.

Friday, Christian Democrat Party Secretary Amintore Fanfani admitted defeat in his efforts to line up a new regime.

Gronchi decided to reject Zoli's resignation, thus formally making him premier again.

Dorene Porter, 18, Long Beach actress, improves her diction playing records.

Relaxing at home, Dorene keeps in touch with motion picture activities through fan magazines. Her favorite relaxing apparel is this filmy and wispy negligee.

Lakewood's MM Goes Hollywood

By Bob Shotwell

THE LATEST contribution that this area has made to the Hollywood motion picture industry is a shapely young Long Beach girl who was "discovered" by a Hollywood talent agency as she performed the leading role in the Lakewood Players production of "Bus Stop."

Dorene Porter, 6385 Lewis Ave., has been launched on a trip to stardom that reportedly will parallel or exceed the publicity campaigns utilized for Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield.

The attractive young lass has all the necessary qualifications to make the campaign a terrific success. She is 5 feet 5 inches tall and statistically measures 38½-22½-35. Her age, 18, is one of the greatest factors in her favor.

Since her "discovery" she has appeared in two motion pictures, and on numerous television shows.

HER FIRST movie role was in "The Barney Ross Story" which later was changed to "Monkey on My Back." She said that during one of the shooting sessions for the movie there were from 25 to 30 fighters and ex-fighters on the set, in addition to the cast for the film.

Her last motion picture appearance was in the part of one of Cornel Wilde's girl friends in "Devil's Hairpin." The film is a Paramount production. During one of the scenes she was "on camera" alone with Wilde for a nightclub sequence.

ALTHOUGH her body falls in the category of "genus-M" (Monroe-Mansfield), she would like to be recognized for her acting ability. Most of the casting directors and producers in Hollywood refer to her publicity buildup and her appearance as "sexy" and her agent is glad that they recognize her physical value.

Dorene doesn't mind the reference, although her primary interest does lie in acting. The money is important, but it isn't as important as the art of acting.

Her acting career began in Long Beach, but the big break came with her "Bus Stop" appearance.

As a child, an attractive one, she attended school at Grant Elementary School, Lindbergh Junior High, and Jordan High School. She always has been interested in acting, and constantly has tried to improve herself in diction, poise, and appearance.

Most of her admirers feel that she has achieved the ultimate as far as appearance is concerned, and her acting efforts are bound to pay off.

APPARENTLY her admirers are many-fold because she was selected as the queen of the Southern California Boat Show held recently in the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles.

In addition, she was one of the finalists in the "Miss Welcome" contest for Long Beach this year. A technicality in the rules for contestants eliminated her in the final judging.

Dorene's latest motion picture interview was for a part in the next Elvis Presley movie. They needed a cute, petite blonde for the part, and Dorene certainly fills those qualifications. She doesn't know yet if she has been accepted for the role, but expects to be notified by the studio.

...ctress strikes a ballet pose before her mirror. She works hard to maintain versatility for roles in movies.

Underneath her voluptuous exterior, Dorene is a modest, demure young woman. At home she is free of pretense.

TELEVISION

They've Put Clint Walker in a Tux!

THE SIX-FOOT-SIX frame of Clint Walker, star of TV's "Cheyenne" series, has finally been draped in a tuxedo . . . and he doesn't like it.

The whole thing came about when he was told to attend a Hollywood premiere and that it was a formal affair. Since Clint owns cowboy outfits and his "formal" attire is strictly a Western-type garb, he figured that would suffice.

By Terry Vernon

Independent, Press-Telegram Television Columnist

His wife, Lucille, decreed otherwise since she had just purchased a new formal gown for the affair and thus it was that "Cheyenne" became a member of "tuxedo junction."

Clint did manage to wear black cowboy boots with his formal attire, and instead of the conventional tight black bow tie he used a black Western string bow.

ACTUALLY THE BIG star says he can tie almost any kind of knot known to seafaring men since he had lots of training in the Merchant Marine . . . but he just "ain't no hand at them bow ties."

"I thought I could attend the thing as a sort of ad for 'Cheyenne'" he recalls, "but Lucille, in her quiet way, had made other plans for me and, before I knew it, I was squeezing my frame into the monkey suit with the satin lapels.

"Before the evening was over I was fit to be tied. And, believe me, I was out of that thing and into my blue jeans as soon as we got home."

Walker loves blue jeans and wears them constantly.

Clint Walker, western TV star, prefers informal garb (r.), but recently was buffaloed into putting on a tuxedo (left).

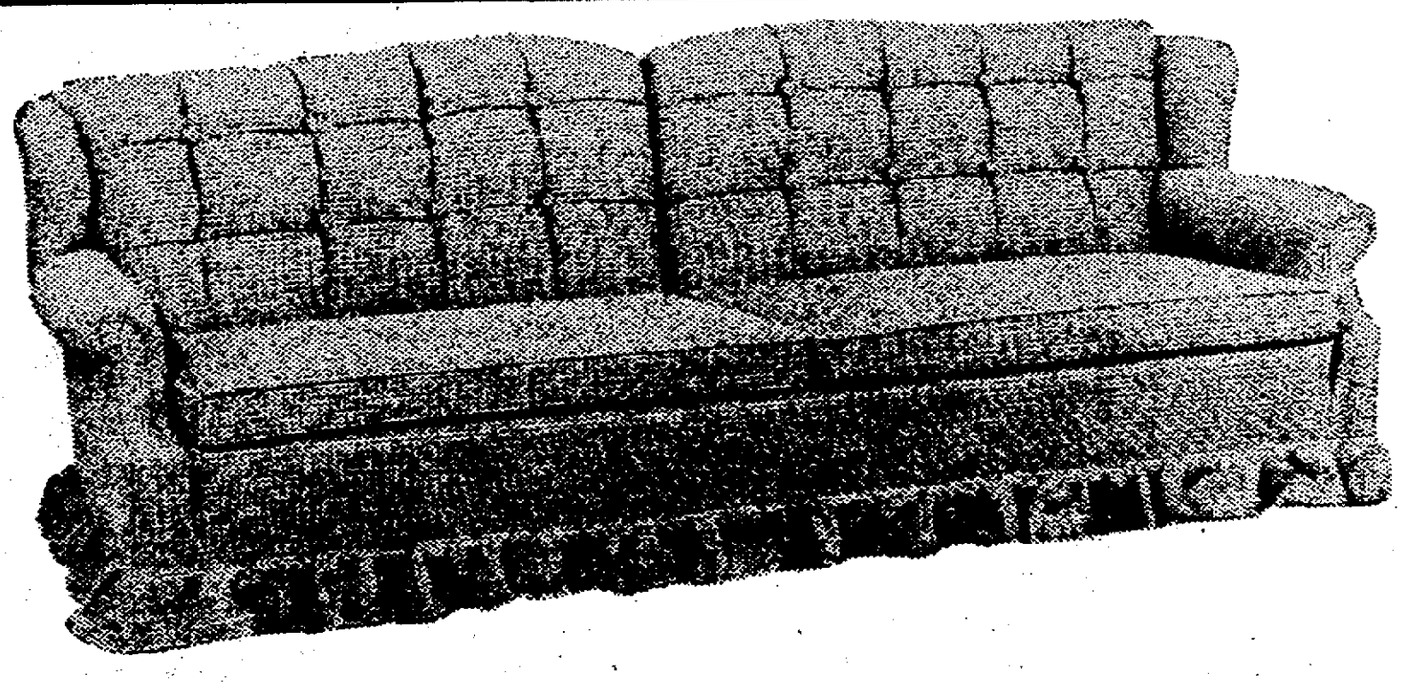

PERHAPS HIS trouble with sartorial splendor stems from his early days in Alton, Ill. He was a big boy and the hand-me-downs from his six brothers wouldn't fit him at all. He did odd jobs around town and bought his first suit when he was 14, and he felt so uncomfortable in it that he wore it only for church and social occasions.

When he was 15, Clint was called "Sonny" or "Eugene" and left home for St. Louis seeking employment. His first job was as a busboy in a hotel, but the management couldn't fit his outsize frame in a white coat and he lost out.

Uniform troubles dogged him in other jobs, too—caddy, bellhop, Western Union messenger and Las Vegas deputy sheriff. However, the deputy assignment did lead him to Hollywood and stardom, and he still has his uniform in the closet, "just in case."

Pacific Run

Entry of one of the world's oldest and largest steamship groups into the Pacific trade has been announced by W. F. Hanniver, Los Angeles manager for the Cunard Line.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Co., or "P&O," has scheduled its liner Himalaya for entry into a joint service with the Orient Line between San Francisco and the South Seas and Australia, to sail April 11, 1958.

The Himalaya is 709 feet long, of 27,955 gross tons with speed of 22 knots and accommodations for more than 700 first class and 400 tourist class passengers.

This is a preliminary arrangement to the permanent joint service which will operate when the new 45,000-ton P&O liner and the new 40,000-ton Orient Line Orlana are completed about 1960.

The Orient Liner Orcades will be in Long Beach July 3 and will pick up nearly 400 passengers for the tropical cruise through the Panama Canal to Europe. The speed of these vessels permits the completion of the journey in 17 days with calls at the canal and Trinidad.

MEET THE NEW MAYOR

Subsidence His First Worry

By BOB HOUSER

Grandpa will get a special hug from Windy, Bitsie, Jorja and Jamie next visit.

And the brisk, square-jawed gentleman will, as usual, drop his accustomed serious-faced mien to acknowledge the greeting.

The greeting will be for Raymond C. Kealer, the mayor-elect of Long Beach.

Kealer brings to the mayoral post a set of qualifications which, aligned against this city's problems, stand like a blueprint for success.

With general agreement that subsidence is the ranking dilemma here, Kealer qualifies as a registered petroleum engineer and as six-year chairman of the City Council's Harbor, Oil and Industries Committee.

* * * *

HIS SWEARING-IN next month will mark 10 years of service on the Council, making him senior member in tenure.

Kealer's specialized knowledge has pressed him into subsidence service frequently in Sacramento and in Washington, D. C.

In a general chorus of lamenting that Long Beach has no civic pride, no community spirit, no local identity, Ray C. (for Chester) Kealer beats a lonesome solo of denial.

* * * *

AROUND THE END of World War II, Kealer elaborates, we had many people here who were property owners in other states. They didn't want to pay taxes here. We had a highly conservative, even reactionary type of voter then. But since that time we've had great building, a great number of young people coming in. Civic pride is proved in their willingness to support bonds and improvements.

Sharpness and color have flavored Kealer's utterances in the past 10 years on the Council.

* * * *

IN JANUARY, 1949, he denied originating complaints which led to vice raids with, "I don't want that kind of publicity."

"I wouldn't have it on a platter," he blurted, when a citizen proposed his name for the city managership in March, 1949.

Opposing an outside firm's 1949 recommendation for compulsory unitization of the entire oil field here: "This could mean eventual control of the petroleum industry by some armchair bureaucrat in Washington."

In 1952, advocating an oil commission with autonomous powers, he opined the Harbor Dept. "should surrender its authority over oil development. That can be done only by amending the charter and the time has come to consider it."

Criticizing the auditorium and stadium ordinance in 1954, as two directors resigned, including managing director David Olmstead, Kealer recalled he had remarked in open Council as early as 1950 that Olmstead "was a good convention man but a lousy administrator."

Kealer, upon resigning, with Gerald Desmond in 1955 from the five-member steering committee on tidelands issues: "It's a steering committee, but it's not steering anything."

Last December, opposing certain anticipated results from water flooding—a possible driving of oil upstructure by water flood, away from city-owned wells, Kealer warned: "Outside operators are sitting around licking their chops waiting for something like this."

Now Mayor Kealer agrees we should get a quick start on fluid injection to arrest subsidence because nobody has come up with a better solution.

His vital interest is pledged now, and is assured by a past record of studious attention.

An illustration of need for immediate action, Kealer points out, is this: "The Navy Shipyard, with 7,000 employes, represents 12 to 14 per cent of our economy. That could represent the difference between a profit and loss in our economy.

Kealer has been described by warm friends as "kind of a lone wolf." They hasten to add that this quality has not kept him from "working with the pack" however.

Once squeezed out of expense money for a Washington assignment for the city because of a technicality, Kealer vowed he would pay his own expenses, outside of transportation, henceforward.

Kealer, a wealthy man in oil and land and cattle, says, "I can afford it and then there's no question asked."

Our new titular head of the city and presiding officer of the City Council, was born Jan. 12, 1902, in Socorro County, New Mexico, one of two sons and four daughters.

He was born about 10 miles from the birthplace of hotel magnate Conrad Hilton and Hilton's sister, Felice, was Kealer's third- and fourth-grade teacher. Landlocked and adventuresome, the boy Kealer doctored his age and ran away to sea.

His present-day husky frame attests to the days he was an oil-field roustabout whose sometime chores included waxing floors and cleaning spittoons. In those same early days he helped finance his education by guitar and banjo strumming with a popular orchestra.

Outside of an apparent "first-meeting" reticence, the last remaining vestige of Kealer's Old West roots is an uncommon interest in Western-tooled leather wallets and belts and turquoise-set, silver buckles and personal jewelry.

Ray attended grammar and high school in Gallup, N. M. In those days he developed a fondness for the Navajo tribe, which later led many times to championing of their causes and to substantial material donations.

* * * *

KEALER IS NO lone wolf when that noise at his door is a constituent. Because he lives alone at 203 E. 9th St., some time ago he installed an electronic telephone answering device.

If he's out, a recorded voice greets you, asks you to leave your name and phone number, and "start talking at the end of the tone."

"I guess it makes some people self-conscious," Kealer said, "and they wind up by either hanging up or leaving some scathing remark for me to hear later like 'Drop dead,' or 'Are you too good to talk to your constituents?' "

(Footnote: Kealer is abandoning the gadget.)

For immediate attention, subsidence gets the new mayor's vote.

* * * *

"BUT PERHAPS even more important in the long run is the problem of water.

"We've just about reached the population saturation point, for available water. And we, as a community, can only lend our weight to projects designed to improve our water situation."

High on Kealer's list of concerns is the matter of "ingress and egress" in Long Beach.

"Without a rail terminal, without satisfactory mass transportation, without enough freeway access we are isolated out of all proportion for a city of our size and importance."

Although this is Kealer's fifth successful bid for a Council seat, there has been occasional nagging reluctance to run, even in this most recent.

"My daughter Winnie urged me to do it this time. Said she wanted to do a little boasting," Kealer laughed.

She is Winifred Rae Galloway, wife of James K., a stock and bond broker in Sierra Madre, and mother of grandchildren Jorja, 6, and Jamie, 3.

* * * *

HIS OTHER DAUGHTER is Bonnie Keith Loopesko, wife of orthopedic surgeon, Dr. Eugene Loopesko, of Westchester, and mother of grandchildren, Windham, 7, (Windy), and Bonnie Jr., 5, (Bitsie).

Another three-year term, and this time with "Mr. Mayor" a part of his responsibility. Kealer says he'll settle for some occasional fishing and hunting and give up trying to keep apace with his hobbies of photography, bowling and golf. He plans to continue his home-workshop activities.

The "lone wolf's" parting word:

"Just tell the people I'm as close to them as my telephone."

3-Way Parley Will Map Shipyard Sinkage Relief

A water injection program to rebuild sagging pressures under subsidence-stricken Long Beach Naval Shipyard will be planned Wednesday in a conference among engineers representing the Long Beach Harbor Department, the Union Pacific Railroad and Long Beach Oil Development Co..

The move—which probably will be worked out as a cooperative agreement, rather than as a formal unitization pact—was decided upon Friday, only a few days after a congressional report sharply criticized the city for "inaction in combating subsidence."

Only $1,500,000 was approved by the House Armed Services Committee for "immediately necessary remedial protective works" at the shipyard. The Navy originally asked $4,600,000 for the next fiscal year.

* * * *

FRIDAY'S MEETING was held at the suggestion of Lee S. Osburn, vice president of Union Pacific, which, in addition to its own extensive holdings, operates wells for Southern California Edison Co.

The proposed agreement would set up a coordinated water flood in the Tar Zone of Fault Block III, which extends 8,500 feet across the middle of Terminal Island, with its southern portion running under most of the shipyard. The Tar Zone is the top layer of seven producing oil sands, about 1,800 feet below the surface.

By injecting water into the zone to replace oil extracted through production, engineers hope to rebuild lost pressure believed to cause subsidence. Theoretically, if the quantity of water injected is sufficient and enough remains within the fault block, land sinkage will slow and eventually stop.

* * * *

THE PLAN is only one of several agreements involving the city's two operators, LBOD and Richfield Oil Corp., and other Wilmington field operators under Assembly Bill 930, now ready for signing by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

The legislation permits the city, for the first time, to enter such agreements.

Union Pacific has been injecting water into the northern portion of Fault Block III, north of the Cerritos Channel, for several years. This pilot flood, which now amounts to about 12,000 barrels per day through eight injection wells, has been highly successful both in increasing oil recovery and in raising bottom hole pressures.

Civil Rights Bill Heads for Filibuster

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Ives (R-NY), a supporter of the civil rights bill now pending in the Senate, predicted Saturday "our southern friends" will filibuster it to death.

And Sen. Ellender (D-La) promised that any effort to call up the bill—let alone pass it—"will bring forth prolonged debate—to be blunt, a filibuster."

Ives said the bill's backers could not muster the necessary votes to shut off debate and "a lot of us won't be living" when the Senate finally amends its rules to allow a filibuster to be silenced by majority vote instead of the two-thirds vote now required. However he predicted the change will be made eventually.

Despondent Wife Suicide in Pasadena

PASADENA (CNS) — Mrs. Katherine M. Schwarzenbach, 35-year-old wife of a prominent Pasadena businessman, was found shot to death Saturday in the bedroom of her $30,000 home at 300 S. Arroyo Blvd.

Police said the woman took her own life by firing one bullet from a .38-caliber pistol into her mouth.

Her body was found in a bed by her husband, Christopher, an official of U. S. Propellers Inc., 3270 East Foothill Blvd. There was no note.

The woman was the mother of two daughters and two sons.

Officers said she was depressed over the loss of a baby.

3 L.B.-Area Girls Win Girls' State Top Posts

Three Long Beach-area girls were chosen to fill top "state posts" in the 14th annual Girls' State elections held Saturday in Davis, Calif.

Linda Lou Knowles, South State High School student of Whittier, was elected governor. She got 277 of the 391 delegates' votes.

Margaret Purcell, of Portuguese Bend, daughter of Independent, Press-Telegram display advertising salesman Everett Purcell, was elected secretary of state. Susan Koeller, Long Beach, won in balloting for the post of state controller.

Other officers elected included Judy Averbuck, Los Angeles, lieutenant governor; Mary McConnel, Riverside, treasurer; Carolyn Gardner, Los Angeles, attorney general, and Jeanne Porticello, Oxnard, superintendent of public instruction.

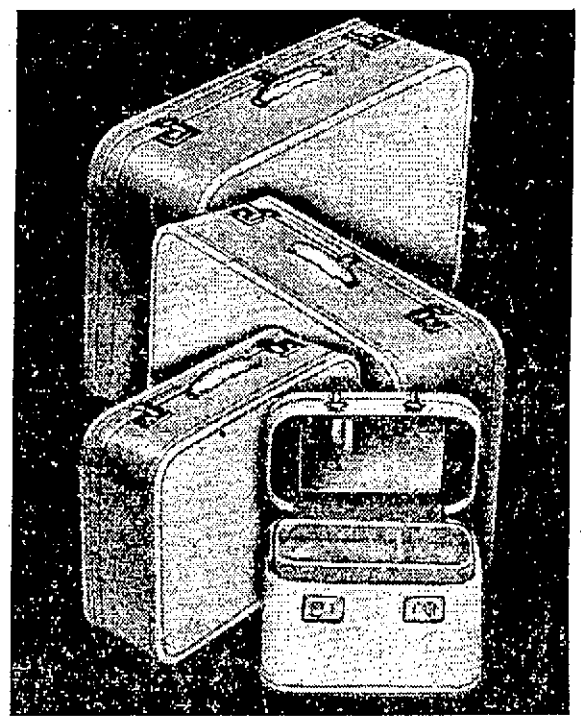

The girls will hold legislature and court sessions today and tomorrow. The week-long meeting will end Tuesday.

As governor, Miss Knowles will be one of two delegates to the Girls' Nation meeting, to be held in Washington in August. The other delegate will be chosen in a vote naming the outstanding citizen at this year's state meeting.

Fifteen Tips on How to Paint Your House

By Andrew C. Lang

THINKING ABOUT painting the outside of your house? Here are 15 tips that will help you to get a professional result:

Paint when the temperature is above 50 degrees, preferably somewhere near 70. You can paint successfully when the temperature is considerably higher than 70 if the humidity is not too high. Avoid painting when there is heavy dew, immediately after a rain or when a storm is in prospect.

If at all possible, try to paint the side of the house that is shaded, then follow the sun around so that you are always painting where the sun already has been. This prevents the hot sun from drying the paint too rapidly, as well as making it more comfortable for you.

Use a wire brush or a scraper to remove any old paint that is blistering, peeling or flaking. Follow with steel wool or sandpaper to smooth rough edges. And carry an old, clean paint brush in your back pocket to remove any accumulated dust.

MILDEW CAN be scrubbed off with a solution of trisodium phosphate and household ammonia or a special mildew remover. Where there is reason to believe the trouble may occur again, use a mildew-resistant paint. Mildew usually takes place on parts of the structure ordinarily not touched by the sun.

Calk thoroughly around window frames and doors and wherever one type of building material is joined to another. Replace "popped" nails and see whether any of the windows need reputtying.

All screens, shutters and other attachments of that nature should be removed, cleaned and repainted separately.

Get rust off all metal surfaces, using steel wool and following with red lead, aluminum paint or a special metal primer.

FOR SAFETY, the base of the ladder should be far enough from the house to equal one-fourth the height of the ladder. Thus, with a 20-foot ladder, the base of it would be five feet from the house.

Even though most stores now have agitators which mix the paint before you bring it home, the paint should be "boxed" by you. Boxing consists of pouring off most of the liquid into a second container and stirring the remaining pigment, then gradually pouring back the liquid as you keep stirring. The final step is to pour the paint back and forth between the two containers several times.

The siding usually should be painted first, all the trim and sash second. But there are times, when working on high peaks, when it is more practical to paint both the siding and the trim while the ladder is in the correct position. Dip the brush about half way, pat off the excess on the inside of the can, use wide, firm strokes and always work in toward the wet paint.

IF USING a roller, the regular type is fine for the flat surfaces, but a special, small lap roller should be used for getting paint on the underedges of clapboard and similar sidings.

Probably the fastest of all methods of painting the outside of a house is by spraying, but extra precautions must be taken

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Off-Duty Officer Kills Peeping Tom

GARDENA (AP)—An off-duty officer shot and killed a Peeping Tom early Saturday after the man followed the officer's wife home from her job at a local poker parlor, police reported.

JOHN A. ANDERSON
Right in the Back Yard

According to police, he was identified by his brother, James as Donald F. Bahrman, 26, of 13717 S. Budlong St., Gardena. He attended Gardena High School and in 1948 was voted all-city football player of the year, playing quarterback.

The officer, William L. Pottorff, 31, said he felled the man with three shots from his service revolver minutes after his wife, Yvonne, 30, awakened him with the remark:

"Someone has followed me home. He turned out his lights a couple of blocks away."

Pottorff said he got his gun and tiptoed around to the side of the house. He said he saw the man standing on an orange crate and peering into the bedroom window.

"I shouted something at the guy—I can't remember what," the officer said. "But he just picked up that darned box and ran."

Pottorff said the man then jumped a small fence and was circling a house next door when the officer brought him down with three shots.

Plane Smashes into Home Yard

CLARKSBURG, Md. (AP)—A Capital Airlines plane on a training flight crashed Saturday into the back yard of a rural bungalow here. The three men aboard were killed but the homeowner dodged the falling craft by running "in crazy circles."

The twin-engine DC3 fell in the yard of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Anderson, coming to rest only 15 feet from the back porch of their home.

The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

Clarksburg is a small community about midway between Frederick, Md., and Washington, D. C.

A young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Norwood, a neighbor of the Anderson's, also saw the plane roaring downward and ran into the house screaming:

"Mother, a plane is after me."

The child was still hysterical two hours after the crash.

Six Die in Italian Floods

ROVIGO, Italy (AP)—Six more deaths from floods and landslides were reported Saturday, pushing the weather-related toll for a one-week period to at least 20 in northern Italy.

Firemen, police and soldiers in rowboats and army amphibious carriers worked throughout the night to seek other persons who might be marooned or in danger from rising floods in the Po Delta lowlands.

Five landslides of rain-loosened rocks and dirt cut highways near Stelvio in the north Italian Alps. A workman and a young boy died beneath the slides. Four youths ranging from 11 to 18 years old drowned in flooded streams.

Earlier this week eight persons died in a cyclone and six others were drowned or killed by earth slides.

Floodwaters from the rain-swollen Po continued to mount, surging over more than 25 square miles of fertile land in the river's delta.

Nixon Tells U. S. Attitude

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—Vice President Nixon said Saturday the United States must measure its dealings with communist nations "by the simple, yet profound, test offered by President Eisenhower: deeds, not words."

"We can hope the Communist world will change," Nixon said. "We would be foolish not to use every opportunity to bring about this change in a peaceful manner . . . but it would be foolish to substitute the hope for the deed, the word for the act."

In an address prepared for the Mayflower II celebration, observing the arrival from England of the replica of the original Pilgrim vessel, Nixon declared:

"We must always be willing to seek any real and worthwhile improvement in our relations with the Communist world.

Steinbeck Adlai Ghost-writer

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Author John Steinbeck said Saturday he acted as a ghost-writer for Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson during last year's presidential campaign.

In an interview, he said Stevenson was actually "a fine writer, but, as such, too intellectual."

"I helped him during his campaign last year," he said. "I prepared some of his speeches, not only regarding their political aims but also with a view of making them more understandable for the masses."

Steinbeck, who is here on a private visit, praised Stevenson as "the most intelligent presidential candidate we had had for a long time."

Lightning Kills Kentucky Professor

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A University of Kentucky professor was killed and the manager of Calumet Farm was critically injured Saturday when lightning struck their electric golf cart on the Lexington Country Club course.

Dr. A. B. McEwen, a member of the law faculty, was killed when he was knocked from the cart by the lightning which struck during a mid-afternoon thundershower.

Paul Ehelhardt, manager of the famed thoroughbred horse farm, was injured critically and rushed to a hospital.

Eggs and Bottles in Truck Collision

HOLLAND, Mich. (UP)—A truck loaded with 6,500 bottles of beer collided near here with a truck carrying 11,500 eggs.

Scout Rescues 2 Girls From Dangerous River

NEW YORK (AP)—A 14-year-old Queens Boy Scout risked his life today by diving in the East River to rescue two girls, one 5 and the other 15.

Two city patrolmen helped Henry Plimack of Sunnyside, Queens, in the final stages of his rescue. The boy reportedly broke away from two men who told him not to jump into the swirling current of the Hell Gate waters of the East River because it was "too dangerous."

* * * *

THE RESCUED GIRLS were Linda Lauria, 5, and Rose Hetzel, both of the Bronx. Both were taken to Lincoln Hospital for treatment after artificial respiration. They were reported in fair condition.

Police said the Hetzel girl had taken five younger children to the Randall's Island stadium for the San Juan Festival held there in honor of St. John the Baptist, patron saint of San Juan.

They said the Hetzel girl and her charges had decided to eat their luncheon sandwiches on rocks overlooking the East River.

While on the rocks, Linda slipped into the water and was carried away by the strong Hell Gate tides. The Hetzel girl jumped in after her but was in immediate trouble herself.

* * * *

PLIMACK, ignoring the warnings of the older men, dived and headed for Linda, floundering in the water. At about the time he headed her, two patrolmen, Ralph Vignola and Francis O'Brien, appeared and plunged into the river.

The boy gave Linda to the patrolmen and then went after Rose. He reached her and took her to shore.

BOUNCING BABY

Girl Unhurt in 3-Story Tumble

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Anne Michele Acosta is a bouncing brunette and it appears she proved it Saturday.

The child, all of 1 year old, likes to climb on chairs. Her parents, Benjamin and Patricia Acosta, went to bed Friday night and forgot to move a chair away from a third floor window in their apartment.

Next morning, Anne Michele was found on the pavement under the window. She had a few bumps and cuts but otherwise was unhurt. Best anyone can figure out, the youngster climbed up on that forgotten chair and tumbled through the window to the street below.

THE FRENCH HAVE A PHRASE FOR IT

'Le Jury Grand'

By Blaine Nels Simons

THE FRENCH have a phrase for it—"le jury grand." In this manner they differentiate between a large jury and a "petit," or small, jury.

The petit jury has, in name, generally disappeared today and has become, instead, a trial jury or coroner's jury. The grand jury, however, retains its name as it has through the centuries.

And there is something in the name to be kept. "Grand" is the French for large, and in the way the French say it there is a certain aura of magnificence and power in the name itself. The description fits present-day grand juries. They are, indeed, a magnificent and powerful bulwark of our democratic system.

THERE ARE two types of grand juries — those operating under state and those operating under federal law. The latter make the splashier national headlines. They indict for federal laws violated. In their nets are caught the big fish of interstate crime. They have nailed men like Al Capone on income tax evasion and, very recently, Dave Beck who, for all his maneuverings, could not escape the grand jury.

Locally, our Los Angeles County Grand Jury inquires into and investigates crimes closer to home, closer to us. They are constituted almost similarly with the Federal Grand Jury though operating under state law. Section 192 of the California Code of Civil Procedure defines a grand jury as:

"A body of persons, nineteen in number, returned in pursuance to law, from the citizens of a county, or city and county, before a court of competent jurisdiction, and sworn to inquire of public offense(s) committed or triable within the county, or city and county."

IN CONSIDERING the grand jury we here are more concerned with the operation and powers and limitations of this jury rather than how it is initially formed.

The definition of the grand jury defines its general powers. In a word, it "inquires." Through this simply given power, however, it has a broad field in which to exercise. All criminal offenses committed or that legally can be tried in court in this county can be investigated by the grand jury.

Of these, it may inquire into matters brought to their attention by grand jury members themselves, by private citizens, by the police or district attorneys.

Though it is generally supposed that their complete source of information comes from police or district attorneys and they sometimes are maliciously called the "tool of the D.A. and police," quite the contrary is true. In Los Angeles County and throughout the country there are cases where grand juries have indicted district attorneys, their staffs, or police figures for various crimes. They owe allegiance to no one when it comes to inquiring into local crime.

SECRECY is the keynote of the grand jury operation. As the trial jury decides its cases in secret, so does the grand jury accumulate its facts and decide on its indictments in secret. The reason is obvious. The public is protected from having pressures of various sorts placed on the grand jurors. Witnesses will talk more freely and juries inquire more freely where underworld reprisals and public limelight cannot interfere.

Persons under investigation cannot bring pressure, "cover their trails" or make a run for it to another country, for generally these people are as surprised as anyone else when indictments are returned against them; they didn't even know they were being investigated.

Unfortunately, there are particular instances in which witnesses' names are made public during investigations. Too, a bystander near the closed grand jury door can see witnesses come and go, and thus be apprised in some degree, perhaps, as to who is currently under investigation.

ONCE THE FACTS are gathered, the grand jury determines whether or not to return an indictment. The facts are, in brief, viewed from this point of view:

(1) Does it appear from them that a crime has been committed and

(2) if so, do these facts, as evidence in court, give the prosecuting attorney a probable chance to convict the accused.

If both are answered in the affirmative, the grand jury returns an indictment. Section 917 of the Penal Code describes an indictment as "an accusation in writing, presented by the grand jury to a competent court, charging a person with a public offense."

ONCE AN indictment is issued, prosecution commences. But under our system, only a grand jury can so inquire, only a grand jury can indict.

But with the power granted grand juries there also are limitations. It may "inquire of public offenses" only.

Fortunately, there are few "crusading grand juries" in the sense of stepping beyond specified powers. The vast majority of grand juries do their jobs well and are a distinct credit to the community.

THE GRAND JURY inquires and indicts, the trial jury listens to and decides particular cases before it, and the coroner's jury listens and recommends or advises as to particular cases. For other matters there is other legal machinery.

Aside form its usual duties, grand juries have also been given various similar powers. They have free access to public prison and public records. They have the full right to subpoena witnesses. It may investigate housing authorities, books and accounts of various county of-

What goes on behind this locked door? Secrecy is keynote of grand jury operation and of its success.

It's Up to Us

THE FUTURE of Long Beach Navy Shipyard hinges on what the City of Long Beach and the State of California do about subsidence.

That was the blunt, unmistakable message of the House Armed Services Committee this week when it adopted a subcommittee report recommending only a fraction of the sum proposed for subsidence remedial work at the shipyard.

The subcommittee, which had conducted hearings here on whether to continue spending federal money for that purpose, said in its report:

"There can be no doubt of the benefits which flow from the shipyard. There is, in the subcommittee's opinion, grave doubt as to the acceptance by California authorities, local and state, of the responsibilities which accompany and flow from these benefits."

City and state have thus been warned to show their good faith with prompt and effective action.

WHAT CAN BE DONE to convince the Armed Services Committee?

The big thing the State of California can do, of course, is approve the bill which Long Beach has submitted to create a subsidence remedial district.

That bill is now in the hands of an interim legislative committee. This being the case, there is no hope for action on the measure before the next session of the state legislature.

Meantime, Long Beach has a selling job to do. Just as city and state, jointly, must prove their case to the federal government, this city must present a forceful case to the state interim committee.

Paradoxically, part of the task is to show the committee that a vital state interest is, indeed, at stake.

But it should not be difficult to prove that an installation with a $170,000,000 replacement value is an asset to the State of California. Rather, it is our big task to show that we thoroughly understand our own problem, that we are exerting every possible effort as a city to solve it, that we are as interested in preventing subsidence as we are in withdrawing oil.

The Long Beach City Council, about to enter a new term of office, should resolve to make that task the first and major order of business.

THE CITY SHOULD BEGIN at once to prepare a comprehensive report on what causes subsidence, how far the land has subsided and how far it is expected to subside, and what should be done to prevent it. It is true that there are reports on these subjects—but no all-inclusive report originated by Long Beach itself. As evidence of intense and continuing interest, this report should be kept up to date and revised whenever new materials present themselves.

Having stated the nature of the problem and what should be done about it, the city should then go on to state in concrete, specific, and detailed terms just how to go about the solution.

In short, when the interim committee arrives here and starts asking direct questions about what we have done and what we propose to do, our city officials should be prepared to answer effectively with detailed, documentary evidence.

IF LONG BEACH DOES THIS, the interim committee, made up of a group of intelligent, discerning men, cannot help but be favorably impressed.

If favorably impressed, the committee will make a favorable report to the legislature.

With the Governor already on record as sympathetic with our problem, we could then expect affirmative action on the legislation. That, in turn, would go a long way in convincing Congress that Long Beach and California really mean business about subsidence.

JOHN S. KNIGHT

Did U. S. Intend to Use Girard as Foreign Policy Scapegoat?

AMERICANS SHOULD CHEER the decision of U. S. District Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy barring the government from surrendering Army Specialist William S. Girard to Japan for trial on manslaughter charges.

Judge McGarraghy said "it is uncontroverted" that at the time Girard shot and killed a Japanese woman scrap metal scavenger, he "was acting as a member of the American armed forces in the performance of his official duties."

J. S. KNIGHT

This is the same point I raised two weeks ago in discussing the Girard case. The U. S. firing range at Somagahara Village has a sign reading:

Stop: You are violating the joint administrative agreement between the United States and Japan by entering this area. Offenders will be apprehended and taken to the Japanese police for prosecution in accordance with this agreement.

If this warning was being disregarded, as apparently it was, the fault clearly lies with the Army. Why did the officers in charge permit the Japanese to pick up fired shells to sell as scrap?

Robert Dechert, Defense Department general counsel, admits that Girard didn't kill the Japanese woman deliberately.

He adds, however, that Girard's action was "such a complete departure from his duty . . . that he could not have been considered on duty."

This tortured reasoning is difficult to follow. Girard was in uniform, and on duty. If his actions were careless, or in violation of his instructions, Judge McGarraghy says, "the uniform code of military justice establishes every procedure to be followed."

WHY, THEN, DID Secretaries Wilson and Dulles, with President Eisenhower's approval, decide that Girard should be tried in a Japanese court?

Putting it bluntly, our government is so worried over the rising tide of anti-American sentiment in Japan that it decided Girard was expendable.

Here was a chance to show our former enemies, and they could be again, that the Americans are a kindly and forgiving people who respect their agreements and want to be friends.

So Girard was made the scapegoat.

Some of our readers ask how I would feel if the situation were reversed and a Japanese soldier stationed in this country committed a crime against an American civilian?

The question, of course, would rest upon where the crime was committed. If an American civilian invaded a forbidden Japanese military area in this country, presuming that one existed, an offense against his person by a Japanese soldier would bring that soldier under Japanese military jurisdiction.

GIRARD WAS ON DUTY at an Army reservation. He did not kill the Japanese woman by striking her over the head with a beer bottle in a Tokyo night club.

Judge McGarraghy emphasizes that "the proposed delivery of the petitioner (Girard) to the Japanese government would violate rights of the petitioner guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States."

It is a sound decision, and should be a warning to those in high places who continue to barter away our rights in the naive belief that we are winning friends.

We could do with a few Judge McGarraghy's on the Supreme Court.

RANDOM NOTES: Sinclair Weeks, the jovial Secretary of Commerce, recently reassured Chicago businessmen that the Eisenhower administration has no New Deal or Socialistic leanings. . . . In attempting to explain the difference between a Modern Republican and a New Deal Democrat, the Secretary said the Eisenhower administration has tried to create a good climate for business . . . that business hasn't had as good a friend in Washington since Herbert Hoover was in the White House. . . . G. O. P. contributions in Illinois have been lagging because of dissatisfaction with Ike's big budget.

Russ Talk Peace, Disarmament but Actions Belie Their Words

WASHINGTON—The Paradox of the hour is the way the Russians profess to be advocating "disarmament" at London at the very time that Moscow and Peiping are making military moves of a threatening nature aimed at the West.

* * * *

THE NEWS dispatches have an ominous sound and the latest "communique" on the "cold war" reads as follows:

1. Egypt has been furnished three Soviet submarines to help patrol the Mediterranean and keep a watchful eye on the U. S. 6th Fleet. Israel thinks the move may be directed at her shipping and is preparing counter measures.

2. A Soviet cruiser and two escort vessels have just passed through the Turkish straits to the Mediterranean, and several more cruisers and destroyers of the Soviet navy are scheduled to pass through the same waterway soon.

3. The Russian navy has turned Albania into an armed camp, posing a threat to allied strategy in the Mediterranean. Submarine bases, according to United Press reports, have been built less than 50 miles from the Italian shore, and a large naval base in Albania has been "fortified and enlarged." A network of five airfields capable of handling jet planes has been established.

4. The United Nations command in Korea has at last been authorized to tell the Red Chinese formally that, because the armistice agreement has been violated by the Communist forces, it becomes necessary for the U.N. units to be given "modern weapons" to offset the advantage. Both the North Koreans and the Chinese Communists have illegally introduced new weapons into the area they hold north of the armistice line.

5. The Chinese Communists are building up more airfields for jet planes opposite Formosa, and considerable nervousness has reappeared in the area.

* * * *

ALL THIS doesn't sound as if tensions are being removed. It gives the impression that the London talks are just part of a sparring match going on to fix responsibility by one side or the other for a possible breakdown.

The Russians, of course, get a big propaganda advantage in the world at large out of their pose as seekers of peace. It helps to quiet the fears of their own people and enables the Moscow strategists at the same time to keep up constant criticism of the West by seizing every sign of a difference of opinion and magnifying it to make it appear that the allies are disunited.

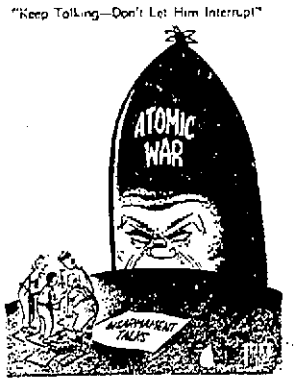

Actually, the negotiations are so delicate that it is a matter of deep regret that President Eisenhower permitted any discussion of the disarmament problem at his press conference. The president talks informally and likes to answer the newsmen, but every syllable he utters should have been written out in advance. Off-the-cuff comments on foreign affairs are dangerous. Press secretary Hagerty had to straighten out a misapprehension gained by the reporters from an overcondensed statement which the President made on disarmament. Moscow radio took advantage of the episode. When finally cleared up, it turned out that Mr. Eisenhower had not deviated from the agreed-upon line with the allies.

Meanwhile, Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Democratic leader, has come part way toward "cooperation" with the President and the disarmament mission headed by Harold Stassen. The Texas senator says he will agree to let some Democratic Senators go to London provided he gets a "formal request" from the President. Even so, the senators are merely to be "observers" and not members of the mission.

* * * *

THE IDEA of any senators going on a foreign mission and remaining aloof and inarticulate, so that those diplomats doing the negotiating of a treaty do not know whether or not the senators present will approve or disapprove when they go back home to vote, will be regarded as a piece of political chicanery that does not reflect a wholehearted desire to cooperate.

SENATOR SOAPER SAYS:

Ike Must Like the Way Solons Replace Divots

GOOD GOLFER that he is, Ike must approve of the way Congress is replacing the divots it had hacked in his budget.

* * * *

BAD NEWS for Harry Truman's grandson, the one who is going to be a Senator: The Senate just raised the price of its famous bean soup.

* * * *

"I'M SO mad at myself," the big labor leader snapped to his secretary, "I want you to cancel that testimonial dinner I was going to give me."

* * * *

CONSOLING his wife as their little boy went off to camp for the first time, a neighbor put it this way: "Don't think of it as losing a son, think of it as gaining two turtles and a garter-snake."

* * * *

THE OLD home town is not inviting Queen Elizabeth and her husband to visit its centennial, on account of all the trouble Prince Philip got in last time he grew a beard.

* * * *

WHICH political party is racked with internal strife and which is strengthened by healthy differences of opinion depends somewhat on which national chairman you are listening to.

* * * *

NOTHING upsets a disarmament conference quite as much, it sometimes seems, as for somebody to suggest disarming.

* * * *

A STUDENT of the subject says that feuds are dying out in America. In the modern world nobody knows his neighbor well enough to want to shoot him.

IT SORT of symbolizes the season, like strawberry shortcake or diving in the old swimming hole, when you switch on the air conditioner and blow the first fuse of summer.

* * * *

IT IS pointed out that you can rent almost anything from a baby bed to a motorcar. Almost anything except, in some towns, a place to live.

Congressmen Broil at Big U. S. Navy Review

WASHINGTON—Temperatures, smoldering in the 90's, were no hotter than the tempers of congressmen who attended the Navy's big international review at Hampton Roads, Va., hailing the 350th anniversary of Jamestown. It was a day most of them would like to forget.

The Navy lost no time ruffling sensitivities. As the Senate-House members, about 125 in number, deplaned at Norfolk airport, they were herded into steamy buses for the ride to Hampton Roads.

Arriving aboard U. S. cruisers, the legislators had to sit almost two hours on hot decks before weighing anchor.

Bald-headed Speaker Rayburn, like most others from Capitol Hill, had to sit on a hard folding chair. The high naval brass on Rayburn's ship, the Boston, were comfortably ensconced in the plush interior of the captain's cabin. So was Navy Secretary Thomas Gates. Late in the afternoon, the Navy broke down and invited the uncomplaining Rayburn into the cabin for iced tea.

REP. VINSON, the House Armed Services Chairman, aboard the cruiser Canberra, rated even less attention. He was excluded from the captain's cabin, where Defense Secretary Wilson sat, but was invited into the chief petty officers' cabin along with Sens. Capehart (Ind.) and Smith (N.J.) and Rep. Porter Hardy (Va.).

When lunch was announced, naval dignitaries were served in cabins. Congressmen had to rustle their snacks from buffet tables, hoping their chairs wouldn't be snatched while they stood in line.

"That was the last food we saw until we got back to Washington by plane seven or eight hours later," an irate congressman reported. "Navy protocol apparently doesn't anticipate that a congressman likes to eat. I've never been so hot and hungry in all my life. And to think we adjourned Congress for one full day for that."

REPUBLICAN SPIRITS in Congress have revived. Relations are much more cheerful between the Hill and the White House. Teamwork over the civil rights bill is considered partly responsible.

"The 1958 campaign is already under way," confided House Republican Chief Joe Martin at a recent White House parley at which was discussed the great job he did of expediting civil rights action.

Senate GOP Leader Bill Knowland, who dragged his feet early in this session, now seems determined to make a better-late-than-never battle.

"I STILL THINK there's a chance to beat a southern filibuster. But win or lose, we'll fight it out," he told the President.

TOWN MEETING

Broadening of Fiscus Law Asked

TO THE EDITOR:

The Dale Park Parents Assn. is deeply concerned with protecting our children from hazards which present a continual threat to their lives and to the lives of other children throughout the state of California.

Therefore, we are asking that the Kathy Fiscus Law be strongly enforced and broadened to cover such hazards as open drainage ditches, abandoned excavation holes, gravel pits, unfenced flood control canals, and oil sumps.

* * * *

ASSEMBLYMAN Richard T. Hanna is sponsor of a resolution calling for a special study by an Assembly interim committee on public health to determine how the law may be strengthened, according to a recent news article.

Assemblyman Hanna states: "I have personally asked Byron Rumford, Assemblyman from Berkeley, who is chairman of the interim committee, to come out to our area in Orange County to conduct hearings on the Kathy Fiscus ordinance."

* * * *

OUR ORGANIZATION, in addition, is asking for more backing from parents and clubs in order to have the strengthening or broadening of the law put on the state legislative agenda for 1959.

We are asking that the people write to their Assemblyman in regard to this matter, and if in need of further information, contact:

Wretches Deserve Supreme Penalty

TO THE EDITOR:

Those rotten wretches who prey on women and do injury should get the supreme penalty lawmakers can mete.

Women, though, must learn to protect themselves on the street at night and in the homes, when alone.

Grandma, I hear, did pretty well with an 8-inch hatpin. Seems men are more depraved today.

Whose fault is this? What kind of mothers raised such perverted bums?

Rage and hate may be so embedded in such men's souls that they must harm good people.

The "why" is a terrible dilemma, but we must protect ourselves and our daughters.

Wouldn't Listen to Free Lancer

TO THE EDITOR:

Mr. Arthur M. Spencer expresses surprise that the Catholic Church forbids its members to attend Billy Graham's services.

Catholics do not challenge the good intentions of Mr. Graham, but since their Church is founded on the rock of God's revelation they have the truth within their Church and need not seek it elsewhere. Christ was very positive in all that He taught, and the Church He founded cannot accept all manner of contradictory doctrine. Christ charged the Church's officials to keep careful watch over the preaching of the word. This they are doing. This they are obliged to do. As a Catholic, I would do violence to my conscience were I to listen to a preacher who is strictly on his own and preaching his own ideas on religion.

Thankful for L.A.C. Column

TO THE EDITOR:

Readers of the Independent Press-Telegram could be very thankful for the editorial column written by L.A.C.

For example, he told recently about the construction of expensive, non-essential buildings with elaborate furnishings in Washington. Meanwhile, school buildings are needed all over the United States.

But we don't need to go to Washington to find examples of extravagance. We have them right here in Los Angeles County.

The County Manager, aided and abetted by L. A. interests, without giving the people in the county a chance to vote, have planned an auditorium and parking facilities which will cost, according to their estimates, $60,000,000. By the time it is paid for—interest and extras—it will cost $200,000,000.

Opposed to Package Deal

TO THE EDITOR:

Many civic minded groups of people are in opposition to the "package deal" agreement recently approved by our City Council members. This "package deal" agreement solves the problem of obtaining necessary lands to complete the approaches to the Davies bridge, but carries along with it the prerequisite that the Appian Way strip between Nieto and the Davies bridge be subdivided.

To lose this valuable property for park, parking, and recreational purposes is contrary to the will of the majority of the citizens in Long Beach, who voted for Proposition A on the ballot in 1953. At that time various plans for using that area as a site for a marine museum, areas for outdoor games, parking facilities etc., were written up in your newspaper as a fait accompli.

There are ways in which the city can act to obtain this land for public use. These ways need to be explored before it is too late.

We've all waited a long time for the Marina. It is unwise now to act hastily for the purpose of expediency.

Instructor to Study in Germany

Elmo Shaver, 4215 Livingston Dr., instructor at Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa, will leave Tuesday on a Fulbright scholarship to study in Germany this summer.

Shaver has spent considerable time previously on the continent, but this will be his first opportunity to study in Germany.

The eight-week course, planned by the U. S. Educational Commission in the West German Republic, will include a summer seminar for German teachers at the Goethe Institute of the University of Munich.

• • • •

HIS COURSES will include stylistics and modern German literature and poetry. A week in Berlin will feature visits to its educational institutes and lectures by the professors of the Free University.

Shaver also will visit Dusseldorf, Paris, Vienna and Salzburg.

When he returns to Orange Coast College next fall it will mark his 10th year at the college, during which time he has taught French, German and Spanish and been advisor to Polyglots, the foreign language club.

Pro-Red Rulings Stir Only Slight Comment

By Walter T. Ridder, Robert E. Lee and William W. Broom

WASHINGTON — A group of important Supreme Court decisions last week produced surprisingly little congressional comment, leading some observers to suspect a lessening of the nation's fears about domestic communism.

The decisions served unmistakably to fortify the personal rights and freedoms of individuals under the Constitution, and each came at the expense of anti-Communst action by the federal government.

Within a matter of hours and by lop-sided votes, the court overturned the convictions of five Communist leaders and a former Communist labor organizer and the discharge of a former foreign service officer as a security risk. A few years ago this would have produced loud outcries on Capitol Hill.

Some lawyers and congressmen read the comparative silence which greeted the court's actions as an indication that the nation, through its elected representatives, is serving notice that fighting communism without regard for basic human rights won't be tolerated. Among other explanations was one heard from some congressmen privately that they weren't going to argue when the court is interpreting constitutional guarantees of liberty. It's a different matter, they pointed out, when the court passes judgment upon acts of Congress.

Since Charlie Wilson became Secretary of Defense, his old firm, General Motors, has been the butt of countless jokes about its influence here.

But GM last week took a back seat to General Foods. GF, in a masterpiece of promotion, lined up two senators and seven House members to help it plug a new line of salad dressing.

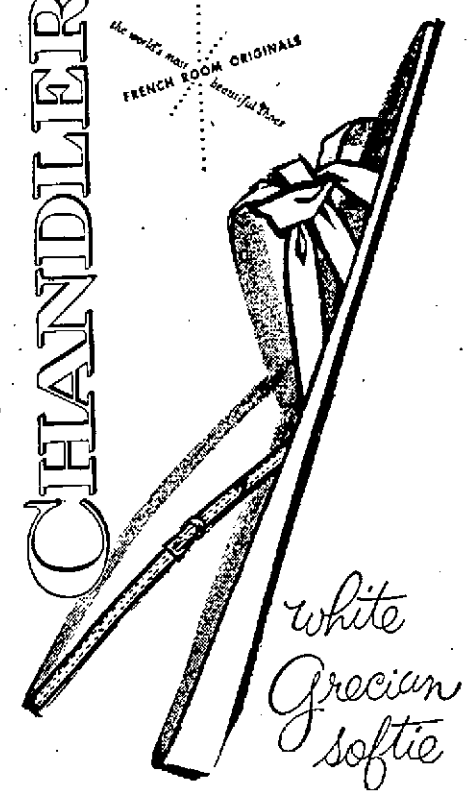

GF representatives sponsored a luncheon in the Capitol featuring a special "Senate Salad" whose ingredients ranged from Maine lobster to California lettuce, olives and avocadoes. It was billed as the biggest salad ever tossed. Even Texas got into the act—with onions.

This view shows attractive yard around which the Bengstons' modular home is arranged in an L. Exterior of house is redwood and batten stained green.

it sprawls under the spreading boughs of many old trees. Actually, the placement of the house — the orientation of its rooms—was determined by the existence of these old trees.

This is the first home to be built in Long Beach under design of architect Cliff May.

The Bengstons have 1,600-square feet of space. All window, wall and door sections are five feet, four inches wide so that the sections may be interchanged according to the whims of the builder without upsetting the basic premise of the plan. Essentially modern in concept, the Bengstons chose to embellish the plan with provincial features which combine quite happily with the contemporary aspects of the structure.

THE FRONT DOOR opens to an entry hall which is, strictly, a hallway in the clearest sense of the word. At the end and to the left is the living room which, because of its placement off the street, has complete privacy despite the preponderant use of glass for double doors and windows.

Mahogany paneling surfaces the walls. Bengston, who did the building and all the finishing, has a strong affinity for woodwork and a great respect for a well-worked finish. Hence, the paneling throughout the house has a satiny texture which brings out the beauty of the wood.

Beige and tan long-looped wool carpet covers the floors, providing a practical and informal underfooting. The ceiling is pitched and finished smoothly in acoustical plaster.

Furnishings are Informal early American styling. Across from the brick fireplace stands a rust tweed-upholstered Lawson sofa flanked by unique step tables made by Bengston. Of unusual design, the maple tables have small drop leaves that flip up, when the occasion warrants, providing extra snack-surface space for televiewing. Over the sofa is a group of early American prints.

BEFORE A LONG glass expanse next to the fireplace is a pair of deep-cushioned chairs. One is a wide and high-backed wing chair upholstered in lime and hunter's green print fabric. The second is in soft lime green leather on squat provincial legs. Matching it is a large leather ottoman. Between the chairs is a quaint and lovely lyre table which has been in Mrs. Bengston's family for generations.

Opening to the living room from the kitchen is a service counter which may be closed off with folding shutters finished in a tone to match the mahogany paneling. It serves as a refreshment bar from the living room—a snack counter on the kitchen side.

THE KITCHEN IS paneled in honey-colored ash and floored in cork-patterned vinyl tile. Like the rest of the house, the kitchen, too, has large double glass doors opening to the exterior.

A vast amount of storage cabinets have been built in. Black hammered iron hardware highlights the light oak doors and drawers. A long, continuous counter surfaced in a glossy, pressed wood material spans across the shuttered pass-through into the living room. An assembly of short stools makes this an ideal place for breakfasting.

At one end of the long kitchen is the dining area. Hanging against the wall is a large picture framed in a heavy shadow box of ash. With the simple unhinging of this picture from the top, the frame swings away from the wall in such a way that it affords support for the "picture" which is backed with thick plywood. Hence, the dining table folds down off the wall and, when not in use, it conveniently attaches itself to the wall—out of the way, pictorially and practically.

OFF THE KITCHEN is the den. In here, a third choice of wood was made for the paneling. Knotty pine, rubbed to a glossy finish, surfaces the wall from floor to ceiling. On two sides of the room, glass panels in multiples of the module are curtained in burnt orange fabric that picks up and emphasizes one of the tones in the pheasant print fabric used on the sofa. A large drop leaf coffee table with lazy susan was made of maple by Bengston. High windows flood the area with light above "eye glare."

Three bedrooms complete the plan. The Bengstons' two sons, John and David, have their own rooms — each adequately supplied with hobby space in the form of built-in desks, model-display shelves and cabinet storage.

Ex-Mayor's Relative Pens Mystery Novel

A former Long Beach man has created something new for whodunit fans—a female private eye with the figure of a Miss Universe and the habits of a Mickey Spillane hero.

The golden-haired, blue-eyed shamus comes into being July 2, with release of 250,000 copies of a book called "This Girl for Hire."

The author is 32-year-old Skip Fickling, of 490 Hilledge Dr., Laguna Beach, who writes in association with his wife Gloria under the pen name G. G. Fickling. He is the grandson of former Long Beach mayor A. E. Fickling, and the son of D. Forrest Fickling, of 1401 E. 33rd St.

• • • •

FICKLING'S private eye is a fictional first. She had to break through a staunch publishing barrier against females-for-hire.

"I had to go to just about every publishing house in New York," says the author. He finally struck pay dirt with Pyramid Books. The initial print run is a record-breaker for the publisher.

SKIP FICKLING
Her Name Is Honey

Fickling's heroine is named Honey, and she's a Long Beach resident too. Has offices on Pine Ave. and pals around with a Press-Telegram reporter.

• • • •

IN "THIS GIRL for Hire," Honey does her killer-hunting over on nearby Catalina Island.

She is slated for other adventures. Fickling is currently at work full-time on another novel, to be called Masquarade for Murder" and to be released early in 1958.

"I got the idea for Honey from reading so many of the rough-tough male private eye stories," Fickling says. "Those and the emphasis today on girls like Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield."

Fickling is a graduate of the University of Southern California. Mrs. Fickling is a former assistant editor for Look Magazine.

FOR OPERATION

Boy's Illness Forces Sale of House

"For sale" says the sign on the front lawn of a brown house, trimmed with green, at 6938 Fairbrook St. (near Stearns and Studebaker Rd.).

But it is more than just an ordinary house for sale. It is the home of M-Sgt. James Summitt; his wife, Hannelore; their little blind boy, Bobby, almost 10; their daughter, Sharon, 4½, and Hannelore's mother, Mrs. Joanna Munderloh, who came over three years ago from Bremen, Germany.

• • • •

THE SUMMITTS must sell because Bobby, whose sight was destroyed by cancer so long ago he has almost forgotten what sight is, must have operations on his eyes. He has a glass eye in the right socket; he needs a glass eye in the left socket.

Summitt is at Hamilton Air Force Base; Hannelore is in San Francisco where she can be near him. Her mother is taking care of the children here until the house can be sold and they can establish a home in or near San Francisco.

There Bobby will enter the hospital again, but he does not know it yet because he is afraid of hospitals and doctors.

The house has three bedrooms, two baths, a living room, dining room and kitchen.

Parakeet Flies Coop; Speaks English, Spanish

If you hear a green parakeet say, "God bless you! When do we eat?" in either English or Spanish, it will be Panchito, the pet of Mary Brandenburg, 5361 E. Ocean Blvd. He flew away Friday.

There are 41 different things that Panchito says equally well in English and Spanish, says his mistress, and they aren't easy things either.

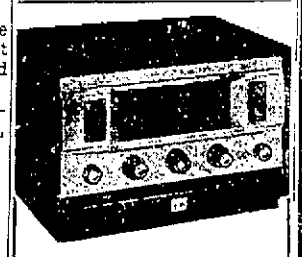

Panchito waxes philosophical, for instance, and says "There is no rule without exceptions" and "Don't say anything when there is nothing to say" in both languages.

Traffic Toll

Traffic accidents killed a total of 666 persons in the unincorporated areas of California during the first four months of 1957. That represented a decreased of 1.8 per cent from those killed in the same period of 1956.

McCann-Erickson Has Sawyer Account

Effective July 1, advertising for Tom Sawyer Foods, Inc., Los Angeles, is being handled by McCann-Erickson, Inc., Los Angeles, according to a joint announcement by both organizations. Tom Sawyer, under its newly elected president, Charles F. Fuller, produces candies, nuts, peanut butter, potato chips and other food items, operating principally in Southern California.

PRUSSIAN SYSTEM JUNKED

Johnny Gets His Gun Early

By BEM PRICE

FT. BENNING, Ga.—The Army has thrown away its time-worn training manual and is busy writing a new one with considerable imagination in the belief that the end result will be the best trained infantryman the world has ever seen.

I have just participated in this new training operation, called trainfire. I wish I had had similar training in 1942.

To me this training is nothing short of amazing. Without much fuss or bother, little profanity and no apparent hazing, the Army is turning out kids who behave almost as if they were veteran troops about halfway through their eight weeks of basic training.

Ever since Baron von Steuben came over in 1777 to reshape George Washington's army at Valley Forge, the American military system has been cast in the Prussian mold.

This ancient training system, though modified by later wars, still has about as much relation to actual combat as a firecracker to a hand grenade.

Under 18th Century training methods, still used in the Marines, it was thought necessary to instill a sense of discipline first through interminable close order drill.

For shock troops, such as the Marines, rigid discipline probably is paramount. For the Army, which plans to operate in small units over wide areas, initiative, skill and discipline go hand-in-hand.

UNDER THE OLD SYSTEM, the recruit was introduced to his weapon, the rifle, only at last. Then he was taught to employ it against stationary targets placed at known distances. This is still standard procedure for most armies.

In modern combat the infantryman is about as likely to find a stationary target at a known distance as he is to meet Jane Mansfield in a mother hubbard.

This Prussian system has been just about junked by the Army. Six days after he enters training the Army recruit, clad in steel helmet and wearing a light combat pack, is firing at man-shaped pop-up targets partially hidden by grass and weeds.

He learns to shoot from a sandbagged trench, around trees and advancing in the open as he would in combat. Almost before he learns to march, the recruit is taught to bring aimed rifle fire against targets he can see for only 30 seconds.

By the time he has completed his initial firing course, the raw recruit is handling his weapon with the confidence of a veteran.

The effect on the recruit's morale and the enthusiasm he brings to this new method of training is remarkable.

Additionally, the new recruit is given a still target detection course in which he learns to pick out carefully camouflaged men hidden amidst the brush, trees and grass of open range.

Finally, in the last four weeks of his training, the recruit is taught to move and fire while on the defense or advancing, at night and in daylight.

HAVING LEARNED by practice that it take four seconds for a man to take aim and fire, he moves in three-second rushes.

In all, the recruit receives 87 hours of rifle training in his eight weeks of basic training, practically all of it under combat target conditions against which he uses live ammunition.

The Army didn't adopt this new system overnight. Before it was made standard operating procedure, the Army used 12,000 troops in an experiment. Half were trained under the old system, half under the new.

In no instance did any of the troops trained under the old system do half so well on the combat target range as those trained under the new.

I WAS TRAINED on known distance target ranges to qualify as a Marine sharpshooter.

Though I haven't fired a rifle since Korea at a target, I still was able to group shots on a known distance target here closely enough so that they could be covered by a quarter.

But on the pop-up range I was a bust, missing two silhouette targets at ranges from 75 yards to 200 yards in eight shots.

On the target spotting course, it was easy to pick out the potential danger points—clumps of bushes, brush and trees. It was not easy to spot the actual targets. I missed a man in a camouflage suit with leaf-garlanded helmet 30 yards away. I discovered him only after he had fired a blank round at me.

In combat such a mistake would have been fatal. After a couple of lessons these kids learn to pick up targets with remarkable skill.

THEY HAVE abandoned the use of the sling as a means of steadying the weapon. Nobody used it in combat.

All in all this new training method probably would strike the combat veteran as eminently sensible. He might just have —as I did—the uneasy feeling that a lot of men would be alive today if this type training had been inaugurated after World War II.

Sand Tip

If your vacation trip takes you to the beach, remember the rule for sand driving. Don't try to start the car in low gear. Get into second, release the clutch slowly, and apply the gas carefully. It will prevent the wheels from spinning, which means "digging in."

Driving Tip

Never drive in a hot, stuffy, smoke-filled car, advises the National Automobile Club. These conditions can mean drowsiness and drowsiness can mean death.

From Camera to Courtroom

Patrick B. Phelan, Long Beach attorney, hugs screen actress Mary Stewart in scene from his acting days.

By Don Maddock

HE'S ONLY 29 now, but Patrick B. Phelan already has marked up two successful careers.

The first was as a Paramount Pictures star.

The second, present, one is as a local attorney.

The high spot of Phelan's first profession was a lead role in a wartime film called "Miss Susie Slagle's." In that, he was paid to make love to Veronica Lake.

The major event to date in his life as a lawyer was a $163,000 judgment he obtained for his client in an assault and battery injury case. That still stands as the largest award to a single plaintiff in Long Beach court history.

PHELAN USED HIS own name in the movies, shortening Patrick to Pat. He was signed by Paramount to a seven-year contract in 1943, after a talent scout saw him at work in the Community Playhouse here.

"Miss Susie Slagle's" was his first picture. He made $85 a week for appearing opposite Miss Lake and with such other recognized stars as Sonny Tufts and Joan Caulfield.

He appeared in a Technicolor short — "College Queen" — in 1945. It was nominated for an Academy Award.

Pat sang and danced. He now admits he can't sing and isn't a very good dancer.

He said goodby to the movies and hello to the Army in January 1946. It really wasn't much of a change, though.

After basic training, Pat was assigned to Armed Forces Radio Service, obtaining talent for its shows. His station: Hollywood.

"Triple Threat" was on his calendar after he returned to civilian life in 1947. He played a halfback for the Los Angeles Rams, sharing the gridiron with such National Football League greats as Bob Waterfield.

PHELAN STARTED studying law at Southwestern University about the same time. By 1951, the pace was quite rough.

That year he worked in a television series, "Mysteries of Chinatown." Show work took all day Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. School work filled Monday night, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

He studied in his spare time.

The series eventually died for lack of a sponsor.

His transformation from actor to attorney was completed in 1952, when he was admitted to the California bar. Since Jan. 1, 1953, he has had an office in the Heartwell Building.

Phelan this year is attorney for Long Beach Board of Realtors. He served last year as president of the Barristers Club.

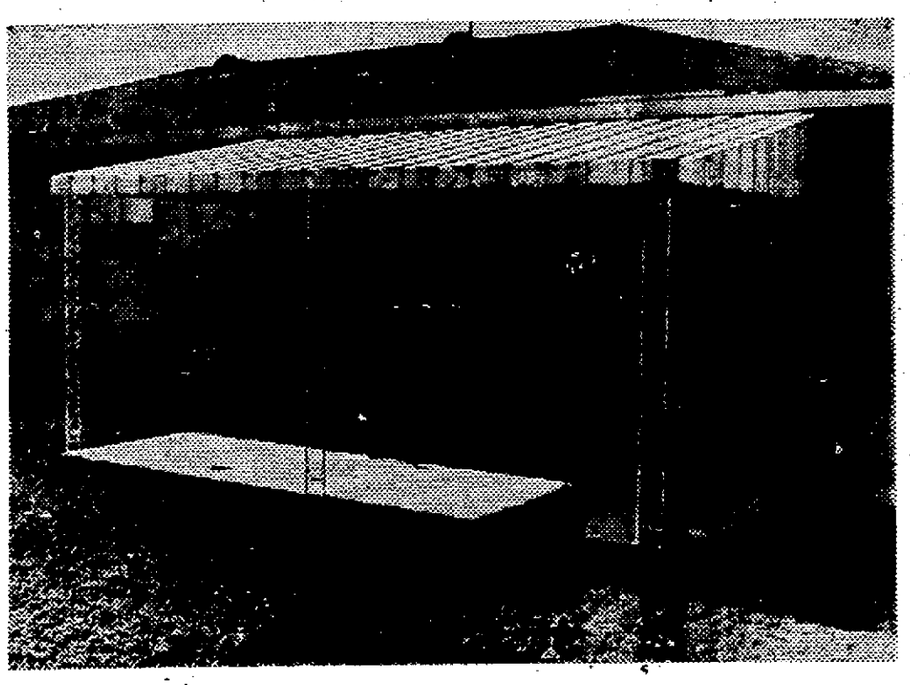

A Long Beach native, Phelan was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College. He and his pretty wife, Jerry, live at 1869 Pattiz Ave.

Brat From Bellflower

By Bob Houser

MELODY Gale weighs a pound for each of her 43 inches—small for a moppet almost seven — but the brown-eyed, gold-blonde, winsome packaging of her has launched a career.

Melody, daughter of Jack and Connie Tregarthen, 8823 Flower St., Bellflower, plays a feature role in "The D.I.," Jack Webb's new Mark VII Ltd. film for Warner Bros. presentation June 19.

SHE PORTRAYS an incorrigible brat, a departure from her career in fashion modeling, movie and TV drama which started for Melody when she was three. Also a departure, says her mother, from her conduct at home where she mixes mud, climbs trees, bakes real cookies and tends a $200 Toy French Poodle she bought with her own substantial earnings.

Melody's career started with a still color photograph taken by a professional photographer. A woman agent saw the picture, interviewed Melody and family and won over her at-first-reluctant parents to a fashion and drama career.

Now she earns from $100 to $110 per working day and spends less than her $1 a week allowance. She did splurge on a new car for her parents, but it's in her name and referred to as "my car."

MELODY IDOLIZES her older sister, Gloria Carol, 11, more than any movie actress. She has a brother, Jack, 13, but does have a fairly solid crush on a Hollywood teammate of another movie she played in, "The Big Caper," with Rory Calhoun. She liked Rory before the film. The film cemented the romance.

Other Melody Gale credits include a Langendorf bread commercial on TV; "Crossroads" on TV with Stuart Irwin June 21; three parts in the "This Is the Life" Sunday television series; a "Whirlybirds" TV chapter due in a few weeks; "The Gallaghers Story" TV film with Bob Hope; a movie, "Uncle Charlie," with Walter Brennan, and others.

Jack Webb and Melody on "D.I." set. At home she mixes mud, plays with $200 poodle. She paid for family car.

AFGHANS ON PARADE

The two-day 22nd annual Harbor Cities Kennel Club dog show—largest of its kind in the west—opened Saturday on a specially prepared area adjoining Municipal Auditorium. Before its close Sunday, more than 2,200 dogs will have competed for $10,000 worth of trophies. A corps of 19 judges from the U. S. and Hawaii is making the awards. Picture shows Afghan hounds lined up for inspection.—(Staff Photo.)

A bulldog, an Afgan hound and a toy poodle shared top honors Saturday in the 22nd annual All Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial of the Harbor Cities Kennel Club, in Municipal Auditorium.

Ch. Kippax Fearnought, bulldog owned by Dr. John A. Saylor, 4409 Pepperwood Ave., Long Beach, was judged best in the nonsporting group.

Ch. Marisman Silver Beau, poodle owned by Mrs. Kenneth W. Law, Los Angeles, was chosen best of the toy breeds.

Ch. Crown Crest Zardonx, Afghan owned by Kay S. Finch, Corona Del Mar, was best of hounds.

The three dogs will compete with three other "best of group" dogs chosen in judging today for the Best of Show Award.

La Reina Rule

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin and meaning of CROSTHWAITE and the coat-of-arms, if any—G.G., Garden Grove.

G.C.: Thank you for your complimentary letter which I have shortened. In northern England, which was heavily forested, clearings in the woods were called "Thwaites" from a Norse word "Thveit" meaning "open space." CROSTHWAITE was originally Crossthwaite, describing a clearing on which a cross had been erected as a shrine. The family home was built on the edge of this clearing. The Crosthwaite family originated in Cumberland, England, but the only recorded coat-of-arms is from a branch of the family in Ireland.It had a golden rampant lion between three gold crosses-patte on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: .I would like your analysis of the name O'CONNOR—D. D'C., Long Beach.

D. O'C.—O'Connor is from the ancient Irish "O'CONCHAR." The family founder's name exemplified his mental and spiritual values, for O'Conchar meant "son of the man with high ideals." The progenitor of the Clan O'Conchar (later spelled O'Connor) was Terlagh O'Conchar who died in 1345. He was great-grandson of Roderick O'Chonchar, King of Connaught. The coat-of-arms of this family had a green oak tree on a silver shield. The original home of the O'Connors was in County Roscommon.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the analysis of the name CARR—Mrs. W. E. M.

Mrs. W.E.M.: CARR was introduced to England by Danish invaders in the 9th century. The Danish spelling was "Karr" which meant "marshy, swampy land." A family who living by a marsh took this word for their surname in the 12th century. "There is no deception." Gov. Caleb Carr of Rhode Island was the scion of the first family by this name in America. Among his descendants was Nicholas Carr, born in 1654.

DEAR MISS RULE: Will you please give the meaning and genealogy of the surname KIRCHHOFF or KIRKHOFF—R.K., Long Beach.

R. K.: KIRCHHOFF, shortened from the German name Kirch-Hoffer, was a name for a village churchyard attendant or warden. It was an honor in medieval times to be the trusted warden of the churchyard. In due course Kirch-Hoffer, his professional name, became his surname. The Kirchoff coat-of-arms from Bavaria proudly represents the source of the name. It has a little, picturesque stone church with a spired tower in the center of a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin, genealogy and coat-of-arms of the name ROGERS—Mrs. E.R.W., Bellflower; Mrs. E.L.R., Long Beach; Mrs. H.H.R., Lakewood.

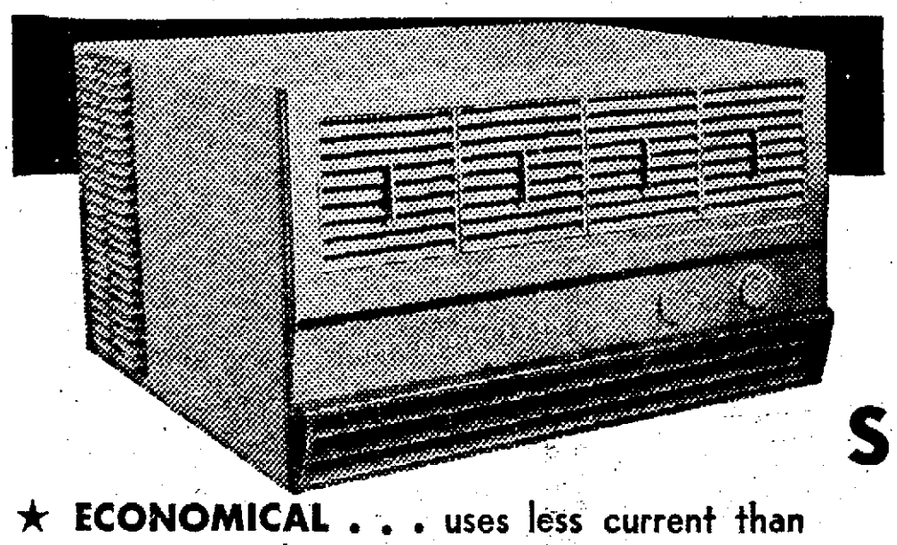

E.W., E. R. and H. R.:The Teutonic warrior-name 'ROGER' was brought to England from Germany by the Saxons early 12 centuries ago. It meant "famous spearman." One of the first men with the name is listed in the Domesday Book of 1066 as "Rogerus." The baronial coat-of-arms was granted the family in 1260. a silver shield with

Freak Steeple

Minus a church, this steeple in Dallington, Sussex, was built by an eccentric 18th century British squire who bet his friends that Dallington Church steeple could be seen from his lawn. When he discovered that he was wrong, he built a replica of the steeple (minus the church) in such a spot that the spire could be seen from his premises. Presumably his friends were hoodwinked into paying the bet.

Keep Calk Gun Handy

ONE OF THE most effective ways of protecting a house against the ravages of the weather is by calking all openings before they become too large.

Even a house that is completely weatherstripped is a long way from being weather-tight if there are dozens of crevices in it. These openings result from a number of causes, among them age, wear and contraction of certain materials.

In making a periodic check to determine whether, and where, these openings exist, look for these potential trouble spots:

THE SEAMS around windows and doors . . . the joints formed by the chimney against the house . . . the points where the front and back steps meet the outside wall . . . the places where wooden posts meet masonry walls and floors . . . joints where two different types of exterior finish are next to each other . . . where shingles overhang the edge of the roof . . . wherever there are vents or skylights . . . around basement windows . . . where shingles meet or are overlapped . . . and on farm buildings of all kinds.

Calking compound, which looks somewhat like putty, has one big virtue: it never dries completely. The surface becomes fairly hard, but underneath it remains flexible, expanding and contracting with the opening in which it is used. It is both airtight and watertight.

A CALKING GUN is the best way to apply the compound. A cartridge of the compound is inserted into the gun, which looks like the grease gun you may have seen your auto mechanic use. The gun pushes the material into an opening under pressure.

ficials, certain sales or transfers of land, and report on the needs for increase or decrease in the salaries of county supervisors, district attorney or county auditors.

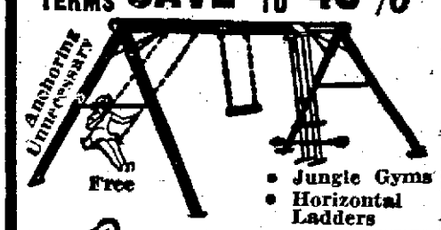

It can order the district attorney to institute suits for recovery of money due the county, and each member to inquire of all witnesses before them. Such powers, combined with their primary power earlier outlined herein, truly make the grand jury the "watchdog for the public," as they keep an eye on criminals and county officials alike.

AL CAPONE, Dave Beck, Art "Golden Boy" Aragon and H. J. "The Greatest" Caruso along with Confidential Magazine are but a few who have felt the sting of grand juries. Of the thousands who are indicted across the nation each year, some are freed by trial juries, others by appellate courts. Others, convicted, still maintain their innocence and of these many find public support.

But, by and large, indictments conclude in eventual convictions, attesting to the thoroughness of investigation and carefulness of deliberation of grand juries.

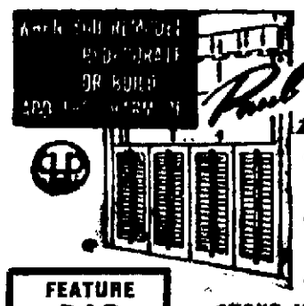

Being human, the jurors cannot be flawless, but in their devotion to their work and to protecting the public, they aid greatly in preserving our democratic system of government.

Old tire rim placed atop hole makes fine fire ring. An oven rack converts fire ring into an outdoor grill.

A Rim Full of Fun

By Marjorie Hall

AS OUTDOOR living is a must in California, we were anxious to join in this activity. Before the advent of the portable barbecue and with no finances to build a fancy brick one, we found we had a ready-made fire ring in our own back yard.

The removal of a dead tree in the yard had left a large hole, and no one ever seemed to get around to filling it up. We placed an old tire rim over the top of the hole, and by piling dirt around the top of it, found it served fine as a fire break and made the hole a bit deeper.

IT WAS THE answer to our ourdoor living, for we like hot dogs cooked over the coals of real burning wood.

Campouts in our back yard are enjoyed frequently by the neighborhood boys. By placing a discarded oven rack over the top of the rim, the boys are able to cook their own breakfast, which most certainly completes a camp out.

IN CASE you don't have any dead trees to remove, the tire rim can be placed anywhere in the yard. It can be picked up and moved when the lawn is mowed.

Tips on Painting

to protect surfaces which are not to be painted. Also, spraying outside should not be done on a windy day.

A good quality paint is a sound investment. Many house paints have a self-cleaning process . . . a controlled chalking which washes off when it rains, taking dust and dirt with it. Inferior-grade house paints chalk excessively, leaving unsightly streaks that do not always wash off with the rain.

GENERALLY, a gallon of undercoater will cover about 600 square feet of house. A gallon of finish paint, over an undercoater, will cover about 700 square feet.

Light colors will make a small house appear larger, especially if there is not too much contrast between the body and the trim. To make a tall house seem shorter, keep the upper part a dark color, the lower part light.

It's "Wagon Week" in Long Beach

Dealers Will Show Newest in Styling of Station Wagons

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor, Indep., Press-Telegram

Station wagons are as much a part of Southland living today as the barbecue and patio. You just aren't enjoying life in its fullest without one.

While the sales of station wagons over the nation are showing a good increase each year, Southern California paces the world in the purchase of the roomy, comfortable suburban cars.

This is "Wagon Week" in Long Beach and the local new agencies will be featuring displays of the many types of station wagons along with the various camping aid suggestions to take on vacation trips.

Only a few years ago the station wagon was a luxury car for the estate-class of home. It then was a beautiful body which combined wood panel and metal. The car was used to go to the station to meet guests and escort them to the rural estate for the week end.

* * * *

NOW THE WAGONS come in the finest of metal designs and are within reach of nearly every family budget. Of course, the luxury models are still carying a luxury price because they are powered with the biggest motors and contain rich upholstering and fittings.

But, the average family can have just as much fun and enjoy a vacation trip in a lower cost model as those in the luxury class.

One of the greatest advantages of the modern station wagon is the way it combines the advantages of a pickup truck with the comfort of a sedan. It allows mom and dad to carry the youngsters on a long trip with ample room for the luggage.

* * * *

LONG BEACH DEALERS report the station wagon is in big demands as the second car for growing families. Mom can do the shopping, take the youngsters to the beach or picnic or she isn't the least ashamed to drive the wagon to her club meeting. She couldn't do such things in a pickup truck.

More and more the manufacturers are turning to improved station wagons as they see the sales climb. It is estimated that nearly 800,000 wagons will be sold in the United States this year.

Long Beach dealers invite the public to visit their show rooms this week and see the beautiful models. They want the public to inspect the models for roominess and styling. And they will be happy to show the many types of color combinations offered.

* * * *

YOU WILL BE AMAZED at the many improvements in the new models. Some have reclining seats permitting passengers to sleep on trips. Others have seats that fold into the floor to permit large rear area to be used for truck purposes.

Children may be placed in the rear section of some wagons and your worries about their safety will be ended during the ride for they cannot open doors or windows from the section.

Whether you are in the market now for a station wagon, makes no difference to the dealers. They know that you and two out of every three other Southern Californias soon will be wanting a wagon. That is why they want you to visit the show rooms during this observance of "Wagon Week."

Fast Growth for Wagons

Ten years ago if a new company could have entered the American automobile industry with exclusive rights to produce the all-steel station wagon, it would have become the fastest growing company in the nation and in some years would have become the industry's third-ranking automobile make based on sales.

The company would have grown from one per cent of the market in 1946 to 11 per cent of the market in 1956. In the last five years alone, the company would have sold 2,285,400 units for almost five billion dollars. In 1956, it would have sold 622,300 units for $1¼ billion. The company would have been one of the top 25 companies in the whole of the nation. Few companies can boast such an achievement. The facts are pointed out by the Ford Co.

The reason, of course, is that the station wagon fits the needs of the times and meets the transportation demands of the growing trend toward suburban living with its relaxed atmosphere. Additionally, it fills the needs of the growing number of families (15 per cent) capable of affording two and even three cars. About one-fourth of all station wagons are sold to two-car families.

Big Grease Job in Auto Plants

With an estimated 1957 production of 6,500,000 passenger cars, it will take some 8 million gallons of crankcase oil, 12 million gallons of automatic transmission oil, and 24 million pounds of rear axle lubricant just to make the cars road-ready before leaving assembly plants.

You can't buy a bigger station wagon anywhere...at any price!

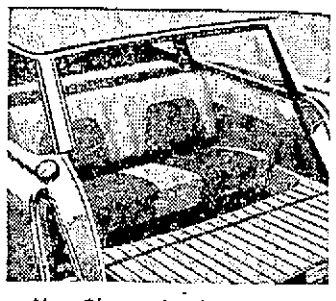

Yet, this smooth-riding Plymouth Suburban is still in the low-price 3

There isn't a single station wagon built that's bigger than the new Plymouth.

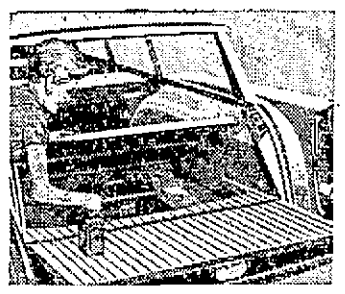

We're not just talking about the low-price 3, though Plymouth has the biggest in the lowest-price range. We mean all station wagons...low-price, medium-price, right on up to the so-called "big" luxury wagons. You can't buy bigger than Plymouth no matter how much you spend!

So why spend more—and settle for less? Especially when Plymouth offers you the magic smoothness of velvety Torsion-Aire Ride . . . Push-Button Driving . . . the Convenience of Total-Contact Brakes . . . Flight-Sweep Styling.

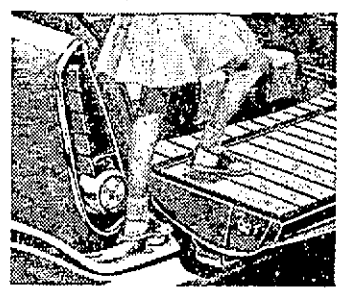

There's none bigger . . . and when you actually drive a Suburban you'll agree there's none better! See for yourself!

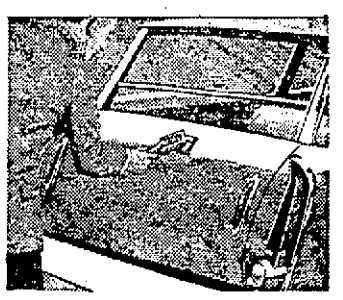

New Observation Seat. Available in all 9-passenger Suburban models. Folds flush into floor for extra cargo space.

Hidden luggage compartment. Locked space for safe, out-of-sight storage of luggage and valuables. On 6-passenger models.

Comfort steps on both sides of tailgate. Specially designed to make it so easy to get in and out of the new Observation Seat.

Disappearing rear window. Rolls down into tailgate. Locks securely from inside. Electrically controlled on all 9-passenger models.

THEY DON'T COME ANY BIGGER THAN Plymouth SUBURBANS

Ford Largely Responsible for Station Wagon Boom

Housewives, home craftsmen, children and even their pets share in the credit for the station wagon's spectacular rise in popularity.

Once considered a luxury vehicle, the station wagon was lifted out of the custom class when Ford Motor Co. became the first to mass produce the model in 1929.

The station wagon then gained wide acceptance among middle income families to make it the fourth largest selling body style in the auto industry today.

Blending utility with passenger car styling and riding comfort, the station wagon has become an ideal family car that also can double as a business vehicle.

Ford Motor Co., which sells more station wagons in the U. S. than any other manufacturer, has played a prominent role in the station wagon boom. Ford's introduction of its all metal-body in 1952 coincided with several basic changes in the American pattern of living.

* * * *

THE GENERAL increase in population, the shift to suburban living and the higher income of millions of American families set the stage for the station wagon's surge since World War II.

These factors and the appeal of the all steel station wagon are reflected in sales records. In 1940, station wagons constituted less than one per cent of the passenger car market. By 1950, they had risen to four per cent; in 1954, to 6.3 per cent; and in 1956, soared to a record 11 per cent.

Station wagon sales in the southern California area, where suburban living and travel are the keynote, far exceed those of the rest of the United States as indicated by these statistics from Ford Motor Co.

In 1954 when station wagons constituted 6.3% of the passenger car sales nationally, Ford produced 16.2% locally. In 1955 southern California station wagon production climbed to 20%; in 1956 to 24.3%; and in the first four months of 1957 station wagons accounted for 25.1%.

* * * *

MERCURY STATION wagons experienced a similar growth in popularity. First quarter sales percentages indicate the same trend. In the first quarter in 1954 Mercury station wagons accounted for 5% of passenger car sales in southern California; in 1955—9.1%; in 1956—10.2%; and 1957—12.6%.

During the 1940-1956 period, factory sales increased more than 25 times from 25,098 units to 638,508. Though 1956 was the station wagon's best year percentagewise, its greatest volume was 759,422 in 1955.

Ford's dominance in the station wagon field is indicated by a more than 1,000 per cent increase in Ford and Mercury station wagon registrations from 24,896 to 278,899 units in the five years ending in 1956. In that year, Ford and Mercury station wagons accounted for 46 per cent of all industry registrations of this type of unit.

* * * *

THE STATION WAGON'S roomy interior is put to a thousand-and-one uses. Owners report having used their wagons for transporting everything from skis and bass fiddles to television sets and church pews.

Families find it ideal for carrying groceries, the "do-it-yourself" fan's lumber, furniture and luggage, and for providing playing space for children on long trips.

Sportsmen and campers transport small boats, outboard motors, fishing tackle, guns and tents in it. Often the station wagon furnishes sleeping room for campers.

For car pools, to and from school and work, the station wagon is especially popular. It also serves as an ambulance and police vehicle. Salesmen, deliverymen and farmers use it to carry their wares.

Station wagons have accounted for much of the growth in two-car ownership. Approximately one-fourth of all station wagon buyers own another car.

* * * *

PREFERENCE for all-purpose cars is based on the need for a larger vehicle to accommodate children, luggage and dogs (cited by 45 per cent of station wagon owners) and for hauling equipment and products (42 per cent). Nearly half of all station wagons double as business and family cars.

The modern station wagon is a far cry from its ancestor of 25 years ago. Characterized by its wood body, its appeal was to the owners of eastern estates. In Britain it still is called the estate car.

Ford, which began limited production of station wagons in 1929, for many years built the wood body panels in Michigan's lumber-rich Upper Peninsula. The conversion to the all metal body in 1952 brought an end to that operation.

Other changes that radically modified the station wagon were rear seats that folded down to form a continuous platform, improved hardware to open and close the rear door, improved weight distribution and handsome body lines which eliminated the box-like appearance.

* * * *

ALL THESE innovations were adopted when Ford Motor Co. research indicated a strong interest in such a vehicle. Evidence points to a continued growth in demand for the station wagon.

Today at Wayne, Mich., Mercury division is operating the industry's first plant constructed exclusively for building station wagon bodies. A 760 per cent rise in Mercury station wagon sales from 1947 to 1956 necessitated establishment of the plant.

Ford Motor Co.'s 1957 models include five Ford station wagons and six in the Mercury line. The variety of models reflects the growing demand for a versatile passenger car to meet the diverse needs of the modern American family.

The station wagon's success in filling those needs has been one of the most spectacular developments in the 60-year history of the automotive industry.

SCHOOL'S OUT

Use Care in Driving

"School's out, be careful," the Automobile Club of Southern California cautions motorists, as more than 1,300,000 Southland children on summer vacation.

Motorists and parents, both were urged by the Club's Public Safety Dept. to comply with the following precautions:

1. Don't send young children out on errands which require crossing streets at busy hours.

2. Encourage children to play in playgrounds or fenced-in areas.

3. When driving through residential areas, keep speed down and be particularly alert for indications of children a play.

Blind Intersection Is Death Trap

When you come to a blind intersection, slow to 15 miles per hour and move through with great care. The National Automobile Club reminds you that only bad drivers ignore blind intersections.

Borgward Provides Big Interior Space

High performance, mechanical simplicity and unusual economy are outstanding characteristics of the Borgward station wagon model, it is pointed out by Dave Thomas of Dave Thomas Motors, Borgward dealership for the Long Beach territory.

The four-cylinder overhead valve engine, with bore and stroke of 2.95 by 3.33, 81 cu. in. displacement, and 8.2 compression, carries a 75 horsepower rating.

Drive is through a four-speed syncromesh transmission, with a high ratio of 3.9, which has produced in road tests, a top speed of 92.8 m.p.h. All gears operate in syncromesh which facilitates changing up or down.

Bolted directly on top of the valve cover, the Solex compound carburetor provides exceptionally fast acceleration—0-60 in 16 seconds and a peak speed of more than 90 mph. Service accessibility is enhanced by the simplicity of the carburetor mounting. Through cylinder compactness, the Borgward offers the economy appeal of up to 35 m.p.h.

* * * *

COIL SPRINGS SUSPENSION is used on all four wheels with DeDion type swinging axle in the rear, anchored to a rubber trailing arm on each side, mounted on its own sub-frame. The overall riding quality is a combination of slightly firm in town and extremely good for high speed cruising on poor roads.

Steering is free from backlash, and on three spins of the wheel, lock to lock, turns in a 36-foot circle.

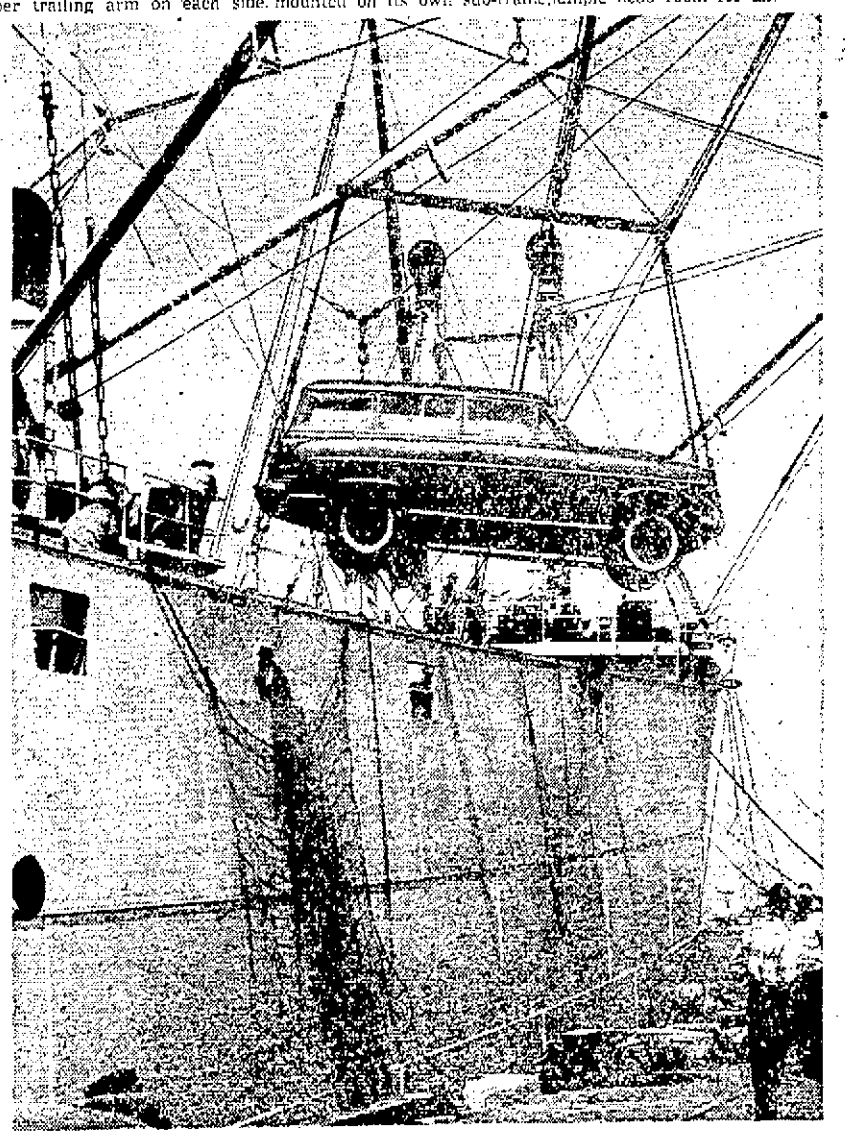

Employing the unit frame and body construction, the Borgward independent front suspension is mounted on its own sub-frame, a front cross member rubber mounted to the body structure. The engine, in turn, is rubber mounted to the cross member front, and to be under-dash structure at the rear.

For a car of unusually compact overall demensions, Thomas reported, the Borgward station wagon affords surprisingly large interior space with excellent visibility for the driver and ample head room for all.

CAMPERS' DELIGHT

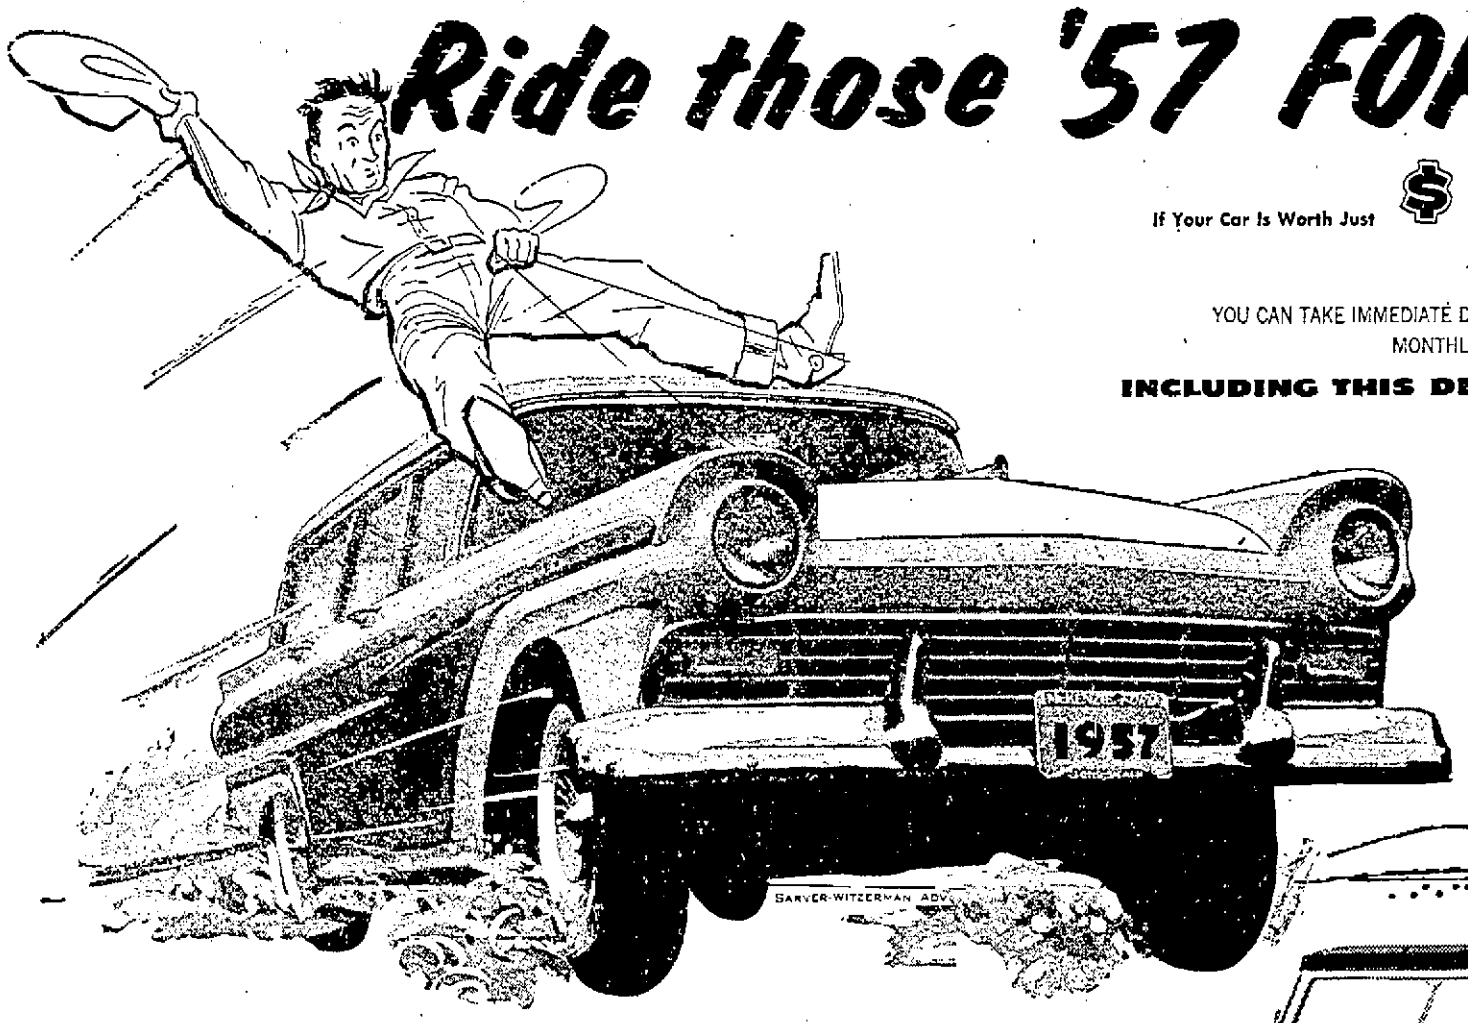

Vacation time camping display is checked by W. H. Klein, Ford Division Los Angeles district sales manager, left, and Thurlo Newell, assistant sales manager. Ford wagons presently account for 26 per cent of all Ford sales.

HERE COMES ANOTHER BORGWARD

A shipment of precision-built German Borgward station wagons is unloaded at Long Beach Harbor. These station wagons, handled by Dave Thomas Motors in Long Beach, will help supply the ever-increasing demand for the popular imported motor car that is now served by a dealer organization covering every principal city throughout the country.

Let us first make it clear that an Escrow is not a bird. Escrow is part of the financial process of buying a home.* Between the time you make your down-payment and the time the seller receives the money, your funds are placed in Escrow with a third party, the Escrow-Holder.

WHY?

Escrow exists to protect both you and the seller. Your money in Escrow assures the seller that you have the purchase price for his property. Until the title is clear and all terms of the Escrow instructions are met, the Escrow-Holder will not turn your money over to the seller.

WHO IS THE ESCROW-HOLDER?

Selection of the Escrow-Holder is up to you. Naturally your major consideration is the safety of your money while it is in Escrow. For your protection, you will want to be sure of these three things:

- that the Escrow-Holder is stable and sound
- that the Escrow-Holder is fully experienced and can offer prompt service
- that the Escrow-Holder will completely protect your funds.

* Although we are talking here about buying or selling a home, Bank of America Escrow Service is available for the sale or purchase of any other form of real property, a business, and many forms of personal property.

Dean of the World's Travelers

By Garber Davidson

Associated Press Writer

A GREAT mechanical stream, the Hollywood Freeway, rushes through a gully and past a hill not far from the intersection of Hollywood and Vine.

On top of the hill lives Burton Holmes, an erect man of 87 summers—more than half of them spent in travel. Of his 87 winters—more than half have been spent on the lecture platforms of America showing lantern slides and, later, movies of his travels.

Burton Holmes, dean of the world's travelers, is shown at Hollywood home, amid mementoes of a life of travel.

Holmes was the first man to use motion pictures to illustrate travel talks. But even that was more than half a century ago.

Today, he lives with his wife, Margaret, on his peaceful hill in a house he calls "Topside"—the former home of matinee idol Francis X. Bushman—and watches man hurry by.

THE QUIET, SHADED rooms of his rambling cottage are filled with figurines, pictures, scrapbooks, mementoes of a life of travel.

"The most sophisticated world traveler of them all," Lowell Thomas has called him.

His courtly airs, precise diction and witty and informative travel lectures delighted audiences as long as 58 years ago. His profile picture, dominated by his sharp goatee, was a trademark in his advertisements and literature.

Holmes' organization invented the word "travelogue." Holmes has defined it as: "The gist of a journey, ground fine by discrimination, leavened with information, seasoned with humor, fashioned in literary form and embellished by pictures that delight the eye, while the spoken word charms the ear."

IN 1950 HOLMES became ill and retired. His associates are carrying on. Each year audiences in nearly 100 American cities flock to rented halls to see the latest Burton Holmes travelogue. Narrated live by a lecturer.

Holmes can't give lengthy interviews. Briefly, he recalls a few high points. Where is his favorite place on this planet?

"The place I am going at the time is the most interesting."

HOLMES GOT HIS start in Chicago, where he was born Jan. 8, 1870, son of a family in comfortable circumstances. He quit school at 16 and his grandmother took him on a trip to Europe. With this the travel bug bit him and he never got over it. At the age of 20 he was taken again to Europe by his grandmother and this proved to be a decisive factor in his life.

Abroad, he took pictures with a box camera. Back home, he showed lantern slides from his travel negatives to the old Chicago Camera Club, of which he was secretary.

"To take the edge off the silence" and keep the show going he wrote a script and read it as the man at the stereopticon changed the slides.

This made a hit with the club members. In fact, the club in 1891 hired a hall to present Burton Holmes in his first travel lecture, called "Through Europe with a Kodak." It was a big success; $350 worth for the club treasury. But young Burton didn't immediately take up traveling lecturing as a career. He tried his hand at various jobs. In 1892 he induced his family to stake him to a five-month trip abroad.

IN JAPAN he made a significant discovery. There were artists there who could tint his slides with beautiful and lifelike colors. After that his lantern slide lectures were in color.

Upon his return to Chicago he rented a recital hall and sent 2,000 announcement cards to those on his mother's social list. It was a smash hit for the hometown boy and Burton Holmes was on his way.

ing the handling of highly inflammable cargoes that have been incorporated in the Coast Guard regulations for tankships, or have been adopted by the Harbor Patrol in their efforts to prevent disaster on the waterfront.

THAT THESE REGULATIONS are both wise and necessary is accepted by the men who sail the tankers, for all tankermen hold a very deep respect for the potentialities of their cargoes. They know that a disregard for the harbor regulations may too easily bring a far more disastrous result than mere discharge from their jobs or a rebuke from the authorities.

Approximately 100 tankers enter the Long Beach-Los Angeles port each month to load or discharge petroleum commodities, but there has not been a major disaster since that June morning, 10 years ago, when the Markay became a grim reminder of the need for caution.

Electric cooking keeps more juice in meat—because it's flameless!

When you cook electrically there's no draft of constantly changing air because there's no flame. (Flame, you see, needs air to breathe. So a flame-heated oven constantly inhales dry air, exhales moist air—literally cooks meat in a hot draft that evaporates good juices.) In an electric oven there's no draft of dry air. You cook with moist heat. As a result, more juice stays in the meat...and the meat tastes better.

Electric cooking is far cooler, too. As much as 16° cooler. The reason is obvious: electric cooking puts the heat directly into the food, not into the room. Electric cooking is cleaner, too, because it's flameless. There are no by-products of combustion to dirty walls and darken your bright pans. Truly, it's the only modern way to cook. Why not see your appliance dealer for a demonstration of the new electric ranges?

Chevrolet Offering Six Models of Station Wagons

Fastest rising stars in Chevrolet's array of 20 passenger car models are the 1957 station wagons, which combine smartness, utility and roominess for today's "on-the-go" family.

Output of this popular body style is two and a half times the rate of only three years ago, Chevrolet reports. This rise is further emphasized by the fact that a third of the 1957 line—or six models—are station wagons. Over one of every eight cars coming off the company's assembly lines is this body type and the proportion is expected to increase in ensuing years.

An early leader in the field, Chevrolet this year offers six models to fit the budget of every family. As in other passenger car models, wide choices are available in solid and two-tone exterior colors, power trains and comfort options.

• • • •

PRESTIGE LEADER is the Nomad, a two-door of the Bel Air series, distinguished by its elegant appointments and styling. This was the General Motors Motorama "dream wagon" which was put into production in 1955 after receiving widespread approbation of auto show-goers. The Nomad exterior is identified by flow-back pillars and window panels and ribbed roof.

A second Bel Air model is the four-door, accommodating six passengers and carrying the aluminum rear fender insert and chrome treatment identifying all Bel Air models.

There are three wagons in the middle range Two-Ten Series—a three-seater nine-passenger four-door with removable third seat and folding middle seat; a two-door and a four-door, each of six-passenger capacity. Economy leader of the line is the One-Fifty two-door. All station wagons have a folding second seat which lets down flush with the floor to permit a number of variations in hauling. With this arrangement cargo space amounts to 87 cubic feet.

• • • •

THE WAGONS, like the other passenger models, have lower, longer profiles, richer interiors and noteworthy mechanical advances in 1957. High on the list is an exclusive automatic transmission — Turboglide — a three-turbine unit that delivers the smoothest flow of power thus far attainable in this type of device.

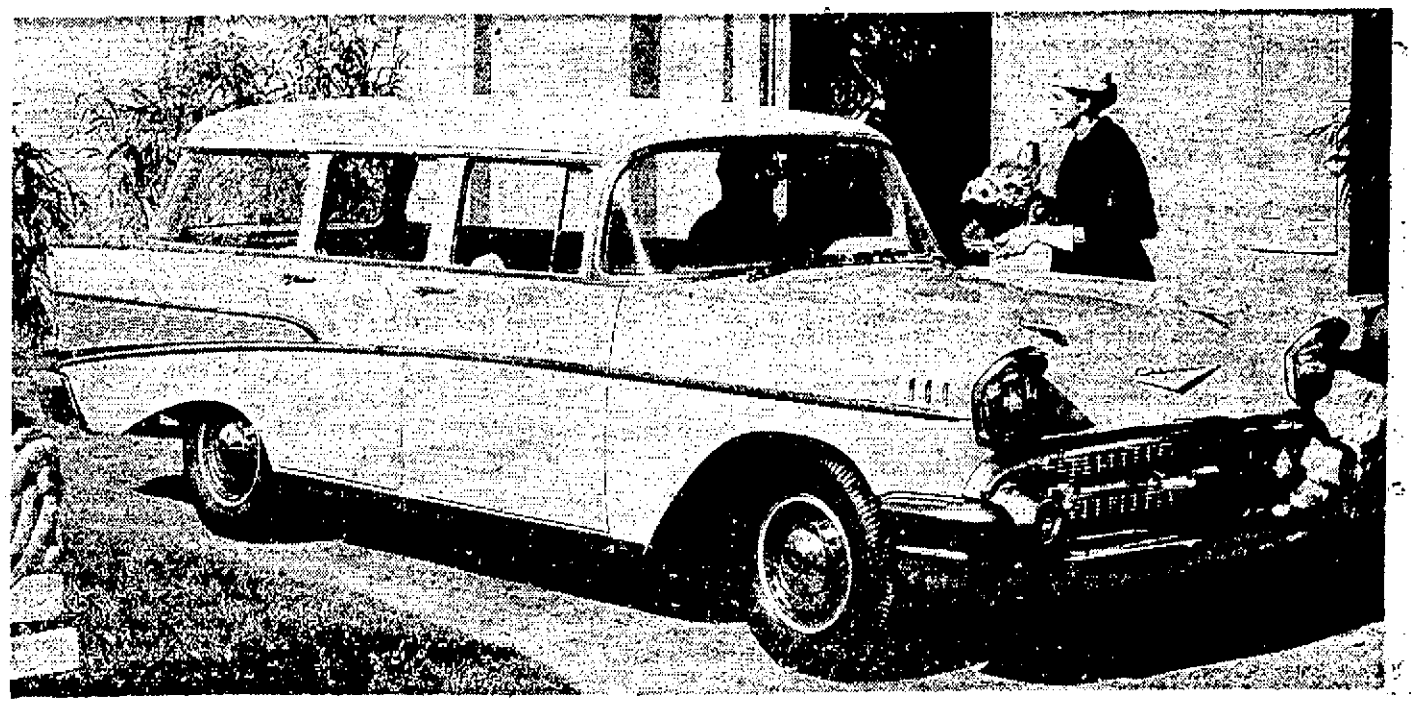

The new design permits a broad total of 460 different color combinations for the 20 models Chevrolet offers in 1957. There are four different versions of the V8 engine and six-cylinder with the top horsepower being 283 in the fuel injection unit—or one horsepower for each cubic inch of displacement.

In addition to the six station wagons, the line includes three four-doors, three two-doors, two sport coupes, two sport sedans, a club coupe, a utility sedan, a convertible and the Corvette.

DESIGN FEATURES a rugged front end blending a massive guard and bumper ensemble with aluminum grille screen and inset parking lamps. Lance-shaped windsplits on the hood give a further modern mark. Styling theme is integration.

The optional Ramjet fuel injection system introduced this year by Chevrolet for some passenger cars, meters air and gasoline to each of the eight cylinders in precise amounts needed for any driving condition. Engineers point out it is more economical and responsive, gives faster warm-up and eliminates engine stalling.

Among other mechanical advancements are 14-inch wheels and lower pressure tires for further riding comfort and safety, modified front suspensions and shock absorbers, better vehicle braking and handling, more rigid frame and improved ventilation.

HERE IS ONE CHEVROLET MODEL

Catering to a fast-growing segment of the automobile market, Chevrolet for 1957 offers six station wagons, covering a wide range of prices and features. Choices includes two and four-dooor models, six and nine-passenger capacities and a variety in horsepower. All station wagons have a folding second seat which can be let down flush to the floor. With seats folded, Chevrolet wagons have a cargo space of 87 cubic feet. The Chevrolet wagon line is on display at Beach City Chevrolet, Cormier Chevrolet and Harbor Chevrolet in Long Beach.

Plan Trip Ahead to Enjoy It

Good trips, like good meals, are planned ahead.

A little forethought can add a lot of pleasure to any long automobile journey. Undoubtedly you check your tires, brakes, lights and the general condition of your car before you start. But here are some planning pointers you may not have thought of for the trip:

Get a good night's rest before you set off. Many driver-asleep accidents occur in the first half-day of driving, a good indication that the driver did not get enough sleep the night before.

Get the latest maps and highway information. Elemental, of course. But if the map in your glove compartment is last year's, it won't show a road that has been closed or a ferry service that's been discontinued. Gas stations can offer good advice when you have a choice of routes.

• • • •

DON'T TRAVEL so long in a day that driving becomes a grind. If need be, plan to spend an extra half day or day on the road so that you will arrive fresh rather than bushed and irritable.

Resolve beforehand to take brief rest stops every hour or so. And carry a supply of safe caffeine-type tablets in the glove compartment. These help restore and maintain alertness when you get a touch of mid-afternoon doziness.

Decide in the morning where you will probably stop that night. Drivers often stay on the road until 6 or 7 o'clock, and then discover that the nearest motel or hotel is down the road 40 miles away.

On the trip itself, check weather reports each evening. If rain, fog or a dust storm is forecast, your driving plans will be affected and should be changed accordingly.

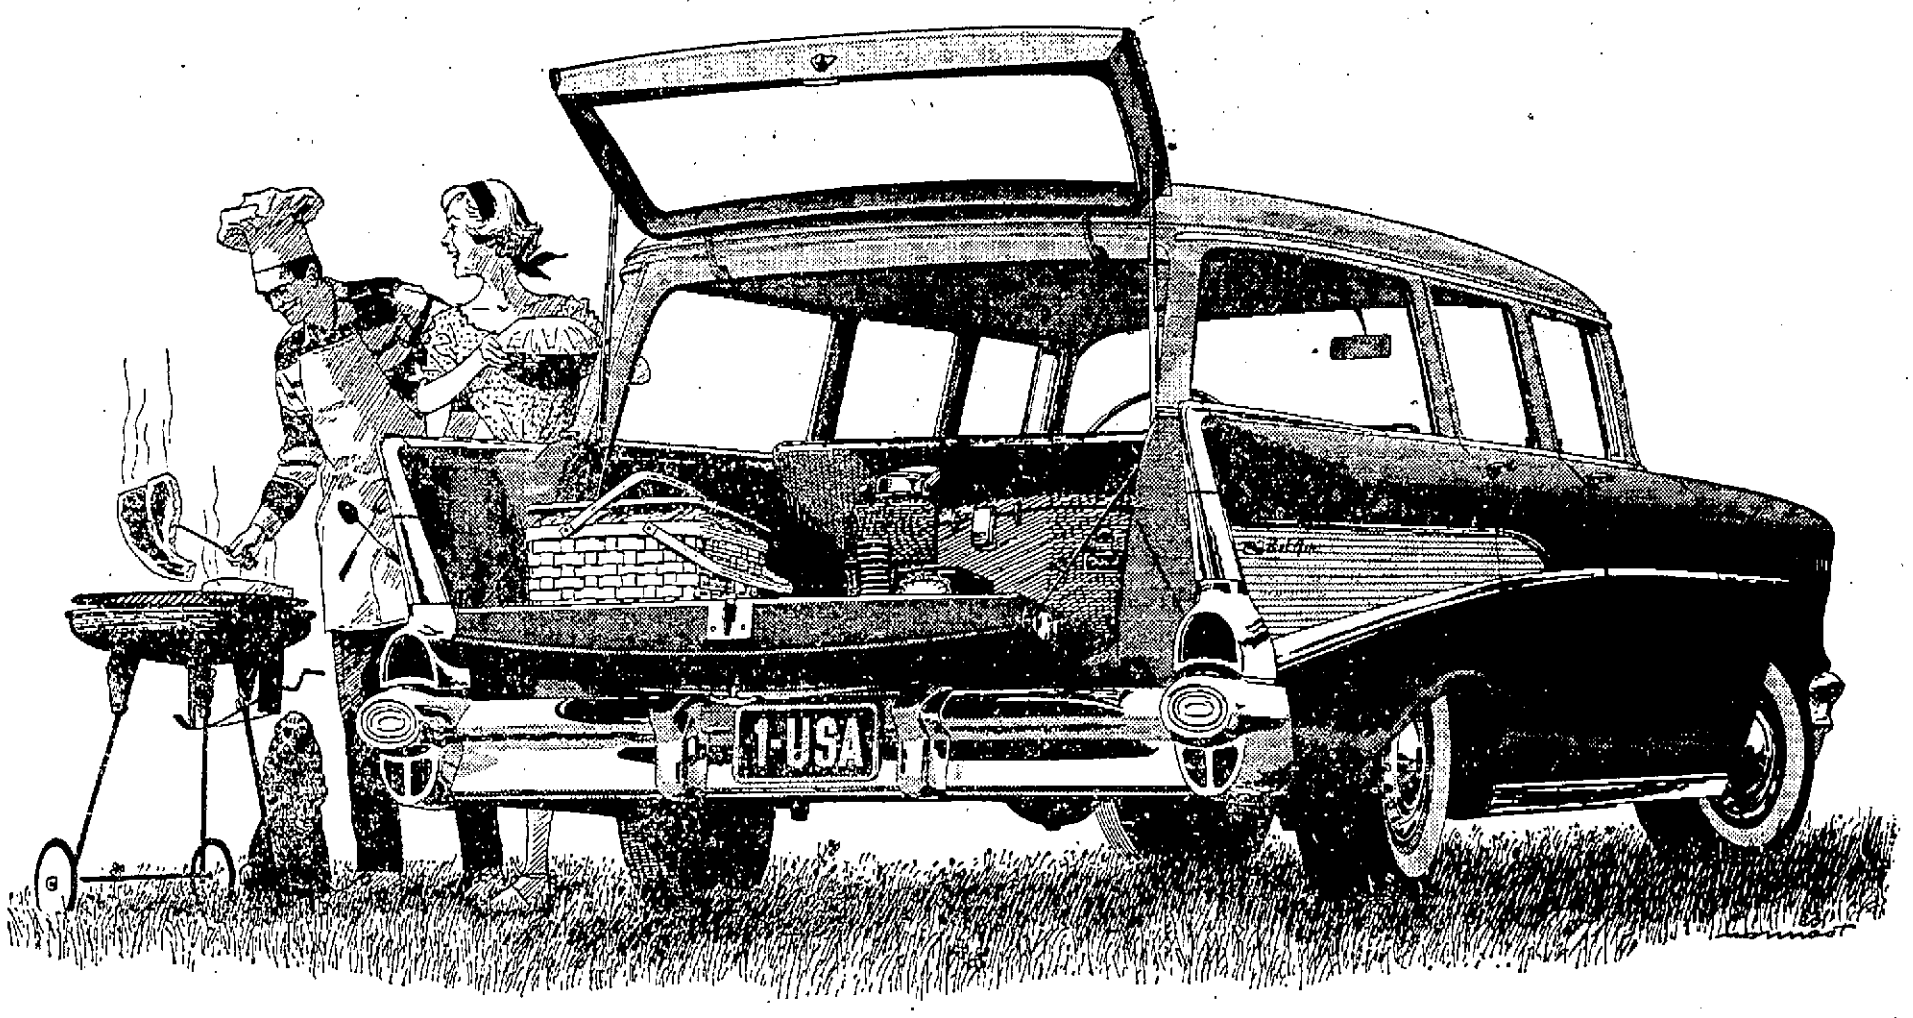

Check These Before Trip

Here are three small things that can add a lot to the pleasure of a long automobile trip.

1. Travelers' checks. Knowing your funds are protected eliminates a source of worry. Have half made out in your wife's name, half in yours.

2. Supply of safe caffeine-type tablets in your glove compartment. These help maintain mental alertness during those dozy mid-afternoon driving hours.

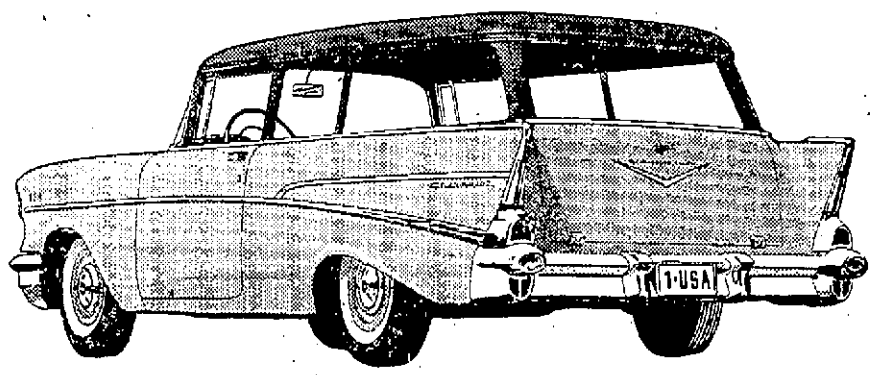

3. Extra pair of glasses. Think for a moment what a predicament you'd be in if your only pair became broken. Take your prescription, if you don't take an extra pair.

New Chevrolet station wagons have Body by Fisher, of course. Above, the Bel Air 4-door Townsman.

They're eager-beaver beauties...these Chevrolet wagons!

They're built to carry heavy loads, yes, but you can drive them with a light touch—these gay, good-looking Chevrolet wagons. You have six models to choose from—and they're all Sweet, Smooth and Sassy!

Above, 2-door 6-passenger "Two-Ten" Handyman. Rear seat folds flat in a flash to give you a big cargo space.

Talk about beautiful hard-working wagons! Chevrolet offers you the handsomest line-up of all to choose from. Whether you hanker for a wagon to help with do-it-yourself projects, to tote your gear for outdoor sports, or just to use as an all-round family car—here are eager beavers to see.

There are two-door and four-door models, with six- or nine-passenger capacities. They convert in a flash to take up to half a ton of cargo. The tailgate opens first, and wide, so there are any number of loads you can slip in without having to open the topgate.

Being Chevrolets, they have the performance, too; up to 245* V8 horsepower that's sweet and smooth, yet practically as quiet as a kitten on a carpet. Being a Chevy, the one you choose will be a joy to handle with its steady way of going, its easier steering, smoother cornering and its keen, alert response.

Drop by your Chevrolet dealer's soon. Let him help you answer the only question that could possibly remain: Which of these Chevrolet station wagons is for you?

WORLD OF WHEELS

Making Device for Truck Brake Safety

By ART STEPHAN
Independent, Press-Telegram Auto Editor

With Long Beach the terminus for so many major truck lines, particularly in the oil business, many harbor area drivers and their families will be interested in a new emergency braking system for heavy trucks.

As demonstrated on an unused section of the Ridge Route last week, on grades steep as 6.6 per cent, the new device safely stopped a trailer truck loaded with 73,000 pounds of steel rods—and a case of eggs. Not an egg was broken, proving that the load was snubbed to a smooth, safe stop by steel sleds or shoes dropped in front of the rear wheels.

With camera patrol cars recording speeds and stopping distances, stops with the 36½-ton load were made at 20, 30 and 37 miles per hour using only the emergency braking system. Official observers included representatives from the California Highway Patrol, California Trucking Assn., Greyhound safety patrol, tire builders, interstate truck operators, truck manufacturers, Markel safety patrol, insurance organizations and other groups interested in promoting highway safety.

* * * *

THE NEW SYSTEM of Life Saver brakes was invented and patented by Kirk Besoyan. For more than 17 years he pushed trucks and trailers over the Ridge Route, infamous for its heavy toll of lives and vehicles. He searched for a method that would stop a runaway rig, surely and safely, even though the air or hydraulic braking systems failed completely. The result is two steel shoes or sleds, electronically controlled, that the driver drops in front of the rear wheels. In addition to saving lives of truck drivers, motorists and pedestrians, these new emergency brakes will materially reduce costs.

The new truck brakes are being manufactured by the Life Saver Brake Co. at 11750 Wilshire Blvd. The company is backed by a group of West Los Angeles businessmen. According to Joe Eisele, one of the founders, they plan to demonstrate this new emergency braking system in the Harbor area soon.

WHAT'S THE PITCH on automobile horns?

Buick's pitch is made up of the musical notes F and A, but the selection is a matter of choice by individual car manufacturers, according to R. S. Thornburgh, who heads Buick's electrical division.

Thornburgh explained that Buick changed the tonal qualities of its horns for 1957 for several reasons.

"We had used E flat and G for several years," Thornburgh said, "but decided to advance the tone one full pitch in 1957.

"It's our opinion that the higher notes give us a slightly better penetration through road noise, thus providing a better warning device. In addition, we think the new combination furnishes a more mellow and pleasing sound."

* * * *

THE PROBLEM OF HORNS is becoming of increasing importance in the automobile industry. Cars are insulated much better than they were a few years back to keep out road noises and furnish more audio comfort for passengers. Among the standard road noises, of course, are the sounds of horns.

"The answer is not more horns," said Thornburgh. "Tests show that increasing the number of musical notes does not add to the audibility of the horns' sound.

"Our old tone combination of E flat and G operated at 311 and 390 cycles per second, respectively. By changing to F and A, at 350 and 440 cycles per second, we think we have arrived at the immediate answer while still remaining within the bounds of permissible intensity."

FOR SAFE FOURTH

Stop Thefts of Hub Caps

Hubcaps are bigger, fancier, and shinier than they were 15 or 20 years ago. They're also more expensive.

If a thief should spot your car parked on a deserted street or lonely road, his eye is more than apt to be taken by those shiny hubcaps, and then out comes his screwdriver, away go your hubcaps, and you or your insurance company will be out some $30 or $40.

You can make that thief think twice before taking your hubcaps by making it hard for him to realize any money on them. And how do you do that? By having your license number, or some mark of identification engraved on the inside of your hubcaps. That makes them easy to trace, hot to handle. Try it. It'll cost you little, and might save you a lot.

Don't Drive On When Drowsy

Many a parent sighs with relief on a long trip, when Junior settles down in the back seat for his afternoon nap. But Junior's drowsiness should be a reminder to the driver that he, too, may be a little dozy. It's a good idea to stop the car and get out for a quick stretch before continuing down the highway.

FOOD

A Treat for Cupid's Big Day

Small turkey, disjointed and cooked in sauce which includes white grape juice (or ginger ale) as an igredient, provides a family wedding feast.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

WHAT COULD be more heart warming, at a home wedding table, than having the service cozy . . . and with all guests can eat?

For the family wedding dinner, serve a small turkey baked in flavorful seasonings reserved for the happiest of occasions. Such a turkey weighs approximately six pounds, cut up, disjointed, and ready to cook. Prepare more than one if need be.

UNUSUAL FLAVOR is obtained by baking the individual pieces in white grape juice (or ginger ale), lemon juice, butter or margarine, green onions, parsley, salt, pepper and paprika. The tender, juicy, rich brown pieces are served with ultra good juices that have blended during the baking process.

Potatoes pick up the wedding theme. Duchess potatoes (rich whipped potatoes with egg yolks added) are shaped into a large large heart and caressed with almond butter. Miniature hot rolls will be just right for the festive note.

There will be, of course, the traditional wedding cake, beverages, candies and nuts that bespeak an important occasion for the family.

Wedding Feast Turkey

1 turkey, about 6 lb. ready-to-cook weight, cut up
2 cups white grape juice*
2 tblsps lemon juice
2 tsps salt
½ tsp ground pepper
1 tsp paprika
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
½ cup chopped green onion, including tops
½ cup minced parsley
Grape clusters for garnish

PLACE TURKEY pieces in shallow baking pan, skin side down. Blend all ingredients and pour over turkey. Bake in a moderate oven (275 degrees F.) for 1 hour. Turn turkey skin side up. Continue baking for an additional hour, or until thickest pieces are fork-tender. Baste two or three times. Pour pan drippings over turkey for service. Garnish with grapes. Makes 8 servings.

This recipe may be doubled or trebled without any change in quantity of ingredients provided shallow pans are used so as to permit only one layer of turkey.

*Available at fancy grocery or food shops. If not available, ginger ale may be substituted.

and started dragging me face-first over the ground. The entire left side of my face was ripped open."

ANOTHER BAD MOMENT came a few weeks before the dragging incident at Chicagoland.

After pulling the ripcord, nothing happened.

Emily waited and prayed.

"Then I thought to myself, I'm not waiting any longer," she recalls.

She started to pull out the ripcord on her reserve chute. At the same instant, the backpack opened and her main chute spilled out and filled with air.

"THEY HAD PACKED the chute for a delayed jump," she remembers. "But nobody thought to tell me about it."

She had jumped from 2,000 feet and the chute didn't open until she had fallen to 800 feet.

But these are only memories now. Love has grounded Grandma Brown.

Crab Meat Salad

1 lb. Dungeness crab meat
4 hard cooked eggs
Salt and paprika
½ cup almonds
1 cup mayonnaise
1 pint heavy cream
1 green pepper or pimiento
Head lettuce

Cut the crab meat in large pieces. Cut the whites of the eggs into cubes. Blanch the almonds and cut into thin, lengthwise strips. Mix these ingredients. Whip the cream very stiff, fold into the mayonnaise, add salt and paprika. Add to crab mixture. Serve on salad plates on crisp lettuce; garnish with strips of green pepper or pimiento and top with riced egg yolk.

Serve With: Melon Cocktail and Wafers, Crab Salad, Cheese Sticks, Relish Tray, Strawberry Parfait, Coffee.

Take it cool and easy with salad suppers while the hot weather is with us. Crab makes a hearty salad and you'll love its fresh-from-the-sea sweetness with its tangy flavor that lasts, whether you cook it, combine it with other foods, or serve it chilled with cocktail sauce and diced celery, it's cold, firm and refreshing.

CRAB LOUIE

Lettuce
2 to 3 cups Crab Meat
3 Hard-boiled Eggs, sliced
Chopped Chives
½ cup French Dressing
½ cup Chili Sauce
2 tbs. Mayonnaise
1 tsp. Worcestershire Sauce
Salt and Pepper to taste

Arrange lettuce leaves around the inside of a salad bowl, with a few shredded leaves on the bottom. Put the crab meat on top of the shredded lettuce, and the hard-boiled eggs and chopped chives on top of the crab meat. In another bowl, mix the french dressing, chili sauce, mayonnaise, worcestershire sauce and seasonings and pour over the salad. Serve very cold. Crackers or the new Chippers are very good with this, along with lemonade, and for watermelon or fruit. SERVES 4 TO 6.

Buick Caballero Wonderful for Any Outing

If you're a weekend or vacation time outdoorsman, the 1957 Buick Caballero is what you're looking for in a new automobile.

The Caballero is Buick's sleek estate wagon which boasts a brand-new body style plus the spaciousness demanded by folks who look for recreation in the great outdoors.

There's plenty of room in the Caballero for a pair of fully-inflated air mattresses side by side behind the front seat. The inner platform of the wagon measures 57.4 inches, leaving space to spare if you use standard mattresses. You'll be able to store the rest of your gear—guns, fishing rods, portable ice-box, waders, and the rest—without any strain. The rear quarter of the Caballero contains 64.5 cubic feet of luggage space with the rear seat folded down.

Skiers will hail the Caballero, too. There's room inside, even with the tailgate closed, for the average length seven-foot runner. The compartment stretches out for 84 inches with the tailgate up—which is as you'll want it in skiing temperatures—and goes 101.9 inches with the gate out flat behind.

* * * *

THE CABALLERO is a lot easier to load, in addition to its other outdoors-appealing qualities. The panoramic rear window with glass that curves clear around the side corners, lifts up parallel to the top and takes along part of the roof with it. The tailgate swings down flat and is only 29.5 inches up from the road in that position, to provide the easiest loading yet.

The Riviera styling which Buick pioneered and made famous is an added attraction as far as outdoorsmen are concerned, but it's a cinch to be of prime importance to their wives. The Caballero is a four-door hardtop, which means it has no center door-posts as in traditional station wagons. It's a passenger car, featuring the fluid lines of Buick styling, with station wagon capacity.

The Caballero is a Century series car, powered by a 300 horsepower engine. The same exclusive styling also is available in the thrifty Special version, plus an even lower-priced Special with the same graceful Riviera look and center door-posts. Both Special estate wagons carry 250 horsepower engines.

READY TO GO

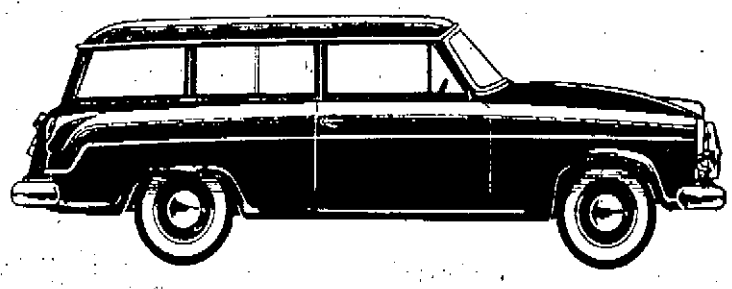

The time it takes to snap a picture of the children at the start of a summer vacation trip can well be worth the slight delay, travel experts say. A long automobile ride, which thousands of American families will be taking in the months ahead, can be a lot more pleasant if proper advance planning takes the kids into consideration. Simple games, frequent stops, good meals and plenty of resth are among the suggestions offered for making a summer junket a picnic instead of a panic. Pictured is the Buick Caballero now available at Campbell Buick Co., 1881 American Ave.

Station Wagon Used for Years

Actually, the station wagon—or a vehicle known as the station wagon — has been in the American vocabulary for 40 years. Fancy resort hotels used to have a specially-built body assembled on a conventional chassis for transportation of guests between the resort hotel and the railroad station. Thus, the name "station wagon." Through this association, the wagon achieved a connection with high living, respectability and fashion.

Ford's first-mass produced station wagon, exclusive of the beach wagon, was produced in 1929. However, it did not account for a large percentage of production until it became possible to produce an all-steel body. From that date on, the importance of the station wagon increased. Station wagons now are the fourth most popular body style in the industry.

Try the Wagon with a Wonderful Difference

EVEN its looks announce it:

This is the most daringly, dazzlingly different wagon you've ever had the joy of driving.

Because this beautiful blend of wagon and hardtop doesn't drive like a wagon at all.

This '57 Caballero rides more like a limousine—but what limousine ever rode so smoothly?

This latest addition to Buick's CENTURY line steers more like a two-seater—but what two-seater ever handled so sweetly?

This gorgeous goer takes turns and makes stops as if it were gliding on rails—but what train engineer ever had so much fun?

Above all, this all-new Buick—with its all-new engine and its all-new Dynaflow*—gives you such response and performance as only jet pilots can know.

But what better way, what more wonderful way, to keep your feet on the ground than in this whiz of a practical wagon?

We can't tell you what it's like, how it feels to command the Caballero.

We can only suggest you drive one.

We can only promise fun and thrills and boundless satisfaction.

We can only say one more thing: Come see your Buick dealer today.

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.*

A true "jewel of the sea," at least, to this young beachcomber, is a starfish found on the Long Beach seashore.

Seastars in Their Eyes

By Ada M. Young

WITH warm weather, adults and children hie to the beach for swimming, picnics and sunbathing.

Children like nothing better than to gather "sea treasures." Shells are precious. Creatures such as sea snails are valuable to small fry.

But the real "jewel of the sea" to the little beachcomber is a starfish or, more properly, a seastar.

ITS NATURAL habitat is a rocky spot, but often the seastar is washed up on the sandy shore.

However, "jewel without price" at the moment, it often is left forgotten in car or closet. The resulting odor drives Mother to the edict: "This is the last time you bring home a starfish!"

Here is a solution to the problem:

Starfish should be placed in a tub of fresh water for about six hours, which will make it possible to arrange the star in the desired position. Meanwhile, prepare 1 quart commercial formalin (purchased at any drugstore), 9 quarts fresh or salt water and 2 cups glycerine (drugstore also). Starfish should remain in this solution five to 10 days, then be allowed to dry away from direct sunlight. A rack in a shed or garage area will do.

With Children in Rear Seat of Dodge You Drive With No Fear

It's wagon weather and the station wagons have taken to the road in a never ending stream on the way to a variety of vacation rendezvous.

More and more wagons are joining the parade every year because here is the way to get the most out of a vacation with the least expense, especially if children are part of the picture.

The kids, the luggage, the camping equipment and just about anything else you might need for a fun-packed vacation fit comfortably into the back of today's modern station wagons.

The station wagon gives you more of everything, dramatic styling, first class performance, top economy and all 'round utility. That's why the popularity of the station wagon as a family automobile is definitely on the increase.

According to recent figures released by Dodge, total production has doubled since 1955 with greatest current demand for the four-door, six-passenger model. Sales of this model have climbed to a 5.8 per cent in 1956. Four-door, eight passenger model output totals 2.2 per cent this year compared with .5 per cent in 1955 and 1.3 per cent in 1956. As the summer season approaches, station wagon production has surged to 10.8 per cent of Dodge's total output, compared with 5.3 per cent in 1955 and 9.5 per cent in 1956.

* * * *

FOR SOMETHING entirely new in wagons, try the rear-facing "Spectator Seat" for a panoramic view of the passing scenes. Watch the kids scramble for this seat, then go ahead and drive without concern. They'll be entertained for hours, and they can't fall out. The back is locked securely on the outside.

You'll like the carrying capacity of these wagons too. Both the third and middle seats fold quickly to form a level floor area that holds a full half-ton of equipment.

The Dodge Custom Sierra and Sierra station wagons are available in 9 and 6 passenger models, both with four doors. So if you're part of the America that likes to go places and do things, join the thousands who are swinging to the glamorous cars that have a purpose, the Swept Wing Dodge station wagons.

BEAUTY IN DODGE SIERRA
Here beauty at the beach is exemplified in this curvaceous lass complementing Dodge's four-door Sierra station wagon which has received exceptional acceptance among Southern California motorists. An outstanding feature of the Sierra is the rear-facing "spectator seat" for a panoramic view of the passing scenes, particularly intriguing to the children who will be entertained for hours and they can't fall out. The Sierra and other wagons in the Dodge line are on display at Dodge-Plymouth dealer Glenn E. Thomas, Anaheim and Elm and their new showroom location at the corner of Anaheim and American.

'PANCAKES' UNDER HOODS

Engines of Future to Be ⅔ Smaller

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—If you look far enough into the future—perhaps a decade or so—you may see a medium-sized automobile powered with an engine about one-third the size of today's average V-8 unit.

It will not be an atomic powered engine; neither will it be a so-called "free piston" or gas turbine unit. It will be an internal combustion gasoline engine of today's popular type but so much smaller in over-all dimension that a great deal more latitude will be given the car stylists.

For many years the auto makers have been experimenting with what has been called a "pancake" engine. Its designation comes from its flat design. Its pistons are of the horizontally opposed type. The whole unit is only about one-third the size of today's conventional car engine.

* * * *

THERE ARE a dozen or more engines of design that contrasts sharply with the current V-8 type. Some use the Disel principle of combustion—through heat generated by compression. Most of the others get combustion through the use of spark plugs. In each case the units are much smaller than the conventional automobile power plant.

Some of the industry's top engineers say these engines have a definite place in the car industry's future. Most engine designers, however, say the present principle of developing horsepower through internal combustion of gasoline and air will not be replaced in the near future.

It will not be replaced, they say, until the possibilities for its further refinement have been exhausted. That point, they add, is still beyond their horizons.

* * * *

BEING SOUGHT right now is an engine small in its over-all dimensions. Probably it will use more aluminum. This may appear in the engine block as well as in the head.

Already some research has been carried on with aluminum engine blocks. Aluminum still is more costly than cast iron. But it has a weight advantage over cast iron. And aluminum is getting into many other automotive applications.

There will be more aluminum in the 1958 model cars than was used in this year's models. A big part of the aluminum content of the finished car goes into automatic transmissions. Chevrolet recently announced a new experimental model of its Corvette using aluminum "wherever feasible in the chassis."

* * * *

BUT THE EFFORT at weight reduction is not confined entirely to the application of aluminum. The researchers are also studying the adaptability of magnesium. There is also a distinct move toward reducing the over-all size of many working parts under the hood.

GENERAL DUAL 90 SHOWN
Here is pert Carol MacDonald of Richardson Tire Co. with the General Dual 90 tire, an innovation in the tire industry because of the double tread. The tire has two separate points of contact with the road instead of one and factory officials claim greatly increased safety and durability.

New Type General Tire Increases Road Safety

The General Tire & Rubber Co. has unveiled a new tire which in principle gives the driver the effect of two tires on one wheel.

Company engineers say it was the finest tire that has been produced in the more than four decades General has been manufacturing tires.

Called the "Dual 90," the tire is the result of two years of concentrated research and development at General's Akron, Ohio headquarters.

The Dual 90 is the first tire in the history of the industry to be constructed with dual curvature, a General Tire engineering accomplishment that results in two distinct radii within each tire.

This means that each tire has two separate points of contact with the road instead of one. No other tire contains this engineering principle. Curvature is the term used by the industry that determines the contact between the tread of the tire and the road.

General engineers say the dual curvature provides increased safety and durability, giving the effect of two tires on one wheel. Stability, which means maneuverability, is likewise greatly improved.

The Dual 90 is being sold locally by Richardson Tire Co., 500 East Anaheim St.

Oldsmobile Fiesta Wagon Big Favorite

FITS THE WESTERN SCENE

Immediate acceptance was won in the West by this glamorous 1957 Oldsmobile Fiesta, built on the Super "88" chassis and styled in the hardtop manner. Note the absence of a center post between the two doors. Inside, the Fiesta is upholstered in comfortable Airweave Trilok fabrics and leather. The second seat folds flush with the floor for cargo use. The Fiesta is one of three new station wagons in the 1957 Oldsmobile line. The new line brought station wagons back to Oldsmobile after a seven-year absence. The Fiesta is being displayed at C. Standlee Martin, Long Beach Olds dealer at 1227 American Ave.

Oldsmobile's new 1957 line of Fiesta station wagons has won outstanding public acceptance on the Pacific Coast, it was disclosed with the recent release of shipment statistics.

Of total shipments of Fiesta models from the factory during the first four months of the year, 16.9 percent of the new station wagons went to fill orders of dealers on the Pacific Coast.

Production of Fiesta models has increased steadily during the first four months of the year (latest available records). Starting at 3.6 per cent in January, production has climbed to 8 per cent of the total production of new Oldsmobiles in April. The average of Fiesta station wagon production for 1957 through April runs 5.2 per cent of total production.

Three models comprise the new 1957 Oldsmobile Fiesta line. Fiesta styling — designed like hardtops without the pillar between the doors—is offered in station wagons built on the Golden Rocket "88" and Super "88" chassis. Chrome roof rails identify the Super "88" Fiesta. The third member of the Fiesta trio is the Golden Rocket "88" sedan, which retains the sedan-type center pillar.

HAL MOORE HOME

Entertaining as well as true comfort in everyday living is found at its best in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Moore, 1105 La Dera Dr. The home was designed for both indoor and outdoor activities.

There Are 12 Plymouth Station

Plymouth for 1957 offers 12 suburban station wagon models with V-8 and six-cylinder engines on a 122-inch wheelbase.

There are four 9-passenger models, two in each of the Sport and Custom lines; and eight 6-passenger models in the Sport, Custom and De Luxe lines.

Four-door models are available in the Sport and Custom lines; 2-door models are available in the Custom and De Luxe lines.

Body specifications include over-all dimensions of 213.1 inches in length and 78.2 inches in width.

Plymouth, in pioneering the all metal Suburban in 1949, started an industry-wide trend. Suburbans have steadily gained in sales over the past seven years.

Industry observers say that more Suburbans and other station wagon types will be sold during 1957 than ever before in history.

• • • •

FOR 1957, PLYMOUTH has 9-passenger Suburbans with a third "observation car" seat facing the rear. They have steps for entering on the rear bumper at each side of the tail gate. This provides a separate entrance for the third seat without disturbing passengers in the second seat.

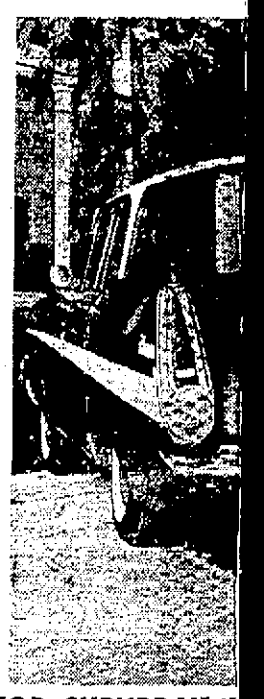

Both the second and third seats in Plymouth Suburbans fold conveniently into the floor for additional cargo space. This is a unique feature in 9-passenger models where previously it was necessary to leave the third seat cushion and back cushion in the garage when this area was desired for cargo.

On 9-passenger models the rear window rolls into the tail gate and is electrically controlled.

• • • •

REAR WINDOWS of 6-passenger models are lowered manually into the tail gate. The tail gate is hinged and counterbalanced by a torsion bar which does away with the need for exposed hinges and supports which cut down the tail gate entrance.

An inside concealed luggage compartment with lock is available on all six passenger Suburbans, the spare being mounted in the right rear quarter panel, as it is on the three-seat models. The fuel tank of all Suburban models is mounted in the left rear fender.

POWERED TO THE WESTERN WAY OF LIFE

"Our Fiesta leads a double life!"

Jane: Gee, I'm glad Oldsmobile builds a station wagon.

Jim: Me too! Our Fiesta's like two cars in one.

Jane: I'll bet you never guessed how much help it would be with your week-end chores.

Jim: I'll admit that. But I never dreamed how much you'd use the Fiesta. When you drove up to the Club the other day, half the membership stopped to look.

Jane: Are you sure it was the Olds they were looking at?

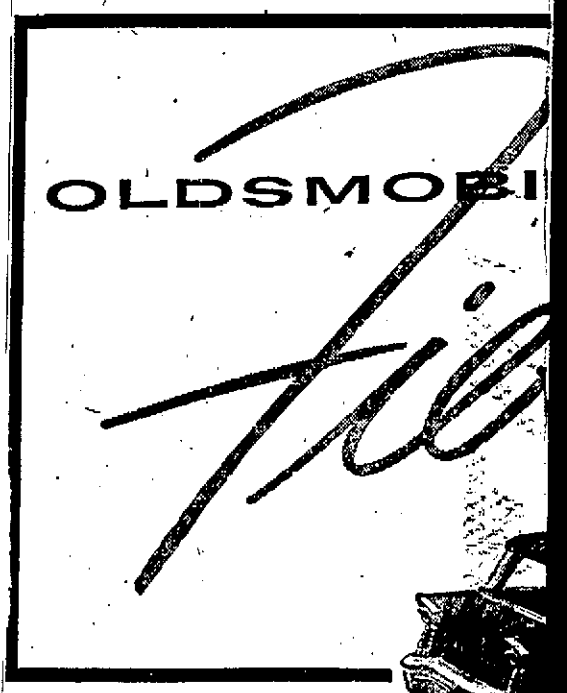

Jim: Must be. People stop to admire the Fiesta even when I'm driving it. What a honey. It's got the looks. It's got the Rocket Engine. It's got the ride. And it's got the utility. Why anyone would want anything but an Olds Fiesta is beyond me.

Jane: I don't know, Jim, but I'm tickled pink we've got ours!

BOOK REVIEWS

The Human Side

WALTER SCHELLENBERG

First-hand details of Hitler's last days make fantastic reading in "The Labyrinth," the memoirs of Mr. Schellenberg, who was the Nazi leader's Secret Service chief (Harper, $4.95). Here, too, are bared for the first time Nazi espionage tricks that shrink into insignificance the imaged plots of leading fiction writers. A book worthy of the most discriminating reader's attention.

HOWARD SWIGGETT, whose technique for telling a story already has been proved, dwells on the human side of Big Business in a thoroughly satisfactory new novel, "The Durable Fire" (Houghton Mifflin, $4). That the book is the latest selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club is understandable. Here is shown the power of lasting love and friendship in the work-a-day world; the values that exceed the value of the dollar. It is the story of the men at the top of a great American business and their struggle for individual power, and the author indicates without being saccharine that some ordinary things such as honesty and sincerity still are winners in the long run. Also as the story moves to a climax that is exciting without being explosive the point is driven home that if a man wants to get atop the heap he should start by marrying a woman who loves and understands him. The main character of the story is Stephen Lowry, who leaves government service in Europe to take a job with Continental Industries Corp. in New York City. To America he brings his bride, Rosalie, who had fled her native Estonia to join the Norwegian Resistance. As Stephen forges ahead in his job he and his wife overcome numerous prejudices and pitfalls, and they manage to keep their sense of the fun to be had in life through it all. There are many threads to the story, such as the search that Rosalie keeps up for her mother and sister, missing since 1940; the friendship of Stephen and a college friend associated with him in his job who turns out to be something less than honest. And before the writing ends all the threads are accounted for. Altogether, it is a splendidly written tale and one that holds constant interest. The educated, cultured characters are a delight.

CAPSULE REVIEWS of newest books:

"A PECULIAR PIECE OF DESERT" by Lulu Rasmussen O'Neal (Westernlore Press, Box 41073, L. A., $7.50): About 25 miles north of Palm Springs, in a series of valleys surrounded by mountains, lies a strange desert—the Morongo Basin. Here, for the first time, in a book whose edition is limited to only 450 copies, is told the fabulous past of this desert of Joshua trees and cholla cactus, and its future (thousands of its acres are now being settled). As fascinating a bit of Californiana as will come your way, skillfully researched and nicely told, a book worthy of the best California libraries.

"A WOMAN DOCTOR LOOKS AT LOVE AND LIFE" by Dr. Marion Hilliard (Doubleday, $2.95): The publisher's blurb says that this book tells women what they should know about being female, and the publisher is right. Everything is here, from a woman and her first baby to the menopause and old age, and it's written in a language that any layman can understand.

"CLOSE TO COLETTE" by Maurice Goudeket (Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, $4): Colette gained fame as one of France's great 20th century writers with her spicy, racy stories in which Gigi and Claudine, French girls, cut a wide swath. This book by a lifelong friend gives an intimate portrait of Colette and her own colorful, eventful life.

"DON CAMILLO TAKES THE DEVIL BY THE TAIL" by Giovanni Guareschi (Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, $3): Mr. Guareschi introduced one of fiction's most lovable characters some years ago in "The Little World of Don Camillo." Don Camillo has returned several times since. Here he becomes embroiled with communists, but those who have learned to know and love him need no assurance that he handles the situation like a marine—and with quaint humor to boot!

"THE POPE SPEAKS" edited by Michael Chinigo (Pantheon, $4.50): Prepared with the cooperation of the Vatican Archives, this book brings together in a carefully and lucidly organized structure the most important pronouncements of the Holy Father on the many urgent issues confronting mankind today.

ARTIST LEONARD BROOKS

BRIDGING THE gap between purely technical and elementary approaches—with some of the thinking processes which are at the foundation of all creative art—Leonard Brooks has come up with a down-to-earth how-to book for the man or woman who'd like to be a part-time painter in "Watercolor—A Challenge" (Reinhold, $12.50). Brooks, a Canadian artist of note now living in Mexico, takes beginners through the various steps in watercolor, casein and wax crayon, demonstrating that there are no superficial tricks or simple short cuts. He uses more than 200 reproductions of his own work, many of them in full color, to make his text easy to follow. Undoubtedly one of the best books of its kind, beautifully printed and bound.

"GOLD IN THEM HILLS" by Phil Stong (Doubleday, $3.50): Undoubtedly the last important work by the author of the best-selling "State Fair" and many other books, before his recent untimely death, this one is a concise, accurate history of the Gold Rush but without the reverence that most historians have accorded this great event in California history. End papers are maps of the Gold Rush country.

Six Fine Homes Open to Public Viewing Sunday

Six outstanding homes in Long Beach will be visited next Sunday in the annual home tour co-sponsored by the Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Long Beach Architects Assn.

Reservations are open to the public and may be made at the Junior Chamber office in the Wilton Hotel Arcade; from any Jaycee or at the homes on the day of the tour. They also may be made with members of Chi Alpha Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

Proceeds from the tour will be used in financing city-wide charitable projects of the Junior Chamber of Commerce during the year.

The six homes will be open from 12 noon to 6 p.m. Outstanding examples of contemporary architectural design by Long Beach architects will be the theme of the tour.

Homes to be presented are those of:

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Moore, 1105 La Dera Dr., in the Bixby Knolls area.

Dr. and Mrs. William Casselberry, 852 East Ocean Blvd.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Grisham, 5567 Lonna Linda Dr., in the Park Estates area.

Dr. and Mrs. Martin Garron, 1465 La Perla, in the Park Estates area.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Tarre, 1118 Burlinghall Dr., in the Bixby Knolls area.

Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Gatov, 5620 Naples Canal, in the Naples area.

DR. CASSELBERRY HOME
The outstanding home of Dr. and Mrs. William S. Casselberry at 852 E. Ocean Blvd. in one of six homes to be presented on the tour. The home carries out a Japanese theme with many fine objects of Oriental art. The living room and patio garden overlook the beach and harbor.

MITZI, WHO IS HUNGARIAN, has always had an Oriental look about her, and with makeup she becomes the prettiest Japanese ever. Josh Logan is directing both "Sayonara" and "South Pacific."

"I had 'South Pacific' in the back of my mind, but I made an appointment with Josh for the other picture — although he didn't know it.

"Jack (her husband, Jack Bean) and I found Josh very happy, and he told us why: 'We've just signed our Japanese girl.' Then he asked what I wanted to see him about.

"I answered: 'I'd love to play Nellie Forbush.'"

Mitzi confessed that she said it because she didn't know what else to say to hide her disappointment.

"Josh stroked his chin and said: 'I don't suppose you would test for it.'

"Test!" answered Mitzi. "I'll shave my head for it."

* * * *

LOGAN TOLD HER then that most of the big stars interviewed so far didn't want to test. He added: "Are you sure you don't want us to look at your films?"

"Absolutely not," answered Mitzi, "because I've never been Nellie Forbush in any of them."

The test was set up and, as Mitzi describes it, it couldn't have come at a worse time.

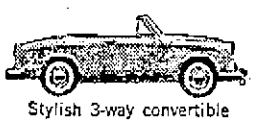

Lively Hillman Husky

Roomy Station Wagon Does Double Duty at Low Cost

The British-built Hillman Husky has a split personality: with the back seat folded down, it's a hefty cargo-carrier with 44 cu. ft. capacity. With the seat in place, it's a comfortable, family-big sedan. Either way, it offers luxury of style, construction and performance at amazingly low cost.

The Husky has power to spare, handles like a dream, responds to your gentlest command, stretches gas to amazing distances. Enjoy a free demonstration at your Hillman/Sunbeam Dealer's. And if you're planning a European trip, ask him about the low-cost Rootes Travel Plan.

SURROUNDED BY MALES

She's Woman Judge for Navy

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It may be a man's world, but the Navy appointed a woman to judge the conduct of its sailors.

Lt. Comdr. Mary Lou McDowell of Bradford, Pa., is the first woman in naval history to be appointed a law officer, the counterpart of a judge in civilian life. Although law officers do not render decisions as to the guilt or innocence of a defendant, they do rule on all legal technicalities that arise during a trial.

This is not the first time she has come into prominence. In the famous Abraham Chasanow case of 1953 she was Navy counsel to the hearing board. Chasanow was accused of security violations but was cleared after extensive and widely publicized hearings. In the motion picture "Three Brave Men," based on the Chasanow case, she was portrayed by actress Nina Foch in the role of Mary Jane McCoy.

THE SLENDER, attractive lawyer is highly respected by her coworkers—all men. She says she enjoys working with men and knows of no cases of prejudice against her because of her sex.

Mary Lou graduated from Wilson College in Chambersburg Pa., where she was president of the student body and played on the girls' basketball and hockey team. She decided to become a lawyer almost by accident.

During her undergraduate work she became interested in the problems of juvenile delinquents. She was disappointed to find that no American schools had a sufficient graduate program in that field. Her brother Tom, who was a budding lawyer, convinced her that through the study of law she could satisfy her desire to make a contribution in this field.

AT THE UNIVERSITY of Pennsylvania Law School, she became a member of the John Marshall Law Club, and distinguished herself by becoming the first woman cases editor of the unievrsity law review. She is a member of the Supreme Court bar and the Pennsylvania and McKean County Bar Associations.

Mary Lou is buying her own home in Annandale, Va., and shares it with an old Navy friend, Ann Silers. The two wom are also partners in a small dress shop on the outskirts of Washington.

Most of her spare time is spent working around her house and garden, where she is usually pestered by her two dogs.

She enjoys eating, but not the cooking that goes along with it. However, she admits to broiling the best steaks in the Washington area and serving an exciting dish of chicken with wine sauce.

FOR RELAXING, Mary Lou reads mysteries and is a great fan of Perry Mason. She says she has picked up many good legal approaches from the famous fictional lawyer.

In civilian clothes, she leans towards suits. Says she doesn't care too much for "frilly things." Around the house she likes to relax in pedal-pushers and shirts, or in jeans if she is working in her garden.

She likes parties and getting together with her friends for a song fest.

She likes to tell the story about the time during World War II that a storm came up and all the ships in the harbor at Portland, Me., were sent to sea. The commander of a submarine in the harbor invited Mary Lou and a friend to be his guest at the bottom of the sea during the storm. The three were joined by a fourth and proceeded to play bridge until the storm subsided.

MOTOR SPORTS

Writer Finds Drivers Pick Up Characteristics of Their Cars

By PAUL WALLACE

The sports car driver has been analyzed in an entertaining story by Tom Armstrong in the current issue of "The Reporter" magazine.

Armstrong classes the average sports car sport as a "debonair gentleman in his thirties or forties" distinguished by a "tight little cap over an unwrinkled brow."

He notes that the enthusiast is regarded generally by drivers of American sedans "with the suspicion reserved for the faintly subversive and those out of touch with the Saturday Evening Post."

Armstrong's theory — not an original one—is that national characteristics are reflected in sports cars and that American drivers of imported cars tend to pick up these characteristics in the machines they own.

* * * *

THE WRITER says that American attempts to make acceptable sports cars since the depression "have largely foundered on the shoals of comfort and convenience" which the enthusiasts deplore.

German car drivers are "mature and careful," French are "abandoned and volatile" and Italians are the "most immature showoffs, the most reckless and happy-go-lucky motorists still on earth," according to The Reporter.

British sports cars demand the qualities of "Hardiness, Fortitude and Pluck" and their owners take pride in moving "about the world in no more comfort than Drake or Raleigh or even Sir Lancelot enjoyed." He adds:

* * * *

"MANY AN ASPIRING young man who feels his importance inadequately recognized makes the interesting discovery that for the price of a Ford he can acquire the exalted status symbol of an MG-A which will convey him into the fellowship of princes and sybarites, the worldly-wise and successful — people like himself.

"Of course this society is somewhat admixed with gate crashers whose motivation is obviously insecurity, but what party isn't nowadays?"

We don't necessarily subscribe to all the things Armstrong says but we feel he says them rather well.

THE LONG BEACH Model T Ford Club plans to tour en caravan to the Newport Beach Buffalo Ranch today, leaving South St. and Lakewood Blvd. at 10 a.m.

Next Sunday, the group will drive its gleaming old machines to the California Youth Authority detention home in Norwalk to let the boys there look over the antiques.

Last week, incidentally, a member of the group, Otis Clinton, arrived here from his home in Seattle, Wash. He drove his T all the way down the coast.

A PAIR OF MOTORCYCLE events are scheduled for the area today—an amateur English hillclimb in the Coyote Hills on Hwy. 39 two miles north of Buena Park and professional TT races at the Los Angeles Speedway, 182nd St. and Vermont Ave. in Torrance.

The hillclimb will run most of the day and the TT will start at 2 p.m. with the time trials earlier.

Next Sunday, amateur scrambles competition will center at San Pedro's Nail Flats area just west of the San Pedro Drive-In Theater on N. Gaffey St.

A 5-HOUR NAVIGATIONAL rally called the Hill and Gully Rully is scheduled to start at 8:15 a.m. next Sunday from Sears parking lot in Santa Monica. Open to all, it is sponsored by the Santa Monica Four-Cylinder Club.

On the same day, the Austin-Healey Owners Club will run their Sir Walter Rally, also a straight navigational event, from the same parking lot at the same time.

Big Game Toll Reported Heavy

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP)—Latest figures showed 3,667 moose and 180 caribou bagged by hunters in the 1956 season in Newfoundland, and the reports did not include returns from all the 6,000 hunters. Others were urged to fine a return, whether they made kills or not.

How much is spent in U.S. restaurants each year?

About $12 billion, representing approximtely one-fifth of the American food dollar. There is one restaurant for every 704 Americans.

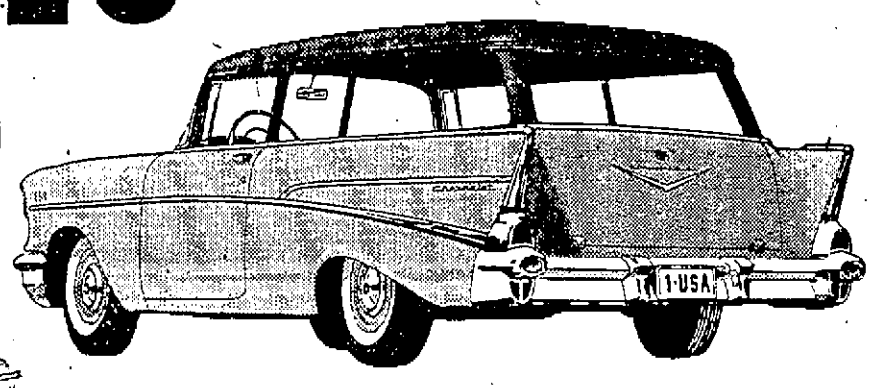

Pop Gets Day Off When Baby is Born

LA MESA, Calif. (UP)—School officials agree that all-night floor pacing by new fathers constitutes unusual mental strain.

The trustees have voted to grant a one-day leave of absence with pay to male school teachers on the day following the birth of their child.

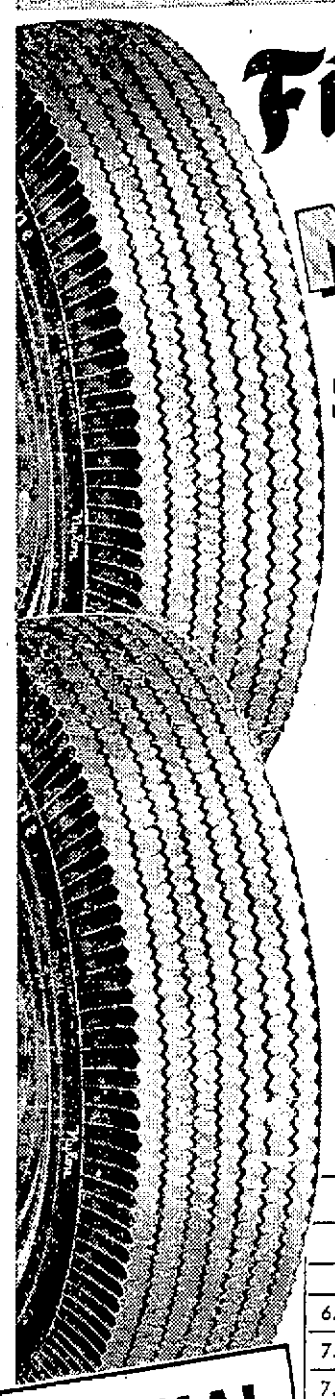

"A teacher is not in condition to teach effectively on the day following (the birth), yet financial pressure usually prevents his remaining at home if a deduction in pay is to result," the trustees held.

Her Hair Sets Mood

Susan Harrison is a girl of many moods. The Bronx youngster, only 18, won a movie role in "Sweet Smell of Success" for United Artists. She has a different hair style for every occasion and change of mood—and it's all accomplished with nothing more than a comb and brush.

SULTRY—With hair swept forward on one side and back on the other, Susan has become a sultry siren.

SOPHISTICATED—For dates and formal affairs, she pulls back her hair tightly into bun or French knot.

SERENE—As a tree-climbing tomboy, Susan lets her hair fall loose, gaining that feeling of freedom.

MERCURY WAGONS SHOW SLEEK STYLING

Hardtop styling is achieved by Mercury in its exciting new station wagon. A lone, canted center pillar on each side, gives picture window visibility and style. Windows wrap around at the back, and the rear window rolls down into the tail-gate, eliminating the cumbersome lift-gate and adding open-car ventilation to closed car protection. Mercury station wagons offer "passenger car" riding comfort featuring the industry's first air-cushion rear suspension. A special station wagon series includes six models of 4-door 6 and 9-passenger and 2-door 6-passenger wagons. Ten inches longer than current wagons, the new Mercurys also are lower and wider and roomier inside for passengers and have more cargo carrying capacity. This Colony Park 9-passenger station wagon has simulated grained wood exterior trim. A choice of powerful engines is offered—a Turnpike Cruiser 290 hp. V-8 or a Safety-Surge 255 hp. V-8. Harbor Lincoln-Mercury, Long Beach dealership at 1633 American Ave., has the Mercury wagons on display.

Drop Power Emphasis

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP) — The auto makers' decision to de-emphasize power, speed, engine size and acceleration may have come at an awkward time for some car companies.

Car engines generally are going to be bigger in 1958; they will develop more horsepower. Several, rather than just a few, will turn up in excess of 300 horsepower. The planning for these larger engines, with quickened acceleration as well as more power began two years and more ago.

That was before the industry even thought of easing off the emphasis on power and the ability of the engines to accelerate from a standing start to 60 miles an hour in a matter of seconds.

• • • •

OF COURSE the car makers never have said or intimated they considered reducing power output; they said they wanted more emphasis on safety, reliability and comfort. Undoubtedly these attributes properly will be credited to the new engines by the very fact they will have the capacity for quick acceleration, substantial reserve power and sound design.

But, if they are to be consistent, the car makers will not even talk about engine power and acceleration. In fact, many of them may not even disclose the actual horespower of their 1958 models. Ford followed that policy with its revived "Continental Mark II model.

Chrysler's New Yorker and Imperial series had 325 horsepower at 4600 revolutions per minute in their 1957 models. Rated at 300 horespower were Cadillac and Lincoln and some Buick models.

• • • •

AT THE OTHER END of the price scale there were some Chevrolets with 283 horsepower at 6200 rpm; Fords with 245 horsepower at 4500 rpm, and Plymouths with from 215 to 4400 to 290 horsepower at 5400 rpm.

Besides the higher powered engines, unitized construction, in which chassis and superstructure are welded together, will appear in at least one more line of cars next year; so, too, will air suspension and fuel injection.

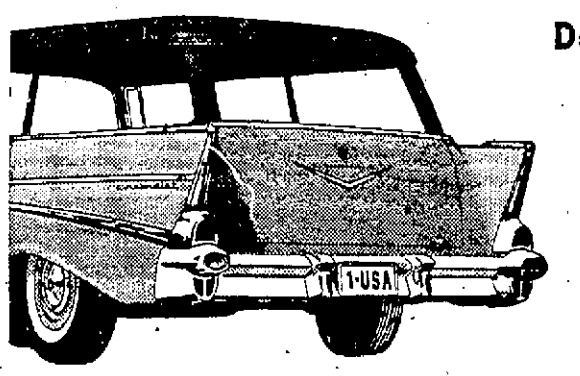

Unitized construction currently is a feature of American Motors' cars. Its advocates claim it contributes to increased motoring safety. However, it involves costly retooling. Both Nash and Hudson had it before they joined forces to become American Motors.

SAFETY FILM COMING

Warner Bros. 6-foot-8 star, Clint "Cheyenne" Walker, will be seen on the screen of the Crest, Imperial and United Artists Theaters for one week beginning June 26, in a short subject depicting dangers of the Old West vs. highway menaces of today. With Walker above are Earl F. Campbell (left), managing director of the California Traffic Safety Foundation —for whom the short was produced—and William T. Orr (right) Warner Bros. producer.

U. S. TIRES GET SEVERE TEST

Each test car at Lancaster, Calif., proving grounds averages 760 miles per day of city, suburban and country driving. Normal day will find U. S. Rubber test car traveling from downtown Los Angeles through cities, suburbs, across surrounding mountains and through desert conditions. Here two test drivers take time out for lunch near Red Rock Canyon. Johnny Gillette Tire Co. at 3910 Cherry Ave. is the local distributor for the U. S. Rubber line.

Quicker Stops Made With New Type Tire

A new passenger tire designed to keep a car steadier on turns and stop it 25 per cent quicker on wet roads is the U. S. Royal Safety 8. It is exceptionally cool-running at "turnpike speeds."

"Advances in rubber compounding, textile processing and chemical bonding make this the best performing tire of its type we have ever built," says Johnny Gillette, president of Johnny Gillette Tire Company here. "All parts of the tire share the strains equally due to a new molding technique.

"The tread compound is more resistant to abrasion, which means more mileage, and a new tread pattern with three times as many wiping edges means faster stops on wet surfaces and increased resistance to sideways skid.

"At 30 miles an hour on very slippery wet pavement, for instance, the Safety 8 stops a car 19 feet sooner and gives 19 per cent greater resistance to sideslip than conventional tires. Tests also show a high degree of stability and response for the new tire, both on turns around street corners and on the long, sweeping curves typical of today's turnpikes."

The Safety 8 is being made in 14-inch and 15-inch sizes and in tubeless and tubed constructions. A new compound for the lining of the tubeless types makes it 35 per cent more airtight. The tubeless version is standard equipment on 1957 cars.

Permanente Pays

OAKLAND—The Permanente Cement Co. board of directors declared a quarterly dividend of 13½ cents a share, payable July 31, 1957, to stockholders of record July 12, 1957.

Calif. Federal Dividend Due

The Board of Directors of California Federal Savings and Loan Association have declared the 62nd consecutive dividend on all types of savings accounts, it was reported by J. Howard Edgerton, president. This payment continues the unbroken record of dividends since the organization of the association in Los Angeles in 1926.

Edgerton further declared the dividend payment will be made at the current annual rate of 4 per cent on June 30, and that dividends on savings accounts are being paid four times a year beginning July 1. The payment is expected to be in excess of $3,000,000, making the largest in the association's history.

California Federal now has four offices serving Southern California. Its head office is at 5680 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, with other offices in Reseda, West Los Angeles and Lakewood, and a fifth office is slated for opening July 1, at 1528 N. Vermont Ave., near Hollywood Blvd.

LINCOLN

UNMISTAKABLY...THE FINEST IN THE FINE CAR FIELD

Here in the West, fine car owners have a new favorite in convertibles. For only Lincoln gives you such long, lovely styling . . . such effortless handling . . . and the most complete array of power luxuries in any fine car.

It's with a distinct note of pride that we tell you this is the biggest selling convertible in Lincoln's 36-year history . . . not only here, but all over the country. In fact, wherever you go, you see more and more new Lincolns. And when you talk to a new Lincoln owner, he'll give you these good solid reasons why:

Just take styling as an example. From distinctive Quadra-Lite Grille to canted rear blades, Lincoln is one long sweep of clean, majestic fine car beauty. Again and again, proud owners tell us how their new Lincolns are invariably the object of many long and longing looks wherever they drive.

And speaking of driving . . . Lincoln is the most effortless-driving car on the road. Everything you touch turns to power. Even vent windows and door locks can be electrically operated, and in the convertible a self-locking top fastens securely into place at the touch of a fingertip.

Yes, if you've fallen in love with this one, you're in good company. Now isn't it time we talked about your being in the best company . . . as a Lincoln owner? Stop in, any time, and drive one as though it were your own.

Leth Eat!

GRANDMA was busy preparing Sunday dinner and Caren, 3, was getting a vocabulary lesson from her in an effort to straighten out the child's lisping speech.

As Grandma opened a can of apple sauce, Caren told her: "I like apple thauthe!"

Patiently Grandma tried to explain, for the umpteenth time, that in order to say "sauce" you must hold your tongue behind your teeth, not between them.

With this remark, the lesson was over for the day because Caren snapped back with: "I don't wanna thay it, I jutht wanna EAT it!"—AUDREY R. CORBETT, 4759 Premiere Ave., Long Beach, 8, Calif.

Doggone It!

I WATCHED her return a badly damaged book to the librarian.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but my dog got hold of it. How much do I owe?"

The librarian began filling out a small card. "Name? Address?" And the woman answered her firmly.

Then: "Name of book, please?"

The woman hesitated, face flushed. "It is 'Anyone Can Train a Dog'."

DEAR MISS RULE: I would appreciate your analysis of PHILLIPS. My grandfather came from England. —B. H. H., Harbor City.

B.M.H.: Phillip, a popular given name in ancient England, was used in memory of St. Philip the Apostle. Long ago, its Greek source-name meant "lover of horses." The Phillips ancestry begins with Simon, son of Philip, King of Kent, England, in the late 13th century. His descendants used the surname Phillips instead of "Son of Philip." The family coat-of-arms had a black rampant lion on a gold shield. The Phillips owned Picton Castle in Herefordshire. Nicholas Phillips came from England to Weymouth, Mass., about 1632. (For Mrs. W. M., Long Beach, the Phillips of Scotland are descendants of the English family.)

Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for analysis and brief genealogy, for publication in this column.

SURVIVOR

Chained to an uprooted pole, a melancholy donkey stands amid a wrecked farmhouse at Robecco Pavese, some 30 miles south of Milan, Italy. The house was destroyed when a tornado ripped through three villages in the area, killing five persons and injuring 80 others. Nearly all of the homes in the villages were damaged or destroyed by the twister, which brought new misery to northern Italy, already ravaged by disastrous floods.—(UP Photo)

Popularity of the Bookmobile service of the Long Beach Public Library is seen in waiting line. Wide variety of books is brought to its borrowers.

Shakespeare Tours the City

By Vera Williams

SHAKESPEARE jaunts about Long Beach—and so do Dickens, Thackeray, Hemingway, Saroyan, Steinbeck and Pearl Buck.

So do a flock of dictionaries, encyclopedias, magazines, and how-to volumes.

Bookmobile service, established in July 1944 by the Long Beach public library, is considered one of the library's most valued services.

CARRYING 3,000 volumes—books and magazines—the bookmobile sallies out six days a week to take books to persons who do not live near the main public library or its branches.

Here is the bookmobile schedule:

Monday, 2:30-5:30, Lakewood and Stearns.

Tuesday, 2-5 p. m., Coolidge and Long Beach Blvd.

Wednesday, 1:30-5 p. m.; Williams and Willard.

Thursday, 2-5 p. m., 68th and Obispo.

Friday, 2:30-5:30 p. m., Long Beach Blvd and Del Amo.

Saturday, 2:30-5 p m., Magnolia and Wardlow.

Beulah Nelson and Mildred Harrington are bookmobile librarians. Clerks are Josephine Macintire, Fred West, George Harris. Jennie McCray is coordinator.

Books and magazines are issued under the usual library rules. Any Long Beach public library card is good on the bookmobile. Books and magazines from the bookmobile may be returned to the bookmobile, or to any local public library. On the other hand, books or magazines from any local public library here may be returned to the bookmobile.

There are a shelf of classics, a shelf of good reference books, such as atlases, dictionaries, encyclopedias; a Young Moderns shelf; a teenager shelf. The bookmobile has an excellent section for children.

CURRENT FICTION, of course, is most greatly in demand. Adventure, travel and mystery books also are high on the list, with demand also for biographies, and books on music and the arts.

Requests may be made for volumes not usually carried in the bookmobile.

Because there are many new homes in the areas served by the bookmobile, it carries an especially high percentage of how-to-do-it volumes: books telling about building, repairing, gardening, decorating, child-rearing, entertaining.

"You bring the library to us!" is the thankful greeting of many who would not be able to get library books if it were not for the bookmobile.

BOOKMOBILE librarians and clerks get on friendly terms with the readers they serve and know most of them by name.

Children often bring their pets to the bookmobile so the librarians and clerks may meet and admire them. (One youngster recently brought a pet King snake, which wasn't as welcome as most dogs or cats.)

One young father habitually brings a clothes basket and carries it home filled with books for every member of the family.

Stage coach with mail makes wet trip. Santa Barbara to San Buenaventura. During days of Spanish control, mail service to East took four months.

CALIFORNIA YESTERDAYS

Mail Went Through--But How?

By Clarence Bernard Propes

COL. John O. Wheeler, merchant and Los Angeles postmaster, almost called the Post Office Department official out on the field of honor. The official had criticized the colonel for dumping mail in a wash tub and letting customers fumble for their own letters.

That year, 1848, the Los Angeles mail was moved from a wash tub to a soap box, neatly divided into compartments. The postmaster had other things to worry about: conducting auctions, superintendent schools. and making political speeches. He gave the mail only a casual sorting. The postal duties were light, but so was the pay.

Under the Spanish, the postal service was in the hands of the military. Soldiers were couriers and they were kept busy. They were allowed only an hour for each stop.

The job of postmaster was not a political plum, since there probably were no more than 20 literate people in the whole Southland. The postmaster received 8 per cent of the receipts and he earned about 10 pesos a year.

THE SERVICE was far from speedy. People were gratified, even amazed, when they received letters mailed from the East only four months before and were pleased to find an Eastern paper only a year old.

When the Americans took over there may have been an improvement, but it was barely detectable.

The service was still in the hands of the military and a system was established to speed the mail between San Francisco and San Diego. Soldiers started at either end and met in San Luis Obispo where they exchanged pouches and returned. They were allowed two weeks for the trip.

In 1848 a regular mail service was established on the Pacific Coast. A letter to or from the Atlantic Coast cost 40 cents, while mail on the Pacific Coast cost 12½ cents.

THE SOLDIERS finally were relieved of the mail-carrying duties and ships began to carry it. Wind and weather sometimes meant a letter could travel from San Francisco to San Diego in three days, but at times it took a week or more.

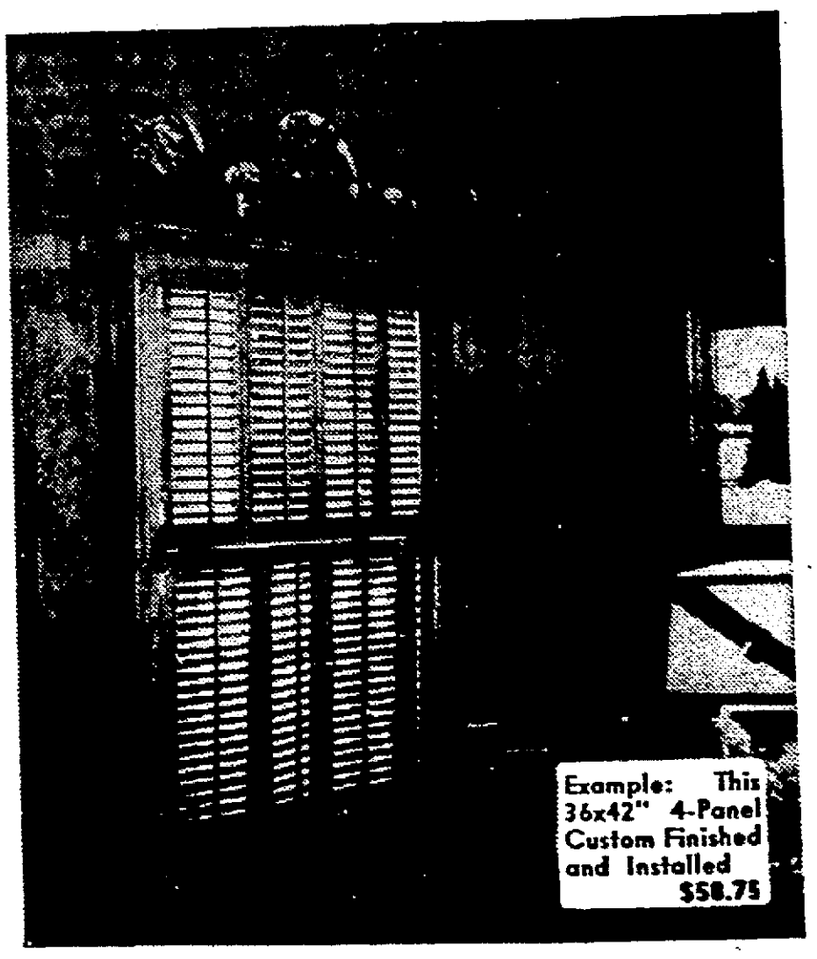

In 1858, an overland route was established with stagecoaches carrying the mail. The route ran from St. Louis to Los Angeles and then to San Francisco. The first run took only 20 days and Los Angeles newspapers praised the speed. Since their news was more fresh than that in San Francisco, they took on sophisticated airs.

In 1884, the first post office in Long Beach was opened in the store of W. W. Lowe at 18 Pine Ave. Washington sent him $3 worth of stamps and he was in business. The mail was brought from Wilmington by a neighbor who made a daily trip with butter and eggs.

THREE YEARS LATER a post office was built on Pine Ave. between 1st St. and Ocean Blvd. The postmaster paid $5 per month ground rent. His pay was about $1,000 a year—if business was good.

In 1903, the postal receipts in Long Beach were $16,888. In 1956, the total was $4,482,000. And the San Diego-San Francisco mail trip takes one day, not four.

BEAUTIFUL HOMES

Southland takes its readers into a different, attractive Long Beach area home each week.

Break With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Young Republicans Federation broke with President Eisenhower yesterday on the Girard case, federal aid to education, right-to-work laws and military aid to Yugoslavia.

The actions were taken at a convention attended by more than 1,500 delegates.

The subjects came up in the course of adoption of a platform which in other aspects generally supported Eisenhower policies, including civil rights.

The convention, by a roll-call vote of 338 to 254, adopted a minority resolution which made no specific reference to the case of 21-year-old GI William S. Girard but obviously referred to it.

THE MODEST MOORE

NEW YORK — Garry Moore believes a TV star's family life is his own business.

"I don't mention my boys very much," he says, "because I think it's difficult being the son of a public person." He was thinking of Mason, 17, and Garry, 14. "People react in two ways—they make things too easy for the boy—or too hard."

Crew-cut Garry appreciates the good intentions of wellwishers . . . yet consider the incident in a town where Mason might have entered prep school.

GARRY MOORE

"A police official came up to me while I was there with my boy," Garry recalled. "He said, 'Look, now, any time your boy gets in any kind of trouble around here, you come tell me and I'll fix it.'

"That was an invitation to him to get away with anything he could!"

Garry Jr. discovered his father's fame quite young. Leaping to the door when the doorbell rang, he would proudly announce to deliverymen, messengers or anybody, "My daddy is Garry Moore!" Scoldings didn't stop him. But one experience did.

After announcing his exalted ancestry to one boy he met, the other boy quietly said, "My name is Tony Hope and my father is Bob Hope."

* * * *

GARRY HIMSELF never finished high school.

"I left school to finish a play in Baltimore with F. Scott Fitzgerald," Garry relates. "I was so dumb I didn't know he was one of the writers of the age.

"He was already pretty far gone as a dipsomaniac. I wrote the book for a Little Theater revue and his wife, Zelda, wrote some of the songs. He thought the play we were working on would make him solvent again, but although he got many friendly letters from the producers, they obviously felt they couldn't trust him any more.

"I'm not really an actor," Garry'll maintain. "Like Fred Allen and Henry Morgan and Steve Allen, I'm a writer who learned to talk a little."

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . . "Don't Print That!": A highly publicized movie was sneak-previewed in a B'way theater recently—and when the lights came up only 15 people were left in the audience.

June Havoc's dogs posed for an animal food ad; they earned more than June got for her "Studio One" job.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A Broadwayite invented a cigaret with a bourbon filter. It doesn't filter out any irritants—but who cares!

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Jerry Amerman's disgusted with calypso: "Just when you figure out what they're playing, the music stops."

Ridge Walker Now Assistant Teacher in The Theatre Here

Ridge Walker, 23, who appeared in the recent Long Beach Singers Workshop presentation of "The Desert Song," has become assistant teacher at the School of the Theater at The Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave., serving with Kathy Davis Crump, director.

Classes are open to pupils from 6 to 19 years of age. The summer session, July 1—Aug. 31, designed especially for teenagers, will be climaxed by "Aladdin and His Lamp."

Walker is appearing in Moliere's "The Prodigious Snob," the current production of the Chapel Theatre of Manhattan Beach. He will appear today at 2 p.m. with the Chapel Theater in "The Bloodstone," an original one-act play in the Accent Theater, Torrance. The group presented "The Bloodstone" Wednesday night in the fifth annual one-act play tournament in Los Angeles.

* * * *

BEGINNING his dramatic career five years ago with Palos Verdes Players, the young actor appeared in "Merry Widow" and "Streets of New York" for that group.

He appeared in "Tea and Sympathy" and "10 Nights in a Barroom" with San Pedro Theatre Arts. He danced in and did the choreography for the Chapel Theater's presentation of "Dark of the Moon."

RIDGE WALKER
Joins Theatre Staff

For two years he assisted with Palos Verdes children's classes, and the classes gave "Wizard of Oz" and "Snow White." Also for two years, he co-directed and produced children's shows in San Pedro for the South Bay Committee for Los Angeles Philharmonic Assn. These productions include "Snow White" and "The Emperor's New Clothes."

LAST SUMMER he did summer stock with the Manistee Summer Theatre in Manistee, Mich., appearing in "Othello," "Dark of the Moon" and "Solid Gold Cadillac." He assisted in the children's department, which held classes and gave eight shows in eight weeks.

Walker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Walker, 1817 257th St., Lomita.

Britain Bids for Fall Favor

WITH THE European travel year underway, indications are that Britain will attract a record number of American visitors — some 290,000 — during 1957, according to Laurie Priesack, western manager for the British Travel Assn.

Fall travel has been on the increase for several years, Priesack said, "because the public is becoming increasingly aware of the greater convenience and economy of travel at that time of year, and another factor is the great number of outstanding events offered in the fall."

The BTA spokesman listed some of them: the Braemar Games, best known of Scotland's Highland gatherings (September); the International Motor Show in London, featuring British, American and Continental cars (October); the Lord Mayor's Show (November), a display of civic pageantry dating back to 1215, and the Edinburgh International Festival of Music and Drama (August 18 to September 7).

Many travelers plan their itineraries around such events, he explained. "If you hire a car you can figure on an expense of 11 cents a mile and this includes all costs—the rental, gas, insurance — everything; and of course domestic gasoline rationing was ended in May. Railway and bus fares are equally low by American standards.

FOR THOSE looking for something different in tours, Priesack recommended the newly established "Heart of England" cruises, boat trips on inland waterways from Oxford to Birmingham. The leisurely trip takes five days, and stops are made to allow for visits at such famous places as Sulgrave Manor—George Washington's ancestral home — Leamington Spa, Warwick Castle, and the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford - on - Avon. All meals and first-class hotel accommodations are included in the cruise price which is reasonable.

The British Travel Association, which is the official government tourist board, publishes a wide range of booklets covering all aspects of travel in Britain and these are available free from your local travel agent or direct from the West Coast office of the BTA at 606 S. Hill St., Los Angeles 14.

The Cuba Story

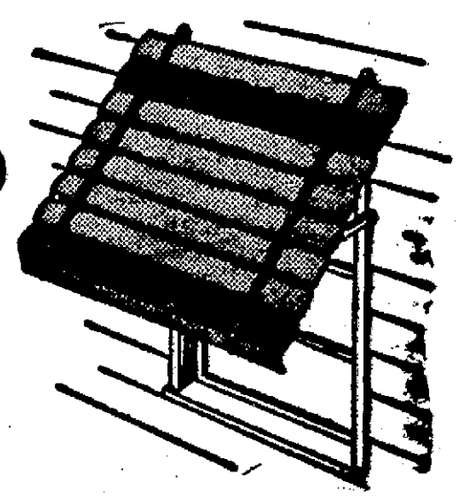

"Visit Cuba," a 32-page, multi-photo guide to tourist delights on the "Emerald Isle," and latest addition to the "Travel in the Americas Series," was published recently. It is available from the Pan American Union, Washington 6, D. C., at 15 cents per copy.

From beautiful, sun-splashed Varadero Beach into the glamour and excitement of world-famous "Tropicana" nightclub, and then for a look at the Morro Castle, ancient guardian of Havana Bay, "Visit Cuba" takes readers on a whirlwind tour of the wonders of this land where "yesterday meets tomorrow."

Sections of "Visit Cuba" tell you, briefly, of the history of Cuba, then how to get there, travel within the country, what you will see, tips on shopping (fine Havana cigars, rum, perfumes, alligator goods—to mention only a few!), and helps you plan your wardrobe and guide you in entry requirements and currency exchange. Whether imaginary or real, your trip to the Caribbean will be one which you will not soon forget when you visit Cuba.

You'd expect to pay $25.00 for average size window 3' x 4'

Front Seat to Aquatic Thrills

Facing its own private beach and also affording a "front row" view of many aquatic sports of the island, the 159-room St. Catherine Hotel continues to be a popular spot for visitors to Santa Catalina. Built in 1919, the hostelry was occupied by the U.S. Maritime Commission during World War II. The hosts, Joe and Rose Arno, who have been on the island 23 years, plan extensive remodeling of the hotel this fall, after the tourist season ends.

Guns in Mexico

The growing interest of American sportsmen in Mexican big game hunting has caused a flood of queries to reach consular offices concerning the transportation of guns.

1. Have your local police chief or sheriff write a "To Whom It May Concern" letter that he knows you and that you have no criminal record.

2. Obtain five front-view passport size (3 inches long) photos of yourself.

3. Make a list of the guns, names, serial numbers, models and calibres.

4. Take the letter, pictures and gun list to your nearest Mexican consul and he will fill out an official paper."

5. Give this form to the customs official in Mexico and he will issue the final permit.

RESORTS AND TRAVEL

Around the World With DELAPLANE

"My husband and I are making a flying trip to Lake Geneva in Switzerland in July or August. What kind of clothing, please?"

FIGURE on a climate of average 70 degrees. Sport clothing and one outfit for each of you suitable for cocktails and dinner. Dark suit for your husband. Dinner or cocktail dress for you.

Possible that you will have a few days rain. Light-weight raincoat or folding umbrella would be handy. Walking shoes. The Swiss sport is hiking around and it is usually up and down hill.

The language is French with enough English that you won't need a phrase book. French type food. Good hotels. Best buys are Swiss watches and clocks.

* * * *

"Can you tell me about applying for a passport?"

You have to be going some place. They'll ask you where and by what means. You make the application in person. Passport offices are in New York, Boston, Chicago, New Orleans, San Francisco and Washington, D. C. If you are not near any of these cities, apply to the clerk of any Federal Court. Or any State Court authorized to naturalize aliens.

You take proof of citizenship. That means a birth certificate. Take with you some American citizen who can swear he has known you for at least two years. Two photographs 2½x 2½ and $10.

Apply about four weeks in advance. If you are in a rush, you can pay a little extra — about $1 as I remember — and have your information wired to Washington and the passport airmailed to you. This takes about a week.

* * * *

"We will have a few weeks to look around after the convention in Europe. Any suggestions?"

SURE. Rent a car and drive around one country. Much more fun than the cities. I like England in the countryside the best. You can get all the information and maps you need in London, 64 St. James's St., British tourist office.

If you want a more foreign flavor: Portugal. Go to the government tourist office, though, and get maps and particularly a list of the government pousadas. There's no night life out in the country and very, very few hotels.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Calypso Holiday

The sailing of the Orient liner Orcades from Pier A, Long Beach, July 3, offers travelers the opportunity of participating in a vacation under ideal conditions. Round-the-clock activity aboard this 28,000-ton vessel ranges from an outdoor swimming pool to air conditioned public rooms with all of the amenities to be expected aboard a first-class liner.

After leaving Long Beach, the Orcades will transit the Panama Canal and a special sightseeing tour will be available.

The ship arrives at Trinidad July 12 and a vacation can be enjoyed in the tempo that prevails in this former home of the pirates. Hotel accommodations in Port-of-Spain, the principal port, vary widely, ranging from $5 to $15 per day, American plan. Port-of-Spain is a regular port of call on many steamship services and frequent air service is also available so that when the vacation period approaches an end, the holiday-seeker need have no qualms about transportation home.

Two Agencies Top Hospital Fund Goals

Two social service agencies—both members of the Community Chest—have exceeded their "fair share" goal of individual units in the $4,000,000 United Hospital Fund campaign.

First over-the-top came from the Community Chest office when the executives and employes subscribed 110 per cent of their "fair share" objective, with all employes participating. Chairman of the campaign among the employes of the Community Chest office was Mrs. Ruby Cupper.

The second social service agency to exceed its quota was the Travelers Aid Society. This group reported 102 per cent of their accepted "fair share" objective. Elsie M. Rogers, executive secretary of Travelers Aid, was chairman of the drive among employes in that office.

* * * *

THE SOCIAL SERVICE agency group is under the leadership of Joseph Bransby, general secretary of the YMCA, and Harold Arnold, head of the Boy Scouts of America of the Long Beach area.

Units included in the social service section of the employe-executive campaign are members of the Community Chest, the Chamber of Commerce, and other agencies not identified with the city or federal groups.

Early reports from the city employe division place their total at $36,679. Their next report is scheduled for next Thursday, and Barney J. Walczak, chairman, predicted this would be the largest single report of the intensive campaign.

Many other units of the employe-executive group have their campaigns under way and all are accepting the 1 per cent giving formula, which means "1 per cent of one year's wages payable over a period of three tax years."

* * * *

FIRM IN WHICH employe programs are being conducted are: All branches of the Bank of America, Bank of Belmont Shore, California Bank, Davis Furniture Co., Farmers & Merchants Bank, First Western Bank, General Telephone Co., Green Printers, Lafayette Hotel, Lomita Gasoline Co., Long Beach National Bank, Martin-Decker Corp., Mottell's & Peek, Mountain View Dairy Co., National City Bank, New York Life Insurance Co., Pacific Valves Corp., Ridings Motors Corp., Silly-Martin Contracting Co., Southern California Edison Co., Soft Water Laundry, and Hale Young Ford Co.

Most of the firms have had a long series of employes' meetings to acquaint them with the hospital program, and a majority of the campaigns are scheduled to conclude early this week.

All of these campaigns are considered "pilot campaigns" which will establish patterns of giving for the second phase of the hospital program when it will reach into all areas of employee groups not previously contacted.

Funds for Sanitarium Asked Today

Volunteers in Long Beach, Lakewood, San Pedro and Wilmington will make door-to-door solicitations this morning in the annual fund drive for the City of Hope's free sanitarium at Duarte.

The door-to-door solicitation supplements appeals made on the City of Hope Telethon, which began at 11 p.m. Saturday and continues today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. over KTLA (5).

The free sanitarium, in its 44th year of operation, treats cases of cancer, leukemia, tuberculosis and operative heart disease.

Long Beach chairman of the drive is Jack Hoffman. Lakewood chairman is Sam Morrison.

LONG DAYS AHEAD

Fourteen-year-old Ilana Lowenstein ought to be thinking happy thoughts of summer fun, parties and dancing. Instead, she tries to get used to the prospect of at least two months of complete immobility and the discomforts of traction apparatus and casts. An auto ended her summer dreams.

FEW HAPPY THOUGHTS

Summer Vacation's No Fun for Youngsters Hit by Cars

By JACK McDONALD

Six-year-old Michael A. Powers always was a bright, careful boy.

"Be careful now, grandma. Look both ways," he'd say when Mrs. Catherine Powers took him across a street. He made Mrs. Powers proud.

On June 13, Michael came home excited from kindergarten classes at the Robert Lee School. Summer vacation was here, he told grandma, and when he went back to school, he'd be a first-grader.

Michael felt so good he could not contain himself in the house at 1542 Freeman Ave. He wanted to be doing something; Mrs. Powers sent him to a neighborhood store for a loaf of bread.

* * * *

STILL BUOYED over his newly-won rank as a first-grader, he started back home. At Temple Ave. and 16th St., he forgot to look for traffic and ran out from behind a parked car.

And was struck by another.

Minutes later he was in Community Hospital, critically injured.

The next week was a long hard one, not at all like summer vacation is supposed to be. Michael had suffered internal injuries, and the doctors had to remove his spleen. His left leg was fractured too, and had to be sealed in a heavy cast.

* * * *

HE IS BACK HOME now, but he won't walk again for another six weeks. The mending process will be gradual and painful. Ugly head and scalp bruises will have to heal along with the leg and surgical incision.

Michael is one of several Long Beach children for whom Summer, 1957, ended in the frightening squeal of brakes or the frantic blare of a horn.

Ilana Lowenstein, 14, of 3166 Senasac Ave., has an even more dismal summer before her.

Ilana also was filled with the magic of summer when she was struck. It happened June 17, as she walked across Woodruff Ave., near Faust St.

Classes at Marshall Junior High had ended two days earlier, and it was time for fun. Ilana had just left a girl friend, after making plans to go swimming the next day.

* * * *

SHE DIDN'T SEE the car. The driver didn't see her. The impact threw her body up in the air. When she came down, she hit the car hard enough to dent it.

And hard enough to fracture her pelvis and right wrist and bruise her skull, face and legs.

Ilana likes to dance, but the doctors say she won't be doing any dancing for a long time. She won't leave Community for another two months. During part of that time, her body will be suspended in traction slings and pulleys. After that will come weeks in a heavy, uncomfortable cast.

If she's lucky, Ilana will be well enough by Labor Day for the Lowenstein family to go ahead with plans for a Palm Springs outing.

* * * *

LITTLE MICHAEL Wayne Hill, 3, was struck by a car June 15, as he ran out from between two other parked cars near his home at 326 E. 19th St.

Eight days later, the child still was in Seaside Hospital, a hurt, bewildered look showing he didn't understand why his head was covered with slowly healing cuts and bruises.

Two rooms down the hall, Tascara Rae Hoyle, 6, didn't understand either. She also had a badly skinned face and head, and numerous body cuts.

Tascara, of 2361 Myrtle Ave., was struck by a car as she dashed across the street against a red light June 18 at Pine Ave. and Third St.

"These children," said one hospital attendant, "are just a few. We get them all the time. These," she added grimly, "are the lucky ones."

HEAD INJURIES

Michael Wayne Hill, 3, was so severely hurt and shocked when a car hit him that eight days later he hadn't spoken a word. Toy in his lap fails to interest him.

FRETFUL SLEEP

MOURNFUL COWPOKE

It's not much fun shooting rustlers when you can't run after them. Auto victim Mike Powers, 6, won't be back on his feet for at least six weeks.

Recreation to Start at 70 Playgrounds

Supervised recreation at 50 public elementary school and 20 municipal playgrounds is scheduled here for nine weeks beginning Monday at 9 a.m.

Flag-raising ceremonies will be staged at each participating area as the annual Recreation Department program gets under way.

Veteran play directors will be on duty daily, Monday through Friday, at all areas. Hours are 9 a.m.—5 p.m.

* * * *

JACK MINAR, special events director for the Recreation Department, says this summer's program will be the most comprehensive ever offered here.

The activity list includes games, contests, city-wide sports events, play days, beach outings, track and field "Olympic games" and softball and baseball league play, handcraft, puppetry, music, swimming instruction, life saving, aquatic sports and volleyball.

* * * *

FREE SWIMMING instruction is on tap daily at Colorado Lagoon, 54th Place and Bayshore Walk, and at Bay Shore Playground, 39th Place and Ocean Blvd.

Public use of the four high school swimming pools will be conducted on a daytime and evening schedule.

Recreation Department officials last Friday registered beginning and "intermediate" class swimmers for daytime instruction at the pools.

Frances Dixon Nason, city aquatics supervisor, said "all classes were filled except beginners at Millikan pool."

Walter L. Scott, co-ordinator of school and municipal recreation, is in charge of the summer recreation program.

L.B. Firm Winner of Vision Award

First-place award in a statewide industrial vision contest has been won by the Long Beach plant of Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co.

A trophy was presented Saturday in Los Angeles by the California Optometric Assn., which is meeting in joint convention with the American Optometric Assn.

Dr. D. LeRoy Leatart, Long Beach, is the convention's general chairman. Other local optometrists attending are Drs. R. W. Anderson, D. L. Baker, S. H. Burgess, T. J. Clark, H. W. Clayson, J. A. Harris, M. E. Melton, J. E. Spencer, William Stout, Paul Wilkins and W. J. Williams.

L. B. Students to Sign Up July 1 for Summer School Sessions

July 1 will be registration day for students planning to attend summer sessions in Long Beach schools from elementary grades through City College.

Registration for elementary, junior and senior high school classes will be taken from 8 a.m. to noon in each of the local public schools where summer classes will be held.

These include Bixby, Burbank, Garfield, Longfellow and Twain Elementary Schools; Franklin Junior High School, and Polytechnic High School.

* * * *

JUNIOR AND SENIOR high school classes will be two hours in length, and pupils may take either one or two classes. All instruction will be given in the morning hours. All required subjects and most electives found in any regular junior or senior high schol session will be offered.

Hours for the elementary school classes will be 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Registration for all City College Liberal Arts classes will be held in the cafeteria, beginning at 8 a.m. July 1 for day classes, and at 6:30 p.m. for evening classes.

Registration for classes in the General Adult Division and the Evening High School will be taken in the classrooms.

* * * *

LENGTH OF THE sessions will be six weeks for Liberal Arts Division day classes and eight weeks for all others.

The Liberal Arts classes all will be held on the Lakewood campus. Adult Division day classes will be held on the Institute campus, with the exception of upholstery classes, to be given at Lee School.

Adult evening classes will be held in Polytechnic Adult scheduled meeting.

Center.

Both day and evening classes of the Business and Technology Division of City College will be given at the Institute campus. Day students may pre-register to July 1. Evening students are to enroll in class at the first

New Hanger Invention of L. B. Woman OKd

"Snap-o-hanger," a collapsible hanger for women's skirts, strapless dresses and other garments, invented by Miss Rose May Richards, 1520 Appleton St., has been accepted and approved by the gadjet jury of the Gadget-of-the-Month Club. Miss Richards was notified last week.

The gadget jury, official screening agency of the club, is composed of experts in patenting, manufacturing and marketing new inventions.

State College Summer Registration Monday

Some 4,500 students are expected to register Monday for the six-week summer session at Long Beach State College. Hours for registering will be 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

No application for admission is required of students who do not plan to earn a degree or credential at Long Beach State College.

A staff of 221 will teach courses in nearly every academic area. Instruction is available in art, English, French, Spanish, home economics, journalism, music, philosophy, speech and drama, education, psychology, health education, safety education, physical education, recreation, biological science, physical science, mathematics, industrial arts, business, economics, history, political science, social science, and sociology.

* * * *

A RECORD number of workshops will be offered by the college this summer, the majority of which will be offered in the first session. The workshops, inclusive dates, and unit values are as follows:

4 Directors Quit L.B. Youth Band

Four members of the nine-man board of directors of the Long Beach Youth Band have resigned as result of an internal squabble over the group's director, Gordon Carmen.

Carmen, recently fined for passing a bad check, has been a center of controversy in the marching band for several years.

The faction which announced this week it is pulling out of the group, has been critical of Carmen. The other five board members have supported him.

The minority group claims it has been unable to affect any "reforms" in operation of the musical group against the solid vote of the majority of the board and doesn't wish to accept responsibility for action of the whole group.

Saturday, the band's 35 teenaged members marched off with first honors in the Youth Band Group class of the annual Sheriff's Rodeo Parade at Riverside.

The band was picked over three others in the class for a trophy award, following the 2½-mile parade.

Convention Starts Here on Thursday

Bringing their mock French locomotives, their overseas caps, their drum and bugle corps and their memories of a couple of world wars, 8,500 American Legionnaires will gather here Thursday for the opening of the 39th annual state convention.

First business session of the four-day meeting will begin at 10 a. m. Thursday in Municipal Auditorium. The conclave will wind up Sunday afternoon with the election and installation of new officers.

In between, the biggest parade ever to be held in conjunction with a California Legion convention is slated to start at 1 p. m. Friday.

Lt. Gen. Robert N. Young, commanding officer of the Sixth Army headquartered at The Presidio in San Francisco, will be grand marshal of the parade.

* * * *

TWENTY-THREE bands — 14 of them from the military—will spark the four-hour march.

Fred Nessler, perennial Armistice Day parade director here, is lining up the convention procession.

Arch C. Bonzer, another Long Beach man, is general chairman of the convention, with

LT. GEN. R. N. YOUNG
The Grand Marshal

Larry Stevens president of the convention corporation.

Friday night, drum and bugle corps and motorcycle drill team competitions will be staged at Wilson High School stadium, 7th St. and Ximeno Ave. The public is invited to this demonstration.

* * * *

A FIREWORKS display is set for 10:30 p. m. Thursday at Rainbow Pier to welcome the veterans to the city.

The Commander's and President's Grand Ball will be held at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Auditorium and will feature entertainment and Burrell Ubben's band.

A midnight stage show is scheduled for 11:30 p. m. Thursday in the Fox West Coast Theater. It will include Polynesian acts and a movie.

The convention will be called to order at the initial business meeting by California Department Commander Leo W. Crawford.

Lt. Gov. Harold J. Powers is scheduled to speak at 10:30 a. m. at this meeting with the keynote speech to be delivered by Alvin Owsley, past national commander from Dallas, Tex., at 11:15.

* * * *

A MEMORIAL SERVICE will be held at 9 a. m. Sunday.

In between, bowling matches are scheduled and delegates will take deep-sea fishing trips.

In addition to regular delegates, thousands of other Legionnaires and their families will attend sessions of the convention.

Along with the regular state department conclaves, subsidiary Legion groups will hold their annual business sessions.

They include the Legion Auxiliary, Forty and Eight Society, Eight and Forty Department, Sons of the American Legion and Women Legionnaires meetings.

Registration will open Wednesday in the Auditorium.

Continental Offers Stock to Employes

Workers at the Continental Can Co. plant on Terminal Island are being offered common stock in the company at a discount of nearly 10 per cent.

The plan was authorized at the annual stockholders' meeting in April, according to Board Chairman Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Ceremony for Building at Hospital

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the $354,000, 50-bed chronic and convalescent building at Community Hospital, 1720 Termino Ave., will be held June 26 at 3 p.m.

Hale Young, hospital board chairman, will preside at the ceremonies. Scheduled speakers include Rep. Craig Hosmer, Assemblymen William Grant and Herbert Klocksiem, County Supervisor Burton Chace, Mayor George Vermillion, Chamber of Commerce President George Badenhausen and Gordon Cummings, chief of the State Bureau of Hospitals.

* * * *

THE NEW CONCRETE block, one-story structure will be built in a three-wing design and will be attached to the main hospital by a covered walk. Its design provides 14,050 square feet of space.

Each patient room has sliding-glass-door access to an individual patio. The general contractor is W. J. Esser & Sons, Santa Ana.

Cost of the building is to be shared one-third each by federal and State governments and the non-profit hospital corporation.

Chicago Airport Beam Ruins TV

CHICAGO (UP)—Residents of a section of Chicago near Midway Airport are caught in the battle of electrons.

A device to send electronic signals to pilots of planes landing at the giant airfield plays havoc with television screens, knocking off the picture on a certain channel whenever a plane approaches.

Public Notice--- This Fellow Has a Model Wife

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — Charles F. Bender, married for 28 years, grew tired of newspaper notices by husbands that disclaimed responsibility of debts contracted by their wives.

Saturday he inserted a classified add in the Illinois State Register that said:

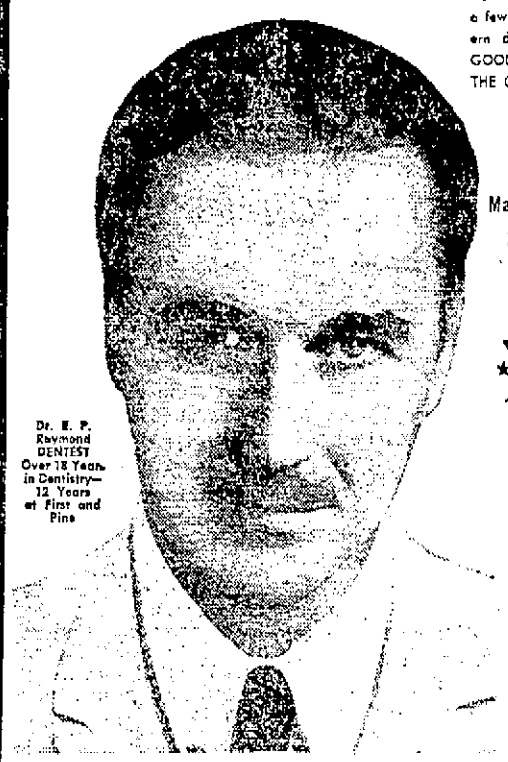

"I am responsible for all debts and obligations of my wife, Clara, both present and future, and am more than happy to be the provider for a woman who has borne me three lovely children and who, with an abundance of love and care, has made the past 28 years of married life the nicest years of my life. I wish to express my heartfelt gratitude."

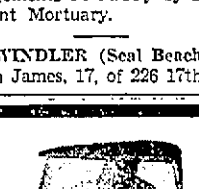

Mrs. Bender was delighted. "I think it's the nicest compliment he could have given me," she said.

Modern Dental Plates
Aided by "modern" dental plate materials and "improved techniques," used in the construction of dental plates, Dental Science has followed a "progressive" path that resulted in dental plates more natural in "appearance," better fitting and more "comfortable" to wear than thought possible a few short years ago. Ask to see samples of modern dental plates, uppers, lowers and partials. GOOD dental plates need not be expensive. THE COST IS SMALL.

Why Not File Your Negs?

Toes and negatives have something in common—they both need filing. Don't lose negatives of cute photos.

odd mixture of letters, notices, bills and assorted prints.

I'M GOING to plead now for a "file-as-you-go" system to take care of the current flood of negatives, pictures and color slides.

The first thing to get is a definite place to keep negatives. A negative file with ample drawers custom-built for your size is ideal—but we rarely live up to our ideals. So we make do what we can build or can adapt . . . for instance, a cardboard shoebox. The important thing is that when we deal with negatives, either to put them away or go looking for one, we head for one place.

Secondly, we should have uniform envelopes, something you can write on for quick identification. Camera stores have standard negative envelopes or they can be made from inexpensive manila envelopes.

FOR A VACATION TRIP, if your films are processed en route, you can carry a negative file book.

When you first examine each batch of new pictures, that's the time to discard the duds.

There are three usual filing systems — chronological, numerical, and by subject matter —but no one system pleases everybody.

By the Shutterbug

THE OPEN season of summer snapshooting is under way. Everywhere under the sun you will find its devotees pointing the familiar little box to the chorus of "Look at the camera!" as the snap! snap! and click! clicks! beat a steady tempo.

I sit here wondering and worrying: What's to become of all those negatives? Alas, some of them never fulfill their mission of producing a little image. Most of them do, however, but then what happens to them? Are they rewarded with a title, a birthday and a suitable place for retirement where they could welcome visitors in the future?

No . . . too many negatives become DPs, displaced pictures. They wait around in unmarked envelopes, jammed in with an

Outstanding New Fuchsias

By Murtha Hurley

California hybridists lead the world in creating new kinds of heat-resistant fuchsias each year.

FUCHSIAS have been popular in California since the 1850s when the plants first were introduced here from Europe. Since then, these colorful "dancing dolls" of the garden have lived through varying periods of acclaim and indifference.

Right now, fuchsias are high fashion.

The graceful flower even merits two societies here, one in the bay area, the other in Southern California, both with worldwide members. Meetings are held to stimulate interest in fuchsias and to exchange information about their culture, to learn of exciting new varieties and plan fuchsia flower shows to be held each year. Cups, prizes and ribbons galore have been won by the jewel-like plant. Even a monthly magazine is published, devoted exclusively to fuchsias.

Much of then interest in fuchsias is kept alive by California hybridists who lead the world in creating new and more beautiful varieties, each year.

Here are some of the outstanding new fuchsias for 1957, developed here in California:

BASKET VARIETIES

BLUEBIRD — A very pretty basket, displaying a new color in the trailing variety. The short tube and long pointed slender sepals are snowy white. The semi-double corolla of deepest violet blue has scalloped edges which overlap. Attached to the base of the sepals are some extra petals. As the flower matures, these petals turn a rosy hue, as does the corolla. The corolla petals stay folded, giving a trim appearance to the bloom.

FIREBALL—A large double trailing type, unusual for its many color changes as the flower matures. The short tube and broad upturned sepals are bright, carmine-tipped green. The buds and corolla are a ruddy purple with splashes of carmine at base of petals as flower matures. Some petals turn a dark bluish purple, and again change into a red of great brilliance.

FORT BRAGG — A sport of the beautiful fuchisia Enchanted. The tube and broad upturned sepals are a rose shade, the large double corolla of pale lavender rose has a bluish tinge, the petals slightly veined with rose.

Thrips are an enemy we think of particularly in regard to roses and gladioli, but actually, they infest just about everything in your garden. On roses, they prevent the bud from opening. They're so small you can scarcely see them and yet they're large enough to suck the vitality from the petals and to leave a sticky residue which causes the edges to cling together so that the rose cannot open. On gladiola sheaths, you can often see the scars or blotches caused by thrip injury and, of course, they destroy the appearance of the blossoms too.

One of the finest of the newer controls is the combination of malathion and dieldrin which is as near to being an all-purpose insecticide as I have found. Malathion acts quickly and dieldrin more slowly but lasts for a longer time.

Gladioli should be sprayed from the time they're only a few inches high and the spray should be applied deep down into the heart of the plant.

Tips on Fuchsia Culture

Fuchsias are ideal plants for Southland gardens, particularly in coast locations. They thrive in half-shade. All shade and they become leggy, have few blooms. All sun, they become stunted and bronzed, have small blooms. Good locations are on the east side for morning sun, under a tree for filtered sunshine or under lath. It is not the light, but the drying heat from direct sun rays that fuchsias object to. Also, the plants need protection from wind.

Red shades will stand the most sun. Big purples and whites require more shade, have larger blooms but fewer.

The plants require a rich, well-drained, slightly acid soil. Use 2 parts good garden loam, 1 part leaf mold, 1 part clean sand, 1 part well rotted manure. Organic fertilizer mixed with the loam is good, using about one-third.

In hot sections, it is good to line the planting hole with 1 inch of peat moss and, in summer, top mulch with 1 inch of moist peat. Avoid lime in the soil. In the ground set the plants about 3 feet apart.

The plants grow from dwarf trailing types to tall uprights 15 feet high. They can be trained as espaliers or tree shape and flourish in baskets.

Fuchsias are heavy feeders. For established plants in the ground, 4 inches of cow manure is not too much, applied in early spring. Feed often with commercial fertilizer. To get strong leafy growth in spring, use fertilizer, high in nitrogen. Later on, use super-phosphate to bring out the blooms. If potted, feeding once a week with liquid fertilizer is not too often. Fish emulsion is excellent. Fuchsias have a long period of bloom, which they can't keep up, unless fed often.

Watering is most important. Pots and baskets must be watered every day in warm weather, sometimes twice if the air is dry. Water not only the roots, give the foliage and blooms a fine spray. Don't let fuchsias in the ground dry out. When watering, send a fine sharp spray to the underside of the leaves to discourage aphids, white flies, thrips. Use a good all-purposes spray if plants become infested by chewing insects.

To prevent fuchsias in pots from becoming root-bound, repotting is necessary each year. Be careful not to disturb the roots any more than necessary. Use a slightly larger pot each year, but do not use a pot that is much larger than the previous container.

Fuchsias need to be pruned each year, late in February if the weather is mild, or in March. For baskets, cut the old growth to the edge of the pots. As branches grow, pinch out tips until you have obtained a leafy crown, then let the streamers grow. Cut back plants in the ground to about one-third of the height of the bush. Pinch back tips of the sidegrowth to form rounded, bushy plants.

Jesse Lasky Says Now's Time to Get Into Movies

By PETE MANN

For anyone who wants to break into movies, now is the time.

Talent scouts are combing the country for new faces and voices. They are searching in schools, dramatic groups and church clubs. And rewards for talent never have been higher.

These words came from one of the pioneer producers in the motion-picture industry as he visited Long Beach Saturday.

Jesse Louis Lasky, 74, winner of the first Oscar for production, received the "Humanity Award" at Wilton Hotel. Abundavita Corp. presented the scroll.

Lasky's visit coincided with publication of his autobiography, "I Blow My Own Horn." In it he records his experiences during 50 years of picture production.

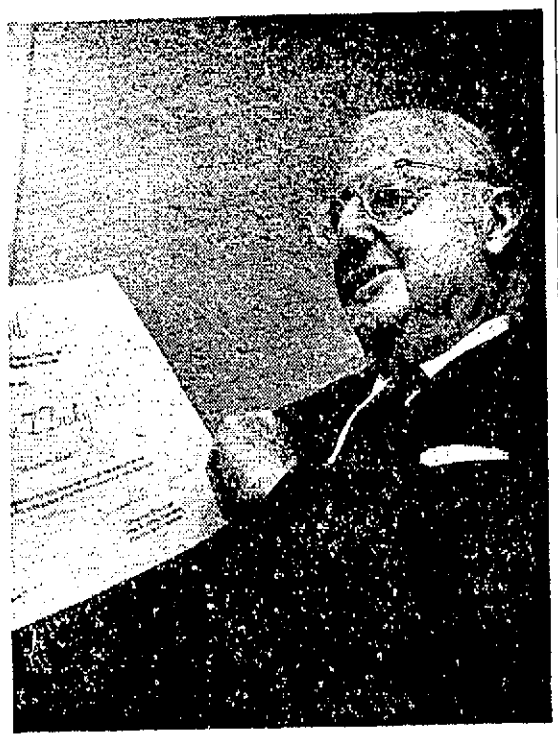

On the dust cover, an extract points up the changes of half a century. Lasky recalls he asked a cab driver to take him to Hollywood about 1910. The reply was, "Never been there before, but I'll try to find it."

Lasky says, besides the hunt for talent, moviemakers always are trying new techniques.

But most marked advance of all is "in the development of telling and staging stories." Backgrounds are becoming better than ever. A film set in Paris now invariably is shot in Paris.

Lasky said he thought films had recovered from the initial shock of soaring TV audiences. "In fact, television is helping us now."

As an independent producer, Lasky works with all major studios. At present he is producing "The Big Brass Band" with Paramount.

AWARD FOR PRODUCER

London Blitz Orphan Wed to Flier

EMPORIA, Kan. (UP) — An orphan whose rescue from the ruins of London's blitz in World War II became the subject of a book and movie was married Saturday in this quiet city.

She is Miss Barbara White, now 20, the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. White.

White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, was a war correspondent when he found the little girl in London and brought her to America. His book, "Journey for Margaret," was the basis for the movie of the same title, starring Margaret O'Brien.

Miss White married 1st Lt. Paul D. Walker, 21, Claremont, Calif. They met while students at Stanford University.

Gov. Gary's Airplane Hits Rough Air, 1 Hurt

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Governor Raymond Gary of Oklahoma and members of his party were shaken up and one woman was injured Saturday when their plane hit rough air near Texarkana, Ark.

The injured woman, Mrs. L. E. Ruble, 63, executive assistant to the governor, was admitted to Campbell Clinic here with a broken left thigh.

The governor's party was aboard an Air National Guard plane bound for the national Governor's Conference at Williamsburg, Va.

* * * *

THE PILOT, Brig. Gen. Maurice Marrs, of Oklahoma City, said the plane was flying at 7,000 feet when the accident occurred. Marrs said he was flying at an assigned altitude through a storm that "was much rougher than had been reported."

"At one time, we were caught in an updraft that shot us up 1,000 feet at a rate of 4,000 feet a minute," Marrs said. Marrs is also chief of staff to Gary.

He said it probably was the updraft that knocked Mrs. Ruble off her feet. She was in the aircraft's washroom.

"She didn't seem to be in too much pain, so we decided to fly on to Memphis," Marrs said.

* * * *

GARY SAID he was asleep in his seat and didn't know of the mishap until others in the party brought Mrs. Ruble from the washroom.

"Gee, that's a crying shame," Gary said here. "I've never had anyone injured in my aircraft in 35 years of flying."

Also on the C47 plane were Mrs. Gary and Col. Russell Cone of Tulsa, professor of air science at the University of Tulsa.

The plane left Mrs. Ruble here and hurried on to the governor's conference, scheduled to get under way Monday.

Doctors at the hospital said Mrs. Ruble probably would remain hospitalized for 10 days.

QUAKE ROCKS SOUTH MEXICO

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An earthquake caused panic in southern states Saturday.

Oaxaca, Tabasco and Chiapas all reported the temblor did no serious damage. Residents in Salina Cruz, Cocahotan, Comalcalco, and Ciudad Ixtepec fled into the streets as the earth began rocking.

Melchior Ex-Butler Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nationwide search was on Saturday for a onetime butler of Lauritz Melchior as the opera tenor and his wife identified $88,670 worth of furs and jewelry stolen from them and recovered by police.

Also sought in the $99,770 robbery at the Melchior home last Tuesday night, police said, is a dope-addicted ex-convict.

Police announced Friday the arrest of two other men and recovery of all but $11,100 worth of the loot. Robert Morgan, 39, an ex-convict, and Alfred J. Pope, 28, both of Los Angeles, were booked on suspicion of robbery.

* * * *

POLICE SAID the valuables were found in their possession.

Detective Lt. Ed Jokisch identified the two hunted men as Louis Gerald Spivak, 44, employed by Melchior as a butler 10 years ago, and Richard McFall, 38, an ex-convict and heroin addict.

Jokisch said Spivak set up the robbery, in which three bandits terrorized the Danish-born singer, his wife and two servants and left them tied with stockings and neckties found in the house. The fourth robber is believed to have waited in the getaway car.

* * * *

THE FOUR slipped into the Melchior property through a gate opened by departing guests. Operation of the gate, location of the three safes which were looted and the quantity of jewelry had remained unchanged in the decade since Spivak worked in the $200,000 hilltop mansion as butler, Jokisch said.

Melchior, his wife Kleinchen and their housekeeper, Mrs. Willa Huber, meanwhile went to police headquarters and identified the recovered property. Melchior praised "the wonderful work done by the robbery squad" in the quick recovery of most of the items.

Six Teenagers Die in Car Crash

MONTOUR FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Six teenagers died Saturday night when their automobile crashed into a tree beside a country road.

Another youth was injured seriously.

State police said four were killed in the crash. They were: Roland Leinhos, 17; Jack Van Deventer, 17, and his sister, Dorothy, 13; and Patricia Bonzo, 16. Mary A. Murray, 17, and Stanley Bartlett, 17, died at a hospital in this village in the Finger Lakes section of central New York.

'That's a Big Lie!' She Yells and Faints

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Francesca de Scaffa, Venezuelan-born actress-model and self-styled countess, fainted in court Saturday in angry exchange with a former friend charged with stealing her jewelry.

Miss de Scaffa, former wife of Actor Bruce Cabot, was called to testify in the case which Judge Rafael A. Esteva has said is "full of contradictions."

Last February she reported to police that $320,000 in jewelry had been stolen from her apartment while she was attending a bullfight.

* * * *

TONY LEMUS, a friend, was arrested. The jewelry — which police said was more nearly worth $40,000—was recovered.

Lemus said the jewelry had been given him to sell.

"That's a lie, a big lie," shouted Miss de Scaffa in an exchange of insults in court.

Lemus shouted back that she was "an adventuress and a blackmailer."

"You shameless rat," exclaimed the actress, and fainted.

* * * *

JUDGE ESTEVA threatened to charge both with contempt of court.

Miss de Scaffa was accompanied to court by her physician, who said she was suffering from a severe nervous condition.

Because of her health, officials have been delaying a decision on charges of criminal libel in connection with an investigation of Confidential Magazine.

The actress asked the judge to get her name straight. She said it was Nancy Giovana Francesca Scaffa Arnoud Teresa de Bravo. Jaime Bravo is a bullfighter she married several weeks ago.

Sacramento Girl Winner in Swim Suit

SANTA CRUZ (UP) — Judges Saturday named Miss Sacramento, personified by 18-year-old Lorna Myrtle Anderson, as the winner in the swim-suit competition of the "Miss California of 1957" contest.

A student at Sacramento State College, Lorna won out over 21 other young ladies in Friday night's competition. The 120-pound, 5-foot, 6½-inch Sacramento girl's measurements are 35-22-35.

Lorna played the accordion in Saturday night's talent phase of the contest to determine California's entry in the Miss America contest. The girls also will be judged for personality, poise, intelligence and how they appear in formal gowns.

Judges cut the field to five Saturday night and will announce the winner at 1 p. m. today at the bandstand near the Santa Cruz boardwalk.

Missing Man, 71, Sought in Orange Co.

GARDEN GROVE—A Chicago firm of lawyers has asked Orange County sheriff's investigators to locate a 71-year-old man who arrived in this area several weeks ago to get married.

The legal firm believes that David Dahlfors may have become a "victim of foul play."

No leads to his whereabouts have been uncovered, officers said, but it has been established that Dahlfors had picked up mail at 7721 Garden Grove Blvd. under the name of Harms.

It was also established that he had come to Orange County to wed a woman known as Dora Croon, 52. Her whereabouts is not known either.

Tourist Outlay Soars

WASHINGTON, June 23 (UP) —American tourists pumped an all-time record of 475 million dollars into the economy of Europe last year, the Commerce Department reported Saturday.

Fisherman Slain in Mystery

SEBASTOPOL, Calif. (AP)—An autopsy performed Saturday on the body of a Eureka fisherman disclosed he had not drowned—as assumed originally—but was the victim of a mystery stabbing at sea.

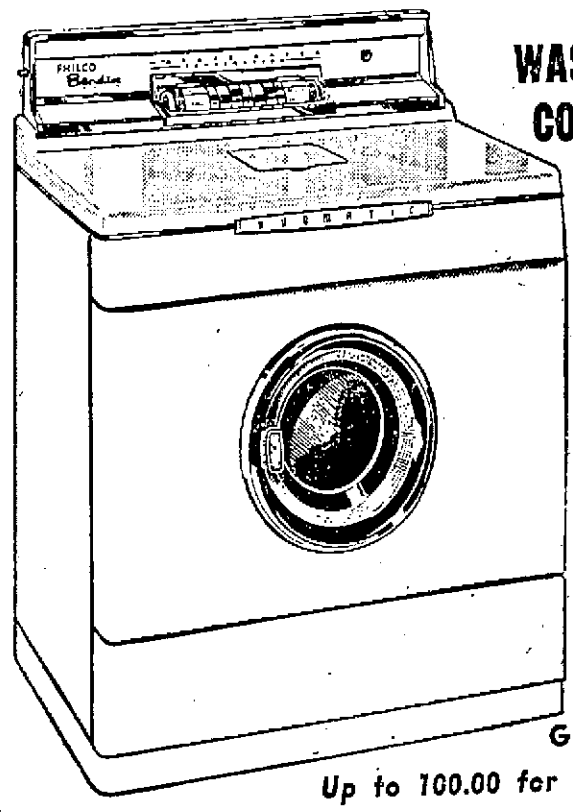

The body of Elwood V. Rost was found on the beach at Bodega Bay early Saturday. It was examined by Coroner Vernon Silvershield of Sonoma County.

Authorities had been in touch with Rost's wife, Arvilla, who expressed anxiety over her husband's failure to return from Stockton where he had gone early in June to repossess the 46-foot fishing craft, Judy Ann.

Rost was last heard from off the coast near Pt. Arena June 11. He sent a radio message to check the weather.

Snow in Britain Ends Heat Wave

LONDON (AP)—Britain, which had basked in heat wave weather for weeks, marked the first full day of summer Saturday with rainstorms and even some snow.

The snow fell on the northern English coastal resort of Whitley but never settled on the ground. The rains covered most of England and Scotland Saturday afternoon.

The forecast was for cool and showery weather — "with a chance of snow in the Scottish Highlands."

VETERAN DRIVER DESCRIBES RACE:

'Something Sparks in You; They Yell, You Don't Hear'

There's an exhilaration about driving a soap box racer that surpasses excitement.

Take it from 14-year-old John Bennett, 5325 Cherry Ave., veteran of three Long Beach Soap Box Derby races.

"At the starting line, as soon as they let you go, something sparks inside of you," he said. "Everybody's yelling, but you can't hear them. You just keep going straight ahead."

During the first of his racing years, John won a medal for good sportsmanship. The second year, he won a second-place trophy for one heat.

Last year, he came in first in three races.

* * * *

AND THE LINDBERGH Junior High School student is getting in shape again for this year's race on July 27.

"I'm trying to make my racer lower and narrower so there will be less wind resistance," he said.

"I'm going to make it as heavy as I can," he said. (Maximum limit, including the driver, is 250 pounds.)

He recalls a friend of his who had "too heavy" trouble on the day of the race last year.

"He skipped a meal, but he was still two pounds overweight, counting his car," John said. "So he ran around the block a couple of times and melted the blubber away."

JOHN BENNETT . . . You Just Keep Going

JOHN HAS ONLY one regret in his racing career.

The floorboards in his old racers have been used for other lumber purposes.

"I wish I would have kept them," he said. "You get kind of attached to them."

Entry deadline for this year's race is July 1. Application blanks may be obtained at any Chevrolet dealer. Boys from 11 through 15 years old are eligible.

The Long Beach Soap Box Derby is co-sponsored in this area by the Independent, Press-Telegram and 32 Chevrolet dealers.

Shah in Copilot Seat as Plane Lands on Carrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Shah of Iran, sitting at the copilot's controls, flew onto the broad deck of the aircraft carrier Forrestal for a visit to the 6th fleet in the Mediterranean, the Navy reported Saturday.

The Shah flew directly to the big supercarrier aboard a U.S. plane and flew off again after inspecting the Forrestal and an accompanying cruiser and destroyer.

Miss Lindstrom to Visit Europe

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UP)—Dr. Peter Lindstrom is planning to take his daughter to Europe soon, but he would not disclose whether she would see her mother, actress Ingrid Bergman.

At Boulder, Colo., where she is a University of Colorado coed, Jenny Ann Lindstrom, now 18, would not discuss her European vacation. She said only that she would spend the summer with her father.

Report Girl, 17, to Wed Hussein, Jordanian King

CAIRO (AP)—The newspaper "Al Shaab" said Saturday that the 17-year-old daughter of the Jordanian ambassador to Iran is being "groomed" to marry Jordan's King Hussein, 22.

The paper claimed that the daughter of Sheriff Hamad Saad will be married to the monarch at the royal palace in Amman, but it did not specify a date.

Britain May Send Atom Bombs to Commonwealth

LONDON (AP) — The Sunday Dispatch said Saturday night Britain planned to bolster Commonwealth defenses by giving tactical atomic bombs to Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

"This would mean that Britain would keep the H-bomb while the three dominions would have the A-bomb," the Dispatch said.

There was no official confirmation.

The Dispatch said the British plan to create "an inner Commonwealth atomic group" of the three dominions would be brought up at next week's conference of Commonwealth prime ministers in London.

New Rose Trio Bids for Favor

By David I. Gilfillan

Starlet, a yellow floribunda, has been introduced to Long Beach gardeners—one of trio of new roses.

REPORTS coming in from reliable sources indicate that we have a number of excellent roses on the way which will be ready for home gardeners during the coming season. In addition to the three All-America winners featured in this section three weeks ago, Armstrong Nurseries announces the introduction of two new hybrid tea roses and a new floribunda.

Isobel Harkness, an English rose hybridized by Albert Norman, is a bright yellow tea rose with beautiful long, pointed buds, borne on a free-branching shrub.

Aztec, another hybrid tea, is a flaming orange-scarlet rose with ovoid buds opening to extra-large flowers (up to six inches) and is rated exhibition quality.

Starlet, the new floribunda, has a profusion of little buds which open to fully double blooms about 2½ inches across. Characteristic of the floribundas, Starlet produces its flowers in great clusters and is excellent for cutting.

THESE ROSES, along with other new introductions, are available at many local nurseries, established in five-gallon containers, and can be planted in the garden now. Check the ads in today's garden section.

In setting out roses from containers, avoid the use of fertilizers around the root area. Equal amounts of leaf mold, peat moss and soil will give you a good growing medium. Be sure the peat moss has been soaked before using. Peat moss will hold about 90 times its own weight in moisture.

You will notice that the main bud or union is above the surface of the soil in the container and it should be in the same position when planted in your garden. When planted too deep the rose will send out advantituous roots from the union. When this happens, the main roots stop growing and the rose will deteriorate slowly.

AFTER PLANTING, give the rose a good soaking, then water only as the soil begins to dry. The rose receives very little if any shock at time of transplanting if handled properly, and too much water continually applied will cause the foliage to turn yellow and drop off. Feeding of the shrubs should not begin until about five weeks after planting.

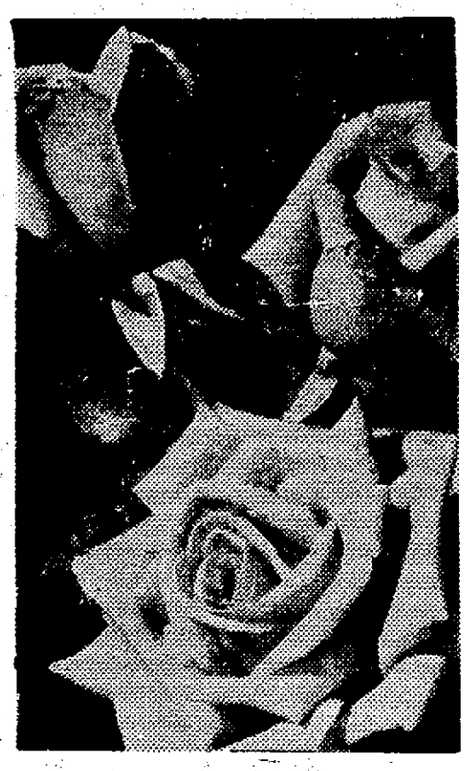

With climbers, we find that most varieties have a tendency to send out whip-like branches upon which the roses are borne. To keep your climber in hand, cut back to just above the second or third leaf from the main canes in cutting the flowers.

IT NEVER IS advisable to incorporate manures and other fertilizers into the soil immediately before planting bare root stock. This practice can ruin the roses. On the other hand, by preparing the soil four or five months in advance you can plant your bare root stock safely next January knowing that they are planted in a productive soil. Steer manure, organic fertilizer, bonemeal and a little soil sulphur (three pounds to 100 sq. ft.) will give you an excellent growing medium.

DON'T FORGET DEPARTMENT . . . Don't forget that there are many plants which can be planted now to give almost immediate color. Fuchsias, tuberous begonias, asters, petunias, marigolds and annual phlox all are tops. . . . Don't forget to take care of your lawn, both grass and dichondra. In fertilizing use any of the plant foods containing insecticides. By doing so you can feed your lawn and control lawn pests in one operation. . . . Don't forget the Southland garden section next Sunday and don't forget that the man who goes to church on Sunday will enjoy his garden better on Monday.

LUNADO — Large double corolla of Tyrian purple with pronounced maroon overshadowing as blossoms mature. Sepals are pink and crimson. Long willowy branches arch gracefully from center stems. A good basket or can be espalliered. Quite heat resistant.

MASTER STROKE — Double corolla white. Sepals white with pink dots.

QUEEN BARBARA — Double corolla splashed with pink near base. Sepals flushed palest pink. A good basket or can be trellised upright.

SWEET LEILANI — Large soft silvery pink and orchid corolla with pale ivory flushed delicate pink sepals. Very compact in growth with lush green foliage.

THUNDERBIRD — Heat resistant in every way. A fine natural cascading, self-branching, profuse-blooming plant. Its large double cherry corolla with orange shadings makes a spectacular show. Very long, gracefully twisted sepals of pink and delicate crimson add much to an over-all lovely effect.

Upright varieties:

MABELLE EDWARDS — A single pink bell-shaped flower with long drooping stems. This fuchsia has daintiness and charm, is named for Mrs. John Paul Edwards. Buds are long white and pointed. Sepals of frosty white curl upwards, corolla of pale pink has four overlapping petals.

ROSECREST—A large double fuchsia, with striking and unique contrast between the color of buds and the open flowers. The medium-sized tube and broad upturned sepals are white, slightly tinged with pale pink underside. The open buds and corolla are a deep lilac mauve turning bright carmine rose as flower matures.

ROYAL ROBE — Vigorous, compact. Will take some sun; double dark purple; light sepals, almost white.

SHOW-OFF — Large single. Double size and coloring of Display fuchsia, which has saucer-shaped corolla with petals of deep pink. Clear pink sepals. A prolific bloomer.

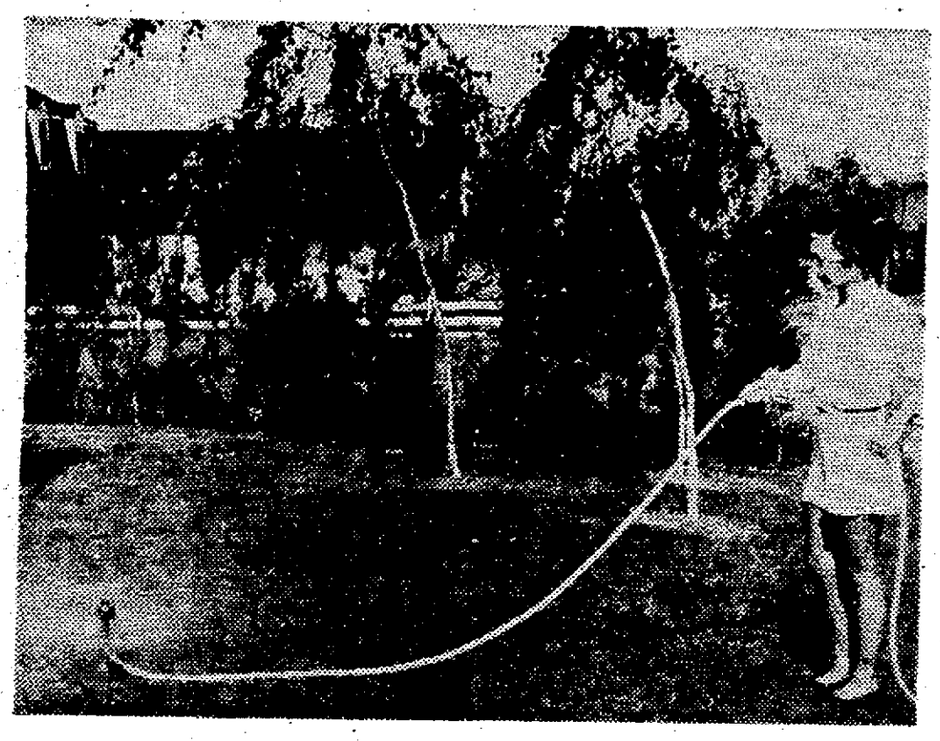

SIERRA BLUE — A fine silvery blue, double variety particularly noteworthy for its beautiful coloring and form. The short tube and wide upturned sepals are white on the outer side, flushed palest pink underside. The corolla is a full double of silver blue gradually becoming soft lilac as the blossom ages.

TEMPERATURES are starting to rise and that means your plants will be requiring more water. Although some rain may still fall, this is a good time to determine when and where to water and how much moisture to apply at each application.

It is difficult to establish general rules covering the problem of watering. Actually any plan that provides the answer must consider various local growing conditions which include wind, temperature, soil, type of plant, exposure and humidity. In addition, a little experience will give you the knowledge as to when a plant is in need of water.

BEFORE STARTING on your watering program it might be wise to learn why plants require water in the first place; that is from a botanical point of view. One of the most vital plant processes is identified as transpiration during which the plant leaves exhale water vapor through tiny pores on their surface. This might be compared to perspiration in an animal. The process is relatively continuous.

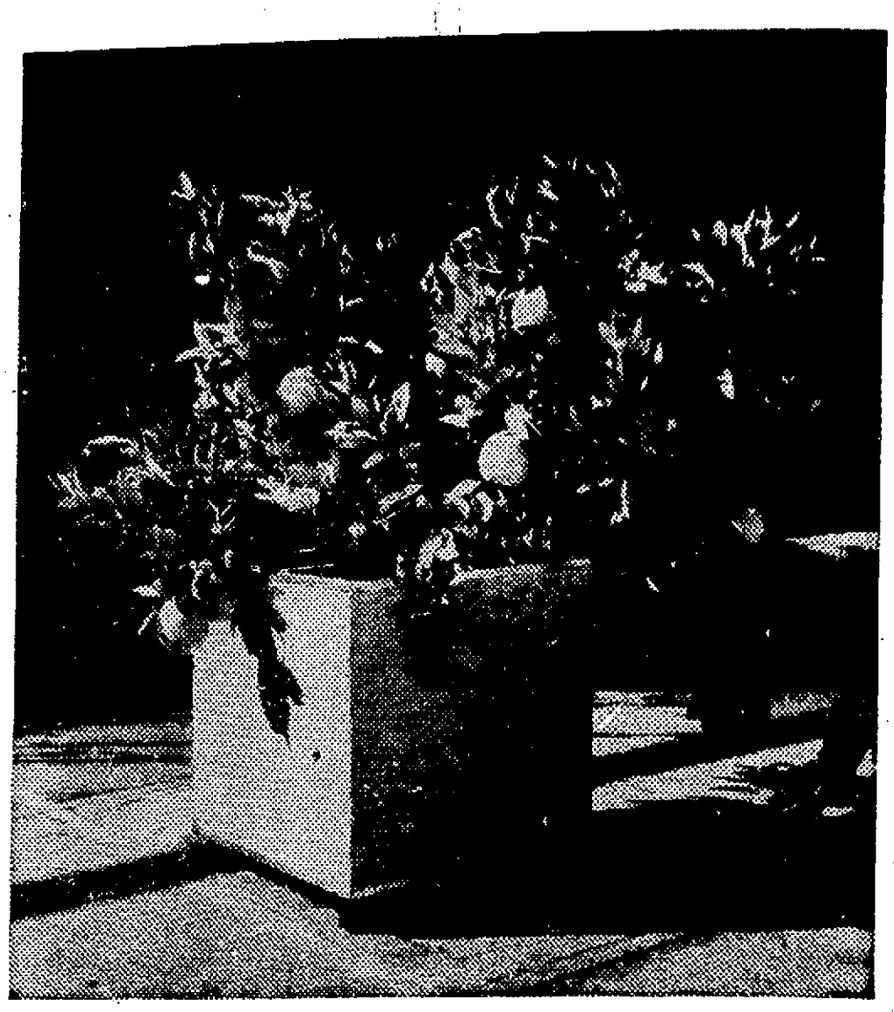

Very large quantities of moisture are given off daily. For example, an individual sunflower will sweat out a pint of water in 24 hours; during a warm summer day an average birch tree will give off about 1,000 pounds of water; and an oak tree during one growing season will lose close to 130 tons of moisture. If the moisture lost during transpiration is not replenished then the plant will eventually topple over and die.

ANOTHER RATHER interesting point concerning the necessity for watering plants is that without water they cannot eat. Most plants are unable to digest nutrients if they are not in a liquid state. This includes both root and leaf feeding. A dry food in an arid soil will probably remain locked in the soil. The food factors can be absorbed by the plant only when in solution. Thus without adequate soil moisture your plants will perish from starvation as well as from thirst.

Early morning watering is generally considered the best time. Evaporation then is at a low ebb and liberal applications of moisture should sustain established plants through the day, even in hot weather. Midday watering under a hot sun may scald the leaves and in addition this is the time of maximum evaporation. Watering at night is not advisable because moisture remaining on the leaves at night may encourage fungus.

THE TYPE OF PLANT being grown also determines the method of watering. Those growing actively require more water than those in a relatively dormant state. Soft stemmed varieties are heavy drinkers; woody types with sparse foilage require less moisture. Sandy soils, though which water drains rapidly should be watered lightly but at frequent intervals; heavy soil which has a high moisture retentive quality should be watered less frequently but more moisture should be applied each time.

The place where moisture does the greatest good is in the root zone, the deeper the better. Heavy applications force the water down into the soil and the roots naturally remain in this area. Thus deep rooting is encouraged. On the other hand, light sprinkling leads to surface rooting which is dangerous. Roots in that area may dry out during hot or windy weather.

Dwarf Washington navel orange is typical of the type of dwarf citrus which may be grown in limited space.

Citrus Space-Savers

By Walter Finch

TRUE DWARF citrus trees are now available which bear superb fruit and foliage, fill the garden with the fragrance of their flowers and which may be raised virtually anywhere with minimum care. The citrus tree stands as the unofficial symbol of California, and visitors "expect" to see an orange or lemon tree in your garden. Now you may have one, regardless of the size or scope of your garden area, advises the California Association of Nurserymen.

True dwarf citrus were pioneered and developed by Floyd C. Dillon and his son, Don Dillon, of Mission San Jose. They now offer 30 true dwarf varieties, ranging from oranges and lemons to tangelos and kumquats, created by grafting choice "mother trees" onto selected dwarfing root stocks. The use of this special root stock is the

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . This is a good time to start bedding plants. The warm weather helps the tiny seedlings get off to a flying start. Varieties available at most garden supply stores include: Petunias, asters, zinnias, marigolds, annual phlox, lobelias and snapdragons.

Roses are flowering freely now and the blooms should be removed before going to seed. Always prune to an outside eye to prevent the center of the plant from becoming too dense; also to produce a more shapely plant.

Spraying or dusting now is practically a weekly necessity.

Jarvis B. Lawrence Buys Frances Children Shop

Jarvis B. Lawrence, one of the city's best known young retailers, is the new owner and manager of Frances Children Shop, 430 Pine Ave.

Lawrence until recently was associated with one of Long Beach's leading department stores 14 years as buyer and divisional merchandise manager. Prior to that he was department manager in Marshall Field and Co., Chicago.

The new owner acquired the store from Ira Forest, son of the founder who started the children's toggery 37 years ago. Three generations of children have been clothed with Frances quality merchandise.

Last January the store was remodeled and added a new self-selection type of operation, providing for more leisurely shopping. The expert help in the store all will be retained and the name will be continued, Lawrence announced.

* * * *

FRANCES CARRIES most of the nationally known brands of clothing for boys and girls from infants through 14 years as well as toys, juvenile furniture and a complete Buster Brown shoe department.

The store is considered the largest complete children's store in the Harbor area. Lawrence said. It has two customer entrances, one on Pine Ave. and the other from the large customer parking lot on Locust Ave. The store provides courtesy strollers, free gift wrapping and free Park and Shop stamps.

Lawrence lives at 30 Eastfield Dr., Rolling Hills, with his wife Alice and two daughters, Debbie and Trudy, where they enjoy country living by daily canters with their riding horses.

Silver Dollar Quiz at Real Estate Club

Norman Woest, of Los Angeles will present his silver dollar quiz at the Thursday meeting of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club. Al Meyer is program chairman and the meeting is scheduled for 8 a.m. at the Mayo Restaurant, 5929 Cherry Ave., North Long Beach.

Quizmaster Woest will award silver dollars to those who answer correctly his questions relating to California real estate procedures.

He will be assisted by Steve Birch, customer relations representative for the Long Beach area.

State Realtors' Convention in Los Angeles Oct. 6-10

L. A. Martin, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, announced that he had received notice from J. Mortimer Clark of San Francisco, president of the California Real Estate Assn., that the 53rd Annual CREA Convention will be held at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles on Oct. 6-10. According to Martin, reservations for the convention are already coming in to the CREA office at a rapid rate indicating that the 3600 record attendance of the 1956 convention in Los Angeles will be surpassed.

Plans for the program are nearing completion and an impressive array of nationally prominent speakers will address the convention.

Clive Graham of Long Beach, general convention chairman, and Harold Weinhold of Los Angeles, program chairman, working with their committees, have prepared an extensive program for the five-day meeting containing much of interest for all real estate men and women. The convention will feature many panels, conferences, after breakfast round tables and educational programs.

* * * *

ALL DEPARTMENTS of real estate will be covered with addresses by well-known men in the field and by smaller meetings featuring experts on each specific subject. Appraisers, property managers, industrial realtors, mortgage men, farm brokers and other real estate specialists will intermingle at the large meetings on the broad subpects concerning their business and then will disperse to attend smaller meetings devoted to their particular fields.

The keynote address will be delivered by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight. A popular speaker at past CREA conventions, James C. Downs Jr. of Chicago, president of the Real Estate Research Corp., will give his enlightening talk on "The Economic Outlook."

* * * *

FOR RELAXATION and entertainment the delegates will enjoy such events as golf tournaments, musical programs, fashion shows and a number of banquets and parties. The principal social event of the convention will be the president's dinner dance in the Biltmore Bowl.

Martin said that a large delegation from Long Beach is planning to attend the convention. He said that reservations from this area are going into the CREA office at a record rate. An advance registration contest is being conducted by the state association and only those registering before Sept. 30 are eligible for the prizes, said Martin.

ARRANGING BIG SESSIONS

Realty Sales Clinic Is Monday

Secondary Financing will be the subject of Monday evening's Sales Clinic conducted by the Long Beach Board of Realtors. Guest speaker will be Gordon Crain of Los Angeles.

The meetings are held in the Conference Room of the board office at 7:30 p. m. At the meetings adjournment, at 9 p. m., coffee will be served.

All realtors and salesmen are invited and there is no charge.

Insurance Talk Before Realtors

Long Beach Board of Realtors will hear a discussion of the plan of insurance made available through the state association when they meet Tuesday morning at breakfast in Lafayette Hotel.

Program Chairman Jim Tolbert said Al Davina of the Washington National Life Insurance Co. will be the speaker.

REALTY OFFICE OF WEEK

When James G. Chandler and his wife Grace came to California in 1947 it was to retire. But maybe it was the climate for something changed their minds and they have been most active in real estate circles since they came. Selected as the Realty Office of the Week, the Chandlers have had their own realty concern at 4115 E. Broadway since 1952 and are most successful in handling Belmont Heights and Belmont Shore properties. In 1954 they were the first husband and wife team ever named Realtors of the Year by the Long Beach Board.

DRILL SITE

G. W. McMullen Construction Co., 3032 Cherry Ave., has completed conductor pipe work and is spudding in a drillsite at Redondo Beach for Signal Oil and Gas Co. and Reserve Oil and Gas Co. The Wonderly Construction Co., built the big pensinula which is adjacent to the present site where Signal is the operator of the joint venture's six wells whipstocked under the ocean. Signal plans to drill 24 wells on the new site which is large enough for 48 wells. Shown above is McMullen equipment getting ready for spudding in activity. The lower photo shows Jack Hickerson, superintendent of surface hole operations, watching crewman cement in a conductor preparatory to drilling.

Low Price Appeals for Joyzelle Park

An exclusive residential area of Garden Grove with homes in the $18,000 to $20,000 price bracket is the site chosen by the builders of Joyzelle Park for their large, 1300 square foot home which sells for the low price of $13,350, according to Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent.

And, he states, that although the Joyzelle homes cost from $5,000 to $8,000 less than the neighboring dwellings, residents of the area have expressed satisfaction of the high quality and attractive appearance of the new development.

Total cash required for occupancy of the 3-bedroom and family room homes is only $695 for non-veterans, Hayes said, with monthly payments of $88.50 including principal and interest. The builder has stated his willingness to work out terms to meet a buyer's individual needs, it was added.

* * * *

THE LOW PRICE includes many extras —such as wall-to-wall carpeting, weatherstripped doors, window screens and shades, built-in snack bar, and front lawns with shrubs. Other features are extensive use of wallpaper, ceramic tile in kitchen and both baths, natural finish cabinets, and large double garages with entry into the kitchen-family room area.

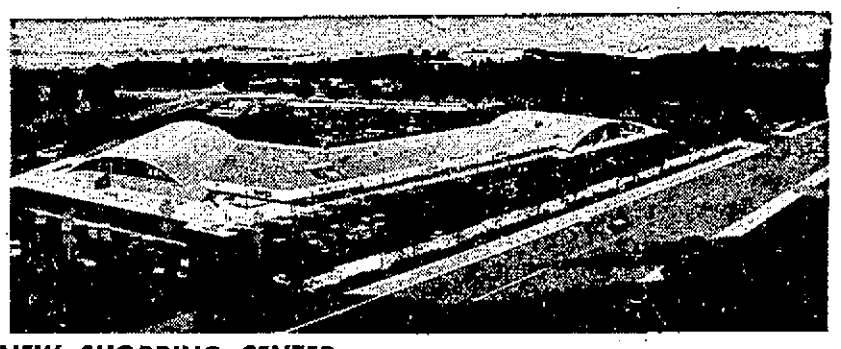

Wide selections of individual styles are available, all situated on large level lots. The location is said to be one of the most popular in Orange County since it is readily accessible to Long Beach and near freeways leading to nearby employment, shopping, schools, and recreation at beach or amusement spas.

To reach Joyzelle Park, drive out Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St. in Long Beach) to Magnolia, then north to Joyzelle Dr. which is between Katella and Chapman in Garden Grove. Turn west on Joyzelle to where it ends at Bowles Ave. then north one block to sales office.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

Bill Cheney, sales manager for Rossmoor, hands checks to Roger Beam (center) and Eugene Stemm (right), first two winners of Rossmoor scholarships recently established for desiring Long Beach State College students. Two other Rossmoor scholarship winners are yet to be announced. Rossmoor, the new community one mile east of Long Beach State College, awards four such scholarships each semester.

NEW SHOPPING CENTER

Construction will start soon on this new shopping center at the southeast corner of Pacific Coast Hwy. and Ximeno Ave. Leases already have been signed by the W. T. Grant Co., and Jim Dandy Markets for the area to be known as the Marina Shopping Center, Coldwell, Banker & Co., leasing agents for the Updike property announced.

To Build Shopping Center at Coast Hwy.-Ximeno

Coldwell, Banker & Co., statewide realtors, announce construction will commence this summer on Marina Shopping Center, at the southeast corner of Pacific Coast Hwy. and Ximeno Ave., near the Long Beach Traffic Circle.

The shopping center, which, with land and buildings, will cost more than $1,500,000, will serve residents of southeast Long Beach, Belmont Shore, Belmont Heights, Naples and the Alamitos Bay areas. The property, on which the center is located, has been in the Updike family of Long Beach since 1907.

Among leases which have been signed for stores in the center are those with W. T. Grant and Jim Dandy Markets.

The Grant store will have 16,000 square feet of floor space, with provisions for expansion to 21,000 square feet, and the market will be located in a 27,000 square foot building. The 15-year Grant lease, and the 20-year market lease, will involve a total rental consideration of approximately $1,000,000.00.

The 10-acre shopping center, which will be open early in 1958, will provide 70,000 square feet of buildings and parking for 600 cars. Coldwell, Banker & Co. is presently negotiating leases for stores in the center with better grade merchants of all types.

Hugh Gibbs, AIA, is the architect of all buildings in Marina Shopping Center.

Local Realtors Attending State Directors Meeting

More than 600 members of the board of directors of the California Real Estate Assn. are meeting at Hoberg's, a resort in Lake County in Northern California, June 20-22, it was announced by L. A. Martin, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

"Members of the Long Beach board will participate in panel meetings and discussion groups as well as the general session with J. Mortimer Clark of San Francisco, CREA president, presiding," said Martin. "The directors will bring back new ideas for improving services of the Long Beach board to the people of this community in their buying and selling of real estate.

"One of the largest events at the meeting will be a multiple listing conference to review and study improved methods of selling real estate through the services of the real estate boards' multiple listing divisions. This is the system whereby realtors in all sections of the community cooperate in showing and selling an individual property.

"The CREA legislative committee will report on the new legislation affecting real estate and bring realtors up-to-date on the laws affecting the operation of their business, as well as new measures affecting the ownership of property in California."

No Smoking

BOSTON (U.P.)—For the first time since it was established some 60 years ago, the Boston subway system has banned smoking on all its subway and elevated lines. The action was taken because of the extra expense of cleaning smoking cars, and also because of complaints from non-smokers.

Nearly $10 Million in Rossmoor Sales

Reflecting record crowds and heavy buyer interest at Rossmoor, Bill Cheney of Walker & Lee, sales manager for the 1200-acre new community, reports nearly $10,000,000 gross sales to date.

With the "Yale" and "Princeton" sections already sold out, families are beginning to move in at the rate of five a day, Cheney reported. Construction on both the "Yale" and "Princeton" continues at an intensified rate.

Sales, meanwhile, on the new "Cornell" continue to be heavy. Only open less than two months, the new section is nearly three-fourths sold.

"As you might expect," Cheney commented, "many of our buyers are from the Greater Long Beach area. These people, particularly, seem to like the fact that Rossmoor is so near such a wealth of recreational facilities."

* * * *

WITH SO MANY families moving into Rossmoor, plans for schools are proceeding rapidly. "We will have 8 different schools for Rossmoor children," Cheney said, "from kindergarten through high school." Long Beach State College neighbors Rossmoor on the west.

Model homes are located inside the main gate of Rossmoor on Los Alamitos Blvd., between Katella and Garden Grove.

Like the "Yale" and "Princeton" sections, the new "Cornell" features California ranch house design. Three bedroom, 3 bedroom and family room, and 4 bedroom and family room are available to Cornell buyers. Prices range from $17,950.

Long Beach residents take 7th St. to Los Alamitos and turn left into the project.

Terra to Speak to Select Group

key factor, and requires painstaking selection for each variety.

The remarkable dwarfs thus produced possess fruiting and appearance as desirable as the "mother tree" itself, and the "mother trees" were chosen from the most perfect of their strains.

WITH TODAY'S "garden living," trees and shrubs in boxes can become articles of furniture, to be lived with and moved around according to taste. Dwarf citrus trees fit this idea perfectly, as they thrive in containers. True dwarf citrus trees occupy less than one-fourth the space of orchard trees, but they bear up to 70 per cent as much fruit. They may be planted the year around in any sunny, wind-free location. At maturity, in about 15-years, they are some eight feet high and wide. (Standard citrus trees reach about 20-feet in height and width at the same stage.)

You may choose from 30 varieties of oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit, tangerines, mandarins and kumquats—all available upon inquiry at your local nurseryman's. Grown in the can, they have all roots intact, and may be readily transplanted. Given light, heat, moisture, drainage and nutrient, they require but minimum care.

THESE REMARKABLE trees are adaptable to varied soils, but those rich in humus are best. Drainage is important: one way to provide for it is with a raised bed, with the tree entirely above grade. A liberal-sized basin is desirable for irrigation around the tree. Happily enough. watering is relative infrequent. The basic idea is to water thoroughly, letting it soak down deep. Once the tree is established water only when the tree needs it—the leaves will be in a wilting condition. During the dry season established trees need water once every month or six weeks. New insecticides make pest control easy for modern gardeners, and your local nurseryman can aid your selection.

Here are some planting instructions to follow. If you plant in a container, use ½ virgin soil, ¼ sand and ¼ peat moss. Use no manure. Fertilize only after your dwarf citrus has become established — about six months after planting. Once a month, use a balanced commercial fertilizer containing six per cent nitrogen; apply at the time of irrigation ½ cup the first year ¾ cup the second year; one cup the third year; increasing gradually in this proportion as the tree grows.

MULCH WITH PEAT moss, leaf mold, manures, shavings or sawdust, to conserve moisture, moderate heat and to retard soil crusting and keep down weeds.

Among the most popular varieties of true dwarf citrus are Robertson Navel, Washington Navel and Valencia oranges; Eureka and Meyer Lemons; Marsh Seedless Grapefruit; Kinnow Mandarins; Mexican and Rangpur Limes and Negami Kumquats.

Enjoy the pleasure of raising choice fruits in your garden now, with true dwarf citrus trees. Look for the graft, which indicates a true dwarf variety that will furnish superb fruit and foliage.

PET PARADE

Pups With a Future

By Eleanor Avery Price

MANY PERSONS, after attending one or more of the 350 dog shows held yearly in this country, have the inspiration to go right out and buy puppies in hope that they will eventually have top dogs for showing. Many phones will jingle and many an "oh" and "ah" will be said over puppies as a result of the Harbor Cities Kennel Club all breed dog show and obedience trial which will conclude this evening on the grounds adjacent to Municipal Auditorium, for this show is the largest of its kind west of the Mississippi and draws spectators from all over.

The desire to buy and raise a dog for show purposes is a good one, but the prospective buyers pause and give thought about several things.

For one, puppies for possible future showing should be purchased from reputable breeders who are striving for quality rather than quantity. Some breeders hold puppies until they are around four months old so as to be able to judge their show potentialities. Puppies with the best conformations and markings naturally command a higher price.

ANOTHER THING, the buyer should ask himself if he is prepared to give the dog, even though it does not turn out to be show material, the best care possible. We recall an individual who took her young dog to the late Dr. Milton Evans, Long Beach veterinarian, and asked, "Dr. Evans, just how good is my dog?" Dr. Evans slowly lifted his head and looked his questioner directly in the eyes. Said he: "Your dog is only as good as the love you give him."

A THIRD POINT the buyer should think about is that showing a dog, even though a handler of experience is hired, calls for a sportsmanlike attitude. Anyone who becomes furious at his dog or at the judges and at other entries and their owners has no business in the show ring.

When David Upright of the Harbor Cities Kennel Club started the Harbor Cities Kennel Club dog show in this area 22 years ago, beginning with an entry of only 400 canines, his ideal was to make this show one of the greatest ones in America, and he has said: "I've wanted it to exemplify the utmost in good sportsmanship, showmanship and fine entertainment for all who love and enjoy dogs."

People who buy puppies with hopes of eventually showing them would do well to ponder on these words, for dog showing is a sport, competitive to be sure, but one that calls for good losers as well as graceful winners.

ENTRIES FOR the Orange Empire Dog Club dog show and obedience trial to be held July 14 in John Galvin Park, Ontario, must reach Jack Bradshaw by noon, Tuesday, July 2.

FHA Mutual Terms on La Mirada Home

To meet strong public demand for larger homes with lower down payments in the City of La Mirada, Devon Construction Co. yesterday announced it is opening a new development of one- and two-story residences where FHA mutual terms will be available.

Located at Luitweiler Rd. and Santa Gertrudes Ave., the new community has been named Parkwood Estates Mutual Homes. Advance showing will begin today when four furnished model homes with decor by Wilders will go on display.

* * * *

THIS IS THE FIRST offer of FHA mutual terms in La Mirada, a Devon spokesman pointed out, and will benefit vets who have, or have not, used their GI benefits and will assist non-vets who have never before been able to qualify for home-ownership in La Mirada.

Under FHA mutual terms, he said, down payments will be as low as $895, plus costs and impounds, with low FHA monthly payments. There will be no other charges and no second mortgages.

Offered in both 3- and 4-bedroom plans, all with two baths, the new residences at Parkwood Estates Mutual Homes were designed by Architect David Freedman, A.I.A.

* * * *

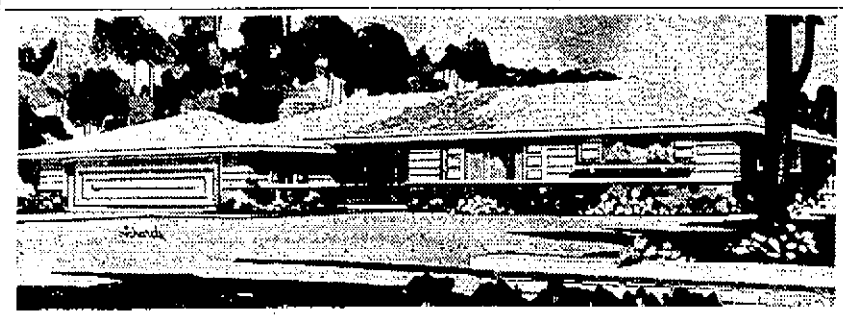

FEATURES include wood-burning fireplaces of natural stone, slumpstone or used brick; thermostatically-controlled forced air heating; decorative hardwood paneling in living rooms, sliding walls of glass leading to patios; select hardwood oak flooring on conventional raised foundations, and also available are built-in gas or electric ranges and ovens.

Also included will be kitchen ventilating fans; Bel Aire ash kitchen cabinets; garbage pulverators; separate service porches, mosaic tile in six-foot stall showers; colored bath fixtures, colored kitchen sinks; double pullmans with marble tops in master baths, and rock wool insulation.

LA MIRADA'S NEWEST

PRICED FROM $14,800

Grand opening is today for Bonded Homes which offers 3-bedroom, 2-bath models such as this. Prices start from $14,800 and they are filled with luxury features.

Homes in Lakewood Now Open

Grand opening is under way at Lakewood Square, located on South St. at Canehill in Lakewood, announced Robert C. Reilly, sales manager for the McCarthy Co., sales agents.

Lakewood Square is ideally situated in an established and built-up community of fine homes, and is only minutes from Lakewood Center and all schools.

"We expect these homes to sell out very quickly, because of their many superior features," Reilly said.

The homes feature 3 baths in some models, with 3 and 4 bedrooms. They offer sliding glass doors onto the patios, natural-finish ash kitchen cabinets, ceramic tile baths, ash paneling, and formica breakfast bars.

"These homes, priced from $17,950 to $19,250, are of quality construction," Reilly said, "with conventional foundations, asphalt shingle or volcanic rock roofs, ceiling insulation to keep the homes cool, and weather-stripping."

BUILT BY TIETZ

Here is one of the models of the large Skylark Ranchos which the Tietz Construction Co. is opening today. They are built on estate-sized lots.

Grand Opening Today for Big Skylark Ranchos Unit

Grand opening is scheduled today at Skylark Ranchos, a new unit of the 3 and 4-bedroom, family room and 2-bath homes in Garden Grove.

According to Bill Tietz, president of Tietz Construction Co., builders and developers of the Provincial styled homes, a great number of reservation sales were made during the preview opening last weekend, indicating a strong sales program.

The estate-size lots are up to a third of an acre with frontages as wide as 90 feet. Play-courts, patios and swimming pools can easily be accommodated on the oversize lots, it was noted, with swimming pools available as optional equipment to be installed during construction of the homes.

Famous all-electric kitchens are included in the homes, with built-in range and oven, exhaust fan and garbage disposal complemented by ceramic tile drainboards and natural birch cabinetry. Built-in breakfast bars are convenient kitchen dining areas and serve as sewing centers as well.

Plate glass mirrors, glass stall shower doors, colored fixtures are features of the bathrooms, while family rooms are separated from patio areas by sliding walls of glass. Fireplaces of stone or brick have raised hearths.

Construction features of the homes include genuine lath and plaster, front and rear door weatherstripping, quality lighting fixtures, spacious natural birch-faced cabinets, 220 volt dryer circuit, the latest wallpaper and paint selections, 75,000BTU forced air furnace, lawns and shrubs, sidewalks, curbs and street lighting, separate dining areas and attached double garages.

Veterans and non-veterans pay $1900 down, it was noted. Easily accessible to major transportation and minutes from famous Southland beaches, golf courses and resorts, Skylark Ranchos Homes are on Katella between Euclid and 9th.

From Los Angeles, visitors drive out Santa Ana Freeway to La Palma (Brookhurst), turn south to Katella and east to the homes. From Long Beach, go out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Brookhurst, then turn north to Katella and east to models.

Bonded Homes Open for Viewing Today

Grand opening festivities are to be held this weekend at the new 3-bedroom, 2-bath development of Bonded Homes, Lincoln-Dale series, when prospective homebuyers will see models of the two-level homes being offered on both VA and conventional terms.

Priced from $14,800, the dwellings offer a wealth of features found in more expensive homes, including brick fireplaces with raised hearths, paneled hardwood in the living rooms, sliding glass doors, interior planters, forced air furnaces, acoustical ceilings, hardwood parquet floors, service rooms, Pullman bathrooms with ceramic tile tops and colored bath fixtures.

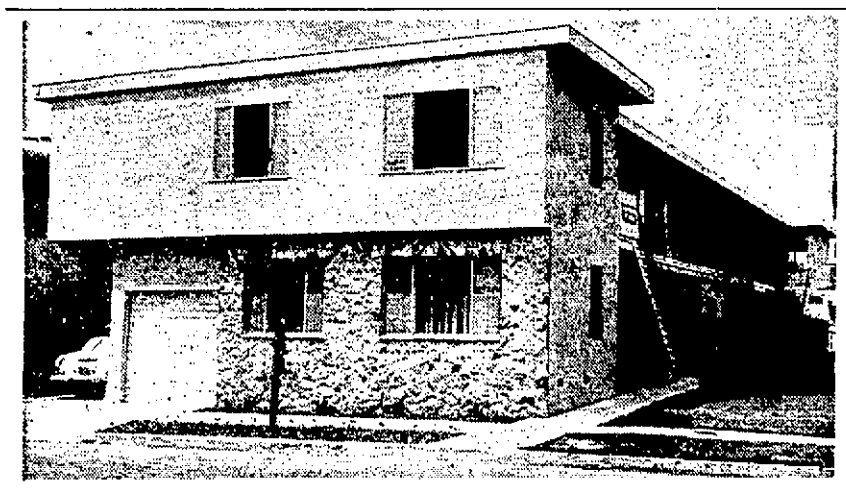

LIVING ROOMS have the added sophistication of two levels, a complement to the raised hearth fireplace. Kitchens are equipped with built-in breakfast nooks, natural finish mahogany cabinetry, dishwashers, garbage disposals, fluorescent lighting over the sink, ceramic tile drainboards and exhaust fans. Available as optional equipment are built-in range and oven.

Full two-car garages, aluminum window casements, television jacks, an abundance of closet space, log-lighters, front and side landscaping, mahogany sliding wardrobe doors and all utilities, including sidewalks, streets, curbs and sewers are in and paid for. Another optional extra is an intercom system throughout the home.

* * * *

BONDED HOMES are centrally located to provide easy access to major transportation to the cities of Los Angeles, Long Beach and Santa Ana. New schools and churches are nearby and large metropolitan shopping centers are minutes away. The many famous Southland recreational areas are also within short distance of the homes.

From Los Angeles, visitors drive out Santa Ana Freeway to Hwy. 39, south to Lincoln and continue to Dale. From Long Beach, drive out Lincoln to Dale.

'ESPERANZA' NOW SELLING

Sale of the new Hannah-built 12-unit own-your-own at 1311 E. 1st St., known as "The Esperanza" is well under way, reports Ed Weller, Realtor. Ultra-modern kitchens, colored baths and convenient location to the downtown, parks, beach and churches are key sales points.

CLOSE TO FREEWAYS

Here is a model of the Riverview Estates unit 2 which is finding favor with buyers because of the close location to main highways and freeways.

Riverview Estates Location Appealing

With a Garden Grove location, close to freeways and high speed east-west arteries to Lakewood and the harbor area, Long Beach workers and their families are finding that Riverview Estates No. 2 offers them a convenient site for their new home, according to Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent.

This second Riverview Unit is the closest to Long Beach of all the Hintz Construction Co. projects and has received much favorable attention from Long Beach residents, he added. Families who want to retain their harbor area employment and social ties appreciate the fact that they are only a few minutes from their old neighborhood, Hayes said. Terms for non-vets are from $95 down plus small costs.

RIVERVIEW ESTATES homes provide a choice of 3-bedroom and study or 4-bedroom plans, all with 2 baths. Models with fireplaces and either front or rear living areas are available. Other features include natural finish wood kitchen cabinets and splash, waste disposals, breakfast nooks, French doors to patios, wide window areas, genuine lath and plaster with quality conventional construction. Full prices start at just $12,950 for the big homes.

Over 10 different elevations provide originality and individual styling ranging from provincial to modified modern, Hayes said, with many models offering covered porches. All have over 1,300 sq. ft. in area.

Hayes announced that free gifts will be given to all adults who inspect the homes this weekend.

To reach Riverview Estates No. 2 from Long Beach, drive east on 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Harbor Blvd., then south to Trask and east to models. If interested in Orange as a future residence, turn north on Harbor to Chapman, then east to Tustin Ave. and north to Walnut and east again to models in Riverview.

HOW TO Put Lazy Susan Inside a Closet

1. THIS "CLOSET"—before it was remodeled—was a real storage problem for containers. Volume here was plentiful—but use of it was bad. It had only three selves. Now a lazy susan puts center space into action.

2. FURNITURE GLIDES support the lazy susan at outer edges. This type has a steel ball that rotates as lazy susan turns. Glides offer good support even when heavily loaded. When swinging a hammer to install the guides, support underside of shelf to prevent it from being knocked loose.

FOX OUT ON FORCE AT PLATE

Lincoln Beats Seaman in 4:06; Striders Capture AAU Crown

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An expected assault on the four-minute mile barrier failed to materialize Saturday night as Australia's Merv Lincoln ran 4:06.1 to win the 69th National AAU event.

The Southern California Striders won the team title with 92½ points, followed by the defending champion New York Athletic Club with 67 and New York Pioneer Club with 54.

Don Bowden, the NCAA half-mile champion, who has a 3:58.7 mile to his credit, finished third behind Bob Seaman of the Southern California Striders.

Lincoln, who recently ran the mile in 3:58.9, was content to lay back in the pack until the last eighth of the mile when he surged from fourth place to win by 10 feet.

The time at the quarters was 61.9, 2:07.8, 3:09.9, and 4:06.1. Lincoln's time set a new AAU meet record, erasing the 4:07.6 set by Wes Santee of Kansas in 1953.

* * * *

BOWDEN AND Lincoln hung close to the rear of the 13-man field for almost two laps with the Australian dogging the American's heels.

Bowden took the lead at the start of the third lap with Lincoln a stride behind him, but Bowden could not match Lincoln's closing burst.

"I'm glad that's over with. Now we can start for home," Lincoln said after the race. He has been on a five-week tour in America. He said he had expected a better duel from Bowden, but added he realized near the end of the third lap that he could beat the American.

Seaman was clocked in 4:07.1, a second behind Lincoln and a tenth of a second ahead of Bowden. Burr Grimm of Maryland was fourth in 4:07.3.

In another record-breaking race, Reginald Pearman, 33-year-old star of the New York Pioneer Club, upset both the Olympic and NCAA champions as he set a new AAU mark of 46.4 in the quarter-mile.

* * * *

CHARLES JENKINS of Villanova, Olympic 400-meter champion, finished third behind John Telford of Wayne. Robert McMurray of Morgan State, who won the NCAA title last week, finished sixth.

Robert Backus of the New York Athletic Club, broke his own American and meet records in the 65-pound weight throw with a prodigious heave of 44-8½. His meet record was 43 feet and his American record, set a year ago, was 44-2.

* * * *

JOHN MACY, 26-year-old Polish refugee student at Houston University, running unattached, captured the three-mile run in a new meet record time of 13:55, beating Max Truex of the Southern California Striders by 10 feet. His time wiped out the old record of 14:18.5 set by Horace Ashenfelter of the NYAC in 1954.

Al Oerter of Kentucky, Olympic and NCAA discuss champion, threw the "dish" 181-6 to win his speciality.

Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem won the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.5 seconds, defeating Ancel Robinson of Fresno State, the NCAA champion, and Glenn Davis of Ohio State, the Olympic 400-meter hurdles champ. Gilbert's time broke the old meet record of 23.2, set by Jack Davis of the Los Angeles AC in 1954. Robinson, who tied the world record of 2.2 in last week's NCAA meet, finished second and Davis was fifth in a blanket finish.

A tremendous kick coming around the far turn of the final lap gave Tom Courtney, Olympic 800-meter champion, first place in the 880 in 1:50.1. Courtney came from behind to beat Arnie Sowell by eight yards.

Rev. Bob Richards, Olympic pole vault king, won the AAU title for the fourth successive year, this time at 15-1½. Ollan Cassell of East Tennessee was a surprise winner of the 220 in 21.0, nosing out Ed Collymore of Villanova and Preston Griffin of Centennial High in Compton, Calif.

Charley Jones won the two-mile steeplechase in 9:29.6.

Yanks Take Loop Lead

Berra's Clout Nips Hose in 13

NEW YORK (AP) — The streaking New York Yankees took over first place in the American League for the first time in seven weeks Saturday as clutch-hitting Yogi Berra smashed a 13th inning homer for a 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

In winning their second straight of the current four-game set and their ninth in succession, the onrushing Yanks used a combination of power hitting and superb relief pitching by Tommy Byrne to overcome an early 5-2 White Sox lead. They lead Chicago by a half game going into today's doubleheader.

Byrne, who had pitched only 2²/₃ previous innings, stopped the erstwhile league-leaders on one hit in nine scoreless innings, once working out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam.

* * * *

BILL SKOWRON'S two-run homer in the sixth, matching Mickey Mantle's 20th with one aboard in the first inning, plus Harry Simpson's RBI single in the seventh got the New Yorkers even.

The Yanks did all the threatening after that until Berra drilled one deep into the lower right field seats as the first batter reliever Paul LaPalme faced in the 13th.

The last time the 1956 world champions and runaway '57 favorites were in first place was on May 9, when they shared the top spot with the White Sox.

Byrne, 37-year-old lefthander, took over at the start of the fifth inning after starter Art Ditmar and his successor, Don Larsen, had been well battered.

* * * *

THE ONLY CHICAGO hit after that was Jim Rivera's liner which caromed off the glove of first baseman Skowron in the eighth inning. Byrne walked seven and struck out seven and had his only bad moment in the sixth, when a hit batsman and two walks loaded the bases with none out.

Rivera bounced into a force play at the plate and Tommy was out free when Earl Battey struck out and Bubba Phillips grounded out.

Rivera touched off both of Chicago's scoring innings, opening the three-run second with a double and the two-run third with a walk.

Ditmar left in the second after Rivera's double, his own error, an infield hit and two bases-loaded walks had accounted for two runs with none out. Larsen worked out of that jam with only one more run scoring but gave up two more in the third when Phillips followed Rivera's walk with a triple and then scored as Jack Harshman grounded out.

BAUER PLAYING HANDBALL?

Yankee right fielder Hank Bauer appears to be playing handball as he takes White Sox' Jack Phillips' hit off wall barehanded in third inning Saturday. Phillips got a triple, scoring Jim Rivera from second. Yanks won, 6-5.—(AP.)

SCHMIDT RAPS REGENTS' ACTION

PCC Breakup Almost Sure

BERKELEY (AP) — Breakup of the present Pacific Coast Conference alignment is a certainty unless the 42-year-old loop alters some basic policies.

Such changes appeared doubtful as spokesmen for PCC schools in the Northwest gave a chilly reception to Friday's statement of principles by the Board of Regents of the University of California.

The board, ruling body both for California and UCLA, held that after the 1957 season, the schools should not be bound by the PCC round-robin football scheduling which requires all members, except Idaho, to play each annually.

* * * *

CHANCELLOR Clark Kerr of California commented, "Either there will be some major change in the policy of the conference or over the course of the next several years, some new alignment of schools will develop."

This new alignment very well could be the Pacific Northwest in one section and the California schools in another. Washington might join the California schools.

"If this is an ultimatum to the conference, I would like to say I don't believe this is a way to solve conference problems," asserted Dean Orlando Hollis of the University of Oregon, its PCC representative.

How the regents action could be taken for anything but an ultimatum was hard to see. Just last May 23, the PCC refused to amend its round-robin football schedule policy and allow each school to play only five conference games.

* * * *

OREGON, Oregon State Washington State, Stanford and Idaho voted to maintain the round robin with California, UCLA, Southern California and Washington voting against it.

"I am puzzled," commented President C. Clement French of Washington State Saturday. "I can't make much sense out of the announcement from Berkeley. On the face of it, I'd say it looks like UCLA and Cal won't be in the conference much longer."

Dr. D. R. Theophilus, president of Idaho, said, "The Pacific Coast Conference is a voluntary association. No one can compel either southern school to stay in or get out."

* * * *

CONFERENCE commissioner Victor O. Schmidt declared, "There are very few rules and policies of the conference which express the complete desires of any member. Rules usually are a compromise of views. In this field of compromise, the last few years have brought this conference the most stringent requirements for academic progress in the country; the strictest academic regulations governing transfer students, and the adoption of a program of higher entrance requirements for athletic participation.

"Moreover, even the present financial aid program is one of the most restrictive in the nation — much more so than those of nearly all of our intersectional opponents. Against this background it should be evident that the Pacific Coast Conference has been rightfully recognized throughout the nation as an organization of universities which has pioneered such restrictive controls of college athletics as may maintain proper balance between athletic and academic interests of the student."

What would become of the PCC Rose Bowl pact with the Big Ten also posed a question. Since the pact began in 1947, the only non-California team to meet the Midwesterners was Oregon State last Jan. 1.

UCLA's Chancellor Raymond B. Allen said Saturday he is happy with the ruling by the regents.

Wilbur Johns, UCLA athletic director, revealed Saturday that Stanford may be dropped from the UCLA football schedule after the 1957 game because of strong alumni pressure. Stanford voted consistently against UCLA in conference meetings.

Patterson, Games Champ in Title Go

SEATTLE (UP) — If Floyd Patterson gets by Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in New York July 29, he will make his second heavyweight title defense here during the week of Aug. 19 against 29-year-old Olympic champion Pete Rademacher.

The announcement came Saturday from Jack Hurley, the veteran fight manager who was handpicked by Patterson's boss, Gus D'Amato, to promote Seattle's first heavyweight title fight in history.

If the bout goes through, Rademacher will become the first boxer in the annals of the ring ever to fight for the heavyweight crown in his first professional engagement.

HURLEY SAID he would stage the fight in the Seattle Rainiers' baseball park. The stadium has a capacity of about 11,000 but he said it could be altered to seat 30,000. "With a full house" he said, "we'll draw a half-million dollars."

D'Amato demanded a $250,000 guarantee along with a 40-per-cent-of-the-gate privilege to bring his "Tiger" to the Pacific Northwest. The money was put up by a group of Columbus, Ga. businessmen who became acquainted with Rademacher when the Olympic champ was stationed at Fort Benning as an Army lieutenant.

Rademacher is a past AAU champion and picked up an Olympic gold medal in Australia last year.

"THEY CALL that boy an amateur," Hurley said, "but he fights more like a pro. He's been boxing for 10 years and has picked up a lot of pro tricks and actions. He won't have any trouble learning to pace himself for 15 rounds."

In Milwaukee, Fred Saddy, chairman of the National Boxing Association's championship committee, said "we'd have no choice but to recognize the winner as champion."

AUDREY NEXT HURRICANE, JACKSON!

COLUMBIA, N.J. (UP) — It's a long time before July 29, but just in case folks should forget, that is the date when Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson fights champion Floyd Patterson for the world's heavyweight championship at the Polo Grounds in New York.

Saturday the following announcement came out of Jackson's training camp:

"We have applied to the U.S. Weather Bureau to name the next hurricane 'Jackson' in case there is one between now and July 29."

Just for the record, the next hurricane, if any, is to be called Audrey.

L.B. Driver Hurt in Stock Car Race

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Bill Amick of Charlotte, N. C., Saturday night won a 100-mile NASCAR grand national stock car race. Second place went to Lloyd Bane of Long Beach with George Seegar of Whittier third and Scotty Cain of Venice, Calif., fourth.

Bill Bade of Long Beach flipped on the 115th lap of the half mile track and was taken to a hospital but his injuries were not believed serious.

TERRANG SCRATCHED

Find Triumphs as Brocato Runs Last

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's game old campaigner, Find, raced to a half-length victory Saturday in the $53,250 Inglewood Handicap at Hollywood Park, running down the favored Bobby Brocato on the backstretch and then maintaining his lead the rest of the way.

Bobby Brocato faded to last in the five-horse field and Find fought off the challenge of little Eddie Schmidt in the run for the wire. Pit Boss was third and the Pie King fourth.

It was the fourth start for the seven-year-old Find at the meeting and his second victory along with two thirds for an outstanding record thus far.

* * * *

FIND RACED the mile and a sixteenth in the fast time of 1:40 4/5 although well off Swap's world mark of 1:39 set in the Inglewood Handicap last year.

Find was permitted to get away at 5-2 odds and he returned $7.10, 4.00 and 2.70 across the board. Eddie Schmidt paid $8.00 and 3.50 for place and show and Pit Boss returned $3.20 for show.

For a few fleeting moments it appeared that Bobby Brocato had returned to his form of last year when he won eight stakes and nearly $300,000 and pushed Swaps to several of his world records. But Bobby Brocato did not have it when the real racing began in the final half-mile and Find was there to take over.

* * * *

BOBBY BROCATO shot out in front at the start and Find came right after him and for a while it was a two-horse race in front. But Bobby Brocato opened up a lead of two and a half lengths on the backstretch as he looked like his old self.

Find, ridden by the veteran Ralph Neves, kept dogging his heels and nailed him around the turn for home. And once he got out in front Find was not to be denied despite the good race run by Eddie Schmidt which saved ground on the rail and closed boldly. For a time he looked like he might catch Find but Neves urged his mount on in the final yards to win by a half length.

Find, as the mainstay in the handicap ranks, of the Vanderbilt stable, proved that at seven he is still a horse to be feared.

Rivers Wins Title Match

Neal Rivers, 159, Los Angeles, scored a ninth-round technical knockout Saturday night over Sal Flores, 160, of Buena Park, in their scheduled 12-round bout at Hollywood Legion Stadium for the state middleweight title.

Rivers, bothered by Flores' crunching body attack through the early rounds, finally opened up in the ninth round and started booming home rights and lefts to the craggy jaw of the stocky veteran.

He pounded Flores along the ropes from one corner to another and then sent him sprawling for a nine-count with a left to the jaw. Flores got up, willing but wobbly, and referee Lee Grossman rushed in and stopped it at 2:47 of the round as Rivers was landing at will.

* * * *

RIVERS, WHO WON his middleweight crown on the eighth of this month by defeating Bobby Jones of Oakland, was trailing by two points on most cards in the press row when he opened up in the ninth round.

Both fighters suffered cuts over their left eyes. There were no knockdowns prior to the ninth round.

Once Over Lightly

by DAVE LEWIS

There was an ancient movie on TV the other night called "Slide, Kelly, Slide."

However, it wasn't about the man who made "Slide, Kelly, S-L-I-D-E" a byword of the game of baseball.

Yes, the Kelly in that famous saying was a real person . . . Michael J. (King) Kelly.

Connie Mack called Kelly the Ty Cobb of his time. The colorful Cap Anson said Kelly was as good a batter as anybody and as fine a thrower from the catcher's position or the outfield.

In fact, he threw more men out from those two positions than any other player.

Several baseball writers asserted as late as the 1920's that Kelly was the greatest player who ever lived.

Kelly was the $10,000 beauty of the late 1880's and early 1890's. Certainly few other players ever had the off-the-field color of the quick-thinking Irishman of Troy, N. Y., according to the records.

Tall, powerfully-built and handsome, Kelly was one of the best dressed men of his period in tall hat, tailored suits, ultra-fashionable Ascot and patent leather shoes.

HE WAS THE John L. Sullivan of the diamond. He could drink more brandy and champagne than any man in the house and still play a great game the next day.

The King was a graceful spender, consequently had many friends, fair weather and otherwise. In response to praise and flattery, he was quick with a dollar in bar-rooms . . . when he had it, which wasn't always, for it was difficult for a young man like him to keep in funds.

They say he would have broke the Bank of England if given the opportunity.

Kelly was the first player that "cranks," as fans were known in those days, followed on the streets. He was the original target for autograph seekers.

Kelly broke into baseball on the sandlots of Paterson, N. J., where he played for $3 a week. At 20 he moved to Columbus to play with a semi-pro aggregation. Cincinnati finally picked him up and as the 80's began, he came into renown for the first time with Cap Anson's Chicago White Stockings.

Kelly was the first ballplayer sold for "important money" and also the first one to get it. The owners of the Boston Nationals paid the White Stockings the unheard sum of $10,000 for him in 1887 and gave him $5,000 a year. Editorials were written about it.

YOU MIGHT SAY that Kelly inaugurated the "days" for baseball players as Boston fans presented their idol with a beautiful horse and carriage so that he could ride to the park in style.

Kelly, a lefthanded hitter, batted .388 for the champion White Stockings the year before he went to Boston. He scored 120 runs that year and could circle the bases in 15 seconds.

It was the King's amazing ability to do everything that Ty Cobb did 25 years later, however, which left "Slide, Kelly, Slide" to ring down the Hall of Fame.

"Like Cobb," Connie Mack recalls, "Kelly never gave an infielder or catcher anything more than the tip of his toe to tag. He had all of Ty's stuff . . . the fadeaway, fall-away and hook slides and a few so distinctively his own that others couldn't copy them."

Mack, who played against the King, says, "Kelly would cut second by from 10 to 20 feet in going from first to third on an infield tap while the one umpire used in those days had his eyes glued on the play at first. Similarly, he would cut third in scoring from second."

Kelly did so many things first that he practically wrote the rules.

The Boston management became fed up with his royal temperament and sent him to New York in 1893 where he was suspended for going on a beer bust and to the races when he was supposed to be steaming himself into shape in a Turkish bath.

King Kelly was out of baseball and on the stage a year when he died of pneumonia in November of '94 at the age of 37, just in time, one writer recalls, to escape the one thing in the world he feared . . . lack of funds to play the "golden boy."

"Slide, Kelly, S-L-I-D-E-!"

Newk Jinx Beats Cards Again, 6-4

ST. LOUIS (U.P.)—A double by Charley Neal and successive triples by PeeWee Reese and Duke Snider gave the Brooklyn Dodgers two runs and a ninth inning, 6-4 victory over the first-place St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Big Don Newcombe was not around at the finish but it was his six-year jinx that held good over the Cards. They have not beaten him since 1951. Newcombe was taken out in the ninth for a pinch-hitter and Clem Labine put down a last-ditch Cardinal rally, but it was Newcombe who got his fourth victory over St. Louis this year and brought his season mark to 7-6.

Newcombe's career mark against the Cards is 19-5. Vinegar Bend Mizell took the loss, his fifth against a single win.

The Dodgers took a four-run lead in the third inning but the cards whittled away until they gained a tie on Stan Musial's 16th home run in the eighth. Then the Brooklyn bats broke loose on Mizell in the ninth and Labine struck out Al Dark and Musial with two men on to end the game.

Starter Willard Schmidt fell victim to the Dodger uprising in the third that included successive walks to Junior Gilliam and Reese, a scoring single by Duke Snider and Gil Hodges' three-run homer, his ninth.

The Cardinals cut the margin on Wally Moon's 14th homer in the fourth and again in the eighth on a double error by Newcombe, Joe Cunningham's pinch-hit double and Don Blasingame's third single.

The loss snapped a four-game Cardinal win streak, evened the series and cut the Redbirds' National League lead to one game over the Phillies.

Kaline's Hit Sinks Birds in 13th, 2-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Al Kaline's single scored Charlie Maxwell from second base Saturday night with the run that gave the Detroit Tigers a 2-1, 13-inning victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Paul Foytack, who pitched hitless ball until Jim Busby hit an inside-the-park homer in the eighth for Baltimore's only run, gave up only five hits in racking up his eighth victory against four losses.

Following Busby's smash, which rolled to the centerfield fence after Maxwell missed a try for a shoestring catch, Forytack escaped serious trouble until the final inning. The Orioles loaded the bases with two out in that frame and Frank Lary came in to rescue Foytack by getting Busby on a grounder back to the mound.

* * * *

GEORGE ZUVERINK, who relieved starter Billy O'Dell in the ninth, absorbed his third loss against seven victories.

Kaline's RBI single came after Maxwell doubled with two out.

The Tigers got their other run in the ninth on a walk to Bill Tuttle, a sacrifice, O'Dell's throwing error and Philley's infield ground-out.

Lem Back on Beam, Wins, 7-1

WASHINGTON (UP) — Bob Lemon, sidelined for three weeks earlier this season because of injuries, pitched his first complete game victory of the year for the Cleveland Indians Saturday when he held the Washington Senators to five hits to win, 7-1.

A six-run fourth-inning outburst, in which rookies Dick Brown and Larry Raines each hit a two-run single, helped Lemon score his fifth victory against four defeats.

Three of the Washington hits were made by Roy Sievers. The only run Lemon gave up was unearned, resulting from Chico Carrasqual's error on Pete Runnel's grounder.

Lemon, winning his fifth game in nine decisions, struck out four.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio will fight middleweight Leo Owens of Syracuse, N. Y., Thursday night in a four-round exhibition bout.

L.B. OPEN NET TOURNEY SET

The annual Long Beach Open tennis championships will be staged July 4 through July 7 on the Long Beach City College courts, Walt Sheck of the Recreation Department announced Saturday.

Sheck said deadline for entries wil be Wednesday, June 26.

A 15-man squad from Arizona tops the out-of-town entries. Bob Folz of Arizona will return to defend his junior boys singles championship.

Cubs Thump Giants, 12-4

CHICAGO (UP) — The last-place Chicago Cubs belted four New York Giant pitchers for 16 hits Saturday to swamp the visitors, 12-4, in a game called after six innings because of rain.

The umpires waited 35 minutes before calling the game, when heavy thundershowers struck the city.

Outfielder Walt Moryn was the hitting star with two singles and two doubles in four times at bat.

OAKLAND (AP) — Whitney Reed, ranked 15th among American tennis players, was upset, 8-6, 4-6, 11-9, Saturday by unseeded Jim Frolik of San Francisco in the second round of the Oakland tennis championships.

STANFORD GRID STAR ON HONEYMOON

Former Stanford star quarterback John Brodie puts suntan lotion on his bride, the former Sue Blevins, during honeymoon at Las Vegas. Brodie did not graduate with senior class last week because of a low grade in a movie appreciation course. University student judicial council charged Brodie cheated in final exam, but Brodie denies it and will fight the ruling.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Angels Sock 9 Homers

Osenbaugh Gives Up 22 Runs, 18 Hits

The Los Angeles Angels belted nine home runs—five of them in one inning—and demolished Sacramento 22-5 Saturday in a power exhibition that broke or equalled numerous club and Coast League records. Bert Hamric socked three of the Angel homers.

The Angels got 20 hits, eight of them in their 11-run seventh inning. Hamric hit two of his homers in this inning and Steve Bilko, Jim Baxes and Bob Dolan added one apiece.

One curious aspect of the game was that Roger Osenbaugh, the losing pitcher, was allowed to give up all 22 runs and 18 hits before he was relieved in the seventh by Roger Bowman, who kept the Angels quiet the rest of the way.

* * * *

SACRAMENTO manager Tommy Heath said after the game that he had several reasons for letting Osenbaugh absorb some of the worst punishment ever taken by a PCL pitcher in one game.

First, Heath said, there are a number of sore arms on the Solon pitching staff and he didn't want to use up any more throwers than he had to. Second, Osenbaugh himself was working out of some arm trouble and needed the exercise. The manager said he wasn't angry with Osenbaugh and was not trying to punish him.

Osenbaugh was in trouble almost right off. In the second inning, Jim Fridley and Hamric socked back-to-back home runs in a four-run Los Angeles rally.

* * * *

GEORGE ANDERSON scored the fifth Angel run in the third on a sacrifice fly and whacked a grand-slam homer in the next inning to send Los Angeles ahead, 9-0.

The Angels got a single run in the fifth and another on Tom Saffell's homer in the sixth before mounting their 11-run assault in the seventh.

The solons got four of their runs in the sixth, when Leo Righetti singled in Jim Mangan and Nippy Jones hit a three-run homer.

* * * *

LOS ANGELES tied the PCL record for most home runs by one team in a game. The old Vernon club set the record of nine in 1923.

The Angels broke the league record for number of homers in one inning by one team. The old record of four was set by Salt Lake in 1923 and San Francisco in 1938.

In addition, the Angels broke the old club record of seven homers in a game, and Hamric tied a club record by hitting two homers in an inning. The 48 total bases collected by the Angels also was an all-time club high.

Weiss Sharp in 4-Hit Pro Debut

MODESTO (UP) — Doug Weiss, All-American pitcher who helped pitch California to the NCCA baseball championship, made his professional debut Saturday night a sparkler.

He pitched Modesto to a 5-1, four-hit victory over Salinas in the class C California League. He's the property of New York Yankees.

Weiss retired the first 14 batters in order. He struck out eight; walked four. He yielded a home run in the eighth to Ham Hanson.

Beamon's 7-Hitter Stops Suds

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Charlie Beamon recorded his third victory over the Seattle Rainiers and his fifth of the season with a seven-hit, 4-0, shutout for the Vancouver Mounties at Capilano Stadium Saturday night.

The Rainiers had men on base in every inning but no runner got beyond second as Beamon, ending a losing string of four straight, struck out nine.

Rookie Sanford Six-Hits Braves for 9th Win, 4-2

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Rookie pitcher Jack Sanford won his ninth game and Stan Lopata hit a two-run homer as the Philadelphia Phillies beat Milwaukee, 4-2, Saturday to take over second place from the slumping Braves.

Sanford gave up only six hits to keep the Braves in check despite four Philadelphia errors, three by Chico Fernandez.

In the third, with Carl Sawatski on second and Billy Bruton on first, Fernandez fielded Red Schoendienst's grounder and forced Bruton but threw wildly to first. Sawatski took third and scored when Ed Bouchee threw wildly to the plate.

* * * *

FERNANDEZ muffed another double play ball in the fourth which permitted Wes Covington to score.

Philadelphia got its first run off starter Bob Trowbridge on a double by Granny Hamner, two walks and a sacrifice fly by Rip Repulski. Fernandez removed some of the stigma from his play when he singled to score Willie Jones after Jones doubled in the eighth.

Beavers Run Win Skein to 5

PORTLAND (UP) — The Portland Beavers extended their winning streak to five games Saturday night, downing Hollywood, 4-1, in a Pacific Coast League game.

Bob Thorpe, the winning pitcher, limited Hollywood to four hits as he won his fifth game in nine starts.

Portland bunched all its hits off Hollywood starter Ben Wade in the fourth inning.

* * * *

DANNY BAICH led off by gaining life on an error and then Thorpe drew a walk. Solly Drake singled, scoring Baich and Ed Winceniak tripled, scoring Thorpe and Drake. Winceniak scored on a bunt single by Luis Marquez.

Joe Duhem singled home Bill Causion with Hollywood's lone run in the sixth inning.

The victory gave Portland a 5-1 lead in the series.

HAROLD A. JONES JR.

The Man in Charge

WITHOUT FANFARE or firecrackers, an important milestone was observed quietly last Sunday at Jones Cafeteria and Dining Room, 120 E. 5th St.

It was the 28th birthday of the cafeteria, first opened by Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Jones Sr. on June 16, 1929. One of Long Beach's finest success stories, the cafeteria has become an important landmark on 5th St., having been at the same location ever since its beginning, serving top quality foods year in and year out.

The man currently in charge of the cafeteria's cooking is Harold A. Jones Jr., working as vacation relief chef. Young Jones has helped his mother and father at the restaurant ever since he was a boy of 14. A senior at Long Beach State College, he is majoring in business administration.

The dining out public is being treated especially nice at the cafeteria these days thanks to $1 luncheon and dinner specials which are certainly a bargain. A different entree is served daily on the special, in this order: Monday, chicken fried steak; Tuesday, fried fresh chicken (each serving is ¼ of a three-pound chicken); Wednesday, pork tenderloin; Thursday, ground sirloin, and Friday, 12-ounce halibut steak. All are served with salad, vegetable, roll and butter.

The dining out public has also become increasingly aware of the wonderful dinner specials in the adjacent Jones Dining Room. The restaurant buys eastern choice beef in volume amounts and can thus serve steaks and prime rib at sensible prices.

A large 12-ounce cut of choice prime rib au jus is only $1.95 a la carte, served with potato, choice of salad from the large salad tray, roll and butter. A huge 16-ounce choice T-bone steak is only $2.25 a la carte.

The Dining Room also serves two dozen entrees daily on its famed super-complete dinner, priced at from $1.75 up.

In This Corner with DICK ZEHMS

This Corner wasn't the only column that saw a possible connection between Long Beach City College and the Junior Rose Bowl Game in Pasadena after Anaheim's Mickey Flynn and six of his Colonist football buddies decided to cast their lot with the 1957 Vikings.

Here is how scholarly Rube Samuelson, who authors Rube-Barbs in the Pasadena Star-News, greeted the news:

"THAT SHOULD DO IT. The gentlemen of the Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce might as well put down Long Beach City College without delay as the No. 1 1957 Junior Rose Bowl Game threat.

"Besides Mickey Flynn and Joe Avitia, the two who made Anaheim High's potent prep eleven of last fall go, Long Beach will also fall heir to the pair's following teammates: Gene Borford, 200, twice all-Sunset League tackle and last year third CIF choice; Johnny McDonald, quarterback; Don Brockett, all-Sunset center; Don Penfield, all-Sunset half, and Joel Hoare, all-Sunset guard.

"Now there's a haul! Flynn hopes to transfer to SC after one year in Long Beach, and be eligible for 1958 Trojan varsity play.

"A halfback, Mickey scored 49 TDs during his three seasons at Anaheim. Long Beach, a member of the Metropolitan Conference with such teams as Valley, Bakersfield, San Diego, Santa Monica, El Camino, Harbor and East L. A., won't meet Pasadena next fall."

No doubt Jim Stangeland and Bill Poore, new Vike grid chieftains ,are optimistic, of course. Yet they're well aware of the steep climb ahead. Everybody will be taking dead aim on the Vikings. Knocking off Flynn and his associates is bound to become the ultimate in conquest for nine opponents.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: From Bill Wight, Baltimore Oriole pitcher:

"You've got to be either too smart to worry, or too dumb to worry.

"Trouble with me is that I'm right in the middle!"

NO PIGEONS. In years gone by, the New York Yankees have always gotten rich en route to pennants at the expense of the Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators.

At the last look this season, the Yanks were 4-4 with both.

BEST BET. Pappy Waldorf's problem child last fall, tackle Proverb Jacobs is called the best pro prospect among Pacific Coast Conference gridders participating a month ago in spring practice.

The husky California lineman, who heaved the shotput for the Bears in track, was given this rating by Bert Rose Jr., L. A. Ram publicist who turned scout to tour the PCC springs camps.

PROSPERITY NOTE. Oklahoma's advance season ticket sales have surpassed all records in the school's history. A Nov. 16 home date with Notre Dame is given as the reason.

Sooner sales have passed 26,000 and officials believe they'll reach $1,500. Old record was 24,766, set last year.

There's nothing like a winner to excite the appetite!

GENIUS AT WORK. Rotund Tommy Heath, one of the Pacific Coast League's friendliest and most obliging managers, recently was asked to name the best defensive players by position he has seen while managing his Sacramento Solons this season. His list:

Tommy declined to pick a pitcher, but insisted that quite a few of the players he selected will not be seen in the PCL All-Star Game July 2 at Wrigley Field because, he said, most all-star teams are selected on a basis of hitting with the defensive angle neglected.

A NAME. People with nothing better to do have been worrying about an appropriate nickname for the Brooklyn Dodgers when they start playing out of Los Angeles.

Until a better one comes along, "Los Angeles Smodgers" will do!

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT. Did you hear about the Pittsburgh traffic judge, mindful of the low state of the Pirates in the National League, leveling this judgment on a minor violator?

"If this violation happens again," he stated, "you will be sentenced to three days at Forbes Field!"

Chicago judges may have Wrigley Field in mind any day now!

HAPPY LANDING, REGATTA QUEEN!

While West Long Beach Lions John Downing and Scotty Buchan offer a lift down from Kenny Sprow's hydroplane, Yo Yo, President Harry Jaffe (right) prepares to receive in case it turns into an adagio performance for Janice Carmody, queen of the big July 44 inboard regatta at Marine Stadium. SMITH CHAIRMAN

July 4 Regatta Officials Named

By BOB RUSKAUFF

Gillette Smith, El Monte, himself twice national champion in the 48-cubic inch hydroplane class, will view things from the other end during the 9th National Independence Day inboard regatta at Marine Stadium, July 4.

Smith was Saturday appointed race chairman by Southern California Speedboat Club, which will conduct the big race-meet. It is sponsored by West Long Beach Lions Club.

One large if in the big entry list today concerns whether the sensational 266-cubic inch hydroplane, Roughneck II, will make it.

Ruthelyn's husband, Guy C. (Red) Wilson and Bob Willis are enroute now from Venice to New York on the S.S. Christofero Colombo, Italian liner due to dock Friday. The Long Beach inboard aces hope to get back in time to enter the meet.

"Lousy weather" put a kibosh (even as in sunny So. Calif. lately) on international regattas planned in Europe, word from the drivers said. Details were lacking.

SOUTHLAND stock outboarders will leave today and Monday for Mexico, for competition in the Pan-American regattas, Sunday at Guadalupe Dam and July 7 at Veracruz, respectively, 20 minutes and six hours drive from Mexico City. Bert Hendrick, San Diego; Bob Davidson and Bert Shields are among pilots slated to make the tour.

THOUGH THE 20th edition of the Transpacific race start, July 4, will over-shadow on the sailing scene—and from then for the next three weeks—top-notch Corinthian events confront in the Southland.

Big and action-filled will be the Alamitos Bay Yacht Club's traditional holiday regatta, July 4, 6 and 7. There are four other events July 6 and 7:

Southern California Yachting Association's sectional eliminations for the Mallory (men's) and Adams (women's) North American championship trophies, at Newport; Santa Barbara's ever-colorful Semana Nautica; PC-Luders sailing eliminations at Balboa YC and, at both BYC and Newport Harbor YC, the annual holiday regatta.

Add, Thursday through Sunday, national Mercury class championships hosted by BYC. Defending champ is Bob Gaestel, whose Rhythm of Merced Sailing Club won at Lake Yosemite in 1956.

STEVE SEYMOUR
Javelin Throw Tops

Seymour's 240 Fling Tops Meet

Dr. Steve Seymour threw the javelin 240 feet 6 inches for the top performance in the first annual Long Beach State College All-Comers track and field meet on the 49er field Saturday.

Seymour uncorked an unofficial toss of 248-10 after the meet, the best effort of his career.

Norman Volen, East Los Angeles JC athlete who plans to enroll at Long Beach State in the fall, was named the meet's outstanding athlete because of his first places in the shot put and discus.

Only other double winner of the day was Richard Woolfe who took the sprints in 10.1 and 22.4. Jim Harris, who will be a senior at Downey High next fall, won the pole vault at 13 feet.

100—Woolfe, Scully, Mitchell, 10.1.
220—Woolfe, Scully, Bradley, 22.4.
440—Miller, Kyle, no third, 53.3.
880—Johnson, Bevins, McCormick, 2.03.
Mile—Bevins, Capps, Green, 4:34.3.
Two-mile—Guzman, Pitman, Green, 10:20.7.
High hurdles—Alderman, Tansley, Bevins, 17.8.
Low hurdles—Hill, Alderman, Mitchell, 27.5.
880 relay—Team of McDonald, Elles, Mitchell, Scully, 1:33.0.
Mile relay—Team of Mitchell, LaDuke, Ehlert, Johnson, 3:41.0.
Pole vault—Harris, Reese, MacDougall, 13-6.
High jump—Riddick, Alderman, Sullivan, 6-2
Shot put—Volen, Slocombe, Muldowney, 45-9¾.
Javelin—Seymour, Harlow, Ulrich, 240-6.
Broad jump—Alderman, Tansley, Riddick, 20-6.
Discus—Volen, Muldowney, Wulefloerg, 139-2.

Yankees, Bums Tops in Salaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major league financial statements filed with a House subcommittee support the old slogan that you get what you pay for:

The New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers paid out more in salaries last year than any other clubs in baseball.

The Yankees, it's not hard to recall, captured the American League pennant and then won the World Series from Brooklyn, National League champs.

Salary figures showed up in profit and loss sheets deposited with the House antitrust committee in its investigation of pro sports enterprises.

* * * *

THE SUBCOMMITTEE last week heard from baseball executives. On Monday it plans to question players themselves to get the workingmen's opinions on how baseball conducts its affairs.

Fiscal data supplied by baseball officials went into the record as part of the evidence on which the subcommittee will decide whether to recommend legislation to clarify the legal status of baseball, football, basketball and ice hockey. The Supreme Court has exempted baseball from federal antitrust laws but held that football — and boxing—are covered.

American League figures showed the Yanks first in player salaries for 1956 with a total of $680,679. Brooklyn topped the National League with $598,666.

* * * *

PLAYER SALARIES corresponded fairly well with the clubs' league standings all down the line. Here's a listing by outlay, with each team's position in the 1956 pennant races in parentheses:

AMERICAN LEAGUE
New York Yankees (1) $680,679, Cleveland (2) $557,172, Chicago White Sox (3) $436,081, Baltimore (4) $475,-276, Boston (5) $426,525, Kansas City (8) $346,297, Washington (7) $316,975, Detroit (5) no report filed.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Brooklyn (1) $598,666, New York Giants (6) $530,340, Milwaukee (2) $468,924, Philadelphia (8) $455,250, Cincinnati (3) $441,355, St. Louis (4) $412,-000, Chicago (8) $350,752, Pittsburgh (7) $346,822.

Hanks Tops Field at N.J. Speedway

TRENTON, N. J. (UP) — The speed trials started Saturday for today's inaugural stock car race of the Trenton International speedway. Among the first 10 men to qualify is Sam Hanks, this year's winner of the Indianapolis Classic.

Competing in the 300 mile race for a $15,000 prize will be the following 10 drivers; their cars and speed times are included.

1. Ralph Moody, '57 Ford, 95.651; 2. Sam Hanks, '57 Mercury, 95.151; 3. Russ Hepler, '57 Pontiac, 94.771; 4. Johnny Mantz, '57 Mercury, 94.353; 5. Marshall Teague, '57 Mercury, 94.167; 6. Johnny Parsons, '57 Mercury, 93.936; 7. Gerald Gorman, '56 Chevrolet, 93.157; 8. Bob James, '57 Chevrolet, 92.326; 9. Norman Nelson, '57 Mercury, 91.851; 10. Tom Horner, '56 Ford, 91.461.

JOCKEY BURR FINED $1,500

CHICAGO (UP) — Jockey Charley Burr, the nation's leading rider in 1951, Saturday was fined $1,500 and suspended until July 2 by the Illinois Racing Board on his admission he "cheated the scales."

The board said Burr, 23, admitted falsifying on the scales and riding light in Balmoral's fourth race at Washington Park on June 8.

Four races later on the same day, Burr won the $50,-000 Chicagoan with William S. Miller's Better Bee. Burr led all jockeys in the recently closed Balmoral meeting with 28 winners.

ERRORS NOT FOR HIM

Temple Fined $100 for Punching Official Scorer

CINCINNATI (UP)—Johnny Temple, fiery Cincinnati Redlegs second baseman, was fined $100 Saturday for punching the official scorer in Friday night's 3-2 loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates here.

The fine was levied by Warren Giles, National League president, after Temple argued with scorer Earl Lawson over an error the diminutive second baseman was charged with.

Temple issued a public apology to Lawson, Cincinnati Times-Star reporter serving as official scorer.

"I hope Earl will accept my apology," Temple said. "I'm glad I wasn't suspended."

The error was charged on a ground ball hit by Pirate catcher Hank Foiles. Temple rushed up to Lawson after the game and demanded: "Who was the official scorer?"

When Lawson replied that he was, the writer and Temple exchanged sharp words and fists flew until players separated the pair.

Post's Homer in 11th Sinks Pirates

CINCINNATI (UP) — Cincinnati's Redlegs went on another home run hitting binge Saturday with Wally Post's drive over the center field wall with two on the last of the 11th giving them a 6-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Post's blow, coming after Frank Robinson and Ed Bailey had walked, was off Nelson King, the last of three Pirate pitchers in the 11th.

Prior to that all of the Cincinnati runs had come on solo homers by Don Hoak, George Crowe, and Robinson.

THE PIRATES also got into the homerun hitting parade with circuit blows by Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski. Mazeroski's wallop had tied the score in the top of the eighth.

The game was stopped twice by rain—once for 39 minutes and the second time for 13 minutes.

The victory was credited to Brooks Lawrence and Bob Purkey, who was relieved by King, was the loser.

Fornieles Handcuffs A's on 6 Hits

BOSTON (AP)—Mike Fornieles may have ended the Boston Red Sox search for another starting pitcher Saturday by handcuffing Kansas City 5-1, on a six-hitter.

Used chiefly as a relief hurler since he entered the major leagues in 1952 at Washington, Fornieles turned in his second complete game for the Sox.

Billy Martin got to him for a leadoff home run in the sixth inning.

Mike, who had lost seven in a row, did not allow a walk. In 18 1-3 innings with the Sox he has issued only four passes.

Frank Malzone's two-run homer highlighted a four-run third inning for Boston.

Geiberger, Callison in Links Finals

Allen Geiberger, youthful defending champion from Santa Barbara, staged a furious finish Saturday to win his way into the finals of the Southern California Amateur Golf Championship Tournament along with Verne Callison of Sacramento.

Geiberger, who as a boy lived in Sacramento and frequently played with Callison, will clash with his former mentor in a 36-hole match at Lakeside Country Club today for the title starting at 9 a.m.

Callison had a fairly easy time in his semi-final match downing the veteran Bruce McCormick, 7 and 5. Callison was one over par for the 31 holes.

Geiberger, a 19-year-old stringbean who plans to enter SC in the fall, found himself three down to ex-champion Ted Richards with only five holes to play, but came on strong to win the next four holes and take the match 1-up.

Geiberger and Richards were even, with par 70s, at the end of the morning round. The Santa Barbara youth finished the 36-hole match one over par.

Mathes to Cards

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Joe Mathes, long-time farm director and later chief scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, announced Saturday that he had returned to the club as special scouting assistant to general manager Frank Lane.

Such Crust III Averages 83 MPH to Win at Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Such Crust III won the Detroit Memorial Regatta Saturday at an average 83.872 miles an hour under the hand of driver Freddie Alter. Such Crust had the fastest heat time, 85.769.

The tremendous thrust given by Such Crust's twin Allison engines gave Alter the lead by the first turn of the first lap of each of the heats.

Bob Schroeder in Wildroot Charlie finished second on points by winning the first elimination heat and taking second and third places in the two final heats.

Miss Wayne, piloted by Bud Saile, finished third with heat places of second, fourth and fifth. Miss Supertest was fourth. Wha Hoppen and Short Circuit were the other finishers.

Cornell Wins Third Straight IRA Title

SYRACUSE (UP) — Cornell's varsity crew, tabbed the greatest aggregation of oarsmen assembled in this generation, swept majestically Saturday to its third straight three-mile college rowing championship on choppy Lake Onondaga.

Pulling steadily in the long sweeping stroke so characteristic of coach Stork Sanford's crews, the powerful Big Red eight overhauled a sprinting Pennsylvania crew which had surprised everyone by jumping to a big early lead.

Edging in front at the two-mile mark, Cornell raced home two full lengths ahead of the Quakers with Stanford another length and one-half farther back in third place.

CORNELL'S excellent time of 15:26.6 was 18 seconds off the course record set by Navy's Olympic champions in 1952, the first year the IRA regatta moved here. A brisk 15-mile-an-hour wind pushed the Big Red home.

Pennsylvania was timed in 15:32.6 and Stanford was clocked in 15:39.5.

Cornell also took the junior varsity race with Syracuse and Penn second and third but Navy kept the Big Red from making a sweep by nabbing the freshman event. Results:

Varsity (3 miles): 1, Cornell, 15:26.6. 2, Penn, 15:32.6. 3, Stanford, 15:39.5. 4, Princeton, 15:42. 5, Syracuse, 15:47.9. 6, Navy, 15:56. 7, Dartmouth, 15:04.4. 8, M.I.T., 16:08.2. 9, Wisconsin, 16:11.3. 10, Columbia, 16:29.1.

Junior Varsity (3 miles): 1, Cornell, 15:48.8. 2, Syracuse, 15:57.2. 3, Penn, 16:02.2. 4, Navy, 16:08.1. 5, Princeton, 16:09.4. 6, Dartmouth, 16:32.3. 7, Columbia, 16:49.6.

MILLION-TO-1

2 Straight Golf Aces

GLENBROOK, Nev. (UP)—A million-to-one shot in the game of golf was scored here Saturday when two players fired consecutive holes-in-one in the annual Lake Tahoe Invitational golf tournament.

John Craig of San Francisco hit a wedge into the cup on the fly on the par three, 85-yard third hole. The next man up, playing in the same foursome, Frank Loperena of Taft, Calif., followed with a wedge shot which took two bounces and plopped into the cup on top of Craig's ball.

Craig is a 10 handicapper, Loperena a seven.

U.S. Women's Open Tourney to Begin

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UP)—Thirty-two professionals and 68 amateurs, headed by defending champion Kathy Cornelius of Dayton, O., tee off Thursday at the famed Winged Foot club in the U.S. Golf Association's fifth annual Women's Open championship.

Five former champions, last year's runnerup and holders of the world's four top women's championships were entered in the record field for the 72-hole championship. Single rounds are scheduled Thursday and Friday, with the 36-hole windup on Saturday for the 40 low scorers and ties.

INVESTIGATE BASEBALL REAL ESTATE DEALS

NEW YORK (UP)—The congressional investigation of sports will make public various baseball real estate deals, including the sale and resale of Yankee Stadium and the Brooklyn Dodger purchase of the ball park at Los Angeles, Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY) said Saturday.

Celler, home for the weekend, said "The public has the right to know all about the parks, not only the Yankee and Dodgers, but others also.

"We are trying to find if they are sports only, or businesses only, or a combination. When there are huge profits involved in the sale of ball parks, we must investigate."

Canada Thumps U.S. in World Soccer

TORONTO (AP) — Canada made its debut in world soccer competition Saturday night with a convincing 5-1 victory over the United States.

The Canadians scored two goals in the first half during spells of disorganized soccer. They came back strong in the second and netted three more goals.

The United States' goal came in the first half on a penalty kick by center half Harry Keough.

Catcher Sullivan to Rejoin Seals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Catcher Haywood Sullivan, a mainstay with the San Francisco Seals last season, will rejoin the club in less than two weeks.

The big fellow, property of the Seals' parent Boston Red Sox, was assigned here from Miami, the club announced. Sullivan played with the Red Sox briefly early in the season.

Last year with the Seals he hit .296.

Brantly Wins Amateur

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — Young Ed Brantly of Chattanooga, Tenn., threw a steady string of pars at defending champion Arnold Blum of Macon, Ga., Saturday to win the Southern Amateur golf championship with an upset 3 and 2 victory.

Bob Kelley Says—

Was UCLA's Henry Sanders given another push by the California Board of Regents Friday—a push out of Westwood?

One veteran PCC official sees it that way.

"When Cal went out of its way and reached an agreement with UCLA to leave the Conference simultaneously in 1959, there had to be a reason for the sudden buddy-buddy feeling. UCLA must have made some concession."

The man believes the concession was a promise that the Bruins would dismiss Coach Sanders before the '59 secession.

"Sanders has irked not only athletic officials at rival schools, but faculty men as well. Right or wrong, they don't like his sowhat attitude.

"Had Sanders played it smart, he would have put on the humble act when he was caught and penalized. Instead he played it haughtily, and it really riled a lot of big people in the Coast athletic picture."

WHILE HE HAS been a hero to Bruin followers, Sanders has been a demon to other schools since he first came to UCLA.

They didn't mind his breaking rules. "We break rules ourselves," one SC athletic official told me. "We broke 'em and we got caught. That was the chance we took. So we accepted our punishment without any wailing or screaming.

"However, Sanders has been breaking rules openly and flagrantly ever since he came to UCLA. And his attitude since last year's penalties hasn't helped his position, either."

Athletic director Wilbur Johns, who has been shunted to the sideline since the coming of the charming and take-chargish Mr. Sanders, admits the Bruins will probably be tossed out of the PCC in 1958 before they have a chance to withdraw when their penalty is up in '59.

Johns' inference is very sound. Now that the boys in the Northwest know they have lost the two California schools (and undoubtedly SC, too) they will have to make a save-face move of their own.

THIS WOULD AMOUNT to voting for the expulsion next summer.

Johns, by the way, will not be at all concerned at the departure of Sanders. There has been a growing sub rosa resentment between the two for several years now.

As athletic director, Johns feels he should have a voice, a large one, in big decisions.

It turns out, however, that Sanders has blustered in like gang busters and runs the whole show. It does something to a man's pride.

Wilbur has been relegated almost to the spot of a great old guy named Bill Spaulding, who was athletic director in name only after he retired from coaching.

In Spaulding's case, however, there was no strain. Bill knew the situation and didn't let it bother him.

As far as he was concerned, the fewer hours he had to keep and the fewer decisions he had to make was all to his advantage.

But Wilbur Johns has a different outlook. Both he and Sanders would deny it heatedly if you ask them.

Yet it is fact that they have no use for one another.

(Tune in Bob Kelley nightly at 6 on KMPC.)

City Women's Golf Trials on Monday

By JERRY WYNN

A record field that should exceed 120 by tee-off time will qualify Monday in the 30th annual Long Beach City Women's Golf Championship at Recreation Park.

One of the oldest and best of all Southern California women's events, the City Championship has attracted another outstanding group of candidates for a title that is being vacated by Shirley Hale. Mrs. Hale, a 2 and 1 victor over Dora Donaldson in the 1956 finals, has temporarily withdrawn from tournament play because of motherhood.

Three former champions will be on hand. There's Sonny Rife, the remarkable veteran of local golfdom; Mrs. Donaldson, the 1949 champion, and Jane Cadotte, who captured the 1955 crown. However, neither Dora nor Jane will be favored this week.

That No. 1 role falls to Recreation Park Women's Club president Ruth Miller, the new Los Angeles City champion, who surprisingly has never won a major tournament on her home course. With her four handicap (to men's par) one of the lowest in the Southland, she rates as a strong choice for at least medalist honors.

Other leading candidates are Martha Walker, Joan Bescos and Barbara Crooker of Virginia CC; Betse Straub and La-Verna Johnson, Lakewood; Trina Van Der Linden and Norma Deeble, Meadowlark; Eoline Thornton, Recreation Park; Harriett Glanville, Palos Verdes, and Donna Howitt, Inglewood.

The 16 low scorers Monday will enter championship flight play on Tuesday with the remainder of the field forming handicap flights. Finals in all flights are scheduled for Friday.

Connie Freeze is tournament chairman with a committee composed of Ruth Miller, Charli Swanburg, George Lake and Gene Combs. Post-time entries will be accepted Monday's starting times:

9 a.m.—Helen Hartling, Dorothy Key, Lillian Smith; 9:06—Bertha Hyde, Lorraine Quinlan, Edna Kelly; 9:12—Rose Combs, Maddienna Browning, Annabel Beals; 9:18—Ruby Perry, Helen Buck, Alberta Snavely; 9:24—Gwen McDaniel, Fern Pemberton, Adele Lahmann; 9:30—Jane Chamberlain, Norma Deeble, Roberta Carr; 9:36—Lou Grand, Trina Van Der Linden, Marjorie Simms; 9:42—Jackie Ash, Jane Cadotte, Marian Slocombe; 9:48—Sonny Rife, Mary Boulware, Edie Allinder; 9:54—Juanita Ludwick, Ruth Wilcox, Melba Paquin.

Kono Regains AAU Weight Lifting Title

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Tommy T. Kono, 26-year-old Olympic weight lifting champion from Honolulu, regained his national AAU title Saturday.

Kono lifted a total of 970 pounds in three phases of the contest and took back the light-heavyweight crown from Jimmy George, University of Hawaii student who won last year. Kono hefted 310 pounds in the two-handed press, 295 pounds in snatch and 365 pounds in the clean and jerk.

COE UPSET IN TRANS-MISS GOLF SEMIS

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—John Zibnack, an unheralded former football player who sprays golf shots with the winds, upset champion Charlie Coe Saturday and won a berth in the Trans-Mississippi golf finals against Coe's Walker Cup teammate, Rex Baxter Jr. of Amarillo, Tex.

Zibnack, a Denver school teacher, nosed out Coe, 2 and 1, while Baxter, a University of Houston senior, won his way into the finals for the third time in four years by cutting down Jerry Pittman, Southern Methodist sophomore from Tulsa, Okla., 3 and 2.

Got your fingers crossed? Then let's hope for a match play bracketing in the Long Beach City Women's Championship this week that has Ruth Miller and Jane Cadotte at opposite ends.

Although 100 per cent impartial and not by any means discounting the chances of Dora Donaldson and others, we do feel the tournament figures to be a two-way battle between the pair of talented Recreation Park ladies who'll be playing on their home course. A final between them would be a natural.

Both are at near peak form. Ruth has been the sensation of the tournament season with her victory in the Los Angeles City Championship and fine play in private club events. Jane has been practicing intensely after a long layoff and feels she is now "playing as well and hitting the ball with more consistency" than in her great year of 1955 when she won both Long Beach and Los Angeles City titles.

It was also in 1955, that Jane beat Ruth, 2 and 1, in Club Championship finals — the only time they have ever played against each other.

This is an important year for both ladies as they are entered in the National Women's Amateur at Sacramento, Aug. 19-24. Their success this week could be an indication of things to come. Fingers crossed?

ENTRIES ARE being accepted for the 12th annual Meadowlark 54-hole Invitational, the medal play replica of the Long Beach City Championship, to be held Thursday, July 4, and Saturday and Sunday, July 6-7.

Play will be in five flights for $1,000 in prizes. The championship flight is limited to 0-4 handicappers. Maximum handicap is 18. For information and entry blanks call tournament chairman Bob Cook, HEmlock 3-9861, or the Meadowlark golf shop, HE 4-1416.

Players who are also entered in National Public Links qualifying on July 7 should call Harry Packham, USGA Publinx representative, at Rancho golf course and Cook to arrange starting times. Both parties will cooperate.

ALTHOUGH THE $7,500 Southern California PGA Championship is still several weeks away, the pros have already started firing practice rounds at Recreation Park.

Big Mike Austin played in last Monday's windstorm and hit a 3-wood off the first tee that carried over the green—a shot of some 300 yards. He scored a 73 as did 1955 finalist Cecil Harris. Ed Hamilton had a 70 with four birdies and an eagle. Smiley Quick, not eligible for the tourney, turned in a four-under par 68.

The dates for the big event are July 11-14.

A TOTAL OF 295 youngsters attended Tuesday's opening instruction session in the summer junior golf program at Recreation Park . . .

And on the subject of children, congratulations to Johnny Arselmo of Lakewood, who became a father for the third time on Father's Day. It was a boy, Danny Lee . . .

The public is invited to attend a showing of the 1957 Los Angeles Open films at the monthly meeting of the Bellflower Golf Center Men's Club at the Center Monday night.

Jack Economou, the new sensation of the South Course, credits his improved play to "opening his stance a little while putting and hitting my irons very well" . . .

Wally Fisher, former Jordan High and Lakewood golfer, has turned professional and is teaching at the Recreation Park (!) course and range in Lancaster . . .

The junior golf season swings into action this week with the Pasadena Junior at Brookside Park Tuesday through Thursday and the Western Ave. Junior on Friday . . .

The 18th hole at Meadowlark was the scene of two recent eagles. Jack Wilson made it with a 5-iron while Butler Jones plunked his in with a 7-iron . . .

HOLE-IN-ONE honors to Naomi Wolfe, Jack Economou, Madree Jackson, Doyle Johnson, J. W. Stonebarger and R. A. Anderson.

Mrs. Wolfe of the Virginia Women's Club hit a 4-iron on the 139-15th at Virginia while competing in the Marge Ferrie tournament a week ago. She played with Joan Bescos, Dorothy Mularky and Mrs. J. V. Evans.

Economou and Miss Jackson both connected on the 130-yard fifth hole at Recreation Park. For Economou, it led to a three-under par 69. He played with Lance Hayser, Bill Elgin Jr. and Koy Delioure. Miss Jackson of Los Angeles had Lawrence Jones and Gwen McDaniel as partners.

Johnson of Wilmington hit a 6-iron with the wind to the 156-yard seventh at Meadowlark with Bill Guessman and Buddy Rogers looking on.

Stonebarger and Anderson were heroes at the South Course. Stonebarger of 3761 Gundry Ave. ticketed a 3-wood on the 170-yard ninth hole with Stowe Barger, Henry Schulenberg, Paul Hoy and W. M. Hoffman in the foursome. Anderson of Anaheim conquered the 123-yard eighth hole.

IT WAS A FOUR-WAY tie for first among Jack Gates, Neal White, Gordon Shallenberger and Joe Mullarky in the Saturday Sweepstakes at Virginia Country Club. They had low nets of 66.

Low Net—Tie for first among Jack Gates, 71-5—66; Neal White, 69-3—66; Gordon Shallenberger, 81-15—66; Joe Mullarky, 81-13—68; tie for fifth among Don Schorovsky, 78-5—67; Rex Wall, 75-3—67; Dr. Walter Newburn, 82-15—67; tie for eighth among Dick Lawson Jr., 76-8—66; Roy Brown, 79-11—68; W. R. Oliver, 85-26—68; Dr. W. S. Cheney, 90-22—68; John Mead, 81-13—68; Jack Watkins, 76-5—68.

New Horses at Caliente

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico—Today's program which marks the beginning of the Fiesta Del Pacifico, the borderland's gala month, is filled with interesting fields in which new horses from various major tracks play important roles.

The six-furlong Fiesta Prevue Handicap has nine named to go gateward, headed by the local star Wickerbill, high-weighted with 120 pounds. Opposing will be Fleet Domingo, a Bay Meadows horse who has won two of three local starts, Rex Ellsworth's Straight A, winner of one start here, Cipria a Turf Paradise star and Rosma, another immigrant.

The Fairest of the Fair Purse, a mile and a sixteenth, has 14 entered, among them such good distance runners as Chayotero, Just As Fast, Skooting, Don Richards, Anaethetist and Lucrative.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

While Long Beach anglers were content this week with heavy catches of yellowtail, barracuda and even big bull bass, San Diego's fishermen were getting a plain case of "albacore jitters." The longfins were inching closer to the Coronado Islands each day.

In fact, the albacore were close enough for the San Diego sportsfishing fleet to start the annual "albacore specials." A few pioneering boats picked up about 100 albacore Thursday and a similar number Friday within three and a half hours of Point Loma.

The commercials — about 300 boats — were converging on banks farther south and having fair to good catches. San Diego canneries had not even settled on a definite price, but were advancing $300 a ton, in lieu of a contract with the commercial skippers.

All of that makes interesting reading for Long Beach fishermen, but just now they are so intent on the yellows and barries that they don't care about any special long trips for the albacore. They figure that, give or take a couple of weeks, the longfins will be in this area.

* * * *

THERE'S SOMETHING to be remembered about our local fishing. The totals each day are big, but that doesn't mean that every angler is getting his share.

Most of those totals are coming from the boats that make the banks at dawn — yes, even before dawn. That seems to be the best time for both yellowtail and barracuda.

Checking on boats last week, we discovered that one boat making consistent daily catches of 250 or 300 barries and 50 to 100 yellows was getting 90 per cent of its catch from 4:30 a. m. to 7 a. m.

That shows that the fish are hitting hard in the early hours, then going down and making only spasmodic passes at baits thereafter. So, it just isn't in the cards for a fisherman to expect even partial limits of those gamey fish when he doesn't leave the landing here until 7 a. m.

Dana Point remained the best area, but the Horseshoe Kelp ran it a close second.

THE DUNCANS—Cecil and Marjorie—who operate Duncan's Resort on Nimpo Lake in British Columbia, write that their season got under way a month ago. The first 15 parties, says Cecil, "complained" about fishing. Yes, they complained that they caught their limits so fast the first hour in the morning that they couldn't fish any more.

We carried a full column about the Duncans last winter. They have a marvelous resort in the Caribou Valley. Nimpo Lake is 196 miles west of Williams Lake, and Williams is 300 miles north and slightly east of Vancouver.

Rainbow trout—thousands of them—are the only fish caught in Nimpo and the Dean River which flows into and out of the lake. Seldom does a fisherman get a trout under two pounds and not often over five pounds. Whocan ask for anything better?

Cecil writes that road conditions are as follows: Some construction in Frazer and Thompson River Canyons en route from Vancouver to Williams; most of highway is hard-surfaced and in good shape; secondary road from Williams to Nimpo in good summer condition. It was graded for its full length after the snow melted last spring.

You may write to the Duncans at the Kleena Kleene P.O., British Columbia. Reservations through September are necessary inasmuch as the Duncans have limited accommodations.

JAKE POOL, supervisor of Burney-McArthur Memorial State Park at Burney, writes about fishing conditions in his section of Northern California:

"Fishing at its best; stream in park producing some nice limits, even some fish up to 3 pounds. DF&G planning regular plants each week.

"Lake Britton producing bass up to 5 and 6 pounds. One angler took a 10-pound brown at McArthur Lake last week. I fished Bear Creek the other evening and caught quite a variety—5 eastern brook, 2 brown and a lone rainbow."

EASTERN SIERRA summary for the week reads like this:

Fishing picking up everywhere, with DF&G stocking heavily in preparation for the thousands of vacationists. . . . Long Pine section good, with best streams Independence, Oak, Tinnemaha, Goodale, Taboose and Division heavy stocks going to Big Pine, Little Pine and Baker Creeks. . . . Sabrina and North Lakes excellent. . . . South Lake and tributaries also very good, particularly Bishop Creek. . . . Bishop Pass is open. . . . Pluto Pass has some rough snow conditions, but should be in good shape by middle of coming week, possibly suitable for hikers by July 1. . . . Hirchim Canyon reports good to excellent, with big catches on the new Pleasant Valley Reservoir. . . . Crowley Lake slow, with wind interfering considerably. . . . Mary, George and Mamie Lakes (Mammoth area) free of ice and providing fair to good fishing. . . . Road open to Red's Meadows, but upper water of San Joaquin River high and roily, and fishing there is only fair. . . . Grant and Silver Lakes best in the June Lake Loop. . . . Bridgeport Lake—its name has been changed from "Reservoir"—still offering good fishing for trout weighing around 1½ to 3 pounds. . . . Virginia Lakes all open and first anglers in report good catches. . . . Fishing poor on all lakes in the Sonora Pass area because of bad weather, but packers say those will reach peak in mid-July. . . . Best fish caught to date in Crowley Lake is the 10-pounder taken May 31 by John H. Longshore. . . . Mrs. Alma L. Miller, Torrance, has bettered that by one-half pound, taking a big brown in Hirchim Canyon. . . . Remember that Crowley closes July 31, so that leaves only a few weekends.

TACKLE PERSONALS—If you like hot weather, you can get plenty of it and also plenty of bass at Cottonwood Cove on Mohave Lake. Some of the Colorado River "faithful" have been taking bankers from 4 to 7 pounds there with little effort.

Highways 18 and 30 into Big Bear Lake are open all the time now. Construction work, which forced daytime closing of a two-mile stretch has been completed sufficiently to permit two lanes of traffic all the time.

Long Beach Spin-Fishing Club officials announce several important dates: July 7, match with Alamitos Bay Sportsmen; Aug. 3, children's fishing trip aboard barge; late August, button contests with Douglas L. B. Rod & Gun Club, and a breakwater fishing contest in September with the Gardena Valley Sportsmen.

Albacore Landed

First albacore caught this season off Long Beach sports fishing boats were landed Saturday. Four longfins were brought to gaff by anglers on the Fisherman and six were taken on the Fisherman II.

The Pacific Landing boats hit the albacore off the east end of San Clemente Island after taking good catches of barracuda at Dana Point early in the morning.

Anglers aboard from Pierpoint, Seal Beach Pier and Pacific Landings caught 621 barracuda and 57 yellowtail Saturday.

FERRIER ENTERS

Former National PGA champion Jim Ferrier of Lakeside Golf Club has entered the $7,500 Southern California PGA Championship to be held at Recreation Park, July 11-14, it was announced Saturday. Ferrier won the event in 1955.

Weaver's 68 Nets 1-Stroke Lead at Flint

FLINT, Mich. (UP) — Bert Weaver, a 25-year-old golfing unknown from Beaumont, Tex., fired a three-under-par 68 Saturday to grab a one-stroke lead at the three-quarter mark of the $37,000 Flint Open.

Weaver, who lost his car but escaped injury when he was caught in last month's tornado at Kansas City, fired seven birdies and had four bogeys to take a one-stroke lead over Arnold Palmer, the second leading money winner from Latrobe, Pa., and Paul Harney, Bolton, Mass.

Weaver, a former Louisiana State University golfer, has won less than $3,000 on the pro circuit and this is the first time he has ever been a leader. His best finish to date was a third in the Azalea Open earlier this year. Leaders:

Tennis Films to Be Shown Here Tuesday

Films of the past three Wimbledon tennis tourneys and Davis Cup finals will be shown Tuesday night at the Recreation Park 18th hole golf course clubhouse, the Recreation Dept. announced Saturday.

Tennis director Clyde Walker invites players of all ages in the area to attend free of charge. Style of such top players as Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall, Ham Richardson, Vic Seixas, Doris Hart and Louise Brough will be featured. The show starts at 7:30 p.m.

Commissioners Meet This Week

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)—Commissioners of 11 major athletic conferences will attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Collegiate Commissioners at the Broadmoor Hotel this week.

Included among the items for discussion are recruiting, rules on transfer students, football, television, summer basketball and baseball, national physical fitness program, rules and mechanics for officiating in football and basketball and NCAA policies in general.

Aussie Trio Picked at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Australia's talented trio of Hoad, Cooper and Fraser overshadow the field and emphasize the decline of Americans as the world's finest players prepare to open the Wimbledon tennis championships.

As defender of the Wimbledon men's singles title, Lew Hoad will play the opening match Monday on the center court against Pierre Darmon, a Frenchman with all-to-gain and not a care on earth.

There hardly is a flutter — from the players themselves, tennis officials, fans or bettors —for anyone in the contingent from the United States.

Only among the women does the U. S., dominant power since Helen Wills began her eight-championship run in 1927, have a fair chance for a winner.

Althea Gibson of New York, is odds on choice to become the first Negress to win the women's singles. She first must defeat Suze Koermooczy of Hungary who almost annually upsets at least one star.

The tournament runs through July 6 when the women's singles championship match is played. The men's singles final will be July 5.

Hamilton Richardson, America's first ranked player and third seed from Baton Rouge, La., begins his campaign against Chilean star, Luis Ayala.

Arnold Snares London Net Title

LONDON (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Mimi Arnold of Miami, Fla., won the women's singles crown in the London Lawn Tennis championships Saturday, downing Mrs. Zsuzi Kormeczy of Hungary, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3.

The men's singles title went to Ashley Cooper, second-seeded Australian player for the Wimbledon championships, June 24-July 6. Cooper defeated fellow Australian Neale Fraser, the defending champ, 6-8, 6-2, 6-3.

The women's doubles final was won by Althea Gibson and Darlene Hard of the U.S. who defeated Mary Hawton and Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3. Ham Richardson and Vic Seixas of the U. S. and Australia's Neale Fraser and Lew Hoad had won a set each in men's doubles when darkness halted play.

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Mike Morrow, veteran coach who led San Diego Junior College to the co-championship of the Metropolitan Conference and the state JC finals this year, has signed to coach the University of San Diego baseball team, it was announced Saturday.

MODIFIED STOCK CARS RACE TODAY

Thunderbird, Corvette and Fury engines power some of the autos that compete today in the NASCAR modified stock-car races at Gardena Stadium. Time trials begin at 1 p.m., first race 2 p.m.

NASCAR rules are quite liberal so that mechanics enjoy much leeway in using rac- and other souping-up equipment on the cars. Also, late-model engines may be used in older stock cars of the same manufacture.

Rex Schendley, Johnny Jones, Johnny Potter and Lady Leadfoot Hilla Paulson are among top threats.

Decathlon Wide Open

KINGSBURG, Calif. (AP)—Wide open competition looms for the National AAU decathlon here Friday and Saturday after world record-holder Rafer Johnson announced he'll be unable to defend his championship. A knee ailment has hampered the big UCLA star this spring and doctors advised him not to attempt defense of his crown.

Also skipping the event is Milton Campbell, the former University of Indiana great who beat Johnson in the Olympic Games.

The first day of the decathlon includes the 100-meter dash, broad jump, shotput, high jump, and 400-meter run. On the second day's program are the 110-meter high hurdles, discus, pole vault, javeline and 1,500-meter run.

Bob Gutowski of Occidental College, who shattered the world pole vault record this spring, is expected among the top scorers. Gutowski, Bob Lawson of SC and Oregon's David Edstrom and Steve Anderson may better 7,000 points, but Johnson's record of 7,985 points doesn't appear in jeopardy.

Bertoia, Hoak Poll Surprises

NEW YORK (AP)—Reno Bertoia of Detroit and Don Hoak of Cincinnati, a couple of so-so third basemen in pre-season accounting, continued Saturday to make strong bids to be in the starting lineups for the All-Star game at St. Louis, July 9.

Bertoia, 22-year-old former bonus player little used by Detroit until this year, leads the American League third base balloting in a close race with New York's Gil McDougald and Baltimore's George Kell. Hoak, meantime, has closed to within about 2,500 votes of Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee.

Centerfielder Mickey Mantle of the Yanks remains the top vote-getter with 50,591. Boston's Ted Williams, the AL leftfield leader, has polled 49,942. Stan Musial of St. Louis tops the National League in popularity with 45,300 first base votes.

All ballots received by the commissioner's office before midnight Thursday will be tabulated.

Zany California Cuties Play Luckyettes Sunday

When the zany California Cuties appear at Park Ave. field next Sunday night, June 30, they will be playing one of Southern California's leading girls softball teams—the Long Beach Luckyettes.

The Luckyettes, managed by Patte Kelly and coached by Lloyd Buchtelle and Raymond Cline, were unbeaten in the Long Beach girls league last year and posted an amazing 42-2 season record. They went on to win the Sawtelle tourney title.

So far this year, the Luckyettes have won seven and lost one, led by the brilliant pitching of Pat Simpson. Other Luckyette stars are Millie Wells, now in her 20th year of second basing; Doris Shilling, catcher, and Chickie Jones, shortstop.

The Cuties, a men's team attired in ladies' garments, have entertained huge crowds on nationwide barnstorming trips for several years. Their comical antics feature Liza Jane and Vampira, pitchers; Hefty Helen, outfielder, and Beulah, the 36-inch midget short-fielder. Game time Sunday will be 8 p.m.

Cycles in Tourist Run

A special racing program—an American Motorcycle Assn.-sanctioned tourist-trophy race—is billed today at Los Angeles Speedway, 182nd St and Vermont Ave. Action starts at 2:30 p.m., following time trials at 1 p.m.

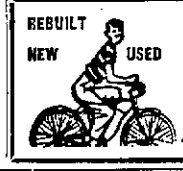

The race has drawn entries from such leading stars as Johnny Gibson, Don Hawley, Tex Luce, George Everett, Johnny Rich, Gary Sowell and Bob (Red) Harrison. A field of 100 will compete.

The tourist-trophy race will be on a figure-eight course that runs through the infield at the new half-mile strip.

Stocks Featured on Gardena July 4 Card

Fourth of July holidays will bring on automotive and pyrotechnic fireworks in Gardena Stadium's fourth annual Independence Day programs, promoters Tom Haynes and Harry Schooler announced Saturday.

Auto racing action will be furnished by NASCAR's late-model stock cars on Wednesday night, July 3, while the same group's modified stock cars compete Thursday night, July 4.

Alamitos Post Hands Shua 1st Loss, 9-2

By GENE ESQUIVEL

Al Roman slugged a triple, double and a single in four trips Saturday to spark Alamitos Bay Post to a 9-2 junior legion triumph over previously unbeaten Shua at Millikan High field.

Speedy righthander Ron England held the losers to seven hits, struck out four and issued four walks.

Alamitos third baseman Dave Courtemarche drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the third inning. Frank Adlesh and Ron Casaga drove in three runs apiece for the winners.

Both clubs now have 3-1 records.

Shua meets San Pedro today and Alamitos hosts Hawthorne at Millikan.

With each step... this young man is preparing for a successful future!

gaining business experience
As a newspaperboy, he runs his own profitable business. He buys at wholesale . . . sells at retail . . . and regularly banks part of his profits.
Many of today's top executives and civic leaders got their first business training on a newspaper route.
learning salesmanship
In competition with other boys, he is finding out how to sell his newspaper and himself—and thus, sign up more subscribers and increase his profits.
This young businessman is supplementing his classroom lessons. On the spot "job training" is preparing him for the future.
building self-confidence
Daily contacts with his customers help him gain self-assurance. He knows how to talk to adults—and how to work with boys his own age.
When he applies for his first full-time job, he'll have an advantage over boys who somehow missed this opportunity.
Busy Boys Are Better Boys
If you think your son or some other youngster might profit by similar Newspaperboy experience, why not suggest that he come in and talk to us.

SUNDAY
Your Newspaperboy will appreciate it if you will have your money ready for him when he makes his regular collections. That will save him time and help him maintain his profits.

South's Governors See No Integration

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Two southern governors said Saturday the South is hardening, rather than slackening, its resistance to racial integration in the schools.

Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia and Gov. George B. Timmerman Jr. of South Carolina, early arrivals for the 49th annual national governors' conference, said in separate interviews the Supreme Court's school-integration opinion is nowhere near enforcement in their states.

Stanley, host governor for the conference in historic Williamsburg, said he does not believe the controversial question of racial segregation will be injected into the governor's discussion today of education problems.

But he made it plain he feels any avoidance of the subject cannot be interpreted as a trend toward Dixie acceptance of integration.

"In my judgment," he said, "the people of the South are more determined than they ever were to preserve their way of life and their social customs. They are not willing to accept racial integration in the schools."

Kremlin Still Claims Coup in Television Broadcast

By ROBERT E. LEE
I-P-T Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Russians are still trying their darndest to make propaganda hay out of the now-famous CBS television interview with Khrushchev.

They think they have a good thing going and they obviously are determined to make the most of it.

Whether his June 2 question-and-answer session with American reporters was indeed a diplomatic coup for the Russian Communist boss and his Kremlin cohorts is still open to question.

But Moscow is giving every indication that it believes it was.

Russian broadcasts prepared for both domestic consumption and overseas propaganda use are still hammering daily on the theme that the United States and its citizens now know that the Russians want peace.

One broadcast by a Pravda expert last week declared flatly: "It is quite obvious, that Khrushchev's interview broadcast on American television played a favorable role in the rapproachment between the Soviet and the American peoples. Many millions of Americans now have an idea of what the Soviet Union wants and strives for.

"The interview has certainly strengthened those forces in the United States which are fighting for peace and international cooperation. It was a blow to the American iron curtain as it forced the Americans to start talking about it and to demand its removal."

Comments on the broadcast by Americans are being wrenched out of context to make it appear to the Russian people and the rest of the world that Khrushchev really cleared the air and practically made the world safe again for democracy.

The consensus here appears to be that while the interview was probably ill-timed from the standpoint of the London negotiations on disarmament, Khrushchev hardly made the impression his propaganda agents now say he did.

William Broom, of the Independent-Press Telegram's Washington bureau, who was in London when the interview was rebroadcast there, reported that Khrushchev laid an egg.

But from the Russian point of view, as expressed in one official broadcast beamed abroad, "the effect was enormous."

Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

Much has been said about the "battle of ratings" between Ed Sullivan of CBS and Steve Allen of NBC. Sullivan, in a communique, says that his show has won 48 out of a possible 52 victories and there is "no contest."

Tonight at 8 p.m. and (2) "The Ed Sullivan Show" celebrates its ninth anniversary on the air. Staged at the Marine Theater at Jones Beach, N. Y., the show lines up with an elaborate water spectacle plus stars on a special stage. Burt Lancaster and Barbara Nichols will do a comedy skit; Gene Kelly and Sullivan will team as a dancing combination; Julie Wilson will sing some songs; Lou Holtz tells more jokes; Guy Lombardo is interviewed; Dick Contino plays his accordion and the Aqua Belles swim, the Cypress Garden Water Skiers perform and there'll be a showboat setting for singers David Atkinson and Gloria Hamilton to duet upon. The climax will be a huge fireworks display.

So over on (4) what's cooking? "Steve Allen Show" lines up Pat Boone, newest singing sensation; comedians Lou Costello and Jonathan Winters, vocalist Abbey Lincoln and The Ames Brothers to celebrate Steve's first year on the Sunday night spot.

Frankly it looks like another victory for "Sullivan Show."

DAYTIME DATA

"Telerama," the City of Hope telethon, starts again at 9 a.m. and continues until 5 p.m. on (5). "NBC Matinee Theater" will do a drama depicting the life of the famed hospital at 10:30 a.m. with John Conte as the narrator. Another segment will come from Disneyland Hotel where owner Jack Wrather and his wife, Bonita Granville, will entertain Hollywood celebrities at the big swimming pool patio. Stars galore throughout the day. . . . Vice President Nixon guests on "American Government" (4) at 9:30 to discuss his job as Vice President. . . . The unusual and beautiful Neighborhood Church of Palos Verdes on "Great Churches of the Golden West" (11) at 11 a.m. . . . NEW TIME for "American Forum" (4) is 1 p.m. with three governors taking part. . . . Sacramento-Los Angeles on (9) at 1:25. . . . Singer Monica Lewis will be featured on "Dress Blues" as the Marine Corps show moves into the 1:30 p.m. time on (2). It's a NEW SHOW with Lt. Bob Osterberg in charge of introducing the guests. . . . Finals of the Southern California amateur golf tourney from Lakeside Country Club, on (11) at 3 p.m. with Bill Welsh, Fred Hessler and four-time winner Johnny Dawson as announcers. . . . "The Last Word" (2) at 3 p.m. has author Meyer Levin and actress Nancy Kelly on the panel. . . . NEW TIME — "Harvest" (4) moves to 3:30 p.m. with Dr. Baxter discussing George Lillo, a playwright of some years back.

6 P.M.

Govs. Thomas Stanley (Va) and James P. Coleman (Miss) will "Meet the Press" (4).

6:30 P.M.

"West Point of the Air" starring Wallace Berry, Robert Young, Robert Taylor, Maureen O'Sullivan, Rosalind Russell, Lewis Stone and James Gleason on (11).

Bobby Banas, dancer and

MONICA LEWIS
She'll Sing

Rosalie Kurowski are featured on "Polka Parade" (5), along with Eileen Christy and Walter Ekard.

7 P.M.

Moscow will be the "Faraway Places" visited via film on (9).

Jeff and Porky try to impress a girl with their bravery and hurt Pokey. "Lassie" (2) gives a blood transfusion to the little canine.

Mr. Gor Don, who is really Gordon Andrews, a salesman at Gilbert's in Long Beach, will do his famous parachute leap while handcuffed during "You Asked For It" (7).

"My Favorite Husband" starring Barry Nelson and Vanessa Brown is the re-run series replacing the "Jack Benny Show" on (2). They get a fulltime maid tonight and results are quite amusing.

Corky finds a place for a homeless boy with the circus but the boy's belligerency alienates him from the circus folk until some facts are brought out. "Circus Boy" (4) stars Mickey Braddock.

8 P.M.

"Sullivan" and "Allen," (2) and (4). See above.

9 P.M.

COLOR — "Alcoa Hour" (4) stars Eddie Bracken as an average working man who endures 24 hours of terror when he receives a crudely written note threatening his life.

The movie on (11) is "Leave Her to Heaven" starring Gene Tierney, Cornel Wilde and Jeanne Crain. Story of a selfish woman who stops at no ends to keep her love. Very dramtic.

"G. E. Theater" re-run (2) stars George Sanders as a smooth-talking doctor in a case based on records of the AMA cancer cure and what happens when he finds he has the disease.

9:30 P.M.

Two travelers sitting alone in an isolated train depot eye each other with mounting fear, each thinking the other may be a maniacal killer on the loose. "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" (2) Albert Salmi and Robert Harris as co-stars in suspense.

David Hawkins, 23-year-old turncoat who stayed in Red China for two years, is interviewed by "Mike Wallace" on (7).

Billy Pearson with $142,000 in winnings will meet Jane Wilson for $8,000 during "$64,000 Challenge" on (2). Al Einfrank of L. A. and Richard Harrison face a $16,000 query.

10:45 P.M.

Frankie Laine shows films of his command performance before the crowned heads of England during "Sunday News with Bill Welsh" on (11).

MONDAY DAYTIME DATA

Jack Lescoulie takes over as host of "Today" (4) at 6 a.m. while Garroway vacations for seven weeks. Gene Kelly guests in one segment. . . . Lola Albright of the "Bob Cummings Show" shows her singing prowess for "Panorama Pacific" (2) at 7 a.m. and Helen Parrish back from Hawaii. . . . Judy Scott wings for "Club Sixty (4) in COLOR at 10:30. . . . The newlyweds report back to "House Party" (2) at 11:30 to tell of their experiences. . . . The story of a middle-aged film producer whose peaceful second marriage is haunted by the memory of his deceased boyhood love until he meets the niece who outwardly resembles her is told on "Matinee Theater" (4), in COLOR, at 12 noon. . . . The Hi-Los will be singing for the "Bob Crosby Show" (2) at 12:30 p.m. after a trip east for personal appearances. They replace the vacationing Modernaires. . . . Mrs. Pauline McCarthy, a housewife, will become a TV personality for a week and starts out on "The Garry Moore Show" (2) at 2 p.m. . . . "Dear Phoebe," a horrible example of what newspapers are NOT like, re-runs on (4) at 2 p.m. . . . Lois Collins one of America's highest paid models, will give some pointers on protection against sunburn during "Home" (4) at 3 p.m.

JUST OPEN
NEW OFFICE FOR LOCAL BUSINESS
$350 MO. GUAR.
$645 MO.

We have immediate need for five clean-cut, neat appearing, aggressive men with various backgrounds who know that their last job has led them nowhere and promised no future. Many times a person gets tired of the same old routine and wonders if there is a job available where a sincere, aggressive man can really make a future for himself. If you are presently dissatisfied there are three things you can do:

1—Change your location.
2—Change your occupation.
3—Change yourself.

In most instances, you should only change your occupation to help you realize what work you are best suited for. We offer you:

Unbiased Scientific Aptitude Testing Plan

Which is absolutely free, which we welcome you to take advantage of. This will tell us whether you possess the fundamental qualities to success with the Scott & Fetzer Co. We start our men at $450 month guarantee, plus a bonus plan.

Paid vacations, etc. PAY increases rapidly as you learn the work.

AN UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

Our advertising firm is expanding in the local area and has an opening for a man 25 to 30 years of age with car. No previous experience in our particular business is necessary but some type of past sales experience is essential. The position is that of Lease Representative and as such requires a personality of the sales type. You are paid a salary, a liberal car allowance and business expenses & participate in a bonus incentative plan. Your family medical plan and a special life insurance policy are paid for entirely by the company. You must be energetic, ambitious and have a forceful personality to qualify for this permanent career position.

"Summertime Living"

The real thrill about this lovely home is that it lends itself to real California living the year round, especially in the summertime. It is two stories making it extremely cool & thru the rear wall of glass one can get a full view of the entire den. Fireplace set in a lovely electric kitchen and upstairs has 2 bedrooms. 3 baths, swimming pool. It is custom built wall of stone & inside barbecue. Really a showplace and great for teenage & adult entertainment. Priced at $47,000 with excellent terms. Owner will carry on a second T.D. if necessary. Call us for appointment to see.

"WORLD'S HIGHEST TRADERS" HARBOR Lincoln Mercury

Their 'Daughters' Are World's Loveliest Girls

GREETING Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer of the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant, points to Ceylon on a world globe as he shows pageant hostesses the most distant point from which a beauty delegate will come to Long Beach this year. Pictured from left are Mrs. Dwight Williams, Mrs. Loris K. Cox, Mrs. Arthur G. Randall, chairman of hostesses, Meinhardt and Mrs. Sumi Swanson.

Hostesses in Readiness for Pageant

"The 60 Long Beach area women who each year give up homes and families for 10 days in order to serve as hostesses to the international and American beauties who visit Long Beach to participate in the annual Miss Universe Beauty Pageant do this city a service beyond description."

Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer of the pageant, in describing unselfish service of the hostesses referred to their duties "as the backbone of this city's responsibility to the 87 international and American girls who will live in Long Beach from July 11 through 21."

The hostesses this year will again serve under the chairmanship of Mrs. Arthur G. Randall, and before they complete their assignments, will have given some 15,000 hours of service.

It is the policy of the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant to have an international delegate share living quarters with an American girl. One hostess is normally assigned to the two girls who share living quarters. However, there are occasional variations, as the cases last year of two girls who could not speak English, Spanish, French, German or any of the more common languages. They were Miss Turkey and Miss Japan.

Mrs. Randall reported that among the hostesses are many who in order to perform their duties better have been studying a language at night school this past year. These women, together with a number who are already fluent in one or more languages, make up a staff of hostesses this year that will be able to handle almost any language thrown its way, Mrs. Randall believes.

Among the difficult elements of the job for the hostesses is keeping the girls on time to meet their exacting schedules. In addition to the normal schedules of activities undertaken by all of the beauty delegates, are added problems of permitting time for the hairdresser and visits to shops to buy souvenirs or clothing.

Homesickness is a problem each year, and at this point the motherliness of the hostesses plays an important role. It is a credit to the hostesses that each year the girls indicate that the part of their visit they will always remember was their association with roommates and hostesses.

"The long hours given by the hostesses to the girls is a service that goes far beyond the duties anyone has a right to expect of them and is a credit to the wonderful people selected for the important job of seeing that no problem develops that could be turned into an international incident," Meinhardt said.

TRANSPORTATION is one of the big problems that requires close coordination between hostesses and the Long Beach Firefighters Association which supplies drivers from among off-duty firemen. Pictured are Dale Lowell, president of the Long Beach Firefighters Assn., who heads the transportation committee, planning with Mrs. Joseph G. Canning and Mrs. Gerald C. Toms, pageant hostesses.

Mrs. Cross, Sister Feted at Dinner

Mrs. Barbara Moss entertained with a patio dinner recently at her 2977 Chestnut Ave. home, honoring Mrs. J. D. Cross and her sister, Mrs. Mae Stanford, who is visiting here from Carton, Tex.

Enjoying games and pictures were Messrs. and Mmes. Reg Dupuy, J. L. Tolbert, Clive Graham, Harold Steele, Fabe Blackman, Ike Page, Lloyd Leedom, Ed Iliff, H. A. Murray, William Smith, Miss Florence Merriam, Mrs. Hazel Merriam, L. A. Martin, Ethel Albertin; and J. D. Cross, husband of one of the honorees. Present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. H. Jackson Pontius and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Westcott.

Mrs. Stanford since has returned to her home in Texas, planning to return for the winter months in California. She was a houseguest of the Crosses for six months at their 3030 E. 2nd St. home.

In Ulrich Home

Patty Ulrich has been spending several weeks with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Ulrich, 4450 California Ave., prior to attending summer session at UCLA where she is a junior majoring in home economics. Her Delta Gamma sorority sister, Ginger Brothers of Stratford, is a house guest in the Ulrich home, and will return Monday with Patty to college.

Ebell Juniors Map Miss 'U' Premiere

Premiere event of the Miss Universe Pageant next month will be a luncheon and fashion show, to which the public is invited, in the grand ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel. Sponsors of the brilliant affair on July 12 will be the Ebell Juniors.

As many foreign Miss Universe contestants as are in the city by that date will appear at the luncheon and will model their native costumes. Master of ceremonies introducing them will be Ed Hennessey, stage, screen and television personality.

After modeling their native dress, the contestants will be seated, one or more to a table, with the spectators.

To give the foreign contestants, as well as the American women in the audience, an insight into new fashions, a style show will be narrated by Wilma Hastings to the background music of Manny Harmon's orchestra.

The Juniors point out that the show and luncheon are not limited to women alone. Men, singly or in groups, are invited, as well as those planning to attend with their wives.

Ticket sales are being directed by Mrs. R. D. Stork, 2475 Charlemagne Ave. Persons desiring tickets may contact Mrs. Stork, or other Ebell Juniors, Mrs. R. L. Coltrane, president, 3754 Lime Ave., or Mrs. R. Green, reservations chairman, 1071 E. 46th St.

Farewell Event for Commander

Cocktails and a barbecue party were the way of saying farewell to Lt. Cmdr. Bud Wagner Saturday night when Mr. and Mrs. Leland King entertained in their home, 4228 Gaviota Ave.

Lt. Cmdr. Wagner will leave later this month for duty in Japan. His wife and daughter, Ann, will remain here temporarily, but may join him later.

Guests included Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. James McKenzie and Messrs. and Mmes. R. W. Swigart, Harold Kane and Earl Prochnow.

Betty Benwell Recites Lines in Home Rite

Immediate family members gathered Thursday afternoon to witness the marriage ceremony uniting Mrs. Betty Maude Benwell, long active in Southern California Symphony Association, with Cmdr. Clarence E. Gregerson, USN (ret.).

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. R. Hall at the home of the bride's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Benwell, 3925 Lemon Ave. Attending the pair were Mr. and Mrs. George Backus.

After a honeymoon trip the newlyweds will reside at 3849 Weston Pl.

Gregerson was graduated in 1925 from the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and following retirement from service in 1946 resided in Sydney, Australia where he took graduate work in science and mathematics at the University of Sydney. He has been teaching engineering recently at Northrop Aeronautical Institute in Inglewood where he made his home.

Carmelite Group Meets Tuesday

Rev. Henry G. Alger of St. Agnes Church, Los Angeles, will be guest speaker when Carmelite Nuns Auxiliary meets at 1 p. m. Tuesday at Catholic Center, 6th St. and Alamitos Ave. His topic will be, "The Sacred Heart of Jesus."

Hostesses will be ladies from St. Bartholomew Parish, Mmes. John Dilkes, James Mulvey and Arlington Smith.

Doctors Have Own TV 'Idols'

By ILKA CHASE

Appendectomy, anyone? Tonsilectomy? Nice fresh lobotomy? Step right up folks old Doc Chase can tell you all about it. The American Medical Association has been convening in New York and Faithful Hack here, ever avid for scientific knowledge, has been right in the thick of it.

It was mighty interesting, too. Closed-circuit colored television certainly came into its own and I was in a somewhat privileged position for watching. The operations and panel discussions shown on the screen at the coliseum, headquarters for the convention attended by some 20,000 doctors, originated in Roosevelt Hospital.

My husband is on the staff, had originated the program and the day before the opening said to me with an eager light in his eye, "Wouldn't you like to come and watch the gastric resection we'll be doing first thing in the morning?"

It occurred to me fleetingly that cultivating roses in the country under sunny skies was something that appealed more, but when your dear one looks that hopeful and has been sweet enough to think of you in connection with his work, what are you going to do?

"Why darling," I said, it sounds lovely. I'll certainly come." I naturally wasn't allowed in the operating room but I was ushered into what they call the gallery which is merely a narrow glass enclosed section of the room with a raised floor so you can peer down into the innards of the fellow prone and fortunately unconscious on the table.

With the outer sheathing removed, I can't tell an abdomen from an arm, so I cannot review the caliber of the surgeon's performance — my husband told me later it was admirable—but it isn't too hard to recognize skillful manipulation and the way the operating crew wielded the scapels and retractors and swiftly tied dozens and dozens of knots was fascinating.

* * * *

Green, by the way, was the predominating color. The man in white is now passe. In the operating room, the doctors and nurses wear green gowns in which they look like frogmen after a rough night. The gowns are sterile all right, but they can't be pressed so the overall effect is pretty wrinkled.

Even the chap manipulating the color camera—the lens was on a sort of crane so it could look right down the patient's middle—wore green. There was a tiny monitor to his camera so he could see how it was doing out over the air.

In another room, a panel of doctors watched the operation and there was a two-way audio pickup so they could question the head surgeon and he could reply and explain what he was doing and why.

The thing that impressed me was the leisurely and informal manner in which the whole affair was conducted. I'd always thought there'd be an air of intensity and speed in a major operation but not at all. Behind the little screen that separates the patient's head from the rest of him, the anesthetist worked calmly, watching the gauges and the oxygen tanks and the surgeon probed and snipped and the assistants knotted with the greatest of ease.

* * * *

I left the operating gallery after a while and threaded my way along a maze of passages and up a flight of stairs till I finally came to a kind of old storeroom. Roosevelt, although one of the world's modern hospitals, is an old building and their storeroom is like anybody else's full of iron bedsteads and broken rockers and barrels and cartons of yellowing records that nobody ever looks at. This abode of antiquity had been installed as a temporary control room with the TV director, a young chap startlingly like Kirk Douglas, named Wesley, his assistants with their monitors and microphones working away under the eaves.

These fellows are experts at photographing surgery and their attitude toward what goes on before their lenses is nonchalant. "Come in on Elvis Presley" remarked the director as the learned doctor seated at the end of the panel put a question to the surgeon, or as a portion of the patient was removed, "Great show, laugh a minute." Ho-ho, it was all in the day's work and they were on their way to the next convention in Canada.

O. E. Coles, Ben Knights Depart for Alaska Tour

For two well known Long Beach couples, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Knight, Friday marked the beginning of what promises to be an exciting tour of Alaska.

The travelers left Long Beach by car bound for Vancouver, British Columbia, where they will board the S.S. Coquitlam June 26 for Yukon circle cruise. Sailing the inside passage route they will touch at Ketchikan, Petersburg and Juneau.

From Juneau they will fly to Skagway and then, by train, journey on to Whitehorse where they will travel the Alaska Highway by motor coach to Fairbanks.

Fairbanks will probably be one of the most enjoyable stops of their tour for here they will spend five days with the Knights' son, John, who is serving at this post with the Air Force.

The homes of both couples will be occupied by out-of-town friends during their absence, a "seaside bonus vacation" in each instance! The Knights and the Coles are due to arrive back in Vancouver after which they will motor leisurely home.

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

LIKE OLD TENNESSEE Ernie Ford would say, this has been a week to make you feel "like your get up and go has got up and went"!

MAYBE WE should blame the weather on the Nightingales. They flipped the calendar last night and made it Fourth of July at the Petroleum Club for their annual summer cotton dinner dance. Obviously they didn't keep that Fourth stuff jugged up tight enough, and it exploded early!

"Calendar flip . . ."

The shindig was planned especially to honor the group's provisionals and their husbands including Barbara and Dixon Richardson, Margaret and Henry Hansen, Betty and Wayne Belden, Joan and Jerry Barber, Dorothy and Edward Grant, Mimi and Bernie Wishney, Nita and Rodger Engel, Lavon and Don Tosh and Betty and David Johnson.

LAST NIGHT at exactly 4220 Chestnut Ave. was a wonderful time to be! Mary and Red Whisenant's daughter and her husband, Jeanne and Dr. Richard T. Smith, are here from Minneapolis and what would a homecoming be without a reunion? So Mary and Red had a cocktail buffet for a gang of young couples, all friends of Jeanne's. Although the Smiths have been in California for two weeks, not much of it has been in Long Beach. First they went with Mary and Red to their place at Arrowhead and then to a medical convention in Carmel, just returning Friday. So here just a few more days.

TABLE UMBRELLAS will bloom like roses in Portland today at "Jo" and Dr. George Papp's big, friendly house, 275 Nieto Ave. when they entertain 90 or so at an informal summer brunch during the "high noon" hours of 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Assisting will be Stella and Dr. Fred Kellogg, Drs. Geneva and Harriman Jones, Brownie and Dr. Ken Berkaw, Betty and Stillman Loveren, Sally and George Badenhausen and Clare and Lynn Hossom.

SPEAK OF PAAPS and another pair of Paaps pop into mind, Madaleine and John, no less. To say that they entertained at the "prettiest" party in town last night is no exaggeration! They were host to all the Miss Welcome to Long Beach contestants this year at a barbecue and swimpool-fest. If you don't think everyone of those gals isn't about the prettiest thing around town, you, sir or madam as the case may be, had better start carrying a white cane!

SPIRITS SPARKLED to match the bon voyage "sparkle" being poured in staterooms C-261 and C-246 aboard the Lurline Wednesday when Doris and Jim Wood sailed in company with Doris' son, Larry Olson, Billie and Murphy Fish and their daughter, Marilyn, bound for someplace or other called Honowuli, Luluhu. Or is it Honolulu, Hawaii? Anyhow, they'll be at the Royal Hawaiian for three weeks, with tours of all the other islands planned.

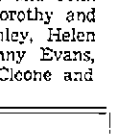

IF THE MAYOR of Honolulu doesn't declare "Long Beach Day" soon he's missing an opportunity to flatter at least half his current "citizens!" Other localites, just back, are Murile and Glenn Scott.

TAKES THE PATIENCE of Job and the bank account of a panhandler to keep writing this stuff and not head for the nearest travel agent. For instance, Polly Chace and Cassieta Walker returned Stateside Tuesday, smiling like Chessie cats after a couple months-worth of Europe hopping. They trailed Burton and Gus home by two or three weeks in order to get in some good old fashioned type feminine shopping, sans husbandy interference!

OF ALL THE marvelous stories Betty and Dr. Bob Buffum have to tell about their meanderings over the face of the earth (they were gone three and half months) none has been more avidly heard since their return than a first hand account of Major Herb and Cecelia Lewin, Air Force stationed in Tokyo.

Betty and Bob learned that the Lewins missed being sent to Okinawa by a prop-wash—a fact they consider very fortunate, indeed.

LIGHT YOUR lamps, put 'em in the window and then don't turn them out until "Midge" and Ed DeMack are guided safely home three years from now! They leave tonight at 6:10 p.m. on a Western Airlines flight from International Airport on the first leg of the long trip to Manila via Seattle, Anchorage, Tokyo, Hong Kong and finally P.I.

"Guiding light . . ."

Won't be back until Ed completes the job of opening and managing the first overseas office his company, General Telephone Directory Co., is pioneering. A fine promotion for Ed—a sad loss for us.

CHARLES HENRY FABISH JR. arrived home Wednesday from Seaside Hospital with mother, Debbie, to raise the total Park Estates Fabish population to seven. Born June 13, little Charlie is now being well tended by his brother and three sisters at 5157 Vista Hermosa.

BARBARA AND Lt. Frank P. Schlosser (USN) arrived in Long Beach Thursday with young sons, Johnny, 5, and David, 2, from Monterey whore Frank has just completed his second year at U. S. Naval Postgraduate School. They're staying with Barbara's parents, Olive and Les Smith, 3738 California Ave. while Frank has "summer duty" for the next five weeks before returning for his final year at Monterey to complete master's degree credentials in Naval engineering.

SELDOM HAS Virginia Country Club had such a day long fun-for-all as it did last Sunday during its Silver Fizz party which extended from early to late. The men golfed first, teeing off, all at the same time, from different holes at 8:30 a.m. To date, no fatalities have resulted from the grins-and-groans ordeal which included a holocaust of flying balls, an encounter with a superior force of silver fizzes and finally a skirmish with General Gin Rummy's brigands before a truce was reached in time for dinner with their wives, who golfed and "fizzed" separately during the afternoon.

Even though this was "Marge Ferrie Day" as Virginians honored their famous woman golf member, it was Naomi Wolf who stole the show with a dramatic hole-in-one on the 15th! Corks popped at next regular golf date for the women Tuesday as Naomi was champagne hostess.

Joan and Julie Bescos were co-chairmen of the golfing arrangements Sunday while dinner and dancing appointments (the Todd Trio played) were handled by Blanche and John Clock, Dorothy and Bill Cook, Dorothy and Milt McGrew, Pat and John Conley, Helen and Bob Buck, Thelma and Denny Evans, Berniece and Jack Watkins and Cleone and Sol Deeble.

AT HOME WITH THEIR 'FAIR LADIES'

Mrs. Todd to Guide Foundation

Mrs. Malcolm Todd, 5330 El Parque, will be installed as president of the Long Beach Exceptional Children's Foundation at 8 p. m. Thursday at the school, 4515 E. Stearns St. Dr. Milton Van Dyke, chairman of the foundation's medical advisory board, will be installing officer.

Elected to serve with her are Mrs. W. W. Catherwood, first vice president; Mrs. Fred Hancock, second vice president; Mrs. R. B. Trafton, secretary; Mrs. R. Alpaugh, corresponding secretary; and Martin Holme, treasurer. William Hart will continue as chairman of the board of directors. Other directors are Ven O. Fahrney, Thomas Hazard, Mrs. Fred Stevens, Fred Finch, Milton Arthur and Mrs. Maurice Johnson. Mrs. Ray Stevens is junior past president.

Rev. E. H. Shroeder of First Lutheran Church will give the invocation, and Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Runolfson will offer music.

A Party Confection-- In Fact, Bon Bon!

Shades of pink and sugar candy turned Mildred Draper's home into a veritable confection of a party locale Wednesday when she entertained close friends at a garden coffee hour the French would describe as "bon, bon"!

"And sugar candy"

Luckily, ocean breezes came to Mildred's aid and the party remained informal, as she planned it...not an "inferno" summer gathering as she had qualms about during hot Monday and Tuesday!

Assisting were Helen Hamman, Virginia Stanton, Virginia Avery, Helen Fielding and Gertrude Guertin.

Prominent Localites Wed in San Diego

Of great interest to a host of friends in Long Beach and throughout Southern California is announcement of the marriage of Mrs. William N. Deatherage, 841 Terraine Ave., and W. Ward Johnson, 4226 Country Club Dr.

The prominent pair exchanged wedding vows Saturday in an intimate afternoon ceremony conducted in the San Diego home of close friends Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Hoffman, formerly of this city.

Dr. Dean McBride, pastor of Point Loma Community Presbyterian Church, officiated in the presence of the bride's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Deatherage, her daughter, Miss Dorothy Deatherage, the bridegroom's son, George Johnson, Miss Helen Hoffman and Mrs. Patricia Geary Bartell.

Although unable to be with his father in person, the bridegroom's other son and his wife, Lt. Walter Johnson (USN) and Mrs. Johnson, were present, in absentia, their best wishes expressed in lovely flowers sent from Hawaii for the wedding, including the bride's corsage and beautiful arrangements for the Hoffman home.

Following the ceremony the newlyweds were feted by the host and hostess at a wedding luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will be at home at the Country Club Dr. address after July 1.

P-T.A. Slates Board Meet in Lynwood

Two important items of business will be on the agenda when the executive board of the 33rd District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, meets Monday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Fred W. Hosler Jr. High School, 11330 Spruce St., Lynwood.

A director of the communications department will be elected and chairmen of standing committees will be ratified for the year 1957-58. The director of communications is a new office created by vote of the delegates to the District Convention in Whittier last April.

Mrs. Everett M. Findlay, of Long Beach, president, will present the list of chairmen she has selected for the coming year for the approval of the executive board.

A committee was appointed last month to evaluate the problem of holding the executive board meetings in a central location as against holding them in the various Councils during the coming year. This committee, composed of Mmes. Albin Larsen, chairman; Jack Campbell; Charles Stone; Earl Orr and Howard Carlson, will report their findings.

Lynwood P-T.A. Council, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Stone, president, will serve as hostess to the board at the meeting.

Martha Land to Lead Realettes

Martha Land, president-elect of Realette Toastmistress Club, will be installed in ceremonies at a 7 p. m. dinner at the Hawaiian Restaurant Wednesday evening.

Others to take office are Louise Wagner, vice president; Leona Lang, secretary; Helen Ends, treasurer; Marguerite Waters, club representative; and Gene Page, alternate representative.

Betsy Byrnes will be installing officer, Marguerite Waters will conduct and Leona Lang will be toastmistress. Speakers of the evening will be Mrs. Hazel DeLong, of Gardena Toastmistress Club, and Larry Miller, a national officer of Toastmaster Club.

Mrs. Roy Cox to Guide Auxiliary

Mrs. Roy Cox of San Pedro will take oath as president of the Auxiliary to the Painting and Decorating Contractors Association of the Harbor Area when the group meets for noon luncheon Thursday at Lillian Ekels, 347 E. 7th St.

Also slated to take office are Mrs. H. W. Giddings, vice president, and Mrs. Carl Jacobson, secretary-treasurer.

Hostesses for the day will be Mmes. L. H. Spainhower and Clifford Culp of Long Beach.

Miss Garverick Recites Vows

One of June's loveliest brides, Miss Polly Ann Garverick, exchanged wedding vows with William V. Ridgeway in flower bedecked Belmont Heights Methodist Church as 400 guests thronged the sanctuary to witness the nuptials.

The popular young Long Beach couple repeated their marriage lines after the Rev. Richard V. Kendall, officiant at the double ring evening service.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Garverick chose a graceful gown of fragile Alencon lace, its billowing tulle skirt deep-scalloped and inset with lace medallions. Tiny scallops edged the rounded neckline and abbreviated sleeves of the long-waisted bodice. A single strand of pearls circled her throat, and pearls trimmed the cap of matching lace which fastened a translucent veil of sheerest illusion. In her white-gloved hands, the bride held a delicate spray of stephanotis with a white orchid on a prayer book.

A white runner marked the bridal aisle, leading to the chancel banked with verdant woodwardia fern. Altar vases held white gladioli, stock and French iris, and two large urns on green marble pedestals were fern garlanded.

The bride's sisters, Miss Jo Ellen Garverick and Mrs. Robert F. Peyton of Palo Alto, were her maid and matron of honor. Her other attendants were Miss Paula Muench, Miss Shirley von KleinSmid and Mrs. W. A. Wiggins, sister of the bridegroom.

Their identical gowns of imported white batiste over pink taffeta were designed with scooped necklines and tucked bodices. White net picture hats trimmed with pink velvet streamers, and pink roses on the toes of their white shoes, were pretty accents. Miniature pink roses, pink carnations and stephanotis in colonial bouquets repeated the pink and white bridal theme.

The bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. V. W. Ridgeway of 3101 E. Ocean Blvd., asked John Orr to perform best man duties. Alan Peninger, Robert Peyton, John Rickette and W. A. Wiggins ushered guests to pews marked by clusters of white gladioli, stock, carnations and fern caught with satin ribbon.

At the conclusion of the wedding ceremony, guests drove to the Ridgeway residence, 298 St. Joseph Ave., where the justweds awaited them, receiving before a flower decked mantle. Mmes. Herbert Shannon, Cecil Ridgeway, William Zantiny, Edwin Harvey, Copeland Green, Owen Ridgeway, Sam Woolington, Elliston Farrell, Richard Hauck, H. M. Spears, Wayne Dow and Alan Howe; and Misses Gladys Ridgeway and Meredith Green assisted the hosts. Tiny rice bags were distributed by Marylou Hauck.

Both the bride and bridegroom were 1951 graduates of Wilson High School. She continued her education at Scripps College and took her B.S. degree at the University of Southern California in 1955. She is a member of Chi Omega.

Her husband attended Long Beach City College and is now a senior at USC School of Dentistry. He is affiliated with Psi Omega, dental fraternity.

Now honeymooning in Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. Ridgeway will be at home to friends after July 15 at 701 W. 35th Place, Los Angeles.

Six Students Win DAR Medals at Flag Day Fete

Presentation of Good Citizenship Medals and a special observance of Flag Day highlighted the last meeting of the club year for Western Shores Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in the Lafayette Hotel.

Mrs. Charles H. Tointon, new regent, presided at the brief business session, which was followed by awarding of the citizenship medals by Mrs. George Baumgartner to Diane Eldred, Jefferson Junior High School; Corene Aldrich, Stanford; Diana Christman, Will Rogers; Carole Ann Ricci, de Mille; Terrence Morgan, Southern California Military Academy, and Andrew Meinke, John Marshall.

Mrs. Rufus Gardner, new vice regent, introduced Homer F. Johnson, American Red Cross field director at Long Beach Naval Base and Ft. MacArthur, who spoke of the history of the American Flag. He pointed out that the U. S. flag is the oldest national flag, first being displayed in October, 1777.

It was not until 1789, he said, that the first French flag was displayed, and that the British Royal Standard was shown for the first time in 1801.

Johnson spoke of the thrill to see the American flag waving above American compounds when living in foreign lands. He has lived in nine countries in as many years.

He concluded with the wish "that homes of this land of great plenty would display the Flag on every holiday."

Chi Omegas

Long Beach Chi Omega alumnae will meet Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Edward J. Bragg, 1131 Ramillo Ave. Mmes. William H. Winston and Wayne Belden will be co-hostesses. All Chi Omegas in the area are invited.

July Date Announced

St. Anthony's Catholic Church will be setting July 13 for the marriage ceremony uniting Dianne Gaye Alexander with Victor William Porlier Jr.

Betrothal of the popular pair has been announced by parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Russel C. Alexander of 430 Rose Ave.

Miss Alexander was graduated from Wilson High School where she served as president of Girls League and as a member of Ming Leadership Club. She received her freshman year of college at Occidental, and her sophomore year at Long Beach City College where she was a member of Entre Nous and a flag girl. She is a former member of Long Beach Junior Philharmonic.

Her fiance, son of Mrs. Andre Porlier, 2650 Rutgers Ave., also is a Wilson alumnus, having served as vice president of the student body and as president of Lambda Sigma Fraternity. He served as president of the student body at LBCC during his sophomore year, was chairman of the home coming rally, and recipient of the Viking Award.

Gifts Given Bride-Elect

A kissing ring of circles to represent two wedding bands swung gently over guests attending a miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon honoring Miss Annetta Vardy, June 29 bride-elect of J. A. Horner.

Aunts of the bride-to-be, Mrs. D. D. Wells and Mrs. Betty Elmore, gave the festive party in the Wells home, 4455 Carlax Ave. A refreshingly cool color theme of silver and blue was employed.

Sharing a cake inscribed in icing, "Best Wishes, Annetta" were guests Mmes. Hanna K. Vardy, mother of the bride-elect; Jack Horner, mother of the prospective bridegroom, and Guy Rowden, W. L. Kellison, R. T. Kellison, James Lairmore, Ralph Tufts, W. H. Sheid, L. E. Edmonson, Juanita Donnelly and Gene Cima and Miss Audrey Johnson.

Tomato Flattery

Another use of herbs which Mrs. Earl Burns Miller recommended, when we asked for some personal favorite cooking tricks, was the use of sweet basil on sliced tomatoes, letting flavors blend a few minutes before serving.

Royal Neighbors

Long Beach Camp 3822, Royal Neighbors of America, will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave. with past oracles conducting the meeting. Tyronne Richardson will be in charge of refreshments.

Dumm-Keller Troth Revealed at Parties

The engagement of Miss Karen Keeler to Robert James Dumm was announced Saturday evening to relatives and friends of the betrothed pair gathered for a party at the home of the prospective bride groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dumm, 1052 Andrews Dr.

Guests at a simultaneous dinner party in the Denver, Colo., home of the bride-to-be's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey D. Keeler, also heard of the betrothal and plans for an Aug. 14 wedding in Long Beach.

Miss Keeler, a teacher at Garfield Elementary School here, was graduated from Colorado State College of Education where she was a member of Pi Kappa Sigma Sorority.

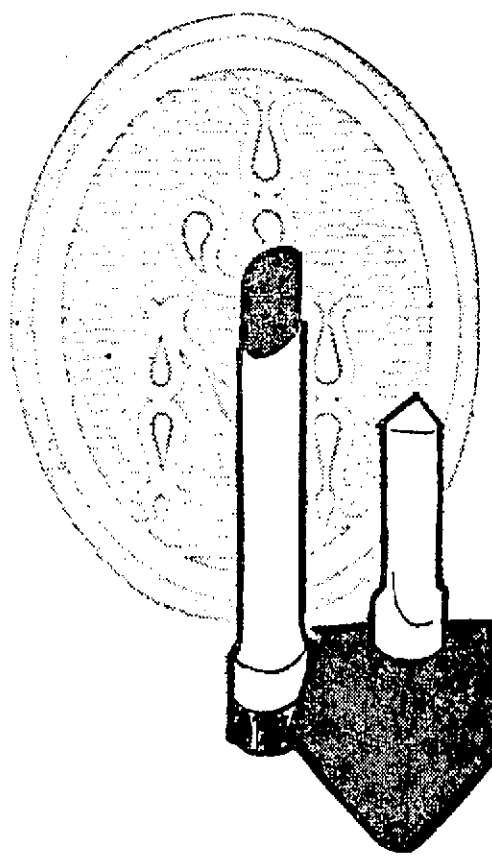

Her fiance was graduated in 1954 from UCLA and is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. He served as a Lt. (jg) with the Navy, stationed for two years in the Philippines.

Dinner Heads Rebekah Events

Wide Awake Rebekah Lodge No. 71 will sponsor a public dinner from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday at Morgan Hall with Grace Lang as chairman.

The sewing and social club will meet Friday at Morgan Hall for a noon covered dish luncheon followed by a business session conducted by Lavina Newmaster. Sewing and canasta also are planned.

Old Spanish Hospitality at Conclave

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Long Beach Optometric Association will join other members of the California Optometric Association Auxiliary at the Statler Hotel in Los Angeles this morning where they will hostess the 60th annual congress of the American Optometric Association.

The initial social affair will be a Chocolatta, the conquistadores version of the modern "kaffee klatch." Mmes. D. L. Leatart and James E. Spencer will be official hostesses at this get-acquainted party in authentic Spanish style. Strolling musicians will provide typical Spanish music and decorative murals will depict the early history of California.

While their mothers are being entertained in the gracious manner of early Californians, children of out-of-state optometrists will enjoy a pinata party. Social events will continue throughout the Congress for the children, but when the last cup of chocolate is emptied, auxiliary members will begin four days of educational seminars and business sessions.

Bringing the Congress to a close will be a luncheon and installation of officers at which Mmes. S. H. Burgess, R. W. Anderson, Paul E. Wilkins and Donald L. Baker will be hostesses.

Vows Taken by Pair in Nuptial Mass

A nuptial mass celebrated at St. Bartholomew's Catholic Church recently united in marriage Dorothy Jean Snitzler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Snitzler, 5645 Campo Walk, and Anthony J. Dauer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of peau de soie trimmed with Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls. The full length bouffant skirt, which terminated in a chapel train, gained fullness from soft unpressed pleats caught together with medallions of the jewelled lace.

Attending the bride were Mrs. William E. Snitzler, matron of honor, with Mmes. Raymond C. Ball, James E. McGinty, Miss Anna Chick and Mrs. Chester J. Oleniacz, sister of the bridegroom, completing her entourage of attendants.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Dauer of Wheelock, N. D., asked his father to stand with him as best man. Ushering the 450 wedding guests to their places were Donald L. Goldbach, Richard D. Goul, Chester J. Oleniacz and William Snitzler, brother of the bride.

The new Mrs. Dauer is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School and attended Immaculate Heart College. Her husband is an alumnus of University of North Dakota where he affiliated with Tau Kappa Epsilon.

For their wedding the couple was honored by receiving the Apostolic Blessing from Pope Pius XII.

Following the 10 a.m. ceremony the newlyweds were feted at the Pacific Coast Club. Cousins of the bride, Misses Dianne and Linda Key, served at the punch bowls. Miss Frances Welty was in charge of the guest book. The newlyweds honeymooned in Mexico City and Acapulco.

Patrol Has Shower for Joan Smith

A surprise bridal shower with an international note took place Saturday afternoon when Mrs. David Singer and Mrs. Chet Blackburn entertained for Miss Joan Smith in the Singer home, 6120 Pageantry St.

Miss Smith, August 18 bride-to-be of Raymond Martin of Long Beach, is a member of the Long Beach Girl Scout International Patrol composed of women from foreign countries now residing here. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, are former residents of London. They now live in Long Beach.

In addition to the mother of the bride-elect, those attending were Mmes. Robert Wright, Wayne Adams, Aldon Minton, Chet Jansen, Frank Snodgrass, John Weiland, Robert Golding and D. Bronac, all Patrol members, and Mmes. Lyman Lasy, James Gestice, John Kennedy and John Holden.

Hmmm, Good!

A favorite hot hors d'oeuvres and one of the easiest to prepare, according to Mrs. Floyd W. Williams, 1121 Claiborne Dr., is prepared by wrapping water chestnuts in strips of bacon, skewering with toothpicks and then broiling until the bacon is cooked.

Goucher Club

Goucher Club of Southern California will meet at 2 p. m. Friday, July 5, with Mrs. Paul Armstrong, 235 La Vereda Rd., Pasadena, to honor Mrs. Louis I. Wilcox and Miss Ethel Cockey, alumnae secretaries, of the college in Baltimore, Md.

Honeymoon in Yosemite

Now on their honeymoon to Yosemite, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Theodore William Walker (Patty Jo Ferguson) will be at home in Long Beach after July 1.

The son of Fred L. Walker, 3931 Walnut Ave., and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwin Ferguson, 1371 Roycroft Ave., exchanged wedding rings Saturday in East Long Beach Methodist Church before 125 guests. The Rev. F. B. Baldwin officiated.

A ballerina length gown of tulle and Chantilly lace over taffeta was chosen by the bride. A seed pearl crown held her fingertip length veil of silk illusion. In her cascade bouquet were a white orchid, stephanotis and white roses.

Attired in mint green French lace with chiffon cummerbund, Miss Fran Ferguson was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. B. W. Ferguson Jr. the bridal attendant. Both carried Colonial bouquets of pale pink carnations.

The bridegroom asked his brother, Raymond Walker, to serve as best man. Ushers were Gilbert Walker, B. W. Ferguson Jr. and Jerome Lenorud.

A reception followed in the church parlors. Assisting were Mrs. Roy Mitchell, aunt of the bride, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mrs. Wilfred Walker, Altadena, the bridegroom's aunt.

Both the new Mr. and Mrs. Walker were graduated from Wilson High School.

Good Sports

Good Sports of Long Beach will have a luncheon and card party at noon Monday at the home of Mrs. Robert Moore, 3525 Lemon Ave. The public is welcome.

Chance-Getz Names Link

Alpha Phi sorority sisters were thrilled with the recent surprise announcement of the engagement of Margie Getz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Getz, Harbor City, to Richard Chance, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Chance, 3127 Artesia. The news was revealed in traditional candlelight ceremonies at a recent meeting of the LBSC sorority.

Nearly 50 family friends and relatives learned of the betrothal at a barbecue dinner hosted a few days later at the home of the bride-to-be's parents. The following night, the engaged pair was honored at a dinner party in the home of Paul McKee.

Both young persons are students at Long Beach State College where Miss Getz is secretary of her junior class and Alpha Phi sorority guard. Her fiance, a pre-med major, is a graduate of Jordan High School and recently completed two years military service.

A summer, 1958, wedding is being planned.

ROTARIANS TO HONOR PRESIDENTS Finishing touches are put on a huge mural depicting the striking Long Beach shoreline at night. The mural will be used as head table backdrop when Long Beach Rotarians salute their new and retiring presidents at the 40th annual presidents party Wednesday at the Lafayette Hotel Grand Ballroom. Surveying her handiwork is Joan Arend Kickbush of Anchorage, Alaska, who painted the mural expressly for the party. Others pictured are (from left) Dr. H. J. Prichard, W. G. Rotary Club to Salute New, Retiring Presidents

Regardless of what the calendar says, the New Year arrives next Wednesday for Long Beach Rotary Club, and will be met with a gala party at the Lafayette Hotel Grand Ballroom.

Colorful invitations which capture the festive air of a New Years Party have been mailed to members and their wives, and urges them to "start the Rotary Year with a bang!"

The event marks the 40th annual president's party, and serves a dual function — to honor and recognize with appreciation the outgoing president, Valle G. Young, general merchandise manager of Buffums', and to welcome the new president, Douglas A. Newcomb, superiniendent of the Long Beach Unified School District. Newcomb will take office July 1.

Activities will open with a social hour at 6:45 p.m. followed by 8 o'clock dinner and dancing to the music of Jimmie Whetmore and his orchestra with Ann Nayes as vocalist. Dancing will be interrupted for 30 minutes when Dr. John C. Cottrell, master of ceremonies, calls for a toast to the new and retiring leaders.

Heading plans for the event, to which members are invited to take guests, is Jack Merrick, special party committee chairman. W. G. Bryant is in charge of reservations and Dr. Hugh J. Prichard, decorations chairman, will be assisted by Don Bowers, W. H. Davidson, Victor K. Hart, William F. Jellick, Raymond H. Green Jr., and Charles F. Jackline.

While most of the planning and actual work on the party has been done by members, wives were called in for consultation and to "put the frosting on the cake."

Focal point in the lavish decor will be a huge mural depicting the Long Beach shoreline at night. The mural was painted especially for the party by Joan Arend Kickbush of Anchorage, Alaska, who spent two weeks in Long Beach painting murals for Buffums' Santa Ana store.

Will Attend Convention

Alphi Chi Omegas of California will be hostesses to the national convention of their sorority for the third time in 16 years when a delegation of nearly 500 members from across the nation assembles at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel Tuesday for a five-day session.

Included in the assemblage of delegates from Alpha Chi's 83 collegiate and 75 alumnae chapters will be Mrs. Frank S. Sunofsky, representing the Long Beach Alumnae Club.

Mmes. Bruce Zacher, J. A. Bush, Edward McMahon and John W. Brady have been working on table decorations for the June 26 luncheon, and will also attend the convention from the local chapter.

GARDEN CEREMONY Lovely flowers in pink and white banked the simulated altar in the garden at the West Los Angeles home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Marinoff on June 9 as their daughter, Elaire Selma, exchanged nuptial vows with Robert Glen Good III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Good II of Long Beach. The newlyweds will reside in Westwood on return from a Carmel honeymoon while the bridegroom continues studies at the UCLA School of Medicine. He was awarded the August Gerome Lartigau Scholarship for a second year. His bride, also a UCLA graduate, studied fashion design in Paris.

'New Look' for Angel Food

When company surprises you, you can surprise them right back if you follow this dessert tip from Mrs. Gilbert Wagner, 5912 Bayshore Wk., among local homemakers who have graciously answered our request to share their ideas.

Mrs. Wagner bakes angel food cake in a large, flat pan (about 9½ by 13-inch size) instead of the conventional tube pan. When cool she splits it into two layers and uses sliced vanilla ice cream as filling. Then she pops it into the freezer until needed. To serve, just cut in squares and top with any favorite sauce or fresh fruit.

Social Club

Satellite Social Club of Palos Verdes Chapter 310, Order of Eastern Star, will meet for noon luncheon Tuesday at Machinists Hall. Beulah Broadwell will preside at the business session following.

Your Baby & Mine

Boy Has Own Way

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Here are two mothers of 26-months-old children both with bad habits the mothers do not know how to break. I suspect strongly, since both letters are in the same handwriting and come from the same city, that this is just one child.

One letter said, "My son at 26 months, still takes milk by bottle. I keep one full in the refrigerator and he gets it when he wants it and then lies down on the floor with it to watch TV. It does not spoil his appetite for his meals.

"I have thought of throwing away his bottles, or should I just wait until he gives it up? I am afraid of depriving him of something he enjoys so much."

The second letter said her 26-months-old boy used to cry so much in the night that she finally took him into bed with her.

"As long as he is in my bed he sleeps straight through the night.

"Some months ago I tried putting him in his bed again and he would sleep a couple of hours and wake up and cry again. I gave up and took him back in my bed again.

"I am beginning to wonder how and when I'll ever get him back into his own room. I'll appreciate your advice."

But maybe you won't like it. Whether these are two children or the same boy the habits have one common factor. The boy is doing exactly what he wants to do without regard to your comfort, convenience, or his own welfare.

Milk by bottle won't hurt him, but if you wait for him to give up willingly, it may be years. All bad habits are ways of acting which children enjoy. That does not make the habits good for them. They have to grow up, change and adopt more mature ways of eating, sleeping, etc.

A child has to learn about deprivation, too, and all he is being deprived of is an infantile way of drinking as compared to a more adult way of managing it.

All children like to sleep with their parents. But if you had six children you couldn't accommodate them — so why do it with one? You don't enjoy it and surely, if you have a husband, this isn't his idea of a comfortable way of sleeping.

You can take the easy road all the way along. But if you want your boy to become a controlled and disciplined child, you'll see that he does as you think best for him, even if, temporarily, it means more work for you.

Make sure, though, that his bed is comfortable and when it grows colder he has warm covers. The warmth of another human is very comforting to a child and we have to give him a good substitute for this, if he must sleep alone.

College Film Festival, Reception Planned

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent Press-Telegram Art Editor

The sixth annual Conference and Festival of Films for Art Education, free and open to the public, is slated for July 6 in the Fine Arts Building of Long Beach State College, it is announced by John W. Olsen, coordinator of art at the college.

"The Adolescent," a film prepared by John Shelton Scott for the 1957 Conference of the National Art Education Assn., and a series of new films by Charles and Ray Eames will be shown in the morning. In the afternoon a new film by Rex Brandt will be shown and Brandt will discuss problems in the production of a film on water color.

Mosaics by students of Immaculate Heart College will be shown during the festival. This exhibit is planned in relation to the series of films on mosaics, for which Sister Magdalen Mary, head of the art department of Immaculate Heart College, will speak in the afternoon.

A reception for architects participating in the "Arts of Southern California Architecture" exhibit in Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., is announced for 2 to 5 p.m. today. It is free and open to the public.

Robert Ortlieb, Inglewood sculptor whose work has attracted attention when it has been displayed in the Long Beach Museum of Art, took first place for sculpture with a rosewood head of a young Negress in the Laguna Beach Art Assn. membership show in the Laguna Beach Art Gallery.

Leonard Koster took first for oil and Roland Strasser first for watercolor.

More than two million dollars worth of Vincent van Gogh paintings and drawings will be shown July 3-Aug. 4 in the Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery in Barnsdall Park, Vermont at Hollywood Blvd. Prices of the individual works range from $5,000 to $200,000. Shown will be many of the most famous Van Gogh paintings in America and works from Honolulu and Paris, including the companion piece of a painting in the permanent collection of the Louvre. Van Gogh, who painted only six years, died in 1890. He lived in poverty and died in obscurity—never to know that some day, posthumously, he would become one of the most popular painters in modern times.

Work of three Southern California artists, Kieth Crown, Orval Dillingham, and John Martin, will be displayed at Exodus Gallery, 255 6th St., San Pedro, through July 12.

Kieth Crown, an instructor at the University of Southern California, has just returned from a year in Mexico. He has exhibited widely and has won several prizes for his work in oils.

Orval Dillingham is on the staff at Long Beach State College. His work is concerned with various problems of still-life.

John Martin, also on the art staff at Long Beach State College, works with figure studies, moving into dynamic patterns of color. He has exhibited throughout the United States. Paintings by the twelve Exodus directors also will be exhibited. An informal reception will be given for the artists today from 2-5 p. m.

Broadway Exports

NEW YORK—Another season of top Broadway musical shows is being planned for Europe by Marcel Prawy, Viennese opera impresario.

Prawy, who scored a big hit by introducing Cole Porter's "Kiss Me Kate" to Vienna, said he has "Brigadoon," "The Pajama Game" and "Can-can" on the agenda.

His formula of success:

"Obtain good American talent and mix with the Europeans."

Norwegian Pianist Plays in Concert Here Today

Music lovers of Long Beach and surrounding areas will have an opportunity to hear Mary Barratt Due, concert pianist of Oslo, Norway, when she appears today at 3 p. m. at Pacific Coast Club. There is no admission charge, but a silver donation will be made after the concert to be used by the sponsor, Soroptimist International of Long Beach, in its philanthropic work.

The artist, a past president of the European Federation of Soroptimist Clubs, is making a repeat appearance in Long Beach. She received enthusiastic acclaim a year ago in this city.

Her musical selections will be prefaced by review of the Grieg compositions she is to play in observance of the 50th year since the Norwegian composer's death. Her repertoire will also include folk numbers and compositions by Chopin. Arrangements for her appearance are being directed by Lola Stanley, a member of the local Soroptimist Club.

Bob Smart

Smart Sings in Kenton Recordings

Bob Smart is an enterprising young man who takes full advantage of his surname. Just graduated from UCLA with a degree in music, he plans to make singing his career. Already many of his hopes have been fulfilled, for he has sung with the Roger Wagner Chorale for three years and is now top tenor with the Modern Men quartet which has just completed an album with the Stan Kenton orchestra called "Kenton With Voices."

Son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Smart, 625 W. 4th St., Smart affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon on the Bruin campus. He was graduated from Poly High School where he took part in operettas, and Long Beach City College. He has also served as soloist at First Congregational Church. With the Roger Wagner Chorale he has done motion picture work and recorded seven albums.

A student of Douglas Steade, Smart has been the recipient of several scholarships, among them being the Katherine B. Whitten scholarship awarded at LBCC, and those given by the Exchange Club and the Boyd Foundation.

Southwest Scenes Prevail In Lithographer's Works

Kenneth Adams, whose lithographs are on exhibit at Long Beach Museum of Art, is not the classic "misunderstood genius," neglected and ignored while he lives. He is very much noticed and honored, being represented in select permanent collections of The Whitney Museum of American Art in New York Public Library, and the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts. gress, The Carnegie Institute, Princeton University, the New York Public Library, and the Dalles Museum of Fine Arts.

Subject matter plays a minor role in Adams' work, and the inability of critics to classify his work is the least of his concerns. He prefers not to be limited by any strict credo of style or form, and the basis of his interest is in what he calls a "living experience" of his own. If his subjects suggest the Southwest, it is because he lives and work there. As resident artist and professor of art of the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, he attempts to avoid exploitation of the region yet is an acknowledged master in his portrayals of the Southwestern scene.

Art Enters Architecture

Ever since that memorable day thousands of years ago when the occupant of a cave presumably felt an urge for more than shelter from the elements and reached for crude implements with which to decorate his drab stone walls, art has come to be a necessary part of living.

The practice of integrating sculpture, murals, ceramics paintings in plans for dwellings, factories, religious and educational buildings is one of the milestones in the progress of contemporary architecture which can be seen in the Arts of Southern California - I: Architecture exhibit at the Long Beach Museum of Art.

In the Police Facilities building in Los Angeles, designed by Welton Becket and Associates, Joseph Young has created a mural of a quarter-million hand-cut tesserae showing a panoramic view of the city in scintillating colors.

Sculptor Joseph Young, working with architects Smith and Williams, carved wooden Biblical figures for the doors of the Children's Chapel in Pasadena.

At University of Southern California's Founders Hall, the work of Smith, Powell and Morgridge, Merrell Gage designed and executed a striking sculptured figure of Prometheus bringing the fire of civilization, giving dramatic impact to the structure and its significance.

The trend toward integrating art and building design was established at the turn of the century and is evidenced in the Roots of Contemporary California Architecture, an exhibit on loan for the Los Angeles Municipal Art Department. Pioneers Frank Lloyd Wright, Greene and Greene, Richard Neutra did much to eliminate rococo curlecues and meaningless gingerbread embellishments which had been considered fashionable in Queen Victoria's day.

The architectural exhibits can be seen through June 30. Lithographs by Kenneth Adams, professor of art at the University of New Mexico, can be seen through July 21.

HI-FI FANFARE

That Clack of Castanets Is from New Long-Play Series

By PRESTON McGRAW
United Press Staff Correspondent

One of the most popular series of records among high fidelity equipment owners this year may turn out to be a five-volume set of long-plays called "Espana."

As the title of the series indicates, they are records of music about Spain, if not all Spanish. The fidelity and presence are exceptional for commercial records.

The music covers a wide range of tastes. It has the color, the clashes of cymbals, the brilliant, biting brasses that many high fidelity fanciers are looking for.

The records are on the London Label (RIAA curve). The conductor on all five records is Ataulfo Argenta, conductor of the Orquesta Nacional de Espagna.

Volumes 1 and 3 are recorded by the Orquesta Nacional. Volume 2 is recorded by the London Symphony Orchestra, Volume 4 by the Orquesta de Camera Madrid and Volume 5 by the Gran-Orquesta Sinfonica.

The recording is about equal in quality on all the records, though the prize of the five is probably Volume 2, because it was recorded by the London Symphony Orchestra and benefits by the acoustics of Albert Hall.

The music on Volume 2 includes Rimsky - Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnol"; Granados' "Andalusia"; Chabrier's "Espana Rhapsody," and Moszkowski's "Spanish Dances."

There are two new records in the Cook Catalogue for friends of Red Camp's piano playing. They are "Camp Has a Ball" (Cook 5005, 12-inch, lp, RIAA curve) and "Camp Inventions" (Cook 1087, 12-inch, lp, RIAA curve).

The "Camp Has a Ball" record is a limited edition disc for either monaural or stereophonic playback. One side of it includes, in addition to Camp's piano, a trumpet played by Dude Skiles.

Camp sings on the other side a piece called "Refugio Blues." "Camp Inventions" includes a zither and a voodoo drum used variously with some of the pieces.

One almost unvarying thing about Cook's records is their quality. From a biased viewpoint, Camp has never played better than when he was helping Lizzie Miles make her records in New Orleans for Cook.

On these two records, Camp strays away from the New Orleans kick. The novelty is intriguing for the time being; the kind of playing he did for Lizzie Miles wears better in the long run.

London also has a batch of new jazz and semi-popular music records. They include trombone-player George Chisholm's "Chis" (LL 1491, 12-inch lp, RIAA curve) and "Kinsey Rhythm" (LL 1517, 12-inch lp, RIAA curve).

Chisholm's playing is interesting, especially on old standards like "Lazy River." But a typical group of musicians playing with him—they vary from record to record — includes an alto saxophone, a tenor saxophone, piano, guitar, bass and drums.

The net effect of this is to produce an overall sound that seldom gets above mid-range and tends toward monotony. The Kinsey Quartet record — alto saxophone, drums, bass and vibraharp—is a good deal better.

Bowl Award Winner Slates Piano Recital

Sharon Jean Riopelle, 16, winner of a Hollywood Bowl Young Artist Award, will be heard in a piano recital Wednesday at 3 p.m. at Huffie's Caterer's, 1473 Atlantic Ave. Presentation of the award will be made to the artist by Mrs. Roxie Turpin of Studio City.

Presented by Jane Stanley, Miss Riopelle will be heard in works by Chopin, Beethoven, Grieg, Shubert, Liszt, Debussy, Juon, Niemann, Friml and Lecuna.

A tea will follow. Assisting will be Mrs. Elmer Joseph Riopelle, mother of the pianist.

TO BE AUTUMN BRIDE

After their marriage this fall, Peggy Chill and Paul M. Lloyd will make their home in Mexico City where he will engage in the export business. Both young persons are alumni of St. Anthony's High School and Long Beach City College; she also attended Wilson. Her parents are the Fred A. Chills, 4210 Patero Way; his are the Paul H. Lloyds, 1040 E. Ocean Blvd.

Quotarians to Learn of Radar Use

Herbert L. Gordon, United States Coast Guard, will be guest speaker at the Monday night dinner meeting of Long Beach Quota Club in the Ballerina Room of the Lafayette Hotel at 7 p. m.

Helen Cameron, vice president, will conduct in the absence of President Virginia Youngquist who, with Mrs. Marguerite Wood, is attending international convention of Quota in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gordon's talk will be a graphic explanation of the newest long range radar equipment now in use. He will supplement his remarks with films illustrating the use of radar.

Miss Rose Ann Wood, winner of the recent Long Beach Philharmonic Junior competitions, will entertain with piano selections.

Miss Amy Wick

Amy Wick Is Engaged

Miss Amy Wick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wick of 2959 Long Beach Blvd., will marry Merle E. Erickson of Huntington Park on Aug. 17, her parents have announced.

The ceremony will be performed at 4 o'clock in First Baptist Church.

Miss Wick is an alumna of Polytechnic High School and William Jewell College in Liberty, Mo. She is a member of Ardis Toastmistress Club and is secretary to Walter Scott, director of municipal and school recreation. Her fiance received his education in Frederic, Wis.

Journey to Convention

Alumnae of Alpha Xi Delta will journey to the Edgewater Gulf Hotel, Gulfport, Miss., for their 25th National Convention from Wednesday through Sunday.

The newly installed president of the Long Beach chapter, Mrs. Wayne Fitzgerald of 245 Park Ave., will be the official delegate. She will fly to New Orleans, meet friends, and will motor with them to Gulfport along the Gulf of Mexico via historic Highway 90, trail of the Conquistadors. At the close of the convention she will return to New Orleans for an extended visit and tour.

The alternate delegate, Mrs. Robert Pond, past president of the group, will fly to Phoenix, Ariz. and meet Miss Marilyn Francis. They will drive a party of Alpha Xi Deltas from the University of Arizona to the convention. Later Mr. and Mrs. Pond will meet in New Orleans for their vacation.

Emblem Events

'Can't Cheat Honest Man,' Zontians Told

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Women executives, members of Long Beach Zonta Club, heard the old adage "you can't cheat an honest man," proved again by guest speaker Detective Inspector E. O. Carroll of the Long Beach Police Dep't Bunco Detail at the club's dinner meeting Thursday at Mon's Cafe.

Carroll titled his talk, "Something for Nothing." He advised his listeners (and proved it with examples of actual cases) that the confidence operator can only cheat those individuals who kid themselves that they can get "something for nothing."... have a touch of larceny in their OWN hearts!

President Lucille Murdock conducted the meeting and welcomed special guests of Zonta, Mrs. Carroll and Elsie Rogers, executive secretary of Traveler's Aid.

Legal Secretaries

A filmed travelogue of England and Scotland will be shown by Rita Knight at Legal Secretaries next meeting Friday at the La Ronde Rue Restaurant on Pacific Coast Highway.

A social hour at 6:30 p. m. will precede the 7:30 dinner. Hostesses planning the evening are Barbara Smith, Edna High and Elsie Schenk with door awards to be provided by Vivian Crum and Ruth Stuart.

Executives Secretaries

A large white palette with red carnations for the artist's paint dobs centered the head table effectively at Executives' Secretaries dinner meeting Monday at Victor Hugo Restaurant. Miniature red palettes with dobs of gold glitter were used for place cards.

With Agnes Herbst conducting, reports were heard from all committee chairmen and officers to provide a verbal "painting" of E/S activities, past and future. Also heard were official reports on national convention by delegates Hazel Nowlin, Grace Cooney, "Vi" Dovey and President Agnes who attended the conclave in Salt Lake City last month.

Junior 'Tidier'

When it's time to take very young children "out to dine" in a restaurant Mrs. R. W. Swigart, 1550 Hackett Ave., has found that carrying a damp washcloth in a plastic bag is a mighty handy "junior tidier." For three-year-old Douglas she also carries his own baby spoon and a couple of little books for him to study while he waits for his "entree."

Adolescents Should Avoid Car-for-Two Auto Jaunts

By ANGELO PATRI

One hates to put a damper on youthful joy in good times, to put mistrust and fear into the hearts of young girls, but they certainly should be cautioned about the Car-for-Two rides that are so popular and so delightful on summer moonlit nights.

The man or the youth who drives the car and has the girl under his protection, or at his mercy, should be well-known and trustworthy before the girl accepts his invitation to "take a ride." This is accepted by common consent, yet every once in a while something terrible happens which sends shivers down parents' backs. Hence the necessity for repeated instructions, repeated warnings.

In my opinion, based on experience with boys and girls just passing through adolescence, there should be no "rides" for two in a car until they are, both of them, mature enough to understand the seriousness of sex relationships. Usually this is becoming apparent about the age of 18. Certainly, no girl younger than that should accept an invitation for such a ride of an evening, nor should a boy have the opportunity of offering it.

To say that the boys and girls of today are maturing earlier, marrying earlier, is not helpful. Too many youthful marriages end in divorce. And this is natural, for the youngsters are not prepared for marriage.

Such responsibilities include the ability to earn the money to support a wife, the children and the household. Too many of these young married people have to take their baby home to "mother," and sometimes the mother goes along, too. The "in-laws" who have already labored to rear one family now are burdened by another and also must endure the laments of both sides.

In connection with the Car-for-Two idea, one thing must be dinned into the ears of both the boys and girls, particularly of the girls: Never, never, accept the invitation of anybody who is a stranger, or of one not acceptable to the family, to "have a ride." Better walk. And keep walking until home is reached. It's good exercise and more likely to be safer in every way.

This feature appears daily in the Independent.

Molly Mayfield

His Excuses Are Mighty Flimsy

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a gentleman friend. He is a salesman I've known for several years. For the past six months, he has been coming over to see me almost every night, usually after 10 o'clock.

He is interested in sports and he seldom pays for tickets because he always knows an usher or somebody. He attends all of the events but tells me he can't take me because, he says, I am a lady and it would be embarassing to me. That's how he explains never being able to arrive before 10 p.m.

He thinks he's fooling me, but he isn't. I know he has been playing around all the time I have been sitting at home waiting for him to get enough money for him to buy me an engagement ring. He keeps telling me he does not want me just to have an ORDINARY ring—it's got to be a great big one!

I have asked him about the girl he's currently chasing with. It's the same old story. She has been chasing him and he can't get rid of her. This time he had to stay with the girl for days as she was going to commit suicide and he was afraid to leave her. He had to talk her out of the idea.

He says I am just unreasonably jealous and I say he couldn't have gotten so involved with so many women if he didn't encourage them. He says it wasn't his fault—that they were neurotic, all eight of them.

Isn't it kind of unusual for one man to run into that many "neurotics" when he's supposed to be engaged and minding his own business.?—ANOTHER NEUROTIC.

DEAR ANOTHER NEUROTIC:

Unusual? It's downright phenomenal!

I'd thumb your sports-loving addict to the showers right now. He's left you sitting in the bleachers while he's out among 'em in the grandstand. In addition to his other pursuits, he seems to be making "sport" of you.

As soon as you toss him out of the game, you may find a renewed spectator interest. Betting on "sure things" like yourself seems to bore him. Reduce him to the status of a "long shot" and you may find him foregoing his "cinches" because you, Miss-Suddenly-Hard-to Get, intrigue the daylights out of him. Even then I doubt that he's worth a bet. —M.M.

DEAR MRS MAYFIELD:

We have a daughter, 16, and four younger sons. They all feel we are too strict because we do not want them running the streets after dark. We welcome all their friends into our home during the day and in the evening, and feel they can have their fun here.

We provide soft drinks and potato chips. They have a record player with all the latest rock 'n' roll records. We do not say they cannot visit their friends, only we don't want them running the streets after 9 o'clock. We would be glad to pick them up from where they are visiting.

Our daughter now is involved in her first case of puppy love. The boy is younger and is around our house all the time. She feels we are unfair because we don't approve of her and her boy friend hugging and kissing most of the time. We told her it is not proper.

She has always been a good girl but she is getting so headstrong that she won't listen to our advice. How can we make her u n d e r s t a n d? — DISTRAUGHT PARENTS.

DEAR DISTRAUGHT PARENTS:

You're trying so hard to do the right thing that I'm afraid you're trying too hard. The young invariably assume that they know more than their elders. If they weren't like that, they wouldn't be normal. We were all like that once.

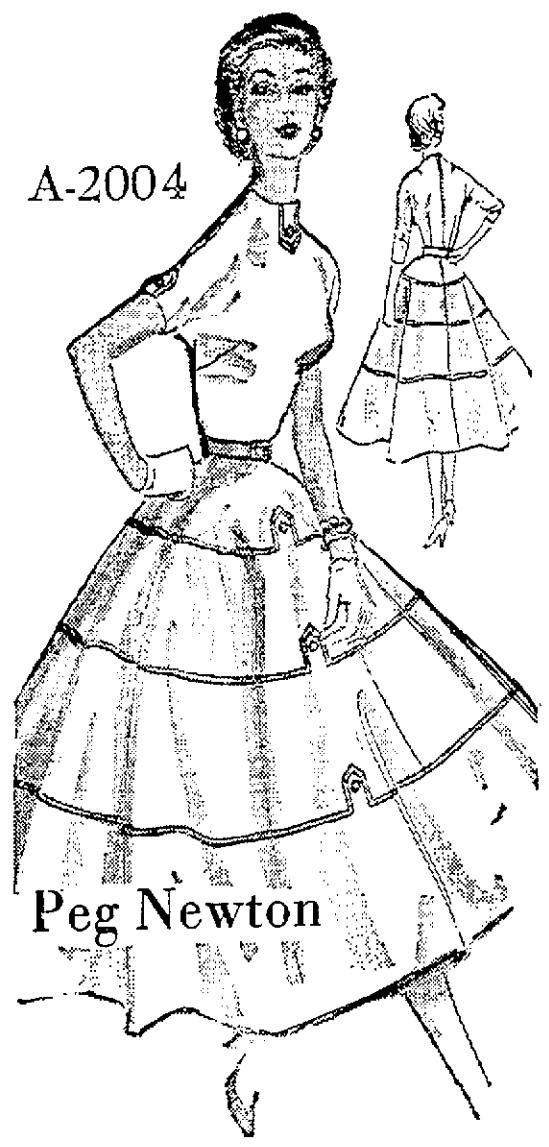

And when you try to regulate their lives so closely that they want to "escape," you're creating a dangerous situation.

I know your plight and I don't envy you. But you're simply going to have to allow a little more leeway.

If you have given your children a good moral sense through the years—and I'm sure you have—they're not going to go hog wild with just a little more freedom. And there will be plenty of nights when home and soft drinks and the record player will look pretty good to your children—when the routine isn't forced on them.—M.M.

This feature appears daily in the Press-Telegram.

Personalized Pattern

FOR THE TALL GIRL

Peg Newton who specializes in designing for the taller-than-average girl has put a great deal of ingenuity into this dress with its tabbed and tiered skirt, the tab detail repeated at the neckline and sleeve of the fitted bodice. The edging on the tiers may be in contrast, and the exclusively sized pattern with perforations so precisely placed that matching is always accurate, gives the yardage and instructions for this kind of trim. Make it in gingham, linen, chambray, novelty weaves, shantung, tie silk, smart new rayons or lightweight wool. From this chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips		of Neck to Waist Length From Nape
10	34	24	35	in.	17¼ in.

Writers to Meet

Mrs. Mabel Weaks, instructor of journalism at Long Beach City College, B&TD, will d i s c u s s "Publications" when she appears as guest speaker before Long Beach Writers Club at their afternoon session T h u r s d a y at Woodland Clubhouse in Recreation Park.

Mrs. Weaks will be presented by Mrs. Helen Vind Ervin, program chairman, following luncheon recess.

The 10 o'clock morning session will feature work submitted by members and read by the directors, Miss Olive Breed, prose; Mrs. Alma Elliott, short stories; Mrs. Helen Gillum, a r t i c l e s, and Mrs. Elizabeth Wall, juveniles. Mrs. Don U. Billings, newly installed president, will preside.

Ives BPW Ends Year

The fiscal year—but not the "fellowship" year—ended for Margaret Ives Business and Professional Woman's Club with its June dinner meeting this week at the Lafayette Hotel.

Highlight of the evening was announcement by Hazel Fitzgerald of her engagement to A. O. Preil of Washington, D. C. who will, with her marriage, move to the capital in September.

President Maxine Hill conducted the "wrap up" meeting with Lillie Lee, vice president, in charge of the night's program which consisted of workshop discussion for each table.

Plans were completed for members to attend yesterday's workshop and district luncheon at the Lafayette Hotel. The next get-together will be an informal picnic July 15 at the home of Miss Lee.

District GAR

Members of Southern District, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday at Los Angeles Patriotic Hall, 1816 S. Figueroa St. Mrs. J. F. Zimmerman of Santa Monica will preside during annual election of officers. Luncheon will be served at noon.

Coast Guard Wives Undertake Brisk Schedule of Summertime Activities

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

Among parties with a distinct summertime theme was the recent coffee event given at Allen Center by present and past board members of Coast Guard Officers Wives Club for departing members. Honored were Mmes. W. C. Hogan, H. F. Walsh, T. G. Byrne, (former president of the group), B. M. Chriswell, P. R. Peak, H. C. Caffrey, F. A. Nichols, E. B. Copp and R. J. Krueger.

And not to be forgotten is the s u m m e r semi-formal dance which the group and their husbands and friends enjoyed last night at Lakewood Country Club.

—Graf Studio

Mrs. John Ronnau

Another event was a barbecue and bridge party at the home of Mrs. W. S. Heyer for the wives of officers attached to the USS Roanoke. This same group also had a most pleasant time Thursday evening at a bridge session in the home of Mrs. Jack Hilton.

Members who went to San Francisco for a few days to be with their husbands while the ship was there, were Mrs. R. W. Scott and Mrs. John S. Blake.

A benefit tea is scheduled for July 9 at noon by the Nautical Club. This tea, open to the public, will be given in the garden room at Mottell's & Peck and is under the chairmanship of the ways and means director of the club, Mrs. Roy Proudfoot, who will be assisted by board members and officers of the club. A gay highlight of the afternoon will be added to the group's Christmas charities.

On July 25 Navy Wives No. 1 will host a pot luck night for families at the Savannah Clubhouse from 6 to 8 p.m. Yesterday the group had a bake sale at the Naval Exchange, Long Beach Naval Station.

Recently officers and staff Non-Commissioned Officers of the Marine Barracks of Long Beach Naval Station had a luncheon party at the Hawaiian to bid farewell to Chief Warrant Officer B. D. Stone who retired recently.

Lillian Todd, secretary of the Navy Wives Club No. 123, recently enjoyed a ten-day vacation in Las Vegas and Reno.

Poor Cmdr. "Jack" Steltenkamp really didn't get to fully enjoy Father's Day. 'Twas his wife's birthday, too, and besides a surprise birthday party for her, given by Mrs. Oscar Ullery of 128 St. Joseph, and a dinner party at Allen Center for Mrs. Steltenkamp it was all "Pop's" day. Anyway he was happy over it all; his daughter Kay was home from college and Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Robert Slach dropped by to wish him well. They reported that their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Weitz and daughter, Susan, would be here from Tucson this week. Susan is going to celebrate her 11th birthday here next week.

Donald Hightower was in town a few days last week from Albuquerque, N.M., and visited with his wife's mother Mrs. Alberta Davis and children, and Mrs. Davis's genial dad, Ray Simpson.

Speaking of New Mexico, those dear friends of Cmdr. and Mrs. R. M. Whelpley, Capt. and J. C. Parham Jr., and children Marion and Lee of White Sands, are here as the Whelpley's house guests, enjoying our wonderful beach weather.

The Armed Service Y has a summer formal dance planned for the evening of June 29. On the Fourth of July the day will start with a volleyball game and will be climaxed by a picnic supper and patio dance.

Then on July 5 a repeat of the successful Scavenger Hunt will be held.

Wedding bells rang out not too long ago for Marine Sgt. T. L. Monstantino and Mrs. Monstantino, the former Janice Beach of Culver City. They honeymooned in Las Vegas. Another Marine who just left his bachelor days behind him is Cpl. Larry J. Harrington who married Peggy Huseman of Lakewood.

Adoption Service Installs

Mrs. John Ronnau was installed as president of the Long Beach Branch of Holy Family Adoption Service at a recent luncheon meeting at Lakewood Country Club.

Mrs. Ronnau has served two years as treasurer of the Adoption Service. The active mother of six children and wife of an oral surgeon finds herself giving time to serve the community also as a member of St. Mary's Hospital Guild and the Long Beach Dental Auxiliary. Upon accepting the gavel, Mrs. Ronnau expressed the hope that Holy Family Adoption Service would be able to continue its excellent service to Long Beach and even increase the placement of adoptable babies in homes where there will be the love and understanding guidance that every child born into this world has a right to inherit.

Mrs. Jay Moorhead, first president, was the installing officer.

Annual reports were given by Miss Rose Hogan, acting administrator of Holy Family Adoption Service, and Mrs. William W a g n e r, retiring president.

Arrangements and decorations for the meeting were under the direction of Mrs. Milton Cooper.

Mrs. Wagner was hostess recently at the University Club honoring her retiring board.

Allied Arts

Phillip Haynes will be featured soloist at the 8 p.m. meeting of Allied Arts International Tuesday in the Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Speaker will be Mrs. Logan W. Wheatley. The public is invited.

Vows Solemnized in Mission Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. Leighton W. Hazlehurst

Historic Santa Barbara Mission provided a reverent setting for the wedding June 8 of Miss Patricia Anne Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kennedy of San Mateo, and Leighton W. Hazlehurst, son of Mrs. Door Hazlehurst, 117-A Prospect Ave., and the late Col. Hazlehurst.

The young newlyweds honeymooned at Highlands Inn in Carmel and will summer in Long Beach. In the fall they will enroll at the University of California in Berkeley.

As they exchanged rings before the Rev. Gerald Ryan, the bride wore a white silk taffeta gown with chapel train and jeweled bodice. A queen's crown held her fragile fingertip length veil. On her prayer book she carried butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Frank Dobyns, Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority sister of the bride, and Mrs. Kim Munholland, sister of the bridegroom, matron of honor and bridal attendant respectively were attired in princess style ballerina gowns of ice blue silk taffeta, matching lace caps with veils and cascade bouquets of white begonias.

Jon Champeny, Kappa Sigma fraternity brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The 200 guests were seated by ushers, Gerald Michael Kennedy, brother of the bride, Anthony Brombilla and Richard Sibert, both fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

At the reception in Rockwood Woman's Club in the Channel City, Misses Mariam McFarland and Sally Phillips had charge of the guest book. The bridal couple cut a four-tier cake surrounded by bouvardia and placed on a point de venise cloth which had been shared by the bridegroom's sisters at their weddings. The bride's mother greeted guests in gray silk organza and the bridegroom's mother received in champagne lace. Both wore corsages of cymbidiums.

Among the wedding guests were Capt. and Mrs. B. J. Mead, Mr. and Mrs. John Munholland, Mrs. Dewey Mong of Long Beach and Mrs. Clark Borchfiel of Palo Alto.

The new Mrs. Hazlehurst was graduated this month from the University of California at Santa Barbara where she served as vice president of Kappa Alpha Theta and was a member of Cal Club, an honorary society. She will work toward her master's degree at UC, Berkeley.

After graduation from Wilson High School, where he excelled in track, the bridegroom continued his education at UC, Santa Barbara, where he was a Kappa Sigma and active in student body affairs. Grandson of Mrs. David Baker of Pasadena, he too will continue his education at UC, Berkeley.

Mrs. Barton Sammons —Curl Ray Studio

All-White Theme for Sammons-Rudd Rite

Cascades of American beauty roses and pink carnations carried by her attendants were the only color accent in the all-white wedding theme which Miss Te Suzanne Rudd chose for her marriage to Barton Sammons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baird Sammons, 629 Ultimo Ave. The evening ceremony was performed in All Saints Episcopal Church by the Rev. Hiram B. Crosby in the presence of 250 guests.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rudd, 4231 Tulane Ave., selected a floor-length gown of imported Swiss organdy and a headpiece of seed pearls which fastened a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a prayer book adorned with white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary Arthur Rudd, sister of the bride, was maid of honor; bridesmaids were Miss Ingrid Bloomfield, and Miss Karen Luberg; dainty Nancy Rudd, six-year-old sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

All wore identical dresses of white organdy, ballerina length. Seed pearl headdresses held their short illusion veils.

Completing the entourage were Baird Sammons, best man; and Gary Crawford, Ronald Beddow, James Thompson and Sheldon Gebb, ushers.

For the post-nuptial reception at Lakewood Country Club a pink and white theme was used in decorations and appointments. Mmes. Richard Kimball, Baird Sammons and Donald Drew assisted.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Wilson High School and attended Long Beach City College where she affiliated with Entre Nous and he with Order of Tilsmen. She completed her education at Long Beach State College and is a member of Alpha Phi.

After honeymooning at Las Vegas, the newly married couple will reside in Long Beach.

British Daughters to Host Anniversary Tea Tuesday

Celebrating their sixth anniversary, members of Cecil Rhodes Chapter of Daughters of the British Empire will sponsor their annual tea Tuesday at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, 7th and Atlantic Ave. Tea will be served between 1:30 and 3:30 p. m., and the public is invited for a nominal donation. Entertainment will be provided by the dancing troup of Yvonne Seymour of Bellflower.

The Daughters of the British Empire, a national organization, was founded in 1909 as the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, and in 1920 the group was renamed to its present title.

In March, 1951, a group of women met in the Lakewood Village home of Mrs. M. D. Tremellen to organize a chapter for the fast-growing north and eastern sections of Long Beach. Membership now covers the Los Altos, Lakewood, Bellflower, Artesia and Compton areas. Named after Cecil Rhodes, who established the Rhodes Scholarships at Oxford University in 1902, the chapter was granted its charter from the national society the following month.

The main objective of all DBE chapters is the support of homes in the United States for aged people of British birth. All units in the western district combine in various fund-raising activities that contribute to the four-unit home in Sierra Madre, which can house 30 guests.

Since its founding, the Cecil Rhodes Chapter has been active in other civic work. Educational scholarships have been given to three students at Long Beach City College; contributions have been made to the Lakewood Youth Canteen and the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation and many hours of service have been donated to the American Red Cross.

Women born in the British Isles or British possessions are invited to attend the meetings which take place the second Thursday of each month in members' homes. Such prospective members are Tuesday's tea, with further information available thorugh Mrs. R. J. Parsonson, regent. Mrs. C. E. Callison is in especially welcomed to attend charge of tea arrangements.

Open Meeting for Blue Star

All mothers of sons and daughters who have served in the Armed Forces are invited to attend a meeting of the Social and Sewing Club of Blue Star Mothers, Chapter No. 1 on Monday at 10 a. m. for a sandwich luncheon, in the home of Mrs. Beatrice Cather, 1421 Poinsettia St. There will be sewing for the Veterans Hospital.

Mrs. Agnes Reed will entertain the Night Group of Blue Star Mothers of America at her home, 2335 Cedar Ave., Monday at 7:30 p. m. for inducting new members before the social hour.

Jewell Club

MacArthur Park, Anaheim and Gundry, will be setting for an 11 a.m. meeting Thursday of the social and sewing club of Emily R. Jewell Tent No. 15, Daughters of Union Veterans. Sandwich luncheon will be enjoyed at noon.

FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

Work Wins Gold Award

Mrs. Fred R. Schwarz, president of the Kenny Auxiliary, and auxiliary campaign chairman for the Foundation, received a gold candle award for meritorious service at the fourth annual Clubs Recognition Breakfast at the Statler Hotel, Los Angeles. Representatives attended from the 462 clubs in this vicinity which participated in the recent campaign.

Mrs. Stanley Solomon of Long Beach was given a special award for her poem, "Kenny Horizons," read by Mrs. C. J. Troost, president of CFWC Juniors.

Other Long Beach members who attended the affair were Mmes. Lester B. Cooper, Rose Gustafson, Robert C. Fussell, Thomas Carr, Walter D. Brown, Gertrude Winslow, Philip M. Thompson; and James R. Pino, campaign chairman for the Long Beach area.

Joseph R. Jones, chairman of the Kenny Foundation board was master of ceremonies. Featured entertainers were the Robert Mitchell Boys' Choir and Miss Marge Behan, vocalist. A polio victim, Miss Behan sang from her wheel chair. Among other numbers, the choir sang "Sunny Side of the Street," which they recently performed before the Pope at the Vatican during a tour of the Holy City.

DAR Awards

Three local junior high school girls, Miss Sue Hammond, 3536 Lime Ave., Hughes; Miss Linda Carlyle, 3750 Delta Ave., Stephens, and Miss Janice Galloway, 511 E. 17th St., Washington, were recipients of Good Citizenship Awards from Los Cerritos Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Presentation was made at the the group's recent potluck-business session at the home of Mrs. John Kirk, last meeting until the chapter reconvenes in the fall.

Hillman-Canfield Nuptials Read in German Chapel

Flying halfway around the globe to speak her nuptial vows, Barbara Jane Canfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dell Canfield, Compton, became the bride of PFC. Richard John Hillman in services at the Army post chapel in Darmstadt, Germany.

Following a honeymoon trip to Berchtesgaden, the couple is living in Bad Kreuznach, where the bridegroom is assigned to the 2nd Armored Division.

Given in marriage by her uncle and attended by her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Corey of Darmstadt, the bride wore a gown of white tulle and embroidered taffeta. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a headpiece of embroidery.

Private Hillman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hillman, Compton, selected Pfc. Jack Watkins as his best man.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Corey entertained at a reception in their home.

The new Mrs. Hillman is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School and Compton College. Her husband was graduated from Compton College and Long Beach State College.

Chef of the Week

Here's 'Scoop' on Tamale Pie From Ice Cream Man

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

In this case, the profound declaration of a good wife is—"My Casey (not Willie) can do anything." And, says she, "the trouble is, he does."

Chef of he Week Herald E. (Casey) Jones gets paid, however, for being the metropolitan district manager of Golden State Dairies, the position to which he was just promoted on his fortieth anniversary with that company.

Jones' business has always been in the creamery field. He first managed a creamery in San Pedro, his birthplace, by the way, where he remained until 1928. "Twas then that Golden State became the company's name, and he became manager at Santa Monica then on to Ventura before coming to Long Beach in 1935.

Not only does he produce the ice cream for Los Angeles and Orange Counties, but oversees two large milk production plants, as well. Jones is familiar, also, with each process — from cow to consumer, for he started as a milk route jockey, went on to the processed milk field, and finally to ice cream manufacturing. Incidentally, his career was interrupted for a time while he served with the 16th Ammunition Train during World War I.

As a boy, the San Pedro Harbor was "the ole swimmin' hole" for him and his row boat — and old Dobbin provided his transportation from San Pedro to Long Beach. That day came, however, when he became the proud owner of a Crow Elkhart—(that's an automobile) —in 1914.

Aside from protecting his harem — five little granddaughters—two daughters and his wife—(he does just happen to have a son)—he has found time to build both a rumpus room and a music room, and to encourage a garden second to none.

A member of the Arthur Peterson Post, he also belongs to the Long Beach Lions Club. He began roaring in 1929 with the Ventura Lions.

Today he's sharing his recipe for Tamale Pie with us.

TAMALE PIE

2 small onions
1 clove garlic
1½ lb. ground beef
½ cup salad oil or bacon drippings
1 can whole kernel corn
1 tblsp. salt
1 to 3 tsp. chili powder (depending on taste)
2 small cans tomato sauce
1 can ripe olives (drained)
1½ cups milk
1 cup yellow cornmeal
2 eggs, beaten

Fry onions, garlic and ground beef in oil. Mix dry cornmeal in remaining ingredients. Add all together, mix well, turn into greased casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 min. Few minutes before removing from oven sprinkle grated cheese over top.

Transfer Bid Seldom Used

In this last article on the JTB for awhile I will bring up a few final features. The first feature is that the bid is only used in response to the opening bid of one no-trump. We may extend it to other no-trump situations some day, but so far it is only on the opening.

The second feature is that if second hand overcalls, the transfer bid is not made at the two level. You either abandon the transfer bid entirely or you move it up to the four level for use with hands such as spades K J 9 6 5 3 2, hearts 8 6, diamonds 5 4, clubs 2.

Opening lead—♠ Q

Assuming that your partner's opening no-trump has been overcalled by a bid of two hearts you may bid four hearts as a transfer to spades. Obviously, business will be better if your partner played the hand and you do want to be in game.

In today's hand my son, Jim, opened an absolute maximum one no-trump. His partner's two spade response was the club transfer but Jim decided to mutiny and bid three no-trump. He was sure that his partner would hold six clubs and that meant six club tricks at no-trump. He hoped for three tricks in the other suits.

He was lucky. West had a natural spade lead and Jim romped home with his expected six club tricks and one in each of the other suits.

His bid of three no-trump had been a calculated risk that paid off.

Dear Abby

It All Depends on the Bar!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After 12 years of marriage I find that my husband has been seeing other women. I could excuse the make-up and lipstick marks I found on his topcoat and on his suits and shirts, but, I have found make-up marks on the T-shirts he wears UNDER his shirt. Please tell me, Abby, could this happen in a bar?—UPSET WIFE

DEAR UPSET: In any bar where a man is permitted to remove his shirt, this could happen.

* * * *

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I am a plump girl of ten years and every time my father gets near me he pinches me. It hurts and he won't stop. When I complain he says they are "love pinches," but they hurt just like "mad pinches." Please tell me what to do?—PINCHED

DEAR PINCHED: Bite his ear . . . and tell him they are "love bites."

* * * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO HARRY: A little "horse sense" could prevent many divorces—and also marriages. Watch out!

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and very much in love with a boy who is not of my faith. I know my folks would never consider letting me marry him knowing this, so I have never introduced him to them. We plan to introduce him under a different name and let them get to know him and like him for what he is, and then later (when they approve of him as a person) we will tell them the truth. We feel he would have a fair chance this way. What do you think of our plan?—ROCHELLE

DEAR ROCHELLE: Not much! If you get away with it at first (which is doubtful) when it comes time to tell the truth, your parents will dislike him all the more for deceiving them. Better reconsider!

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 25 years old and have a good steady job, but outside of that I am nothing extra-special. I have been going with a nice, quiet girl for over a year. She is 17. Her father is dead so when I asked her to marry me she said, "Ask my mother," so I asked her mother. Her mother said yes, it was all right with her. Then I asked my girl how about setting a date and she said, "Now I am not sure about marrying you!" So I said, "Why didn't you tell me that before I asked your mother?" She got very red and said she only wanted to know if her mother would LET her get married—not especially to ME. Well, I blew my top. Should I see this girl again, or should I forget her?—GARY

DEAR GARY: This girl needs to grow up before marrying YOU or ANYONE ELSE. You were lucky to find out how childish she was before tying the knot.

Worry Clinic

Men Have Blame, Too, in Mental Upsets, Trials

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-312: Mona M., 32, an irate wife who thinks I always pick on the wives.

If you have followed this clinical column in practical psychology for at least a full year, you will recall that I do not exempt the men from all blame.

True enough, my emphasis is usually on the part the aggrieved wife can play to regain her husband's devotion. But that's because I usually must work through the wife, since the husband may refuse to apply for advice.

Besides, there are about 5,000,000 more unmarried adult women than men, so there aren't enough husbands to go around. Women must thus fight harder to retain their claim to their husbands!

Women are generally more self-sacrificial in trying to hold their home together so they can thus furnish a happier place for their children to live.

I admit that wives are more openminded in seeking expert outside advice, and they are more diligent in trying to make a success of their marriage, when they have the full facts.

* * * *

I HAVE outlined many faults of husbands such as the following:

Many husbands are still tied to mama's apron strings. So I have advised prospective brides to visit their future in-laws and be sure to get the fullest possible picture of their mate's background.

Some husbands are also excessively stingy with money. This may stem from their deep inferiority complex which makes them believe they cannot hold the undying devotion of a wife against the bidding of other men. So such husbands hang on to the purse strings as a means of trying to keep wives in a suppliant position, thereby reassuring their wounded male ego.

Other men, after marriage, succumb to a belief they are sexually below par, so they also employ wealth as a symbol of male dominance. Smart wives reassure such frightened mates in the erotic realm, after which those husbands may become quite generous with money.

* * * *

HUSBANDS also are chronic buck-passers. They tend to blame their wives for everything that goes wrong. Adams started this fad by passing the buck to Eve regarding the forbidden fruit in the Garden of Eden.

Men crave far more gastric calories than do women. But there is an even greater disparity in the erotic realm, yet many old-fashioned wives refuse to admit this fact. So they try to ration their mates in the erotic realm and thus cause the men to become sarcastic, fault-finding and cruel even to the innocent children.

After the age of 45, men often get panicky about their masculine vigor and demonstrate what I have long termed the Ponce de Leon Complex. They start chasing around after younger, more seductive females, largely to reinflate their waning vigor. Smart wives can stop this rapidly.

Just send for the booklet "How to Prevent Impotence in Men." It's cheap insurance against divorce.

Please enclose a long, 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in requesting a Dr. Crane Bulletin. Address: Dr. George W. Crane, in care of Hopkins Syndicate, Mellott, Ind.

Why Grow Old?

These Three Ingredients Make Life Worth Living

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If we are to keep our daily lives from falling into ruts, if life is to glow for us, we must see that our existence has certain ingredients. The first and most important one is a love of life. Those folks who find existence full of magic and fun and adventure bring zest to it because of their own attitude and approach.

Our lives also have a change of pace. In every career, whether it be that of a housewife, an actress, a writer or a musician must practice her scales and lessons just as the housewife must do the same chores over and over again.

If no new activities and interests and experiences are added we lose sight of the big view. We become caught in our little shells of fixed attitudes and activities. We become ingrown and our horizons narrow rather than expand. Just one simple new interest can make the day exciting.

The third thing life must have is melody. I mean this literally as well as figuratively. Since the beginning of time man has been stimulated, consoled aind relaxed by music. I think many folks are starved for music and do not know it.

However there is melody of an even more important kind in daily living if you take time or have the approach to find it. There is the melody of laughter, of warmth, of understanding, of keen awareness of the wonderful people and the beautiful scenes about us.

There is the melody in sudden recognition of togetherness, or belonging, in the kindred spirit between two people. This may occur with an old friend, a new friend, a person you have just met.

There is the melody in sudslanting through the trees, of a robin on her nest, of seeds turning into flowers.

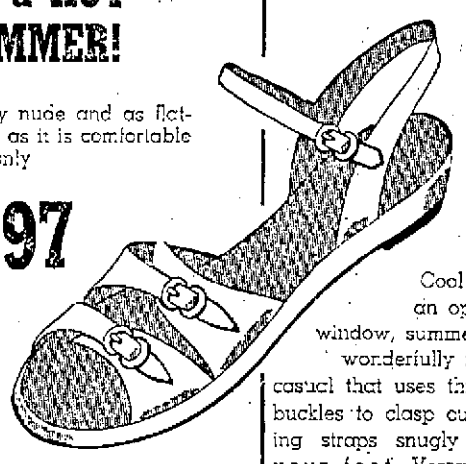

I thought of these three ingredients recently when listening to some classical music on our Hi-Fi. The change of pace in some compositions was intriguing and the melody pouring out was exciting.

I must have melody if life is to sing for me but I need have no worries on that score because it is all about me—in great music and popular music—in the people I know—in the world about me. All I have to do is find it! What about you?

Disaster on Mormon Island

By Alys Phreaner

NO ONE alive today knows exactly what caused the explosion aboard the 500-foot tanker Markay, early on the morning of June 22, 1947, but the entire Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor area is better safeguarded today as a result of the greatest disaster in local waterfront history.

"That was a night I'll never forget," says Joseph Smithers, chief pumpman of the ill-fated ship, who still visits this area two or three times a month on coastwise tankers.

At 2:05 on that Sunday morning 10 years ago, the Markey rested quietly at her moorings alongside the Shell Oil docks on Mormon Island, taking on a mixed load of petroleum products. That portion of the cargo which included diesel fuel, aviation gasoline and stove oil was already aboard and the third mate was supervising the loading of red ethyl gasoline and highly volatile butane-blended gasoline.

ALL OF THE required safety measures were being observed and, in addition, because of the high combustibility of the butane-blended commodity, further precautions were taken. All watertight doors were kept closed, the portholes were closed and dogged, and no smoking was allowed anywhere on the vessel. The galley was locked and crew members had been taken into Wilmington for their evening meal.

The night was sultry under a partially clouded sky. Such a faint breeze moved up the channel and across the ship toward the dock that it scarcely stirred the heavy vapors flowing out through the ullage holes of the Markay's tanks and they hung in a noxious blanket above the hot steel decks. The fumes pressed relentlessly into the officers' quarters in the midship housing, where the radio operator and the shipping company's port captain were sleeping.

AT MIDNIGHT, because of the stuffiness and the accumulated fumes in his room amidships, the chief mate had taken a pillow from his bunk and gone out to sleep in his car, parked in the terminal yard a hundred feet or so from the ship. And so his life was spared when, at approximately 2:06 a.m., the tranquil vessel shuddered with the impact of a violent explosion.

Instantly, the thick layer of gasoline vapors ignited and within seconds the ship was enveloped in fire as the flames roared upward from the tank tops like giant blowtorches. A great stream of burning gasoline spurted from a ruptured tank directly abaft the midship housing, and within three minutes it had swept across the smooth surface of the water to set afire the docks on the opposite side of the channel. As the gases in adjacent tanks ignited, explosion followed explosion in rapid succession, hurling blazing steel fragments into the air to spread destruction farther ashore. Newspaper accounts reported that the blasts were felt for at least 12 miles and the flames were visible for the same distance.

"I SPENT SEVERAL hours uptown that evening," Smithers said, "but got back to the Markay about 9:30 and went to bed. When the explosion woke me up, I ran back to the fantail and slid down a stern line to the dock."

More than a dozen other crew members who were also in the afterdeck housing reached shore as Smithers did, by sliding down the stern mooring lines or by diving into the water and swimming to safety, but three or four men were overcome by smoke in the dark passageways before they were able to escape. Eight crew members and the port captain, as well as three wharfingers working on the pier, were counted dead or missing in the catastrophe.

THE FIRE RAGED for 12 hours before it was brought under control, and the Markay's twisted hulk smouldered for two days longer as she lay at her berth. The shattered midship section settled to the bottom of the harbor.

The oil pier and installations alongside the tanker were completely destroyed. Six storage tanks in the vicinity and the freight warehouses across the channel were gutted by the fire. Including the ship itself, valued at 2½ million dollars, the total damage was estimated at 10 million dollars.

On Wednesday, June 25, a U. S. Coast Guard investigation board convened to determine, if possible, the cause of the explosion and "above all, to prevent further occurrence of such tragedies." For two weeks, the group of Coast Guard officers listened to the testimony of survivors and witnesses, visited the Markay's charred hulk and weighed their findings.

SO TWISTED and torn were the Markay's bulkheads that it was impossible to determine whether the initial blast had occurred within the tank being loaded with butane-blended gasoline or in the vapors accumulated in the midship housing, which was melted into an almost unrecognizable mass by the intense heat. Possibly a static electricity spark had ignited the vapors, or perhaps one of the men in the midship quarters awakened and turned on a light or flicked the switch of an electric fan. No one will ever know.

From the hearing, however, came recommendations concern-

Grandma's a Daredevil!

By Bob Whearley

AT THE MOMENT, Grandma Brown is retired to her cozy little honeymoon nest at 1080 Elm Ave. But if you peek under her rocking chair, chances are you'll find a pair of paratrooper boots, size 6, and a revised schedule of upcoming air shows.

If you're worried about the propriety of nosing about under the rocker—fear not. Grandma probably will be off having herself a ball up in the wild blue.

With 62 parachute jumps to her credit, 41-year-old Emily Brown now has left the air show circuit to become Mrs. James C. Myers, wife of a Long Beach Coast Guard chief yeoman.

The chief grounded Grandma right after their April 27 wedding, and she had to cancel her bookings for jumps at shows in Canada and Czechoslovakia. No more wing stands, either. But nothing was said about flying (Grandma's a pilot, too.)

JUST HOW LONG Grandma's retirement will last is a matter of speculation. And those who know her best—her three married daughters—won't even venture a guess. She's surprised them too many times.

A trim, well-groomed brunette who closely resembles comedienne Martha Raye, Emily got started on her career as a professional daredevil because she couldn't turn down a nickel bet.

In the fall of 1954, she was vacationing in Fowler, Mich. One day, she went flying with a friend who introduced her to an acquaintance of his.

Later, over coffee in the airport snack bar, the topic of conversation got around to parachute-jumping and just what special kind of courage it took to dive out of a plane from a couple thousand feet in the air.

"Oh, I don't know," said Emily, airily. "It doesn't sound very dangerous to me."

HER FRIEND'S FRIEND drew himself up.

"Young lady, I'll bet you couldn't do it!"

"How much do you bet?" demanded Emily, who never was able to turn down a dare.

"A nickel. And if you jump, I will, too."

"You're on," said Emily.

She was at the airport bright and early the next morning. She checked out a parachute, all the while "kind of hoping this fellow would back out."

There was no sign of the man. But Emily went ahead with her part of the deal.

Her friend flew her to 2,000 feet in his plane and patiently circled the field. Swallowing hard to keep her heart in place, Emily pushed open the door and crawled out onto the struts.

"I kept wondering if I was doing the right thing," she recalls. "But, doggone it, I had made myself a bet and I wasn't about to back down. Whatever I've set my mind to, I've been able to do."

ABOVE THE ROAR of the engine, the words of the pilot rang in her ears:

"Emily, you got to remember—pull that ripcord. When you jump, there's not a thing I can do for you. I'm not going to land until I see you're safe on the ground."

Only Emily Brown could have read any humor into this warning. ("What on earth would he have done if the chute hadn't opened?" she wonders.)

Summoning up all her courage, Emily took a long look down.

It didn't help.

She closed her eyes for a second and heard the pilot yell: "Are you going to jump?"

"Doggone it, yes!" cried Emily.

And down she went, feet first.

"It's hard to put into words exactly what it was like," she says. "When you clear the plane, somehow you begin to feel wildly independent; you're floating in air, the wind wailing past your ears, and you start wondering if you really will remember to pull that ripcord."

EMILY REMEMBERED. She's sure she would have done it unconsciously, even if she had blacked out on her way down.

The pilot chute sprang out of her backpack, pulling the main parachute after it. With a sudden, plopping sound, the white nylon canopy filled with air and put the brakes on her descent.

"It was the most glorious feeling I've ever had in my life," Emily says. "I knew right away that this was for me."

Her sudden addiction to parachute jumping came as much of a surprise to Emily herself as it did to her friends and family.

But, then, Emily had been doing the unexpected all of her life.

Born in Sneedville, Tenn., Emily left home at 13 to get married. Her first husband, an interior decorator, died five years ago.

IN THE SUMMER OF 1944, Emily began taking flying lessons at Kenilworth, Ill., where she was operating a restaurant.

"There was something strange and wonderful about the thought of flying," she says. "I don't want to say that it's like feeling you're mightier than anyone else, but that's as close as I can come to it."

When her husband died, Emily found the sedate life of a small town widow didn't appeal to her. Her three girls—Arabella, Mary and Lois—were married and raising children of their own. Emily's health was good and she always had liked outdoor activities.

What happened after that impromptu jump at Fowler gave her the idea of becoming a professional parachutist. She admits she "wanted to make some money and I didn't know of any other grandmothers in air show work."

AFTER THE JUMP, a man approached her and identified himself as a fair promoter. He asked her if she'd care to jump at one of his shows.

Emily said she would be happy to—for $500.

The promoter informed her the going rate was $200.

"It's a deal," said Emily.

A few days later, she made her second jump. No hesitancy this time. Grandma Brown was in business.

She made several other jumps in the Illinois-Michigan area, and in the summer of 1955 placed an advertisement in Trade-a-Plane, an aviation publication, seeking jobs as a professional jumper.

She received more than 100 replies—most of them "from people who wanted to offer me every kind of job under the sun except jumping."

Among the letters she received was one from John Fitzpatrick, a 34-year-old Emmetsburg, Iowa, air show performer who was looking for a partner. They arranged a meeting, and hit it off from the first.

IN THE SUMMER OF 1955, they made 10 jumps together at various shows from New York to Oklahoma City. Once on the air show circuit, Emily added a wing-riding act to the duo's repertoire.

For the act, she used a Stearman 450 monoplane which had a metal stand secured to the top of the fuselage. She strapped herself against the metal railing and hung on while the plane took off and circled the field. To top off the act, Emily plucked a handkerchief off the ground while the plane flew upside down.

She didn't use a parachute for that act.

"I really should have," she admits, "but I think it would have made it look like it was too easy. The more dangerous an act is, the bigger the crowds. Besides, at the altitudes we did our tricks a chute wouldn't have been much use."

In August 1955, while Emily and John were appearing in their 10th air show together at Escanaba, Mich., misfortune struck. Fitzpatrick's parachute partially collapsed in the air, and he hurtled to earth, breaking his back.

IT WAS THE FIRST serious parachuting accident Emily had witnessed. But it didn't change her mind about the business. She personally arranged a benefit air show for John in his home town, raising money to pay his medical bills.

Fitzpatrick was in a cast for four months. Doctors say he never will jump again.

Grandma Brown had to do her jumping alone after that.

In her performances, she jumped with two parachutes—a backpack carrying a canopy of 28-foot diameter and a reserve pack, attached to the front of her harness, carrying a 24-foot chute.

AFTER 62 JUMPS, Emily doesn't feel especially lucky in never having had a serious accident. Even in retirement (at this writing) she keeps in trim with an hour of pushups and other exercise each morning.

She's been injured only once in a jump—last June in an air show at Chicagoland Airport.

Emily had made a perfect landing and was gathering in the suspension lines when a nearby photographer yelled at her to look up.

"I looked," said Emily. "Before I knew what was happening, a gust of wind whipped open my chute

Dorene Porter, 18, Long Beach actress, improves her diction playing records.

Relaxing at home, Dorene keeps in touch with motion picture activities through fan magazines. Her favorite relaxing apparel is this filmy and wispy negligee.

Lakewood's MM Goes Hollywood

By Bob Shotwell

THE LATEST contribution that this area has made to the Hollywood motion picture industry is a shapely young Long Beach girl who was "discovered" by a Hollywood talent agency as she performed the leading role in the Lakewood Players production of "Bus Stop."

Dorene Porter, 6385 Lewis Ave., has been launched on a trip to stardom that reportedly will parallel or exceed the publicity campaigns utilized for Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield.

The attractive young lass has all the necessary qualifications to make the campaign a terrific success. She is 5 feet 5 inches tall and statistically measures 38½-22½-35. Her age, 18, is one of the greatest factors in her favor.

Since her "discovery" she has appeared in two motion pictures, and on numerous television shows.

HER FIRST movie role was in "The Barney Ross Story" which later was changed to "Monkey on My Back." She said that during one of the shooting sessions for the movie there were from 25 to 30 fighters and ex-fighters on the set, in addition to the cast for the film.

Her last motion picture appearance was in the part of one of Cornel Wilde's girl friends in "Devil's Hairpin." The film is a Paramount production. During one of the scenes she was "on camera" alone with Wilde for a nightclub sequence.

ALTHOUGH her body falls in the category of "genus-M" (Monroe-Mansfield), she would like to be recognized for her acting ability. Most of the casting directors and producers in Hollywood refer to her publicity buildup and her appearance as "sexy" and her agent is glad that they recognize her physical value.

Dorene doesn't mind the reference, although her primary interest does lie in acting. The money is important, but it isn't as important as the art of acting.

Her acting career began in Long Beach, but the big break came with her "Bus Stop" appearance.

As a child, an attractive one, she attended school at Grant Elementary School, Lindbergh Junior High, and Jordan High School. She always has been interested in acting, and constantly has tried to improve herself in diction, poise, and appearance.

Most of her admirers feel that she has achieved the ultimate as far as appearance is concerned, and her acting efforts are bound to pay off.

APPARENTLY her admirers are many-fold because she was selected as the queen of the Southern California Boat Show held recently in the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles.

In addition, she was one of the finalists in the "Miss Welcome" contest for Long Beach this year. A technicality in the rules for contestants eliminated her in the final judging.

Dorene's latest motion picture interview was for a part in the next Elvis Presley movie. They needed a cute, petite blonde for the part, and Dorene certainly fills those qualifications. She doesn't know yet if she has been accepted for the role, but expects to be notified by the studio.

...actress strikes a ballet pose before her mirror. She works hard to maintain versatility for roles in movies.

Underneath her voluptuous exterior, Dorene is a modest, demure young woman. At home she is free of pretense.

TELEVISION

They've Put Clint Walker in a Tux!

Clint Walker, western TV star, prefers informal garb (r.), but recently was buffaloed into putting on a tuxedo (left).

By Terry Vernon

Independent, Press-Telegram Television Columnist

THE SIX-FOOT-SIX frame of Clint Walker, star of TV's "Cheyenne" series, has finally been draped in a tuxedo . . . and he doesn't like it.

The whole thing came about when he was told to attend a Hollywood premiere and that it was a formal affair. Since Clint owns cowboy outfits and his "formal" attire is strictly a Western-type garb, he figured that would suffice.

His wife, Lucille, decreed otherwise since she had just purchased a new formal gown for the affair and thus it was that "Cheyenne" became a member of "tuxedo junction."

Clint did manage to wear black cowboy boots with his formal attire, and instead of the conventional tight black bow tie he used a black Western string bow.

ACTUALLY THE BIG star says he can tie almost any kind of knot known to seafaring men since he had lots of training in the Merchant Marine . . . but he just "ain't no hand at them bow ties."

"I thought I could attend the thing as a sort of ad for 'Cheyenne'" he recalls, "but Lucille, in her quiet way, had made other plans for me and, before I knew it, I was squeezing my frame into the monkey suit with the satin lapels.

"Before the evening was over I was fit to be tied. And, believe me, I was out of that thing and into my blue jeans as soon as we got home."

Walker loves blue jeans and wears them constantly.

PERHAPS HIS trouble with sartorial splendor stems from his early days in Alton, Ill. He was a big boy and the hand-me-downs from his six brothers wouldn't fit him at all. He did odd jobs around town and bought his first suit when he was 14, and he felt so uncomfortable in it that he wore it only for church and social occasions.

When he was 15, Clint was called "Sonny" or "Eugene" and left home for St. Louis seeking employment. His first job was as a busboy in a hotel, but the management couldn't fit his outsize frame in a white coat and he lost out.

Uniform troubles dogged him in other jobs, too—caddy, bellhop, Western Union messenger and Las Vegas deputy sheriff. However, the deputy assignment did lead him to Hollywood and stardom, and he still has his uniform in the closet, "just in case."

Pacific Run

Entry of one of the world's oldest and largest steamship groups into the Pacific trade has been announced by W. F. Hanniver, Los Angeles manager for the Cunard Line.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Co., or "P&O," has scheduled its liner Himalaya for entry into a joint service with the Orient Line between San Francisco and the South Seas and Australia, to sail April 11, 1958.

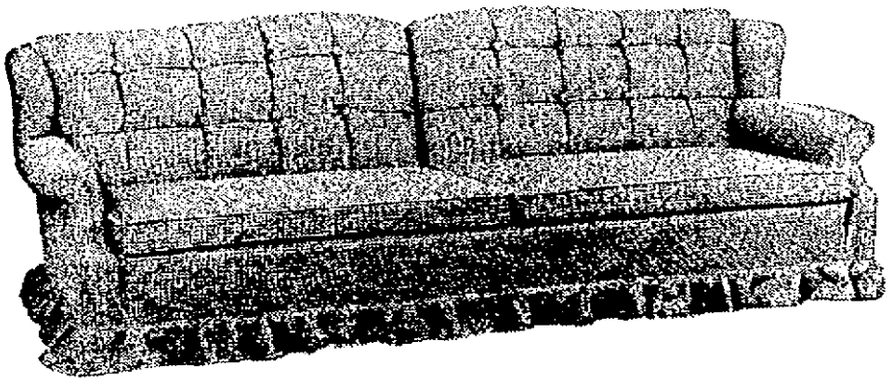

The Himalaya is 709 feet long, of 27,955 gross tons with speed of 22 knots and accommodations for more than 700 first class and 400 tourist class passengers.

This is a preliminary arrangement to the permanent joint service which will operate when the new 45,000-ton P&O liner and the new 40,000-ton Orient Line Orlana are completed about 1960.

The Orient Liner Orcades will be in Long Beach July 3 and will pick up nearly 400 passengers for the tropical cruise through the Panama Canal to Europe. The speed of these vessels permits the completion of the journey in 17 days with calls at the canal and Trinidad.

Fifteen Tips on How to Paint Your House

By Andrew C. Lang

THINKING ABOUT painting the outside of your house? Here are 15 tips that will help you to get a professional result:

Paint when the temperature is above 50 degrees, preferably somewhere near 70. You can paint successfully when the temperature is considerably higher than 70 if the humidity is not too high. Avoid painting when there is heavy dew, immediately after a rain or when a storm is in prospect.

If at all possible, try to paint the side of the house that is shaded, then follow the sun around so that you are always painting where the sun already has been. This prevents the hot sun from drying the paint too rapidly, as well as making it more comfortable for you.

Use a wire brush or a scraper to remove any old paint that is blistering, peeling or flaking. Follow with steel wool or sandpaper to smooth rough edges. And carry an old, clean paint brush in your back pocket to remove any accumulated dust.

MILDEW CAN be scrubbed off with a solution of trisodium phosphate and household ammonia or a special mildew remover. Where there is reason to believe the trouble may occur again, use a mildew-resistant paint. Mildew usually takes place on parts of the structure ordinarily not touched by the sun.

Calk thoroughly around window frames and doors and wherever one type of building material is joined to another. Replace "popped" nails and see whether any of the windows need repuitying.

All screens, shutters and other attachments of that nature should be removed, cleaned and repainted separately.

Get rust off all metal surfaces, using steel wool and following with red lead, aluminum paint or a special metal primer.

FOR SAFETY, the base of the ladder should be far enough from the house to equal one-fourth the height of the ladder. Thus, with a 20-foot ladder, the base of it would be five feet from the house.

Even though most stores now have agitators which mix the paint before you bring it home, the paint should be "boxed" by you. Boxing consists of pouring off most of the liquid into a second container and stirring the remaining pigment, then gradually pouring back the liquid as you keep stirring. The final step is to pour the paint back and forth between the two containers several times.

The siding usually should be painted first, all the trim and sash second. But there are times, when working on high peaks, when it is more practical to paint both the siding and the trim while the ladder is in the correct position. Dip the brush about half way, pat off the excess on the inside of the can, use wide, firm strokes and always work in toward the wet paint.

IF USING a roller, the regular type is fine for the flat surfaces, but a special, small lap roller should be used for getting paint on the underedges of clapboard and similar sidings.

Probably the fastest of all methods of painting the outside of a house is by spraying, but extra precautions must be taken

THE FRENCH HAVE A PHRASE FOR IT

'Le Jury Grand'

By Blaine Nels Simons

THE FRENCH have a phrase for it—"le jury grand." In this manner they differentiate between a large jury and a "petit," or small, jury.

The petit jury has, in name, generally disappeared today and has become, instead, a trial jury or coroner's jury. The grand jury, however, retains its name as it has through the centuries.

And there is something in the name to be kept. "Grand" is the French for large, and in the way the French say it there is a certain aura of magnificence and power in the name itself. The description fits present-day grand juries. They are, indeed, a magnificent and powerful bulwark of our democratic system.

THERE ARE two types of grand juries — those operating under state and those operating under federal law. The latter make the splashier national headlines. They indict for federal laws violated. In their nets are caught the big fish of interstate crime. They have nailed men like Al Capone on income tax evasion and, very recently, Dave Beck who, for all his maneuverings, could not escape the grand jury.

Locally, our Los Angeles County Grand Jury inquires into and investigates crimes closer to home, closer to us. They are constituted almost similarly with the Federal Grand Jury though operating under state law. Section 192 of the California Code of Civil Procedure defines a grand jury as:

"A body of persons, nineteen in number, returned in pursuance to law, from the citizens of a county, or city and county, before a court of competent jurisdiction, and sworn to inquire of public offense(s) committed or triable within the county, or city and county."

IN CONSIDERING the grand jury we here are more concerned with the operation and powers and limitations of this jury rather than how it is initially formed.

The definition of the grand jury defines its general powers. In a word, it "inquires." Through this simply given power, however, it has a broad field in which to exercise. All criminal offenses committed or that legally can be tried in court in this county can be investigated by the grand jury.

Of these, it may inquire into matters brought to their attention by grand jury members themselves, by private citizens, by the police or district attorneys.

Though it is generally supposed that their complete source of information comes from police or district attorneys and they sometimes are maliciously called the "tool of the D.A. and police," quite the contrary is true. In Los Angeles County and throughout the country there are cases where grand juries have indicted district attorneys, their staffs, or police figures for various crimes. They owe allegiance to no one when it comes to inquiring into local crime.

SECRECY is the keynote of the grand jury operation. As the trial jury decides its cases in secret, so does the grand jury accumulate its facts and decide on its indictments in secret. The reason is obvious. The public is protected from having pressures of various sorts placed on the grand jurors. Witnesses will talk more freely and juries inquire more freely where underworld reprisals and public limelight cannot interfere.

Persons under investigation cannot bring pressure, "cover their trails" or make a run for it to another country, for generally these people are as surprised as anyone else when indictments are returned against them; they didn't even know they were being investigated.

Unfortunately, there are particular instances in which witnesses' names are made public during investigations. Too, a bystander near the closed grand jury door can see witnesses come and go, and thus be apprised in some degree, perhaps, as to who is currently under investigation.

ONCE THE FACTS are gathered, the grand jury determines whether or not to return an indictment. The facts are, in brief, viewed from this point of view:

(1) Does it appear from them that a crime has been committed and

(2) if so, do these facts, as evidence in court, give the prosecuting attorney a probable chance to convict the accused.

If both are answered in the affirmative, the grand jury returns an indictment. Section 917 of the Penal Code describes an indictment as "an accusation in writing, presented by the grand jury to a competent court, charging a person with a public offense."

ONCE AN indictment is issued, prosecution commences. But under our system, only a grand jury can so inquire, only a grand jury can indict.

But with the power granted grand juries there also are limitations. It may "inquire of public offenses" only.

Fortunately, there are few "crusading grand juries" in the sense of stepping beyond specified powers. The vast majority of grand juries do their jobs well and are a distinct credit to the community.

THE GRAND JURY inquires and indicts, the trial jury listens to and decides particular cases before it, and the coroner's jury listens and recommends or advises as to particular cases. For other matters there is other legal machinery.

Aside form its usual duties, grand juries have also been given various similar powers. They have free access to public prison and public records. They have the full right to subpoena witnesses. It may investigate housing authorities, books and accounts of various county of-

What goes on behind this locked door? Secrecy is keynote of grand jury operation and of its success.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Bengston, 309 Roycroft Ave., are living in such a delightful home. The exterior is redwood-and-batten stained a soft sage green. Its low pitched roof opens widely over the walls, giving it a secure, earthy appearance where Framed picture hangs from kitchen wall in way that frame forms legs and it can become breakfast table.

This view shows attractive yard around which the Bengstons' modular home is arranged in an L. Exterior of house is redwood and batten stained green.

it sprawls under the spreading boughs of many old trees. Actually, the placement of the house — the orientation of its rooms —was determined by the existence of these old trees.

This is the first home to be built in Long Beach under design of architect Cliff May.

The Bengstons have 1,600-square feet of space. All window, wall and door sections are five feet, four inches wide so that the sections may be interchanged according to the whims of the builder without upsetting the basic premise of the plan. Essentially modern in concept, the Bengstons chose to embellish the plan with provincial features which combine quite happily with the contemporary aspects of the structure.

THE FRONT DOOR opens to an entry hall which is, strictly, a hallway in the clearest sense of the word. At the end and to the left is the living room which, because of its placement off the street, has complete privacy despite the preponderant use of glass for double doors and windows.

Mahogany paneling surfaces the walls. Bengston, who did the building and all the finishing, has a strong affinity for woodwork and a great respect for a well-worked finish. Hence, the paneling throughout the house has a satiny texture which brings out the beauty of the wood.

Beige and tan long-looped wool carpet covers the floors, providing a practical and informal underfooting. The ceiling is pitched and finished smoothly in acoustical plaster.

Furnishings are informal early American styling. Across from the brick fireplace stands a rust tweed-upholstered Lawson sofa flanked by unique step tables made by Bengston. Of unusual design, the maple tables have small drop leaves that flip up, when the occasion warrants, providing extra snack-surface space for televiewing. Over the sofa is a group of early American prints.

BEFORE A LONG glass expanse next to the fireplace is a pair of deep-cushioned chairs. One is a wide and high-backed wing chair upholstered in lime and hunter's green print fabric. The second is in soft lime green leather on squat provincial legs. Matching it is a large leather ottoman. Between the chairs is a quaint and lovely lyre table which has been in Mrs. Bengston's family for generations.

Opening to the living room from the kitchen is a service counter which may be closed off with folding shutters finished in a tone to match the mahogany paneling. It serves as a refreshment bar from the living room—a snack counter on the kitchen side.

THE KITCHEN IS paneled in honey-colored ash and floored in cork-patterned vinyl tile. Like the rest of the house, the kitchen, too, has large double glass doors opening to the exterior.

A vast amount of storage cabinets have been built in. Black hammered iron hardware highlights the light oak doors and drawers. A long, continuous counter surfaced in a glossy, pressed wood material spans across the shuttered pass-through into the living room. An assembly of short stools makes this an ideal place for breakfasting.

At one end of the long kitchen is the dining area. Hanging against the wall is a large picture framed in a heavy shadow box of ash. With the simple unhinging of this picture from the top, the frame swings away from the wall in such a way that it affords support for the "picture" which is backed with thick plywood. Hence, the dining table folds down off the wall and, when not in use, it conveniently attaches itself to the wall—out of the way, pictorially and practically.

OFF THE KITCHEN is the den. In here, a third choice of wood was made for the paneling. Knotty pine, rubbed to a glossy finish, surfaces the wall from floor to ceiling. On two sides of the room, glass panels in multiples of the module are curtained in burnt orange fabric that picks up and emphasizes one of the tones in the pheasant print fabric used on the sofa. A large drop leaf coffee table with lazy susan was made of maple by Bengston. High windows flood the area with light above "eye glare."

Three bedrooms complete the plan. The Bengstons' two sons, John and David, have their own rooms — each adequately supplied with hobby space in the form of built-in desks, model-display shelves and cabinet storage.

From Camera to Courtroom

Patrick B. Phelan, Long Beach attorney, hugs screen actress Mary Stewart in scene from his acting days.

By Don Maddock

HE'S ONLY 29 now, but Patrick B. Phelan already has marked up two successful careers.

The first was as a Paramount Pictures star.

The second, present, one is as a local attorney.

The high spot of Phelan's first profession was a lead role in a wartime film called "Miss Susie Slagle's." In that, he was paid to make love to Veronica Lake.

The major event to date in his life as a lawyer was a $163,000 judgment he obtained for his client in an assault and battery injury case. That still stands as the largest award to a single plaintiff in Long Beach court history.

PHELAN USED HIS own name in the movies, shortening Patrick to Pat. He was signed by Paramount to a seven-year contract in 1943, after a talent scout saw him at work in the Community Playhouse here.

"Miss Susie Slagle's" was his first picture. He made $85 a week for appearing opposite Miss Lake and with such other recognized stars as Sonny Tufts and Joan Caulfield.

He appeared in a Technicolor short — "College Queen" — in 1945. It was nominated for an Academy Award.

Pat sang and danced. He now admits he can't sing and isn't a very good dancer.

He said goodby to the movies and hello to the Army in January 1946. It really wasn't much of a change, though.

After basic training, Pat was assigned to Armed Forces Radio Service, obtaining talent for its shows. His station: Hollywood.

"Triple Threat" was on his calendar after he returned to civilian life in 1947. He played a halfback for the Los Angeles Rams, sharing the gridiron with such National Football League greats as Bob Waterfield.

PHELAN STARTED studying law at Southwestern University about the same time. By 1951, the pace was quite rough.

That year he worked in a television series, "Mysteries of Chinatown." Show work took all day Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. School work filled Monday night, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

He studied in his spare time.

The series eventually died for lack of a sponsor.

His transformation from actor to attorney was completed in 1952, when he was admitted to the California bar. Since Jan. 1, 1953, he has had an office in the Heartwell Building.

Phelan this year is attorney for Long Beach Board of Realtors. He served last year as president of the Barristers Club.

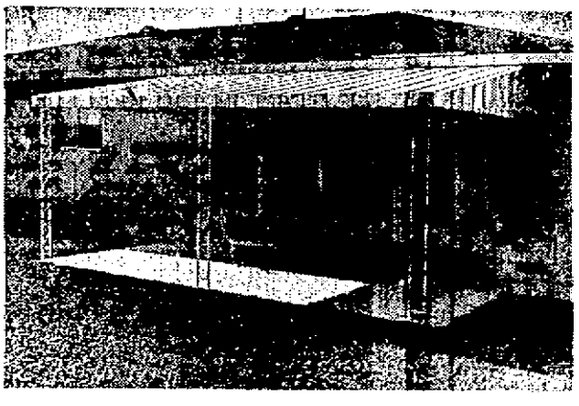

A Long Beach native, Phelan was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College. He and his pretty wife, Jerry, live at 1869 Pattiz Ave.

Brat From Bellflower

By Bob Houser

MELODY Gale weighs a pound for each of her 43 inches—small for a moppet almost seven — but the brown-eyed, gold-blonde, winsome packaging of her has launched a career.

Melody, daughter of Jack and Connie Tregarthen, 8823 Flower St., Bellflower, plays a feature role in "The D.I.," Jack Webb's new Mark VII Ltd. film for Warner Bros. presentation June 19.

SHE PORTRAYS an incorrigible brat, a departure from her career in fashion modeling, movie and TV drama which started for Melody when she was three. Also a departure, says her mother, from her conduct at home where she mixes mud, climbs trees, bakes real cookies and tends a $200 Toy French Poodle she bought with her own substantial earnings.

Melody's career started with a still color photograph taken by a professional photographer. A woman agent saw the picture, interviewed Melody and family and won over her at-first-reluctant parents to a fashion and drama career.

Now she earns from $100 to $110 per working day and spends less than her $1 a week allowance. She did splurge on a new car for her parents, but it's in her name and referred to as "my car."

MELODY IDOLIZES her older sister, Gloria Carol, 11, more than any movie actress. She has a brother, Jack, 13, but does have a fairly solid crush on a Hollywood teammate of another movie she played in, "The Big Caper," with Rory Calhoun. She liked Rory before the film. The film cemented the romance.

Melody Gale at 7: model, star of films, television.

Other Melody Gale credits include a Langendorf bread commercial on TV; "Crossroads" on TV with Stuart Irwin June 21; three parts in the "This Is the Life" Sunday television series; a "Whirlybirds" TV chapter due in a few weeks; "The Gallaghers Story" TV film with Bob Hope; a movie, "Uncle Charlie," with Walter Brennan, and others.

Jack Webb and Melody on "D.I." set. At home she mixes mud, plays with $200 poodle. She paid for family car.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin and meansing of CROSTHWAITE and the coat-of-arms, if any—G.G., Garden Grove.

G.G.: Thank you for your complimentary letter which I have shortened. In northern England, which was heavily forested, clearings in the woods were called "Thwaites" from a Norse word "Thveit" meaning "open space." CROSTHWAITE was originally Crossthwaite, describing a clearing on which a cross had been erected as a shrine. The family home was built on the edge of this clearing. The Crosthwaite family originated in Cumberland, England, but the only recorded coat-of-arms is from a branch of the family in Ireland.It had a golden rampant lion between three gold crosses-patte on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: .I would like your analysis of the name O'CONNOR—D. D'C., Long Beach.

D. O'C. -O'Connor is from the ancient Irish "O'CONCHAR." The family founder's name exemplified his mental and spiritual values, for O'Conchar meant "son of the man with high ideals." The progenitor of the Clan O'Conchar (later spelled O'Connor) was Terlagh O'Conchar who died in 1345. He was great-grandson of Roderick O'Chonchar, King of Connaught. The coat-of-arms of this family had a green oak tree on a silver shield. The original home of the O'Connors was in County Roscommon.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the analysis of the name CARR—Mrs. W. E. M.

Mrs. W.E.M.: CARR was introduced to England by Danish invaders in the 9th century. The Danish spelling was "Karr" which meant "marshy, swampy land." A family who living by a marsh took this word for their surname in the 12th century. "There is no deception." Gov. Caleb Carr of Rhode Island was the scion of the first family by this name in America. Among his descendants was Nicholas Carr, born in 1654.

DEAR MISS RULE: Will you please give the meaning and genealogy of the surname KIRCHHOFF or KIRKHOFF—R.K., Long Beach.

R. K.: KIRCHHOFF, shortened from the German name Kirch-Hoffer, was a name for a village churchyard attendant or warden. It was an honor in medieval times to be the trusted warden of the churchyard. In due course Kirch-Hoffer, his professional name, became his surname. The Kirchoff coat-of-arms from Bavaria proudly represents the source of the name. It has a little, picturesque stone church with a spired tower in the center of a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin, genealogy and coat-of-arms of the name ROGERS.—Mrs. E.R.W., Bellflower; Mrs. E.L.R., Long Beach; Mrs. H.H.R., Lakewood.

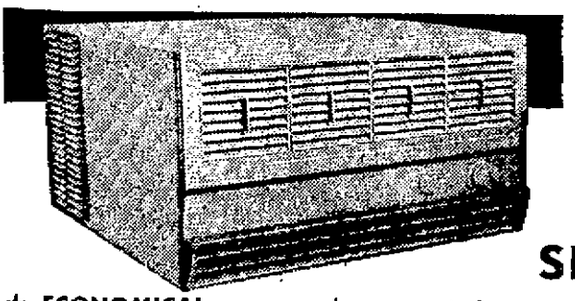

E.W., E. R. and H. R.:The Teutonic warrior-name 'ROGER' was brought to England from Germany by the Saxons early 12 centuries ago. It meant "famous spearman." One of the first men with the name is listed in the Domesday Book of 1066 as "Rogerus." The baronial coat-of-arms was granted the family in 1260, a silver shield with

Freak Steeple

Minus a church, this steeple in Dallington, Sussex, was built by an eccentric 18th century British squire who bet his friends that Dallington Church steeple could be seen from his lawn. When he discovered that he was wrong, he built a replica of the steeple (minus the church) in such a spot that the spire could be seen from his premises. Presumably his friends were hoodwinked into paying the bet.

Keep Calk Gun Handy

ONE OF THE most effective ways of protecting a house against the ravages of the weather is by calking all openings before they become too large.

Even a house that is completely weatherstripped is a long way from being weather-tight if there are dozens of crevices in it. These openings result from a number of causes, among them age, wear and contraction of certain materials.

In making a periodic check to determine whether, and where, these openings exist, look for these potential trouble spots:

THE SEAMS around windows and doors . . . the joints formed by the chimney against the house . . . the points where the front and back steps meet the outside wall . . . the places where wooden posts meet masonry walls and floors . . . joints where two different types of exterior finish are next to each other . . . where shingles overhang the edge of the roof . . . wherever there are vents or skylights . . . around basement windows . . . where shingles meet or are overlapped . . . and on farm buildings of all kinds.

Calking compound, which looks somewhat like putty, has one big virtue: it never dries completely. The surface becomes fairly hard, but underneath it remains flexible, expanding and contracting with the opening in which it is used. It is both airtight and watertight.

A CALKING GUN is the best way to apply the compound. A cartridge of the compound is inserted into the gun, which looks like the grease gun you may have seen your auto mechanic use. The gun pushes the material into an opening under pressure.

'Le Jury Grand'

ficials, certain sales or transfers of land, and report on the needs for increase or decrease in the salaries of county supervisors, district attorney or county auditors.

It can order the district attorney to institute suits for recovery of money due the county, and each member to inquire of all witnesses before them. Such powers, combined with their primary power earlier outlined herein, truly make the grand jury the "watchdog for the public," as they keep an eye on criminals and county officials alike.

AL CAPONE, Dave Beck, Art "Golden Boy" Aragon and H. J. "The Greatest" Caruso along with Confidential Magazine are but a few who have felt the sting of grand juries. Of the thousands who are indicted across the nation each year, some are freed by trial juries, others by appellate courts. Others, convicted, still maintain their innocence and of these many find public support.

But, by and large, indictments conclude in eventual convictions, attesting to the thoroughness of investigation and carefulness of deliberation of grand juries.

Being human, the jurors cannot be flawless, but in their devotion to their work and to protecting the public, they aid greatly in preserving our democratic system of government.

Old tire rim placed atop hole makes fine fire ring. An oven rack converts fire ring into an outdoor grill.

A Rim Full of Fun

By Marjorie Hall

AS OUTDOOR living is a must in California, we were anxious to join in this activity.

Tips on Painting

to protect surfaces which are not to be painted. Also, spraying outside should not be done on a windy day.

A good quality paint is a sound investment. Many house paints have a self-cleaning process . . . a controlled chalking which washes off when it rains, taking dust and dirt with it. Inferior-grade house paints chalk excessively, leaving unsightly streaks that do not always wash off with the rain.

GENERALLY, a gallon of undercoater will cover about 600 square feet of house. A gallon of finish paint, over an undercoater, will cover about 700 square feet.

Light colors will make a small house appear larger, especially if there is not too much contrast between the body and the trim. To make a tall house seem shorter, keep the upper part a dark color, the lower part light.

Before the advent of the portable barbecue and with no finances to build a fancy brick one, we found we had a ready-made fire ring in our own back yard.

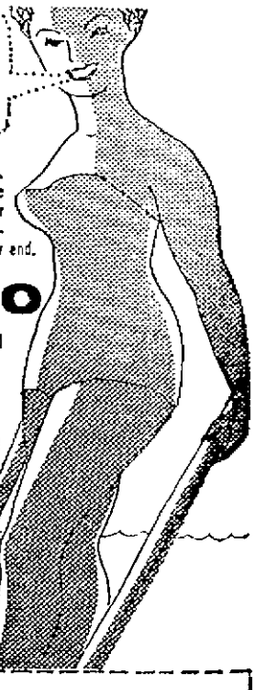

The removal of a dead tree in the yard had left a large hole, and no one ever seemed to get around to filling it up. We placed an old tire rim over the top of the hole, and by piling dirt around the top of it, found it served fine as a fire break and made the hole a bit deeper.

IT WAS THE answer to our outdoor living, for we like hot dogs cooked over the coals of real burning wood.

Campouts in our back yard are enjoyed frequently by the neighborhood boys. By placing a discarded oven rack over the top of the rim, the boys are able to cook their own breakfast, which most certainly completes a camp out.

IN CASE you don't have any dead trees to remove, the tire rim can be placed anywhere in the yard. It can be picked up and moved when the lawn is mowed.

A NOTE TO EVERYONE WHO PLANS TO BUY OR SELL A HOME

a very safe place for your ESCROW

Let us first make it clear that an Escrow is not a bird. Escrow is part of the financial process of buying a home.* Between the time you make your down-payment and the time the seller receives the money, your funds are placed in Escrow with a third party, the Escrow-Holder.

WHY?

Escrow exists to protect both you and the seller. Your money in Escrow assures the seller that you have the purchase price for his property. Until the title is clear and all terms of the Escrow instructions are met, the Escrow-Holder will not turn your money over to the seller.

WHO IS THE ESCROW-HOLDER?

Selection of the Escrow-Holder is up to you. Naturally your major consideration is the safety of your money while it is in Escrow. For your protection, you will want to be sure of these three things:

- that the Escrow-Holder is stable and sound
- that the Escrow-Holder is fully experienced and can offer prompt service
- that the Escrow-Holder will completely protect your funds.

* Although we are talking here about buying or selling a home, Bank of America Escrow Service is available for the sale or purchase of any other form of real property, a business, and many forms of personal property.

REMEMBER: CONSULT WITH YOUR LOCAL REAL ESTATE BROKER.

A very safe place!

Dean of the World's Travelers

By Garber Davidson
Associated Press Writer

A GREAT mechanical stream, the Hollywood Freeway, rushes through a gully and past a hill not far from the intersection of Hollywood and Vine.

On top of the hill lives Burton Holmes, an erect man of 87 summers—more than half of them spent in travel. Of his 87 winters—more than half have been spent on the lecture platforms of America showing lantern slides and, later, movies of his travels.

Burton Holmes, dean of the world's travelers, is shown at Hollywood home, amid mementoes of a life of travel.

Holmes was the first man to use motion pictures to illustrate travel talks. But even that was more than half a century ago.

Today, he lives with his wife, Margaret, on his peaceful hill in a house he calls "Topside"—the former home of matinee idol Francis X. Bushman—and watches man hurry by.

THE QUIET, SHADED rooms of his rambling cottage are filled with figurines, pictures, scrapbooks, mementoes of a life of travel.

"The most sophisticated world traveler of them all," Lowell Thomas has called him.

His courtly airs, precise diction and witty and informative travel lectures delighted audiences as long as 58 years ago. His profile picture, dominated by his sharp goatee, was a trademark in his advertisements and literature.

Holmes' organization invented the word "travelogue." Holmes has defined it as: "The gist of a journey, ground fine by discrimination, leavened with information, seasoned with humor, fashioned in literary form and embellished by pictures that delight the eye, while the spoken word charms the ear."

IN 1950 HOLMES became ill and retired. His associates are carrying on. Each year audiences in nearly 100 American cities flock to rented halls to see the latest Burton Holmes travelogue. Narrated live by a lecturer.

Holmes can't give lengthy interviews. Briefly, he recalls a few high points. Where is his favorite place on this planet?

"The place I am going at the time is the most interesting."

HOLMES GOT HIS start in Chicago, where he was born Jan. 8, 1870, son of a family in comfortable circumstances. He quit school at 16 and his grandmother took him on a trip to Europe. With this the travel bug bit him and he never got over it. At the age of 20 he was taken again to Europe by his grandmother and this proved to be a decisive factor in his life.

Abroad, he took pictures with a box camera. Back home, he showed lantern slides from his travel negatives to the old Chicago Camera Club, of which he was secretary.

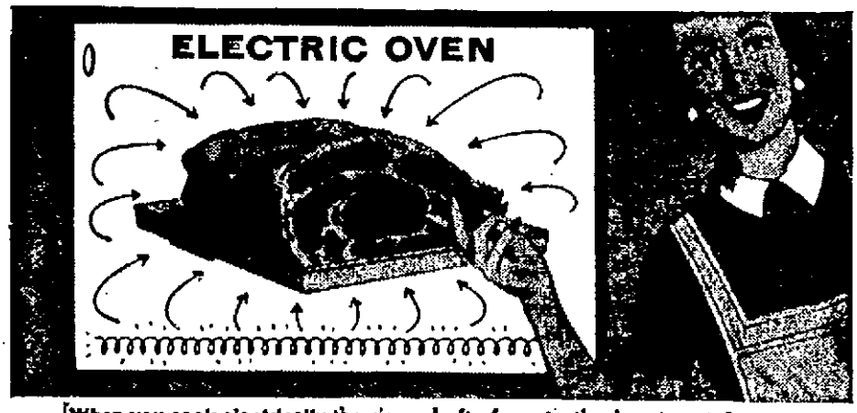

"To take the edge off the silence" and keep the show going he wrote a script and read it as the man at the stereopticon changed the slides.

This made a hit with the club members. In fact, the club in 1891 hired a hall to present Burton Holmes in his first travel lecture, called "Through Europe with a Kodak." It was a big success; $350 worth for the club treasury. But young Burton didn't immediately take up traveling lecturing as a career. He tried his hand at various jobs. In 1892 he induced his family to stake him to a five-month trip abroad.

IN JAPAN he made a significant discovery. There were artists there who could tint his slides with beautiful and life-like colors. After that his lantern slide lectures were in color.

Upon his return to Chicago he rented a recital hall and sent 2,000 announcement cards to those on his mother's social list. It was a smash hit for the hometown boy and Burton Holmes was on his way.

Electric cooking keeps more juice in meat—because it's flameless!

When you cook electrically there's no draft of constantly changing air because there's no flame. (Flame, you see, needs air to breathe. So a flame-heated oven constantly inhales dry air, exhales moist air—literally cooks meat in a hot draft that evaporates good juices.) In an electric oven there's no draft of dry air. You cook with moist heat. As a result, more juice stays in the meat... and the meat tastes better.

Electric cooking is far cooler, too. As much as 10° cooler. The reason is obvious: electric cooking puts the heat directly into the food, not into the room. Electric cooking is cleaner, too, because it's flameless. There are no by-products of combustion to dirty walls and darken your bright pans. Truly, it's the only modern way to cook. Why not see your appliance dealer for a demonstration of the new electric ranges?

ing the handling of highly inflammable cargoes that have been incorporated in the Coast Guard regulations for tankships, or have been adopted by the Harbor Patrol in their efforts to prevent disaster on the waterfront.

THAT THESE REGULATIONS are both wise and necessary is accepted by the men who sail the tankers, for all tankermen hold a very deep respect for the potentialities of their cargoes. They know that a disregard for the harbor regulations may too easily bring a far more disastrous result than mere discharge from their jobs or a rebuke from the authorities.

Approximately 100 tankers enter the Long Beach-Los Angeles port each month to load or discharge petroleum commodities, but there has not been a major disaster since that June morning, 10 years ago, when the Markay became a grim reminder of the need for caution.

Her Candid Camera Gets the Birdie

Jayine Duncan, 3, of 9724 E. Rosecrans Ave., Bellflower, has a hobby--it's photography. She practices it with aid of poodle, Louie, and parakeet, Candy. When I, P-T photographer Joe Risinger stopped in, conversation was something like this:

LOUIE: Am I supposed to watch the camera or the birdie?
CANDY. Psst! Why don't you snap a good-looking bird?

JAYNINE: Keep still now, while I get you in focus.
LOUIE: Gosh! You have to admit I'm a beautiful dog.

LOUIE: That durned old Candy is always playing footsie.
JAYNINE: All I can see now is the back of his head.

A Treat for Cupid's Big Day

Small turkey, disjointed and cooked in sauce which includes white grape juice (or ginger ale) as an igredient, provides a family wedding feast.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

WHAT COULD be more heart warming, at a home wedding table, than having the service cozy . . . and with all guests can eat?

For the family wedding dinner, serve a small turkey baked in flavorful seasonings reserved for the happiest of occasions. Such a turkey weighs approximately six pounds, cut up, disjointed, and ready to cook. Prepare more than one if need be.

UNUSUAL FLAVOR is obtained by baking the individual pieces in white grape juice (or ginger ale), lemon juice, butter or margarine, green onions, parsley, salt, pepper and paprika. The tender, juicy, rich brown pieces are served with ultra good juices that have blended during the baking process.

Potatoes pick up the wedding theme. Duchess potatoes (rich whipped potatoes with egg yolks added) are shaped into a large large heart and caressed with almond butter. Miniature hot rolls will be just right for the festive note.

There will be, of course, the traditional wedding cake, beverages, candies and nuts that bespeak an important occasion for the family.

Wedding Feast Turkey

1 turkey, about 6 lb. ready-to-cook weight, cut up
2 cups white grape juice*
2 tblsps lemon juice
2 tsps salt
½ tsp ground pepper
1 tsp paprika
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
½ cup chopped green onion, including tops
½ cup minced parsley
Grape clusters for garnish

PLACE TURKEY pieces in shallow baking pan, skin side down. Blend all ingredients and pour over turkey. Bake in a moderate oven (275 degrees F.) for 1 hour. Turn turkey skin side up. Continue baking for an additional hour, or until thickest pieces are fork-tender. Baste two or three times. Pour pan drippings over turkey for service. Garnish with grapes. Makes 8 servings.

This recipe may be doubled or trebled without any change in quantity of ingredients provided shallow pans are used so as to permit only one layer of turkey.

*Available at fancy grocery or food shops. If not available, ginger ale may be substituted.

Grandma

and started dragging me face-first over the ground. The entire left side of my face was ripped open."

ANOTHER BAD MOMENT came a few weeks before the dragging incident at Chicago-land.

After pulling the ripcord, nothing happened.

Emily waited and prayed.

"Then I thought to myself, I'm not waiting any longer," she recalls.

She started to pull out the ripcord on her reserve chute. At the same instant, the back-pack opened and her main chute spilled out and filled with air.

"THEY HAD PACKED the chute for a delayed jump," she remembers. "But nobody thought to tell me about it."

She had jumped from 2,000 feet and the chute didn't open until she had fallen to 800 feet.

But these are only memories now. Love has grounded Grandma Brown.

Crab Meat Salad

1 lb. Dungeness crab meat
4 hard cooked eggs
Salt and paprika
½ cup almonds
1 cup mayonnaise
1 pint heavy cream
1 green pepper or pimiento
Head lettuce

Cut the crab meat in large pieces. Cut the whites of the eggs into cubes. Blanch the almonds and cut into thin, lengthwise strips. Mix these ingredients. Whip the cream very stiff, fold into the mayonnaise, add salt and paprika. Add to crab mixture. Serve on salad plates on crisp lettuce; garnish with strips of green pepper or pimiento and top with riced egg yolk.

Serve With: Melon Cocktail and Wafers, Crab Salad, Cheese Sticks, Relish Tray, Strawberry Parfait, Coffee.

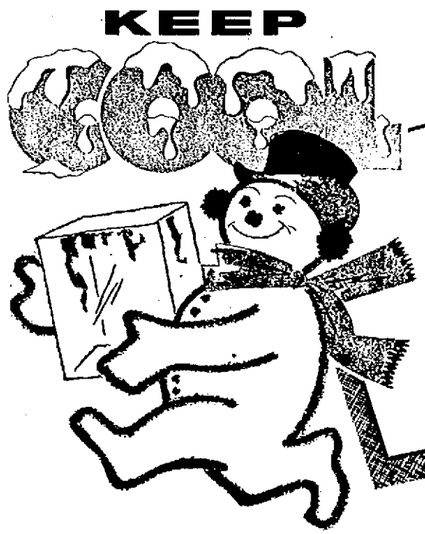

Take it cool and easy with salad suppers while the hot weather is with us. Crab makes a hearty salad and you'll love its fresh-from-the-sea sweetness with its tangy flavor that lasts, whether you cook it, combine it with other foods, or serve it chilled with cocktail sauce and diced celery, it's cold, firm and refreshing.

CRAB LOUIE

Lettuce
2 to 3 cups Crab Meat
3 Hard-boiled Eggs, sliced
Chopped Chives
½ cup French Dressing
½ cup Chili Sauce
2 tbs. Mayonnaise
1 tsp. Worcestershire Sauce
Salt and Pepper to taste

Arrange lettuce leaves around the inside of a salad bowl, with a few shredded leaves on the bottom. Put the crab meat on top of the shredded lettuce, and the hard-boiled eggs and chopped chives on top of the crab meat. In another bowl, mix the french dressing, chili sauce, mayonnaise, worcestershire sauce and seasonings and pour over the salad. Serve very cold. Crackers or thin rye crispers are very good with this, along with lemonade, iced tea, watermelon or fruit. SERVES 4 TO 6.

A true "jewel of the sea," at least, to this young beachcomber, is a starfish found on the Long Beach seashore.

Seastars in Their Eyes

By Ada M. Young

WITH warm weather, adults and children hie to the beach for swimming, picnics and sunbathing.

Children like nothing better than to gather "sea treasures." Shells are precious. Creatures such as sea snails are valuable to small fry.

But the real "jewel of the sea" to the little beachcomber is a starfish or, more properly, a seastar.

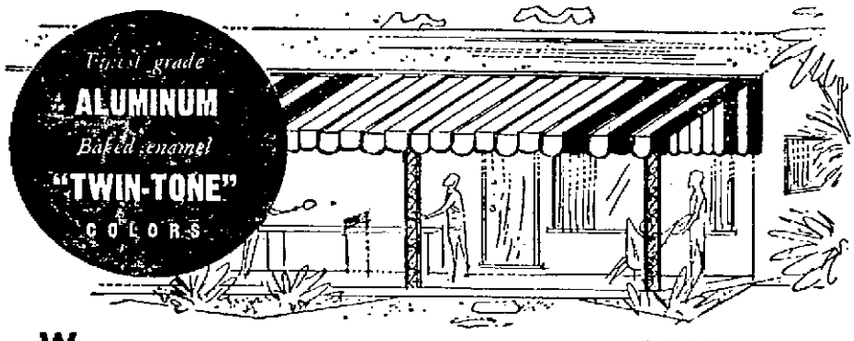

ITS NATURAL habitat is a rocky spot, but often the seastar is washed up on the sandy shore.

However, "jewel without price" at the moment, it often is left forgotten in car or closet. The resulting odor drives Mother to the edict: "This is the last time you bring home a starfish!"

Here is a solution to the problem:

Starfish should be placed in a tub of fresh water for about six hours, which will make it possible to arrange the star in the desired position. Meanwhile, prepare 1 quart commercial formalin (purchased at any drugstore), 9 quarts fresh or salt water and 2 cups glycerine (drugstore also). Starfish should remain in this solution five to 10 days, then be allowed to dry away from direct sunlight. A rack in a shed or garage area will do.

BOOK REVIEWS

The Human Side

WALTER SCHELLENBERG

First-hand details of Hitler's last days make fantastic reading in "The Labyrinth," the memoirs of Mr. Schellenberg, who was the Nazi leader's Secret Service chief (Harper, $4.95). Here, too, are bared for the first time Nazi espionage tricks that shrink into insignificance the imaged plots of leading fiction writers. A book worthy of the most discriminating reader's attention.

HOWARD SWIGGETT, whose technique for telling a story already has been proved, dwells on the human side of Big Business in a thoroughly satisfactory new novel, "The Durable Fire" (Houghton Mifflin, $4). That the book is the latest selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club is understandable. Here is shown the power of lasting love and friendship in the work-a-day world; the values that exceed the value of the dollar. It is the story of the men at the top of a great American business and their struggle for individual power, and the author indicates without being saccharine that some ordinary things such as honesty and sincerity still are winners in the long run. Also as the story moves to a climax that is exciting without being explosive the point is driven home that if a man wants to get atop the heap he should start by marrying a woman who loves and understands him. The main character of the story is Stephen Lowry, who leaves government service in Europe to take a job with Continental Industries Corp. in New York City. To America he brings his bride, Rosalie, who had fled her native Estonia to join the Norwegian Resistance. As Stephen forges ahead in his job he and his wife overcome numerous prejudices and pitfalls, and they manage to keep their sense of the fun to be had in life through it all. There are many threads to the story, such as the search that Rosalie keeps up for her mother and sister, missing since 1940; the friendship of Stephen and a college friend associated with him in his job who turns out to be something less than honest. And before the writing ends all the threads are accounted for. Altogether, it is a splendidly written tale and one that holds constant interest. The educated, cultured characters are a delight.

CAPSULE REVIEWS of newest books:

"A PECULIAR PIECE OF DESERT" by Lulu Rasmussen O'Neal (Westerniore Press, Box 41073, L. A., $7.50): About 25 miles north of Palm Springs, in a series of valleys surrounded by mountains, lies a strange desert —the Morongo Basin. Here, for the first time, in a book whose edition is limited to only 450 copies, is told the fabulous past of this desert of Joshua trees and cholla cactus, and its future (thousands of its acres are now being settled). As fascinating a bit of Californiana as will come your way, skillfully researched and nicely told, a book worthy of the best California libraries.

"A WOMAN DOCTOR LOOKS AT LOVE AND LIFE" by Dr. Marion Hilliard (Doubleday, $2.95): The publisher's blurb says that this book tells women what they should know about being female, and the publisher is right. Everything is here, from a woman and her first baby to the menopause and old age, and it's written in a language that any layman can understand.

"CLOSE TO COLETTE" by Muurice Goudeket (Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, $4): Colette gained fame as one of France's great 20th century writers with her spicy, racy stories in which Gigi and Claudine, French girls, cut a wide swath. This book by a lifelong friend gives an intimate portrait of Colette and her own colorful, eventful life.

"DON CAMILLO TAKES THE DEVIL BY THE TAIL," by Giovanni Guareschi (Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, $3): Mr. Guareschi introduced one of fiction's most lovable characters some years ago in "The Little World of Don Camillo." Don Camillo has returned several times since. Here he becomes embroiled with communists, but those who have learned to know and love him need no assurance that he handles the situation like a marine —and with quaint humor to boot!

"THE POPE SPEAKS" edited by Michael Chinigo (Pantheon, $4.50): Prepared with the cooperation of the Vatican Archives, this book brings together in a carefully and lucidly organized structure the most important pronouncements of the Holy Father on the many urgent issues confronting mankind today.

"GOLD IN THEM HILLS" by Phil Stong (Doubleday, $3.50): Undoubtedly the last important work by the author of the best-selling "State Fair" and many other books, before his recent untimely death, this one is a concise, accurate history of the Gold Rush but without the reverence that most historians have accorded this great event in California history. End papers are maps of the Gold Rush country.

ARTIST LEONARD BROOKS

BRIDGING THE gap between purely technical and elementary approaches—with some of the thinking processes which are at the foundation of all creative art—Leonard Brooks has come up with a down-to-earth how-to book for the man or woman who'd like to be a part-time painter in "Watercolor—A Challenge" (Reinhold, $12.50). Brooks, a Canadian artist of note now living in Mexico, takes beginners through the various steps in watercolor, casein and wax crayon, demonstrating that there are no superficial tricks or simple short cuts. He uses more than 200 reproductions of his own work, many of them in full color, to make his text easy to follow. Undoubtedly one of the best books of its kind, beautifully printed and bound.

Leth Eat!

GRANDMA was busy preparing Sunday dinner and Caren, 3, was getting a vocabulary lesson from her in an effort to straighten out the child's lisping speech.

As Grandma opened a can of apple sauce, Caren told her: "I like apple thauthe!"

Patiently Grandma tried to explain, for the umpteenth time, that in order to say "sauce" you must hold your tongue behind your teeth, not between them.

With this remark, the lesson was over for the day because Caren snapped back with: "I don't wanna thay it, I jutht wanna EAT it!"—AUDREY R. CORBETT, 4759 Premiere Ave., Long Beach, 8, Calif.

Doggone It!

I WATCHED her return a badly damaged book to the librarian.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but my dog got hold of it. How much do I owe?"

The librarian began filling out a small card. "Name? Address?" And the woman answered her firmly.

Then: "Name of book, please?"

The woman hesitated, face flushed. "It is 'Anyone Can Train a Dog'."

DEAR MISS RULE: I would appreciate your analysis of PHILLIPS. My grandfather came from England. —B. H. H., Harbor City.

B.M.H.: Phillip, a popular given name in ancient England, was used in memory of St. Philip the Apostle. Long ago, its Greek source-name meant "lover of horses." The Phillips ancestry begins with Simon, son of Philip, King of Kent, England, in the late 13th century. His descendants used the surname Phillips instead of "Son of Philip." The family coat-of-arms had a black rampant lion on a gold shield. The Phillips owned Picton Castle in Herefordshire. Nicholas Phillips came from England to Weymouth, Mass., about 1632. (For Mrs. W. M., Long Beach, the Phillips of Scotland are descendants of the English family.)

Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for analysis and brief genealogy, for publication in this column.

Popularity of the Bookmobile service of the Long Beach Public Library is seen in waiting line. Wide variety of books is brought to its borrowers.

Shakespeare Tours the City

By Vera Williams

SHAKESPEARE jaunts about Long Beach—and so do Dickens, Thackeray, Hemingway, Saroyan, Steinbeck and Pearl Buck.

So do a flock of dictionaries, encyclopedias, magazines, and how-to volumes.

Bookmobile service, established in July 1944 by the Long Beach public library, is considered one of the library's most valued services.

CARRYING 3,000 volumes—books and magazines—the bookmobile sallies out six days a week to take books to persons who do not live near the main public library or its branches.

Here is the bookmobile schedule:

Monday, 2:30-5:30, Lakewood and Stearns.

Tuesday, 2-5 p. m., Coolidge and Long Beach Blvd.

Wednesday, 1:30-5 p. m.; Williams and Willard.

Thursday, 2-5 p. m., 68th and Obispo.

Friday, 2:30-5:30 p. m., Long Beach Blvd and Del Amo.

Saturday, 2:30-5 p. m., Magnolia and Wardlow.

Beulah Nelson and Mildred Harrington are bookmobile librarians. Clerks are Josephine MacIntire, Fred West, George Harris, Jennie McCray is coordinator.

Books and magazines are issued under the usual library rules. Any Long Beach public library card is good on the bookmobile. Books and magazines from the bookmobile may be returned to the bookmobile, or to any local public library. On the other hand, books or magazines from any local public library here may be returned to the bookmobile.

There are a shelf of classics, a shelf of good reference books, such as atlases, dictionaries, encyclopedias; a Young Moderns shelf; a teenager shelf. The bookmobile has an excellent section for children.

CURRENT FICTION, of course, is most greatly in demand. Adventure, travel and mystery books also are high on the list, with demand also for biographies, and books on music and the arts.

Requests may be made for volumes not usually carried in the bookmobile.

Because there are many new homes in the areas served by the bookmobile, it carries an especially high percentage of how-to-do-it volumes: books telling about building, repairing, gardening, decorating, child-rearing, entertaining.

"You bring the library to us!" is the thankful greeting of many who would not be able to get library books if it were not for the bookmobile.

BOOKMOBILE librarians and clerks get on friendly terms with the readers they serve and know most of them by name.

Children often bring their pets to the bookmobile so the librarians and clerks may meet and admire them. (One youngster recently brought a pet King snake, which wasn't as welcome as most dogs or cats.)

One young father habitually brings a clothes basket and carries it home filled with books for every member of the family.

Photos by Skip Shuman

Stories of America's fabulous West are popular with young Bookmobile patrons. Above, Miss Beulah Nelson, Bookmobile librarian, and Russell Logan.

Stage coach with mail makes wet trip. Santa Barbara to San Buenaventura. During days of Spanish control, mail service to East took four months.

CALIFORNIA YESTERDAYS

Mail Went Through - - But How?

By Clarence Bernard Propes

COL. John O. Wheeler, merchant and Los Angeles postmaster, almost called the Post Office Department official out on the field of honor. The official had criticized the colonel for dumping mail in a wash tub and letting customers fumble for their own letters.

That year, 1848, the Los Angeles mail was moved from a wash tub to a soap box, neatly divided into compartments. The postmaster had other things to worry about: conducting auctions, superintendent schools, and making political speeches. He gave the mail only a casual sorting. The postal duties were light, but so was the pay.

Under the Spanish, the postal service was in the hands of the military. Soldiers were couriers and they were kept busy. They were allowed only an hour for each stop.

The job of postmaster was not a political plum, since there probably were no more than 20 literate people in the whole Southland. The postmaster received 8 per cent of the receipts and he earned about 10 pesos a year.

THE SERVICE was far from speedy. People were gratified, even amazed, when they received letters mailed from the East only four months before and were pleased to find an Eastern paper only a year old.

When the Americans took over there may have been an improvement, but it was barely detectable.

The service was still in the hands of the military and a system was established to speed the mail between San Francisco and San Diego. Soldiers started at either end and met in San Luis Obispo where they exchanged pouches and returned. They were allowed two weeks for the trip.

In 1848 a regular mail service was established on the Pacific Coast. A letter to or from the Atlantic Coast cost 40 cents, while mail on the Pacific Coast cost 12½ cents.

THE SOLDIERS finally were relieved of the mail-carrying duties and ships began to carry it. Wind and weather sometimes meant a letter could travel from San Francisco to San Diego in three days, but at times it took a week or more.

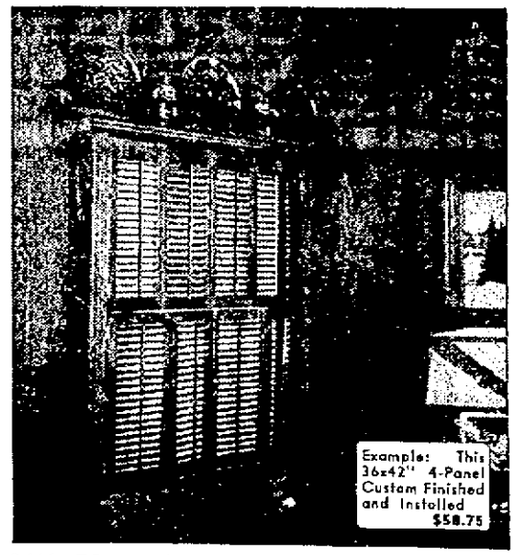

In 1858, an overland route was established with stagecoaches carrying the mail. The route ran from St. Louis to Los Angeles and then to San Francisco. The first run took only 20 days and Los Angeles newspapers praised the speed. Since their news was more fresh than that in San Francisco, they took on sophisticated airs.

In 1884, the first post office in Long Beach was opened in the store of W. W. Lowe at 18 Pine Ave. Washington sent him $3 worth of stamps and he was in business. The mail was brought from Wilmington by a neighbor who made a daily trip with butter and eggs.

THREE YEARS LATER a post office was built on Pine Ave. between 1st St. and Ocean Blvd. The postmaster paid $5 per month ground rent. His pay was about $1,000 a year—if business was good.

In 1903, the postal receipts in Long Beach were $10,888. In 1956, the total was $1,482,000. And the San Diego-San Francisco mail trip takes one day, not four.

BEAUTIFUL HOMES
Southland takes its readers into a different, attractive Long Beach area home each week.

Britain Bids for Fall Favor

WITH THE European travel year underway, indications are that Britain will attract a record number of American visitors — some 200,000 — during 1957, according to Laurie Priesack, western manager for the British Travel Assn.

Fall travel has been on the increase for several years, Priesack said, "because the public is becoming increasingly aware of the greater convenience and economy of travel at that time of year, and another factor is the great number of outstanding events offered in the fall."

The BTA spokesman listed some of them: the Braemar Games, best known of Scotland's Highland gatherings (September); the International Motor Show in London, featuring British, American and Continental cars (October); the Lord Mayor's Show (November), a display of civic pageantry dating back to 1215, and the Edinburgh International Festival of Music and Drama (August 18 to September 7).

Many travelers plan their itineraries around such events, he explained. "If you hire a car you can figure on an expense of 11 cents a mile and this includes all costs—the rental, gas, insurance — everything; and of course domestic gasoline rationing was ended in May. Railway and bus fares are equally low by American standards.

FOR THOSE looking for something different in tours, Priesack recommended the newly established "Heart of England" cruises, boat trips on inland waterways from Oxford to Birmingham. The leisurely trip takes five days, and stops are made to allow for visits at such famous places as Sulgrave Manor—George Washington's ancestral home — Leamington Spa, Warwick Castle, and the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford - on - Avon. All meals and first-class hotel accommodations are included in the cruise price which is reasonable.

The British Travel Association, which is the official government tourist board, publishes a wide range of booklets covering all aspects of travel in Britain and these are available free from your local travel agent or direct from the West Coast office of the BTA at 606 S. Hill St., Los Angeles 14.

The Cuba Story

"Visit Cuba," a 32-page, multi-photo guide to tourist delights on the "Emerald Isle," and latest addition to the "Travel in the Americas Series," was published recently. It is available from the Paa American Union, Washington 6, D. C., at 15 cents per copy.

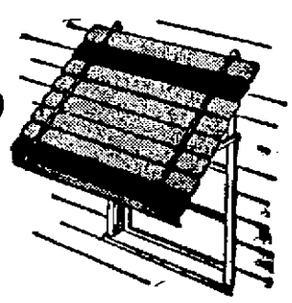

From beautiful, sun-splashed Varadero Beach into the glamour and excitement of world-famous "Tropicana" nightclub, and then for a look at the Morro Castle, ancient guardian of Havana Bay, "Visit Cuba" takes readers on a whirlwind tour of the wonders of this land where "yesterday meets tomorrow."

Sections of "Visit Cuba" tell you, briefly, of the history of Cuba, then how to get there, travel within the country, what you will see, tips on shopping (fine Havana cigars, rum, perfumes, alligator goods—to mention only a few!), and helps you plan your wardrobe and guide you in entry requirements and currency exchange. Whether imaginary or real, your trip to the Caribbean will be one which you will not soon forget when you visit Cuba.

You'd expect to pay $25.00 for average size window 3' x 4'

Front Seat to Aquatic Thrills

Facing its own private beach and also affording a "front row" view of many aquatic sports of the island, the 159-room St. Catherine Hotel continues to be a popular spot for visitors to Santa Catalina. Built in 1919, the hostelry was occupied by the U.S. Maritime Commission during World War II. The hosts, Joe and Rose Arno, who have been on the island 23 years, plan extensive remodeling of the hotel this fall, after the tourist season ends.

Guns in Mexico

The growing interest of American sportsmen in Mexican big game hunting has caused a flood of queries to reach consular offices concerning the transportation of guns.

1. Have your local police chief or sheriff write a "To Whom It May Concern" letter that he knows you and that you have no criminal record.

2. Obtain five front-view passport size (3 inches long) photos of yourself.

3. Make a list of the guns, names, serial numbers, models and calibres.

4. Take the letter, pictures and gun list to your nearest Mexican consul and he will fill out an official paper."

5. Give this form to the customs official in Mexico and he will issue the final permit.

DELAPLANE

"My husband and I are making a flying trip to Lake Geneva in Switzerland in July or August. What kind of clothing, please?"

FIGURE on a climate of average 70 degrees. Sport clothing and one outfit for each of you suitable for cocktails and dinner. Dark suit for your husband. Dinner or cocktail dress for you.

Possible that you will have a few days rain. Light-weight raincoat or folding umbrella would be handy. Walking shoes. The Swiss sport is hiking around and it is usually up and down hill.

The language is French with enough English that you won't need a phrase book. French type food. Good hotels. Best buys are Swiss watches and clocks.

• • • •

"Can you tell me about applying for a passport?"

You have to be going some place. They'll ask you where and by what means. You make the application in person. Passport offices are in New York, Boston, Chicago, New Orleans, San Francisco and Washington, D. C. If you are not near any of these cities, apply to the clerk of any Federal Court. Or any State Court authorized to naturalize aliens.

You take proof of citizenship. That means a birth certificate. Take with you some American citizen who can swear he has known you for at least two years. Two photographs 2½x 2½ and $10.

Apply about four weeks in advance. If you are in a rush, you can pay a little extra — about $1 as I remember — and have your information wired to Washington and the passport airmailed to you. This takes about a week.

• • • •

"We will have a few weeks to look around after the convention in Europe. Any suggestions?"

SURE. Rent a car and drive around one country. Much more fun than the cities. I like England in the countryside the best. You can get all the information and maps you need in London, 64 St. James's St., British tourist office.

If you want a more foreign flavor: Portugal. Go to the government tourist office, though, and get maps and particularly a list of the government pousadas. There's no night life out in the country and very, very few hotels.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Calypso Holiday

The sailing of the Orient liner Oreades from Pier A, Long Beach, July 3, offers travelers the opportunity of participating in a vacation under ideal conditions. Round-the-clock activity aboard this 28,000-ton vessel ranges from an outdoor swimming pool to air conditioned public rooms with all of the amenities to be expected aboard a first-class liner.

After leaving Long Beach, the Oreades will transit the Panama Canal and a special sightseeing tour will be available.

The ship arrives at Trinidad July 12 and a vacation can be enjoyed in the tempo that prevails in this former home of the pirates. Hotel accommodations in Port-of-Spain, the principal port, vary widely, ranging from $5 to $15 per day, American plan. Port-of-Spain is a regular port of call on many steamship services and frequent air service is also available so that when the vacation period approaches an end, the holiday-seeker need have no qualms about transportation home.

Why Not File Your Negs?

Toes and negatives have something in common—they both need filing. Don't lose negatives of cute photos.

odd mixture of letters, notices, bills and assorted prints.

I'M GOING to plead now for a "file-as-you-go" system to take care of the current flood of negatives, pictures and color slides.

The first thing to get is a definite place to keep negatives. A negative file with ample drawers custom-built for your size is ideal—but we rarely live up to our ideals. So we make do what we can build or can adapt . . . for instance, a cardboard shoebox. The important thing is that when we deal with negatives, either to put them away or go looking for one, we head for one place.

Secondly, we should have uniform envelopes, something you can write on for quick identification. Camera stores have standard negative envelopes or they can be made from inexpensive manila envelopes.

FOR A VACATION TRIP, if your films are processed en route, you can carry a negative file book.

When you first examine each batch of new pictures, that's the time to discard the duds.

There are three usual filing systems — chronological, numerical, and by subject matter —but no one system pleases everybody.

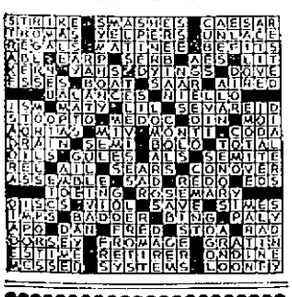

By the Shutterbug

THE OPEN season of summer snapshooting is under way. Everywhere under the sun you will find its devotees pointing the familiar little box to the chorus of "Look at the camera!" as the snap! snap! and click! clicks! beat a steady tempo.

I sit here wondering and worrying: What's to become of all those negatives? Alas, some of them never fulfill their mission of producing a little image. Most of them do, however, but then what happens to them? Are they rewarded with a title, a birthday and a suitable place for retirement where they could welcome visitors in the future?

No . . . too many negatives become DPs, displaced pictures. They wait around in unmarked envelopes, jammed in with an Southland's capable writers tell you how to modify garden features.

Outstanding New Fuchsias

By Martha Hurley

FUCHSIAS have been popular in California since the 1850s when the plants first were introduced here from Europe. Since then, these colorful "dancing dolls" of the garden have lived through varying periods of acclaim and indifference.

Right now, fuchsias are high fashion.

The graceful flower even merits two societies here, one in the bay area, the other in Southern California, both with worldwide members. Meetings are held to stimulate interest in fuchsias and to exchange information about their culture, to learn of exciting new varieties and plan fuchsia flower shows to be held each year. Cups, prizes and ribbons galore have been won by the jewel-like plant. Even a monthly magazine is published, devoted exclusively to fuchsias.

Much of then interest in fuchsias is kept alive by California hybridists who lead the world in creating new and more beautiful varieties, each year.

Here are some of the outstanding new fuchsias for 1957, developed here in California:

California hybridists lead the world in creating new kinds of heat-resistant fuchsias each year.

BASKET VARIETIES

BLUEBIRD — A very pretty basket, displaying a new color in the trailing variety. The short tube and long pointed slender sepals are snowy white. The semi-double corolla of deepest violet blue has scalloped edges which overlap. Attached to the base of the sepals are some extra petals. As the flower matures, these petals turn a rosy hue, as does the corolla. The corolla petals stay folded, giving a trim appearance to the bloom.

FIREBALL—A large double trailing type, unusual for its many color changes as the flower matures. The short tube and broad upturned sepals are bright, carmine-tipped green. The buds and corolla are a ruddy purple with splashes of carmine at base of petals as flower matures. Some petals turn a dark bluish purple, and again change into a red of great brilliance.

FORT BRAGG — A sport of the beautiful fuchsia Enchanted. The tube and broad upturned sepals are a rose shade, the large double corolla of pale lavender rose has a bluish tinge, the petals slightly veined with rose.

Thrips are an enemy we think of particularly in regard to roses and gladioli, but actually, they infest just about everything in your garden. On roses, they prevent the bud from opening. They're so small you can scarcely see them and yet they're large enough to suck the vitality from the petals and to leave a sticky residue which causes the edges to cling together so that the rose cannot open. On gladiola sheaths, you can often see the scars or blotches caused by thrip injury and, of course, they destroy the appearance of the blossoms too.

One of the finest of the newer controls is the combination of malathion and dieldrin which is as near to being an all-purpose insecticide as I have found. Malathion acts quickly and dieldrin more slowly but lasts for a longer time.

Gladioli should be sprayed from the time they're only a few inches high and the spray should be applied deep down into the heart of the plant.

Tips on Fuchsia Culture

Fuchsias are ideal plants for Southland gardens, particularly in coast locations. They thrive in half-shade. All shade and they become leggy, have few blooms. All sun, they become stunted and bronzed, have small blooms. Good locations are on the east side for morning sun, under a tree for filtered sunshine or under lath. It is not the light, but the drying heat from direct sun rays that fuchsias object to. Also, the plants need protection from wind.

Red shades will stand the most sun. Big purples and whites require more shade, have larger blooms but fewer.

The plants require a rich, well-drained, slightly acid soil. Use 2 parts good garden loam, 1 part leaf mold, 1 part clean sand, 1 part well rotted manure. Organic fertilizer mixed with the loam is good, using about one-third.

In hot sections, it is good to line the planting hole with 1 inch of peat moss and, in summer, top mulch with 1 inch of moist peat. Avoid lime in the soil. In the ground set the plants about 3 feet apart.

The plants grow from dwarf trailing types to tall uprights 15 feet high. They can be trained as espaliers or tree shape and flourish in baskets.

Fuchsias are heavy feeders. For established plants in the ground, 1 inches of cow manure is not too much, applied in early spring. Feed often with commercial fertilizer. To get strong leafy growth in spring, use fertilizer, high in nitrogen. Later on, use super-phosphate to bring out the blooms. If potted, feeding once a week with liquid fertilizer is not too often. Fish emulsion is excellent. Fuchsias have a long period of bloom, which they can't keep up, unless fed often.

Watering is most important. Pots and baskets must be watered every day in warm weather, sometimes twice if the air is dry. Water not only the roots, give the foliage and blooms a fine spray. Don't let fuchsias in the ground dry out. When watering, send a fine sharp spray to the underside of the leaves to discourage aphids, white flies, thrips. Use a good all-purposes spray if plants become infested by chewing insects.

To prevent fuchsias in pots from becoming root-bound, repotting is necessary each year. Be careful not to disturb the roots any more than necessary. Use a slightly larger pot each year, but do not use a pot that is much larger than the previous container.

Fuchsias need to be pruned each year, late in February if the weather is mild, or in March. For baskets, cut the old growth to the edge of the pots. As branches grow, pinch out tips until you have obtained a leafy crown, then let the streamers grow. Cut back plants in the ground to about one-third of the height of the bush. Pinch back tips of the sidegrowth to form rounded, bushy plants.

New Rose Trio Bids for Favor

By David I. Gilfillan

Starlet, a yellow floribunda, has been introduced to Long Beach gardeners—one of trio of new roses.

REPORTS coming in from reliable sources indicate that we have a number of excellent roses on the way which will be ready for home gardeners during the coming season. In addition to the three All-America winners featured in this section three weeks ago, Armstrong Nurseries announces the introduction of two new hybrid tea roses and a new floribunda.

Isobel Harkness, an English rose hybridized by Albert Norman, is a bright yellow tea rose with beautiful long, pointed buds, borne on a free-branching shrub.

Aztec, another hybrid tea, is a flaming orange-scarlet rose with ovoid buds opening to extra-large flowers (up to six inches) and is rated exhibition quality.

Starlet, the new floribunda, has a profusion of little buds which open to fully double blooms about 2½ inches across. Characteristic of the floribundas, Starlet produces its flowers in great clusters and is excellent for cutting.

Rose Isobel Harkness

Rose Aztec

THESE ROSES, along with other new introductions, are available at many local nurseries, established in five-gallon containers, and can be planted in the garden now. Check the ads in today's garden section.

In setting out roses from containers, avoid the use of fertilizers around the root area. Equal amounts of leaf mold, peat moss and soil will give you a good growing medium. Be sure the peat moss has been soaked before using. Peat moss will hold about 90 times its own weight in moisture.

You will notice that the main bud or union is above the surface of the soil in the container and it should be in the same position when planted in your garden. When planted too deep the rose will send out advantituous roots from the union. When this happens, the main roots stop growing and the rose will deteriorate slowly.

AFTER PLANTING, give the rose a good soaking, then water only as the soil begins to dry. The rose receives very little if any shock at time of transplanting if handled properly, and too much water continually applied will cause the foliage to turn yellow and drop off. Feeding of the shrubs should not begin until about five weeks after planting.

With climbers, we find that most varieties have a tendency to send out whip-like branches upon which the roses are borne. To keep your climber in hand, cut back to just above the second or third leaf from the main canes in cutting the flowers.

IT NEVER IS advisable to incorporate manures and other fertilizers into the soil immediately before planting bare root stock. This practice can ruin the roses. On the other hand, by preparing the soil four or five months in advance you can plant your bare root stock safely next January knowing that they are planted in a productive soil. Steer manure, organic fertilizer, bonemeal and a little soil sulphur (three pounds to 100 sq. ft.) will give you an excellent growing medium.

DON'T FORGET DEPARTMENT . . . Don't forget that there are many plants which can be planted now to give almost immediate color. Fuchsias, tuberous begonias, asters, petunias, marigolds and annual phlox all are tops. . . . Don't forget to take care of your lawn, both grass and dichondra. In fertilizing use any of the plant foods containing insecticides. By doing so you can feed your lawn and control lawn pests in one operation. . . . Don't forget the Southland garden section next Sunday and don't forget that the man who goes to church on Sunday will enjoy his garden better on Monday.

growing natural cascading basket.

LUNADO — Large double corolla of Tyrian purple with pronounced maroon overshadowing as blossoms mature. Sepals are pink and crimson. Long willowy branches arch gracefully from center stems. A good basket or can be espalliered. Quite heat resistant.

MASTER STROKE — Double corolla white. Sepals white with pink dots.

QUEEN BARBARA — Double corolla splashed with pink near base. Sepals flushed palest pink. A good basket or can be trellised upright.

SWEET LEILANI — Large soft silvery pink and orchid corolla with pale ivory flushed delicate pink sepals. Very compact in growth with lush green foliage.

THUNDERBIRD — Heat resistant in every way. A fine natural cascading, self-branching, profuse-blooming plant. Its large double cherry corolla with orange shadings makes a spectacular show. Very long, gracefully twisted sepals of pink and delicate crimson add much to an over-all lovely effect.

Upright varieties:

MABELLE EDWARDS — A single pink bell-shaped flower with long drooping stems. This fuchsia has daintiness and charm, is named for Mrs. John Paul Edwards. Buds are long white and pointed. Sepals of frosty white curl upwards, corolla of pale pink has four overlapping petals.

ROSECREST—A large double fuchsia, with striking and unique contrast between the color of buds and the open flowers. The medium-sized tube and broad upturned sepals are white, slightly tinged with pale pink underside. The open buds and corolla are a deep lilac mauve turning bright carmine rose as flower matures.

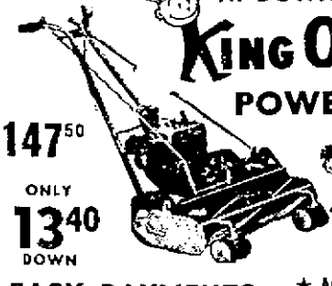

ROYAL ROBE — Vigorous, compact. Will take some sun; double dark purple; light sepals, almost white.

SHOW-OFF — Large single. Double size and coloring of Display fuchsia, which has saucer-shaped corolla with petals of deep pink. Clear pink sepals. A prolific bloomer.

SIERRA BLUE — A fine silvery blue, double variety particularly noteworthy for its beautiful coloring and form. The short tube and wide upturned sepals are white on the outer side, flushed palest pink underside. The corolla is a full double of silver blue gradually becoming soft lilac as the blossom ages.

TEMPERATURES are starting to rise and that means your plants will be requiring more water. Although some rain may still fall, this is a good time to determine when and where to water and how much moisture to apply at each application.

It is difficult to establish general rules covering the problem of watering. Actually any plan that provides the answer must consider various local growing conditions which include wind, temperature, soil, type of plant, exposure and humidity. In addition, a little experience will give you the knowledge as to when a plant is in need of water.

BEFORE STARTING on your watering program it might be wise to learn why plants require water in the first place; that is from a botanical point of view. One of the most vital plant processes is identified as transpiration during which the plant leaves exhale water vapor through tiny pores on their surface. This might be compared to perspiration in an animal. The process is relatively continuous.

Very large quantities of moisture are given off daily. For example, an individual sunflower will sweat out a pint of water in 24 hours; during a warm summer day an average birch tree will give off about 1,000 pounds of water; and an oak tree during one growing season will lose close to 130 tons of moisture. If the moisture lost during transpiration is not replenished then the plant will eventually topple over and die.

ANOTHER RATHER interesting point concerning the necessity for watering plants is that without water they cannot eat. Most plants are unable to digest nutrients if they are not in a liquid state. This includes both root and leaf feeding. A dry food in an arid soil will probably remain locked in the soil. The food factors can be absorbed by the plant only when in solution. Thus without adequate soil moisture your plants will perish from starvation as well as from thirst.

Early morning watering is generally considered the best time. Evaporation then is at a low ebb and liberal applications of moisture should sustain established plants through the day, even in hot weather. Midday watering under a hot sun may scald the leaves and in addition this is the time of maximum evaporation. Watering at night is not advisable because moisture remaining on the leaves at night may encourage fungus.

THE TYPE OF PLANT being grown also determines the method of watering. Those growing actively require more water than those in a relatively dormant state. Soft stemmed varieties are heavy drinkers; woody types with sparse foliage require less moisture. Sandy soils, though which water drains rapidly should be watered lightly but at frequent intervals; heavy soil which has a high moisture retentive quality should be watered less frequently but more moisture should be applied each time.

The place where moisture does the greatest good is in the root zone, the deeper the better. Heavy applications force the water down into the soil and the roots naturally remain in this area. Thus deep rooting is encouraged. On the other hand, light sprinkling leads to surface rooting which is dangerous. Roots in that area may dry out during hot or windy weather.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . This is a good time to start bedding plants. The warm weather helps the tiny seedlings get off to a flying start. Varieties available at most garden supply stores include: Petunias, asters, zinnias, marigolds, annual phlox, lobelias and snapdragons.

Roses are flowering freely now and the blooms should be removed before going to seed. Always prune to an outside eye to prevent the center of the plant from becoming too dense; also to produce a more shapely plant.

Spraying or dusting now is practically a weekly necessity.

Dwarf Washington navel orange is typical of the type of dwarf citrus which may be grown in limited space.

Citrus Space-Savers

By Walter Finch

TRUE DWARF citrus trees are now available which bear superb fruit and foliage, fill the garden with the fragrance of their flowers and which may be raised virtually anywhere with minimum care. The citrus tree stands as the unofficial symbol of California, and visitors "expect" to see an orange or lemon tree in your garden. Now you may have one, regardless of the size or scope of your garden area, advises the California Association of Nurserymen.

True dwarf citrus were pioneered and developed by Floyd C. Dillon and his son, Don Dillon, of Mission San Jose. They now offer 30 true dwarf varieties, ranging from oranges and lemons to tangelos and kumquats, created by grafting choice "mother trees" onto selected dwarfing root stocks. The use of this special root stock is the key factor, and requires painstaking selection for each variety.

The remarkable dwarfs thus produced possess fruiting and appearance as desirable as the "mother tree" itself, and the "mother trees" were chosen from the most perfect of their strains.

WITH TODAY'S "garden living," trees and shrubs in boxes can become articles of furniture, to be lived with and moved around according to taste. Dwarf citrus trees fit this idea perfectly, as they thrive in containers. True dwarf citrus trees occupy less than one-fourth the space of orchard trees, but they bear up to 70 per cent as much fruit. They may be planted the year around in any sunny, wind-free location. At maturity, in about 15-years, they are some eight feet high and wide. (Standard citrus trees reach about 20-feet in height and width at the same stage.)

You may choose from 30 varieties of oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit, tangerines, mandarins and kumquats—all available upon inquiry at your local nurseryman's. Grown in the can, they have all roots intact, and may be readily transplanted. Given light, heat, moisture, drainage and nutrient, they require but minimum care.

THESE REMARKABLE trees are adaptable to varied soils, but those rich in humus are best. Drainage is important: one way to provide for it is with a raised bed, with the tree entirely above grade. A liberal-sized basin is desirable for irrigation around the tree. Happily enough, watering is relative infrequent. The basic idea is to water thoroughly, letting it soak down deep. Once the tree is established water only when the tree needs it—the leaves will be in a wilting condition. During the dry season established trees need water once every month or six weeks. New insecticides make pest control easy for modern gardeners, and your local nurseryman can aid your selection.

Here are some planting instructions to follow. If you plant in a container, use ½ virgin soil, ¼ sand and ¼ peat moss. Use no manure. Fertilize only after your dwarf citrus has become established—about six months after planting. Once a month, use a balanced commercial fertilizer containing six per cent nitrogen; apply at the time of irrigation ½ cup the first year ¾ cup the second year; one cup the third year; increasing gradually in this proportion as the tree grows.

MULCH WITH PEAT moss, leaf mold, manures, shavings or sawdust, to conserve moisture, moderate heat and to retard soil crusting and keep down weeds.

Among the most popular varieties of true dwarf citrus are Robertson Navel, Washington Navel and Valencia oranges; Eureka and Meyer Lemons; Marsh Seedless Grapefruit; Kinnow Mandarins; Mexican and Rangpur Limes and Negami Kumquats.

Enjoy the pleasure of raising choice fruits in your garden now, with true dwarf citrus trees. Look for the graft, which indicates a true dwarf variety that will furnish superb fruit and foliage.

PET PARADE

Pups With a Future

By Eleanor Avery Price

MANY PERSONS, after attending one or more of the 350 dog shows held yearly in this country, have the inspiration to go right out and buy puppies in hope that they will eventually have top dogs for showing. Many phones will jingle and many an "oh" and "ah" will be said over puppies as a result of the Harbor Cities Kennel Club all breed dog show and obedience trial which will conclude this evening on the grounds adjacent to Municipal Auditorium, for this show is the largest of its kind west of the Mississippi and draws spectators from all over.

The desire to buy and raise a dog for show purposes is a good one, but the prospective buyers pause and give thought about several things.

For one, puppies for possible future showing should be purchased from reputable breeders who are striving for quality rather than quantity. Some breeders hold puppies until they are around four months old so as to be able to judge their show potentialities. Puppies with the best conformations and markings naturally command a higher price.

ANOTHER THING, the buyer should ask himself if he is prepared to give the dog, even though it does not turn out to be show material, the best care possible. We recall an individual who took her young dog to the late Dr. Milton Evans, Long Beach veterinarian, and asked, "Dr. Evans, just how good is my dog?" Dr. Evans slowly lifted his head and looked his questioner directly in the eyes. Said he: "Your dog is only as good as the love you give him."

A THIRD POINT the buyer should think about is that showing a dog, even though a handler of experience is hired, calls for a sportsmanlike attitude. Anyone who becomes furious at his dog or at the judges and at other entries and their owners has no business in the show ring.

When David Upright of the Harbor Cities Kennel Club started the Harbor Cities Kennel Club dog show in this area 22 years ago, beginning with an entry of only 400 canines, his ideal was to make this show one of the greatest ones in America, and he has said: "I've wanted it to exemplify the utmost in good sportsmanship, showmanship and fine entertainment for all who love and enjoy dogs."

People who buy puppies with hopes of eventually showing them would do well to ponder on these words, for dog showing is a sport, competitive to be sure, but one that calls for good losers as well as graceful winners.

ENTRIES FOR the Orange Empire Dog Club dog show and obedience trial to be held July 14 in John Galvin Park, Ontario, must reach Jack Bradshaw by noon, Tuesday, July 2.

HOW TO Put Lazy Susan Inside a Closet

1. THIS "CLOSET"—before it was remodeled—was a real storage problem for containers. Volume here was plentiful—but use of it was bad. It had only three selves. Now a lazy susan puts center space into action.

2. FURNITURE GLIDES support the lazy susan at outer edges. This type has a steel ball that rotates as lazy susan turns. Glides offer good support even when heavily loaded. When swinging a hammer to install the guides, support underside of shelf to prevent it from being knocked loose.

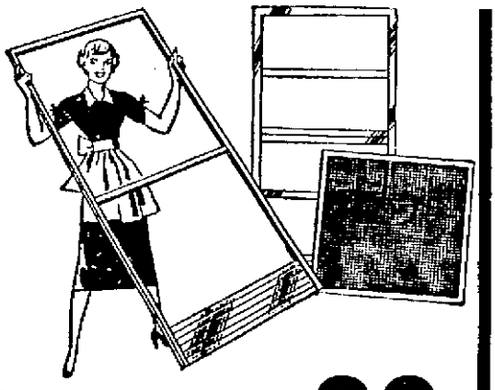

3-4. TO ASSEMBLE LAZY SUSAN, nail a ¾x3x3-inch block of solid wood to shelf after you insert bolt. Make sure skate wheel is tight fit in hole you counterbored in bottom of lazy susan. Expansive bit gives you the right diameter.

HAROLD A. JONES JR.
The Man in Charge

WITHOUT FANFARE or firecrackers, an important milestone was observed quietly last Sunday at Jones Cafeteria and Dining Room, 120 E. 5th St.

It was the 28th birthday of the cafeteria, first opened by Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Jones Sr. on June 16, 1929. One of Long Beach's finest success stories, the cafeteria has become an important landmark on 5th St., having been at the same location ever since its beginning, serving top quality foods year in and year out.

The man currently in charge of the cafeteria's cooking is Harold A. Jones Jr., working as vacation relief chef. Young Jones has helped his mother and father at the restaurant ever since he was a boy of 14. A senior at Long Beach State College, he is majoring in business administration.

The dining out public is being treated especially nice at the cafeteria these days thanks to $1 luncheon and dinner specials which are certainly a bargain. A different entree is served daily on the special, in this order: Monday, chicken fried steak; Tuesday, fried fresh chicken (each serving is ¼ of a three-pound chicken); Wednesday, pork tenderloin; Thursday, ground sirloin, and Friday, 12-ounce halibut steak. All are served with salad, vegetable, roll and butter.

The dining out public has also become increasingly aware of the wonderful dinner specials in the adjacent Jones Dining Room. The restaurant buys eastern choice beef in volume amounts and can thus serve steaks and prime rib at sensible prices.

A large 12-ounce cut of choice prime rib au jus is only $1.95 a la carte, served with potato, choice of salad from the large salad tray, roll and butter. A huge 16-ounce choice T-bone steak is only $2.25 a la carte.

The Dining Room also serves two dozen entrees daily on its famed super-complete dinner, priced at from $1.75 up.

FASHION PLATES, 1913 style: Tenor Enrico Caruso (l.) and brother Giovanni stroll New York's 5th Avenue.

I'll always remember...

Father's brother Giovanni

by ENRICO CARUSO, Jr.

THE AUTHOR

When I think of my late father, Enrico Caruso, the most famous tenor in history, my thoughts often turn to his younger brother Giovanni, my Uncle John. Though different by nature — father was energetic and dynamic, Uncle John rather less so — they became each other's alter ego. For in a very real sense, as you will see, each was his brother's keeper. Without my easy-going uncle, Father might never have become a singer. And without my ambitious father . . .

Back in 1894 my father, then 21, was drafted into the Italian army. Having taken vocal lessons, he began to practice. The result? In the barracks he met with a shower of boots and tin cups. Next he tried the washroom. Then the Commandant sent for him.

"What is that infernal screeching?" he demanded. "Another howl and into the guardhouse you go."

But Papa couldn't keep his mouth shut. The Commandant, who didn't really want to lock him up, finally sent him daily to practice — out of earshot — at the home of a baron. A month later he sent for Papa again.

"The baron says you have the makings of a singer. But you can't be a singer and a soldier, too. So your brother Giovanni is going to take your place."

Father was astounded. When two brothers were near the same age, the younger could take the elder's place. This, though, was rare. But Uncle John, in sympathy with his brother's dream of a career, had volunteered. So Papa left to conquer the world of music.

Uncle John? He went on to "conquer" the Abyssinians in 1898, the Turks in 1912. Between wars, wearing the finest clothes, he led the life of Riley at cafes, nightly poker games, trips to Paris and Monte Carlo — all with the zest his brother's money could bring. Papa kept him well supplied. Uncle John never earned a day's pay at a civilian job in his life.

Once a friend asked him, "Giovanni, why don't you do something worthwhile? Why don't you do some sort of work?"

"Work!" exclaimed Uncle John, paling at the thought. "Listen. God gave my brother a magnificent voice. But God gave me a magnificent brother!" ■

On Parade

ON THE COVER you see two happy honeymooners — Harold Connolly of Boston, Mass., and the former Olga Fikotova of Prague, Czechoslovakia. Front-page headlines bannered the romance of these medal-winning Olympic athletes, who were married in March despite official Red opposition. That done, the world thought the starry-eyed but determined pair had solved their final problem.

But had they? To find out, PARADE sent Sports Editor John Devaney and photographer Ben Ross to see the Connollys, now living in Boston. What they learned makes a surprising follow-up to the year's No. 1 East-West wedding. It's on pp. 16-18.

THE ARTICLE by Dr. Harry Lyons advocating fluoridation of drinking water (PARADE, May 12) created a not unexpected tempest. Letters, both favorable and critical, poured in from all over the U.S.

Though the "antis" offer various arguments, the main one seems to be that sodium fluoride, the chemical used in fluoridation, is a poison. Dr. Lyons acknowledged this, but maintained that "under prescribed conditions" (his words) it promotes health. In rebuttal, here is an excerpt from a letter from H. M. Tippett of Washington, D. C.:

"Thousands of reputable dentists, many of them as scientifically informed as Lyons may be, have repudiated fluoridation on the basis of what they have seen in their own practice. Lyons may scare some people from thinking by calling it emotionalism. But he isn't fooling a lot of smart dentists and doctors who don't swallow wholesale everything that is labeled 'scientific.'"

Taking no sides, PARADE leaves the argument to those disposed to carry it on.

A New York school shows a new way to get 6-year-olds to taste unfamiliar foods

by SILVIA BAKST

GREAT NECK, N.Y.

The traditional problem of getting Johnny to eat his spinach has been met head-on at a school in this New York suburb.

A tasting course for tots is making life easier for mothers whose youngsters shy away from unfamiliar foods. "Tasting parties" at the Kensington School, like the one pictured on this page, teach 6-year-olds that such strange things as fennel, avocado, cauliflower, turnips and watercress can be just as much fun to eat as hamburgers or hot dogs — or even ice cream (almost).

First the children clip pictures of fruits and vegetables from magazines, draw pictures of favorite foods, then learn the ABCs of vitamins and nutrition.

On "tasting day" they march up to the home economics room. There they are shown heaping trays of vegetables and fruits. Then, helped by the home-making consultant, the children clean, cut, scrape or peel and arrange the prepared foods on trays. These are taken back to the classroom and the party begins. As they eat, they learn — not only about new and strange foods but about good table manners.

Mothers report that these adventures in eating are all to the good. Says one: "Bobby is curious about new foods now. He doesn't give us that 'closed mouth' routine any more. At least he tastes everything, and we have even had great success with vegetables. That's a great victory." ■

THE 6 MOST POWERFUL MEN IN THE WORLD

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

MARSHAL TITO

by H. V. KALTENBORN

. . . who, at 79, ranks as the dean of American news analysts. Long familiar to radio and television audiences, he still is active with NBC. In 60 years of journalism he has written millions of words, crisscrossed the globe, personally talked with most of the men he here discusses for PARADE.

WHO ARE THE most powerful men in the world today? An intriguing question, and worthy of real thought. Part of the answer lies in the meaning of the word power — and how it is used.

For example, dictators like Generalissimo Franco of Spain or Colonel Nasser of Egypt exercise a closely limited kind of power. Pope Pius XII, head of the Roman Catholic Church, has a very different power — yet one both real and widespread. His moral influence affects the thought and action of millions. Yet during World War II, when the name of the Pope was mentioned at a meeting of the Big Three Allied leaders, Russia's Josef Stalin put the cynical question: "How many divisions will the Pope contribute?" — as though military manpower were the sole criterion.

When Dwight D. Eisenhower was head of NATO, he told me that three factors determined NATO's strength. One is the morale of the military force. Again, he believes that after the opening shock of any modern war the industrial power which feeds the military machine may well prove the decisive factor. And the old military maxim of "getting there fustest with the mostest" reminds us that power must be in the right place at the right time.

Nor is the mere possession of power enough. There must be the will to use it and the ability to supply it.

At the same time, not every man who occupies a seat of power is necessarily a man of power. Many times in history it was not the monarch but his chief minister who took over and exercised the real power.

With such considerations in mind, I submit the names of six men who, at this moment in history, exercise more power than any others that could be named.

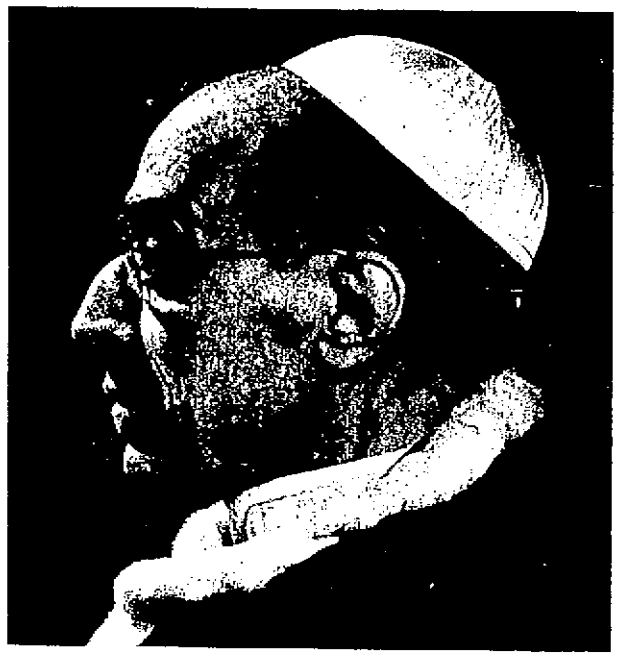

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States. At 66, he has been elected and re-elected leader of the world's most powerful country, enjoys wide popularity throughout the world. On top of his great military reputation, he brought to the White House an enormous personal prestige.

The terms of the Constitution give our President much more power than is accorded to the Prime Minister of Great Britain or the Premier of France. He cannot be ousted by the national legislature, except by impeachment. Congress has even given President Eisenhower special war-making powers not provided by the Constitution.

In the Far East, it has voted him a free hand to decide when aggressive actions of the Communist government of China imperil the security of the island of Formosa and call for our military intervention. In the Middle East, Congress has agreed to let the President use our military forces to repel an armed Communist attack against any country that asks us to intervene. Further, Congress has turned over to the President the exclusive right to determine when and where atomic weapons may be used in the national defense.

JAWAHARLAL NEHRU

POPE PIUS XII

NIKITA S. KHRUSHCHEV

MAO TSE-TUNG

The keys to their power

EISENHOWER heads the most powerful nation on earth . . . enjoys unique personal prestige . . . has great powers under the Constitution . . . has been given additional ones by Congress.

KHRUSHCHEV is chief of the Communist Party, which runs Russia . . . bosses the Kremlin inner circle . . . can decide whether Russia will start a war . . . is smart enough not to get too bossy.

MAO is dictator over 600 million people . . . is leading them in a drive to control Asia . . . runs Red China independently of Moscow . . . is growing stronger as China grows stronger.

THE POPE is moral leader of 500 million Catholics . . . carries great weight on both sides of the Iron Curtain — from influencing Italian elections to aiding a Hungarian cardinal.

NEHRU heads a nation of 375 million . . . has been Prime Minister 10 years . . . follows a policy that keeps him friendly to, and a possible mediator between, Communism and the West.

TITO is absolute boss of a highly strategic nation . . . has defied Moscow and modified Communism to his own country's needs . . . ably maintains his key position between two worlds.

All these special powers supplement the President's normal constitutional prerogatives. He is the Commander-in-Chief of America's military forces, and he controls our diplomatic action. He can influence public opinion through press conferences and talks over radio and television. No man in the world has greater personal power than Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The fact remains that ours is a government of laws and not of men. Therefore he must — and does — exercise his power with restraint and discretion.

NIKITA S. KHRUSHCHEV, chief of the Communist Party in the U.S.S.R. Though not Russia's top man in the "total" sense that Stalin was, he occupies the same position as Party leader and is the outstanding and most powerful member of the Kremlin Cabinet. This makes him, at 63, No. 1 in the world's No. 2 country.

In Russia, all power is centralized in the executive group headed by Khrushchev. The Soviet Union parliamentary groups have no real legislative or restraining power. The premier, foreign minister, defense minister and others have a certain amount of independent influence, but Khrushchev has emerged as the dominant government figure.

It was he who delivered the anti-Stalin speech of February, 1956, charging his former boss with a variety of crimes. It was Khrushchev who recently announced plans for decentralization of Soviet industry. It was he who led the Soviet delegation to Yugoslavia in the effort to work out a reconciliation with Marshal Tito. It is Khrushchev who gives the important interviews to foreign journalists.

Khrushchev headed last fall's delegation to Warsaw, which worked out the compromise under which Poland received a measure of local autonomy. He also led the delegation to Budapest, which decided on the ruthless use of Soviet military power to suppress the Hungarian revolution.

Obviously, Khrushchev knows how to be tough. With some reliance on his associates, he holds absolute power in a system that relies on secret police, censorship, brutal repression and slave-labor camps to retain its hold on a veritable empire — the Soviet Union and its European satellites. Nikita Khrushchev controls the decision as to when, where and whether Russia will launch aggressive war.

That fact alone makes him a man with enormous power. He is shrewd enough to know he can retain it only by showing a proper restraint in its use.

MAO TSE-TUNG, leader of Red China. Just a year older than Khrushchev, he is the dictator over 600 million people. He was born of peasant stock, but received a modern education. Later he read himself into Marxism and Leninism, but he never accepted Stalin's overlordship. He has become much more independent since Stalin's death.

LOUNGE ARTIST. A dog that climbs up on beds or furniture is a pest, not a pet. Help keep your home neat and tidy. Follow this simple MILK-BONE training plan.

TRAIN HIM. Point to the bed and say, "No," in a firm voice. Also give your dog a definite place to rest, such as a rug or an old blanket on the floor.

REWARD HIM. Most important. If your dog stays off the bed, follow the advice of dog training experts. Be sure to reward your dog with tasty, crunchy MILK-BONE DOG BISCUITS.

MILK-BONE WORKS. Your dog will love MILK-BONE so much he'll work hard to please you and earn another tasty reward. In no time at all, your dog will stay off beds.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR DOG BEHAVE:

Train him to stay off the bed—the Milk-Bone way

Follow the advice of dog experts such as Lee Duncan, trainer of Rin Tin Tin. Train your dog the MILK-BONE way for better behavior. After every trick or lesson, reward your dog with a MILK-BONE DOG BISCUIT. You'll find training is easier, faster, more fun—both for you and your dog.

Your dog will love the real tempting goodness of MILK-BONE. And remember, MILK-BONE is good for your dog. Gives him all-important chewing exercise that helps keep his teeth and gums strong and healthy.

Only MILK-BONE comes in three different textures and sizes. Look for circle on package front for size of biscuit that suits your dog best—LARGE, MEDIUM, or SMALL.

The world's 6 most

It is wrong to speak of Mao's China as a Soviet satellite. Red China is allied to the Soviet Union and depends on Russia for war material and machinery, but pursues an independent policy in seeking mastery of all Asia. Under Mao's leadership, it already has conquered Tibet, parts of Mongolia, Northern Korea, North Viet-Nam and certain islands in the Yellow Sea. It is infiltrating North Burma, Thailand and Laos. It has refused to make peace with the United States, and continues to hold American prisoners. It has openly vowed to conquer Formosa.

All these aggressive acts and threats have taken place under the direct leadership of Mao. He receives comparatively few headlines because this able and discreet leader prefers to work from behind the scenes. But as Red China grows stronger, so does Mao Tse-tung. He seems likely to remain one of the world's most powerful figures longer than several others on my list.

POPE PIUS XII, head of the Roman Catholic Church. Oldest (81) of the world's most powerful men, he relies almost entirely on moral influence and church discipline to exercise persuasion in a material-minded world. Repeatedly I have had the privilege of discussing with him the problems involved in Communism and the attainment of world peace. He impressed me as a man of great spiritual force with a keen sense of the practical.

The Pope's most successful direct exercise of political power came not long after World War II, when he used the influence of the Church to defeat the Communists in the Italian election. But he never misses an opportunity to attack Communism.

The Pope exerts an important influence even behind the Iron Curtain. The Communists did not dare prevent Cardinal Wyszynski, Primate of Poland, from making his recent visit to the Vatican. They have not dared remove Cardinal Mindszenty, Primate of Hungary, from his place of asylum in the American Embassy in Budapest. Five hundred million Catholics and 360,000 priests look to the Pope of Rome for moral leadership. The head of the Catholic Church is indeed a man of great power.

JAWAHARAL NEHRU, Prime Minister of India. Leader of some 375 million people, he reached that position by developing a kind of political split personality. Born in 1889, he was educated in England. Like Gandhi, he became a lawyer. But then the Amritsar massacre of his fellow Indians by British soldiers led him to devote his life to Indian freedom.

Four times he was elected President of the Indian National Congress. Where Gandhi was primarily a spiritual force, Nehru was a practical political leader. The British kept him in jail from 1930 to 1936, and like Mao Tse-tung he read himself into a belief in Marxism. In 1947 he became the first Prime Minister of free India. He still is a Socialist — which has helped make him a neutralist. Neutralism is one source of his power. He has stood between capitalism and Communism, embracing neither. Today he is perhaps the only great political leader who is as welcome in Moscow as he is in Washington.

Known as a man of peace, he proved himself willing to use force by his insistence on India's control of the disputed province of Kashmir. He fights Communism in India, but objects to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the Baghdad Pact — both directed against Communist aggression. He repeatedly has sought to mediate between the Soviet Union and the Western powers, and between Egypt and the users of the Suez Canal.

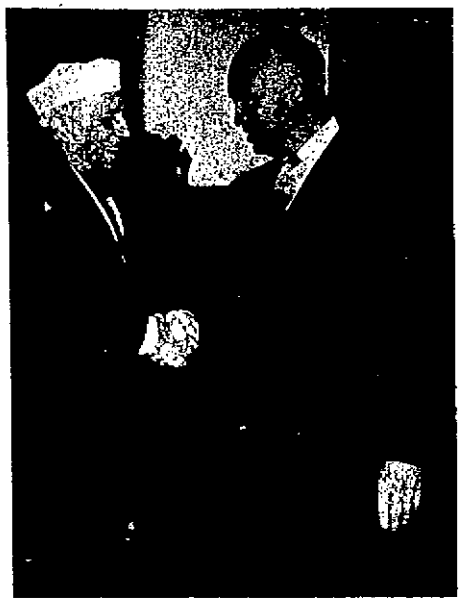

Because Nehru heads a great and growing nation, because he enjoys the respect of the world, because of his undoubtedly good intentions and because he occupies a strategic position of neutrality, he remains a man of power who may yet exercise decisive influence in the maintenance of world peace.

MARSHAL TITO of Yugoslavia. Though a minor dictator, he occupies — like Nehru — a strategic position between East and West. He stands between the Communist and the anti-Communist world of Europe.

Though trained in Moscow, he has abandoned many aspects of Communism in his own country — for example, his unsuccessful effort to communize agriculture. Years ago he did what Khrushchev is now trying to do in Russia: decentralize industry. He told me that the two great evils of Communism are bureaucracy and centralization, and explained how he sought to get rid of both in his own country. Tito admits that at first he copied too much from Russia. He welcomed his break with the Kremlin as an opportunity to turn his back on some Soviet methods.

At 65, Tito is an absolute dictator; he holds most of Yugoslavia's executive and legislative power in his own hands. But he uses it intelligently, and therein lies his strength. Years ago he found it expedient to give the various parts of Yugoslavia a good deal of the local autonomy they have always demanded. He has been able to relax police power without producing any revolutionary outbreaks. One source of his considerable personal popularity is that he is a true patriot; he risked his life time and again during the war against Germany, and the men who fought under him are loyal to him.

Tito plays the diplomatic game with considerable skill. He has secured hundreds of millions in American aid without turning his back on his Communist beliefs. He still is being wooed by both the Soviet Union and the United States. There is no denying that for the present he holds a position of great power in a very important part of Europe.

EAST AND WEST clasp hands during a visit to Washington by India's Prime Minister Nehru.

There you have my list of six. And why didn't I include the Prime Minister of Great Britain or Franco of Spain or Nasser of Egypt? The answer is that none of these men can exercise much power outside his own country or on his own initiative.

The British Prime Minister works with and through his Cabinet. He either works with them or they resign, and thus weaken his government. When a British Prime Minister steps out of line and makes an attempt to exercise power on his own account, he is apt to meet the fate that befell Prime Minister Eden. A great personality like Winston Churchill can exercise personal power, but the average British Prime Minister is controlled by public opinion, by Parliament, by his associates and by the Opposition.

Nasser's forces were beaten decisively by the Israeli Army last year and are no stronger today. His control of the Suez Canal is precarious. His political ambitions in the Near East have had a setback in Jordan. Egypt's economy is going downhill. Nasser's apparent power is due to the strength of his outside support; it does not come from within.

As for General Franco, when he finally emerged victorious in the long-drawn-out Spanish Civil War (thanks in large part to outside help), his country was not a sufficiently strong factor in European affairs to rank him as a man of great power outside of Spain. Nor is it today. Franco is boss in his own land. He is working with us in the battle against Communism. But he has no claim to rank among today's most powerful men.

So there they are — Eisenhower, Khrushchev, Mao Tse-tung, Pope Pius XII, Nehru, Tito. It probably would be better for the peace of the world if three out of six were not Communist dictators. We can console ourselves with the thought that in recent decades many dictators have disappeared almost overnight. So there is at least a chance for more democratic successors. ■

Last night I nearly died of embarrassment because of my LOOSE FALSE TEETH!

What a shame you didn't know!
No powder can hold loose false teeth like POLI-GRIP CREAM—so tight · so long · so snug!

Pleasant tasting Poli-Grip cream locks slipping, sliding dentures firmly in place, even anchors shallow lowers.

Unlike messy, hit-or-miss powders, Poli-Grip cream spreads evenly, smoothly... holds plates tighter, longer.

Snug, Tight-Fitting Comfort

The minute you use Poli-Grip you feel its snug, tight-fitting comfort. Poli-Grip lays a wonderful comfort cushion between plates and tender gums to eliminate the friction that rubs gums sore and raw.

Now you can eat steak, corn-on-the-cob...even bite into sticky taffy...without rocking, wobbling dentures embarrassing you. You can laugh out loud, cough, even sneeze. The fear of your plates dropping away from your gums is gone!

What's more, hot liquids like steaming coffee or hot soup will not melt Poli-Grip away as they do weak powders. Poli-Grip grips no matter what!

Start now to enjoy the assurance that comes only when you know your false teeth are locked firmly in place. Try Poli-Grip cream today. At any drug counter. If Poli-Grip doesn't hold your plates tighter, longer than powders...or anything you have ever tried, you get double your money back!

PETER PERCHES to sing with his owner. He usually keeps on after hymn ends.

MISSIONARY WITH WINGS

A parakeet helps spread the gospel

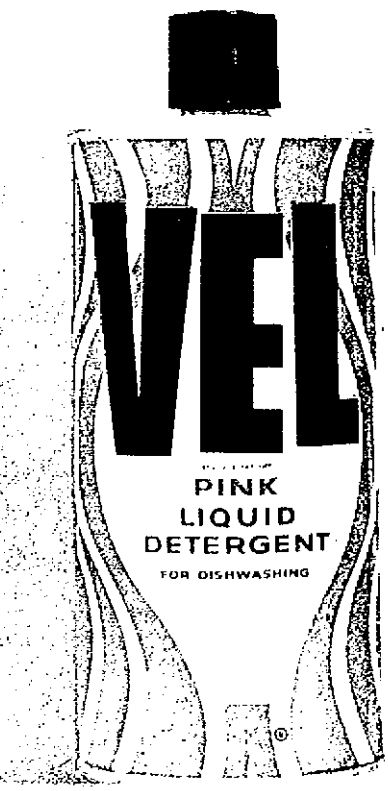

Perching, preaching and pecking in these photos is the nation's smallest — and flightiest — missionary: a blue-and-gray parakeet named Peter Piper. Peter became a man of the cloth two years ago, when an Alabama Sunday school donated him to the Rev. Leila Anderson of La Moille, Ill., a Congregational Christian missionary.

Since then, Peter has logged thousands of miles as "male companion" to Miss Anderson. She tours churches in remote areas in a specially designed station wagon to introduce new Sunday School materials, explain new programs, lead services and meetings. As she goes, her feathered friend has his own self-chosen duties. A born showoff, he entertains Sunday School children, leads hymn singing and peppers discussions with phrases like "Amen" and "Peter is a good boy. Praise the Lord."

He also has blossomed into a full-blown character with a mind of his own.

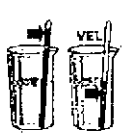

IN JUST ONE DAY...YOUR HANDS CAN TELL YOU'VE CHANGED TO NEW PINK LIQUID VEL!

Makes quick work of dishes and pans ...yet no 'detergent burn' to hands!

The very first time you touch the dishwater you'll notice the wonderful difference Vel makes. No "slippery" alkali feeling because unlike washday detergents for clothes, Vel contains no harsh alkalis to roughen, redden skin. Vel's active ingredient is 100% grease-cutter. No powder, no other liquid can match Vel's speed, economy, and liquid-pink mildness. It's MarVELous!

PROOF LIQUID VEL IS MILDER! When water hits washday detergents, their strong chemicals produce heat. But with new Liquid Vel . . . thermometer registers no heat . . . no "washday detergent burn." Vel's formula makes it milder than other liquid detergents, too!

VEL is the trade-mark of the Colgate-Palmolive Co.

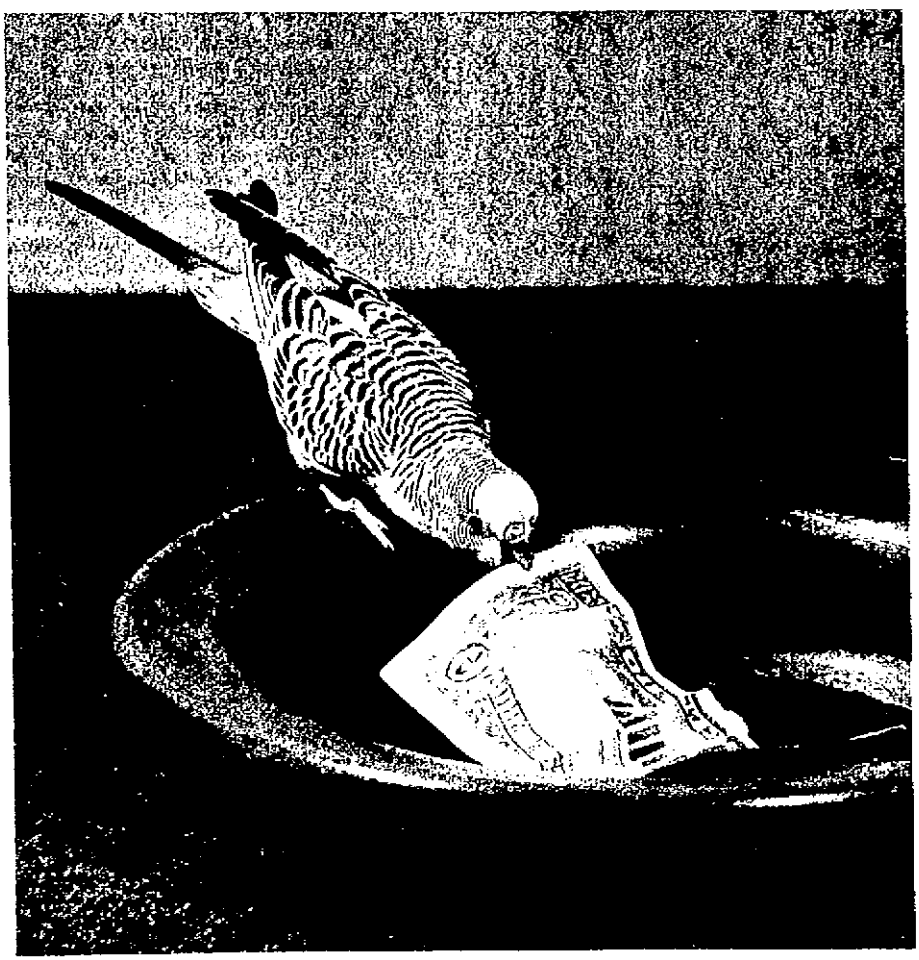

PETER PERFORMS for fascinated Sunday Schoolers in a small Washington town.

He expresses a loud preference for church suppers. He swoops low over the tables, perching occasionally to sample the salad or pastry. Once he bathed in a minister's water glass.

Peter has appeared on TV and radio, in summer camps and at hundreds of Sunday Schools and informal church meetings. He also receives considerable fan mail. Miss Anderson answers it, adding his "signature" — the imprint of his claw dipped in shoe polish.

Keeping Peter's language clerical is a persistent problem. Pranksters often teach him salty phrases, which Miss Anderson then must winnow out of his 150-word vocabulary. But mostly, his talk is more brassy than scandalous.

Recently, at a church supper, Miss Anderson was chatting with a frosty spinster. Peter zipped across the room and landed on the lady's shoulder. As she recoiled, he nuzzled against her cheek. "Kiss me, kid," said Peter. ■

Pillsbury creates 7 new miracle doughs and they are rapidly becoming...

America's new way

THE LEADER IN CONVENIENCE FOODS! Mr. Paul S. Gerot, Pillsbury President, (shown talking to the author, Ruth Andre, in the Pillsbury Home Service Kitchen) says, "Ten years ago we pioneered cake and other baking mixes. Today, they are in practically every home in America. Now, we have pioneered a complete line of companion products . . . fresh baking doughs that are all ready for the oven . . . kept fresh in your grocer's dairy case. This is another miraculous advancement for home bakers!"

Just imagine it . . . fresh baking doughs that are ready to bake! No ingredients to buy. No mixing. Just open the package—into the pan—into the oven! This new way to bake opens the door to a whole new world of baking ease.

What'll they think of next?

Quick caramel nut rolls with all their hot, crunchy nut meat flavor. Cookies that melt in your mouth. Noble biscuits (sweetmilk or buttermilk) and quick cinnamon rolls with old-fashioned home baked goodness.

Now brides are baking like old timers! Yes, even newlyweds are baking fluffy biscuits, fancy sweet rolls and crispy cookies on the very first try. And women who have baked every week since they were in their teens are now baking with Pillsbury's new miracle doughs . . . they've found they can save hours and still give their families wonderful home baked foods.

"Get set for super-cooking!"

Clementine Paddleford, the Food Editor of This Week magazine, says, "Get set for super-cooking . . . . Your family's living habits are headed for a revolution."

And that's the truth, Miss Paddleford! You could have been referring to the new way to bake that's taking over America! In one easy step, any girl with a baking pan, an oven and a few packages of the new Pillsbury fresh doughs can become an expert baker. With only minutes of preparation time, she can serve light and tender biscuits, luscious sweet rolls and crunchy-crisp icebox cookies.

Want to surprise the family tonight?

Get a can of Pillsbury Quick Cinnamon Rolls . . . and bring the hot, fine sweet-spice aroma of cinnamon to your dinner table.

Takes hardly any preparation time at all! You can have them in your oven in a minute or two. Every can has 8 sweet rolls of fresh dough . . . already spread with swirls of cinnamon and sparkly sugar. Out of the can and into the pan they go . . . 20

As an extra treat, try them with your favorite fruit as a "cobbler" dessert.

Hot, country-fresh biscuits in just 10 minutes

Now biscuits are as easy to bake as making instant coffee. Each can holds ten unbaked biscuits. In one minute they're baking in your oven. Nine minutes later, pull out a pan of fluffy, tender biscuits . . . golden crusted, perfect.

How do you like your biscuits? With country-fresh sweet milk flavor or that fresh-from-the-churn buttermilk flavor? Now you can serve either . . . Pillsbury Sweetmilk or Pillsbury Buttermilk Biscuits. You can bake biscuits just like those from a country kitchen.

Best Sunday breakfast idea ever

There's a new miracle dough that makes wonderful sweet rolls . . . covered with caramel and crunchy nut meats. It's a quick way to turn breakfast into something special. And they take just minutes!

New Pillsbury Quick Caramel Nut Rolls have eight sweet rolls of fresh dough plus a luscious caramel and chopped nut topping in each can. Takes only two minutes to crumble the topping into a pan—sprinkle with a tablespoon of water—place the sweet rolls on the topping—and pop 'em into the oven. About 25 minutes later, breakfast is ready for a delighted family.

Would you believe it? Slice-and-bake cookies!

All you do is slice and bake this newest fresh dough from Pillsbury. Just like you'd make at home—long rolls of fresh icebox cookie doughs. And you can fill the cookie jar with three "Gimme one!" flavors: Butterscotch Nut, Crunchy Peanut and Coconut.

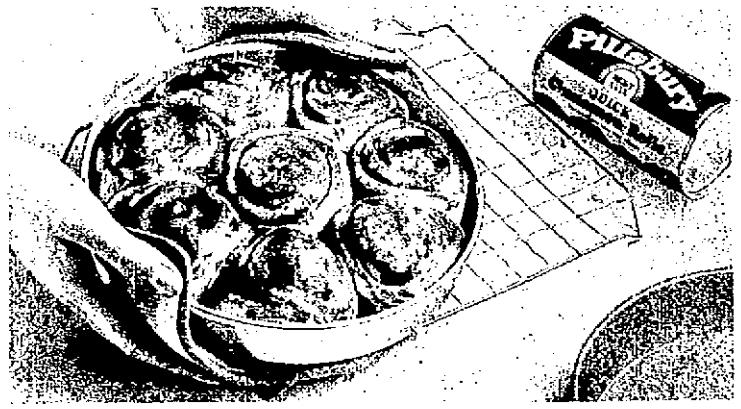

Each flavor of Pillsbury Icebox Cookies makes about 4 dozen delicious cookies, depending on whether you slice 'em thick or slice 'em thin. You keep them in the refrigerator like you would your own fresh cookie dough . . . you can slice and bake exactly what you need and put the rest of the roll back.

Pillsbury brings America a new way to bake

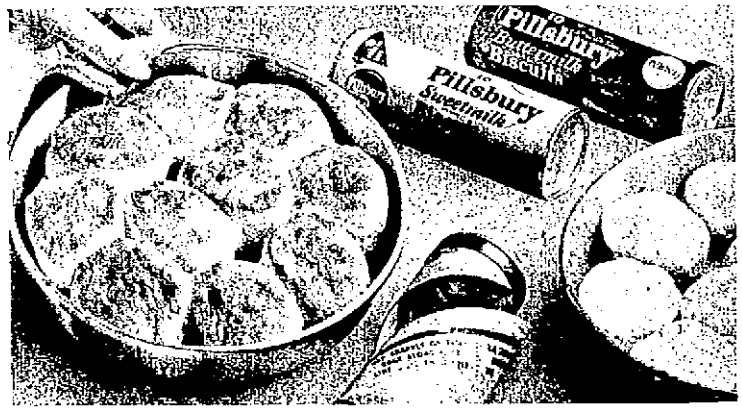

A wonderful new world of baking ease! Where brides bake like old timers . . . and experienced home bakers save hours each week. It's a world filled with the pride of serving your family from your own oven—golden-brown biscuits, glamorous sweet rolls and crispy cookies. And, it's just as close to you as your grocer's dairy case.

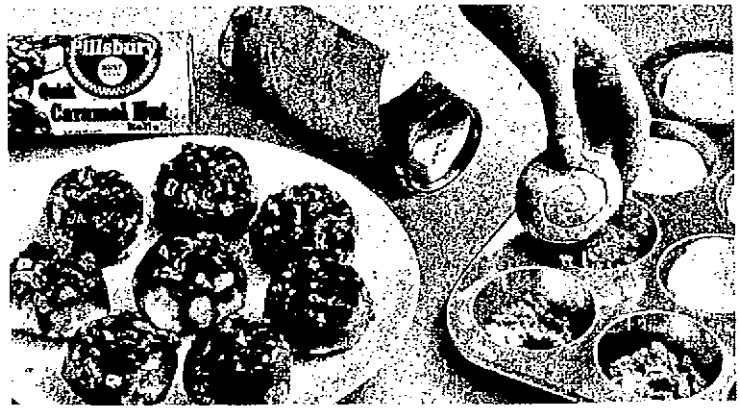

GET 'EM AT YOUR GROCER'S DAIRY CASE where you find the milk, cream, eggs, cheese and other fine fresh foods. Try these 7 new Miracle Doughs that are rapidly becoming America's new way to bake . . . Pillsbury Sweetmilk and Buttermilk Biscuits, Quick Cinnamon Rolls, Quick Caramel Nut Rolls and the three flavors of Icebox Cookies.

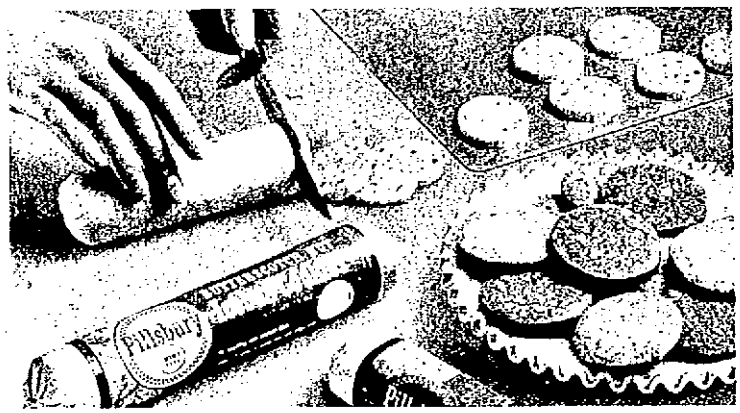

NEW DINNER IDEA READY FOR YOUR OVEN Just open the can and pop 'em in a pan . . . and bake. Please your family with hot and fresh Quick Cinnamon Rolls . . . home baked by you!

BISCUITS WITHOUT FLOURING A FINGER Hot and home baked . . . no mixing, no rolling, no cutting. There are 10 unbaked biscuits in each can . . . ready to bake up fluffy, light and golden crusted.

NOW BAKE YOUR OWN CARAMEL NUT ROLLS Only 2 minutes getting-ready time . . . you can bake 'em for breakfast. Serve the same buttery nut meat flavor Mother used to get the hard way.

NEWEST MIRACLE! JUST SLICE AND BAKE! Real icebox cookie dough . . . not a mix, not frozen! Comes in three "Gimme one!" flavors children love. Each flavor makes about 4 dozen.

IN PRAGUE, Communist police clear way for Olga and Harold through applauding crowds after their wedding this spring.

WHAT'S HAPPENED TO

THE OLYMPIC LOVERS?

Olga and Harold Connolly melted the Iron Curtain—but their problems have only begun

IN BOSTON, the Connollys stroll. Here too people still stop them to offer congratulations.

by JOHN DEVANEY

BOSTON, MASS.

In this month of brides – and grooms – probably no couple faces married life with more delicate adjusting to do than Olga and Harold Connolly, the athletes who fell in love at the Olympics last November and shattered the Iron Curtain with the strength of that love.

The two first met outside an equipment shed in Melbourne, Australia. Connolly and two other brawny hammer throwers were standing at the door, impatiently shifting from one foot to another, as Olga Fikotova, Czechoslovakia's top girl athlete, took her time about picking a discus. When she finally came out, she started to apologize.

"Then I saw Harold," she says, "and I forgot everything else."

The 25-year-old Connolly, America's best hammer thrower despite a left arm withered from a birth injury, felt the same way. He courted Olga, 24, during the Olympics (they both won first-place medals), then followed her to Czechoslovakia, where their entreaties won over Communist officials. This spring, to the delight of the entire world, Harold was allowed to marry Olga and take her with him to America.

This, it seemed, was the happy ending to their story. Actually, PARADE has learned, their problems have just begun. The Connollys face five obstacles that might dismay the most strong-hearted of lovers:

1) Olga, studying to be a doctor, had only 18 months to go to graduate from a Czech medical school; now she must take rigorous tests to enter jammed U.S. schools. These tests will be especially tough because her knowledge of English is only fair. And if she is admitted, she may be required to study longer than 18 months.

2) She must accustom herself to the ways of a democracy after living since she was 7 largely under the regimentation of dictatorships—first Nazi, then Communist.

3) Harold must find a new job. He had been a history teacher in the school system here, "but a teacher's salary," he points out, "isn't enough to send your wife through medical school."

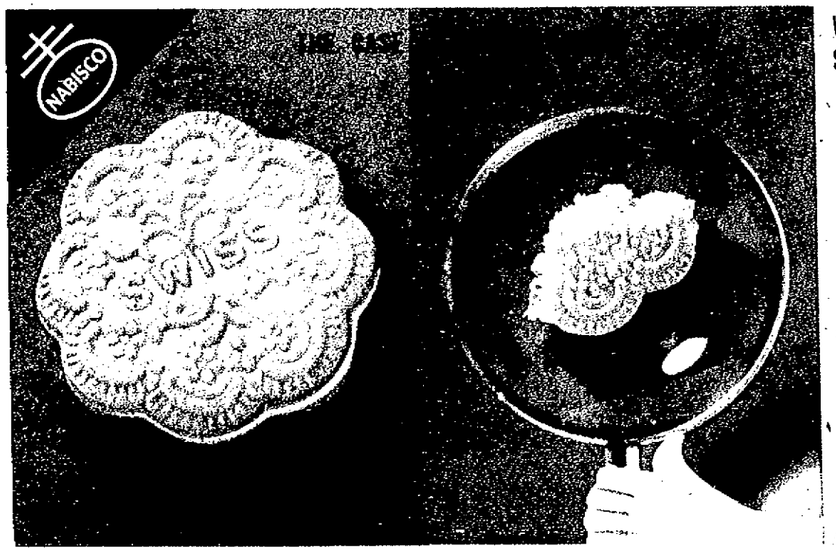

Peace and Time

4) Both must duck the avalanche of reporters, photographers, business agents and just plain well-wishers who have given them little peace, and less time for themselves, since they arrived here two months ago.

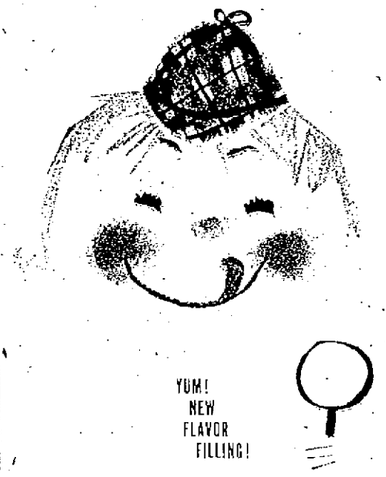

5) Each must learn to live with, and respect, the religious faith of the other. (Harold is a Roman Catholic, Olga a Lutheran.)

Above all else, like every other young

AT MEET, Harold hurls a hammer (l.) and Olga tosses a discus. Her best mark, 176', is 11' shy of the world record.

U.S. women's fashions don't impress Olga, but she calls baseball a 'perfect' sport couple, they must absorb the ordinary day-to-day bounces of marriage's often bumpy road.

"We'll be all right," says the 6', 220-lb. Connolly. "There's been an awful lot of kind people who have already offered to help us get started."

What will help most, believes Harold's mother, Margaret (they're staying at her apartment here till they can find one of their own), is Harold's "extraordinary patience. When he was going to Boston College," she says, "he'd come home after a hard day of practicing and teach every boy in the neighborhood, or so it seemed, how to throw the hammer. He's a natural-born teacher. He'll steer Olga through this period of getting adjusted to things."

Olga has a quicker temper. When photographers kept them posing for an unreasonable time after they landed in New York, she suddenly snatched the willing-to-oblige Harold by the arm, snapped, "Thank you, gentlemen," and stalked off.

A Big Tease

Around Connolly, though, his 5'10", 160-lb. (but slender) bride, who can sling a discus farther than any woman competing today, is a typical "clinging vine." When he's talking to somebody else, she hangs firmly to his arm, looks blissfully into his eyes. When they're together, she coos into his ear, nuzzles at his cheek. Before other people she teases him lovingly. (While PARADE's Ben Ross was taking today's cover, she giggled at Harold: "You look terrible.")

But she's no scatterbrain, has definite opinions. Examples:

• U.S. women's fashions do not impress her. "They're not cut the way I like," she says. (Her favorite dress is the yellow print she's wearing on the cover, on page 17 and below.) She's amazed, though, that well-dressed American women can buy ready-made clothes; in Czechoslovakia, where ready-made clothes are sack-like, she made all her own things herself.

• She's struck by men's fashions here. "In Europe," she says, "men do not dress nearly as well, mainly because they are not as interested as American men in clothes."

• Baseball enchants her. An avid follower of Ted Williams, she thinks baseball is a "perfect" sport — "because you've got to have good arms, good legs, good eyes, good everything."

• TV commercials irritate her, not because of what they proclaim but the way they are woven into programs. "When she's watching a baseball game on TV," says Harold, "and there suddenly appears a ball player smoking a cigaret, she thinks that's part of the game and gets confused."

• The contrasts in American living fascinate her. "It's hard to believe," she says, "that in 20 minutes one can go from the awful noise and dirt in the middle of Boston to Walden Pond [in the suburbs], where everything is so green and beautiful and peaceful." The Pond is her favorite spot, to date, in the U.S.; she and Harold go there often and take long walks around it, hand in hand.

Language, so far, hasn't been a great problem for her. Though she has a strong accent, she only occasionally has to call on Harold to supply her with a word.

In talking with people, however, she's sometimes confused by slang expressions. "It took her a couple of days," says Mrs. Connolly, laughing, "to get over the shock when she heard me say to somebody: 'Drop dead.' "

Will they continue active in sports? "Yes," says Harold, "as long as I can work at my job and Olga can finish her studies. We've accepted invitations to several track meets, in New York and California, but we've turned down others where the people invited us, not because they wanted us to compete, but because they wanted a sideshow to draw crowds.

"If possible, we'll enter the 1960 Olympics. Olga, however, won't be on the U.S. team; since she's still a Czech citizen, she will have to compete for her own country."

Right now, Connolly is wrestling with problems closer at hand: getting a job and getting his wife the education she needs. But, says Harold's mother, "If love always finds a way, then those two needn't worry about a thing." ■

AT BREAKFAST, Olga whips up toast. Her favorite U.S. "food": lemonade.

CROWN JEWEL JELL-O

When you want a really special treat to draw admiring "ohs" from your guests . . . try this elegant new Jell-O gelatin dessert.

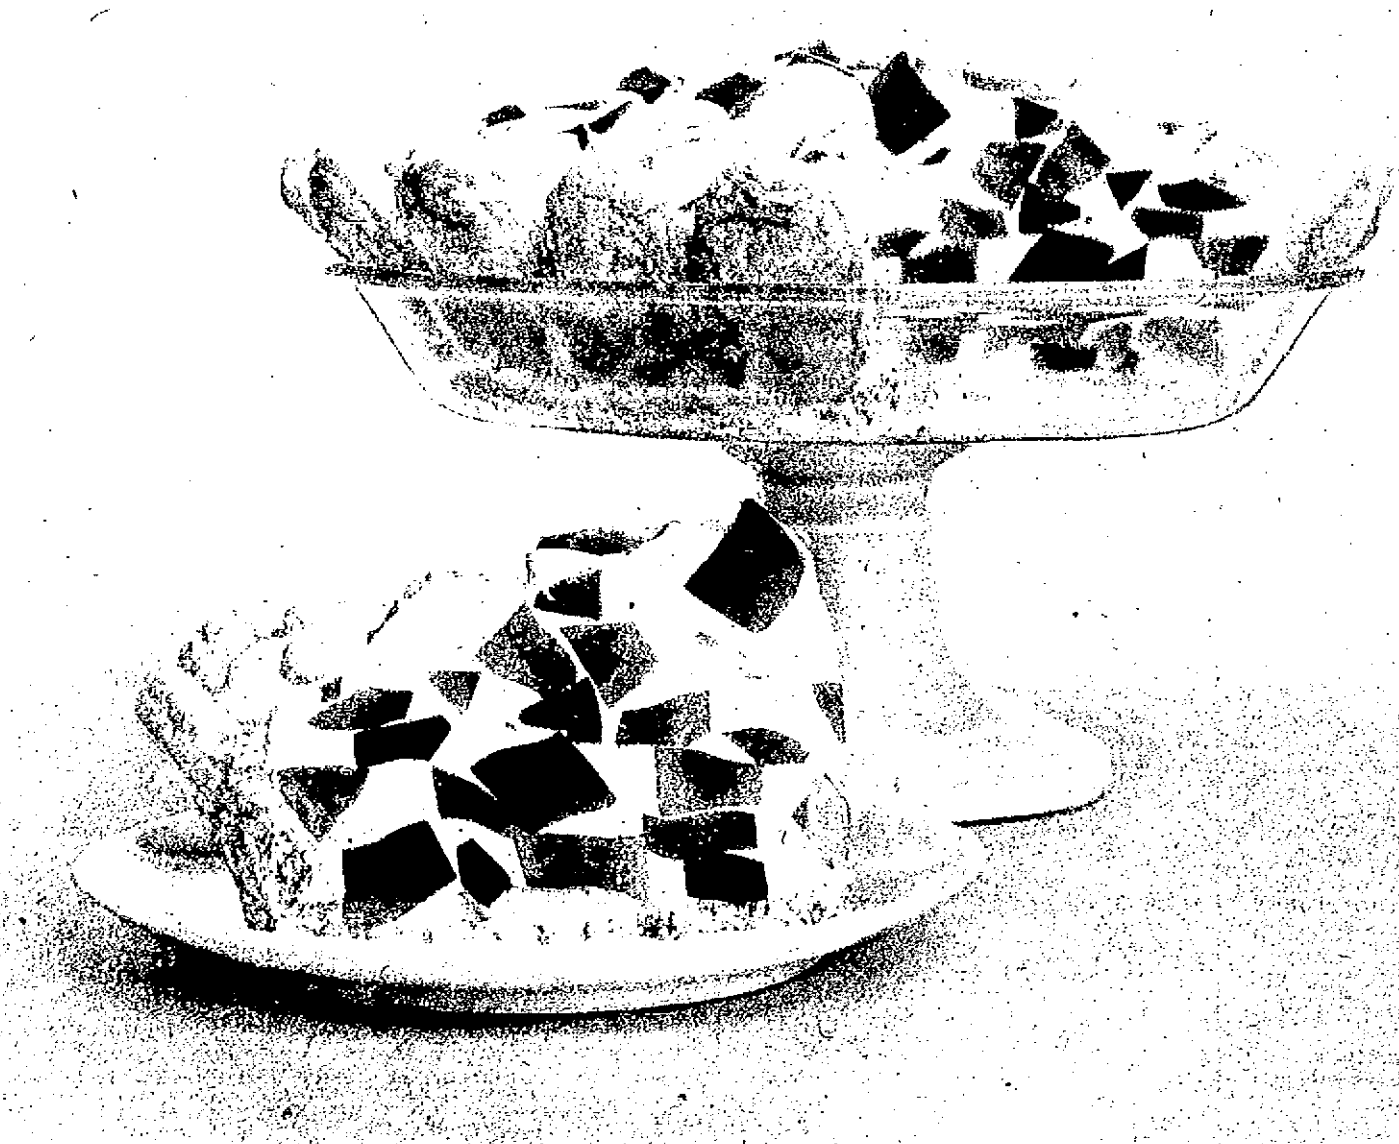

FIRST, prepare separately a package of Raspberry, Lime and Black Cherry Jell-O, using 1 cup hot water and ½ cup cold water for each. (Or create your own bright combination of flavors!) Pour into 3 shallow pans and chill until firm. Cut into ½-inch cubes.

NEXT, make the fluffy filling by heating ¼ cup sugar with 1 cup canned pineapple juice to boiling. Dissolve 1 package Strawberry Jell-O in the hot liquid. Add ½ cup cold water. Chill until just syrupy. Whip 2 cups cream (or non-fat dry milk, if desired) and fold it into the syrupy Jell-O. Fold in the little Jell-O jewels.

Now, line two 9-inch pie plates with ladyfingers (about 2 packages), and pour in the Jell-O mixture. Chill about 4 hours. Crown Jewel Jell-O serves 16 beautifully . . . and tastes every bit as delightful as it looks!

Hope Bennett talks with teenagers

Shy boy: "I like a boy very much but he's too shy to speak to me. My girl friend and I spend most of our time at the beach giggling and talking. He seems to notice me then, but isn't friendly. What can I do?" — D.L., Knoxville, Tenn.

Older girls I talked to say you are doing just about the worst thing possible. When girls giggle, boys often feel they are being laughed at. And boys, especially shy boys, can't bear to be laughed at.

The girls suggest that you and your friends plan a picnic. Ask both boys and girls, being sure to include at least one boy this boy likes. To make him feel more at ease when you invite him, tell him who's coming. (If you don't want to invite him face to face, you may phone him.)

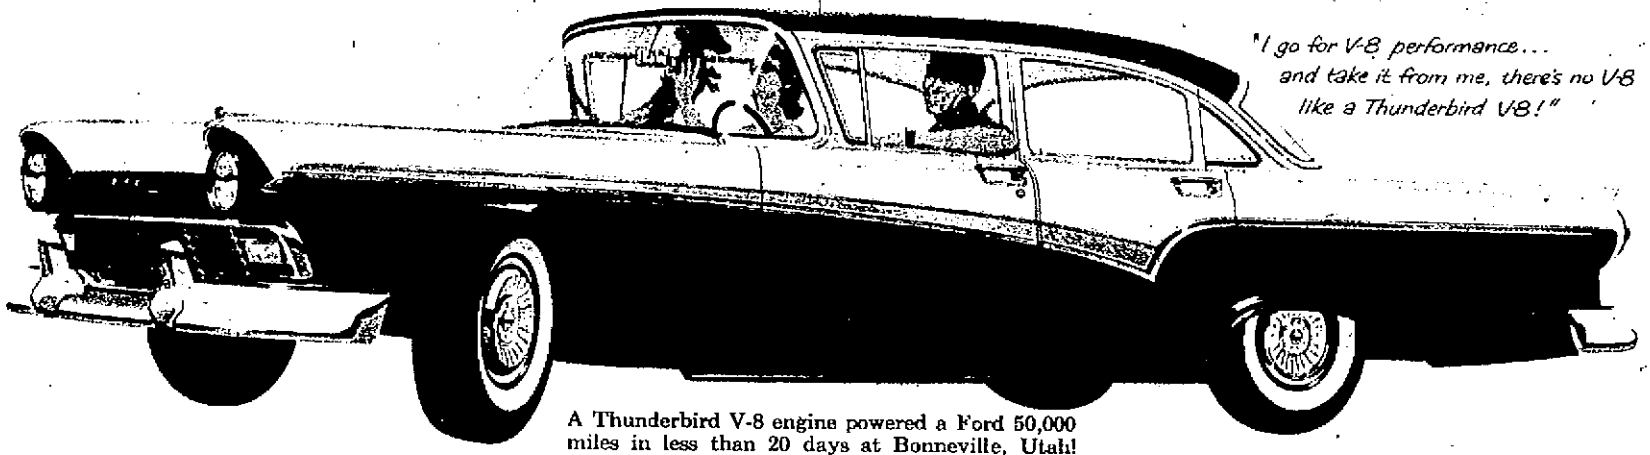

After the picnic, if he doesn't ask you out or show you any attention, don't continue to run after him. Shyness, especially in boys under 16, usually is just an indication that they are not ready to go out with girls.

Figure problem: "I have heavy thighs, and that's the one place I can't seem to lose weight. I'll be going to beach parties this summer and swimming at the club pool. What style bathing suit should I wear?" — Sheila Kay Neubauer, Indianapolis, Ind.

The advice of one girl I know is: "Buy a suit with a short, full skirt or 'little boy' shorts. Either will be more flattering than one which is skin tight about the thighs." She adds, "Tell Sheila to swim as much as possible; it's wonderful for reducing both hips and legs."

Girls in one Eastern boarding school do this exercise. Sit on the floor, supporting yourself with the palms of your hands — behind you. Bend left knee, keeping foot flat on the floor. Now slap your leg down hard. Repeat with the right leg. Continue doing this as fast as you can for five minutes each day. It helps!

NEW—FOR PICNICS

Torta di Parma, a favorite from northern Italy, is a delicious change for outdoor eating

by BETH MERRIMAN
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

In the shadow of the United Nations Building in New York City is a cheerful restaurant called Antolotti's, where "home-style" dishes of northern Italy are served. One of these is Torta di Parma, a delicious blend of chopped vegetables, cheese and rice, baked in a special pastry. It offers such possibilities for American picnics that May Antolotti was asked to take over PARADE's test kitchen and demonstrate how to make it.

Plenty of "elbow grease" is needed — one is not gentle with this dough — but it's fun. And the finished Torta can be carried right in its pan (left). It goes wonderfully with hot dogs (below) or other picnic meat, taking the place of starchy foods and eggs. Suggestion: Try it after a brisk swim!

TORTA DI PARMA

- 1¼ cups sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- 3 T. lukewarm water
- 1 medium head Savoy cabbage
- 2 medium onions
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese
- 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 4 cups cooked rice
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Few grains pepper
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten

Sift flour and salt together. Add 1 unbeaten egg; mix well. Add lukewarm water a little at a time. Now work the dough vigorously, lifting it up and "crashing" it down on a heavily floured board until it becomes elastic and cleans the board. Grease an aluminum tray or jelly-roll pan about 16" x 10" x 1". Roll dough paper-thin in a rectangle at least 4" longer and wider than the pan. Place in pan. Chop cabbage fine; wash thoroughly. Chop onions fine. Add to cabbage; saute in butter or margarine until soft but not brown. Add cheeses; stir until melted. Add rice, salt, pepper and beaten eggs; mix well; spread on dough in pan. Bring overhanging pastry up and over filling; pierce with tines of fork; pull away from sides of pan with fork. Break remaining egg on top; "scrub" over entire surface with a pastry brush. Bake in moderate oven (375°), 45 minutes or until golden brown. Cool, then chill. Serve cut into 12 squares.

Crime 1957

FOUR DEAD: Daniel Woolridge, 14, of St. Joseph, Mo., killed both of his parents, a brother and a sister just a couple of months ago. The mass slaying was preceded by an argument between Daniel and his father. The boy wanted to go for a ride. His father insisted it was too cold.

What makes a MASS MURDERER?

Here is new insight into multiple killing -- a sudden, savage crime that makes too many headlines

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

LAST MONTH, in Rye, N. Y., a 14-year-old boy shot his mother and sister dead with a .22 rifle. Police said his mother had "rebuked him mildly" for not doing his homework.

A little earlier, an Illinois businessman "couldn't stand to leave" his mother and three daughters in order to remarry — so he killed all four, then himself.

In St. Joseph, Mo., another 14-year-old "went crazy" and slew his mother, father, sister and brother.

In Gallion, Ohio, police mowed down a 28-year-old worker who had just killed three other persons.

These are typical recent cases of mass, or multiple, murder. And do you recall the name of Howard Unruh? Back in 1949, in Camden, N. J., he was seized by blind rage and shot down 13 people.

Fortunately, such outbreaks don't occur every day. But they do occur, and they keep occurring — year in, year out. You may read of one tomorrow morning. The killer, often considered "respectable" by those who know him, suddenly goes berserk. A whole family may be wiped out; passersby may be slaughtered. It is like the unplanned devastation of a volcano, a cyclone.

But we can understand natural disasters (even if we can't control them). What makes a seemingly "normal" human being turn mass killer? What triggers the deed? Are there danger signals that might be acted on to prevent the outburst and save innocent lives?

The answers are not easy, but intelligent students of human behavior are beginning to find them. PARADE has just talked with a top authority in the field, New York clinical psychologist Emanuel F. Hammer. For years Dr. Hammer has probed into mass murder. He has studied several such killers at close range. His findings throw new light on one of the most terrifying of all crimes.

First of all, the mass murderer rarely plans his act. When it is over, he can hardly remember it; indeed, he may be as shocked by it as any onlooker. Remember, he is a "respectable" citizen. Often he is so quiet, even prim, that no one — perhaps not even he — would picture him as a killer.

Thus he differs markedly from the murderer who plans, and kills, in cold blood. Arithmetically speaking, John Gilbert Graham — the young man who planted a bomb in an airliner to kill his mother and, in passing, 43 others — was a "mass" murderer. But he arranged his crime with cool foreknowledge of its outcome. So, of course, do the hired gunmen of the underworld.

The multiple killer we are considering here explodes in a dreadful moment. As one result, following his outburst of murderous fury, he almost invariably is caught. Or he may destroy himself along with his victims. He does not plan an escape, because he did not plan the murders in the first place.

Who the Killer Is

Let's get a close-up of a mass killer as disclosed by Dr. Hammer's studies.

First, the murderer is almost always a male — child or adult. (Women are much less prone to commit violent anti-social acts.) Second, the killer is likely to be afflicted with schizophrenia, a mental disease marked by loss of contact with reality, gradual mental breakdown and sometimes feelings of persecution and/or delusions.

For example, one mass murderer told Dr. Hammer: "The Clancys are after me; they're trying to get me." Another claimed that people persisted in "blowing poison dust under my door." A third, while talking to the psychologist, suddenly took off his shoe and smashed it down on the floor at some unseen "enemy," then calmly put the shoe back on. Still another said he heard religious voices which "told me to kill."

Such mental distortions are particularly tragic in children. One youngster examined by Dr. Hammer was only 8, but he had the makings of a killer. A farm child, he already had tried to do away with four other children "who wouldn't play with me." Lacking another weapon, he had released the brake on a tractor in hopes it would roll downhill and crush all four.

FIVE DEAD: Placid-looking Herman Behn, of W. Frankfort, Ill., posed for this photo with his mother and daughters. Later, he took their lives and his own.

A third point is that mass murderers seem not only meek and mild but extremely self-righteous. Their behavior is so exaggeratedly quiet that it caricatures morality itself. Some mass murderers are devoted Bible readers and quote Scripture readily.

Inside, however, the mass killer is — as noted — like a volcano waiting to erupt. His façade of restraint is merely a cover-up for hatred and resentment. Probably he has been tense his whole life.

Thus his all-pervasive "morality" is the unsteady lid which contains his rage and hatred. Because he is so self-righteous, he cannot allow himself the luxury of a mild show of temper. He cannot pound the desk, or even use profanity. If he could, perhaps he would not kill. Instead he bottles up his feelings until the pressure grows too great to bear.

Then, suddenly and unpredictably, the lid flies off with fantastic violence. The volcano erupts. The "good citizen" turns killer — because he no longer can restrain himself.

What is the spark that lights the fuse? It may be a series of arguments — over a brief period — with a parent or other relative. The tension within is so great that even a mild argument might be the last link in the chain leading to mass murder.

13 DEAD: This is the dazed expression Howard Unruh wore after his 1949 murder spree in Camden, N. J.

In one case, a man murdered three people after he was discharged from his job. The firing proved to be his emotional boiling point.

More likely, though, alcohol provides the spark. The mass murderer does not go on a real bender. He drinks just enough to dissolve his inhibitions. Then, he has the "strength" to kill. Alcohol is not a cause, but a contributing factor to his sickness.

Once the murderer's controls are dissolved — by whatever cause — the dam of emotions is sundered. Picture the killer in an uncontrollable "temper tantrum," only half-conscious of what he is doing. Later he may describe himself as having "seen red" or "seen white." He rushes to pick up whatever weapon is handy and blindly flays out.

Why He Keeps Killing

Such erupted rage usually can be sustained only a few minutes. Howard Unruh's lasted about an hour. In that time, he fired a .45 revolver crazily about in the street, in stores, in apartments. He did not even know many of his victims.

Usually the mass murderer seeks to kill only one person, the real object of his hatred. Failing to find that person, he becomes further enraged, crashes about wildly killing anyone in sight. One killer really sought to slay his mother. He picked up a weapon, frantically searched the house for her. She had hidden. Her son's rage mounted. Furiously, he tore into the street and murdered several other persons. Had he been able to find his mother, that man likely would have killed only her.

After the fury is released — by killing — the mass murderer is a completely changed person, for a while. He returns to his old, docile self. The volcano is quiet once again. When apprehended, the killer is in a kind of daze. Gradually he begins to feel greatly relieved. The tensions are gone for the moment. He is limp, without energy. His "steam" has been released. He does not hear the voices. He probably is more contented than at any time since his childhood.

Sooner or later he emerges from this "twilight" state. The law steps in. The killer's first reaction to his own crime is likely to be sheer disbelief. Once convinced that he actually has taken life, he still feels he should not be punished.

The mass killer usually is committed to a mental institution. In his state of "no-tension" he is harmless, having reverted to his former righteous self. But this state lasts only a few months at best. Gradually the tensions mount again. His hands may begin to shake, his eyes to dart from side to side, his feet to tap nervously. He becomes increasingly less responsive in casual discussion. The volcano is building up again.

Now, how does an individual start along this harrowing road? One answer — a partial one only — lies in what kind of parents he has. Parents of mass killers show many characteristics in common. Usually there is a domineering mother who runs the household with an iron hand. The father often is a passive nonentity who has little to do with rearing the child. Conversely, he may be a brutal type, sometimes an alcoholic, who beats the child and thus turns him toward his mother.

In this situation the son cannot follow the normal course and pattern himself after his father. Rather, he takes his cues from his mother. This can lead to deep-seated emotional conflicts involving the son's masculinity and his relationship to his mother. If the conflicts eventually lead to a homicidal outburst, the mother may well be the target.

What Can We Do?

Fortunately for society, mass killers are few and far between. For the most part, Dr. Hammer says, they exist because there are not enough mental-health facilities in the U. S. to spot the potential killer early in life. Dr. Hammer believes such persons can be detected through psychological tests. For example, he says the symptoms which ultimately led to Howard Unruh's shocking slaughter of 13 people could have been detected five years or more beforehand.

From this comes Dr. Hammer's suggestion for a way to prevent mass murders in the future — early detection via mental-health examinations in elementary and high schools. This calls for facilities, personnel — and money. But it would be worth it.

"Now we accept the once-a-year physical checkup," Dr. Hammer points out. "The day we learn to accept the once-every-five-years mental checkup, we will be on the way to preventing mass murder — and many other types of destructive behavior." ■

THE SCHNOZZ, shown here at a TV rehearsal, may be the one man in show business with all friends, no enemies.

MY PAL, JIMMY DURANTE

by EDDIE CANTOR

EDITOR'S NOTE: Eddie Cantor, one of America's all-time favorite entertainers, made his first money as a singing waiter at Coney Island in 1909. There he met a shy, big-nosed piano player who became his lifelong friend. This intimate account of that friendship — one of the warmest "profiles" of Jimmy Durante ever written — is condensed from Cantor's current best-selling autobiography, *Take My Life.

The piano player at Carey Walsh's saloon was a thin homely kid of 16 with brown hair and a good sized nose. He was shy, but he was a great improviser and had a flair for showmanship; he could fake through anything and make it sound like music. And generous! He was the kind of guy — if you brought him a sandwich he'd want to give you a whole roast beef. His name was Jimmy Durante.

We got along from the first night, and from the first night we never turned down a request. Jimmy tells the story this way: "Say a guy asked for Springtime in Kalamazoo, which neither of us even ever heard of... I'd fake a melody and Eddie'd turn to the customer and sing 'Oh, it's springtime in Kalamazoooo,' then turn away and double-talk softly, 'My thoughts go wandering back to you, I'll never ever be *no*thun but blue...' All the time I'm pounding away fortissimo, then Eddie'd swing back to the customer and moider 'em with 'When its springtime in Kal-a-ma-zoo.' Sometimes the guy was so drunk he wouldn't notice. But sometimes he wasn't that drunk. 'What you singing, kid?' Eddie'd get a bewilderin' look and say, 'Why, Springtime in Kalamazoo.' 'That ain't the song I know,' the guy'd say, and Eddie'd open his big eyes innocent-like and say, 'You mean there are two of 'em?' "

But Jimmy wasn't ambitious. He had taken music lessons as a kid; he didn't need them, his playing was spontaneous and it was just a way to earn spending money.

I used to say, "Jimmy, you've got to do something different if you're ever going to make a big hit. The audience likes you. Why don't you get up on the floor and say something to them, or just sit at the piano and make remarks while you play?"

"Gee, Eddie, I couldn't do that," he'd say. "I'd be afraid people would laugh at me."

He was so right; they were going to laugh and keep on laughing for a lifetime. But he didn't start talking until 1923 when Lou Clayton joined him at the Club Durant. Their act was a routine of songs, jokes and impromptu fun that caused an immediate sensation. The underworld and the upperworld discovered Clayton, Jackson and Durante at the same time.

Ad Libs — Plus

Because the trio had no material, they had to depend on the impromptu. Lou would stamp out on the floor yelling, "Where is he, where's Durante?" 'Eddie, from the kitchen, would come, yelling, "Where's Jimmy? Where's the Schnozz?" They'd look in the men's room, in the ladies' room, in the kitchen, then one of them would shout, "We've struck oil," and they'd come in leading Durante by the nose.

He'd point to his schnozz. "Dere it is, folks, de real thing. It ain't gonna bite 'cha and any famous personages in the dump can come up and autygraph it." They'd aim their quips at the Walter Winchells, the George M. Cohans, the Owney Maddens, the Damon Runyon characters of Broadway. At the end of the evening a fellow like George M.

People care about Durante

Cohan would leave $100 on the register and say, "Ring this up. I've had too much fun just to pay the check."

Lou Clayton was the most important person in Jimmy's life. A tough little guy with a sledge-hammer punch, he'd wandered into the Club Durant one night after dropping $98,000 in a floating crap game. He was a great gambler, he was also a great dancer. He did a little soft-shoe number at the club that night and Jimmy asked him to come in and join him.

From the day they started their partnership, Clayton handled all Jimmy's business and was responsible for bringing him up into the big time. They were always rowdy, always roughhouse. People think that breaking up a piano is new for Jimmy; but when I see him take an instrument apart I'm back in 1925 again. We're having the annual benefit for Surprise Lake Camp where I was sent as a kid. Clayton, Jackson and Durante play the show and Durante demolishes the piano. Wrecks it. The theater charges me $400.

Payment in Advance

Next day, when Jimmy and I lunch at the Astor, I say, "Thanks for coming to the benefit, Jimmy. Next time, do me a favor, stay home." I tell him about the piano and Jimmy sends me a check for $400 and a note; "This'll take care of the piano I'm gonna bust at the next benefit!" To this day, he's the biggest single contributor to Surprise Lake Camp.

The trio of friends never broke up. When Jimmy got too big for the act, Clayton stayed on as his business manager and Jackson stayed on as his friend. Both the boys were on the payroll of every Durante picture, but they were backstage. No man in show business ever had the intense loyalties Jimmy has had. He gave the word loyal a new dimension. To this day he pays Clayton's widow, Ida, a commission for every job he does. The cruelest blow in Jimmy's life was Lou Clayton's death. In his terrible grief, he retreated from show business.

What finally jolted Jimmy out of his apathy was television. We talked about it one day. "I'm gonna take a crack at it, Eddie," he said. "This is what Lou'd want. He told me before he died, he told me this thing was comin' along big and it was for me." Lou was right, the TV audience loved Jimmy.

You see, there's something that comes through the camera onto the screen — it's not just a phonograph, it's a fluoroscope. People laugh at Durante — but they care about him.

To me the answer is simple. Jimmy loves people. The minute they see that kisser they know he loves 'em. And that's why the end of his program where he walks away into the smaller and smaller pools of light, tugs at their hearts and brings tears. It's like Jimmy was leaving for good. They know instinctively that he'd rather be up there entertaining them than anything else in the world.

Let me show you what I mean. On New Year's Day 1943 Ida and I were down at Palm Springs. I'd gotten up early to take a walk, and of all the people to meet in the village, suddenly around the corner comes that nose.

"Eddie!" he yells.

"Jimmy! Happy New Year!" And we throw our arms around each other.

"Eddie," he says, in the middle of the embrace, "I'm just thinkin'. This must be a tough time for the guys over there in that hospital." The Government had taken over El Mirador Hotel and made it into Torney General Hospital. "Here it's New Year's Day, they're sick, some of 'em have amputations. What da ya say we go over and entertain 'em?"

I thought it was a great idea and suggested we stop off at his bungalow first to rehearse. His place is always full of pals: Jules Buffano, his piano player through the years, Eddie Jackson, who's been with him for 35 years, Jack Roth, his drummer from the old Club Durant, and Lou Cohn, who since Clayton's death has handled most of Jimmy's business. They're not at all surprised when we start in rehearsing at 9 a.m., New Year's Day. We go to the hospital at 10:30, stay till 5:00.

A Good Day's Work

We sing every song we ever sang in the days at Coney Island. Through the years Jimmy and I have appeared many times together at benefits, on radio and now on television, and we always go back into the old routine and have a ball. We clown, we kid, we reminisce about the time I convinced him we should run for President and Vice-President. By 5 o'clock it's time for the patients' dinner and we say good-by. We're both so hoarse we can hardly talk, especially Jimmy, who starts off hoarse. As we walk down the street, he can barely croak, "Eddie, tell me. Don't a t'ing like dis make ya feel good?"

—because he loves them

I know of no one as interested in giving of himself as Jimmy Durante. And it shows. He hasn't an enemy in the world and his friends don't just love him, they worship him. He sums up his philosophy this way, "I figger there are more good people in the world than bad ones. I don't mind if a gent scratches a match on my furniture so long as he's careful to go with the grain."

A Day at the Races

He has a quality of tenderness you seldom see in a man. If you're sad, he's sad. When I was in the hospital with a heart attack, Jimmy came every day. I was allowed no visitors, but he came every day and sat in the corridor outside my room.

After I was well enough to go out he invited me down to Del Mar. He spends part of every summer vacation there, playing the horses. "Ya gotta come, Eddie. It's wonderful for ya. Down here nobody bodders ya." So I went.

The first day at Del Mar he and I both lose on the first three races. Jimmy doesn't bet big, neither do I, but of course we like to win. So after the third race I run into a man I know from Louisville, Kentucky. This fellow owns a stable and he doesn't give tips; but he does tell me that they have a horse today and the horse is ready. I tell this to Jimmy.

"Jimmy, I'm going to bet $10."

"Eddie," he says, "ya mortify me. On this kind of a FBI inside I'll bet 50 bucks."

The horse comes in and pays $22. Jimmy sends me to look again for my friend from Louisville. This time he tells me about another horse. I bet $20, Durante bets $100. The horse comes in and pays $10. From then on we don't lose. We win on every race. Jimmy's elated, he's clowning, then suddenly he gets serious. He claps one hand on my shoulder and says, "Eddie, promise me one thing. No matter what happens today — we go back to show business."

We both went back. It would be a great loss if Jimmy ever abandoned show business. There's just no one else who can send out those currents of fun and love. I, for one, never have missed (unless I've been on a plane) a Durante broadcast or his TV show. For me it has an added meaning. I hear and see this guy today and all the time I'm seeing double, another guy, a kid 16 with brownish hair, playing the piano like a son of a gun for the customers at Carey Walsh's. ■

Still pals after 48 years, here are Jimmy and Eddie as they look today. They've come a long way from Walsh's Coney Island spot.

PIKES PEAK—ANOTHER TEST GROUND FOR SUPERFUEL

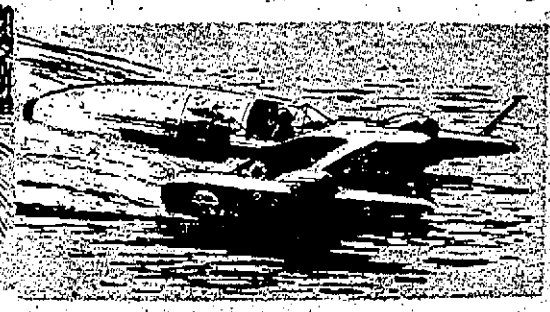

To get fuel that makes cars really go, you've got to test where the going is toughest. We did just that. At Pikes Peak every racing car winner since 1946 used Mobil fuel; every stock car winner used Mobilgas Special.

So, out of the testing done at Pikes Peak, came the Superfuel— today's Mobilgas Special. For clean, quick getaway, safe passing on high speed highways, put Superfuel in your high horsepower car.

403 MPH AT BONNEVILLE! All important records on America's most tortuous test course, Bonneville Salt Flats, have been racked up with Mobil fuels. John Cobb's Railton Mobil powered car ran a cool 403 mph. A Renault gas turbine car reached 191.2 mph. Out of this know-how came the Superfuel – Mobilgas Special.

SPORTS CAR RACING–Mobilgas Special has been the fuel chosen in the West's major sports car races for five years. Out of this experience came Mobilgas Special – the Superfuel. We combined pass-power octanes in powerful gasoline with MC; chemical additives to give smooth, knock-free power in today's high horsepower cars.

JET BOAT RECORD–at Lake Mead, Donald Campbell's jet propelled Bluebird ran a record 216.2 mph. The fuel was Mobil! In the Gold Cup boat races, four out of five winners since 1952 were powered with Mobil fuel. Wherever races are to be won or records to be set, champions look to Mobil for the fuels that mean victory.

Bootleg Builders Thrive; L.B. Cracks Down

By GEORGE WEEKS

Bootleg building is big business here and has probably been increasing in recent years—but Long Beach city officials are tightening controls in an effort to curtail the illicit construction.

In the language of the trade, bootleg building means any kind of construction done without permits required by city or state laws. It includes general construction and electrical and plumbing installation.

No responsible official would hazard an estimate as to the extent of the illegal activity.

* * * *

"We know it goes on, just as other laws are violated," said Edward M. O'Connor, city superintendent of building. "The only cases we have on record are those we detect—and they are considerable."

Interior installations such as plumbing and electrical work in existing buildings are the main problem, O'Connor added. Outside violations can usually be detected by inspectors in the field.

One reason for the suspected bootlegging increase is the growing trend toward the installation of garbage disposal and dishwashing devices. Both of these categories require permits, as do nearly all construction jobs except routine maintenance and small roofing replacements.

* * * *

O'Connor pointed out that the 20 inspectors in the field have no way of finding out about interior violations unless they are tipped off or happen to see a contractor's truck parked in front of an address where no permit is listed.

Members of Plumbers Local 494 have expressed concern about violations in that industry.

A three-man committee headed by Business Agent Harold McCray has been appointed to discuss trade promotion with master plumbers and contractors.

One of the committee members, E. J. Galvin, financial secretary of the union, said the bootlegging problem probably will come up in the course of the discussion.

Another union member, John T. Verant, a journeyman plumber, said the city may be deprived of $300,000 annual revenue in permits that should be issued for all types of construction work.

Officials consider that estimate much too high. An audit report just issued by City Auditor John R. Mansell lists total revenue of the department last fiscal year at only $198,237.11, against budget expenditures of $251,015.34.

Permit fees range upward from a minimum of $2 for a project costing $500 or less. Charges equivalent to one-half the permit fees are levied for checking plans, with a few exceptions.

Until recently, the usual money cost to an illicit contractor was a doubling of the permit fee if illegal work was detected, plus a requirement that any work done in violation of the code be brought up to standard.

Now the city is enforcing a $10 investigation fee for illegal electrical projects. A similar fee will become effective July 1 in the plumbing code under terms of recent amendments favored by the industry.

Since most of the violations are on smaller jobs, the effect will be to increase the cost.

Amendments in preparation for submission to the City Council will provide a minimum investigation fee of $10 for violations in general construction, with a sliding scale upward for larger projects.

In addition, the department prosecutes flagrant offenders with the assistance of five investigators in this area for the Contractors State License Board. The latter agency also presses for revocation of state licenses of offending contractors.

In one instance a neon sign constructor's license was revoked and he was sentenced to serve eight weekends in jail after pleading guilty to 21 violations. He gave up his business and left town before serving the sentence..

THE INVESTIGATORS handle thousands of complaints in the course of a year and usually have 500 active at any given time.

One further step taken by the Building Department and recommended by Mansell's office puts additional teeth in the enforcement of the double-penalty requirement.

In a recent change of procedure, field inspectors telephone

Russ H-Weapon 'Thorium Bomb'

NIIGATA, Japan (AP)—A Japanese nuclear physicist said Saturday the Soviet nuclear weapon exploded April 16 "was apparently a thorium bomb."

Dr. Seitaro Koyama, professor at Niigata University, said: "My assumption is based on analysis of atomic fallout collected here April 17, which contained no uranium at all but thorium 231 among other elements."

He reported the thorium, a comparatively rare radioactive element occuring in combination in thorite, monazite and certain other minerals, constituted 1 per cent of the fallout.

* * * *

RECORD HIGH radioactivity was recorded over Japan after the April 16 blast, described by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission in Washington as the fifth Russian test set off over a period of 13 days.

"The test occurred at a site in Central Asia previously used for such operations," the AEC said April 18.

"The weapon tested was one of the largest thus far in the current Soviet series."

The AEC declined comment on Dr. Koyama's statement.

Significance of the presence of thorium in fallout from the Soviet weapon apparently would be that the Russians are using this element to make nuclear bombs instead of uranium or its products, which the West uses.

The Russians have been reported experimenting with thorium as an atomic explosive for a number of years.

* * * *

THORIUM HAS been found in many parts of Asia and beyond the Arctic circle in Norway, so it presumably is available in the Soviet Union.

Dr. Koyama told a meteorological conference in Tokyo in April of 1956 he believed the Russians had exploded a new-type H-bomb using thorium in their nuclear tests in March of that year.

Japan to End Curbs on Red China Trade

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi has informed the U. S. government that Japan soon will follow Britain's lead and cut restrictions on trade with Communist China to the level of the western embargo against Russia.

Informants said Japan will act as soon as the 15-nation Allied Committee on China Trade Controls meeting in Paris formally confirms the American defeat in the embargo battle.

That decision is expected soon — at least within the next few weeks. Diplomatic sources here said an eight-nation majority of the committee has decided to vote to scrap the special embargo list which made curbs on exports to Red China more strict than those on sales to Russia and eastern Europe for the past seven years.

* * * *

KISHI PROMISED President Eisenhower Japan would be careful to avoid shipping any strategic materials to Communist China.

He was understood to have predicted that Japan's annual trade with Red China would increase to around 100 million dollars each way, compared with 1956 exports of 60 million dollars to China and imports of 80 million dollars.

The Japanese leader found that U.S. officials had what he considered an "exaggerated" idea of how much trade Japan wanted to conduct with the Peking regime.

He explained that Japan, acting on her own, probably would not have gone as far as Britain in lowering the China trade barriers. But now, he said, the majority of the Allied committee had agreed to follow the British lead and Japan can not afford to hold back.

IT'S WAGON WEEK IN L.B. SHOWROOMS

Station wagons in all their practical glory will blossom this week in new-car dealers' showrooms across the city.

Observing "Wagon Week," dealers will feature special station-wagon displays and offer attractive values on this popular vehicle. A special section of today's Independent, Press-Telegram features pictures and stories explaining the practicality of station-wagon ownership.

PUTTING SPEEDERS 'ON THE BEAM'

In full view of traffic, Long Beach radar patrol car awaits speeders who don't believe in signs. The car, working with motor officers in front, went into action Wednesday but citations will not be issued until July 3. Intervening period is for "education-demonstration." Radar to Check Absent Minded

This is another traffic safety article by Independent, Press-Telegram reporter Bert Resnik. A previous article of Resnik's, which recounted in grim detail 24 local traffic deaths, has been credited with being a "powerful factor" in reducing traffic fatalities locally.

By BERT RESNIK

I'm the first person in Long Beach to be pinched by an aluminum speed cop.

The pinch didn't hurt for it came during a demonstration of radar's speed-detecting abilities.

It was the radar mechanism in an aluminum box that caught me Wednesday, but I knew about the trap.

In fact, police made sure the traffic lanes were clear before I took the bait.

The radar car was at Judson Ave. and Pacific Coast Hwy. I zipped by it at 68 miles per hour.

Though I knew it was coming, the wail of the motorcycle officer's siren trebled through my brain like a million horns of fear.

There is something terrifying about the whine of a motorcycle officer's siren. You know the policeman's not going to shoot you. He's not even going to slap your wrist.

* * * *

BUT I'VE SEEN war heroes turn pale as paste under this clarion summons to pull over to the curb.

It's an experience not soon forgotten — and that's good.

I had obeyed the clarion summons. Officer Bland Watkins wheeled up and played his role like Gary Cooper prepping for an Oscar.

"Sir," he said. "Your speed has been checked by radar. You have been going 62 miles in a 25-mile zone."

I almost smiled.

"You are wrong, officer," I replied. "I definitely was not going 62 miles an hour. I was doing 68."

* * * *

IT WAS ONE of the happiest moments of my life.

But it turned out I was

Potent U.S. Jets Tuned for S. Korea

SEOUL, Korea (U.P.)—The Allies began gearing their outmoded defenses in Korea Saturday for any attack by the beefed-up Communist forces to the north.

Observers said late-model U. S. jet fighter planes capable of handling virtually anything the Communists can put in the air are being prepared for shipment from Japan to the Republic of Korea early next week.

The ROK army canceled all leaves for its 700,000 men and went on full alert after the United Nations Command's notice to North Korea on Friday that as a result of the illegal Red buildup the allies will rearm their own forces with up-to-date weapons and scrap the clause in the 1953 armistice treaty forbidding such rearmament.

* * * *

ROK DEFENSE officials denied that their alert was designed to prepare the country for a possible retaliatory Communist move, but this was the impression received by the average man in the street in Seoul, the capital.

The South Koreans were jubilant at the news that the United States and its allies planned to modernize defenses.

Pigs in 'Star' Role of Today's A-Test

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (AP)—Pigs—835 of them—have a starring role in today's scheduled "above nominal" atomic test.

The shot, fifth in the current nuclear test series, will be exploded from a balloon at 6:30 a.m.—if the weather is right.

This will be the first shot of the series above nominal—more than 20 kilotons or about as powerful as the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

* * * *

THE PIGS will be used in two of 33 military-effects projects to be conducted in conjunction with the blast. In one project, 760 pigs will be exposed at varying distances from ground zero. Authorities hope an examination of the animals after the blast will extend knowledge of treament of injuries resulting from exposure to heat, radiation and pressure.

In another experiment, 75 pigs will be covered with material used in military clothing. Six to eight dogs and a number of rabbits also will be used. The military later will study the effects of the blast on the material.

The Federal Civil Defense Administration also will conduct tests on the effect of the blast on mass shelters, family-type shelters and a vault.

* * * *

FOODS — PACKAGED and raw—also will be exposed. Civil Defense men will try to decontaminate some of the food with laboratory equipment following the shot. The rest will be sent to Kansas State College of Agriculture and Applied Science at Manhattan for study.

In another FCDA test, the effects of radiation on vacuum containers and blood-substitute solutions will be studied.

More than 850 military observers will watch the shot from trenches about 4,500 yards from ground zero.

13 Soldiers Hurt in Public Show

FT. SILL, Okla. (AP)—Four soldiers were killed and 13 were injured, five seriously, Saturday when a high-explosive mortar shell landed among them during a public demonstration.

Capt. Robert E. Kren, public information officer at the world's largest artillery training center, said none of the spectators was injured by the blast, which occurred about one mile from where they were standing.

The Army identified the four dead as Sgt. Alonzo Cartlidge, 33, Ft. Sill; Sp 3. c. David L. Robinson, 20, son of Henry T. Robinson, Oshkosh, Wis.; Pvt. Percy A. Reevey, 20, son of Mrs. Carmen Reevey, Neptune, N.J., and Pvt. Russell L. Somers, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell W. Somers, Rosenberg, Tex.

* * * *

KREN SAID an Army board under Col. O. L. Tobiason has been named to investigate the accident.

He said the mortar shell, fired from a weapon which also can be used to fire chemical shells, was believed to have been a "short round," one which falls short of its intended target.

It fell among members of Company B, 522nd Infantry Battalion, as they moved toward their objective of "Adams Hill" on the East Artillery Range.

* * * *

APPROXIMATELY 175 soldiers from Company B were involved in the ground part of the simulated attack on a hill position. They were supported by 537th Field Artillery Battalion, 548th Field Artillery Battalion, 6th Armored Field Artillery Battalion, 88th Searchlight Battery and an Army Aviation Training Command unit.

The supporting units were laying down a barrage of shells ahead of the advancing infantry unit when the explosion occurred.

U.S. to Bring Thousands of Troops Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of the American military men stationed in foreign lands will be coming home as a result of a global review of defense needs, it became clear Saturday.

The communique issued Friday night by President Eisenhower and Japanese Prime Minister Kishi announced a prompt withdrawal of all U. S. ground combat forces from Japan, numbering about 30,000. They will begin coming out next month.

* * * *

OFFICIALS said Saturday they did not know exactly how the world-wide study would work out in the long run. But there was no denying the fact that American commitments abroad, as expressed in numbers of men stationed in foreign lands and the amount of foreign territory put to American use, steadily are being curtailed.

The operation is being carried out, officials said, in such a way as to accord as fully as possible with the wishes of Allied governments and yet avoid any vital reduction in free world defensive strength. At the same time, it must conform to tightening American government budget requirements.

* * * *

THOSE ARE major considerations. How well the plans now being brought to conclusion within the Eisenhower administration will meet them and other important considerations is a question which undoubtedly will come up for debate as the operation progresses.

Inquiry at the State and Defense Departments brought out that the reduction in Japan was not solely the result of Kishi's visit here although the announcement was nicely timed to assure him of political credit back home for progress toward a popular Japanese objective—fewer foreigners in the island country.

Typhoon Virginia Bears on Luzon

MANILA (U.P.)—The Weather Bureau issued typhoon warnings for Luzon today and said Typhoon Virginia is expected to slam across the island's east coast with 175-m.p.h. winds this morning.

The advisory warned all ships and aircraft to stay out of the storm's path.

FREE RIDE?

2 Rob Flier of Uniform

NORWALK—A young Air Force corporal, hitching a ride from Pomona to Whittier, was robbed of his uniform here by two motorists with whom he accepted a ride Saturday.

John Lawrence Donovan, 19, stationed at Nellis Air Force Base, Las Vegas, told sheriff's deputies his clothing was stolen near Rosecrans and Carmenita Aves. He said the driver of the car and the other man told him they had a gun and forced him to remove the uniform.

He said the men told him they would return in an hour with the uniform and "will give you $500 for using it," officers related.

The shivering airman didn't wait. He called sheriff's deputies from a nearby house.

L.A.C. Says: From Underground

The Supreme Court decision freeing five Communists and ordering new trials for nine others has brought many fellow travelers up from their underground operations. They are gleeful in their great victory. They proclaim it a victory for the American people. This is from people who preached the violent overthrow of the American system. When they were convicted of teaching and preaching this doctrine, they were sentenced to jail. Now they say they are made respectable by the Supreme Court decision. But they will hardly be acceptable, to true Americans.

The Court did not deny these people were guilty. But it said in effect that teaching or preaching the violent overthrow of our government was different from putting the teaching into practice. In other words it is all right to teach treason to children or adults as long as you are not caught in an actual revolt. The decision was apparently made on the basis that the Smith Act does not spell out that teaching or advocating is the same as actual participation in attempting to overthrow our government by force and violence.

The five California Communists have long been in the news. They have been active in labor unions, the Peoples World and Communist party activities. While they represent comparatively few people, they are potential trouble makers in unions, racial groups and anywhere there is a chance to create trouble. Since their conviction under the Smith Act—by juries and California courts—they have been comparatively quiet. But we may be sure they will make the most of the encouragement given them by the Supreme Court.

This writer has had considerable experience with Communists. He met with some in labor unions in the past. In 1946 he had a long conference with the then secretary of the Communist party in Long Beach. It was then the Communists were being friendly because we were supposed to be friends with Russia. The party met openly. In our conversation the party secretary frankly told us that its program was to change our system of government peacefully—but if it could not be done peacefully it must be done by force and violence.

We saw Communists in labor unions scurry for cover when the Taft-Hartley law called for affidavits from labor leaders that they were not Communists. We saw some of them make deals just ahead of that law going into effect. We saw many of these leaders driven from union office as the decent men and women took charge of their own affairs. One has to experience some of these things to really despise the people who preach overthrow of this country while demanding all its protections.

It seems to this writer that the Supreme Court leaned far over backwards in its decision. But if it is a legal loophole it should be closed by Congress. There should be no chance of an ultra-liberal court making the laws rather than Congress. That is what happens when the court interprets a law contrary to what Congress intended. But in this case it seems certain that Congress should immediately provide that teaching treason is just as bad as practicing it.—L.A.C.

House Seen Ready to OK Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Despite a rampaging economy drive, the House Saturday seemed ready to give President Eisenhower a major victory on a key program—foreign aid.

The Chief Executive has asked for $3,864,410,000. Most of the money, $2,900,000,000, is earmarked for military hardware and defense support.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee plans to complete its investigation of the administration request next week, then start approving the various items, one by one. The committee started taking testimony from military and civilian leaders a month ago today.

* * * *

THE SENATE recently completed action on an authorization bill by voting for an overall program to cost $3,617,333,000. That was a cut of less than seven per cent.

Congressional leaders doubt the House will approve a deeper cut.

Lack of House controversy over the program is unusual. Informed sources explained it this way:

—Four independent groups made searching investigations of foreign aid and unanimously agreed the programs must be continued as long as Russia threatens the world.

—President Eisenhower has asked that a new emphasis be placed on aiding this country's allies economically through loans instead of outright gifts.

—Eisenhower has also asked that military aid be included as part of the U. S. defense appropriation.

* * * *

THE FOUR investigations of foreign aid—by the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, a presidential commission headed by Benjamin Fairless, and a citizens' committee headed by Eric Johnston—gave strong support to the argument that these are not "give-away" programs.

Abandonment of the programs, the groups said in effect, would endanger the independence of the free world, including the United States.

Shifting emphasis on economic aid through loans in place of gifts took steam out of the "give-away" argument. The State Department has promised to lend the funds on a sound financial basis. Our allies will be expected to repay them.

'Diabolic' Tortures Disclosed by Priest

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—A Roman Catholic missionary who spent six years in Chinese Communist prisons told Senate investigators his captors tried to make him spy against the United States to win his release.

The Rev. Fulgence Gross, a Franciscan father from Omaha, told the Senate Internal Security subcommittee his captors were "men possessed by the devil." He said the Chinese subjected him to unspeakable atrocities, including trying to wring off his ear, and three years of "mental torture" which he said was worse than his physical mistreatment.

* * * *

AFTER THE TORTURE, he said, the Chinese for a year "tried to make a spy out of me . . . if I shouldd get out, I should find out certain things they wanted."

Father Gross said the Chinese torture methods were "diabolic."

"Those who too readily condemn our American soldiers who found their way into Communist prisons and made confessions or who even might have revealed secrets committed to them, should themselves pass just one month in a Communist prison or court," he said.

* * * *

FATHER GROSS was arrested 18 months after the Communists took Tsingato, where he had remained voluntarily after the Nationalist army pulled out in 1949.

He said he was arrested as a spy and condemned to death by "slow painful torture." On Oct. 28, 1955, after the United States negotiated at Geneva with the Chinese Reds for return of American prisoners, he was sentenced to six years.

Sweetheart of Page Boy Flying Home

NEW YORK (U.P.) — Christina Wennerstrom, 16-year-old Swedish diplomat's daughter, left for Stockholm Saturday weeping, clutching a Teddy bear and vowing her love for the Senate page boy with whom she went on a two-week "honeymoon" without benefit of clergy.

Christina, accompanied by her mother, did not say a word to newsmen who saw her off at Idlewild International Airport. But she replied to their questions with vigorous nods of the head when they asked if she still loved her boy friend, and if she still wanted to marry him.

THE GIRL RAN off with Huw Williams, 18. They were taken into custody in Pennsylvania, Thursday, on their return from Canada. Huw went home to his mother in Falls Church, Va., and lost his Senate job.

Christina was taken in tow by her mother, Mrs. Stig Wennerstrom, who appeared to take a forgive-and-forget attitude toward her daughter's escapade.

Checks Radar 'Scientist'

Radar Checks Speeders

wrong. My speedometer, not the radar, was the liar.

Bill Keith, the Public Service Department radioman who installed the $1,700 radar apparatus, explained.

"The average speedometer is not accurate," he said. "The average registers faster than actual speed."

Radar's accuracy is checked by tuning forks fixed at speeds of 25, 45 and 65 miles per hour. These forks are "scientists" that can't be disputed, according to Keith.

* * * *

IN LONG BEACH, the scientific radar apparatus has been set to register speeds at a mile lower than actual speed. This is to give the motorist the benefit of the doubt.

There are several other aspects of the radar setup in the driver's favor.

Forty-six signs have been posted at entrances to the City of Long Beach. The signs state: Speed checked by radar.

They mean what they say.

They're telling you in advance to watch your step on the throttle.

Unless you can't read, you can't ask for a bigger break than that. And if you want to learn how to read, there are always adult education classes in which you can enroll.

The radar car is not concealed on a side street or behind billboards. It's parked on the street it's patrolling. If you're looking, you can see it.

* * * *

AND CAPT. WILLIAM E. Kummer, head of the traffic division, hopes motorists will see the light and drive safely, for safe driving, not entrapment, is Kummer's objective.

And he considers radar a tool for safe driving.

It's a tool that's going to be used before you reach 68 miles per hour in a 25-mile zone.

"In a 25-mile zone, we could start citing anything moving over 32," Capt. Kummer said.

But they won't for a while. Speeding motorists checked by radar will not be cited until July 3.

* * * *

THE INTERVENING period will be used to acquaint the public with the new radar equipment, Capt. Kummer said.

An introduction to the acquaintanceship could begin with the sound of the siren. It's an experience just as soon missed as met.

Radar, though a "scientist," needs the siren and the man behind it.

Here's how it works.

The aluminum radar box sits inside the open trunk of the car. A 20-degree, cone-shaped radar beam, like an invisible searchlight, covers a 175-foot area behind it.

* * * *

WHEN A CAR passes through, the beam's frequency is changed. This changed frequency, received by the radar box, is transmitted to the officer in the driver's seat.

It is transmitted in terms of miles per hour. It is registered on a meter and on a graph resembling a lie detector.

The explanation takes longer than the occurrence. It is an almost instantaneous procedure.

The officer in the car, who has been observing traffic in his rear-view mirror, knows which reading is for what automobile.

* * * *

THROUGH A PUBLIC-address system, the radar car officer announces to the motorcycle officer in front:

"Gray Ford at 52."

That was exactly what Radar-car Officer King Head announced and the words to which Motor Officer Jerry LePay reacted in pursuit of Speedster No. 2.

It wasn't one of the happiest moments of his life for speedster No. 2.

Informed that his high speed had been radar-checked, he said:

"Oh, my God!"

Radar-car Officer Jim Kelly and Motor Officer Bland Watkins teamed for Speedster No. 3.

He was an aviation-plant employe. He told Watkins he was going to inform all his fellow employes about the radar setup.

"This is murder," he said.

But he was wrong.

It's just the opposite. It's an attempt to stop murder on the highways.

'Go Get Him'

Radar Car Officer Jim Kelly checks speeder's mileage on recording graph and uses public address microphone to announce speed to motor officer (not in photograph) in front. The radar car is not used to chase speeders. It detects speed. The pursuit is motor officer's job.—(Staff Photo.)

Hawaiian Girl and U.S. Pen Pal Wed

ABINGDON, Ill. (UP) — Richard Andrews, 20, was married today to the Hawaiian girl whom he came to know through a pen pal correspondence started when they were in the 6th grade.

Andrews and Kathi Takata, 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Koki Takata, of Waimea Kauai, Hawaii, were married in the First Congregationalist Church here at a ceremony read by Rev. Raiph A. Harris.

The altar was decorated with flowers imported from Hawaii. The bride's parents were not able to be present, however.

* * * *

ANDREWS' 6th grade school teacher got the class interested in corresponding with pen pals in other countries, and Kathi became young Andrews' pen pal.

After exchanging letters for about seven years, Miss Takata came to Abingdon last April and, about three weeks ago, she and Archer announced they would marry.

When she arrived here in April Miss Takata said she came out of a "woman's curiosity. Dick wrote such nice letters about Abingdon I wanted to see what it looked like."

Andrews works for Admiral Corp., in nearby Galesburg and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Andrews.

Succeeding weeks will feature talks on "Motivating People," "Organizational History, Philosophy, and Structure" and "Mechanics of Meetings."

N.Y. Police Have New Mad Bomber

NEW YORK (UP) — Police were confronted Saturday with the possibility they are being pestered by a new "mad bomber."

A device similar to the scores pieced together by the original "mad bomber," who now is in a mental institution, was found in a subway station.

Service on one subway line was halted for 15 minutes while police bomb squad experts gingerly plucked the device from behind a stairwell and took it away for examination.

It was the second crude "bomb" to be found on the same subway platform in 10 days. It consisted of a five-inch length of galvanized pipe with a red fuse. The pipe was filled with black powder.

Written in black crayon on the device was the query: "Is this still crude?"

The message apparently referred to police reports that the "bomb" found 10 days ago was crude.

George Metesky, known for 16 years as "the mad bomber of Manhattan," was arrested earlier this year. He told police he had planted scores of bombs, some of which exploded, to call attention to a grievance he had against the Consolidated Edison Company.

No Aircraft Slowdown in Local Plants

Southland aircraft industry officials say there are no plans for any major layoffs and employment levels will be maintained at least through 1958.

The assurance was given Saturday amid speculation there would be substantial employment cutbacks in this area as a result of new Defense Department policies.

Approximately 230,000 workers are employed by aircraft plants in Southern California.

A summary on a Washington conference attended by Air Force and aircraft-industry representatives Wednesday said in the future many present production facilities will not be needed and that an "overall reduction" is in prospect.

Douglas Aircraft reported it has a commercial backlog of more than $1,000,000,000 and continue production of DC-6 and DC-7 models at a "maximum rate" at its Santa Monica plant until the end of 1959.

The Long Beach plant will produce DC-8 models and the C-133 military transport. Other Douglas plants will keep up production at Torrance-El Segundo.

Other aircraft companies had similar forecasts.

OZONE THICKEST HERE

Tire-Protection 'Dope' Gets Roughest Tryout

By WILLIAM BROOM
I. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—Because the air around Long Beach fairly crackles with ozone, the city has been selected for a national experiment on automobile tires, the National Tire Retreading Institute revealed here today.

Ozone, which is oxygen in concentrated form, is one of the greatest enemies of tires, the Institute said. It causes tiny cracks in sidewalls, and eventually leads to rotted casings. It is especially prevalent in the Long Beach-Los Angeles metropolitan area because of smog.

* * * *

FIFTY AUTOS, equipped with specially treated tires, are moving around Long Beach streets in a national test of a new compound designed to protect tires against cracking from smog and other chemicals in the air.

The Institute selected the area because its atmospheric conditions do the most damage to rubber. If the tests over the next 45 days are successful, the new compound will be placed on the market.

Chief ingredient is Hypalon, a synthetic rubber. Compounded with resins and other chemicals into a gooey paste, Hypalon has been smeared on the tire casings of 50 cars by Barnes & Delaney Inc. of Long Beach and Gladman & Wallace Tire Co. of Santa Ana. They are among four Southern California tire sellers taking part in the test.

The Hypalon compound will be marketed under another name. If the tests prove its worth, motorists will get longer life from their tires and safer and more economical tire mileage, said the Institute's secretary, W. W. Marsh.

Marsh said 70 per cent of a motorist's investment in a new tire is in the tire casing and only 30 per cent in the tread rubber.

* * * *

THE PRACTICE of retreading tires has received more favorable acceptance on the West Coast than in any other section of the nation, he said. Partly for this reason and also because of smog-eaten casings, a shortage in used casings has developed in the area, Marsh said.

If the Hypalon compound works, the shortage can be relieved, he said.

The Tire Institute said that tires are damaged by ozone and other atmospheric irritants in other sections of the nation as well.

"But we chose the Los Angeles-Long Beach area," Marsh said, "for an obvious reason. The smog problem is worse there than anywhere else."

GOP Solon Raps Girard Trial Plans

CHICAGO (UP) — Rep. Bow (Ohio) Saturday night said the United States "lost face" when it decided to "surrender jurisdiction" of American soldiers to Japan for criminal offenses.

"It is obvious that our Armed Forces are no longer a symbol of the dignity of the United States," the Republican congressman said.

Bow addressed a huge protest rally against the surrender of Army Specialist 3C William S. Girard, Ottawa, Ill., to the Japanese on manslaughter charges for killing a Japanese woman on an American firing range.

1st Universe Fan Letter Arrives

It's Official —Pageant Is Under Way

It's official now. The 1957 Miss Universe Pageant is really under way.

Last week, the first fan letter to a contestant arrived at Pageant headquarters in Municipal Auditorium.

It was addressed to Lisa (Miss France) Simon and came from Baton Rouge, La.

The letter, first of a stack of mail which soon will be deluging the pageant office, was promptly channeled to the local woman who will serve as hostess for Miss Simon. The Gallic beauty will arrive early next month.

* * * *

AND SO ANOTHER YEAR'S production begins—rolling along slowly at first but gathering momentum during the next four weeks until the breathless moment on the night of July 19 when Miss Universe of 1958 will be crowned here.

Behind the scenes, executive producer Oscar Meinhart and his staff have been working on the coming pageant almost since an Iowa girl named Carol Morris became Miss Universe of 1957 here nearly a year ago.

This year's eliminations and judging will feature scenes from famous musical shows as entertainment.

The Singers Workshop has been in rehearsal for two months whipping "The Merry Widow," "The Desert Song," "Nina Rosa" and "The Mikado" into shape.

* * * *

ARRANGEMENTS HAVE been made for the New York arrival of a planeload of European beauties July 7.

There, they will appear on the "Ed Sullivan Show" on television July 7 and on Dave Garroway's "Today" television show and the "Arthur Murray Show" the next day.

Other public appearances are scheduled for the girls on the east coast before they enplane for Long Beach.

The European contingent along with many U. S. contestants from the east are scheduled to arrive at Municipal Airport on a special plane July 11.

* * * *

FIRST CONTESTANT to hit the area will be Kyoko (Miss Japan) Otani. She will fly into Los Angeles International Airport July 7, then will stay with friends in Los Angeles for several days before coming here.

As of this writing, many of the contestants have not yet been chosen in local elimination contests.

The Miss California finals, for instance, will be held next Friday in the Los Angeles Ambassador Hotel under sponsorship of the Los Angeles Press Club. These proceedings tentatively will be televised on Channel 5 from 9 to 9:30 p. m.

This year, two new rules have been instituted. No girls may be married and none is eligible to compete in the pageant a second time.

* * * *

THE LATTER rule came about after an announcement by last year's Miss Florida, Beverly Rodgers. Miss Rodgers had represented New Jersey in the pageant in 1955 before moving to Florida to win there in 1956.

"She said she was planning to move to Montana this year and enter the contest there," Meinhardt said.

One of the more interesting contestants expected this year is Miss Poland. Although all visa formalities are not yet completed, a Polish girl is scheduled to represent her country at this year's pageant.

She will be the first queen from an Iron Curtain country to appear in the contest.

Negotiations are under way for a Russian queen to come here from Moscow for the 1958 contest.

* * * *

THIS YEAR, besides Poland, other countries never represented before in the pageant will be Morocco, Paraguay and Martinique.

In all, more than 80 girls are expected to appear in the competition at Municipal Auditorium—the biggest field ever.

Officials estimate the beauty queens who are sent here are the pick of some 50,000 contestants in elimination contests all over the world.

First formal event in this year's contest is the introduction of the candidates Saturday night, July 13, in Veterans Memorial Stadium. Tickets are on sale now for this event at the Miss Universe office in the Auditorium and at the Chamber of Commerce.

DANCERS Les Bruckner and Sandra Bedard receive instructions from Director Henri Scanlon (center) as they rehearse dance sequence for "The Merry Widow" which will be presented at Municipal Auditorium July 16 at opening of Miss Universe Pageant.

Sails to U.S. for Checkup

NAPLES, Italy (U.P.) — Crown Prince Feisal of Saudi Arabia sailed for New York Saturday with six wives, 17 other members of his family and retainers, 105 trunks and four automobiles — two Lincolns and two Studebakers.

He said he wanted a "thorough medical checkup" by American doctors.

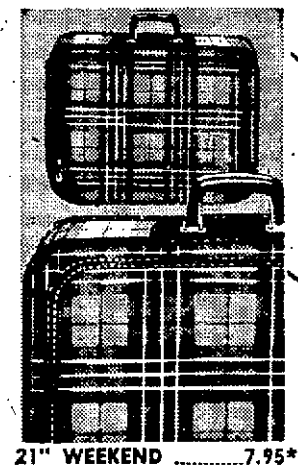

Feisal, younger brother of King Saud and heir to the throne, wore a black Arab cloak and white headdress as he boarded the liner Independence with his retinue.

He said he did not know whether he would have to undergo surgery. He is believed suffering from a kidney ailment.

Burglary Suspects Arrested

NORWALK—Two men sought as burglary and arson suspects were captured by sheriff's deputies, Saturday evening, lying in a field a short distance from their wrecked car, from which they had fled shortly before.

They were identified by deputies as Myron Floyd Burt, 18, of 929 Via Carmelitos, Long Beach, and Kenneth Leonard Sturgeon, 23, of 14710 Blaine Ave., Bellflower.

They were being sought by officers as suspects in a burglary at the home of Arthur Monroe Richardson, 50, at 11714 E. 215th St., Hawaiian Gardens.

* * * *

OFFICERS SAID Richardson reported his home had been ransacked and an attempt made to set it afire sometime before 4 p.m. Saturday, when he returned home. He told officers he suspected Sturgeon, who previously rented the place, and gave a description of his car.

Richardson said someone stole .22-caliber rifle ammunition from the house, killed a prize rooster worth $50, dumped clothing on the bedroom floor and threw a lighted cigarette atop the pile. The cigarette went out without igniting the clothing, officers said.

* * * *

LESS THAN AN hour after Richardson made his report, a car occupied by Sturgeon and Burt went out of control while turning a corner, jumped a curb and stopped in the yard at 13911 Flatbush Ave., officers said.

Witnesses saw two men run from the car, sprint across back yards and disappear from sight into pastureland. Deputies say they caught the two lying in a pasture at 10637 Rosecrans Ave. about a half hour later.

Baby Sitter Leaps From Car and Man

A baby sitter, injured when she leaped from the car of a man who offered her a ride, was reported to be in good condition in Hoag Memorial Hospital in Newport Beach Saturday night.

The girl, identified as Linda Gail Norman, 21, of 2029A Appleton St., said that she accepted a ride from a stranger Friday night after she left the home of James Delago, where she lives and works as a baby sitter.

When the man made improper advances, the girl leaped from the car on Pacific Coast Hwy. near "Tin Can Beach." The man sped away in a car described by witnesses as an "old four-door sedan."

The girl, at first hysterical and suffering from gravel cuts and head injuries, is expected to be questioned today by Orange County sheriff's deputies.

Benny's Bill Canceled

$1,500 Bill Canceled by Ben's Doctor

BAY SHORE, N.Y. (AP) — Young Benny Hooper's widely assailed $1,500 doctor bill was tossed away Saturday by a medical committee and Dr. Joseph H. Kris.

The veteran Long Island specialist in anesthesiology had been bitterly attacked by private citizens, high medical officials and even U. S. senators for seeking the $1,500 fee. He contended it was a fair amount, if the parents were able to pay.

The storm of controversy ended with the physician and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hooper Sr. chatting happily following the committee ruling.

Together they decided that any money contributions already sent by well-wishers, if earmarked for Benny's medical expenses, would be turned over to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

* * * *

DR. KRIS SAID he put in about 100 hours. He said his usual fee was $30 an hour. Thus his bill to the Hoopers was half what he ordinarily would have received.

He said he felt it a fair charge, inasmuch as he understood that the Hoopers had received large public contributions for medical expenses.

The parents said this was not the case.

Both the parents and the medical committee praised the work of Dr. Kris but the committee said in a statement:

"Dr. Joseph H. Kris determined the amount of his charge while he was under the mistaken impression that a considerable sum of money earmarked for medical purposes had been received by the Hooper family."

L.B. Cracking Down on Bootleg Builders

the building office immediately upon detecting a bootleg job.

That prevents an illicit builder—whether contractor or do-it-yourself addict—from rushing to the office and paying the normal fee before the violation can be recorded.

* * * *

"THE GREATEST HELP in enforcing the permit and inspection provisions should come from the person who is having the work done," said O'Connor. "The building code was established for the protection of the public. Violations may cause fire hazards, structural hazards, even death.

"Anyone who is having a building job done should realize that if there is no inspection the code is being violated. Our office investigates every call. And the person who lets a contract has the right to see the permit. After all, its cost is almost always included in the contract."

* * * *

THE BUILDING OFFICIAL made it clear that most contractors, and almost all who handle large projects, take out permits. The offenders are chiefly smaller operators and owner-builders.

The Builders Exchange, whose membership includes most of the larger contractors as well as related technicians in the building field, does not countenance unethical practices.

Jules Brady, vice president of the exchange, said known violators are not admitted to membership or are expelled. The exchange has no police organization or authority, however.

Noted Actor MacBride Dies at 63

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Funeral services were pending Saturday for veteran stage and screen comedian Donald MacBride who died in a sanitarium here Friday night at the age of 63.

MacBride's film career started after he appeared in the Broadway stage hit "Room Service." His films included "The Great Man Votes."

He also played in the "My Friend Irma" television show.

The actor, a native of Brooklyn, was survived by his widow, Esther.

Japan Minister Ends U.S. Stay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prime Minister Kishi of Japan ended his official stay in Washington Saturday, flying off to New York in a twin-engine plane provided by President Eisenhower.

Secretary of State Dulles headed the farewell delegation and told the prime minister the four days he spent in the capital "will prove to be historic days."

Dulles said they have laid the foundation "for a new stage" in U.S.-Japanese relations.

Zoli Stays as Premier

ROME (UP) —A legal maneuver by President Giovanni Gronchi Saturday restored Adone Zoli to office as premier with a moderate one-party government.

Gronchi took advantage of a technicality in the resignation of Zoli who left office 13 days ago to reinstate the regime in an attempt to end a 47-day-old crisis.

When Zoli resigned his Christian Democrat Party government June 10, Gronchi reserved decision on whether to accept and asked Zoli to remain as caretaker premier until another regime could be found.

Friday, Christian Democrat Party Secretary Amintore Fanfani admitted defeat in his efforts to line up a new regime.

Gronchi decided to reject Zoli's resignation, thus formally making him premier again.

4 Killed, 13 Injured by Shell

MEET THE NEW MAYOR

Subsidence His First Worry

By BOB HOUSER

Grandpa will get a special hug from Windy. Bitsie, Jorja and Jamie next visit.

And the brisk, square-jawed gentleman will, as usual, drop his accustomed serious-faced mien to acknowledge the greeting.

The greeting will be for Raymond C. Kealer, the mayor-elect of Long Beach.

Kealer brings to the mayoral post a set of qualifications which, aligned against this city's problems, stand like a blueprint for success.

With general agreement that subsidence is the ranking dilemma here, Kealer qualifies as a registered petroleum engineer and as six-year chairman of the City Council's Harbor, Oil and Industries Committee.

* * * *

HIS SWEARING-IN next month will mark 10 years of service on the Council, making him senior member in tenure.

Kealer's specialized knowledge has pressed him into subsidence service frequently in Sacramento and in Washington, D. C.

In a general chorus of lamenting that Long Beach has no civic pride, no community spirit, no local identity, Ray C. (for Chester) Kealer beats a lonesome solo of denial.

* * * *

AROUND THE END of World War II, Kealer elaborates, we had many people here who were property owners in other states. They didn't want to pay taxes here. We had a highly conservative, even reactionary type of voter then. But since that time we've had great building, a great number of young people coming in. Civic pride is proved in their willingness to support bonds and improvements.

Sharpness and color have flavored Kealer's utterances in the past 10 years on the Council.

* * * *

IN JANUARY, 1949, he denied originating complaints which led to vice raids with, "I don't want that kind of publicity."

"I wouldn't have it on a platter," he blurted, when a citizen proposed his name for the city managership in March, 1949.

Opposing an outside firm's 1949 recommendation for compulsory unitization of the entire oil field here: "This could mean eventual control of the petroleum industry by some armchair bureaucrat in Washington."

In 1952, advocating an oil commission with autonomous powers, he opined the Harbor Dept. "should surrender its authority over oil development. That can be done only by amending the charter and the time has come to consider it."

Criticizing the auditorium and stadium ordinance in 1954, as two directors resigned, including managing director David Olmstead, Kealer recalled he had remarked in open Council as early as 1950 that Olmstead "was a good convention man but a lousy administrator."

Kealer, upon resigning, with Gerald Desmond in 1955 from the five-member steering committee on tidelands issues: "It's a steering committee, but it's not steering anything."

Last December, opposing certain anticipated results from water flooding—a possible driving of oil upstructure by water flood, away from city-owned wells, Kealer warned: "Outside operators are sitting around licking their chops waiting for something like this."

Now Mayor Kealer agrees we should get a quick start on fluid injection to arrest subsidence because nobody has come up with a better solution.

His vital interest is pledged now, and is assured by a past record of studious attention.

An illustration of need for immediate action, Kealer points out, is this: "The Navy Shipyard, with 7,000 employes, represents 12 to 14 per cent of our economy. That could represent the difference between a profit and loss in our economy.

Kealer has been described by warm friends as "kind of a lone wolf." They hasten to add that this quality has not kept him from "working with the pack" however.

Once squeezed out of expense money for a Washington assignment for the city because of a technicality, Kealer vowed he would pay his own expenses, outside of transportation, henceforward.

Kealer, a wealthy man in oil and land and cattle, says, "I can afford it and then there's no question asked."

Our new titular head of the city and presiding officer of the City Council, was born Jan. 12, 1902, in Socorro County, New Mexico, one of two sons and four daughters.

He was born about 10 miles from the birthplace of hotel magnate Conrad Hilton and Hilton's sister, Felice, was Kealer's third- and fourth-grade teacher. Landlocked and adventuresome, the boy Kealer doctored his age and ran away to sea.

His present-day husky frame attests to the days he was an oil-field roustabout whose sometime chores included waxing floors and cleaning spittoons. In those same early days he helped finance his education by guitar and banjo strumming with a popular orchestra.

Outside of an apparent "first-meeting" reticence, the last remaining vestige of Kealer's Old West roots is an uncommon interest in Western-tooled leather wallets and belts and turquoise-set, silver buckles and personal jewelry.

Ray attended grammar and high school in Gallup, N. M. In those days he developed a fondness for the Navajo tribe, which later led many times to championing of their causes and to substantial material donations.

* * * *

KEALER IS NO lone wolf when that noise at his door is a constituent. Because he lives alone at 203 E. 9th St., some time ago he installed an electronic telephone answering device.

If he's out, a recorded voice greets you, asks you to leave your name and phone number, and "start talking at the end of the tone."

"I guess it makes some people self-conscious," Kealer said, "and they wind up by either hanging up or leaving some scathing remark for me to hear later like 'Drop dead,' or 'Are you too good to talk to your constituents?' "

(Footnote: Kealer is abandoning the gadget.)

For immediate attention, subsidence gets the new mayor's vote.

* * * *

"BUT PERHAPS even more important in the long run is the problem of water.

"We've just about reached the population saturation point, for available water. And we, as a community, can only lend our weight to projects designed to improve our water situation."

High on Kealer's list of concerns is the matter of "ingress and egress" in Long Beach.

"Without a rail terminal, without satisfactory mass transportation, without enough freeway access we are isolated out of all proportion for a city of our size and importance."

Although this is Kealer's fifth successful bid for a Council seat, there has been occasional nagging reluctance to run, even in this most recent.

"My daughter Winnie urged me to do it this time. Said she wanted to do a little boasting," Kealer laughed.

She is Winifred Rae Galloway, wife of James K., a stock and bond broker in Sierra Madre, and mother of grandchildren Jorja, 6, and Jamie, 3.

* * * *

HIS OTHER DAUGHTER is Bonnie Keith Loopesko, wife of orthopedic surgeon, Dr. Eugene Loopesko, of Westchester, and mother of grandchildren, Windham, 7, (Windy), and Bonnie Jr., 5, (Bitsie).

Another three-year term, and this time with "Mr. Mayor" a part of his responsibility, Kealer says he'll settle for some occasional fishing and hunting and give up trying to keep apace with his hobbies of photography, bowling and golf. He plans to continue his home-workshop activities.

The "lone wolf's" parting word:

"Just tell the people I'm as close to them as my telephone."

LONG BEACH'S Mayor-elect Raymond C. Kealer looks like a space man as he wears face protector while sharpening tools in his garage-workshop. He's too busy with civic affairs to keep up with his other hobbies.—(Staff Photo.)

3 L.B.-Area Girls Win Girls' State Top Posts

Three Long Beach-area girls were chosen to fill top "state posts" in the 14th annual Girls' State elections held Saturday in Davis, Calif.

Linda Lou Knowles, South State High School student of Whittier, was elected governor. She got 277 of the 391 delegates' votes.

Margaret Purcell, of Portuguese Bend, daughter of Independent, Press-Telegram display advertising salesman Everett Purcell, was elected secretary of state. Susan Koeller, Long Beach, won in balloting for the post of state controller.

Other officers elected included Judy Averbuck, Los Angeles, lieutenant governor; Mary McConnel, Riverside, treasurer; Carolyn Gardner, Los Angeles, attorney general, and Jeanne Ponticello, Oxnard, superintendent of public instruction.

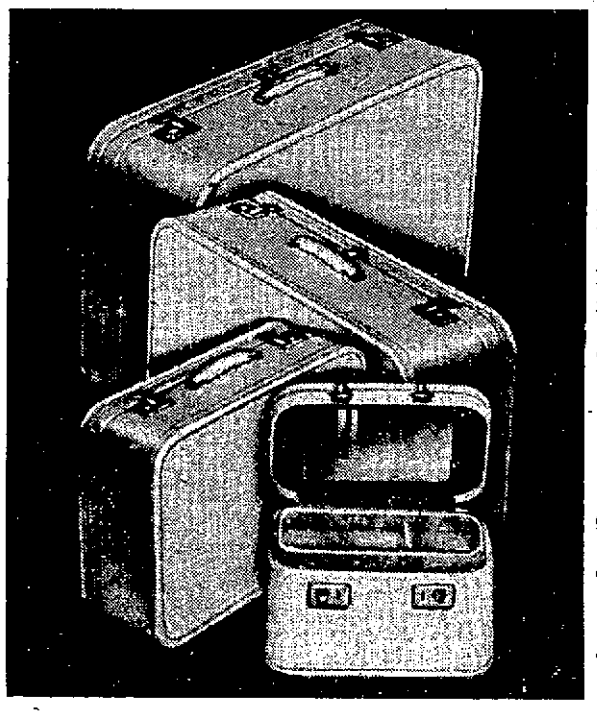

The girls will hold legislature and court sessions today and tomorrow. The week-long meeting will end Tuesday.

As governor, Miss Knowles will be one of two delegates to the Girls' Nation meeting, to be held in Washington in August. The other delegate will be chosen in a vote naming the outstanding citizen at this year's state meeting.

3-Way Parley Will Map Shipyard Sinkage Relief

A water injection program to rebuild sagging pressures under subsidence-stricken Long Beach Naval Shipyard will be planned Wednesday in a conference among engineers representing the Long Beach Harbor Department, the Union Pacific Railroad and Long Beach Oil Development, Co.

The move—which probably will be worked out as a cooperative agreement, rather than as a formal unitization pact—was decided upon Friday, only a few days after a congressional report sharply criticized the city for "inaction in combating subsidence."

Only $1,500,000 was approved by the House Armed Services Committee for "immediately necessary remedial protective works" at the shipyard. The Navy originally asked $4,600,000 for the next fiscal year.

* * * *

FRIDAY'S MEETING was held at the suggestion of Lee S. Osburn, vice president of Union Pacific, which, in addition to its own extensive holdings, operates wells for Southern California Edison Co.

The proposed agreement would set up a coordinated water flood in the Tar Zone of Fault Block III, which extends 8,500 feet across the middle of Terminal Island, with its southern portion running under most of the shipyard. The Tar Zone is the top layer of seven producing oil sands, about 1,800 feet below the surface.

By injecting water into the zone to replace oil extracted through production, engineers hope to rebuild lost pressure believed to cause subsidence. Theoretically, if the quantity of water injected is sufficient and enough remains within the fault block, land sinkage will slow and eventually stop.

* * * *

THE PLAN is only one of several agreements involving the city's two operators, LBOD and Richfield Oil Corp., and other Wilmington field operators under Assembly Bill 930, now ready for signing by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

The legislation permits the city, for the first time, to enter such agreements.

Union Pacific has been injecting water into the northern portion of Fault Block III, north of the Cerritos Channel, for several years. This pilot flood, which now amounts to about 12,000 barrels per day through eight injection wells, has been highly successful both in increasing oil recovery and in raising bottom hole pressures.

Civil Rights Bill Heads for Filibuster

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Ives (R-NY), a supporter of the civil rights bill now pending in the Senate, predicted Saturday "our southern friends" will filibuster it to death.

And Sen. Ellender (D-La) promised that any effort to call up the bill—let alone pass it—"will bring forth prolonged debate—to be blunt, a filibuster."

Ives said the bill's backers could not muster the necessary votes to shut off debate and "a lot of us won't be living" when the Senate finally amends its rules to allow a filibuster to be silenced by majority vote instead of the two-thirds vote now required. However he predicted the change will be made eventually.

Despondent Wife Suicide in Pasadena

PASADENA (CNS) — Mrs. Katherine M. Schwarzenbach, 35-year-old wife of a prominent Pasadena businessman, was found shot to death Saturday in the bedroom of her $30,000 home at 300 S. Arroyo Blvd.

Police said the woman took her own life by firing one bullet from a .38-caliber pistol into her mouth.

Her body was found in a bed by her husband, Christopher, an official of U. S. Propellers Inc., 3270 East Foothill Blvd. There was no note.

The woman was the mother of two daughters and two sons.

Officers said she was depressed over the loss of a baby.

Off-Duty Officer Kills Peeping Tom

GARDENA (AP)—An off-duty officer shot and killed a Peeping Tom early Saturday after the man followed the officer's wife home from her job at a local poker parlor, police reported.

JOHN A. ANDERSON
Right in the Back Yard

According to police, he was identified by his brother, James as Donald F. Bahrman, 26, of 13717 S. Budlong St., Gardena. He attended Gardena High School and in 1948 was voted all-city football player of the year, playing quarterback.

The officer, William L. Pottorff, 31, said he felled the man with three shots from his service revolver minutes after his wife, Yvonne, 30, awakened him with the remark:

"Someone has followed me home. He turned out his lights a couple of blocks away."

Pottorff said he got his gun and tiptoed around to the side of the house. He said he saw the man standing on an orange crate and peering into the bedroom window.

"I shouted something at the guy—I can't remember what," the officer said. "But he just picked up that darned box and ran."

Portorff said the man then jumped a small fence and was circling a house next door when the officer brought him down with three shots.

Plane Smashes into Home Yard

CLARKSBURG, Md. (AP)—A Capital Airlines plane on a training flight crashed Saturday into the back yard of a rural bungalow here. The three men aboard were killed but the homeowner dodged the falling craft by running "in crazy circles."

The twin-engine DC3 fell in the yard of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Anderson, coming to rest only 15 feet from the back porch of their home.

The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

Clarksburg is a small community about midway between Frederick, Md., and Washington, D. C.

A young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Norwood, a neighbor of the Anderson's, also saw the plane roaring downward and ran into the house screaming:

"Mother, a plane is after me."

The child was still hysterical two hours after the crash.

Six Die in Italian Floods

ROVIGO, Italy (AP)—Six more deaths from floods and landslides were reported Saturday, pushing the weather-related toll for a one-week period to at least 20 in northern Italy.

Firemen, police and soldiers in rowboats and army amphibious carriers worked throughout the night to seek other persons who might be marooned or in danger from rising floods in the Po Delta lowlands.

Five landslides of rain-loosened rocks and dirt cut highways near Stelvio in the north Italian Alps. A workman and a young boy died beneath the slides. Four youths ranging from 11 to 18 years old drowned in flooded streams.

Earlier this week eight persons died in a cyclone and six others were drowned or killed by earth slides.

Floodwaters from the rain-swollen Po continued to mount, surging over more than 25 square miles of fertile land in the river's delta.

Nixon Tells U. S. Attitude

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP)—Vice President Nixon said Saturday the United States must measure its dealings with communist nations "by the simple, yet profound, test offered by President Eisenhower: deeds, not words."

"We can hope the Communist world will change," Nixon said. "We would be foolish not to use every opportunity to bring about this change in a peaceful manner . . . but it would be foolish to substitute the hope for the deed, the word for the act."

In an address prepared for the Mayflower II celebration, observing the arrival from England of the replica of the original Pilgrim vessel, Nixon declared:

"We must always be willing to seek any real and worthwhile improvement in our relations with the Communist world.

Steinbeck Adlai Ghost-writer

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP)—Author John Steinbeck said Saturday he acted as a ghost-writer for Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson during last year's presidential campaign.

In an interview, he said Stevenson was actually "a fine writer, but, as such, too intellectual."

"I helped him during his campaign last year," he said. "I prepared some of his speeches, not only regarding their political aims but also with a view of making them more understandable for the masses."

Steinbeck, who is here on a private visit, praised Stevenson as "the most intelligent presidential candidate we had had for a long time."

Lightning Kills Kentucky Professor

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A University of Kentucky professor was killed and the manager of Calumet Farm was critically injured Saturday when lightning struck their electric golf cart on the Lexington Country Club course.

Dr. A. B. McEwen, a member of the law faculty, was killed when he was knocked from the cart by the lightning which struck during a mid-afternoon thundershower.

Paul Ebelhardt, manager of the famed thoroughbred horse farm, was injured critically and rushed to a hospital.

Scout Rescues 2 Girls From Dangerous River

NEW YORK (AP)—A 14-year-old Queens Boy Scout risked his life today by diving in the East River to rescue two girls, one 5 and the other 15.

Two city patrolmen helped Henry Plimack of Sunnyside, Queens, in the final stages of his rescue. The boy reportedly broke away from two men who told him not to jump into the swirling current of the Hell Gate waters of the East River because it was "too dangerous."

* * * *

THE RESCUED GIRLS were Linda Lauria, 5, and Rose Hetzel, both of the Bronx. Both were taken to Lincoln Hospital for treatment after artificial respiration. They were reported in fair condition.

Police said the Hetzel girl had taken five younger children to the Randall's Island stadium for the San Juan Festival held there in honor of St. John the Baptist, patron saint of San Juan.

They said the Hetzel girl and her charges had decided to eat their luncheon sandwiches on rocks overlooking the East River.

While on the rocks, Linda slipped into the water and was carried away by the strong Hell Gate tides. The Hetzel girl jumped in after her but was in immediate trouble herself.

* * * *

PLIMACK, ignoring the warnings of the older men, dived and headed for Linda, floundering in the water. At about the time he heached her, two patrolmen, Ralph Vignola and Francis O'Brien, appeared and plunged into the river.

The boy gave Linda to the patrolmen and then went after Rose. He reached her and took her to shore.

BOUNCING BABY

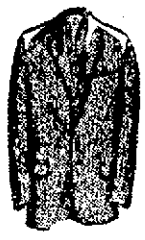

Girl Unhurt in 3-Story Tumble

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Anne Michele Acosta is a bouncing brunette and it apears she proved it Saturday.

The child, all of 1 year old, likes to climb on chairs. Her parents, Benjamin and Patricia Acosta, went to bed Friday night and forgot to move a chair away from a third floor window in their apartment.

Next morning, Anne Michele was found on the pavement under the window. She had a few bumps and cuts but otherwise was unhurt. Best anyone can figure out, the youngster climbed up on that forgotten chair and tumbled through the window to the street below.

It's Up to Us

THE FUTURE of Long Beach Navy Shipyard hinges on what the City of Long Beach and the State of California do about subsidence.

That was the blunt, unmistakable message of the House Armed Services Committee this week when it adopted a subcommittee report recommending only a fraction of the sum proposed for subsidence remedial work at the shipyard.

The subcommittee, which had conducted hearings here on whether to continue spending federal money for that purpose, said in its report:

"There can be no doubt of the benefits which flow from the shipyard. There is, in the subcommittee's opinion, grave doubt as to the acceptance by California authorities, local and state, of the responsibilities which accompany and flow from these benefits."

City and state have thus been warned to show their good faith with prompt and effective action.

WHAT CAN BE DONE to convince the Armed Services Committee?

The big thing the State of California can do, of course, is approve the bill which Long Beach has submitted to create a subsidence remedial district.

That bill is now in the hands of an interim legislative committee. This being the case, there is no hope for action on the measure before the next session of the state legislature.

Meantime, Long Beach has a selling job to do. Just as city and state, jointly, must prove their case to the federal government, this city must present a forceful case to the state interim committee.

Paradoxically, part of the task is to show the committee that a vital state interest is, indeed, at stake.

But it should not be difficult to prove that an installation with a $170,000,000 replacement value is an asset to the State of California. Rather, it is our big task to show that we thoroughly understand our own problem, that we are exerting every possible effort as a city to solve it, that we are as interested in preventing subsidence as we are in withdrawing oil.

The Long Beach City Council, about to enter a new term of office, should resolve to make that task the first and major order of business.

THE CITY SHOULD BEGIN at once to prepare a comprehensive report on what causes subsidence, how far the land has subsided and how far it is expected to subside, and what should be done to prevent it. It is true that there are reports on these subjects—but no all-inclusive report originated by Long Beach itself. As evidence of intense and continuing interest, this report should be kept up to date and revised whenever new materials present themselves.

Having stated the nature of the problem and what should be done about it, the city should then go on to state in concrete, specific, and detailed terms just how to go about the solution.

In short, when the interim committee arrives here and starts asking direct questions about what we have done and what we propose to do, our city officials should be prepared to answer effectively with detailed, documentary evidence.

IF LONG BEACH DOES THIS, the interim committee, made up of a group of intelligent, discerning men, cannot help but be favorably impressed.

If favorably impressed, the committee will make a favorable report to the legislature.

With the Governor already on record as sympathetic with our problem, we could then expect affirmative action on the legislation. That, in turn, would go a long way in convincing Congress that Long Beach and California really mean business about subsidence.

Did U. S. Intend to Use Girard as Foreign Policy Scapegoat?

AMERICANS SHOULD CHEER the decision of U. S. District Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy barring the government from surrendering Army Specialist William S. Girard to Japan for trial on manslaughter charges.

Judge McGarraghy said "it is uncontroverted" that at the time Girard shot and killed a Japanese woman scrap metal scavenger, he "was acting as a member of the American armed forces in the performance of his official duties."

J. S. KNIGHT

This is the same point I raised two weeks ago in discussing the Girard case. The U. S. firing range at Somagahara Village has a sign reading:

Stop: You are violating the joint administrative agreement between the United States and Japan by entering this area. Offenders will be apprehended and taken to the Japanese police for prosecution in accordance with this agreement.

If this warning was being disregarded, as apparently it was, the fault clearly lies with the Army. Why did the officers in charge permit the Japanese to pick up fired shells to sell as scrap?

Robert Dechert, Defense Department general counsel, admits that Girard didn't kill the Japanese woman deliberately.

He adds, however, that Girard's action was "such a complete departure from his duty . . . that he could not have been considered on duty."

This tortured reasoning is difficult to follow. Girard was in uniform, and on duty. If his actions were careless, or in violation of his instructions, Judge McGarraghy says, "the uniform code of military justice establishes every procedure to be followed."

WHY, THEN, DID Secretaries Wilson and Dulles, with President Eisenhower's approval, decide that Girard should be tried in a Japanese court?

Putting it bluntly, our government is so worried over the rising tide of anti-American sentiment in Japan that it decided Girard was expendable.

Here was a chance to show our former enemies, and they could be again, that the Americans are a kindly and forgiving people who respect their agreements and want to be friends.

So Girard was made the scapegoat.

Some of our readers ask how I would feel if the situation were reversed and a Japanese soldier stationed in this country committed a crime against an American civilian?

The question, of course, would rest upon where the crime was committed. If an American civilian invaded a forbidden Japanese military area in this country, presuming that one existed, an offense against his person by a Japanese soldier would bring that soldier under Japanese military jurisdiction.

GIRARD WAS ON DUTY at an Army reservation. He did not kill the Japanese woman by striking her over the head with a beer bottle in a Tokyo night club.

Judge McGarraghy emphasizes that "the proposed delivery of the petitioner (Girard) to the Japanese government would violate rights of the petitioner guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States."

It is a sound decision, and should be a warning to those in high places who continue to barter away our rights in the naive belief that we are winning friends.

We could do with a few Judge McGarraghy's on the Supreme Court.

RANDOM NOTES: Sinclair Weeks, the jovial Secretary of Commerce, recently reassured Chicago businessmen that the Eisenhower administration has no New Deal or Socialistic leanings. . . . In attempting to explain the difference between a Modern Republican and a New Deal Democrat, the Secretary said the Eisenhower administration has tried to create a good climate for business . . . that business hasn't had as good a friend in Washington since Herbert Hoover was in the White House. . . . G. O. P. contributions in Illinois have been lagging because of dissatisfaction with Ike's big budget.

DICK MAYER, the handsome ulcer boy who won the National Open Golf championship from Dr. Cary Middlecoff, has a problem that comes in bottles and a pretty wife who is determined to solve it. . . . Billy Jo Patton, colorful amateur from Morgantown, N. C., who made such a brilliant showing in his first two rounds at Toledo, wants to run for Congress when the timing seems propitious. . . . He's a Republican, and a great friend of Ike's.

Sen. Jack Kennedy of Massachusetts is asking friends whether he's getting "too far out in front" as a Presidential candidate in 1960. . . . They're telling him to concentrate on getting re-elected in 1958. . . . Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-O.) can never criticize Ike for playing too much golf. . . . Lausche, who sports a 4 handicap, not only plays better, but more often.

Russ Talk Peace, Disarmament but Actions Belie Their Words

WASHINGTON—The Paradox of the hour is the way the Russians profess to be advocating "disarmament" at London at the very time that Moscow and Peiping are making military moves of a threatening nature aimed at the West.

* * * *

THE NEWS dispatches have an ominous sound and the latest "communique" on the "cold war" reads as follows:

1. Egypt has been furnished three Soviet submarines to help patrol the Mediterranean and keep a watchful eye on the U. S. 6th Fleet. Israel thinks the move may be directed at her shipping and is preparing counter measures.

2. A Soviet cruiser and two escort vessels have just passed through the Turkish straits to the Mediterranean, and several more cruisers and destroyers of the Soviet navy are scheduled to pass through the same waterway soon.

3. The Russian navy has turned Albania into an armed camp, posing a threat to allied strategy in the Mediterranean. Submarine bases, according to United Press reports, have been built less than 50 miles from the Italian shore, and a large naval base in Albania has been "fortified and enlarged." A network of five airfields capable of handling jet planes has been established.

4. The United Nations command in Korea has at last been authorized to tell the Red Chinese formally that, because the armistice agreement has been violated by the Communist forces, it becomes necessary for the U.N. units to be given "modern weapons" to offset the advantage. Both the North Koreans and the Chinese Communists have illegally introduced new weapons into the area they hold north of the armistice line.

5. The Chinese Communists are building up more airfields for jet planes opposite Formosa, and considerable nervousness has reappeared in the area.

* * * *

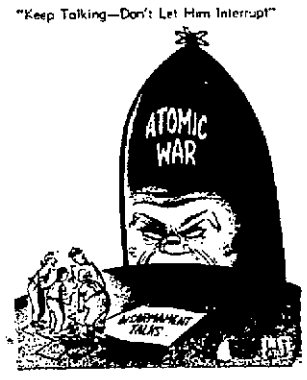

ALL THIS doesn't sound as if tensions are being removed. It gives the impression that the London talks are just part of a sparring match going on to fix responsibility by one side or the other for a possible breakdown.

The Russians, of course, get a big propaganda advantage in the world at large out of their pose as seekers of peace. It helps to quiet the fears of their own people and enables the Moscow strategists at the same time to keep up constant criticism of the West by seizing every sign of a difference of opinion and magnifying it to make it appear that the allies are disunited.

Actually, the negotiations are so delicate that it is a matter of deep regret that President Eisenhower permitted any discussion of the disarmament problem at his press conference. The president talks informally and likes to answer the newsmen, but every syllable he utters should have been written out in advance. Off-the-cuff comments on foreign affairs are dangerous. Press secretary Hagerty had to straighten out a misapprehension gained by the reporters from an overcondensed statement which the President made on disarmament. Moscow radio took advantage of the episode. When finally cleared up, it turned out that Mr. Eisenhower had not deviated from the agreed-upon line with the allies.

Meanwhile, Sen. Lyndon Johnson, Democratic leader, has come part way toward "cooperation" with the President and the disarmament mission headed by Harold Stassen. The Texas senator says he will agree to let some Democratic Senators go to London provided he gets a "formal request" from the President. Even so, the senators are merely to be "observers" and not members of the mission.

"Keep Talking—Don't Let Him Interrupt"

* * * *

THE IDEA of any senators going on a foreign mission and remaining aloof and inarticulate, so that those diplomats doing the negotiating of a treaty do not know whether or not the senators present will approve or disapprove when they go back home to vote, will be regarded as a piece of political chicanery that does not reflect a wholehearted desire to cooperate.

SENATOR SOAPER SAYS:

Ike Must Like the Way Solons Replace Divots

By BILL VAUGHAN

GOOD GOLFER that he is, Ike must approve of the way Congress is replacing the divots it had hacked in his budget.

* * * *

BAD NEWS for Harry Truman's grandson, the one who is going to be a Senator: The Senate just raised the price of its famous bean soup.

* * * *

"I'M SO mad at myself," the big labor leader snapped to his secretary, "I want you to cancel that testimonial dinner I was going to give me."

* * * *

CONSOLING his wife as their little boy went off to camp for the first time, a neighbor put it this way: "Don't think of it as losing a son, think of it as gaining two turtles and a garter-snake."

* * * *

THE OLD home town is not inviting Queen Elizabeth and her husband to visit its centennial, on account of all the trouble Prince Philip got in last time he grew a beard.

* * * *

WHICH political party is racked with internal strife and which is strengthened by healthy differences of opinion depends somewhat on which national chairman you are listening to.

* * * *

NOTHING upsets a disarmament conference quite as much, it sometimes seems, as for somebody to suggest disarming.

* * * *

A STUDENT of the subject says that feuds are dying out in America. In the modern world nobody knows his neighbor well enough to want to shoot him.

* * * *

IT SORT of symbolizes the season, like strawberry shortcake or diving in the old swimming hole, when you switch on the air conditioner and blow the first fuse of summer.

* * * *

IT IS pointed out that you can rent almost anything from a baby bed to a motorcar. Almost anything except, in some towns, a place to live.

Congressmen Broil at Big U. S. Navy Review

WASHINGTON—Temperatures, smoldering in the 90's, were no hotter than the tempers of congressmen who attended the Navy's big international review at Hampton Roads, Va., hailing the 350th anniversary of Jamestown. It was a day most of them would like to forget.

The Navy lost no time ruffling sensitivities. As the Senate-House members, about 125 in number, deplaned at Norfolk airport, they were herded into steamy buses for the ride to Hampton Roads.

Arriving aboard U. S. cruisers, the legislators had to sit almost two hours on hot decks before weighing anchor.

Bald-headed Speaker Rayburn, like most others from Capitol Hill, had to sit on a hard folding chair. The high naval brass on Rayburn's ship, the Boston, were comfortably ensconced in the plush interior of the captain's cabin. So was Navy Secretary Thomas Gates. Late in the afternoon, the Navy broke down and invited the uncomplaining Rayburn into the cabin for iced tea.

REP. VINSON, the House Armed Services Chairman, aboard the cruiser Canberra, rated even less attention. He was excluded from the captain's cabin, where Defense Secretary Wilson sat, but was invited into the chief petty officers' cabin along with Sens. Capehart (Ind.) and Smith (N.J.) and Rep. Porter Hardy (Va.).

When lunch was announced, naval dignitaries were served in cabins. Congressmen had to rustle their snacks from buffet tables, hoping their chairs wouldn't be snatched while they stood in line.

"That was the last food we saw until we got back to Washington by plane seven or eight hours later," an irate congressman reported. "Navy protocol apparently doesn't anticipate that a congressman likes to eat. I've never been so hot and hungry in all my life. And to think we adjourned Congress for one full day for that."

REPUBLICAN SPIRITS in Congress have revived. Relations are much more cheerful between the Hill and the White House. Teamwork over the civil rights bill is considered partly responsible.

"The 1958 campaign is already under way," confided House Republican Chief Joe Martin at a recent White House parley at which was discussed the great job he did of expediting civil rights action.

Senate GOP Leader Bill Knowland, who dragged his feet early in this session, now seems determined to make a better-late-than-never battle.

"I STILL THINK there's a chance to beat a southern filibuster. But win or lose, we'll fight it out," he told the President.

TOWN MEETING

Broadening of Fiscus Law Asked

TO THE EDITOR:

The Dale Park Parents Assn. is deeply concerned with protecting our children from hazards which present a continual threat to their lives and to the lives of other children throughout the state of California.

Therefore, we are asking that the Kathy Fiscus Law be strongly enforced and broadeneed to cover such hazards as open drainage ditches, abandoned excavation holes, gravel pits, unfenced flood control canals, and oil sumps.

* * * *

ASSEMBLYMAN Richard T. Hanna is sponsor of a resolution calling for a special study by an Assembly interim committee on public health to determine how the law may be strengthened, according to a recent news article.

Assemblyman Hanna states: "I have personally asked Byron Rumford, Assemblyman from Berkeley, who is chairman of the interim committee, to come out to our area in Orange County to conduct hearings on the Kathy Fiscus ordinance."

* * * *

OUR ORGANIZATION, in addition, is asking for more backing from parents and clubs in order to have the strengthening or broadening of the law put on the state legislative agenda for 1959.

We are asking that the people write to their Assemblyman in regard to this matter, and if in need of further information, contact:

MRS. RICHARD HANING

Wretches Deserve Supreme Penalty

TO THE EDITOR:

Those rotten wretches who prey on women and do injury should get the supreme penalty lawmakers can mete.

Women, though, must learn to protect themselves on the street at night and in the homes, when alone.

Grandma, I hear, did pretty well with an 8-inch hatpin. Seems men are more depraved today.

Whose fault is this? What kind of mothers raised such perverted bums?

Rage and hate may be so embedded in such men's souls that they must harm good people.

The "why" is a terrible dilemma, but we must protect ourselves and our daughters.

Wouldn't Listen to Free Lancer

TO THE EDITOR:

Mr. Arthur M. Spencer expresses surprise that the Catholic Church forbids its members to attend Billy Graham's services.

Catholics do not challenge the good intentions of Mr. Graham, but since their Church is founded on the rock of God's revelation they have the truth within their Church and need not seek it elsewhere. Christ was very positive in all that He taught, and the Church He founded cannot accept all manner of contradictory doctrine. Christ charged the Church's officials to keep careful watch over the preaching of the word. This they are doing. This they are obliged to do. As a Catholic, I would do violence to my conscience were I to listen to a preacher who is strictly on his own and preaching his own ideas on religion.

Thankful for L.A.C. Column

TO THE EDITOR:

Readers of the Independent Press-Telegram could be very thankful for the editorial column written by L.A.C.

For example, he told recently about the construction of expensive, non-essential buildings with elaborate furnishings in Washington. Meanwhile, school buildings are needed all over the United States.

But we don't need to go to Washington to find examples of extravagance. We have them right here in Los Angeles County.

The County Manager, aided and abetted by L. A. interests, without giving the people in the county a chance to vote, have planned an auditorium and parking facilities which will cost, according to their estimates, $60,000,000. By the time it is paid for—interest and extras—it will cost $200,000,000.

Opposed to Package Deal

TO THE EDITOR:

Many civic minded groups of people are in opposition to the "package deal" agreement recently approved by our City Council members. This "package deal" agreement solves the problem of obtaining necessary lands to complete the approaches to the Davies bridge, but carries along with it the prerequisite that the Appian Way strip between Nieto and the Davies bridge be subdivided.

To lose this valuable property for park, parking, and recreational purposes is contrary to the will of the majority of the citizens in Long Beach, who voted for Proposition A on the ballot in 1953. At that time various plans for using that area as a site for a marine museum, areas for outdoor games, parking facilities etc., were written up in your newspaper as a fait accompli.

There are ways in which the city can act to obtain this land for public use. These ways need to be explored before it is too late.

We've all waited a long time for the Marina. It is unwise now to act hastily for the purpose of expediency.

Instructor to Study in Germany

Elmo Shaver, 4215 Livingston Dr., instructor at Orange Coast College, Costa Mesa, will leave Tuesday on a Fulbright scholarship to study in Germany this summer.

Shaver, has spent considerable time previously on the continent, but this will be his first opportunity to study in Germany.

The eight-week course, planned by the U. S. Educational Commission in the West German Republic, will include a summer seminar for German teachers at the Goethe Institute of the University of Munich.

* * * *

HIS COURSES will include stylistics and modern German literature and poetry. A week in Berlin will feature visits to its educational institutes and lectures by the professors of the Free University.

Shaver also will visit Dusseldorf, Paris, Vienna and Salzburg.

When he returns to Orange Coast College next fall it will mark his 10th year at the college, during which time he has taught French, German and Spanish and been advisor to Polyglots, the foreign language club.

Pro-Red Rulings Stir Only Slight Comment

By Walter T. Ridder, Robert E. Lee and William W. Broom

WASHINGTON — A group of important Supreme Court decisions last week produced surprisingly little congressional comment, leading some observers to suspect a lessening of the nation's fears about domestic communism.

The decisions served unmistakably to fortify the personal rights and freedoms of individuals under the Constitution, and each came at the expense of anti-Communst action by the federal government.

Within a matter of hours and by lop-sided votes, the court overturned the convictions of five Communist leaders and a former Communist labor organizer and the discharge of a former foreign service officer as a security risk. A few years ago this would have produced loud outcries on Capitol Hill.

Some lawyers and congressmen read the comparative silence which greeted the court's actions as an indication that the nation, through its elected representatives, is serving notice that fighting communism without regard for basic human rights won't be tolerated. Among other explanations was one heard from some congressmen privately that they weren't going to argue when the court is interpreting constitutional guarantees of liberty. It's a different matter, they pointed out, when the court passes judgment upon acts of Congress.

Since Charlie Wilson became Secretary of Defense, his old firm, General Motors, has been the butt of countless jokes about its influence here.

But GM last week took a back seat to General Foods. GF, in a masterpiece of promotion, lined up two senators and seven House members to help it plug a new line of salad dressing.

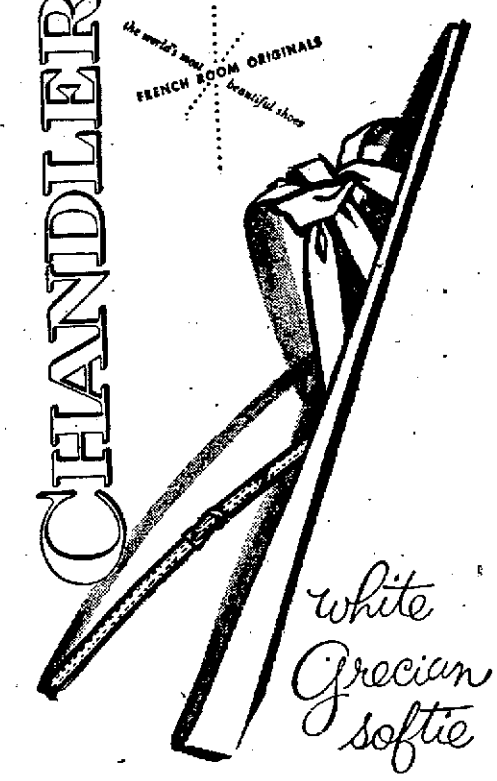

GF representatives sponsored a luncheon in the Capitol featuring a special "Senate Salad" whose ingredients ranged from Maine lobster to California lettuce, olives and avocadoes. It was billed as the biggest salad ever tossed. Even Texas got into the act—with onions.

Ex-Mayor's Relative Pens Mystery Novel

A former Long Beach man has created something new for whodunit fans—a female private eye with the figure of a Miss Universe and the habits of a Mickey Spillane hero.

The golden-haired, blue-eyed shamus comes into being July 2, with release of 250,000 copies of a book called "This Girl for Hire."

The author is 32-year-old Skip Fickling, of 490 Hilledge Dr., Laguna Beach, who writes in association with his wife Gloria under the pen name G. G. Fickling. He is the grandson of former Long Beach mayor A. E. Fickling, and the son of D. Forrest Fickling, of 1401 E. 33rd St.

* * * *

FICKLING'S private eye is a fictional first. She had to break through a staunch publishing barrier against females-for-hire.

"I had to go to just about every publishing house in New York," says the author. He finally struck pay dirt with Pyramid Books. The initial print run is a record-breaker for the publisher.

SKIP FICKLING
Her Name Is Honey

Fickling's heronie is named Honey, and she's a Long Beach resident too. Has offices on Pine Ave. and pals around with a Press-Telegram reporter.

* * * *

IN "THIS GIRL for Hire," Honey does her killer-hunting over on nearby Catalina Island.

She is slated for other adventures. Fickling is currently at work full-time on another novel, to be called Masquarade for Murder" and to be released early in 1958.

"I got the idea for Honey from reading so many of the rough-tough male private eye stories," Fickling says. "Those and the emphasis today on girls like Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield."

Fickling is a graduate of the University of Southern California. Mrs. Fickling is a former assistant editor for Look Magazine.

FOR OPERATION

Boy's Illness Forces Sale of House

"For sale" says the sign on the front lawn of a brown house, trimmed with green, at 6938 Fairbrook St. (near Stearns and Studebaker Rd.).

But it is more than just an ordinary house for sale. It is the home of M-Sgt. James Summitt: his wife, Hannelore; their little blind boy, Bobby, almost 10; their daughter, Sharon, 4½, and Hannelore's mother, Mrs. Joanna Munderloh, who came over three years ago from Bremen, Germany.

* * * *

THE SUMMITTS must sell because Bobby, whose sight was destroyed by cancer so long ago he has almost forgotten what sight is, must have operations on his eyes. He has a glass eye in the right socket; he needs a glass eye in the left socket.

Summitt is at Hamilton Air Force Base; Hannelore is in San Francisco where she can be near him. Her mother is taking care of the children here until the house can be sold and they can establish a home in or near San Francisco.

There Bobby will enter the hospital again, but he does not know it yet because he is afraid of hospitals and doctors.

The house has three bedrooms, two baths, a living room, dining room and kitchen.

Parakeet Flies Coop; Speaks English, Spanish

If you hear a green parakeet say, "God bless you! When do we eat?" in either English or Spanish, it will be Panchito, the pet of Mary Brandenburg, 5361 E. Ocean Blvd. He flew away Friday.

There are 41 different things that Panchito says equally well in English and Spanish, says his mistress, and they aren't easy things either.

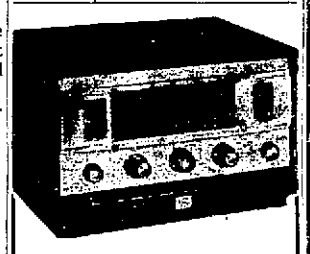

Panchito waxes philosophical, for instance, and says "There is no rule without exceptions" and "Don't say anything when there is nothing to say" in both languages.

Traffic Toll

Traffic accidents killed a total of 666 persons in the unincorporated areas of California during the first four months of 1957. That represented a decreased of 1.8 per cent from those killed in the same period of 1956.

McCann-Erickson Has Sawyer Account

Effective July 1, advertising for Tom Sawyer Foods, Inc., Los Angeles, is being handled by McCann-Erickson, Inc., Los Angeles, according to a joint announcement by both organizations. Tom Sawyer, under its newly elected president, Charles F. Fuller, produces candies, nuts, peanut butter, potato chips and other food items, operating principally in Southern California.

PRUSSIAN SYSTEM JUNKED

Johnny Gets His Gun Early

By BEM PRICE

FT. BENNING, Ga.—The Army has thrown away its time-worn training manual and is busy writing a new one with considerable imagination in the belief that the end result will be the best trained infantryman the world has ever seen.

I have just participated in this new training operation, called trainfire. I wish I had had similar training in 1942.

To me this training is nothing short of amazing. Without much fuss or bother, little profanity and no apparent hazing, the Army is turning out kids who behave almost as if they were veteran troops about halfway through their eight weeks of basic training.

Ever since Baron von Steuben came over in 1777 to reshape George Washington's army at Valley Forge, the American military system has been cast in the Prussian mold.

This ancient training system, though modified by later wars, still has about as much relation to actual combat as a firecracker to a hand grenade.

Under 18th Century training methods, still used in the Marines, it was thought necessary to instill a sense of discipline first through interminable close order drill.

For shock troops, such as the Marines, rigid discipline probably is paramount. For the Army, which plans to operate in small units over wide areas, initiative, skill and discipline go hand-in-hand.

UNDER THE OLD SYSTEM, the recruit was introduced to his weapon, the rifle, only at last. Then he was taught to employ it against stationary targets placed at known distances. This is still standard procedure for most armies.

In modern combat the infantryman is about as likely to find a stationary target at a known distance as he is to meet Jane Mansfield in a mother hubbard.

This Prussian system has been just about junked by the Army. Six days after he enters training the Army recruit, clad in steel helmet and wearing a light combat pack, is firing at man-shaped pop-up targets partially hidden by grass and weeds.

He learns to shoot from a sandbagged trench, around trees and advancing in the open as he would in combat. Almost before he learns to march, the recruit is taught to bring aimed rifle fire against targets he can see for only 30 seconds.

By the time he has completed his initial firing course, the raw recruit is handling his weapon with the confidence of a veteran.

The effect on the recruit's morale and the enthusiasm he brings to this new method of training is remarkable.

Additionally, the new recruit is given a still target detection course in which he learns to pick out carefully camouflaged men hidden amidst the brush, trees and grass of open range.

Finally, in the last four weeks of his training, the recruit is taught to move and fire while on the defense or advancing, at night and in daylight.

HAVING LEARNED by practice that it take four seconds for a man to take aim and fire, he moves in three-second rushes.

In all, the recruit receives 87 hours of rifle training in his eight weeks of basic training, practically all of it under combat target conditions against which he uses live ammunition.

The Army didn't adopt this new system overnight. Before it was made standard operating procedure, the Army used 12,000 troops in an experiment. Half were trained under the old system, half under the new.

In no instance did any of the troops trained under the old system do half so well on the combat target range as those trained under the new.

I WAS TRAINED on known distance target ranges to qualify as a Marine sharpshooter.

Though I haven't fired a rifle since Korea at a target, I still was able to group shots on a known distance target here closely enough so that they could be covered by a quarter.

But on the pop-up range I was a bust, missing two silhouette targets at ranges from 75 yards to 200 yards in eight shots.

On the target spotting course, it was easy to pick out the potential danger points—clumps of bushes, brush and trees. It was not easy to spot the actual targets. I missed a man in a camouflage suit with leaf-garlanded helmet 30 yards away. I discovered him only after he had fired a blank round at me.

In combat such a mistake would have been fatal. After a couple of lessons these kids learn to pick up targets with remarkable skill.

THEY HAVE abandoned the use of the sling as a means of steadying the weapon. Nobody used it in combat.

All in all this new training method probably would strike the combat veteran as eminently sensible. He might just have—as I did—the uneasy feeling that a lot of men would be alive today if this type training had been inaugurated after World War II.

Sand Tip

If your vacation trip takes you to the beach, remember the rule for sand driving. Don't try to start the car in low gear. Get into second, release the clutch slowly, and apply the gas carefully. It will prevent the wheels from spinning, which means "digging in."

Driving Tip

Never drive in a hot, stuffy, smoke-filled car, advises the National Automobile Club. These conditions can mean drowsiness and drowsiness can mean death.

L.B. Bulldog Among Winners at Show

AFGHANS ON PARADE

The two-day 22nd annual Harbor Cities Kennel Club dog show—largest of its kind in the west—opened Saturday on a specially prepared area adjoining Municipal Auditorium. Before its close Sunday, more than 2,200 dogs will have competed for $10,000 worth of trophies. A corps of 19 judges from the U. S. and Hawaii is making the awards. Picture shows Afghan hounds lined up for inspection.—(Staff Photo.)

A bulldog, an Afgan hound and a toy poodle shared top honors Saturday in the 22nd annual All Breed Dog Show and Obedience Trial of the Harbor Cities Kennel Club, in Municipal Auditorium.

Ch. Kippax Fearnought, bulldog owned by Dr. John A. Saylor, 4409 Pepperwood Ave., Long Beach, was judged best in the nonsporting group.

Ch. Marisman Silver Beau, poodle owned by Mrs. Kenneth W. Law, Los Angeles, was chosen best of the toy breeds.

Ch. Crown Crest Zardonx, Afghan owned by Kay S. Finch, Corona Del Mar, was best of hounds.

The three dogs will compete with three other "best of group" dogs chosen in judging today for the Best of Show Award.

THE STATION WAGON

is a

NEW WAY OF LIFE!

1957 STATION WAGONS COMBINE UTILITY AND STYLE TO BLEND WITH SOUTHLAND WAY OF LIFE

To the market with easy grocery loading . . . driving the entire "nine" to the Little League game . . . or loaded with gear for that long week-end camping jaunt . . . the "workhorse on wheels," the very practical station wagon, has come into its own as standard transportation for thousands of Californians.

The 1957 models are sleek, beautiful, comfortable . . . yet these features combine with the latest innovations for efficient business and vacation travel. It's "Wagon Week" in Long Beach

Dealers Will Show Newest in Styling of Station Wagons

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor, Indep., Press-Telegram

Station wagons are as much a part of Southland living today as the barbecue and patio. You just aren't enjoying life in its fullest without one.

While the sales of station wagons over the nation are showing a good increase each year, Southern California paces the world in the purchase of the roomy, comfortable suburban cars.

This is "Wagon Week" in Long Beach and the local new agencies will be featuring displays of the many types of station wagons along with the various camping aid suggestions to take on vacation trips.

Only a few years ago the station wagon was a luxury car for the estate-class of home. It then was a beautiful body which combined wood panel and metal. The car was used to go to the station to meet guests and escort them to the rural estate for the week end.

* * * *

NOW THE WAGONS come in the finest of metal designs and are within reach of nearly every family budget. Of course, the luxury models are still carying a luxury price because they are powered with the biggest motors and contain rich upholstering and fittings.

But, the average family can have just as much fun and enjoy a vacation trip in a lower cost model as those in the luxury class.

One of the greatest advantages of the modern station wagon is the way it combines the advantages of a pickup truck with the comfort of a sedan. It allows mom and dad to carry the youngsters on a long trip with ample room for the luggage.

* * * *

LONG BEACH DEALERS report the station wagon is in big demands as the second car for growing families. Mom can do the shopping, take the youngsters to the beach or picnic or she isn't the least ashamed to drive the wagon to her club meeting. She couldn't do such things in a pickup truck.

More and more the manufacturers are turning to improved station wagons as they see the sales climb. It is estimated that nearly 800,000 wagons will be sold in the United States this year.

Long Beach dealers invite the public to visit their show rooms this week and see the beautiful models. They want the public to inspect the models for roominess and styling. And they will be happy to show the many types of color combinations offered.

* * * *

YOU WILL BE AMAZED at the many improvements in the new models. Some have reclining seats permitting passengers to sleep on trips. Others have seats that fold into the floor to permit large rear area to be used for truck purposes.

Children may be placed in the rear section of some wagons and your worries about their safety will be ended during the ride for they cannot open doors or windows from the section.

Whether you are in the market now for a station wagon, makes no difference to the dealers. They know that you and two out of every three other Southern Californias soon will be wanting a wagon. That is why they want you to visit the show rooms during this observance of "Wagon Week."

Burt Boosting English Fords

Among the best sellers at Bob Burt's New Cars International Automobile Agency is English Ford's sensational 1957 Squire five-passenger station wagon.

Priced at only $1745 plus extras and tax, the Squire cruises at 60 miles per hour, has 42 cubic inches of space with the rear seat down, fits any small garage, has a horizontal tailgate, gets up to 35 miles per gallon, features a "glide ride" paneling and comes in a variety of popular colors.

Squire has the famous Anglia engine which has won countless spurs in international rallies. It has a three-speed gear box with a proven power unit that has given the Anglia an enviable reputation for performance and reliability.

Bob Burt's Cars International has now delivered 15 new and used cars since their opening recently, and continues to set a fast sales pace. In addition to the Squire, the agency features Anglias, Consuls, Zephyrs and the complete English Ford line.

Working with Bob Burt is Morris Nero, sales manager; Margaret Carroll, office manager, and Kai Iverson, service manager.

The agency will be open all day today at its 3580 East Pacific Coast Hwy. location.

GORGEOUS PAIR

One of the most popular station wagons at Long Beach's new Marina is English Ford's Squire five-passenger model. Swimming instructor Barbara Hankey, and the Squire make a gorgeous team. Squire is available at Bob Burt's Cars International, 3580 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

Fast Growth for Wagons

Ten years ago if a new company could have entered the American automobile industry with exclusive rights to produce the all-steel station wagon, it would have become the fastest growing company in the nation and in some years would have become the industry's third-ranking automobile make based on sales.

The company would have grown from one per cent of the market in 1946 to 11 per cent of the market in 1956. In the last five years alone, the company would have sold 2,285,400 units for almost five billion dollars. In 1956, it would have sold 622,300 units for $1¼ billion. The company would have been one of the top 25 companies in the whole of the nation. Few companies can boast such an achievement. The facts are pointed out by the Ford Co.

The reason, of course, is that the station wagon fits the needs of the times and meets the transportation demands of the growing trend toward suburban living with its relaxed atmosphere. Additionally, it fills the needs of the growing number of families (15 per cent) capable of affording two and even three cars. About one-fourth of all station wagons are sold to two-car families.

Big Grease Job in Auto Plants

With an estimated 1957 production of 6,500,000 passenger cars, it will take some 8 million gallons of crankcase oil, 12 million gallons of automatic transmission oil, and 24 million pounds of rear axle lubricant just to make the cars road-ready before leaving assembly plants.

You can't buy a bigger station wagon anywhere...at any price!

Yet, this smooth-riding Plymouth Suburban is still in the low-price 3

There isn't a single station wagon built that's bigger than the new Plymouth.

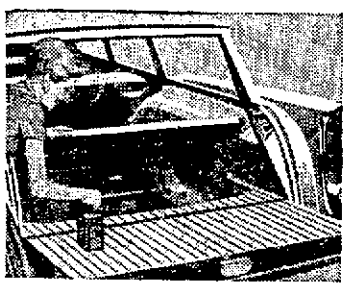

We're not just talking about the low-price 3, though Plymouth has the biggest in the lowest-price range. We mean all station wagons... low-price, medium-price, right on up to the so-called "big" luxury wagons. You can't buy bigger than Plymouth no matter how much you spend!

So why spend more—and settle for less? Especially when Plymouth offers you the magic smoothness of velvety Torsion-Aire Ride . . . Push-Button Driving . . . the Convenience of Total-Contact Brakes . . . Flight-Sweep Styling.

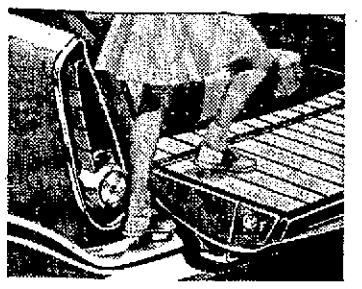

There's none bigger . . . and when you actually drive a Suburban you'll agree there's none better! See for yourself!

New Observation Seat. Available in all 9-passenger Suburban models. Folds flush into floor for extra cargo space.

Hidden luggage compartment. Locked space for safe, out-of-sight storage of luggage and valuables. On 6-passenger models.

Comfort steps on both sides of tailgate. Specially designed to make it so easy to get in and out of the new Observation Seat.

Disappearing rear window. Rolls down into tailgate. Locks securely from inside. Electrically controlled on all 9-passenger models.

THEY DON'T COME ANY BIGGER THAN Plymouth SUBURBANS

Ford Largely Responsible for Station Wagon Boom

Housewives, home craftsmen, children and even their pets share in the credit for the station wagon's spectacular rise in popularity.

Once considered a luxury vehicle, the station wagon was lifted out of the custom class when Ford Motor Co. became the first to mass produce the model in 1929.

The station wagon then gained wide acceptance among middle income families to make it the fourth largest selling body style in the auto industry today.

Blending utility with passenger car styling and riding comfort, the station wagon has become an ideal family car that also can double as a business vehicle.

Ford Motor Co., which sells more station wagons in the U. S. than any other manufacturer, has played a prominent role in the station wagon boom. Ford's introduction of its all metal-body in 1932 coincided with several basic changes in the American pattern of living.

* * * *

THE GENERAL increase in population, the shift to suburban living and the higher income of millions of American families set the stage for the station wagon's surge since World War II.

These factors and the appeal of the all steel station wagon are reflected in sales records. In 1940, station wagons constituted less than one per cent of the passenger car market. By 1950, they had risen to four per cent; in 1954, to 6.3 per cent; and in 1956, soared to a record 11 per cent.

Station wagon sales in the southern California area, where suburban living and travel are the keynote, far exceed those of the rest of the United States as indicated by these statistics from Ford Motor Co.

In 1954 when station wagons constituted 6.3% of the passenger car sales nationally, Ford produced 16.2% locally. In 1955 southern California station wagon production climbed to 20%; in 1956 to 24.3%; and in the first four months of 1957 station wagons accounted for 25.1%.

* * * *

MERCURY STATION wagons experienced a similar growth in popularity. First quarter sales percentages indicate the same trend. In the first quarter in 1954 Mercury station wagons accounted for 5% of passenger car sales in southern California: in 1955—9.1%; in 1956—10.2%; and 1957—12.6%.

During the 1940-1956 period, factory sales increased more than 25 times from 25,098 units to 638,508. Though 1956 was the station wagon's best year percentagewise, its greatest volume was 759,422 in 1955.

Ford's dominance in the station wagon field is indicated by a more than 1,000 per cent increase in Ford and Mercury station wagon registrations from 24,696 to 278,899 units in the five years ending in 1956. In that year, Ford and Mercury station wagons accounted for 46 per cent of all industry registrations of this type of unit.

* * * *

THE STATION WAGON'S roomy interior is put to a thousand-and-one uses. Owners report having used their wagons for transporting everything from skis and bass fiddles to television sets and church pews.

Families find it ideal for carrying groceries, the "do-it-yourself" fan's lumber, furniture and luggage, and for providing playing space for children on long trips.

Sportsmen and campers transport small boats, outboard motors, fishing tackle, guns and tents in it. Often the station wagon furnishes sleeping room for campers.

For car pools, to and from school and work, the station wagon is especially popular. It also serves as an ambulance and police vehicle. Salesmen, delivery men and farmers use it to carry their wares.

Station wagons have accounted for much of the growth in two-car ownership. Approximately one-fourth of all station wagon buyers own another car.

* * * *

PREFERENCE for all-purpose cars is based on the need for a larger vehicle to accommodate children, luggage and dogs (cited by 45 per cent of station wagon owners) and for hauling equipment and products (42 per cent). Nearly half of all station wagons double as business and family cars.

The modern station wagon is a far cry from its ancestor of 25 years ago. Characterized by its wood body, its appeal was to the owners of eastern estates. In Britain it still is called the estate car.

Ford, which began limited production of station wagons in 1929, for many years built the wood body panels in Michigan's lumber-rich Upper Peninsula. The conversion to the all metal body in 1952 brought an end to that operation.

Other changes that radically modified the station wagon were rear seats that folded down to form a continuous platform, improved hardware to open and close the rear door, improved weight distribution and handsome body lines which eliminated the box-like appearance.

* * * *

ALL THESE innovations were adopted when Ford Motor Co. research indicated a strong interest in such a vehicle. Evidence points to a continued growth in demand for the station wagon.

Today at Wayne, Mich., Mercury division is operating the industry's first plant constructed exclusively for building station wagon bodies. A 760 per cent rise in Mercury station wagon sales from 1947 to 1956 necessitated establishment of the plant.

Ford Motor Co.'s 1957 models include five Ford station wagons and six in the Mercury line. The variety of models reflects the growing demand for a versatile passenger car to meet the diverse needs of the modern American family.

The station wagon's success in filling those needs has been one of the most spectacular developments in the 60-year history of the automotive industry.

SCHOOL'S OUT

Use Care in Driving

"School's out, be careful," the Automobile Club of Southern California cautions motorists, as more than 1,300,000 Southland children on summer vacation.

Motorists and parents, both were urged by the Club's Public Safety Dept. to comply with the following precautions:

1. Don't send young children out on errands which require crossing streets at busy hours.

2. Encourage children to play in playgrounds or fenced-in areas.

3. When driving through residential areas, keep speed down and be particularly alert for indications of children a play.

Borgward Provides Big Interior Space

High performance, mechanical simplicity and unusual economy are outstanding characteristics of the Borgward station wagon model, it is pointed out by Dave Thomas of Dave Thomas Motors, Borgward dealership for the Long Beach territory.

The four-cylinder overhead valve engine, with bore and stroke of 2.95 by 3.38, 81 cu. in. displacement, and 8.2 compression, carries a 75 horsepower rating.

Drive is through a four-speed syncromesh transmission, with a high ratio of 3.9, which has produced in road tests, a top speed of 92.8 m.p.h. All gears operate in syncromesh which facilitates changing up or down.

Bolted directly on top of the valve cover, the Solex compound carburetor provides exceptionally fast acceleration—0-60 in 16 seconds and a peak speed of more than 90 mph. Service accessibility is enhanced by the simplicity of the carburetor mounting. Through cylinder compactness, the Borgward offers the economy appeal of up to 35 m.p.h.

* * * *

COIL SPRINGS SUSPENSION is used on all four wheels with DeDion type swinging axle in the rear, anchored to a rubber trailing arm on each side. The overall riding quality is a combination of slightly firm in town and extremely good for high speed cruising on poor roads.

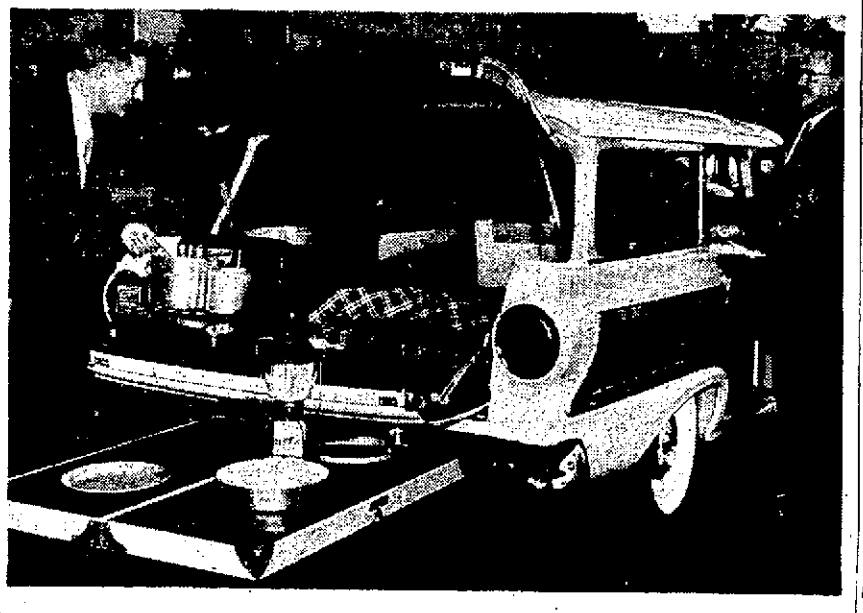

Steering is free from backlash, and on three spins of the wheel, lock to lock, turns in a 36-foot circle.

Employing the unit frame and body construction, the Borgward independent front suspension is mounted on its own sub-frame, a front cross member rubber mounted to the body structure. The engine, in turn, is rubber mounted to the cross member front, and to be under-dash structure at the rear.

For a car of unusually compact overall demensions, Thomas reported, the Borgward station wagon affords surprisingly large interior space with excellent visibility for the driver and ample head room for all.

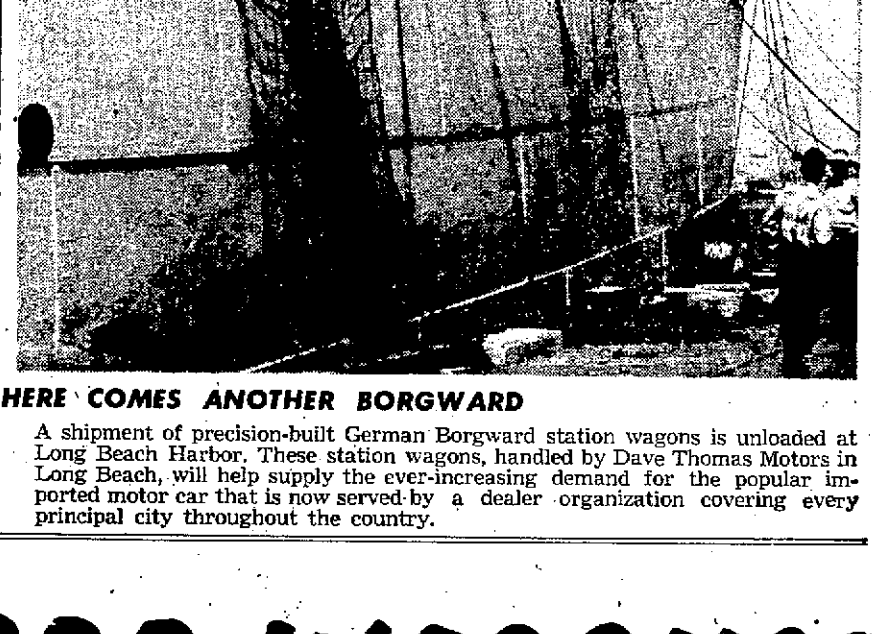

Blind Intersection Is Death Trap

When you come to a blind intersection, slow to 15 miles per hour and move through with great care. The National Automobile Club reminds you that only bad drivers ignore blind intersections.

CAMPERS' DELIGHT

Vacation time camping display is checked by W. H. Klein, Ford Division Los Angeles district sales manager, left, and Thurlo Newell, assistant sales manager. Ford wagons presently account for 26 per cent of all Ford sales.

HERE COMES ANOTHER BORGWARD

A shipment of precision-built German Borgward station wagons is unloaded at Long Beach Harbor. These station wagons, handled by Dave Thomas Motors in Long Beach, will help supply the ever-increasing demand for the popular imported motor car that is now served by a dealer organization covering every principal city throughout the country.

Chevrolet Offering Six Models of Station Wagons

Fastest rising stars in Chevrolet's array of 20 passenger car models are the 1957 station wagons, which combine smartness, utility and roominess for today's "on-the-go" family.

Output of this popular body style is two and a half times the rate of only three years ago, Chevrolet reports. This rise is further emphasized by the fact that a third of the 1957 line—or six models—are station wagons. Over one of every eight cars coming off the company's assembly lines is this body type and the proportion is expected to increase in ensuing years.

An early leader in the field, Chevrolet this year offers six models to fit the budget of every family. As in other passenger car models, wide choices are available in solid and two-tone exterior colors, power trains and comfort options.

* * * *

PRESTIGE LEADER is the Nomad, a two-door of the Bel Air series, distinguished by its elegant appointments and styling. This was the General Motors Motorama "dream wagon" which was put into production in 1955 after receiving widespread approbation of auto showgoers. The Nomad exterior is identified by flow-back pillars and window panels and ribbed roof.

A second Bel Air model is the four-door, accommodating six passengers and carrying the aluminum rear fender insert and chrome treatment identifying all Bel Air models.

There are three wagons in the middle range Two-Ten Series—a three-seater nine-passenger four-door with removable third seat and folding middle seat; a two-door and a four-door, each of six-passenger capacity. Economy leader of the line is the One-Fifty two-door. All station wagons have a folding second seat which lets down flush with the floor to permit a number of variations in hauling. With this arrangement cargo space amounts to 87 cubic feet.

* * * *

THE WAGONS, like the other passenger models, have lower, longer profiles, richer interiors and noteworthy mechanical advances in 1957. High on the list is an exclusive automatic transmission — Turboglide — a three-turbine unit that delivers the smoothest flow of power thus far attainable in this type of device.

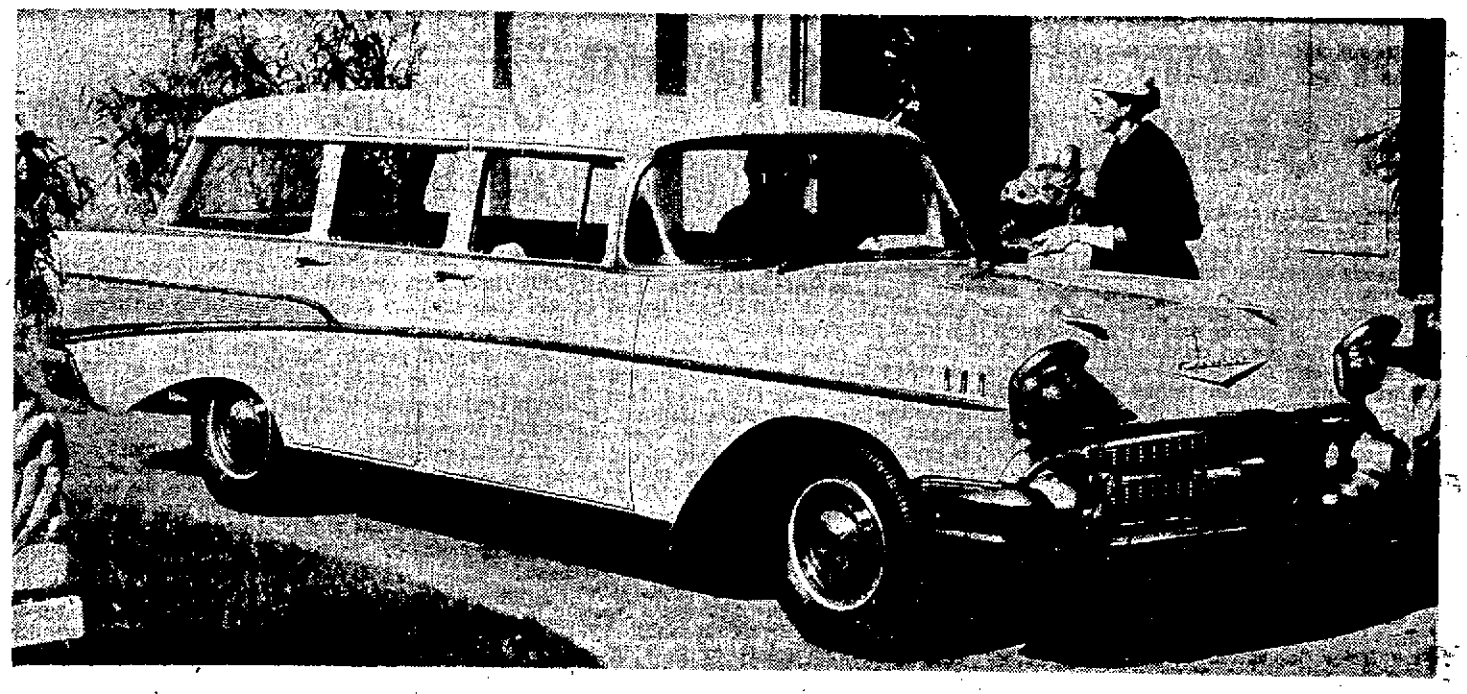

The new design permits a broad total of 460 different color combinations for the 20 models Chevrolet offers in 1957. There are four different versions of the V8 engine and six-cylinder with the top horsepower being 283 in the fuel injection unit—or one horsepower for each cubic inch of displacement.

In addition to the six station wagons, the line includes three four-doors, three two-doors, two sport coupes, two sport sedans, a club coupe, a utility sedan, a convertible and the Corvette.

DESIGN FEATURES a rugged front end blending a massive guard and bumper ensemble with aluminum grille screen and inset parking lamps. Lance-shaped windsplits on the hood give a further modern mark. Styling theme is integration.

The optional Ramjet fuel injection system introduced this year by Chevrolet for some passenger cars, meters air and gasoline to each of the eight cylinders in precise amounts needed for any driving condition. Engineers point out it is more economical and responsive, gives faster warm-up and eliminates engine stalling.

Among other mechanical advancements are 14-inch wheels and lower pressure tires for further riding comfort and safety, modified front suspensions and shock absorbers, better vehicle braking and handling, more rigid frame and improved ventilation.

HERE IS ONE CHEVROLET MODEL

Catering to a fast-growing segment of the automobile market, Chevrolet for 1957 offers six station wagons, covering a wide range of prices and features. Choices includes two and four-dooor models, six and nine-passenger capacities and a variety in horsepower. All station wagons have a folding second seat which can be let down flush to the floor. With seats folded, Chevrolet wagons have a cargo space of 87 cubic feet. The Chevrolet wagon line is on display at Beach City Chevrolet, Cormier Chevrolet and Harbor Chevrolet in Long Beach.

Plan Trip Ahead to Enjoy It

Good trips, like good meals, are planned ahead.

A little forethought can add a lot of pleasure to any long automobile journey. Undoubtedly you check your tires, brakes, lights and the general condition of your car before you start. But here are some planning pointers you may not have thought of for the trip:

Get a good night's rest before you set off. Many driver-asleep accidents occur in the first half-day of driving, a good indication that the driver did not get enough sleep the night before.

Get the latest maps and highway information. Elemental, of course. But if the map in your glove compartment is last year's, it won't show a road that has been closed or a ferry service that's been discontinued. Gas stations can offer good advice when you have a choice of routes.

* * * *

DON'T TRAVEL so long in a day that driving becomes a grind. If need be, plan to spend an extra half day or day on the road so that you will arrive fresh rather than bushed and irritable.

Resolve beforehand to take brief rest stops every hour or so. And carry a supply of safe caffeine-type tablets in the glove compartment. These help restore and maintain alertness when you get a touch of mid-afternoon doziness.

Decide in the morning where you will probably stop that night. Drivers often stay on the road until 6 or 7 o'clock, and then discover that the nearest motel or hotel is down the road 40 miles away.

On the trip itself, check weather reports each evening. If rain, fog or a dust storm is forecast, your driving plans will be affected and should be changed accordingly.

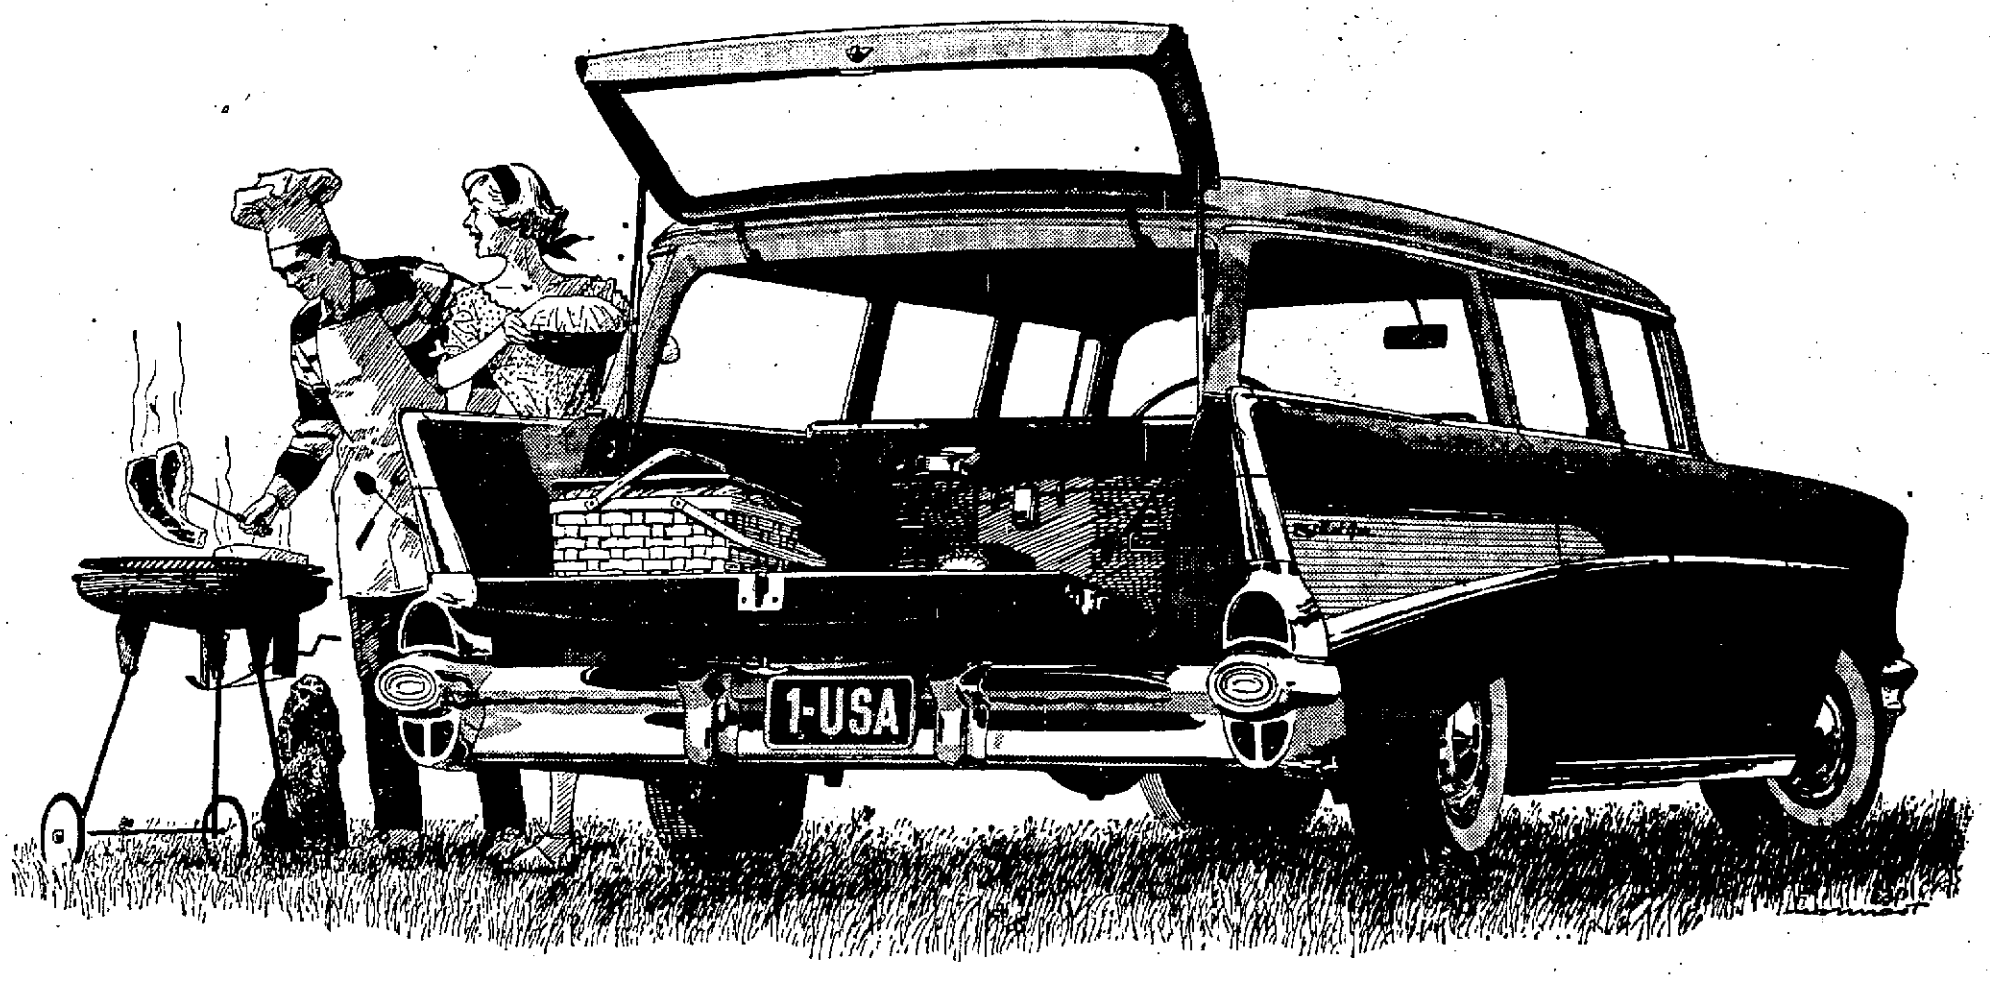

Check These Before Trip

Here are three small things that can add a lot to the pleasure of a long automobile trip.

1. Travelers' checks. Knowing your funds are protected eliminates a source of worry. Have half made out in your wife's name, half in yours.

2. Supply of safe caffeine-type tablets in your glove compartment. These help maintain mental alertness during those dozy mid-afternoon driving hours.

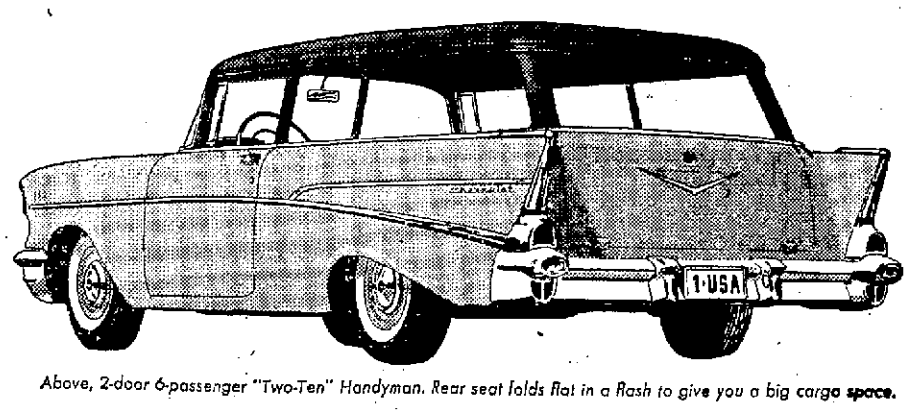

3. Extra pair of glasses. Think for a moment what a predicament you'd be in if your only pair became broken. Take your prescription, if you don't take an extra pair.

New Chevrolet station wagons have Body by Fisher, of course. Above, the Bel Air 4-door Townsman.

They're eager-beaver beauties...these Chevrolet wagons!

They're built to carry heavy loads, yes, but you can drive them with a light touch—these gay, good-looking Chevrolet wagons. You have six models to choose from—and they're all Sweet, Smooth and Sassy!

Above, 2-door 6-passenger "Two-Ten" Handyman. Rear seat folds flat in a flash to give you a big cargo space.

Talk about beautiful hard-working wagons! Chevrolet offers you the handsomest line-up of all to choose from. Whether you hanker for a wagon to help with do-it-yourself projects, to tote your gear for outdoor sports, or just to use as an all-round family car—here are eager beavers to see.

There are two-door and four-door models, with six- or nine-passenger capacities. They convert in a flash to take up to half a ton of cargo. The tailgate opens first, and wide, so there are any number of loads you can slip in without having to open the topgate.

Being Chevrolets, they have the performance, too; up to 245* V8 horsepower that's sweet and smooth, yet practically as quiet as a kitten on a carpet. Being a Chevy, the one you choose will be a joy to handle with its steady way of going, its easier steering, smoother cornering and its keen, alert response.

Drop by your Chevrolet dealer's soon. Let him help you answer the only question that could possibly remain: Which of these Chevrolet station wagons is for you?

Optional at extra cost. 270-h.p. V8 engine also available at extra cost.*

WORLD OF WHEELS

Making Device for Truck Brake Safety

By ART STEPHAN
Independent-Press-Telegram Auto Editor

With Long Beach the terminus for so many major truck lines, particularly in the oil business, many harbor area drivers and their families will be interested in a new emergency braking system for heavy trucks.

As demonstrated on an unused section of the Ridge Route last week, on grades steep as 6.6 per cent, the new device safely stopped a trailer truck loaded with 73,000 pounds of steel rods—and a case of eggs. Not an egg was broken, proving that the load was snubbed to a smooth, safe stop by steel sleds or shoes dropped in front of the rear wheels.

With camera patrol cars recording speeds and stopping distances, stops with the 36½-ton load were made at 20, 30 and 37 miles per hour using only the emergency braking system. Official observers included representatives from the California Highway Patrol, California Trucking Assn., Greyhound safety patrol, tire builders, interstate truck operators, truck manufacturers, Markel safety patrol, insurance organizations and other groups interested in promoting highway safety.

* * * *

THE NEW SYSTEM of Life Saver brakes was invented and patented by Kirk Besoyan. For more than 17 years he pushed trucks and trailers over the Ridge Route, infamous for its heavy toll of lives and vehicles. He searched for a method that would stop a runaway rig, surely and safely, even though the air or hydraulic braking systems failed completely. The result is two steel shoes or sleds, electronically controlled, that the driver drops in front of the rear wheels. In addition to saving lives of truck drivers, motorists and pedestrians, these new emergency brakes will materially reduce costs.

The new truck brakes are being manufactured by the Life Saver Brake Co. at 11750 Wilshire Blvd. The company is backed by a group of West Los Angeles businessmen. According to Joe Eisele, one of the founders, they plan to demonstrate this new emergency braking system in the Harbor area soon.

SUPREME GIFT—You fellows who received Father's Day gifts of shirts or ties or, maybe even golf clubs or fancy cameras aren't in the same league with Bob Burt, owner of Bob Burt's Cars International here.

For on Father's Day, Bob's wife, Dolores, came up with the nicest gift of all, a little baby girl who tipped in at 7½ pounds. They've tagged her with the cute name of Julie Ann.

The Burt's also have a young son, Timmy, which all adds up to a nice little family.

WHAT'S THE PITCH on automobile horns?

Buick's pitch is made up of the musical notes F and A, but the selection is a matter of choice by individual car manufacturers, according to R. S. Thornburgh, who heads Buick's electrical division.

Thornburgh explained that Buick changed the tonal qualities of its horns for 1957 for several reasons.

"We had used E flat and G for several years," Thornburgh said, "but decided to advance the tone one full pitch in 1957.

"It's our opinion that the higher notes give us a slightly better penetration through road noise, thus providing a better warning device. In addition, we think the new combination furnishes a more mellow and pleasing sound."

* * * *

THE PROBLEM OF HORNS is becoming of increasing importance in the automobile industry. Cars are insulated much better than they were a few years back to keep out road noises and furnish more audio comfort for passengers. Among the standard road noises, of course, are the sounds of horns.

"The answer is not more horns," said Thornburgh. "Tests show that increasing the number of musical notes does not add to the audibility of the horns' sound.

"Our old tone combination of E flat and G operated at 311 and 390 cycles per second, respectively. By changing to F and A, at 350 and 440 cycles per second, we think we have arrived at the immediate answer while still remaining within the bounds of permissible intensity."

FOR SAFE FOURTH

Stop Thefts of Hub Caps

Hubcaps are bigger, fancier, and shinier than they were 15 or 20 years ago. They're also more expensive.

If a thief should spot your car parked on a deserted street or lonely road, his eye is more than apt to be taken by those shiny hubcaps, and then out comes his screwdriver, away go your hubcaps, and you or your insurance company will be out some $30 or $40.

You can make that thief think twice before taking your hubcaps by making it hard for him to realize any money on them. And how do you do that? By having your license number, or some mark of identification engraved on the inside of your hubcaps. That makes them easy to trace, hot to handle. Try it. It'll cost you little, and might save you a lot.

Don't Drive On When Drowsy

Many a parent sighs with relief on a long trip, when Junior settles down in the back seat for his afternoon nap. But Junior's drowsiness should be a reminder to the driver that he, too, may be a little dozy. It's a good idea to stop the car and get out for a quick stretch before continuing down the highway.

Buick Caballero Wonderful for Any Outing

If you're a weekend or vacation time outdoorsman, the 1957 Buick Caballero is what you're looking for in a new automobile.

The Caballero is Buick's sleek estate wagon which boasts a brand-new body style plus the spaciousness demanded by folks who look for recreation in the great outdoors.

There's plenty of room in the Caballero for a pair of fully-inflated air mattresses side by side behind the front seat. The inner platform of the wagon measures 57.4 inches, leaving space to spare if you use standard mattresses. You'll be able to store the rest of your gear—guns, fishing rods, portable icebox, waders, and the rest—without any strain. The rear quarter of the Caballero contains 64.5 cubic feet of luggage space with the rear seat folded down.

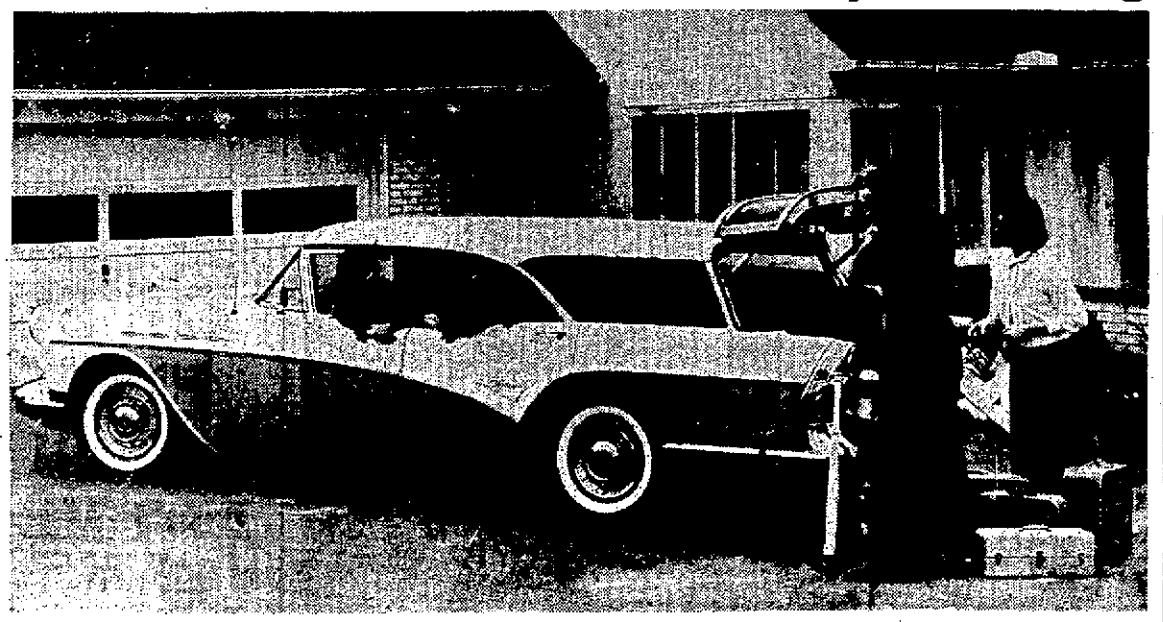

Skiers will hail the Caballero, too. There's room inside, even with the tailgate closed, for the average length seven-foot runner. The compartment stretches out for 84 inches with the tailgate up—which is as you'll want it in skiing temperatures—and goes 101.9 inches with the gate out flat behind.

* * * *

THE CABALLERO is a lot easier to load, in addition to its other outdoors-appealing qualities. The panoramic rear window with glass that curves clear around the side corners, lifts up parallel to the top and takes along part of the roof with it. The tailgate swings down flat and is only 29.5 inches up from the road in that position, to provide the easiest loading yet.

The Riviera styling which Buick pioneered and made famous is an added attraction as far as outdoorsmen are concerned, but it's a cinch to be of prime importance to their wives. The Caballero is a four-door hardtop, which means it has no center door-posts as in traditional station wagons. It's a passenger car, featuring the fluid lines of Buick styling, with station wagon capacity.

The Caballero is a Century series car, powered by a 300 horsepower engine. The same exclusive styling also is available in the thrifty Special version, plus an even lower-priced Special with the same graceful Riviera look and center door-posts. Both Special estate wagons carry 250 horsepower engines.

READY TO GO

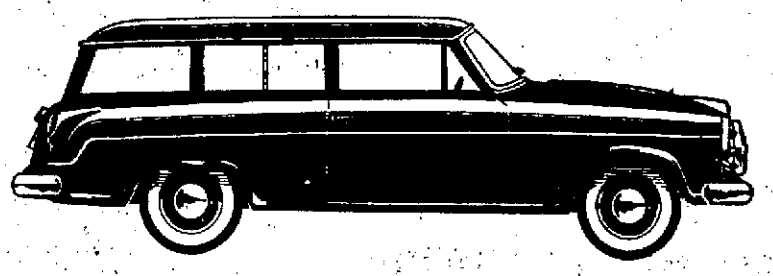

The time it takes to snap a picture of the children at the start of a summer vacation trip can well be worth the slight delay, travel experts say. A long automobile ride, which thousands of American families will be taking in the months ahead, can be a lot more pleasant if proper advance planning takes the kids into consideration. Simple games, frequent stops, good meals and plenty of resth are among the suggestions offered for making a summer junket a picnic instead of a panic. Pictured is the Buick Caballero now available at Campbell Buick Co., 1881 American Ave.

Station Wagon Used for Years

Actually, the station wagon—or a vehicle known as the station wagon — has been in the American vocabulary for 40 years. Fancy resort hotels used to have a specially-built body assembled on a conventional chassis for transportation of guests between the resort hotel and the railroad station. Thus, the name "station wagon." Through this association, the wagon achieved a connection with high living, respectability and fashion.

Ford's first mass produced station wagon, exclusive of the beach wagon, was produced in 1929. However, it did not account for a large percentage of production until it became possible to produce an all-steel body. From that date on, the importance of the station wagon increased. Station wagons now are the fourth most popular body style in the industry.

Try the Wagon with a Wonderful Difference

EVEN its looks announce it:

This is the most daringly, dazzlingly different wagon you've ever had the joy of driving.

Because this beautiful blend of wagon and hardtop doesn't drive like a wagon at all.

This '57 Caballero rides more like a limousine—but what limousine ever rode so smoothly?

This latest addition to Buick's CENTURY line steers more like a two-seater—but what two-seater ever handled so sweetly?

This gorgeous goer takes turns and makes stops as if it were gliding on rails — but what train engineer ever had so much fun?

Above all, this all-new Buick—with its all-new engine and its all-new Dynaflow*—gives you such response and performance as only jet pilots can know.

But what better way, what more wonderful way, to keep your feet on the ground than in this whiz of a practical wagon?

We can't tell you what it's like, how it feels to command the Caballero.

We can only suggest you drive one.

We can only promise fun and thrills and boundless satisfaction.

We can only say one more thing: Come see your Buick dealer today.

New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century — optional at modest extra cost on the Special.*

With Children in Rear Seat of Dodge You Drive With No Fear

It's wagon weather and the station wagons have taken to the road in a never ending stream on the way to a variety of vacation rendezvous.

More and more wagons are joining the parade every year because here is the way to get the most out of a vacation with the least expense, especially if children are part of the picture.

The kids, the luggage, the camping equipment and just about anything else you might need for a fun-packed vacation fit comfortably into the back of today's modern station wagons.

The station wagon gives you more of everything, dramatic styling, first class performance, top economy and all 'round utility. That's why the popularity of the station wagon as a family automobile is definitely on the increase.

According to recent figures released by Dodge, total production has doubled since 1955 with greatest current demand for the four-door, six-passenger model. Sales of this model have climbed to a 5.8 per cent in 1956. Four-door, eight passenger model output totals 2.2 per cent this year compared with .5 per cent in 1955 and 1.3 per cent in 1956. As the summer season approaches, station wagon production has surged to 10.8 per cent of Dodge's total output, compared with 5.3 per cent in 1955 and 9.5 per cent in 1956.

* * * *

FOR SOMETHING entirely new in wagons, try the rear-facing "Spectator Seat" for a panoramic view of the passing scenes. Watch the kids scramble for this seat, then go ahead and drive without concern. They'll be entertained for hours, and they can't fall out. The back is locked securely on the outside.

You'll like the carrying capacity of these wagons too. Both the third and middle seats fold quickly to form a level floor area that holds a full half-ton of equipment.

The Dodge Custom Sierra and Sierra station wagons are available in 9 and 6 passenger models, both with four doors. So if you're part of the America that likes to go places and do things, join the thousands who are swinging to the glamorous cars that have a purpose, the Swept Wing Dodge station wagons.

BEAUTY IN DODGE SIERRA
Here beauty at the beach is exemplified in this curvaceous lass complementing Dodge's four-door Sierra station wagon which has received exceptional acceptance among Southern California motorists. An outstanding feature of the Sierra is the rear-facing "spectator seat" for a panoramic view of the passing scenes, particularly intriguing to the children who will be entertained for hours and they can't fall out. The Sierra and other wagons in the Dodge line are on display at Dodge-Plymouth dealer Glenn E. Thomas, Anaheim and Elm and their new showroom location at the corner of Anaheim and American.

'PANCAKES' UNDER HOODS

Engines of Future to Be 2/3 Smaller

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—If you look far enough into the future—perhaps a decade or so—you may see a medium-sized automobile powered with an engine about one-third the size of today's average V-8 unit.

It will not be an atomic powered engine; neither will it be a so-called "free piston" or gas turbine unit. It will be an internal combustion gasoline engine of today's popular type but so much smaller in over-all dimension that a great deal more latitude will be given the car stylists.

For many years the auto makers have been experimenting with what has been called a "pancake" engine. Its designation comes from its flat design. Its pistons are of the horizontally opposed type. The whole unit is only about one-third the size of today's conventional car engine.

* * * *

THERE ARE a dozen or more engines of design that contrasts sharply with the current V-8 type. Some use the Diesel principle of combustion—through heat generated by compression. Most of the others get combustion through the use of spark plugs. In each case the units are much smaller than the conventional automobile power plant.

Some of the industry's top engineers say these engines have a definite place in the car industry's future. Most engine designers, however, say the present principle of developing horsepower through internal combustion of gasoline and air will not be replaced in the near future.

It will not be replaced, they say, until the possibilities for its further refinement have been exhausted. That point, they add, is still beyond their horizons.

* * * *

BEING SOUGHT right now is an engine small in its over-all dimensions. Probably it will use more aluminum. This may appear in the engine block as well as in the head.

Already some research has been carried on with aluminum engine blocks. Aluminum still is more costly than cast iron. But it has a weight advantage over cast iron. And aluminum is getting into many other automotive applications.

There will be more aluminum in the 1958 model cars than was used in this year's models. A big part of the aluminum content of the finished car goes into automatic transmissions. Chevrolet recently announced a new experimental model of its Corvette using aluminum "wherever feasible in the chassis."

* * * *

BUT THE EFFORT at weight reduction is not confined entirely to the application of aluminum. The researchers are also studying the adaptability of magnesium. There is also a distinct move toward reducing the over-all size of many working parts under the hood.

GENERAL DUAL 90 SHOWN
Here is pert Carol MacDonald of Richardson Tire Co. with the General Dual 90 tire, an innovation in the tire industry because of the double tread. The tire has two separate points of contact with the road instead of one and factory officials claim greatly increased safety and durability.

New Type General Tire Increases Road Safety

The General Tire & Rubber Co. has unveiled a new tire which in principle gives the driver the effect of two tires on one wheel.

Company engineers say it was the finest tire that has been produced in the more than four decades General has been manufacturing tires.

Called the "Dual 90," the tire is the result of two years of concentrated research and development at General's Akron, Ohio headquarters.

The Dual 90 is the first tire in the history of the industry to be constructed with dual curvature, a General Tire engineering accomplishment that results in two distinct radii within each tire.

This means that each tire has two separate points of contact with the road instead of one. No other tire contains this engineering principle. Curvature is the term used by the industry that determines the contact between the tread of the tire and the road.

General engineers say the dual curvature provides increased safety and durability, giving the effect of two tires on one wheel. Stability, which means maneuverability, is likewise greatly improved.

The Dual 90 is being sold locally by Richardson Tire Co., 500 East Anaheim St.

Oldsmobile Fiesta Wagon Big Favorite

FITS THE WESTERN SCENE

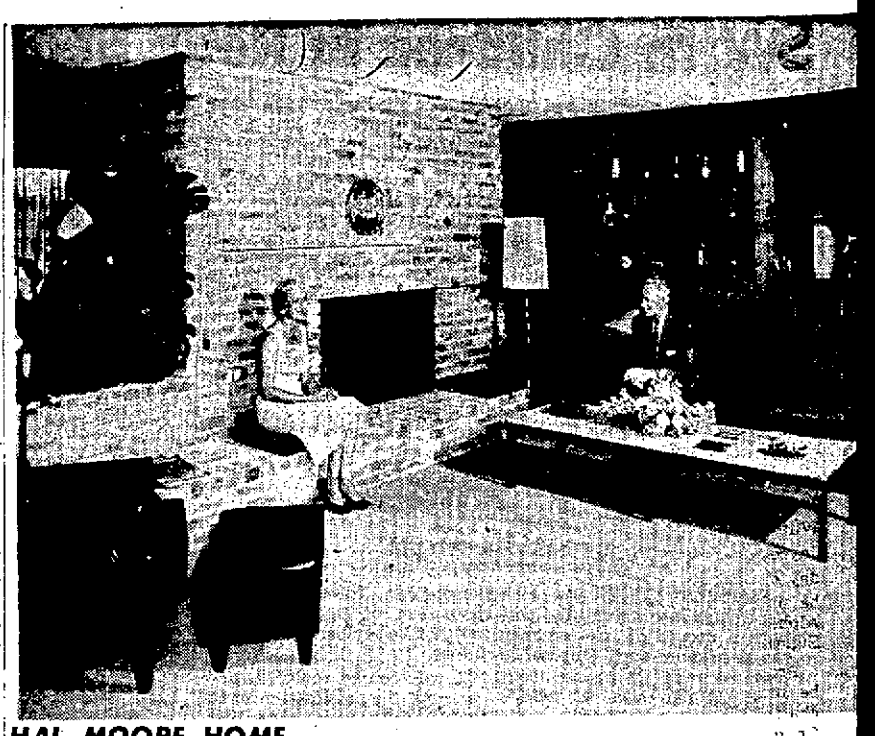

Immediate acceptance was won in the West by this glamorous 1957 Oldsmobile Fiesta, built on the Super "88" chassis and styled in the hardtop manner. Note the absence of a center post between the two doors. Inside, the Fiesta is upholstered in comfortable Airweave Trilok fabrics and leather. The second seat folds flush with the floor for cargo use. The Fiesta is one of three new station wagons in the 1957 Oldsmobile line. The new line brought station wagons back to Oldsmobile after a seven-year absence. The Fiesta is being displayed at C. Standlee Martin, Long Beach Olds dealer at 1227 American Ave.

Oldsmobile's new 1957 line of Fiesta station wagons has won outstanding public acceptance on the Pacific Coast, it was disclosed with the recent release of shipment statistics.

Of total shipments of Fiesta models from the factory during the first four months of the year, 16.9 percent of the new station wagons went to fill orders of dealers on the Pacific Coast.

Production of Fiesta models has increased steadily during the first four months of the year (latest available records). Starting at 3.6 per cent in January, production has climbed to 8 per cent of the total production of new Oldsmobiles in April. The average of Fiesta station wagon production for 1957 through April runs 5.2 per cent of total production.

Three models comprise the new 1957 Oldsmobile Fiesta line. Fiesta styling — designed like hardtops without the pillar between the doors—is offered in station wagons built on the Golden Rocket "88" and Super "88" chassis. Chrome roof rails identify the Super "88" Fiesta. The third member of the Fiesta trio is the Golden Rocket "88" sedan, which retains the sedan-type center pillar.

HAL MOORE HOME

Entertaining as well as true comfort in everyday living is found at its best the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Moore, 1105 La Dera Dr. The home was designe for both indoor and outdoor activities.

There Are 12 Plymouth Station

Plymouth for 1957 offers 12 suburban station wagon models with V-8 and six-cylinder engines on a 122-inch wheelbase.

There are four 9-passenger models, two in each of the Sport and Custom lines; and eight 6-passenger models in the Sport, Custom and De Luxe lines.

Four-door models are available in the Sport and Custom lines; 2-door models are available in the Custom and De Luxe lines.

Body specifications include over-all dimensions of 213.1 inches in length and 78.2 inches in width.

Plymouth, in pioneering the all metal Suburban in 1949, started an industry-wide trend. Suburbans have steadily gained in sales over the past seven years.

Industry observers say that more Suburbans and other station wagon types will be sold during 1957 than ever before in history.

* * * *

FOR 1957, PLYMOUTH has 9-passenger Suburbans with a third "observation car" seat facing the rear. They have steps for entering on the rear bumper at each side of the tail gate. This provides a separate entrance for the third seat without disturbing passengers in the second seat.

Both the second and third seats in Plymouth Suburbans fold conveniently into the floor for additional cargo space. This is a unique feature in 9-passenger models where previously it was necessary to leave the third seat cushion and back cushion in the garage when this area was desired for cargo.

On 9-passenger models the rear window rolls into the tail gate and is electrically controlled.

* * * *

REAR WINDOWS of 6-passenger models are lowered manually into the tail gate. The tail gate is hinged and counterbalanced by a torsion bar which does away with the need for exposed hinges and supports which cut down the tail gate entrance.

An inside concealed luggage compartment with lock is available on all six passenger Suburbans, the spare being mounted in the right rear quarter panel, as it is on the three-seat models. The fuel tank of all Suburban models is mounted in the left rear fender.

MITZI, WHO IS HUNGARIAN, has always had an Oriental look about her, and with makeup she becomes the prettiest Japanese ever. Josh Logan is directing both "Sayonara" and "South Pacific."

"I had 'South Pacific' in the back of my mind, but I made an appointment with Josh for the other picture — although he didn't know it.

"Jack (her husband, Jack Bean) and I found Josh very happy, and he told us why: 'We've just signed our Japanese girl.' Then he asked what I wanted to see him about.

"I answered: 'I'd love to play Nellie Forbush.'"

Mitzi confessed that she said it because she didn't know what else to say to hide her disappointment.

"Josh stroked his chin and said: 'I don't suppose you would test for it.'

"Test!" answered Mitzi. "I'll shave my head for it."

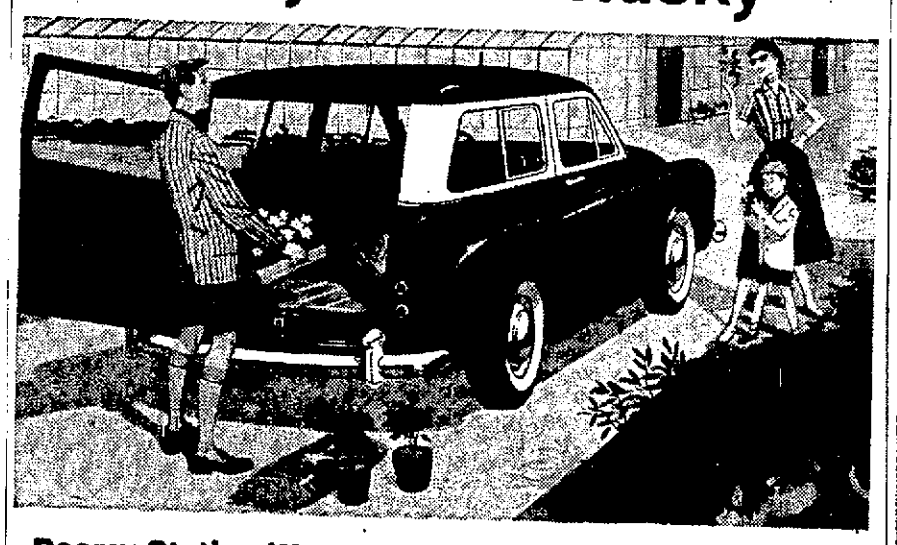

* * * *

LOGAN TOLD HER then that most of the big stars interviewed so far didn't want to test. He added: "Are you sure you don't want us to look at your films?"

"Absolutely not," answered Mitzi, "because I've never been Nellie Forbush in any of them."

The test was set up and, as Mitzi describes it, it couldn't have come at a worse time.

SURROUNDED BY MALES

She's Woman Judge for Navy

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It may be a man's world, but the Navy appointed a woman to judge the conduct of its sailors.

Lt. Comdr. Mary Lou McDowell of Bradford, Pa., is the first woman in naval history to be appointed a law officer, the counterpart of a judge in civilian life. Although law officers do not render decisions as to the guilt or innocence of a defendant, they do rule on all legal technicalities that arise during a trial.

This is not the first time she has come into prominence. In the famous Abraham Chasanow case of 1953 she was Navy counsel to the hearing board. Chasanow was accused of security violations but was cleared after extensive and widely publicized hearings. In the motion picture "Three Brave Men," based on the Chasanow case, she was portrayed by actress Nina Foch in the role of Mary Jane McCoy.

THE SLENDER, attractive lawyer is highly respected by her coworkers—all men. She says she enjoys working with men and knows of no cases of prejudice against her because of her sex.

Mary Lou graduated from Wilson College in Chambersburg Pa., where she was president of the student body and played on the girls' basketball and hockey team. She decided to become a lawyer almost by accident.

During her undergraduate work she became interested in the problems of juvenile delinquents. She was disappointed to find that no American schools had a sufficient graduate program in that field. Her brother Tom, who was a budding lawyer, convinced her that through the study of law she could satisfy her desire to make a contribution in this field.

AT THE UNIVERSITY of Pennsylvania Law School, she became a member of the John Marshall Law Club, and distinguished herself by becoming the first woman cases editor of the university law review. She is a member of the Supreme Court bar and the Pennsylvania and McKean County Bar Associations.

Mary Lou is buying her own home in Annandale, Va., and shares it with an old Navy friend, Ann Silers. The two wom are also partners in a small dress shop on the outskirts of Washington.

Most of her spare time is spent working around her house and garden, where she is usually pestered by her two dogs.

She enjoys eating, but not the cooking that goes along with it. However, she admits to broiling the best steaks in the Washington area and serving an exciting dish of chicken with wine sauce.

FOR RELAXING, Mary Lou reads mysteries and is a great fan of Perry Mason. She says she has picked up many good legal approaches from the famous fictional lawyer.

In civilian clothes, she leans towards suits. Says she doesn't care too much for "frilly things." Around the house she likes to relax in pedal-pushers and shirts, or in jeans if she is working in her garden.

She likes parties and getting together with her friends for a song fest.

She likes to tell the story about the time during World War II that a storm came up and all the ships in the harbor at Portland, Me., were sent to sea. The commander of a submarine in the harbor invited Mary Lou and a friend to be his guest at the bottom of the sea during the storm. The three were joined by a fourth and proceeded to play bridge until the storm subsided.

Writer Finds Drivers Pick Up Characteristics of Their Cars

By PAUL WALLACE

The sports car driver has been analyzed in an entertaining story by Tom Armstrong in the current issue of "The Reporter" magazine.

Armstrong classes the average sports car sport as a "debonair gentleman in his thirties or forties" distinguished by a "tight little cap over an unwrinkled brow."

He notes that the enthusiast is regarded generally by drivers of American sedans "with the suspicion reserved for the faintly subversive and those out-of touch with the Saturday Evening Post."

Armstrong's theory — not an original one—is that 'national characteristics are reflected in sports cars and that American drivers of imported cars tend to pick up these characteristics in the machines they own.

* * * *

THE WRITER says that American attempts to make acceptable sports cars since the depression "have largely foundered on the shoals of comfort and convenience" which the enthusiasts deplore.

German car drivers are "mature and careful," French are "abandoned and volatile" and Italians are the "most immature showoffs, the most reckless and happy-go-lucky motorists still on earth," according to The Reporter.

British sports cars demand the qualities of "Hardiness, Fortitude and Pluck" and their owners take pride in moving about the world in no more comfort than Drake or Raleigh or even Sir Lancelot enjoyed." He adds:

"MANY AN ASPIRING young man who feels his importance inadequately recognized makes the interesting discovery that for the price of a Ford he can acquire the exalted status symbol of an MG-A which will convey him into the fellowship of princes and sybarites, the worldly-wise and successful — people like himself.

"Of course this society is somewhat admixed with gate crashers whose motivation is obviously insecurity, but what party isn't nowadays?"

We don't necessarily subscribe to all the things Armstrong says but we feel he says them rather well.

THE LONG BEACH Model T Ford Club plans to tour en caravan to the Newport Beach Buffalo Ranch today, leaving South St. and Lakewood Blvd. at 10 a.m.

Next Sunday, the group will drive its gleaming old machines to the California Youth Authority detention home in Norwalk to let the boys there look over the antiques.

Last week, incidentally, a member of the group, Otis Clinton, arrived here from his home in Seattle, Wash. He drove his T all the way down the coast.

A PAIR OF MOTORCYCLE events are scheduled for the area today—an amateur English hillclimb in the Coyote Hills on Hwy. 39 two miles north of Buena Park and professional TT races at the Los Angeles Speedway, 182nd St. and Vermont Ave. in Torrance.

The hillclimb will run most of the day and the TT will start at 2 p.m. with the time trials earlier.

Next Sunday, amateur scrambles competition will center at San Pedro's Nall Flats area just west of the San Pedro Drive-In Theater on N. Gaffey St.

A 5-HOUR NAVIGATIONAL rally called the Hill and Gully Rully is scheduled to start at 8:15 a.m. next Sunday from Sears parking lot in Santa Monica. Open to all, it is sponsored by the Santa Monica Four-Cylinder Club.

On the same day, the Austin-Healey Owners Club will run their Sir Walter Rally, also a straight navigational event, from the same parking lot at the same time.

Pop Gets Day Off When Baby is Born

LA MESA, Calif. (AP)—School officials agree that all-night floor pacing by new fathers constitutes unusual mental strain.

The trustees have voted to grant a one-day leave of absence with pay to male school teachers on the day following the birth of their child.

"A teacher is not in condition to teach effectively on the day following (the birth), yet financial pressure usually prevents his remaining at home if a deduction in pay is to result," the trustees held.

Big Game Toll Reported Heavy

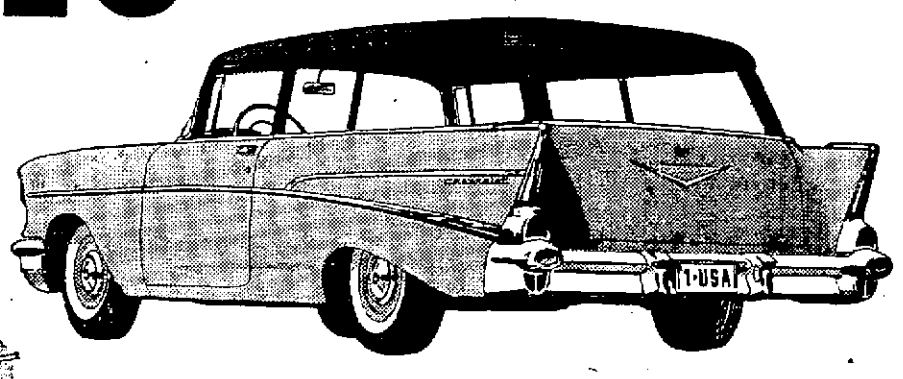

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (AP)—Latest figures showed 3,667 moose and 180 caribou bagged by hunters in the 1956 season in Newfoundland, and the reports did not include returns from all the 6,000 hunters. Others were urged to fine a return, whether they made kills or not.

THAT'S A LOT OF DOUGH

How much is spent in U.S. restaurants each year?

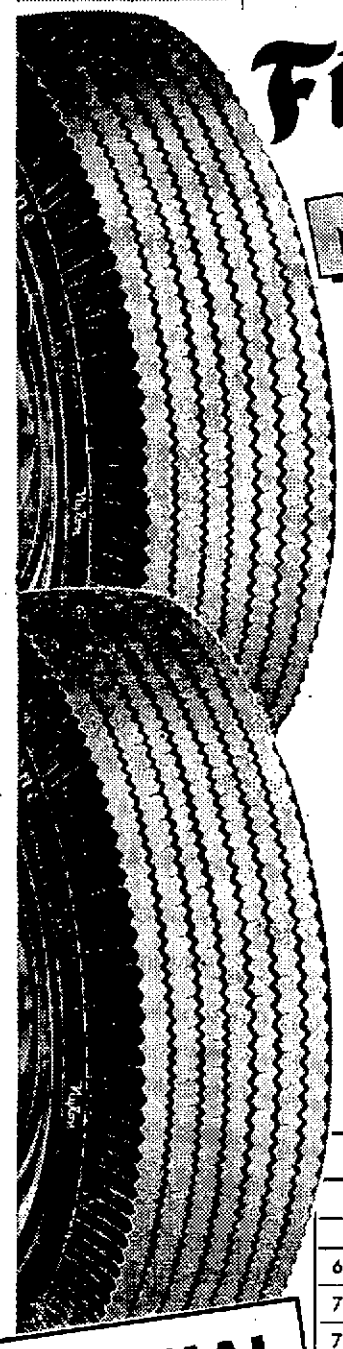

About $12 billion, representing approximtely one-fifth of the American food dollar. There is one restaurant for every 704 Americans.

MERCURY WAGONS SHOW SLEEK STYLING

Hardtop styling is achieved by Mercury in its exciting new station wagon. A lone, canted center pillar on each side, gives picture window visibility and style. Windows wrap around at the back, and the rear window rolls down into the tail-gate, eliminating the cumbersome lift-gate and adding open-car ventilation to closed car protection. Mercury station wagons offer "passenger car" riding comfort featuring the industry's first air-cushion rear suspension. A special station wagon series includes six models of 4-door 6 and 9-passenger and 2-door 6-passenger wagons. Ten inches longer than current wagons, the new Mercurys also are lower and wider and roomier inside for passengers and have more cargo carrying capacity. This Colony Park 9-passenger station wagon has simulated grained wood exterior trim. A choice of powerful engines is offered—a Turnpike Cruiser 290 hp. V-8 or a Safety-Surge 255 hp. V-8. Harbor Lincoln-Mercury, Long Beach dealership at 1633 American Ave., has the Mercury wagons on display.

Drop Power Emphasis

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP) — The auto makers' decision to de-emphasize power, speed, engine size and acceleration may have come at an awkward time for some car companies.

Car engines generally are going to be bigger in 1958; they will develop more horsepower. Several, rather than just a few, will turn up in excess of 300 horsepower. The planning for these larger engines, with quickened acceleration as well as more power began two years and more ago.

That was before the industry even thought of easing off the emphasis on power and the ability of the engines to accelerate from a standing start to 60 miles an hour in a matter of seconds.

* * * *

OF COURSE the car makers never have said or intimated they considered reducing power output; they said they wanted more emphasis on safety, reliability and comfort. Undoubtedly these attributes properly will be credited to the new engines by the very fact they will have the capacity for quick acceleration, substantial reserve power and sound design.

But, if they are to be consistent, the car makers will not even talk about engine power and acceleration. In fact, many of them may not even disclose the actual horsepower of their 1958 models. Ford followed that policy with its revived Continental Mark II model.

Chrysler's New Yorker and Imperial series had 325 horsepower at 4600 revolutions per minute in their 1957 models. Rated at 300 horsepower were Cadillac and Lincoln and some Buick models.

* * * *

AT THE OTHER END of the price scale there were some Chevrolets with 283 horsepower at 6200 rpm; Fords with 245 horsepower at 4500 rpm, and Plymouths with from 215 to 4400 to 290 horsepower at 5400 rpm.

Besides the higher powered engines, unitized construction, in which chassis and superstructure are welded together, will appear in at least one more line of cars next year; so, too, will air suspension and fuel injection.

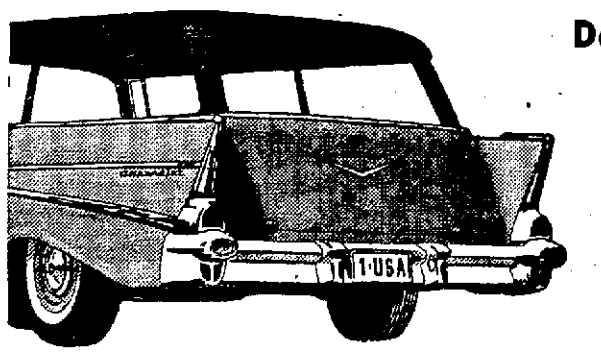

Unitized construction currently is a feature of American Motors' cars. Its advocates claim it contributes to increased motoring safety. However, it involves costly retooling. Both Nash and Hudson had it before they joined forces to become American Motors.

SAFETY FILM COMING

Warner Bros. 6-foot-8 star, Clint "Cheyenne" Walker, will be seen on the screen of the Crest, Imperial and United Artists Theaters for one week beginning June 26, in a short subject depicting dangers of the Old West vs. highway menaces of today. With Walker above are Earl F. Campbell (left), managing director of the California Traffic Safety Foundation —for whom the short was produced—and William T. Orr (right) Warner Bros. producer.

U. S. TIRES GET SEVERE TEST

Each test car at Lancaster, Calif., proving grounds averages 760 miles per day of city, suburban and country driving. Normal day will find U. S. Rubber test car traveling from downtown Los Angeles through cities, suburbs, across surrounding mountains and through desert conditions. Here two test drivers take time out for lunch near Red Rock Canyon. Johnny Gillette Tire Co. at 3910 Cherry Ave. is the local distributor for the U. S. Rubber line.

Quicker Stops Made With New Type Tire

A new passenger tire designed to keep a car steadier on turns and stop it 25 per cent quicker on wet roads is the U. S. Royal Safety 8. It is exceptionally cool-running at "turnpike speeds."

"Advances in rubber compounding, textile processing and chemical bonding make this the best performing tire of its type we have ever built," says Johnny Gillette, president of Johnny Gillette Tire Company here. "All parts of the tire share the strains equally due to a new molding technique.

"The tread compound is more resistant to abrasion, which means more mileage, and a new tread pattern with three times as many wiping edges means faster stops on wet surfaces and increased resistance to sideways skid.

"At 30 miles an hour on very slippery wet pavement, for instance, the Safety 8 stops a car 19 feet sooner and gives 19 per cent greater resistance to sideslip than conventional tires. Tests also show a high degree of stability and response for the new tire, both on turns around street corners and on the long, sweeping curves typical of today's turnpikes."

The Safety 8 is being made in 14-inch and 15-inch sizes and in tubeless and tubed constructions. A new compound for the lining of the tubeless types makes it 35 per cent more airtight. The tubeless version is standard equipment on 1957 cars.

Permanente Pays

OAKLAND—The Permanente Cement Co. board of directors declared a quarterly dividend of 13½ cents a share, payable July 31, 1957, to stockholders of record July 12, 1957.

Calif. Federal Dividend Due

The Board of Directors of California Federal Savings and Loan Association have declared the 62nd consecutive dividend on all types of savings accounts, it was reported by J. Howard Edgerton, president. This payment continues the unbroken record of dividends since the organization of the association in Los Angeles in 1926.

Edgerton further declared the dividend payment will be made at the current annual rate of 4 per cent on June 30, and that dividends on savings accounts are being paid four times a year beginning July 1. The payment is expected to be in excess of $3,000,000, making the largest in the association's history.

California Federal now has four offices serving Southern California. Its head office is at 5680 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, with other offices in Reseda, West Los Angeles and Lakewood, and a fifth office is slated for opening July 1, at 1528 N. Vermont Ave., near Hollywood Blvd.

LINCOLN

If you've fallen in love with this one... you're in good company!

Here in the West, fine car owners have a new favorite in convertibles. For only Lincoln gives you such long, lovely styling... such effortless handling ...and the most complete array of power luxuries in any fine car.

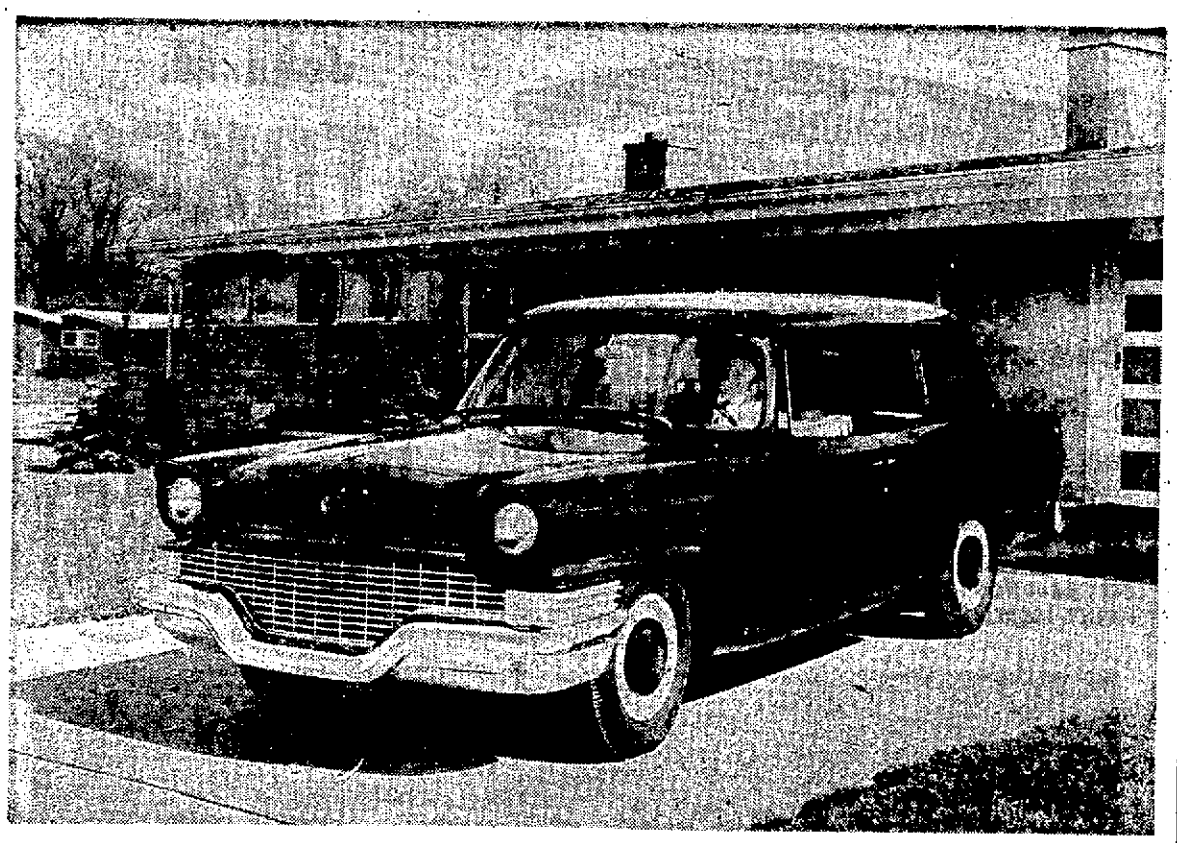

It's with a distinct note of pride that we tell you this is the biggest selling convertible in Lincoln's 36-year history . . . not only here, but all over the country. In fact, wherever you go, you see more and more new Lincolns. And when you talk to a new Lincoln owner, he'll give you these good solid reasons why:

Just take styling as an example. From distinctive Quadra-Lite Grille to canted rear blades, Lincoln is one long sweep of clean, majestic fine car beauty. Again and again, proud owners tell us how their new Lincolns are invariably the object of many long and longing looks wherever they drive.

And speaking of driving . . . Lincoln is the most effortless-driving car on the road. Everything you touch turns to power. Even vent windows and door locks can be electrically operated, and in the convertible a self-locking top fastens securely into place at the touch of a fingertip.

Yes, if you've fallen in love with this one, you're in good company. Now isn't it time we talked about your being in the best company . . . as a Lincoln owner? Stop in, any time, and drive one as though it were your own.

SURVIVOR

Chained to an uprooted pole, a melancholy donkey stands amid a wrecked farmhouse at Robecco Pavese, some 30 miles south of Milan, Italy. The house was destroyed when a tornado ripped through three villages in the area, killing five persons and injuring 80 others. Nearly all of the homes in the villages were damaged or destroyed by the twister, which brought new misery to northern Italy, already ravaged by disastrous floods.—(UP Photo)

Break With Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Young Republicans Federation broke with President Eisenhower yesterday on the Girard case, federal aid to education, right-to-work laws and military aid to Yugoslavia.

The actions were taken at a convention attended by more than 1,500 delegates.

The subjects came up in the course of adoption of a platform which in other aspects generally supported Eisenhower policies, including civil rights.

The convention, by a roll-call vote of 338 to 254, adopted a minority resolution which made no specific reference to the case of 21-year-old GI William S. Girard but obviously referred to it.

THE MODEST MOORE

NEW YORK — Garry Moore believes a TV star's family life is his own business.

"I don't mention my boys very much," he says, "because I think it's difficult being the son of a public person." He was thinking of Mason, 17, and Garry, 14. "People react in two ways—they make things too easy for the boy—or too hard."

Crew-cut Garry appreciates the good intentions of wellwishers . . . yet consider the incident in a town where Mason might have entered prep school.

GARRY MOORE

"A police official came up to me while I was there with my boy," Garry recalled. "He said, 'Look, now, any time your boy gets in any kind of trouble around here, you come tell me and I'll fix it.'

"That was an invitation to him to get away with anything he could!"

Garry Jr. discovered his father's fame quite young. Leaping to the door when the doorbell rang, he would proudly announce to deliverymen, messengers or anybody, "My daddy is Garry Moore!" Scoldings didn't stop him. But one experience did.

After announcing his exalted ancestry to one boy he met, the other boy quietly said, "My name is Tony Hope and my father is Bob Hope."

* * * *

GARRY HIMSELF never finished high school.

"I left school to finish a play in Baltimore with F. Scott Fitzgerald," Garry relates. "I was so dumb I didn't know he was one of the writers of the age.

"He was already pretty far gone as a dipsomaniac. I wrote the book for a Little Theater revue and his wife, Zelda, wrote some of the songs. He thought the play we were working on would make him solvent again, but although he got many friendly letters from the producers, they obviously felt they couldn't trust him any more.

"I'm not really an actor," Garry'll maintain. "Like Fred Allen and Henry Morgan and Steve Allen, I'm a writer who learned to talk a little."

* * * *

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . . "Don't Print That!": A highly publicized movie was sneak-previewed in a B'way theater recently—and when the lights came up only 15 people were left in the audience.

June Havoc's dogs posed for an animal food ad; they earned more than June got for her "Studio One" job.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A Broadwayite invented a cigaret with a bourbon filter. It doesn't filter out any irritants—but who cares!

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Jerry Amerman's disgusted with calypso: "Just when you figure out what they're playing, the music stops."

Ridge Walker Now Assistant Teacher in The Theatre Here

Ridge Walker, 23, who appeared in the recent Long Beach Singers Workshop presentation of "The Desert Song," has become assistant teacher at the School of the Theater at The Theater, 2400 Magnolia Ave., serving with Kathy Davis Crump, director.

Classes are open to pupils from 6 to 19 years of age. The summer session, July 1—Aug. 31, designed especially for teenagers, will be climaxed by "Aladdin and His Lamp."

Walker is appearing in Moliere's "The Prodigious Snob," the current production of the Chapel Theatre of Manhattan Beach. He will appear today at 2 p.m. with the Chapel Theater in "The Bloodstone," an original one-act play in the Accent Theater, Torrance. The group presented "The Bloodstone" Wednesday night in the fifth annual one-act play tournament in Los Angeles.

* * * *

BEGINNING his dramatic career five years ago with Palos Verdes Players, the young actor appeared in "Merry Widow" and "Streets of New York" for that group.

He appeared in "Tea and Sympathy" and "10 Nights in a Barroom" with San Pedro T[illegible]tre Arts. He danced in and d[illegible] the choreography for the Chapel

Theater's presentation of "Dark of the Moon."

For two years he assisted with Palos Verdes children's classes, and the classes gave "Wizard of Oz" and "Snow White." Also for two years, he co-directed and produced children's shows in San Pedro for the South Bay Committee for Los Angeles Philharmonic Assn. These productions include "Snow White" and "The Emperor's New Clothes."

LAST SUMMER he did summer stock with the Manistee Summer Theatre in Manistee, Mich., appearing in "Othello," "Dark of the Moon" and "Solid Gold Cadillac." He assisted in the children's department, which held classes and gave eight shows in eight weeks.

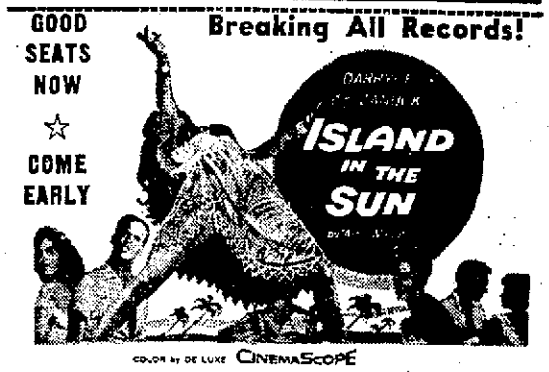

Walker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Walker, 1817 257th St., Lomita.

LONG DAYS AHEAD

Fourteen-year-old Ilana Lowenstein ought to be thinking happy thoughts of summer fun, parties and dancing. Instead, she tries to get used to the prospect of at least two months of complete immobility and the discomforts of traction apparatus and casts. An auto ended her summer dreams.

MOURNFUL COWPOKE

It's not much fun shooting rustlers when you can't run after them. Auto victim Mike Powers, 6, won't be back on his feet for at least six weeks.

Two Agencies Top Hospital Fund Goals

Two social service agencies—both members of the Community Chest—have exceeded their "fair share" goal of individual units in the $4,000,000 United Hospital Fund campaign.

First over-the-top came from the Community Chest office when the executives and employes subscribed 110 per cent of their "fair share" objective, with all employes participating. Chairman of the campaign among the employes of the Community Chest office was Mrs. Ruby Cupper.

The second social service agency to exceed its quota was the Travelers Aid Society. This group reported 102 per cent of their accepted "fair share" objective. Elsie M. Rogers, executive secretary of Travelers Aid, was chairman of the drive among employes in that office.

* * * *

THE SOCIAL SERVICE agency group is under the leadership of Joseph Bransby, general secretary of the YMCA, and Harold Arnold, head of the Boy Scouts of America of the Long Beach area.

Units included in the social service section of the employe-executive campaign are members of the Community Chest, the Chamber of Commerce, and other agencies not identified with the city or federal groups.

Early reports from the city employe division place their total at $36,679. Their next report is scheduled for next Thursday, and Barney J. Walczak, chairman, predicted this would be the largest single report of the intensive campaign.

Many other units of the employe-executive group have their campaigns under way and all are accepting the 1 per cent giving formula, which means "1 per cent of one year's wages payable over a period of three tax years."

* * * *

FIRM IN WHICH employe programs are being conducted are: All branches of the Bank of America, Bank of Belmont Shore, California Bank, Davis Furniture Co., Farmers & Merchants Bank, First Western Bank, General Telephone Co., Green Printers, Lafayette Hotel, Lomita Gasoline Co., Long Beach National Bank, Martin-Decker Corp., Mottell's & Peek, Mountain View Dairy Co., National City Bank, New York Life Insurance Co., Pacific Valves Corp., Ridings Motors Corp., Sully-Martin Contracting Co., Southern California Edison Co., Soft Water Laundry, and Hale Young Ford Co.

Most of the firms have had a long series of employes' meetings to acquaint them with the hospital program, and a majority of the campaigns are scheduled to conclude early this week.

All of these campaigns are considered "pilot campaigns" which will establish patterns of giving for the second phase of the hospital program when it will reach into all areas of employee groups not previously contacted.

Summer Vacation's No Fun for Youngsters Hit by Cars

By JACK McDONALD

Six-year-old Michael A. Powers always was a bright, careful boy.

"Be careful now, grandma. Look both ways," he'd say when Mrs. Catherine Powers took him across a street. He made Mrs. Powers proud.

On June 13, Michael came home excited from kindergarten classes at the Robert Lee School. Summer vacation was here, he told grandma, and when he went back to school, he'd be a first-grader.

Michael felt so good he could not contain himself in the house at 1542 Freeman Ave. He wanted to be doing something. Mrs. Powers sent him to a neighborhood store for a loaf of bread.

* * * *

STILL BUOYED over his newly-won rank as a first-grader, he started back home. At Temple Ave. and 16th St., he forgot to look for traffic and ran out from behind a parked car.

And was struck by another.

Minutes later he was in Community Hospital, critically injured.

The next week was a long hard one, not at all like summer vacation is supposed to be. Michael had suffered internal injuries, and the doctors had to remove his spleen. His left leg was fractured too, and had to be sealed in a heavy cast.

* * * *

HE IS BACK HOME now, but he won't walk again for another six weeks. The mending process will be gradual and painful. Ugly head and scalp bruises will have to heal along with the leg and surgical incision.

Michael is one of several Long Beach children for whom Summer, 1957, ended in the frightening squeal of brakes or the frantic blare of a horn.

Ilana Lowenstein, 14, of 3166 Senasac Ave., has an even more dismal summer before her.

Ilana also was filled with the magic of summer when she was struck. It happened June 17, as she walked across Woodruff Ave., near Faust St.

Classes at Marshall Junior High had ended two days earlier, and it was time for fun. Ilana had just left a girl friend, after making plans to go swimming the next day.

* * * *

SHE DIDN'T SEE the car. The driver didn't see her. The impact threw her body up in the air. When she came down, she hit the car hard enough to dent it.

And hard enough to fracture her pelvis and right wrist and bruise her skull, face and legs.

Ilana likes to dance, but the doctors say she won't be doing any dancing for a long time. She won't leave Community for another two months. During part of that time, her body will be suspended in traction slings and pulleys. After that will come weeks in a heavy, uncomfortable cast.

If she's lucky, Ilana will be well enough by Labor Day for the Lowenstein family to go ahead with plans for a Palm Springs outing.

* * * *

LITTLE MICHAEL Wayne Hill, 3, was struck by a car June 15, as he ran out from between two other parked cars near his home at 326 E. 19th St.

Eight days later, the child still was in Seaside Hospital, a hurt, bewildered look showing he didn't understand why his head was covered with slowly healing cuts and bruises.

Two rooms down the hall, Tascara Rae Hoyle, 6, didn't understand either. She also had a badly skinned face and head, and numerous body cuts.

Tascara, of 2361 Myrtle Ave., was struck by a car as she dashed across the street against a red light June 18 at Pine Ave. and Third St.

"These children," said one hospital attendant, "are just a few. We get them all the time. These," she added grimly, "are the lucky ones."

HEAD INJURIES

Michael Wayne Hill, 3, was so severely hurt and shocked when a car hit him that eight days later he hadn't spoken a word. Toy in his lap fails to interest him.

FRETFUL SLEEP

Tascara Rae Hoyle, 6, tries to sleep and forget painful cuts and bruises. Auto struck her downtown June 18.—(Staff Photo.)

L. B. Students to Sign Up July 1 for Summer School Sessions

July 1 will be registration day for students planning to attend summer sessions in Long Beach schools from elementary grades through City College.

Registration for elementary, junior and senior high school classes will be taken from 8 a.m. to noon in each of the local public schools where summer classes will be held.

These include Bixby, Burbank, Garfield, Longfellow and Twain Elementary Schools; Franklin Junior High School, and Polytechnic High School.

* * * *

JUNIOR AND SENIOR high school classes will be two hours in length, and pupils may take either one or two classes. All instruction will be given in the morning hours. All required subjects and most electives found in any regular junior or senior high schol session will be offered.

Hours for the elementary school classes will be 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Registration for all City College Liberal Arts classes will be held in the cafeteria, beginning at 8 a.m. July 1 for day classes, and at 6:30 p.m. for evening classes.

Registration for classes in the General Adult Division and the Evening High School will be taken in the classrooms.

* * * *

LENGTH OF THE sessions will be six weeks for Liberal Arts Division day classes and eight weeks for all others.

The Liberal Arts classes all will be held on the Lakewood campus. Adult Division day classes will be held on the Institute campus, with the exception of upholstery classes, to be given at Lee School.

Adult evening classes will be held in Polytechnic Adult Center.

Both day and evening classes of the Business and Technology Division of City College will be given at the Institute campus. Day students may pre-register to July 1. Evening students are to enroll in class at the first scheduled meeting.

State College Summer Registration Monday

Some 4,500 students are expected to register Monday for the six-week summer session at Long Beach State College. Hours for registering will be 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

No application for admission is required of students who do not plan to earn a degree or credential at Long Beach State College.

A staff of 221 will teach courses in nearly every academic area. Instruction is available in art, English, French, Spanish, home economics, journalism, music, philosophy, speech and drama, education, psychology, health education, safety education, physical education, recreation, biological science, physical science, mathematics, industrial arts, business, economics, history, political science, social science, and sociology.

* * * *

A RECORD number of workshops will be offered by the college this summer, the majority of which will be offered in the first session. The workshops, inclusive dates, and unit values are as follows:

Business Education, June 24-Aug. 2, four units; Child Development Techniques, June 24-July 12, three units; Cooperative Counselor Training, June 24-Aug. 2—six units; Family Life Education, June 24-Aug. 2, three units; Idyllwild School of Conservation and Natural Science, time arranged, one to two units; Education of Mentally Retarded Children, June 24-Aug. 2, six units.

Orchestra, June 24-Aug. 2, one unit; Summer Theater, June 24-Aug. 2, one to seven units; Remedial Reading Clinic, June 24-Aug. 16, eight units; Social Studies Curriculum, June 24-Aug. 2, six units; Speech Therapy, June 24-Aug. 2, six units; Aviation Education, Aug. 5-Aug. 30, four units; Elementary School Science Workshop, Aug. 5-Aug. 16, two units (or Aug. 19-Aug. 30); Home Furnishings Workshop, Aug. 5-Aug. 23, three units; Guidance Workshop, Aug. 5-Aug. 23, three units.

Recreation to Start at 70 Playgrounds

Supervised recreation at 50 public elementary school and 20 municipal playgrounds is scheduled here for nine weeks beginning Monday at 9 a.m.

Flag-raising ceremonies will be staged at each participating area as the annual Recreation Department program gets under way.

Veteran play directors will be on duty daily, Monday through Friday, at all areas. Hours are 9 a.m.—5 p.m.

* * * *

JACK MINAR, special events director for the Recreation Department, says this summer's program will be the most comprehensive ever offered here.

The activity list includes games, contests, city-wide sports events, play days, beach outings, track and field "Olympic games" and softball and baseball league play, handcraft, puppetry, music, swimming instruction, life saving, aquatic sports and volleyball.

* * * *

FREE SWIMMING instruction is on tap daily at Colorado Lagoon, 54th Place and Bayshore Walk, and at Bay Shore Playground, 39th Place and Ocean Blvd.

Public use of the four high school swimming pools will be conducted on a daytime and evening schedule.

Recreation Department officials last Friday registered beginning and "intermediate" class swimmers for daytime instruction at the pools.

Frances Dixon Nason, city aquatics supervisor, said "all classes were filled except beginners at Poly and intermediates at Millikan pool."

Walter L. Scott, co-ordinator of school and municipal recreation, is in charge of the summer recreation program.

L.B. Firm Winner of Vision Award

First-place award in a statewide industrial vision contest has been won by the Long Beach plant of Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co.

A trophy was presented Saturday in Los Angeles by the California Optometric Assn., which is meeting in joint convention with the American Optometric Assn.

Dr. D. LeRoy Leatart, Long Beach, is the convention's general chairman. Other local optometrists attending are Drs. R. W. Anderson, D. L. Baker, S. H. Burgess, T. J. Clark, H. W. Clayson, J. A. Harris, M. E. Melton, J. E. Spencer, William Stout, Paul Wilkins and W. J. Williams.

Funds for Sanitarium Asked Today

Volunteers in Long Beach, Lakewood, San Pedro and Wilmington will make door-to-door solicitations this morning in the annual fund drive for the City of Hope's free sanitarium at Duarte.

The door-to-door solicitation supplements appeals made on the City of Hope Telethon, which began at 11 p.m. Saturday and continues today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. over KTLA (5).

The free sanitarium, in its 44th year of operation, treats cases of cancer, leukemia, tuberculosis and operative heart disease.

Long Beach chairman of the drive is Jack Hoffman. Lakewood chairman is Sam Morrison.

New Hanger Invention of L. B. Woman OKd

"Snap-o-hanger," a collapsible hanger for women's skirts, strapless dresses and other garments, invented by Miss Rose May Richards, 1520 Appleton St., has been accepted and approved by the gadjet jury of the Gadget-of-the-Month Club, Miss Richards was notified last week.

The gadget jury, official screening agency of the club, is composed of experts in patenting, manufacturing and marketing new inventions.

4 Directors Quit L.B. Youth Band

Four members of the nine-man board of directors of the Long Beach Youth Band have resigned as result of an internal squabble over the group's director, Gordon Carmen.

Carmen, recently fined for passing a bad check, has been a center of controversy in the marching band for several years.

The faction which announced this week it is pulling out of the group, has been critical of Carmen. The other five board members have supported him.

The minority group claims it has been unable to affect any "reforms" in operation of the musical group against the solid vote of the majority of the board and doesn't wish to accept responsibility for action of the whole group.

Saturday, the band's 35 teen-aged members marched off with first honors in the Youth Band Group class of the annual Sheriff's Rodeo Parade at Riverside.

The band was picked over three others in the class for a trophy award, following the 2½-mile parade.

Convention Starts Here on Thursday

Bringing their mock French locomotives, their overseas caps, their drum and bugle corps and their memories of a couple of world wars, 8,500 American Legionnaires will gather here Thursday for the opening of the 39th annual state convention.

First business session of the four-day meeting will begin at 10 a. m. Thursday in Municipal Auditorium. The conclave will wind up Sunday afternoon with the election and installation of new officers.

In between, the biggest parade ever to be held in conjunction with a California Legion convention is slated to start at 1 p. m. Friday.

Lt. Gen. Robert N. Young, commanding officer of the Sixth Army headquartered at The Presidio in San Francisco, will be grand marshal of the parade.

* * * *

TWENTY-THREE bands — 14 of them from the military—will spark the four-hour march.

Fred Nessler, perennial Armistice Day parade director here, is lining up the convention procession.

Arch C. Bonzer, another Long Beach man, is general chairman of the convention, with

LT. GEN. R. N. YOUNG
The Grand Marshal

Larry Stevens president of the convention corporation.

Friday night, drum and bugle corps and motorcycle drill team competitions will be staged at Wilson High School stadium, 7th St. and Ximeno Ave. The public is invited to this demonstration.

* * * *

A FIREWORKS display is set for 10:30 p. m. Thursday at Rainbow Pier to welcome the veterans to the city.

The Commander's and President's Grand Ball will be held at 9 p.m. Saturday in the Auditorium and will feature entertainment and Burrell Ubbens band.

A midnight stage show is scheduled for 11:30 p. m. Thursday in the Fox West Coast Theater. It will include Polynesian acts and a movie.

The convention will be called to order at the initial business meeting by California Department Commander Leo W. Crawford.

Lt. Gov. Harold J. Powers is scheduled to speak at 10:30 a. m. at this meeting with the keynote speech to be delivered by Alvin Owsley, past national commander from Dallas, Tex., at 11:15.

* * * *

A MEMORIAL SERVICE will be held at 9 a. m. Sunday.

In between, bowling matches are scheduled and delegates will take deep-sea fishing trips.

In addition to regular delegates, thousands of other Legionnaires and their families will attend sessions of the convention.

Along with the regular state department conclaves, subsidiary Legion groups will hold their annual business sessions.

They include the Legion Auxiliary, Forty and Eight Society, Eight and Forty Department, Sons of the American Legion and Women Legionnaires meetings.

Registration will open Wednesday in the Auditorium.

Continental Offers Stock to Employes

Workers at the Continental Can Co. plant on Terminal Island are being offered common stock in the company at a discount of nearly 10 per cent.

The plan was authorized at the annual stockholders' meeting in April, according to Board Chairman Gen. Lucius D. Clay.

Ceremony for Building at Hospital

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the $354,000, 50-bed chronic and convalescent building at Community Hospital, 1720 Termino Ave., will be held June 26 at 3 p.m.

Hale Young, hospital board chairman, will preside at the ceremonies. Scheduled speakers include Rep. Craig Hosmer, Assemblymen William Grant and Herbert Klocksiem, County Supervisor Burton Chace, Mayor George Vermillion, Chamber of Commerce President George Badenhausen and Gordon Cummings, chief of the State Bureau of Hospitals.

* * * *

THE NEW CONCRETE block, one-story structure will be built in a three-wing design and will be attached to the main hospital by a covered walk. Its design provides 14,050 square feet of space.

Each patient room has sliding-glass-door access to an individual patio. The general contractor is W. J. Esser & Sons, Santa Ana.

Cost of the building is to be shared one-third each by federal and State governments and the non-profit hospital corporation.

Public Notice--- This Fellow Has a Model Wife

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UP) — Charles F. Bender, married for 28 years, grew tired of newspaper notices by husbands that disclaimed responsibility of debts contracted by their wives.

Saturday he inserted a classified add in the Illinois State Register that said:

"I am responsible for all debts and obligations of my wife, Clara, both present and future, and am more than happy to be the provider for a woman who has borne me three lovely children and who, with an abundance of love and care, has made the past 28 years of married life the nicest years of my life. I wish to express my heartfelt gratitude."

Mrs. Bender was delighted. "I think it's the nicest compliment he could have given me," she said.

Jesse Lasky Says Now's Time to Get Into Movies

By PETE HANN

For anyone who wants to break into movies, now is the time.

Talent scouts are combing the country for new faces and voices. They are searching in schools, dramatic groups and church clubs. And rewards for talent never have been higher.

These words came from one of the pioneer producers in the motion-picture industry as he visited Long Beach Saturday.

Jesse Louis Lasky, 74, winner of the first Oscar for production, received the "Humanity Award" at Wilton Hotel. Abundavita Corp. presented the scroll.

Lasky's visit coincided with publication of his autobiography, "I Blow My Own Horn." In it he records his experiences during 50 years of picture production.

On the dust cover, an extract points up the changgs of half a century. Lasky recalls he asked a cab driver to take him to Hollywood about 1910. The reply was, "Never been there before, but I'll try to find it."

Lasky says, besides the hunt for talent, moviemakers always are trying new techniques.

But most marked advance of all is "in the development of telling and staging stories." Backgrounds are becoming better than ever. A film set in Paris now invariably is shot in Paris.

Lasky said he thought films had recovered from the initial shock of soaring TV audiences. "In fact, television is helping us now."

As an independent producer, Lasky works with all major studios. At present he is producing "The Big Brass Band" with Paramount.

AWARD FOR PRODUCER

London Blitz Orphan Wed to Flier

EMPORIA, Kan. (AP) — An orphan whose rescue from the ruins of London's blitz in World War II became the subject of a book and movie was married Saturday in this quiet city.

She is Miss Barbara White, now 20, the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. White.

White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, was a war correspondent when he found the little girl in London and brought her to America. His book, "Journey for Margaret," was the basis for the movie of the same title, starring Margaret O'Brien.

Miss White married 1st Lt. Paul D. Walker, 21, Claremont, Calif. They met while students at Stanford University.

Gov. Gary's Airplane Hits Rough Air, 1 Hurt

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U.P.)—Governor Raymond Gary of Oklahoma and members of his party were shaken up and one woman was injured Saturday when their plane hit rough air near Texarkana, Ark.

The injured woman, Mrs. L. E. Ruble, 63, executive assistant to the governor, was admitted to Campbell Clinic here with a broken left thigh.

The governor's party was aboard an Air National Guard plane bound for the national Governor's Conference at Williamsburg, Va.

* * * *

THE PILOT, Brig. Gen. Maurice Marrs, of Oklahoma City, said the plane was flying at 7,000 feet when the accident occurred. Marrs said he was flying at an assigned altitude through a storm that "was much rougher than had been reported."

"At one time, we were caught in an updraft that shot us up 1,000 feet at a rate of 4,000 feet a minute," Marrs said. Marrs is also chief of staff to Gary.

He said it probably was the updraft that knocked Mrs. Rubie off her feet. She was in the aircraft's washroom.

"She didn't seem to be in too much pain, so we decided to fly on to Memphis," Marrs said.

* * * *

GARY SAID he was asleep in his seat and didn't know of the mishap until others in the party brought Mrs. Rubie from the washroom.

"Gee, that's a crying shame," Gary said here. "I've never had anyone injured in my aircraft in 33 years of flying."

Also on the C47 plane were Mrs. Gary and Col. Russell Cone of Tulsa, professor of air science at the University of Tulsa.

The plane left Mrs. Rubie here and hurried on to the governor's conference, scheduled to get under way Monday.

Doctors at the hospital said Mrs. Rubie probably would remain hospitalized for 10 days.

QUAKE ROCKS SOUTH MEXICO

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An earthquake caused panic in southern states Saturday.

Oaxaca, Tabasco and Chiapas all reported the temblor did no serious damage. Residents in Salina Cruz, Cocahotan, Comalcalco, and Ciudad Ixtepec fled into the streets as the earth began rocking.

Melchior Ex-Butler Sought

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Nationwide search was on Saturday for a onetime butler of Lauritz Melchior as the opera tenor and his wife identified $88,670 worth of furs and jewelry stolen from them and recovered by police.

Also sought in the $99,770 robbery at the Melchior home last Tuesday night, police said, is a dope-addicted ex-convict.

Police announced Friday the arrest of two other men and recovery of all but $11,100 worth of the loot. Robert Morgan, 39, an ex-convict, and Alfred J. Pope, 28, both of Los Angeles, were booked on suspicion of robbery.

* * * *

POLICE SAID the valuables were found in their possession.

Detective Lt. Ed Jokisch identified the two hunted men as Louis Gerald Spivak, 44, employed by Melchior as a butler 10 years ago, and Richard McFall, 38, an ex-convict and heroin addict.

Jokisch said Spivak set up the robbery, in which three bandits terrorized the Danish-born singer, his wife and two servants and left them tied with stockings and neckties found in the house. The fourth robber is believed to have waited in the getaway car.

* * * *

THE FOUR slipped into the Melchior property through a gate opened by departing guests. Operation of the gate, location of the three safes which were looted and the quantity of jewelry had remained unchanged in the decade since Spivak worked in the $200,000 hilltop mansion as butler, Jokisch said.

Melchior, his wife Kleinchen and their housekeeper, Mrs. Willa Huber, meanwhile went to police headquarters and identified the recovered property. Melchior praised "the wonderful work done by the robbery squad" in the quick recovery of most of the items.

Six Teenagers Die in Car Crash

MONTOUR FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Six teenagers died Saturday night when their automobile crashed into a tree beside a country road.

Another youth was injured seriously.

State police said four were killed in the crash. They were: Roland Leinhos, 17; Jack Van Deventer, 17, and his sister, Dorothy, 13; and Patricia Bonzo, 16. Mary A. Murray, 17, and Stanley Bartlett, 17, died at a hospital in this village in the Finger Lakes section of central New York.

'That's a Big Lie!' She Yells and Faints

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Francesca de Scaffa, Venezuelan-born actress-model and self-styled countess, fainted in court Saturday in angry exchange with a former friend charged with stealing her jewelry.

Miss de Scaffa, former wife of Actor Bruce Cabot, was called to testify in the case which Judge Rafael A. Esteva has said is "full of contradictions."

Last February she reported to police that $320,000 in jewelry had been stolen from her apartment while she was attending a bullfight.

* * * *

TONY LEMUS, a friend, was arrested. The jewelry — which police said was more nearly worth $40,000—was recovered.

Lemus said the jewelry had been given him to sell.

"That's a lie, a big lie," shouted Miss de Scaffa in an exchange of insults in court.

Lemus shouted back that she was "an adventuress and a blackmailer."

"You shamelss rat," exclaimed the actress, and fainted.

* * * *

JUDGE ESTEVA threatened to charge both with contempt of court.

Miss de Scaffa was accompanied to court by her physician, who said she was suffering from a severe nervous condition.

Because of her health, officials have been delaying a decision on charges of criminal libel in connection with an investigation of Confidential Magazine.

The actress asked the judge to get her name straight. She said it was Nancy Giovana Francesca Scaffa Arnoud Teresa de Bravo. Jaime Bravo is a bullfighter she married several weeks ago.

Sacramento Girl Winner in Swim Suit

SANTA CRUZ (U.P.) — Judges Saturday named Miss Sacramento, personified by 18-year-old Lorna Myrtle Anderson, as the winner in the swim-suit competition of the "Miss California of 1957" contest.

A student at Sacramento State College, Lorna won out over 21 other young ladies in Friday night's competition. The 120-pound, 5-foot, 6½-inch Sacramento girl's measurements are 35-22-35.

Lorna played the accordion in Saturday night's talent phase of the contest to determine California's entry in the Miss America contest. The girls also will be judged for personality, poise, intelligence and how they appear in formal gowns.

Judges cut the field to five Saturday night and will announce the winner at 1 p.m. today at the bandstand near the Santa Cruz boardwalk.

Missing Man, 71, Sought in Orange Co.

GARDEN GROVE—A Chicago firm of lawyers has asked Orange County sheriff's investigators to locate a 71-year-old man who arrived in this area several weeks ago to get married.

The legal firm believes that David Dahlfors may have become a "victim of foul play."

No leads to his whereabouts have been uncovered, officers said, but it has been established that Dahlfors had picked up mail at 7721 Garden Grove Blvd. under the name of Harms.

It was also established that he had come to Orange County to wed a woman known as Dora Croon, 52. Her whereabouts is not known either.

Tourist Outlay Soars

WASHINGTON, June 23 (U.P.)—American tourists pumped an all-time record of 475 million dollars into the economy of Europe last year, the Commerce Department reported Saturday.

Fisherman Slain in Mystery

SEBASTOPOL, Calif. (AP)—An autopsy performed Saturday on the body of a Eureka fisherman disclosed he had not drowned—as assumed originally—but was the victim of a mystery stabbing at sea.

The body of Elwood V. Rost was found on the beach at Bodega Bay early Saturday. It was examined by Coroner Vernon Silvershield of Sonoma County.

Authorities had been in touch with Rost's wife, Arvilla, who expressed anxiety over her husband's failure to return from Stockton where he had gone early in June to repossess the 46-foot fishing craft, Judy Ann.

Rost was last heard from off the coast near Pt. Arena June 11. He sent a radio message to check the weather.

Snow in Britain Ends Heat Wave

LONDON (AP)—Britain, which had basked in heat wave weather for weeks, marked the first full day of summer Saturday with rainstorms and even some snow.

The snow fell on the northern English coastal resort of Whitley but never settled on the ground. The rains covered most of England and Scotland Saturday afternoon.

The forecast was for cool and showery weather — "with a chance of snow in the Scottish Highlands."

VETERAN DRIVER DESCRIBES RACE:

'Something Sparks in You; They Yell, You Don't Hear'

There's an exhilaration about driving a soap box racer that surpasses excitement.

Take it from 14-year-old John Bennett, 5325 Cherry Ave., veteran of three Long Beach Soap Box Derby races.

"At the starting line, as soon as they let you go, something sparks inside of you," he said. "Everybody's yelling, but you can't hear them. You just keep going straight ahead."

During the first of his racing years, John won a medal for good sportsmanship. The second year, he won a second-place trophy for one heat.

Last year, he came in first in three races.

* * * *

AND THE LINDBERGH Junior High School student is getting in shape again for this year's race on July 27.

"I'm trying to make my racer lower and narrower so there will be less wind resistance," he said.

"I'm going to make it as heavy as I can," he said. (Maximum limit, including the driver, is 250 pounds.)

He recalls a friend of his who had "too heavy" trouble on the day of the race last year.

"He skipped a meal, but he was still two pounds overweight, counting his car," John said. "So he ran around the block a couple of times and melted the blubber away."

JOHN BENNETT . . . You Just Keep Going

JOHN HAS ONLY one regret in his racing career.

The floorboards in his old racers have been used for other lumber purposes.

"I wish I would have kept them," he said. "You get kind of attached to them."

Entry deadline for this year's race is July 1. Application blanks may be obtained at any Chevrolet dealer. Boys from 11 through 15 years old are eligible.

The Long Beach Soap Box Derby is co-sponsored in this area by the Independent, Press-Telegram and 32 Chevrolet dealers.

Britain May Send Atom Bombs to Commonwealth

LONDON (AP) — The Sunday Dispatch said Saturday night Britain planned to bolster Commonwealth defenses by giving tactical atomic bombs to Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

"This would mean that Britain would keep the H-bomb while the three dominions would have the A-bomb," the Dispatch said.

There was no official confirmation.

The Dispatch said the British plan to create "an inner Commonwealth atomic group" of the three dominions would be brought up at next week's conference of Commonwealth prime ministers in London.

Shah in Copilot Seat as Plane Lands on Carrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Shah of Iran, sitting at the copilot's controls, flew onto the broad deck of the aircraft carrier Forrestal for a visit to the 6th fleet in the Mediterranean, the Navy reported Saturday.

The Shah flew directly to the big supercarrier aboard a U.S. plane and flew off again after inspecting the Forrestal and an accompanying cruiser and destroyer.

Miss Lindstrom to Visit Europe

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UP)—Dr. Peter Lindstrom is planning to take his daughter to Europe soon, but he would not disclose whether she would see her mother, actress Ingrid Bergman.

At Boulder, Colo., where she is a University of Colorado coed, Jenny Ann Lindstrom, now 18, would not discuss her European vacation. She said only that she would spend the summer with her father.

Report Girl, 17, to Wed Hussein, Jordanian King

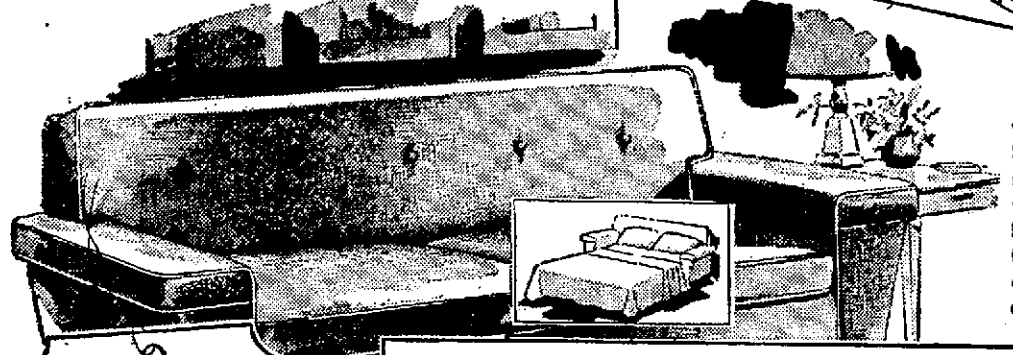

CAIRO (AP)—The newspaper "Al Shaab" said Saturday that the 17-year-old daughter of the Jordanian ambassador to Iran is being "groomed" to marry Jordan's King Hussein, 22.

The paper claimed that the daughter of Sheriff Hamad Saad will be married to the monarch at the royal palace in Amman, but it did not specify a date.

Jarvis B. Lawrence Buys Frances Children Shop

J. B. LAWRENCE
New Owner of Frances Shop

Jarvis B. Lawrence, one of the city's best known young retailers, is the new owner and manager of Frances Children Shop, 430 Pine Ave.

Lawrence until recently was associated with one of Long Beach's leading department stores 14 years as buyer and divisional merchandise manager. Prior to that he was department manager in Marshall Field and Co., Chicago.

The new owner acquired the store from Ira Forest, son of the founder who started the children's toggery 37 years ago. Three generations of children have been clothed with Frances quality merchandise.

Last January the store was remodeled and added a new self-selection type of operation, providing for more leisurely shopping. The expert help in the store all will be retained and the name will be continued, Lawrence announced.

* * * *

FRANCES CARRIES most of the nationally known brands of clothing for boys and girls from infants through 14 years as well as toys, juvenile furniture and a complete Buster Brown shoe department.

The store is considered the largest complete children's store in the Harbor area. Lawrence said. It has two customer entrances, one on Pine Ave. and the other from the large customer parking lot on Locust Ave. The store provides courtesy strollers, free gift wrapping and free Park and Shop stamps.

Lawrence lives at 30 Eastfield Dr., Rolling Hills, with his wife Alice and two daughters, Deblie and Trudy, where they enjoy country living by daily canters with their riding horses.

Silver Dollar Quiz at Real Estate Club

Norman Woest, of Los Angeles will present his silver dollar quiz at the Thursday meeting of the North Long Beach Real Estate Club. Al Meyer is program chairman and the meeting is scheduled for 8 a.m. at the Mayo Restaurant, 5929 Cherry Ave., North Long Beach.

Quizmaster Woest will award silver dollars to those who answer correctly his questions relating to California real estate procedures.

He will be assisted by Steve Birch, customer relations representative for the Long Beach area.

REALTY OFFICE OF WEEK

When James G. Chandler and his wife Grace came to California in 1947 it was to retire. But maybe it was the climate for something changed their minds and they have been most active in real estate circles since they came. Selected as the Realty Office of the Week, the Chandlers have had their own realty concern at 4115 E. Broadway since 1952 and are most successful in handling Belmont Heights and Belmont Shore properties. In 1954 they were the first husband and wife team ever named Realtors of the Year by the Long Beach Board.

State Realtors' Convention in Los Angeles Oct. 6-10

L. A. Martin, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors, announced that he had received notice from J. Mortimer Clark of San Francisco, president of the California Real Estate Assn., that the 53rd Annual CREA Convention will be held at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles on Oct. 6-10. According to Martin, reservations for the convention are already coming in to the CREA office at a rapid rate indicating that the 3600 record attendance of the 1956 convention in Los Angeles will be surpassed.

Plans for the program are nearing completion and an impressive array of nationally prominent speakers will address the convention.

Clive Graham of Long Beach, general convention chairman, and Harold Weinhold of Los Angeles, program chairman, working with their committees, have prepared an extensive program for the five-day meeting containing much of interest for all real estate men and women. The convention will feature many panels, conferences, after breakfast round tables and educational programs.

* * * *

ALL DEPARTMENTS of real estate will be covered with addresses by well-known men in the field and by smaller meetings featuring experts on each specific subject. Appraisers, property managers, industrial realtors, mortgage men, farm brokers and other real estate specialists will intermingle at the large meetings on the broad subpects concerning their business and then will disperse to attend smaller meetings devoted to their particular fields.

The keynote address will be delivered by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight. A popular speaker at past CREA conventions, James C. Downs Jr. of Chicago, president of the Real Estate Research Corp., will give his enlightening talk on "The Economic Outlook."

* * * *

FOR RELAXATION and entertainment the delegates will enjoy such events as golf tournaments, musical programs, fashion shows and a number of banquets and parties. The principal social event of the convention will be the president's dinner dance in the Biltmore Bowl.

Martin said that a large delegation from Long Beach is planning to attend the convention. He said that reservations from this area are going into the CREA office at a record rate. An advance registration contest is being conducted by the state association and only those registering before Sept. 30 are eligible for the prizes, said Martin.

ARRANGING BIG SESSIONS

Realty Sales Clinic Is Monday

Secondary Financing will be the subject of Monday evening's Sales Clinic conducted by the Long Beach Board of Realtors. Guest speaker will be Gordon Crain of Los Angeles.

The meetings are held in the Conference Room of the board office at 7:30 p. m. At the meetings adjournment, at 9 p. m. coffee will be served.

All realtors and salesmen are invited and there is no charge.

Insurance Talk Before Realtors

Long Beach Board of Realtors will hear a discussion of the plan of insurance made available through the state association when they meet Tuesday morning at breakfast in Lafayette Hotel.

Program Chairman Jim Tolbert said Al Davina of the Washington National Life Insurance Co. will be the speaker.

DRILL SITE

G. W. McMullen Construction Co., 3032 Cherry Ave., has completed conductor pipe work and is spudding in a drillsite at Redondo Beach for Signal Oil and Gas Co. and Reserve Oil and Gas Co. The Wonderly Construction Co., built the big pensinula which is adjacent to the present site where Signal is the operator of the joint venture's six wells whipstocked under the ocean. Signal plans to drill 24 wells on the new site which is large enough for 48 wells. Shown above is McMullen equipment getting ready for spudding in activity. The lower photo shows Jack Hickerson, superintendent of surface hole operations, watching crewman cement in a conductor preparatory to drilling.

Low Price Appeals for Joyzelle Park

An exclusive residential area of Garden Grove with homes in the $18,000 to $20,000 price bracket is the site chosen by the builders of Joyzelle Park for their large, 1300 square foot home which sells for the low price of $13,350, according to Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent.

And, he states, that although the Joyzelle homes cost from $5,000 to $8,000 less than the neighboring dwellings, residents of the area have expressed satisfaction of the high quality and attractive appearance of the new development.

Total cash required for occupancy of the 3-bedroom and family room homes is only $695 for non-veterans, Hayes said, with monthly payments of $89.50 including principal and interest. The builder has stated his willingness to work out terms to meet a buyer's individual needs, it was added.

* * * *

THE LOW PRICE includes many extras —such as wall-to-wall carpeting, weatherstripped doors, window screens and shades, built-in snack bar, and front lawns with shrubs. Other features are extensive use of walipaper, ceramic tile in kitchen and both baths, natural finish cabinets, and large double garages with entry into the kitchen-family room area.

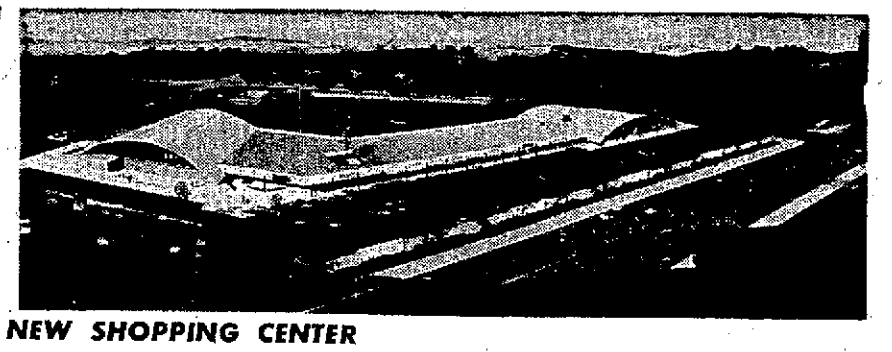

Wide selections of individual styles are available, all situated on large level lots. The location is said to be one of the most popular in Orange County since it is readily accessible to Long Beach and near freeways leading to nearby employment, shopping, schools, and recreation at beach or amusement spas.

To reach Joyzelle Park, drive out Garden Grove Blvd. (7th St. in Long Beach) to Magnolia, then north to Joyzelle Dr. which is between Katella and Chapman in Garden Grove. Turn west on Joyzelle to where it ends at Bowles Ave. then north one block to sales office.

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS

Bill Cheney, sales manager for Rossmoor, hands checks to Roger Beam (center) and Eugene Stemm (right), first two winners of Rossmoor scholarships recently established for desiring Long Beach State College students. Two other Rossmoor scholarship winners are yet to be announced. Rossmoor, the new community one mile east of Long Beach State College, awards four such scholarships each semester.

NEW SHOPPING CENTER

Construction will start soon on this new shopping center at the southeast corner of Pacific Coast Hwy. and Ximeno Ave. Leases already have been signed by the W. T. Grant Co., and Jim Dandy Markets for the area to be known as the Marina Shopping Center, Coldwell, Banker & Co., leasing agents for the Updike property announced.

To Build Shopping Center at Coast Hwy.-Ximeno

Coldwell, Banker & Co., statewide realtors, announce construction will commence this summer on Marina Shopping Center, at the southeast corner of Pacific Coast Hwy. and Ximeno Ave., near the Long Beach Traffic Circle.

The shopping center, which, with land and buildings, will cost more than $1,500,000, will serve residents of southeast Long Beach, Belmont Shore, Belmont Heights, Naples and the Alamitos Bay areas. The property, on which the center is located, has been in the Updike family of Long Beach since 1907.

Among leases which have been signed for stores in the center are those with W. T. Grant and Jim Dandy Markets.

The Grant store will have 16,000 square feet of floor space, with provisions for expansion to 21,000 square feet, and the market will be located in a 27,000 square foot building. The 15-year Grant lease, and the 20-year market lease, will involve a total rental consideration of approximately $1,000,000.00.

The 10-acre shopping center, which will be open early in 1958, will provide 70,000 square feet of buildings and parking for 600 cars. Coldwell, Banker & Co. is presently negotiating leases for stores in the center with better grade merchants of all types.

Hugh Gibbs, AIA, is the architect of all buildings in Marina Shopping Center.

Local Realtors Attending State Directors Meeting

More than 600 members of the board of directors of the California Real Estate Assn. are meeting at Hoberg's, a resort in Lake County in Northern California, June 20-22, it was announced by L. A. Martin, president of the Long Beach Board of Realtors.

"Members of the Long Beach board will participate in panel meetings and discussion groups as well as the general session with J. Mortimer Clark of San Francisco, CREA president, presiding," said Martin. "The directors will bring back new ideas for improving services of the Long Beach board to the people of this community in their buying and selling of real estate.

"One of the largest events at the meeting will be a multiple listing conference to review and study improved methods of selling real estate through the services of the real estate boards' multiple listing divisions. This is the system whereby realtors in all sections of the community cooperate in showing and selling an individual property.

"The CREA legislative committee will report on the new legislation affecting real estate and bring realtors up-to-date on the laws affecting the operation of their business, as well as new measures affecting the ownership of property in California."

Attending from Long Beach are Reg Dupuy, Morris Holmquist, E. C. Roswurm, Harold K. Steele, Clive Graham, Ilene Peters, Barbara Moss, Fae Matthews, Mildred Stanley, Louis Hanscom, H. A. Murray, E. T. Moore, Bill Barbee, Arnold Berg and Max Livoni.

No Smoking

BOSTON (UP)—For the first time since it was established some 60 years ago, the Boston subway system has banned smoking on all its subway and elevated lines. The action was taken because of the extra expense of cleaning smoking cars, and also because of complaints from non-smokers.

Nearly $10 Million in Rossmoor Sales

Reflecting record crowds and heavy buyer interest at Rossmoor, Bill Cheney of Walker & Lee, sales manager for the 1200-acre new community, reports nearly $10,000,000 gross sales to date.

With the "Yale" and "Princeton" sections already sold out, families are beginning to move in at the rate of five a day, Cheney reported. Construction on both the "Yale" and "Princeton" continues at an intensified rate.

Sales, meanwhile, on the new "Cornell" continue to be heavy. Only open less than two months, the new section is nearly three-fourths sold.

"As you might expect," Cheney commented, "many of our buyers are from the Greater Long Beach area. These people, particularly, seem to like the fact that Rossmoor is so near such a wealth of recreational facilities."

* * * *

WITH SO MANY families moving into Rossmoor, plans for schools are proceeding rapidly. "We will have 8 different schools for Rossmoor children," Cheney said, "from kindergarten through high school." Long Beach State College neighbors Rossmoor on the west.

Model homes are located inside the main gate of Rossmoor on Los Alamitos Blvd., between Katella and Garden Grove.

Like the "Yale" and "Princeton" sections, the new "Cornell" features California ranch house design. Three bedroom, 3 bedroom and family room, and 4 bedroom and family room are available to Cornell buyers. Prices range from $17,950.

Long Beach residents take 7th St. to Los Alamitos and turn left into the project.

Terra to Speak to Select Group

Richard D. Terra, a representative of the Aetna Life Insurance Co. at Long Beach, will be a featured speaker Friday at a four-day meeting of the company's national honorary organization for leading producers at the Opera House, Sun Valley, Idaho.

R. D. TERRA

Terra was named to the honorary group, known as the Aetna Life Corps of Regionnaires, in recognition of his outstanding achievements in the life insurance field during the past year.

He is associated with the S. Rush Coffin General Agency.

FHA Mutual Terms on La Mirada Home

To meet strong public demand for larger homes with lower down payments in the City of La Mirada, Devon Construction Co. yesterday announced it is opening a new development of one- and two-story residences where FHA mutual terms will be available.

Located at Luitweiler Rd. and Santa Gertrudes Ave., the new community has been named Parkwood Estates Mutual Homes. Advance showing will begin today when four furnished model homes with decor by Wilders will go on display.

* * * *

THIS IS THE FIRST offer of FHA mutual terms in La Mirada, a Devon spokesman pointed out, and will benefit vets who have, or have not, used their GI benefits and will assist non-vets who have never before been able to qualify for home-ownership in La Mirada.

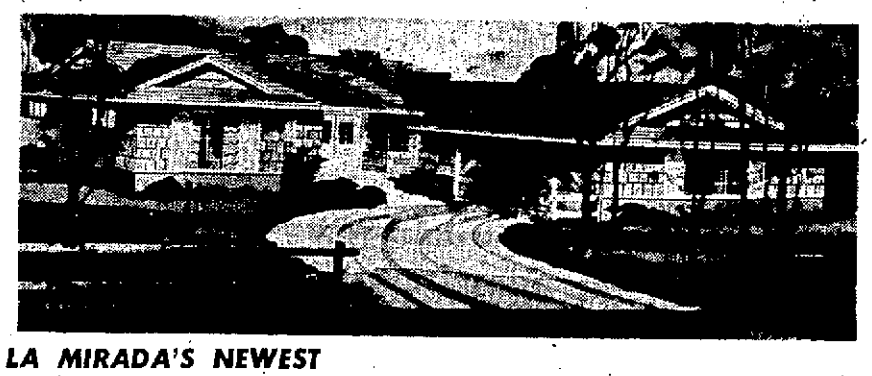

Under FHA mutual terms, he said, down payments will be as low as $895, plus costs and impounds, with low FHA monthly payments. There will be no other charges and no second mortgages.

Offered in both 3- and 4-bedroom plans, all with two baths, the new residences at Parkwood Estates Mutual Homes were designed by Architect David Freedman, A.I.A.

* * * *

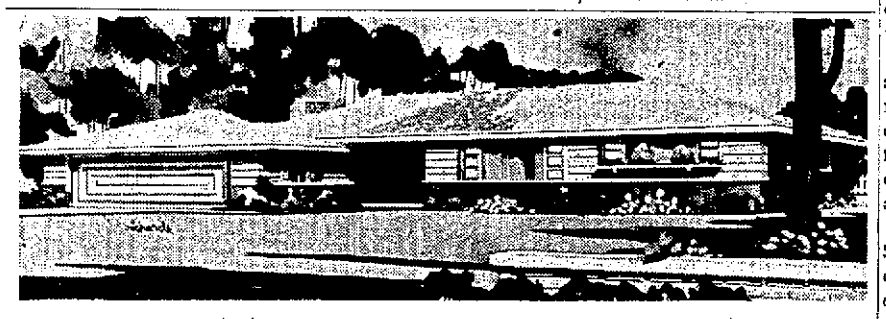

FEATURES include wood-burning fireplaces of natural stone, slumpstone or used brick; thermostatically-controlled forced air heating; decorative hardwood paneling in living rooms, sliding walls of glass leading to patios; select hardwood oak flooring on conventional raised foundations, and also available are built-in gas or electric ranges and ovens.

Also included will be kitchen ventilating fans; Bel Aire ash kitchen cabinets; garbage pulverators; separate service porches, mosaic tile in six-foot stall showers; colored bath fixtures, colored kitchen sinks; double pullmans with marble tops in master baths, and rock wool insulation.

LA MIRADA'S NEWEST

PRICED FROM $14,800

Grand opening is today for Bonded Homes which offers 3-bedroom, 2-bath models such as this. Prices start from $14,800 and they are filled with luxury features.

Homes in Lakewood Now Open

Grand opening is under way at Lakewood Square, located on South St. at Canehill in Lakewood, announced Robert C. Reilly, sales manager for the McCarthy Co., sales agents.

Lakewood Square is ideally situated in an established and built-up community of fine homes, and is only minutes from Lakewood Center and all schools.

"We expect these homes to sell out very quickly, because of their many superior features," Reilly said.

The homes feature 3 baths in some models, with 3 and 4 bedrooms. They offer sliding glass doors onto the patios, natural-finish ash kitchen cabinets, ceramic tile baths, ash paneling, and formica breakfast bars.

"These homes, priced from $17,950 to $19,250, are of quality construction," Reilly said, "with conventional foundations, asphalt shingle or volcanic rock roofs, ceiling insulation to keep the homes cool, and weather-stripping."

BUILT BY TIETZ

Here is one of the models of the large Skylark Ranchos which the Tietz Construction Co. is opening today. They are built on estate-sized lots.

Grand Opening Today for Big Skylark Ranchos Unit

Grand opening is scheduled today at Skylark Ranchos, a new unit of the 3 and 4-bedroom, family room and 2-bath homes in Garden Grove.

According to Bill Tietz, president of Tietz Construction Co., builders and developers of the Provincial styled homes, a great number of reservation sales were made during the preview opening last weekend, indicating a strong sales program.

The estate-size lots are up to a third of an acre with frontages as wide as 90 feet. Playcourts, patios and swimming pools can easily be accommodated on the oversize lots, it was noted, with swimming pools available as optional equipment to be installed during construction of the homes.

Famous all-electric kitchens are included in the homes, with built-in range and oven, exhaust fan and garbage disposal complemented by ceramic tile drainboards and natural birch cabinetry. Built-in breakfast bars are convenient kitchen dining areas and serve as sewing centers as well.

Plate glass mirrors, glass stall shower doors, colored fixtures are features of the bathrooms, while family rooms are separated from patio areas by sliding walls of glass. Fireplaces of stone or brick have raised hearths.

Construction features of the homes include genuine lath and plaster, front and rear door weatherstripping, quality lighting fixtures, spacious natural birch-faced cabinets, 220 volt dryer circuit, the latest wallpaper and paint selections, 75,000BTU forced air furnace, lawns and shrubs, sidewalks, curbs and street lighting, separate dining areas and attached double garages.

Veterans and non-veterans pay $1900 down, it was noted. Easily accessible to major transportation and minutes from famous Southland beaches, golf courses and resorts, Skylark Ranchos Homes are on Katella between Euclid and 9th.

From Los Angeles, visitors drive out Santa Ana Freeway to La Palma (Brookhurst), turn south to Katella and east to the homes. From Long Beach, go out 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Brookhurst, then turn north to Katella and east to models.

Bonded Homes Open for Viewing Today

Grand opening festivities are to be held this weekend at the new 3-bedroom, 2-bath development of Bonded Homes, Lincoln-Dale series, when prospective homebuyers will see models of the two-level homes being offered on both VA and conventional terms.

Priced from $14,800, the dwellings offer a wealth of features found in more expensive homes, including brick fireplaces with raised hearths, paneled hardwood in the living rooms, sliding glass doors, interior planters, forced air furnaces, acoustical ceilings, hardwood parquet floors, service rooms, Pullman bathrooms with ceramic tile tops and colored bath fixtures.

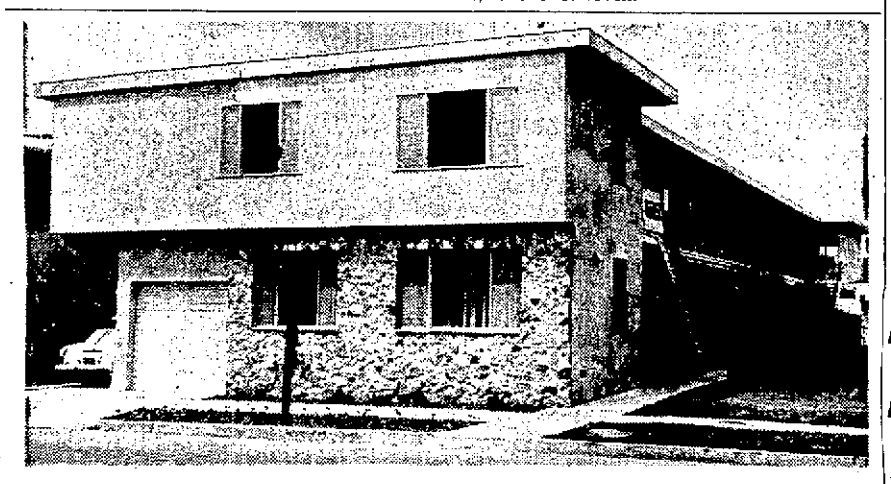

LIVING ROOMS have the added sophistication of two levels, a complement to the raised hearth fireplace. Kitchens are equipped with built-in breakfast nooks, natural finish mahogany cabinetry, dishwashers, garbage disposals, fluorescent lighting over the sink, ceramic tile drainboards and exhaust fans. Available as optional equipment are built-in range and oven.

Full two-car garages, aluminum window casements, television jacks, an abundance of closet space, log-lighters, front and side landscaping, mahogany sliding wardrobe doors and all utilities, including sidewalks, streets, curbs and sewers are in and paid for. Another optional extra is an intercom system throughout the home.

* * * *

BONDED HOMES are centrally located to provide easy access to major transportation to the cities of Los Angeles, Long Beach and Santa Ana. New schools and churches are nearby and large, metropolitan shopping centers are minutes away. The many famous Southland recreational areas are also within short distance of the homes.

From Los Angeles, visitors drive out Santa Ana Freeway to Hwy. 39, south to Lincoln and continue to Dale. From Long Beach, drive out Lincoln to Dale.

'ESPERANZA' NOW SELLING

Sale of the new Hannah-built 12-unit own-your-own at 1311 E. 1st St., known as "The Esperanza" is well under way, reports Ed Weller, Realtor. Ultra-modern kitchens, colored baths and convenient location to the downtown, parks, beach and churches are key sales points.

CLOSE TO FREEWAYS

Here is a model of the Riverview Estates unit 2 which is finding favor with buyers because of the close location to main highways and freeways.

Riverview Estates Location Appealing

With a Garden Grove location, close to freeways and high speed east-west arteries to Lakewood and the harbor area, Long Beach workers and their families are finding that Riverview Estates No. 2 offers them a convenient site for their new home, according to Gilbert J. Hayes, sales agent.

This second Riverview Unit is the closest to Long Beach of all the Hintz Construction Co. projects and has received much favorable attention from Long Beach residents, he added. Families who want to retain their harbor area employment and social ties appreciate the fact that they are only a few minutes from their old neighborhood, Hayes said. Terms for non-vets are from $95 down plus small costs.

* * * *

RIVERVIEW ESTATES homes provide a choice of 3-bedroom and study or 4-bedroom plans, all with 2 baths. Models with fireplaces and either front or rear living areas are available. Other features include natural finish wood kitchen cabinets and splash, waste disposals, breakfast nooks, French doors to patios, wide window areas, genuine lath and plaster with quality conventional construction. Full prices start at just $12,950 for the big homes.

Over 10 different elevations provide originality and individual styling ranging from provincial to modified modern, Hayes said, with many models offering covered porches. All have over 1,300 sq. ft. in area.

Hayes announced that free gifts will be given to all adults who inspect the homes this weekend.

To reach Riverview Estates No. 2 from Long Beach, drive east on 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Harbor Blvd., then south to Trask and east to models. If interested in Orange as a future residence, turn north on Harbor to Chapman, then east to Tustin Ave. and north to Walnut and east again to models in Riverview.

Lincoln Beats Seaman in 4:06; Striders Capture AAU Crown

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An expected assault on the four-minute mile barrier failed to materialize Saturday night as Australia's Merv Lincoln ran 4:06.1 to win the 69th National AAU event.

The Southern California Striders won the team title with 92½ points, followed by the defending champion New York Athletic Club with 67 and New York Pioneer Club with 54.

Don Bowden, the NCAA half-mile champion, who has a 3:58.7 mile to his credit, finished third behind Bob Seaman of the Southern California Striders.

Lincoln, who recently ran the mile in 3:58.9, was content to lay back in the pack until the last eighth of the mile when he surged from fourth place to win by 10 feet.

The time at the quarters was 61.9, 2:07.8, 3:09.9, and 4:06.1. Lincoln's time set a new AAU meet record, erasing the 4:07.6 set by Wes Santee of Kansas in 1953.

* * * *

BOWDEN AND Lincoln hung close to the rear of the 13-man field for almost two laps with the Australian dogging the American's heels.

Bowden took the lead at the start of the third lap with Lincoln a stride behind him, but Bowden could not match Lincoln's closing burst.

"I'm glad that's over with. Now we can start for home," Lincoln said after the race. He has been on a five-week tour in America. He said he had expected a better duel from Bowden, but added he realized near the end of the third lap that he could beat the American.

Seaman was clocked in 4:07.1, a second behind Lincoln and a tenth of a second ahead of Bowden. Burr Grimm of Maryland was fourth in 4:07.3.

In another record-breaking race, Reginald Pearman, 33-year-old star of the New York Pioneer Club, upset both the Olympic and NCAA champions as he set a new AAU mark of 46.4 in the quarter-mile.

* * * *

CHARLES JENKINS of Villanova, Olympic 400-meter champion, finished third behind John Telford of Wayne. Robert McMurray of Morgan State, who won the NCAA title last week, finished sixth.

Robert Backus of the New York Athletic Club, broke his own American and meet records in the 65-pound weight throw with a prodigious heave of 44-8½. His meet record was 43 feet and his American record, set a year ago, was 44-2.

* * * *

JOHN MACY, 26-year-old Polish refugee student at Houston University, running unattached, captured the three-mile run in a new meet record time of 13:55, beating Max Truex of the Southern California Striders by 10 feet. His time wiped out the old record of 14:18.5 set by Horace Ashenfelter of the NYAC in 1954.

Al Oerter of Kentucky, Olympic and NCAA discus champion, threw the "dish" 181-6 to win his speciality.

Elias Gilbert of Winston-Salem won the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.5 seconds, defeating Ancel Robinson of Fresno State, the NCAA champion, and Glenn Davis of Ohio State, the Olympic 400-meter hurdles champ. Gilbert's time broke the old meet record of 23.2, set by Jack Davis of the Los Angeles AC in 1954. Robinson, who tied the world record of 2.2 in last week's NCAA meet, finished second and Davis was fifth in a blanket finish.

A tremendous kick coming around the far turn of the final lap gave Tom Courtney, Olympic 800-meter champion, first place in the 880 in 1:50.1. Courtney came from behind to beat Arnie Sowell by eight yards.

Rev. Bob Richards, Olympic pole vault king, won the AAU title for the fourth successive year, this time at 15-1½. Ollan Cassell of East Tennessee was a surprise winner of the 220 in 21.0, nosing out Ed Collymore of Villanova and Preston Griffin of Centennial High in Compton, Calif.

Charley Jones won the two-mile steeplechase in 9:29.6.

SCHMIDT RAPS REGENTS' ACTION

PCC Breakup Almost Sure

BERKELEY (AP) — Breakup of the present Pacific Coast Conference alignment is a certainty unless the 42-year-old loop alters some basic policies.

Such changes appeared doubtful as spokesmen for PCC schools in the Northwest gave a chilly reception to Friday's statement of principles by the Board of Regents of the University of California.

The board, ruling body both for California and UCLA, held that after the 1957 season, the schools should not be bound by the PCC round-robin football scheduling which requires all members, except Idaho, to play each annually.

* * * *

CHANCELLOR Clark Kerr of California commented, "Either there will be some major change in the policy of the conference or over the course of the next several years, some new alignment of schools will develop."

This new alignment very well could be the Pacific Northwest in one section and the California schools in another. Washington might join the California schools.

"If this is an ultimatum to the conference, I would like to say I don't believe this is a way to solve conference problems," asserted Dean Orlando Hollis of the University of Oregon, its PCC representative.

How the regents action could be taken for anything but an ultimatum was hard to see. Just last May 23, the PCC refused to amend its round-robin football schedule policy and allow each school to play only five conference games.

* * * *

OREGON, Oregon State Washington State, Stanford and Idaho voted to maintain the round robin with California, UCLA, Southern California and Washington voting against it.

"I am puzzled," commented President C. Clement French of Washington State Saturday. "I can't make much sense out of the announcement from Berkeley. On the face of it, I'd say it looks like UCLA and Cal won't be in the conference much longer."

Dr. D. R. Theophilus, president of Idaho, said, "The Pacific Coast Conference is a voluntary association. No one can compel either southern school to stay in or get out."

* * * *

CONFERENCE commissioner Victor O. Schmidt declared, "There are very few rules and policies of the conference which express the complete desires of any member. Rules usually are a compromise of views. In this field of compromise, the last few years have brought this conference the most stringent requirements for academic progress in the country; the strictest academic regulations governing transfer students, and the adoption of a program of higher entrance requirements for athletic participation.

"Moreover, even the present financial aid program is one of the most restrictive in the nation — much more so than those of nearly all of our intersectional opponents. Against this background it should be evident that the Pacific Coast Conference has been rightfully recognized throughout the nation as an organization of universities which has pioneered such restrictive controls of college athletics as may maintain proper balance between athletic and academic interests of the student."

What would become of the PCC Rose Bowl pact with the Big Ten also posed a question. Since the pact began in 1947, the only non-California team to meet the Midwesterners was Oregon State last Jan. 1.

UCLA's Chancellor Raymond B. Allen said Saturday he is happy with the ruling by the regents.

Wilbur Johns, UCLA athletic director, revealed Saturday that Stanford may be dropped from the UCLA football schedule after the 1957 game because of strong alumni pressure. Stanford voted consistently against UCLA in conference meetings.

Patterson, Games Champ in Title Go

SEATTLE (UP) — If Floyd Patterson gets by Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson in New York July 29, he will make his second heavyweight title defense here during the week of Aug. 19 against 29-year-old Olympic champion Pete Rademacher.

The announcement came Saturday from Jack Hurley, the veteran fight manager who was handpicked by Patterson's boss, Gus D'Amato, to promote Seattle's first heavyweight title fight in history.

If the bout goes through, Rademacher will become the first boxer in the annals of the ring ever to fight for the heavyweight crown in his first professional engagement.

* * * *

HURLEY SAID he would stage the fight in the Seattle Rainiers' baseball park. The stadium has a capacity of about 11,000 but he said it could be altered to seat 30,000. "With a full house" he said, "we'll draw a half-million dollars."

D'Amato demanded a $250,000 guarantee along with a 40-per-cent-of-the-gate privilege to bring his "Tiger" to the Pacific Northwest. The money was put up by a group of Columbus, Ga. businessmen who became acquainted with Rademacher when the Olympic champ was stationed at Fort Benning as an Army lieutenant.

Rademacher is a past AAU champion and picked up an Olympic gold medal in Australia last year.

* * * *

"THEY CALL that boy an amateur," Hurley said, "but he fights more like a pro. He's been boxing for 10 years and has picked up a lot of pro tricks and actions. He won't have any trouble learning to pace himself for 15 rounds."

In Milwaukee, Fred Saddy, chairman of the National Boxing Association's championship committee, said "we'd have no choice but to recognize the winner as champion."

AUDREY NEXT HURRICANE, JACKSON!

COLUMBIA, N.J. (UP) — It's a long time before July 29, but just in case folks should forget, that is the date when Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson fights champion Floyd Patterson for the world's heavyweight championship at the Polo Grounds in New York.

Saturday the following announcement came out of Jackson's training camp:

"We have applied to the U.S. Weather Bureau to name the next hurricane 'Jackson' in case there is one between now and July 29."

Just for the record, the next hurricane, if any, is to be called Audrey.

Yanks Take Loop Lead

Berra's Clout Nips Hose in 13

NEW YORK (AP) — The streaking New York Yankees took over first place in the American League for the first time in seven weeks Saturday as clutch-hitting Yogi Berra smashed a 13th inning homer for a 6-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

In winning their second straight of the current four-game set and their ninth in succession, the onrushing Yanks used a combination of power hitting and superb relief pitching by Tommy Byrne to overcome an early 5-2 White Sox lead. They lead Chicago by a half game going into today's doubleheader.

Byrne, who had pitched only 22⅓ previous innings, stopped the erstwhile league-leaders on one hit in nine scoreless innings, once working out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam.

* * * *

BILL SKOWRON'S two-run homer in the sixth, matching Mickey Mantle's 20th with one aboard in the first inning, plus Harry Simpson's RBI single in the seventh got the New Yorkers even.

The Yanks did all the threatening after that until Berra drilled one deep into the lower right field seats as the first batter reliever Paul LaPalme faced in the 13th.

The last time the 1956 world champions and runaway '57 favorites were in first place was on May 9, when they shared the top spot with the White Sox.

Byrne, 37-year-old lefthander, took over at the start of the fifth inning after starter Art Ditmar and his successor, Don Larsen, had been well battered.

* * * *

THE ONLY CHICAGO hit after that was Jim Rivera's liner which caromed off the glove of first baseman Skowron in the eighth inning. Byrne walked seven and struck out seven and had his only bad moment in the sixth, when a hit batsman and two walks loaded the bases with none out.

Rivera bounced into a force play at the plate and Tommy was out free when Earl Battey struck out and Bubba Phillips grounded out.

Rivera touched off both of Chicago's scoring innings, opening the three-run second with a double and the two-run third with a walk.

Ditmar left in the second after Rivera's double, his own error, an infield hit and two bases-loaded walks had accounted for two runs with none out. Larsen worked out of that jam with only one more run scoring but gave up two more in the third when Phillips followed Rivera's walk with a triple and then scored as Jack Harshman grounded out.

TERRANG SCRATCHED

Find Triumphs as Brocato Runs Last

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's game old campaigner, Find, raced to a half-length victory Saturday in the $53,250 Inglewood Handicap at Hollywood Park, running down the favored Bobby Brocato on the backstretch and then maintaining his lead the rest of the way.

Bobby Brocato faded to last in the five-horse field and Find fought off the challenge of little Eddie Schmidt in the run for the wire. Pit Boss was third and the Pie King fourth.

It was the fourth start for the seven-year-old Find at the meeting and his second victory along with two thirds for an outstanding record thus far.

* * * *

FIND RACED the mile and a sixteenth in the fast time of 1:40 4/5 although well off Swap's world mark of 1:39 set in the Inglewood Handicap last year.

Find was permitted to get away at 5-2 odds and he returned $7.10, 4.60 and 2.70 across the board. Eddie Schmidt paid $8.00 and 3.50 for place and show and Pit Boss returned $3.20 for show.

For a few fleeting moments it appeared that Bobby Brocato had returned to his form of last year when he won eight stakes and nearly $300,000 and pushed Swaps to several of his world records. But Bobby Brocato did not have it when the real racing began in the final half-mile and Find was there to take over.

* * * *

BOBBY BROCATO shot out in front at the start and Find came right after him and for a while it was a two-horse race in front. But Bobby Brocato opened up a lead of two and a half lengths on the backstretch as he looked like his old self.

Find, ridden by the veteran Ralph Neves, kept dogging his heels and nailed him around the turn for home. And once he got out in front Find was not to be denied despite the good race run by Eddie Schmidt which saved ground on the rail and closed boldly. For a time he looked like he might catch Find but Neves urged his mount on in the final yards to win by a half length.

Find, as the mainstay in the handicap ranks of the Vanderbilt stable, proved that at seven he is still a horse to be feared.

Rivers Wins Title Match

Neal Rivers, 159, Los Angeles, scored a ninth-round technical knockout Saturday night over Sal Flores, 160, of Buena Park, in their scheduled 12-round bout at Hollywood Legion Stadium for the state middleweight title.

Rivers, bothered by Flores' crunching body attack through the early rounds, finally opened up in the ninth round and started booming home rights and lefts to the craggy jaw of the stocky veteran.

He pounded Flores along the ropes from one corner to another and then sent him sprawling for a nine-count with a left to the jaw. Flores got up, willing but wobbly, and referee Lee Grossman rushed in and stopped it at 2:47 of the round as Rivers was landing at will.

* * * *

RIVERS, WHO WON his middleweight crown on the eighth of this month by defeating Bobby Jones of Oakland, was trailing by two points on most cards in the press row when he opened up in the ninth round.

Both fighters suffered cuts over their left eyes. There were no knockdowns prior to the ninth round.

Once Over Lightly

by DAVE LEWIS

There was an ancient movie on TV the other night called "Slide, Kelly, Slide."

However, it wasn't about the man who made "Slide, Kelly, S-L-I-D-E" a byword of the game of baseball.

Yes, the Kelly in that famous saying was a real person . . . Michael J. (King) Kelly.

Connie Mack called Kelly the Ty Cobb of his time. The colorful Cap Anson said Kelly was as good a batter as anybody and as fine a thrower from the catcher's position or the outfield.

In fact, he threw more men out from those two positions than any other player.

Several baseball writers asserted as late as the 1920's that Kelly was the greatest player who ever lived.

Kelly was the $10,000 beauty of the late 1880's and early 1890's. Certainly few other players ever had the off-the-field color of the quick-thinking Irishman of Troy, N. Y., according to the records.

Tall, powerfully-built and handsome, Kelly was one of the best dressed men of his period in tall hat, tailored suits, ultra-fashionable Ascot and patent leather shoes.

HE WAS THE John L. Sullivan of the diamond. He could drink more brandy and champagne than any man in the house and still play a great game the next day.

The King was a graceful spender, consequently had many friends, fair weather and otherwise. In response to praise and flattery, he was quick with a dollar in bar-rooms . . . when he had it, which wasn't always, for it was difficult for a young man like him to keep in funds.

They say he would have broke the Bank of England if given the opportunity.

Kelly was the first player that "cranks," as fans were known in those days, followed on the streets. He was the original target for autograph seekers.

Kelly broke into baseball on the sandlots of Paterson, N. J., where he played for $3 a week. At 20 he moved to Columbus to play with a semi-pro aggregation. Cincinnati finally picked him up and as the 80's began, he came into renown for the first time with Cap Anson's Chicago White Stockings.

Kelly was the first ballplayer sold for "important money" and also the first one to get it. The owners of the Boston Nationals paid the White Stockings the unheard sum of $10,000 for him in 1887 and gave him $5,000 a year. Editorials were written about it.

YOU MIGHT SAY that Kelly inaugurated the "days" for ballplayers as Boston fans presented their idol with a beautiful horse and carriage so that he could ride to the park in style.

Kelly, a lefthanded hitter, batted .388 for the champion White Stockings the year before he went to Boston. He scored 120 runs that year and could circle the bases in 15 seconds.

It was the King's amazing ability to do everything that Ty Cobb did 25 years later, however, which left "Slide, Kelly, Slide" to ring down the Hall of Fame.

"Like Cobb," Connie Mack recalls, "Kelly never gave an infielder or catcher anything more than the tip of his toe to tag. He had all of Ty's stuff . . . the fadeaway, fall-away and hook slides and a few so distinctively his own that others couldn't copy them."

Mack, who played against the King, says, "Kelly would cut second by from 10 to 20 feet in going from first to third on an infield tap while the one umpire used in those days had his eyes glued on the play at first. Similarly, he would cut third in scoring from second."

Kelly did so many things first that he practically wrote the rules.

The Boston management became fed up with his royal temperament and sent him to New York in 1893 where he was suspended for going on a beer bust and to the races when he was supposed to be steaming himself into shape in a Turkish bath.

King Kelly was out of baseball and on the stage a year when he died of pneumonia in November of '94 at the age of 37, just in time, one writer recalls, to escape the one thing in the world he feared . . . lack of funds to play the "golden boy."

"Slide, Kelly, S-L-I-D-E-!"

Newk Jinx Beats Cards Again, 6-4

ST. LOUIS (U.P.)—A double by Charley Neal and successive triples by PeeWee Reese and Duke Snider gave the Brooklyn Dodgers two runs and a ninth inning, 6-4 victory over the first-place St. Louis Cardinals Saturday.

Big Don Newcombe was not around at the finish but it was his six-year jinx that held good over the Cards. They have not beaten him since 1951. Newcombe was taken out in the ninth for a pinch-hitter and Clem Labine put down a last-ditch Cardinal rally, but it was Newcombe who got his fourth victory over St. Louis this year and brought his season mark to 7-6.

Newcombe's career mark against the Cards is 19-5. Vinegar Bend Mizell took the loss, his fifth against a single win.

The Dodgers took a four-run lead in the third inning but the cards whittled away until they gained a tie on Stan Musial's 16th home run in the eighth. Then the Brooklyn bats broke loose on Mizell in the ninth and Labine struck out Al Dark and Musial with two men on to end the game.

Starter Willard Schmidt fell victim to the Dodger uprising in the third that included successive walks to Junior Gilliam and Reese, a scoring single by Duke Snider and Gil Hodges' three-run homer, his ninth.

The Cardinals cut the margin on Wally Moon's 14th homer in the fourth and again in the eighth on a double error by Newcombe, Joe Cunningham's pinch-hit double and Don Blasingame's third single.

The loss snapped a four-game Cardinal win streak, evened the series and cut the Redbirds' National League lead to one game over the Phillies.

Kaline's Hit Sinks Birds in 13th, 2-1

BALTIMORE (AP) — Al Kaline's single scored Charlie Maxwell from second base Saturday night with the run that gave the Detroit Tigers a 2-1, 13-inning victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Paul Foytack, who pitched hitless ball until Jim Busby hit an inside-the-park homer in the eighth for Baltimore's only run, gave up only five hits in racking up his eighth victory against four losses.

Following Busby's smash, which rolled to the centerfield fence after Maxwell missed a try for a shoestring catch, Forytack escaped serious trouble until the final inning. The Orioles loaded the bases with two out in that frame and Frank Lary came in to rescue Foytack by getting Busby on a grounder back to the mound.

★ ★ ★ ★

GEORGE ZUVERINK, who relieved starter Billy O'Dell in the ninth, absorbed his third loss against seven victories.

Kaline's RBI single came after Maxwell doubled with two out.

The Tigers got their other run in the ninth on a walk to Bill Tuttle, a sacrifice, O'Dell's throwing error and Philley's infield ground-out.

Lem Back on Beam, Wins, 7-1

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Bob Lemon, sidelined for three weeks earlier this season because of injuries, pitched his first complete game victory of the year for the Cleveland Indians Saturday when he held the Washington Senators to five hits to win, 7-1.

A six-run fourth-inning outburst, in which rookies Dick Brown and Larry Raines each hit a two-run single, helped Lemon score his fifth victory against four defeats.

Three of the Washington hits were made by Roy Sievers. The only run Lemon gave up was unearned, resulting from Chico Carrasqual's error on Pete Runuel's grounder.

Lemon, winning his fifth game in nine decisions, struck out four.

Padres Nod Seals in 9th on Home Run

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A homer by outfielder Floyd Robinson in the ninth broke up a deadlocked game and gave the San Diego Padres a 7-6 Pacific Coast League victory over the top-rung San Francisco Seals Saturday.

The Seals had tied it in the eighth, 6-6, when Sal Taormina belted a homer with Marty Keough aboard.

Robinson's four-bagger was his fourth hit in five trips and his sixth homer of the season. It gave San Diego a 4-1 bulge in the series.

Cubs Thump Giants, 12-4

CHICAGO (U.P.) — The last-place Chicago Cubs belted four New York Giant pitchers for 16 hits Saturday to swamp the visitors, 12-4, in a game called after six innings because of rain.

The umpires waited 35 minutes before calling the game, when heavy thundershowers struck the city.

Outfielder Walt Moryn was the hitting star with two singles and two doubles in four times at bat.

Angels Sock 9 Homers

Osenbaugh Gives Up 22 Runs, 18 Hits

The Los Angeles Angels belted nine home runs—five of them in one inning—and demolished Sacramento 22-5 Saturday in a power exhibition that broke or equalled numerous club and Coast League records. Bert Hamric socked three of the Angel homers.

The Angels got 20 hits, eight of them in their 11-run seventh inning. Hamric hit two of his homers in this inning and Steve Bilko, Jim Baxes and Bob Dolan added one apiece.

One curious aspect of the game was that Roger Osenbaugh, the losing pitcher, was allowed to give up all 22 runs and 18 hits before he was relieved in the seventh by Roger Bowman, who kept the Angels quiet the rest of the way.

★ ★ ★ ★

SACRAMENTO manager Tommy Heath said after the game that he had several reasons for letting Osenbaugh absorb some of the worst punishment ever taken by a PCL pitcher in one game.

First, Heath said, there are a number of sore arms on the Solon pitching staff and he didn't want to use up any more throwers than he had to. Second, Osenbaugh himself was working out of some arm trouble and needed the exercise. The manager said he wasn't angry with Osenbaugh and was not trying to punish him.

Osenbaugh was in trouble almost right off. In the second inning, Jim Fridley and Hamric socked back-to-back home runs in a four-run Los Angeles rally.

★ ★ ★ ★

GEORGE ANDERSON scored the fifth Angel run in the third on a sacrifice fly and whacked a grand-slam homer in the next inning to send Los Angeles ahead, 9-0.

The Angels got a single run in the fifth and another on Tom Saffell's homer in the sixth before mounting their 11-run assault in the seventh.

The solons got four of their runs in the sixth, when Leo Righetti singled in Jim Mangan and Nippy Jones hit a three-run homer.

★ ★ ★ ★

LOS ANGELES tied the PCL record for most home runs by one team in a game. The old Vernon club set the record of nine in 1923.

The Angels broke the league record for number of homers in one inning by one team. The old record of four was set by Salt Lake in 1923 and San Francisco in 1938.

In addition, the Angels broke the old club record of seven homers in a game, and Hamric tied a club record by hitting two homers in an inning. The 48 total bases collected by the Angels also was an all-time club high.

Weiss Sharp in 4-Hit Pro Debut

MODESTO (AP) — Doug Weiss, All-American pitcher who helped pitch California to the NCCA baseball championship, made his professional debut Saturday night a sparkler.

He pitched Modesto to a 5-1, four-hit victory over Salinas in the class C California League. He's the property of New York Yankees.

Weiss retired the first 14 batters in order. He struck out eight; walked four. He yielded a home run in the eighth to Ham Hanson.

Beamon's 7-Hitter Stops Suds

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Charlie Beamon recorded his third victory over the Seattle Rainiers and his fifth of the season with a seven-hit, 4-0, shutout for the Vancouver Mounties at Capilano Stadium Saturday night.

The Rainiers had men on base in every inning but no runner got beyond second as Beamon, ending a losing string of four straight, struck out nine.

Rookie Sanford Six-Hits Braves for 9th Win, 4-2

MILWAUKEE (U.P.) — Rookie pitcher Jack Sanford won his ninth game and Stan Lopata hit a two-run homer as the Philadelphia Phillies beat Milwaukee, 4-2, Saturday to take over second place from the slumping Braves.

Sanford gave up only six hits to keep the Braves in check despite four Philadelphia errors, three by Chico Fernandez.

In the third, with Carl Sawatski on second and Billy Bruton on first, Fernandez fielded Red Schoendienst's grounder and forced Bruton but threw wildly to first. Sawatski took third and scored when Ed Bouchee threw wildly to the plate.

★ ★ ★ ★

FERNANDEZ muffed another double play ball in the fourth which permitted Wes Covington to score.

Philadelphia got its first run off starter Bob Trowbridge on a double by Granny Hamner, two walks and a sacrifice fly by Rip Repulski. Fernandez removed some of the stigma from his play when he singled to score Willie Jones after Jones doubled in the eighth.

Beavers Run Win Skein to 5

PORTLAND (AP) — The Portland Beavers extended their winning streak to five games Saturday night, downing Hollywood, 4-1, in a Pacific Coast League game.

Bob Thorpe, the winning pitcher, limited Hollywood to four hits as he won his fifth game in nine starts.

Portland bunched all its hits off Hollywood starter Ben Wade in the fourth inning.

★ ★ ★ ★

DANNY BAICH led off by gaining life on an error and then Thorpe drew a walk. Solly Drake singled, scoring Baich and Ed Winceniak tripled, scoring Thorpe and Drake. Winceniak scored on a bunt single by Luis Marquez.

Joe Duhem singled home Bill Causion with Hollywood's lone run in the sixth inning.

The victory gave Portland a 5-1 lead in the series.

In This Corner with DICK ZEHMS

This Corner wasn't the only column that saw a possible connection between Long Beach City College and the Junior Rose Bowl Game in Pasadena after Anaheim's Mickey Flynn and six of his Colonist football buddies decided to cast their lot with the 1957 Vikings.

Here is how scholarly Rube Samuelson, who authors Rube-Barbs in the Pasadena Star-News, greeted the news:

"THAT SHOULD DO IT. The gentlemen of the Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce might as well put down Long Beach City College without delay as the No. 1 1957 Junior Rose Bowl Game threat.

"Besides Mickey Flynn and Joe Avitia, the two who made Anaheim High's potent prep eleven of last fall go, Long Beach will also fall heir to the pair's following teammates: Gene Borford, 200, twice all-Sunset League tackle and last year third CIF choice; Johnny McDonald, quarterback; Don Brockett, all-Sunset center; Don Penfield, all-Sunset half, and Joel Hoare, all-Sunset guard.

"Now there's a haul! Flynn hopes to transfer to SC after one year in Long Beach, and be eligible for 1958 Trojan varsity play.

"A halfback, Mickey scored 49 TDs during his three seasons at Anaheim. Long Beach, a member of the Metropolitan Conference with such teams as Valley, Bakersfield, San Diego, Santa Monica, El Camino, Harbor and East L. A., won't meet Pasadena next fall."

No doubt Jim Stangeland and Bill Poore, new Vike grid chieftains ,are optimistic, of course. Yet they're well aware of the steep climb ahead. Everybody will be taking dead aim on the Vikings. Knocking off Flynn and his associates is bound to become the ultimate in conquest for nine opponents.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: From Bill Wight, Baltimore Oriole pitcher:

"You've got to be either too smart to worry, or too dumb to worry.

"Trouble with me is that I'm right in the middle!"

NO PIGEONS. In years gone by, the New York Yankees have always gotten rich en route to pennants at the expense of the Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators.

At the last look this season, the Yanks were 4-4 with both.

BEST BET. Pappy Waldorf's problem child last fall, tackle Proverb Jacobs is called the best pro prospect among Pacific Coast Conference gridders participating a month ago in spring practice.

The husky California lineman, who heaved the shotput for the Bears in track, was given this rating by Bert Rose Jr., L. A. Ram publicist who turned scout to tour the PCC springs camps.

PROSPERITY NOTE. Oklahoma's advance season ticket sales have surpassed all records in the school's history. A Nov. 16 home date with Notre Dame is given as the reason.

Sooner sales have passed 26,000 and officials believe they'll reach 31,500. Old record was 24,766, set last year.

There's nothing like a winner to excite the appetite!

GENIUS AT WORK. Rotund Tommy Heath, one of the Pacific Coast League's friendliest and most obliging managers, recently was asked to name the best defensive players by position he has seen while managing his Sacramento Solons this season. His list:

Catcher—Nini Tornay, San Francisco; first base—Frank Kellert, San Francisco; second base—Spook Jacobs, Hollywood; third base—Leo Rodriguez, Hollywood; shortstop—Billy Harrell, San Diego; left field—Tommy Umphlett, San Francisco; center—Al Heist, Sacramento; right—Jim Greengrass, Sacramento.

Tommy declined to pick a pitcher, but insisted that quite a few of the players he selected will not be seen in the PCL All-Star Game July 2 at Wrigley Field because, he said, most all-star teams are selected on a basis of hitting with the defensive angle neglected.

A NAME. People with nothing better to do have been worrying about an appropriate nickname for the Brooklyn Dodgers when they start playing out of Los Angeles.

Until a better one comes along, "Los Angeles Smodgers" will do!

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT. Did you hear about the Pittsburgh traffic judge, mindful of the low state of the Pirates in the National League, leveling this judgment on a minor violator?

"If this violation happens again," he stated, "you will be sentenced to three days at Forbes Field!"

Chicago judges may have Wrigley Field in mind any day now!

HAPPY LANDING, REGATTA QUEEN!

While West Long Beach Lions John Downing and Scotty Buchan offer a lift down from Kenny Sprow's hydroplane, Yo Yo, President Harry Jaffe (right) prepares to receive in case it turns into an adagio performance for Janice Carmody, queen of the big July 44 inboard regatta at Marine Stadium. SMITH CHAIRMAN

July 4 Regatta Officials Named

By BOB RUSKAUFF

Gillette Smith, El Monte, himself twice national champion in the 48-cubic inch hydroplane class, will view things from the other end during the 9th National Independence Day inboard regatta at Marine Stadium, July 4.

Smith was Saturday appointed race chairman by Southern California Speedboat Club, which will conduct the big race-meet. It is sponsored by West Long Beach Lions Club.

Other race officials are Jack Smith, Downey, referee; Commodore Keith Black of SCSC, measurer; James Otto Crocker, San Diego, chief timer; James Carter, Lynwood, starter; Ernie Gage, Pasadena, pit manager, and Ruthelyn Wilson, Long Beach, chief scorer.

One large if in the big entry list today concerns whether the sensational 266-cubic inch hydroplane, Roughneck II, will make it.

Ruthelyn's husband, Guy C. (Red) Wilson and Bob Willis are enroute now from Venice to New York on the S.S. Christofero Colombo, Italian liner due to dock Friday. The Long Beach inboard aces hope to get back in time to enter the meet.

"Lousy weather" put a kibosh (even as in sunny So. Calif. lately) on international regattas planned in Europe, word from the drivers said. Details were lacking.

SOUTHLAND stock outboarders will leave today and Monday for Mexico, for competition in the Pan-American regattas, Sunday at Guadalupe Dam and July 7 at Veracruz, respectively, 20 minutes and six hours drive from Mexico City. Bert Hendrick, San Diego; Bob Davidson and Bert Shields are among pilots slated to make the tour.

* * * *

THOUGH THE 20th edition of the Transpacific race start, July 4, will over-shadow on the sailing scene—and from then for the next three weeks—top-notch Corinthian events confront in the Southland.

Big and action-filled will be the Alamitos Bay Yacht Club's traditional holiday regatta, July 4, 6 and 7. There are four other events July 6 and 7:

Southern California Yachting Association's sectional eliminations for the Mallory (men's) and Adams (women's) North American championship trophies, at Newport; Santa Barbara's ever-colorful Semana Nautica; PC-Luders sailing eliminations at Balboa YC and, at both BYC and Newport Harbor YC, the annual holiday regatta.

Add, Thursday through Sunday, national Mercury class championships hosted by BYC. Defending champ is Bob Gaestel, whose Rhythm of Merced Sailing Club won at Lake Yosemite in 1956.

Seymour's 240 Fling Tops Meet

Dr. Steve Seymour threw the javelin 240 feet 6 inches for the top performance in the first annual Long Beach State College All-Comers track and field meet on the 49er field Saturday.

Seymour uncorked an unofficial toss of 248-10 after the meet, the best effort of his career.

Norman Volen, East Los Angeles JC athlete who plans to enroll at Long Beach State in the fall, was named the meet's outstanding athlete because of his first places in the shot put and discus.

Only other double winner of the day was Richard Woolfe who took the sprints in 10.1 and 22.4. Jim Harris, who will be a senior at Downey High next fall, won the pole vault at 13 feet.

Yankees, Bums Tops in Salaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major league financial statements filed with a House subcommittee support the old slogan that you get what you pay for:

The New York Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers paid out more in salaries last year than any other clubs in baseball.

The Yankees, it's not hard to recall, captured the American League pennant and then won the World Series from Brooklyn, National League champs.

Salary figures showed up in profit and loss sheets deposited with the House antitrust committee in its investigation of pro sports enterprises.

* * * *

THE SUBCOMMITTEE last week heard from baseball executives. On Monday it plans to question players themselves to get the workingmen's opinions on how baseball conducts its affairs.

Fiscal data supplied by baseball officials went into the record as part of the evidence on which the subcommittee will decide whether to recommend legislation to clarify the legal status of baseball, football, basketball and ice hockey. The Supreme Court has exempted baseball from federal antitrust laws but held that football — and boxing—are covered.

American League figures showed the Yanks first in player salaries for 1956 with a total of $680,679. Brooklyn topped the National League with $598,566.

* * * *

PLAYER SALARIES corresponded fairly well with the clubs' league standings all down the line. Here's a listing by outlay, with each team's position in the 1956 pennant races in parentheses:

AMERICAN LEAGUE
New York Yankees (1) $680,679, Cleveland (2) $557,172, Chicago White Sox (4) $406,061, Baltimore (6) $375,276, Boston (4) $428,322, Kansas City (8) $345,257, Washington (7) $316,975, Detroit (8) no report filed.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Brooklyn (1) $598,566, New York Giants (5) $530,840, Milwaukee (2) $489,924, Philadelphia (5) $485,220, Cincinnati (3) $441,355, St. Louis (4) $412,094, Chicago (8) $380,752, Pittsburgh (7) $316,822.

Hanks Tops Field at N.J. Speedway

TRENTON, N. J. (UP) — The speed trials started Saturday for today's inaugural stock car race of the Trenton International speedway. Among the first 10 men to qualify is Sam Hanks, this year's winner of the Indianapolis Classic.

Competing in the 300 mile race for a $15,000 prize will be the following 10 drivers; their cars and speed times are included.

1. Ralph Moody, '57 Ford, 95.651; 2. Sam Hanks, '57 Mercury, 93.151; 3. Russ Hepler, '57 Pontiac, 94.771; 4. Johnny Mantz, '57 Mercury, 94.363; 5. Marshall Teague, '57 Mercury, 94.167; 6. Johnny Parsons, '57 Mercury, 93.936; 7. Gordon Gorman, '56 Chevrolet 93.157; 8. Bob James, '57 Chevrolet, 92.326; 9. Norman Nelson, '57 Mercury, 91.551; 10. Tom Horner, '58 Ford, 91.464.

JOCKEY BURR FINED $1,500

CHICAGO (AP) — Jockey Charley Burr, the nation's leading rider in 1951, Saturday was fined $1,500 and suspended until July 2 by the Illinois Racing Board on his admission he "cheated the scales."

The board said Burr, 23, admitted falsifying on the scales and riding light in Balmoral's fourth race at Washington Park on June 8.

Four races later on the same day, Burr won the $50,000 Chicagoan with William S. Miller's Better Bee. Burr led all jockeys in the recently closed Balmoral meeting with 28 winners.

ERRORS NOT FOR HIM

Temple Fined $100 for Punching Official Scorer

CINCINNATI (UP)—Johnny Temple, fiery Cincinnati Redlegs second baseman, was fined $100 Saturday for punching the official scorer in Friday night's 3-2 loss to the Pittsburgh Pirates here.

The fine was levied by Warren Giles, National League president, after Temple argued with scorer Earl Lawson over an error the diminutive second baseman was charged with.

Temple issued a public apology to Lawson, Cincinnati Times-Star reporter serving as official scorer.

"I hope Earl will accept my apology," Temple said. "I'm glad I wasn't suspended."

The error was charged on a ground ball hit by Pirate catcher Hank Foiles. Temple rushed up to Lawson after the game and demanded: "Who was the official scorer?"

When Lawson replied that he was, the writer and Temple exchanged sharp words and fists flew until players separated the pair.

Post's Homer in 11th Sinks Pirates

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Redlegs went on another home run hitting binge Saturday with Wally Post's drive over the center field wall with two on the last of the 11th giving them a 6-3 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Post's blow, coming after Frank Robinson and Ed Bailey had walked, was off Nelson King, the last of three Pirate pitchers in the 11th.

Prior to that all of the Cincinnati runs had come on solo homers by Don Hoak, George Crowe, and Robinson.

* * * *

THE PIRATES also got into the homerun hitting parade with circuit blows by Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski. Mazeroski's wallop had tied the score in the top of the eighth.

The game was stopped twice by rain—once for 39 minutes and the second time for 13 minutes.

The victory was credited to Brooks Lawrence and Bob Purkey, who was relieved by King, was the loser.

Fornieles Handcuffs A's on 6 Hits

BOSTON (AP)—Mike Fornieles may have ended the Boston Red Sox search for another starting pitcher Saturday by handcuffing Kansas City 5-1, on a six-hitter.

Used chiefly as a relief hurler since he entered the major leagues in 1952 at Washington, Fornieles turned in his second complete game for the Sox.

Billy Martin got to him for a leadoff home run in the sixth inning.

Mike, who had lost seven in a row, did not allow a walk. In 18 1-3 innings with the Sox he has issued only four passes.

Frank Malzone's two - run homer highlighted a four-run third inning for Boston.

Geiberger, Callison in Links Finals

Allen Geiberger, youthful defending champion from Santa Barbara, staged a furious finish Saturday to win his way into the finals of the Southern California Amateur Golf Championship Tournament along with Verne Callison of Sacramento.

Geiberger, who as a boy lived in Sacramento and frequently played with Callison, will clash with his former mentor in a 36-hole match at Lakeside Country Club today for the title starting at 9 a.m.

Callison had a fairly easy time in his semi-final match downing the veteran Bruce McCormick, 7 and 5. Callison was one over par for the 31 holes.

Geiberger, a 19-year-old stringbean who plans to enter SC in the fall, found himself three down to ex-champion Ted Richards with only five holes to play, but came on strong to win the next four holes and take the match 1-up.

Geiberger and Richards were even, with par 70s, at the end of the morning round. The Santa Barbara youth finished the 36-hole match one over par.

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Joe Mathes, long-time farm director and later chief scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, announced Saturday that he had returned to the club as special scouting assistant to general manager Frank Lane.

Cornell Wins Third Straight IRA Title

SYRACUSE (UP) — Cornell's varsity crew, tabbed the greatest aggregation of oarsmen assembled in this generation, swept majestically Saturday to its third straight three-mile college rowing championship on choppy Lake Onondaga.

Pulling steadily in the long sweeping stroke so characteristic of coach Stork Sanford's crews, the powerful Big Red eight overhauled a sprinting Pennsylvania crew which had surprised everyone by jumping to a big early lead.

Edging in front at the two-mile mark, Cornell raced home two full lengths ahead of the Quakers with Stanford another length and one-half farther back in third place.

* * * *

CORNELL'S excellent time of 15:26.6 was 18 seconds off the course record set by Navy's Olympic champions' in 1952, the first year the IRA regatta moved here. A brisk 15-mile-an-hour wind pushed the Big Red home.

Pennsylvania was timed in 15:32.6 and Stanford was clocked in 15:39.5.

Cornell also took the junior varsity race with Syracuse and Penn second and third but Navy kept the Big Red from making a sweep by nabbing the freshman event. Results:

Such Crust III Averages 83 MPH to Win at Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—Such Crust III won the Detroit Memorial Regatta Saturday at an average 83.872 miles an hour under the hand of driver Freddie Alter. Such Crust had the fastest heat time, 85.769.

The tremendous thrust given by Such Crust's twin Allison engines gave Alter the lead by the first turn of the first lap of each of the heats.

Bob Schroeder in Wildroot Charlie finished second on points by winning the first elimination heat and taking second and third places in the two final heats.

Miss Wayne, piloted by Bud Saile, finished third with heat places of second, fourth and fifth. Miss Supertest was fourth. Wha Hoppen and Short Circuit were the other finishers.

MILLION-TO-1

2 Straight Golf Aces

GLENBROOK, Nev. (UP)—A million-to-one shot in the game of golf was scored here Saturday when two players fired consecutive holes-in-one in the annual Lake Tahoe Invitational golf tournament.

John Craig of San Francisco hit a wedge into the cup on the fly on the par three, 85-yard third hole. The next man up, playing in the same foursome, Frank Loperena of Taft, Calif., followed with a wedge shot which took two bounces and plopped into the cup on top of Craig's ball.

Craig is a 10 handicapper, Loperena a seven.

U.S. Women's Open Tourney to Begin

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UP)—Thirty-two professionals and 68 amateurs, headed by defending champion Kathy Cornelius of Dayton, O., tee off Thursday at the famed Winged Foot club in the U.S. Golf Association's fifth annual Women's Open championship.

Five former champions, last year's runnerup and holders of the world's four top women's championships were entered in the record field for the 72-hole championship. Single rounds are scheduled Thursday and Friday, with the 36-hole windup on Saturday for the 40 low scorers and ties.

INVESTIGATE BASEBALL REAL ESTATE DEALS

NEW YORK (UP)—The congressional investigation of sports will make public various baseball real estate deals, including the sale and resale of Yankee Stadium and the Brooklyn Dodger purchase of the ball park at Los Angeles, Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-NY) said Saturday.

Celler, home for the weekend, said "The public has the right to know all about the parks, not only the Yankees and Dodgers, but others also.

"We are trying to find if they are sports only, or businesses only, or a combination. When there are huge profits involved in the sale of ball parks, we must investigate."

Canada Thumps U.S. in World Soccer

TORONTO (AP) — Canada made its debut in world soccer competition Saturday night with a convincing 5-1 victory over the United States.

The Canadians scored two goals in the first half during spells of disorganized soccer. They came back strong in the second and netted three more goals.

The United States' goal came in the first half on a penalty kick by center half Harry Keough.

Catcher Sullivan to Rejoin Seals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Catcher Haywood Sullivan, a mainstay with the San Francisco Seals last season, will rejoin the club in less than two weeks.

The big fellow, property of the Seals' parent Boston Red Sox, was assigned here from Miami, the club announced. Sullivan played with the Red Sox briefly early in the season.

Last year with the Seals he hit .296.

Brantly Wins Amateur

MIAMI BEACH (UP) — Young Ed Brantly of Chattanooga, Tenn., threw a steady string of pars at defending champion Arnold Blum of Macon, Ga., Saturday to win the Southern Amateur golf championship with an upset 3 and 2 victory.

Bob Kelley Says---

Was UCLA's Henry Sanders given another push by the California Board of Regents Friday—a push out of Westwood?

One veteran PCC official sees it that way.

"When Cal went out of its way and reached an agreement with UCLA to leave the Conference simultaneously in 1959, there had to be a reason for the sudden buddy-buddy feeling. UCLA must have made some concession."

The man believes the concession was a promise that the Bruins would dismiss Coach Sanders before the '59 season.

"Sanders has irked not only athletic officials at rival schools, but faculty men as well. Right or wrong, they don't like his so-what attitude.

"Had Sanders played it smart, he would have put on the humble act when he was caught and penalized. Instead he played it haughtily, and it really riled a lot of big people in the Coast athletic picture."

WHILE HE HAS been a hero to Bruin followers, Sanders has been a demon to other schools since he first came to UCLA.

They didn't mind his breaking rules. "We break rules ourselves," one SC athletic official told me. "We broke 'em and we got caught. That was the chance we took. So we accepted our punishment without any wailing or screaming.

"However, Sanders has been breaking rules openly and flagrantly ever since he came to UCLA. And his attitude since last year's penalties hasn't helped his position, either."

Athletic director Wilbur Johns, who has been shunted to the sideline since the coming of the charming and take-chargish Mr. Sanders, admits the Bruins will probably be tossed out of the PCC in 1958 before they have a chance to withdraw when their penalty is up in '59.

Johns' inference is very sound. Now that the boys in the Northwest know they have lost the two California schools (and undoubtedly SC, too) they will have to make a save-face move of their own.

THIS WOULD AMOUNT to voting for the expulsion next summer.

Johns, by the way, will not be at all concerned at the departure of Sanders. There has been a growing sub rosa resentment between the two for several years now.

As athletic director, Johns feels he should have a voice, a large one, in big decisions.

It turns out, however, that Sanders has blustered in like gang busters and runs the whole show. It does something to a man's pride.

Wilbur has been relegated almost to the spot of a great old guy named Bill Spaulding, who was athletic director in name only after he retired from coaching.

In Spaulding's case, however, there was no strain. Bill knew the situation and didn't let it bother him.

As far as he was concerned, the fewer hours he had to keep and the fewer decisions he had to make was all to his advantage.

But Wilbur Johns has a different outlook. Both he and Sanders would deny it heatedly if you ask them.

Yet it is fact that they have no use for one another.

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—The 1958 PGA championship will be played at the Llanerch Country Club in Philadelphia, Harry L. Moffitt, president of the Professional Golfers Assn., said Saturday.

RUTH MILLER IN FAVORITE'S ROLE

City Women's Golf Trials on Monday

By JERRY WYNN

A record field that should exceed 120 by tee-off time will qualify Monday in the 30th annual Long Beach City Women's Golf Championship at Recreation Park.

One of the oldest and best of all Southern California women's events, the City Championship has attracted another outstanding group of candidates for a title that is being vacated by Shirley Hale. Mrs. Hale, a 2 and 1 victor over Dora Donaldson in the 1956 finals, has temporarily withdrawn from tournament play because of motherhood.

Three former champions will be on hand. There's Sonny Rife, the remarkable veteran of local golfdom; Mrs. Donaldson, the 1949 champion, and Jane Cadotte, who captured the 1955 crown. However, neither Dora nor Jane will be favored this week.

That No. 1 role falls to Recreation Park Women's Club president Ruth Miller, the new Los Angeles City champion, who surprisingly has never won a major tournament on her home course. With her four handicap (to men's par) one of the lowest in the Southland, she rates as a strong choice for at least medalist honors.

Other leading candidates are Martha Walker, Joan Bescos and Barbara Crooker of Virginia CC; Betse Straub and LaVerna Johnson, Lakewood; Trina Van Der Linden and Norma Deeble, Meadowlark; Eoline Thornton, Recreation Park; Harriett Glanville, Palos Verdes; and Donna Howitt, Inglewood.

The 16 low scorers Monday will enter championship flight play on Tuesday with the remainder of the field forming handicap flights. Finals in all flights are scheduled for Friday.

Connie Freeze is tournament chairman with a committee composed of Ruth Miller, Charli Swanburg, George Lake and Gene Combs. Post-time entries will be accepted. Monday's starting times:

9 a.m.—Helen Hartling, Dorothy Key, Lillian Smith; 9:06—Bertha Hyde, Loraine Quinlan, Edna Kelly; 9:12—Rose Combs, Maridonna Browning, Annabel Beals; 9:18—Ruby Perry, Helen Buck, Alberta Snavely; 9:24—Gwen McDaniel, Fern Pamberton, Adele Lahmann; 9:30 — Jane Chamberlain, Norma Deeble, Roberta Carr; 9:36—Lou Grand, Trina Van Der Linden, Marjorie Simms; 9:42 — Jackie Ash, Jane Cadotte, Marian Slocombe; 9:48—Sonny Rife, Mary Boulware, Edie Allinder; 9:54—Juanita Ludwick, Ruth Wilcox, Melba Paquin.

10 a.m.—Bea Burke, Gladys Anderson, Donna Howitt; 10:06—Squid Williamson, Jeanie Hopper, Toni Kronenberg; 10:12—Alma McCoy, Grace Stevens, Jean Schairer; 10:18 — Lucille Meadors, Mary Ellenberg; 10:24—Henrietta Holden, Luci Baker, Edna Allen; 10:30—Dora Donaldson, Ruth Miller, Eoline Thornton; 10:36—LaVerna Johnson, Judy Johnson, Harriett Glanville; 10:42—Betsy Straub, Babe Jackson, Ida Lois Wilson; 10:48—Natalie Bartlett, Mae Weston; 10:50 — Frieda Boston, Edith Lee, Elsa Arthur.

11 a.m.—Ruth Drum, Tressa Slosson, Clougherty; 11:06—Evelyn Foster, Ann Williams, Pilgrim; 11:12—Sally Gusley, May Allen; 11:18—Adele Hansen, Marilyn Taylor, Lois McGowan; 11:24—Marie Freeman, Mary Jane Newcomb; 11:36—Mrs. Wally Oliver, Marian Tedaro, Peg Ansley; 11:42 — Ida Mae Schoemaker, Rosemary Schofield; 11:48—Emma Banks, Sheila Horsfall; 11:54—Esther Axcell, Emma Fadgen, Annette McSweeney.

12:06—H. R. Schuttler, Lee Pendleton, Stellita Stinson; 12:18 — Noreen Cashman, Irene Schneider, Carlis Swan; 12:24—Madree Jackson, Odessa Alpertson; 12:30—Alice Gerlick, June Parks, Klara Svendingsen; 12:36—Joan Bescos, Barbara Crooker; 12:42—Katherine McNeil, Martha Vanderveer, Arlene Macauley; 12:48—Pat Jones, Sylvia Miller; 12:54—Betty Stapp, Frances Allitto, Irene Beck.

1 p.m.—Phyllis Baker; 1:06—Evelyn Harris, Betty Dumm, Gladys Ellis; 1:18—Arlene Ireland, Helen McMurtrie; 1:24—Marie Brown, Dora Nielsen.

SONNY RIFE
Veteran Title Contender

PARTICULARS by JERRY WYNN

Got your fingers crossed? Then let's hope for a match play bracketing in the Long Beach City Women's Championship this week that has Ruth Miller and Jane Cadotte at opposite ends.

Although 100 per cent impartial and not by any means discounting the chances of Dora Donaldson and others, we do feel the tournament figures to be a two-way battle between the pair of talented Recreation Park ladies who'll be playing on their home course. A final between them would be a natural.

Both are at near peak form. Ruth has been the sensation of the tournament season with her victory in the Los Angeles City Championship and fine play in private club events, Jane has been practicing intensely after a long layoff and feels she is now "playing as well and hitting the ball with more consistency" than in her great year of 1955 when she won both Long Beach and Los Angeles City titles.

It was also in 1955, that Jane beat Ruth, 2 and 1, in Club Championship finals — the only time they have ever played against each other.

This is an important year for both ladies as they are entered in the National Women's Amateur at Sacramento, Aug. 19-24. Their success this week could be an indication of things to come. Fingers crossed?

ENTRIES ARE being accepted for the 12th annual Meadowlark 54-hole Invitational, the medal play replica of the Long Beach City Championship, to be held Thursday, July 4, and Saturday and Sunday, July 6-7.

Play will be in five flights for $1,000 in prizes. The championship flight is limited to 0-4 handicappers. Maximum handicap is 18. For information and entry blanks call tournament chairman Bob Cook, HEmlock 3-9861, or the Meadowlark golf shop, HE 4-1416.

Players who are also entered in National Public Links qualifying on July 7 should call Harry Packham, USGA Publinx representative, at Rancho golf course and Cook to arrange starting times. Both parties will cooperate.

ALTHOUGH THE $7,500 Southern California PGA Championship is still several weeks away, the pros have already started firing practice rounds at Recreation Park.

Big Mike Austin played in last Monday's windstorm and hit a 3-wood off the first tee that carried over the green—a shot of some 300 yards. He scored a 73 as did 1955 finalist Cecil Harris. Ed Hamilton had a 70 with four birdies and an eagle. Smiley Quick, not eligible for the tourney, turned in a four-under par 68.

The dates for the big event are July 11-14.

A TOTAL OF 295 youngsters attended Tuesday's opening instruction session in the summer junior golf program at Recreation Park . . .

And on the subject of children, congratulations to Johnny Anselmo of Lakewood, who became a father for the third time on Father's Day. It was a boy, Danny Lee . . .

The public is invited to attend a showing of the 1957 Los Angeles Open films at the monthly meeting of the Bellflower Golf Center Men's Club at the Center Monday night.

Jack Economou, the new sensation of the South Course, credits his improved play to "opening his stance a little while putting and hitting my irons very well" . . .

Wally Fisher, former Jordan High and Lakewood golfer, has turned professional and is teaching at the Recreation Park (!) course and range in Lancaster . . .

The junior golf season swings into action this week with the Pasadena Junior at Brookside Park Tuesday through Thursday and the Western Ave. Junior on Friday . . .

The 18th hole at Meadowlark was the scene of two recent eagles. Jack Wilson made it with a 5-iron while Butler Jones plunked his in with a 7-iron . . .

HOLE-IN-ONE honors to Naomi Wolfe, Jack Economou, Madree Jackson, Doyle Johnson, J. W. Stonebarger and R. A. Anderson.

Mrs. Wolfe of the Virginia Women's Club hit a 4-iron on the 139-15th at Virginia while competing in the Marge Ferrie tournament a week ago. She played with Joan Bescos, Dorothy Mularky and Mrs. J. V. Evans.

Economou and Miss Jackson both connected on the 130-yard fifth hole at Recreation Park. For Economou, it led to a three-under par 69. He played with Lance Hayser, Bill Elgin Jr. and Koy Delioure. Miss Jackson of Los Angeles had Lawrence Jones and Gwen McDaniel as partners.

Johnson of Wilmington hit a 6-iron with the wind to the 156-yard seventh at Meadowlark with Bill Guessman and Buddy Rogers looking on.

Stonebarger and Anderson were heroes at the South Course. Stonebarger of 3761 Gundry Ave. ticketed a 3-wood on the 170-yard ninth hole with Stowe Barger, Henry Schulening, Paul Hoy and W. M. Hoffman in the foursome. Anderson of Anaheim conquered the 123-yard eighth hole.

IT WAS A FOUR-WAY tie for first among Jack Gates, Neal White, Gordon Shallenberger and Joe Mullarky in the Saturday Sweepstakes at Virginia Country Club. They had low nets of 66.

Low Net—Tie for first among Jack Gates, 71-5—66; Neal White, 69-3—66; Gordon Shallenberger, 81-15—66; Joe Mullarky, 81-15—66; tie for fifth among Don Schorovsky, 76-9—67; Rex Wall, 73-6—67; Dr. Walter Newburn, 82-15—67; tie for eighth among Dick Lawson Jr., 76-8—68; Roy Brown, 79-11—68; W. R. Oliver, 88-26—68; Dr. W. S. Chener, 90-22—68; John Mead, 81-38—68; Jack Watkins, 76-8—68.

Blind Bogey (78)—John Cooper, Dr. John McGill, Bill Harrower, Dr. Charles Foulks, Luke Foto, Ted Brown, Paul McBride.

New Horses at Caliente

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico—Today's program which marks the beginning of the Fiesta Del Pacifico, the borderland's gala month, is filled with interesting fields in which new horses from various major tracks play important roles.

The six-furlong Fiesta Prevue Handicap has nine named to go gateward, headed by the local star Wickerbill, high-weighted with 120 pounds. Opposing will be Fleet Domingo, a Bay Meadows horse who has won two of three local starts, Rex Ellsworth's Straight A, winner of one start here, Cipria a Turf Paradise star and Rosma, another immigrant.

The Fairest of the Fair Purse, a mile and a sixteenth, has 14 entered, among them such good distance runners as Chayotero, Just As Fast, Skooting, Don Richards, Anaethetist and Lucrative.

Sir Gareth made a brilliant return to the races in Saturday's headliner, carrying the silks of C. L. Clayton to a neck victory over the favored Mephistopheles.

Rustaway was a safety-held third at the end of the blazing five and a half furlongs turned in 1:04.

Taree players received $2,677 to $2 each in the daily double for picking Sister Butch in the second and Bric Supply in the third.

Caliente Schedules Bernard Memorial

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico (AP)—Plans to hold a Maurice Bernard memorial handicap honoring the late turf writer and establishment of a scholarship fund for his two daughters were announced Saturday by John S. Alessio, executive director of Caliente race track. Bernard died of a heart ailment two weeks ago.

The memorial handicap will be run as the feature at Caliente June 30. The race, at a mile and 70 yards, is for 3-year-olds and up.

DIZ' APPRAISAL:

'McDaniels Better Than Me'n Paul'

ST. LOUIS (UP) — Ol' Dizzy Dean was back at his ol' stomping grounds to lend a few words to the CBS baseball telecast Saturday and this is what he had to say about the St. Louis Cardinals' sensational bonus brother pitchers—Lindy and Von McDaniel.

"Those kids could be better than me 'n Paul."

Coming from Ol' Diz, that's saying a lot.

"That Von McDaniel is a natural born pitcher, just like I was," Dizzy said, "But he looks just like my brother Paul out there on the mound."

* * * *

DIZZY AND PAUL Dean won 180 games for the Cardinals in the early '30s. In 1934 Diz won 30 and Paul 19, and each won two games in the World Series.

Lindy McDaniel, now 21, signed his $50,000 bonus contract in 1955 and has won seven games and lost three in his second full year with the Cards. Von, who signed the same contract three weeks ago, at age 18, has won two and lost none, including a sensational two-scratch hit masterpiece over the Dodgers Friday night.

The Dean boys are ex-Arkansas cotton pickers and the McDaniels are fresh from an Oklahoma farm.

* * * *

DIZZY BELIEVES the similarity won't end there.

"That Von has the poise and know-how," Dean said. "In fact, he's all you could ask for. He's one of those kids that comes along once in a lifetime."

Dizzy continued to heap the praise on the quiet bible student who wore the same hat size Friday night as he did a month ago:

"He has the instinct to do the right thing at the right time . . . and he's not afraid.

"When you get that kind," Dean said with emphasis, "brother, they're rough."

* * * *

DIZZY SAID HE hasn't had a chance to see older brother Lindy in action, but he added, "they must be made of the same stuff and I think they're going to be as great or greater than me 'n Paul."

Lindy and Von both have the same pitching philosophy. Not fear, but positive thinking. "We don't believe in saying to ourselves that we can't pitch this fellow high or he'll smack it," Lindy says. "We believe in thinking only that we've got to pitch him low."

Only time will tell whether the McDaniels can match the feats of the Deans. But the McDaniel clan could go me 'n Paul one better. They have a 13-year-old brother, Kerry Don, still down there on the farm at Hollis, Okla., who's burning 'em up in the junior league.

FIND WINS--

His victory added $30,200 to his earnings, boosting them to a lifetime total of $590,394 and for the meeting to $68,550. Find had captured the $25,000 Premiere Handicap on opening day and then ran third to Social Climber in the $100,000 Californian and third to Terrang two weeks ago in the $50,000 Argonaut mile.

Terrang had been entered in the race and was expected to be the favorite but he pulled up lame while being galloped and was found to have a bruised and infected hoof which will keep him from racing at least for a few weeks if not for the rest of the meeting.

Willamette Wins

Christopher T. Chenery's Willamette scored a three-quarter length upset victory over Bayou in the 41st runing of the $70,450 Coaching Club American Oaks at Belmont Park. Woodlawn was third.

Willamette, scoring his first stakes win, ran the mile and three-eighths in 2:16 3/5 and returned $49.30 to win.

In other races in the East, Princess Turia won the $37,400 New Castle Handicap for three-year-old fillies in 1:45 flat for the mile and one-sixteenth; Sea O Erin went wire-to-wire in winning the Myrtlewood Handicap at six furlongs at Arlington Park in 1:11 2/5; favored Manteau ran the mile and one-eighth in 1:49 to win the $30,260 Ohio Derby at Thistle Down, and Miss Erlen beat the favored Venomous by a head in the $23,350 Regret Handicap at Monmouth Park. Miss Erlen raced the six furlongs in 1:09 4/5 and paid $41.60.

Caliente Selections

1. Vain Princess, Walt Hackett, Bella Talina.
2. Mantonian, Regard Me, Mambru.

Hamia, Bassey Collide Monday

PARIS (AP) — Cherif Hamia, another member of the North African group which dominates French boxing, will try to win the world featherweight title Monday night in a 15-round match with Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria. The crown was vacated by Sandy Saddler when he retired.

A victory for Hamia would give France two world championships at the same time, something never before accomplished. Alphonse Halimi, the current bantam titleholder also is an Algerian. (Raul (Raton) Macias of Mexico is recognized by the NBA).

Hamia, 26, has a record of 30-1-2 with 13 knockouts.

Bassey, 25, has a 47-10-1 record for 58 pro fights starting in 1949. He has knocked out 17 and was stopped twice.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

While Long Beach anglers were content this week with heavy catches of yellowtail, barracuda and even big bull bass, San Diego's fishermen were getting a plain case of "albacore jitters." The longfins were inching closer to the Coronado Islands each day.

In fact, the albacore were close enough for the San Diego sportsfishing fleet to start the annual "albacore specials." A few pioneering boats picked up about 100 albacore Thursday and a similar number Friday within three and a half hours of Point Loma.

The commercials — about 300 boats — were converging on banks farther south and having fair to good catches. San Diego canneries had not even settled on a definite price, but were advancing $300 a ton, in lieu of a contract with the commercial skippers.

All of that makes interesting reading for Long Beach fishermen, but just now they are so intent on the yellows and barries that they don't care about any special long trips for the albacore. They figure that, give or take a couple of weeks, the longfins will be in this area.

* * * *

THERE'S SOMETHING to be remembered about our local fishing. The totals each day are big, but that doesn't mean that every angler is getting his share.

Most of those totals are coming from the boats that make the banks at dawn — yes, even before dawn. That seems to be the best time for both yellowtail and barracuda.

Checking on boats last week, we discovered that one boat making consistent daily catches of 250 or 300 barries and 50 to 100 yellows was getting 90 per cent of its catch from 4:30 a. m. to 7 a. m.

That shows that the fish are hitting hard in the early hours, then going down and making only spasmodic passes at baits thereafter. So, it just isn't in the cards for a fisherman to expect even partial limits of those gamey fish when he doesn't leave the landing here until 7 a. m.

Dana Point remained the best area, but the Horseshoe Kelp ran it a close second.

THE DUNCANS — Cecil and Marjorie—who operate Duncan's Resort on Nimpo Lake in British Columbia, write that their season got under way a month ago. The first 15 parties, says Cecil, "complained" about fishing. Yes, they complained that they caught their limits so fast the first hour in the morning that they couldn't fish any more.

We carried a full column about the Duncans last winter. They have a marvelous resort in the Caribou Valley. Nimpo Lake is 196 miles west of Williams Lake, and Williams is 300 miles north and slightly east of Vancouver.

Rainbow trout—thousands of them—are the only fish caught in Nimpo and the Dean River which flows into and out of the lake. Seldom does a fisherman get a trout under two pounds and not often over five pounds. Whocan ask for anything better?

Cecil writes that road conditions are as follows: Some construction in Frazer and Thompson River Canyons en route from Vancouver to Williams; most of highway is hard-surfaced and in good shape; secondary road from Williams to Nimpo in good summer condition. It was graded for its full length after the snow melted last spring.

You may write to the Duncans at the Kleena Kleene P.O., British Columbia. Reservations through September are necessary inasmuch as the Duncans have limited accommodations.

JAKE POOL, supervisor of Burney-McArthur Memorial State Park at Burney, writes about fishing conditions in his section of Northern California:

"Fishing at its best; stream in park producing some nice limits, even some fish up to 3 pounds. DF&G planning regular plants each week.

"Lake Britton producing bass up to 5 and 6 pounds. One angler took a 10-pound brown at McArthur Lake last week. I fished Bear Creek the other evening and caught quite a variety—5 eastern brook, 2 brown and a lone rainbow."

EASTERN SIERRA summary for the week reads like this:

Fishing picking up everywhere, with DF&G stocking heavily in preparation for the thousands of vacationists. . . . Long Pine section good, with best streams Independence, Oak, Tinnemaha, Goodale, Tabesoe and Division . . . heavy stocks going to Big Pine, Little Pine and Baker Creeks . . . Sabrina and North Lakes excellent . . . South Lake and tributaries also very good, particularly Bishop Creek. . . . Bishop Pass is open. . . . Piute Pass has some rough snow conditions, but should be in good shape by middle of coming week, possibly suitable for hikers by July 1. . . . Birchim Canyon reports good to excellent, with big catches on the new Pleasant Valley Reservoir. . . . Crowley Lake slow, with wind interfering considerably. . . . Mary, George and Mamie Lakes (Mammoth area) free of ice and providing fair to good fishing. . . . Road open to Red's Meadows, but upper water of San Joaquin River high—and roily, and fishing there is only fair. . . . Grant and Silver Lakes best in the June Lake Loop. . . . Bridgeport Lake—its name has been changed from "Reservoir"—still offering good fishing for trout weighing around 1½ to 3 pounds. . . . Virginia Lakes all open and first anglers in report good catches. . . . Fishing poor on all lakes in the Sonora Pass area because of bad weather, but packers say those will reach peak in mid-July. . . . Best fish caught to date in Crowley Lake is the 10-pounder taken May 31 by John H. Longshore. . . . Mrs. Alma L. Miller, Torrance, has bettered that by one-half pound, taking a big brown in Birchim Canyon. . . . Remember that Crowley closes July 31, so that leaves only a few weekends.

TACKLE PERSONALS—If you like hot weather, you can get plenty of it and also plenty of bass at Cottonwood Cove on Mohave Lake. Some of the Colorado River "faithful" have been taking lunkers from 4 to 7 pounds there with little effort.

Highways 18 and 30 into Big Bear Lake are open all the time now. Construction work, which forced daytime closing of a two-mile stretch has been completed sufficiently to permit two lanes of traffic all the time.

Long Beach Spin-Fishing Club officials announce several important dates: July 7, match with Alamitos Bay Sportsmen; Aug. 3, children's fishing trip aboard barge; late August, button contests with Douglas A. C., Rod & Gun Club, and a breakwater fishing contest in September with the Gardena Valley Sportsmen.

Albacore Landed

First albacore caught this season off Long Beach sports fishing boats were landed Saturday. Four longfins were brought to gaff by anglers on the Fisherman and six were taken on the Fisherman II.

The Pacific Landing boats hit the albacore off the east end of San Clemente Island after taking good catches of barracuda at Dana Point early in the morning.

Anglers aboard from Pierpoint, Seal Beach Pier and Pacific Landings caught 621 barracuda and 57 yellowtail Saturday.

FERRIER ENTERS

Former National PGA champion Jim Ferrier of Lakeside Golf Club has entered the $7,500 Southern California PGA Championship to be held at Recreation Park, July 11-14, it was announced Saturday. Ferrier won the event in 1955.

Weaver's 68 Nets 1-Stroke Lead at Flint

FLINT, Mich. (UP) — Bert Weaver, a 25-year-old golfing unknown from Beaumont, Tex., fired a three-under-par 68 Saturday to grab a one-stroke lead at the three-quarter mark of the $37,000 Flint Open.

Weaver, who lost his car but escaped injury when he was caught in last month's tornado at Kansas City, fired seven birdies and had four bogeys to take a one-stroke lead over Arnold Palmer, the second leading money winner from Latrobe, Pa., and Paul Harney, Bolton, Mass.

Weaver, a former Louisiana State University golfer, has won less than $3,000 on the pro circuit and this is the first time he has ever been a leader. His best finish to date was a third in the Azalea Open earlier this year. Leaders:

Tennis Films to Be Shown Here Tuesday

Films of the past three Wimbledon tennis tourneys and Davis Cup finals will be shown Tuesday night at the Recreation Park 18th hole golf course clubhouse, the Recreation Dept. announced Saturday.

Tennis director Clyde Walker invites players of all ages in the area to attend free of charge. Style of such top players as Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall, Ham Richardson, Vic Seixas, Doris Hart and Louise Brough will be featured. The show starts at 7:30 p.m.

Commissioners Meet This Week

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)—Commissioners of 11 major athletic conferences will attend the annual meeting of the National Association of Collegiate Commissioners at the Broadmoor Hotel this week.

Included among the items for discussion are recruiting, rules on transfer students, football, television, summer basketball and baseball, national physical fitness program, rules and mechanics for officiating in football and basketball and NCAA policies in general.

Aussie Trio Picked at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Australia's talented trio of Hoad, Cooper and Fraser overshadow the field and emphasize the decline of Americans as the world's finest players prepare to open the Wimbledon tennis championships.

As defender of the Wimbledon men's singles title, Lew Hoad will play the opening match Monday on the center court against Pierre Darmon, a Frenchman with all-to-gain and not a care on earth.

There hardly is a flutter — from the players themselves, tennis officials, fans or bettors —for anyone in the contingent from the United States.

Only among the women does the U. S., dominant power since Helen Wills began her eight-championship run in 1927, have a fair chance for a winner.

Althea Gibson of New York, is odds on choice to become the first Negress to win the women's singles. She first must defeat Suze Koermoeczy of Hungary who almost annually upsets at least one star.

The tournament runs through July 6 when the women's singles championship match is played. The men's singles final will be July 5.

Hamilton Richardson, America's first ranked player and third seed from Baton Rouge, La., begins his campaign against Chilean star, Luis Ayala.

Second seeded Ashley Cooper plays an opening match against Dutchman A. E. Dehnert. Left-handed Neal Fraser, seeded fifth although he is ranked third on all betting lists, first meets E. Aguirre, Chile.

Arnold Snares London Net Title

LONDON (AP) — Eighteen-year-old Mimi Arnold of Miami, Fla., won the women's singles crown in the London Lawn Tennis championships Saturday, downing Mrs. Zsuzi Koermoczy of Hungary, 6-1, 5-7, 6-3.

The men's singles title went to Ashley Cooper, second-seeded Australian player for the Wimbledon championships, June 24-July 6. Cooper defeated fellow Australian Neale Fraser, the defending champ, 6-8, 6-2, 6-3.

The women's doubles final was won by Althea Gibson and Darlene Hard of the U.S. who defeated Mary Hawton and Mrs. Thelma Long of Australia, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3. Ham Richardson and Vic Seixas of the U. S. and Australia's Neale Fraser and Lew Hoad had won a set each in men's doubles when darkness halted play.

Morrow Moves Up

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Mike Morrow, veteran coach who led San Diego Junior College to the co-championship of the Metropolitan Conference and the state JC finals this year, has signed to coach the University of San Diego baseball team, it was announced Saturday.

MODIFIED STOCK CARS RACE TODAY

Thunderbird, Corvette and Fury engines power some of the autos that compete today in the NASCAR modified stock-car races at Gardena Stadium. Time trials begin at 1 p.m., first race 2 p.m.

NASCAR rules are quite liberal so that mechanics enjoy much leeway in using race and other souping-up equipment on the cars. Also, late-model engines may be used in older stock cars of the same manufacture.

Rex Schendley, Johnny Jones, Johnny Potter and Lady Leadfoot Hila Paulson are among top threats.

Decathlon Wide Open

KINGSBURG, Calif. (AP)—Wide open competition looms for the National AAU decathlon here Friday and Saturday after world record-holder Rafer Johnson announced he'll be unable to defend his championship. A knee ailment has hampered the big UCLA star this spring and doctors advised him not to attempt defense of his crown.

Also skipping the event is Milton Campbell, the former University of Indiana great who beat Johnson in the Olympic Games.

The first day of the decathlon includes the 100-meter dash, broad jump, shotput, high jump, and 400-meter run. On the second day's program are the 110-meter high hurdles, discus, pole vault, javeline and 1,500-meter run.

Bob Gutowski of Occidental College, who shattered the world pole vault record this spring, is expected among the top scorers. Gutowski, Bob Lawson of SC and Oregon's David Edstrom and Steve Anderson may better 7,000 points, but Johnson's record of 7,985 points doesn't appear in jeopardy.

Bertoia, Hoak Poll Surprises

NEW YORK (AP)—Reno Bertoia of Detroit and Don Hoak of Cincinnati, a couple of so-so third basemen in pre-season accounting, continued Saturday to make strong bids to be in the starting lineups for the All-Star game at St. Louis, July 9.

Bertoia, 22-year-old former bonus player little used by Detroit until this year, leads the American League third base balloting in a close race with New York's Gil McDougald and Baltimore's George Kell. Hoak, meantime, has closed to within about 2,500 votes of Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee.

Centerfielder Mickey Mantle of the Yanks remains the top vote-getter with 50,591. Boston's Ted Williams, the AL leftfield leader, has polled 49,942. Stan Musial of St. Louis tops the National League in popularity with 45,300 first base votes.

All ballots received by the commissioner's office before midnight Thursday will be tabulated.

Zany California Cuties Play Luckyettes Sunday

When the zany California Cuties appear at Park Ave. field next Sunday night, June 30, they will be playing one of Southern California's leading girls softball teams—the Long Beach Luckyettes.

The Luckyettes, managed by Patte Kelly and coached by Lloyd Bachtelle and Raymond Cline, were unbeaten in the Long Beach girls league last year and posted an amazing 42-2 season record. They went on to win the Sawtelle tourney title.

So far this year, the Luckyettes have won seven and lost one, led by the brilliant pitching of Pat Simpson. Other Luckyette stars are Millie Wells, now in her 20th year of second basing; Doris Shilling, catcher, and Chickie Jones, shortstop.

The Cuties, a men's team attired in ladies' garments, have entertained huge crowds on nationwide barnstorming trips for several years. Their comical antics feature Liza Jane and Vampira, pitchers; Hefty Helen, outfielder, and Beulah, the 36-inch midget short-fielder. Game time Sunday will be 8 p.m.

L. A. SPEEDWAY

Cycles in Tourist Run

A special racing program—an American Motorcycle Assn.-sanctioned tourist-trophy race—is billed today at Los Angeles Speedway, 182nd St and Vermont Ave. Action starts at 2:30 p.m., following time trials at 1 p.m.

The race has drawn entries from such leading stars as Johnny Gibson, Don Hawley, Tex Luce, George Everett, Johnny Rich, Gary Sowell and Bob (Red) Harrison. A field of 100 will compete.

The tourist-trophy race will be on a figure-eight course that runs through the infield at the new half-mile strip.

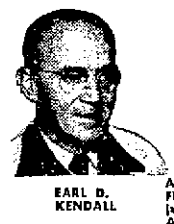

Stocks Featured on Gardena July 4 Card

Fourth of July holidays will bring on automotive and pyrotechnic fireworks in Gardena Stadium's fourth annual Independence Day programs, promoters Tom Haynes and Harry Schooler announced Saturday.

Auto racing action will be furnished by NASCAR's late-model stock cars on Wednesday night, July 3, while the same group's modified stock cars compete Thursday night, July 4.

Alamitos Post Hands Shua 1st Loss, 9-2

By GENE ESQUIVEL

Al Roman slugged a triple, double and a single in four trips Saturday to spark Alamitos Bay Post to a 9-2 junior legion triumph over previously unbeaten Shua at Millikan High field.

Speedy righthander Ron England held the losers to seven hits, struck out four and issued four walks.

Alamitos third baseman Dave Courtemarche drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the third inning. Frank Adlesh and Ron Casaga drove in three runs apiece for the winners.

Both clubs now have 3-1 records.

Shua meets San Pedro today and Alamitos hosts Hawthorne at Millikan.

South's Governors See No Integration

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Two southern governors said Saturday the South is hardening, rather than slackening, its resistance to racial integration in the schools.

Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia and Gov. George B. Timmerman Jr. of South Carolina, early arrivals for the 49th annual national governors' conference, said in separate interviews the Supreme Court's school-integration opinion is nowhere near enforcement in their states.

Stanley, host governor for the conference in historic Williamsburg, said he does not believe the controversial question of racial segregation will be injected into the governor's discussion today of education problems.

But he made it plain he feels any avoidance of the subject cannot be interpreted as a trend toward Dixie acceptance of integration.

"In my judgment," he said, "the people of the South are more determined than they ever were to preserve their way of life and their social customs. They are not willing to accept racial integration in the schools."

Kremlin Still Claims Coup in Television Broadcast

By ROBERT E. LEE
I-P-T, Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Russians are still trying their darndest to make propaganda hay out of the now-famous CBS television interview with Khrushchev.

They think they have a good thing going and they obviously are determined to make the most of it.

Whether his June 2 question-and-answer session with American reporters was indeed a diplomatic coup for the Russian Communist boss and his Kremlin cohorts is still open to question.

But Moscow is giving every indication that it believes it was.

Russian broadcasts prepared for both domestic consumption and overseas propaganda use are still hammering daily on the theme that the United States and its citizens now know that the Russians want peace.

One broadcast by a Pravda expert last week declared flatly:

"It is quite obvious that Khrushchev's interview broadcast on American television played a favorable role in the rapprochment between the Soviet and the American peoples. Many millions of Americans now have an idea of what the Soviet Union wants and strives for.

"The interview has certainly strengthened those forces in the United States which are fighting for peace and international cooperation. It was a blow to the American iron curtain as it forced the Americans to start talking about it and to demand its removal."

Comments on the broadcast by Americans are being wrenched out of context to make it appear to the Russian people and the rest of the world that Khrushchev really cleared the air and practically made the world safe again for democracy.

The consensus here appears to be that while the interview was probably ill-timed from the standpoint of the London negotiations on disarmament, Khrushchev hardly made the impression his propaganda agents now say he did.

William Broom, of the Independent-Press Telegram's Washington bureau, who was in London when the interview was rebroadcast there, reported that Khrushchev laid an egg.

But from the Russian point of view, as expressed in one official broadcast beamed abroad, "the effect was enormous."

Tele-Vues by TERRY VERNON

Much has been said about the "battle of ratings" between Ed Sullivan of CBS and Steve Allen of NBC. Sullivan, in a communique, says that his show has won 48 out of a possible 52 victories and there is "no contest."

Tonight at 8 p.m. and (2) "The Ed Sullivan Show" celebrates its ninth anniversary on the air. Staged at the Marine Theater at Jones Beach, N. Y., the show lines up with an elaborate water spectacle plus stars on a special stage. Burt Lancaster and Barbara Nichols will do a comedy skit; Gene Kelly and Sullivan will team as a dancing combination; Julie Wilson will sing some songs; Lou Holtz tells more jokes; Guy Lombardo is interviewed; Dick Contino plays his accordion and the Aqua Belles swim, the Cypress Garden Water Skiers perform and there'll be a showboat setting for singers David Atkinson and Gloria Hamilton to duet upon. The climax will be a huge fireworks display.

So over on (4) what's cooking? "Steve Allen Show" lines up Pat Boone, newest singing sensation; comedians Lou Costello and Jonathan Winters, vocalist Abbey Lincoln and The Ames Brothers to celebrate Steve's first year on the Sunday night spot.

Frankly it looks like another victory for "Sullivan Show."

DAYTIME DATA

"Telerama," the City of Hope telethon, starts again at 9 a.m. and continues until 5 p.m. on (5). "NBC Matinee Theater" will do a drama depicting the life of the famed hospital at 10:30 a.m. with John Conte as the narrator. Another segment will come from Disneyland Hotel where owner Jack Wrather and his wife, Bonita Granville, will entertain Hollywood celebrities at the big swimming pool patio. Stars galore throughout the day. . . . Vice President Nixon guests on "American Government" (4) at 9:30 to discuss his job as Vice President. . . . The unusual and beautiful Neighborhood Church of Palos Verdes on "Great Churches of the Golden West" (11) at 11 a.m. . . . NEW TIME for "American Forum" (4) is 1 p.m. with three governors taking part. . . . Sacramento-Los Angeles on (9) at 1:25. . . . Singer Monica Lewis will be featured on "Dress Blues" as the Marine Corps show moves into the 1:30 p.m. time on (2). It's a NEW SHOW with Lt. Bob Osterberg in charge of introducing the guests. . . . Finals of the Southern California amateur golf tourney from Lakeside Country Club, on (11) at 3 p.m. with Bill Welsh, Fred Hessler and four-time winner Johnny Dawson as announcers. . . . "The Last Word" (2) at 3 p.m. has author Meyer Levin and actress Nancy Kelly on the panel. . . . NEW TIME — "Harvest" (4) moves to 3:30 p.m. with Dr. Baxter discussing George Lillo, a playwright of some years back.

6 P.M.

Govs. Thomas Stanley (Va) and James P. Coleman (Miss) will "Meet the Press" (4).

6:30 P.M.

"West Point of the Air" starring Wallace Berry, Robert Young, Robert Taylor, Maureen O'Sullivan, Rosalind Russell, Lewis Stone and James Gleason on (11).

Bobby Banas, dancer and

MONICA LEWIS
She'll Sing

Rosalie Kurowski are featured on "Folka Parade" (5), along with Eileen Christy and Walter Ekard.

7 P.M.

Moscow will be the "Faraway Places" visited via film on (9).

Jeff and Porky try to impress a girl with their bravery and hurt Pokey. "Lassie" (2) gives a blood transfusion to the little canine.

Mr. Gor Don, who is really Gordon Andrews, a salesman at Gilbert's in Long Beach, will do his famous parachute leap while handcuffed during "You Asked For It" (7).

"My Favorite Husband" starringf Barry Nelson and Vanessa Brown is the re-run series replacing the "Jack Benny Show" on (2). They get a fulltime maid tonight and results are quite amusing.

Corky finds a place for a homeless boy with the circus but the boy's belligerency alienates him from the circus folk until some facts are brought out. "Circus Boy" (4) stars Mickey Braddock.

8 P.M.

"Sullivan" and "Allen," (2) and (4). See above.

9 P.M.

COLOR — "Alcoa Hour" (4) stars Eddie Bracken as an average working man who endures 24 hours of terror when he receives a crudely written note threatening his life.

The movie on (11) is "Leave Her to Heaven" starring Gene Tierney, Cornel Wilde and Jeanne Crain. Story of a selfish woman who stops at no ends to keep her love. Very dramtic.

"G. E. Theater" re-run (2) stars George Sanders as a smooth-talking doctor in a case based on records of the AMA, cancer cure and what happens when he finds he has the disease.

9:30 P.M.

Two travelers sitting alone in an isolated train depot eye each other with mounting fear, each thinking the other may be a maniacal killer on the loose. "Alfred Hitchcock Presents" (2) Albert Salmi and Robert Harris as co-stars in suspense.

David Hawkins, 23-year-old turncoat who stayed in Red China for two years, is interviewed by "Mike Wallace" on (7).

Billy Pearson with $142,000 in winnings will meet Jane Wilson for $8,000 during "$64,000 Challenge" on (2). Al Einfrank of L. A. and Richard Harrison face a $16,000 query.

10:45 P.M.

Frankie Laine shows films of his command performance before the crowned heads of England during "Sunday News with Bill Welsh" on (11).

MONDAY DAYTIME DATA

Jack Lescoulie takes over as host of "Today" (4) at 6 a.m. while Garroway vacations for seven weeks. Gene Kelly guests in one segment. . . . Lola Albright of the "Bob Cummings Show" shows her singing prowess for "Panorama Pacific" (2) at 7 a.m. and Helen Parrish back from Hawaii. . . . Judy Scott wings for "Club Sixty (4) in COLOR at 10:30. . . . The newlyweds report back to "House Party" (2) at 11:30 to tell of their experiences. . . . The story of a middle-aged film producer whose peaceful second marriage is haunted by the memory of his deceased boyhood love until he meets the niece who outwardly resembles her is told on "Matinee Theater" (4), in COLOR, at 12 noon. . . . The Hi-Los will be singing for the "Bob Crosby Show" (2) at 12:30 p.m. after a trip east for personal appearances. They replace the vacationing Modernaires. . . . Mrs. Pauline McCarthy, a housewife, will become a TV personality for a week and starts out on "The Garry Moore Show" (2) at 2 p.m. . . . "Dear Phoebe," a horrible example of what newspapers are NOT like, re-runs on (4) at 2 p.m. . . . Lois Collins one of America's highest paid models, will give some pointers on protection against sunburn during "Home" (4) at 3 p.m.

MEN—Age 18 to 35
JUST OPEN
NEW OFFICE FOR LOCAL BUSINESS
$350 MO. GUAR.
Rapid Advancement to
$645 MO.

We have immediate need for five clean-cut, neat appearing, aggressive men with various backgrounds who know that their last job has led them nowhere and promised no future. Many times a person gets tired of the same old routine and wonders if there is a job available where a sincere, aggressive man can really make a future for himself. If you are presently dissatisfied there are three things you can do:
1—Change your location.
2—Change your occupation.
3—Change yourself.
In most instances, you should only change your occupation to help you decide what work you are best suited for. We offer you:

Unbiased Scientific Aptitude Testing Plan

Which is absolutely free, which we welcome you to take advantage of. This will tell us whether you possess the fundamental qualities to success with the Scott & Fetzer Co. We start our men at $450 month guarantee, plus a bonus plan.
Paid vacations, etc. PAY increases rapidly as you learn the work.

AN UNUSUAL OPPORTUNITY

Our advertising firm is expanding in the local area and has an opening for a man 25 to 35 years of age with car. No previous experience in our particular business is necessary but some type of past sales experience is essential. This position is that of Lease Representative and as such requires a personality of the sales type. You are paid a salary, a liberal car allowance and business expenses & participate in a bonus incentative plan. Your family medical plan and a special life insurance policy are paid for entirely by the company. You must be energetic, ambitious and have a forceful personality to qualify for this permanent career position.
Apply at 1429 Magnolia Ave. between 8 a.m. & 11 a.m. or 4 p.m. & 7 p.m. Monday thru Friday. Ask for Mr. Hood.

"WORLD'S HIGHEST TRADERS" HARBOR Lincoln Mercury

Their 'Daughters' Are World's Loveliest Girls

OSCAR MEINHARDT, executive producer of the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant, points to Ceylon on a world globe as he shows pageant hostesses the most distant point from which a beauty delegate will come to Long Beach this year. Pictured from left are Mrs. Dwight Williams, Mrs. Loris K. Cox, Mrs. Arthur G. Randall, chairman of hostesses, Meinhardt and Mrs. Sumi Swanson.

Hostesses in Readiness for Pageant

"The 60 Long Beach area women who each year give up homes and families for 10 days in order to serve as hostesses to the international and American beauties who visit Long Beach to participate in the annual Miss Universe Beauty Pageant do this city a service beyond description."

Oscar Meinhardt, executive producer of the pageant, in describing unselfish service of the hostesses referred to their duties "as the backbone of this city's responsibility to the 87 international and American girls who will live in Long Beach from July 11 through 21."

The hostesses this year will again serve under the chairmanship of Mrs. Arthur G. Randall, and before they complete their assignments, will have given some 15,000 hours of service.

It is the policy of the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant to have an international delegate share living quarters with an American girl. One hostess is normally assigned to the two girls who share living quarters. However, there are occasional variations, as the cases last year of two girls who could not speak English, Spanish, French, German or any of the more common languages. They were Miss Turkey and Miss Japan.

Mrs. Randall reported that among the hostesses are many who in order to perform their duties better have been studying a language at night school this past year. These women, together with a number who are already fluent in one or more languages, make up a staff of hostesses this year that will be able to handle almost any language thrown its way, Mrs. Randall believes.

Among the difficult elements of the job for the hostesses is keeping the girls on time to meet their exacting schedules In addition to the normal schedules of activities undertaken by all of the beauty delegates, are added problems of permitting time for the hairdresser and visits to shops to buy souvenirs or clothing.

Homesickness is a problem each year, and at this point the motherliness of the hostesses plays an important role. It is a credit to the hostesses that each year the girls indicate that the part of their visit they will always remember was their association with roommates and hostesses.

"The long hours given by the hostesses to the girls is a service that goes far beyond the duties anyone has a right to expect of them and is a credit to the wonderful people selected for the important job of seeing that no problem develops that could be turned into an international incident," Meinhardt said.

TRANSPORTATION is one of the big problems that requires close coordination between hostesses and the Long Beach Firefighters Association which supplies drivers from among off-duty firemen. Pictured are Dale Lowell, president of the Long Beach Firefighters Assn., who heads the transportation committee, planning with Mrs. Joseph G. Canning and Mrs. Gerald C. Toms, pageant hostesses.

Mrs. Cross, Sister Feted at Dinner

Mrs. Barbara Moss entertained with a patio dinner recently at her 2977 Chestnut Ave. home, honoring Mrs. J. D. Cross and her sister, Mrs. Mae Stanford, who is visiting here from Canton, Tex.

Enjoying games and pictures were Messrs. and Mmes. Reg Dupuy, J. L. Tolbert, Clive Graham, Harold Steele, Fabe Blackman, Ike Page, Lloyd Leedom, Ed Iliff, H. A. Murray, William Smith, Miss Florence Merriam, Mrs. Hazel Merriam, L. A. Martin, Ethel Albertin; and J. D. Cross, husband of one of the honorees. Present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. H. Jackson Pontius and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Westcott.

Mrs. Stanford since has returned to her home in Texas, planning to return for the winter months in California. She was a houseguest of the Crosses for six months at their 3030 E. 2nd St. home.

In Ulrich Home

Patty Ulrich has been spending several weeks with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Ulrich, 4450 California Ave., prior to attending summer session at UCLA where she is a junior majoring in home economics. Her Delta Gamma sorority sister, Ginger Brothers of Stratford, is a house guest in the Ulrich home, and will return Monday with Patty to college.

Ebell Juniors Map Miss 'U' Premiere

Premiere event of the Miss Universe Pageant next month will be a luncheon and fashion show, to which the public is invited, in the grand ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel. Sponsors of the brilliant affair on July 12 will be the Ebell Juniors.

As many foreign Miss Universe contestants as are in the city by that date will appear at the luncheon and will model their native costumes. Master of ceremonies introducing them will be Ed Hennessey, stage, screen and television personality.

After modeling their native dress, the contestants will be seated, one or more to a table, with the spectators.

To give the foreign contestants, as well as the American women in the audience, an insight into new fashions, a style show will be narrated by Wilma Hastings to the background music of Manny Harmon's orchestra.

The Juniors point out that the show and luncheon are not limited to women alone. Men, singly or in groups, are invited, as well as those planning to attend with their wives.

Ticket sales are being directed by Mrs. R. D. Stork, 2475 Charlemagne Ave. Persons desiring tickets may contact Mrs. Stork, or other Ebell Juniors, Mrs. R. L. Coltrane, president, 3754 Lime Ave., or Mrs. R. Green, reservations chairman, 1071 E. 46th St.

Farewell Event for Commander

Cocktails and a barbecue party were the way of saying farewell to Lt. Cmdr. Bud Wagner Saturday night when Mr. and Mrs. Leland King entertained in their home, 4228 Gaviota Ave.

Lt. Cmdr. Wagner will leave later this month for duty in Japan. His wife and daughter, Ann, will remain here temporarily, but may join him later.

Guests included Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. James McKenzie and Messrs. and Mmes. R. W. Swigart, Harold Kane and Earl Prochnow.

Betty Benwell Recites Lines in Home Rite

Immediate family members gathered Thursday afternoon to witness the marriage ceremony uniting Mrs. Betty Maude Benwell, long active in Southern California Symphony Association, with Cmdr. Clarence E. Gregerson, USN (ret.).

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. R. Hall at the home of the bride's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Benwell, 3925 Lemon Ave. Attending the pair were Mr. and Mrs. George Backus.

After a honeymoon trip the newlyweds will reside at 3849 Weston Pl.

Gregerson was graduated in 1925 from the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and following retirement from service in 1946 resided in Sydney, Australia where he took graduate work in science and mathematics at the University of Sydney. He has been teaching engineering recently at Northrop Aeronautical Institute in Inglewood where he made his home.

Carmelite Group Meets Tuesday

Rev. Henry G. Alger of St. Agnes Church, Los Angeles, will be guest speaker when Carmelite Nuns Auxiliary meets at 1 p. m. Tuesday at Catholic Center, 6th St. and Alamitos Ave. His topic will be, "The Sacred Heart of Jesus."

Hostesses will be ladies from St. Bartholomew Parish, Mmes. John Dilkes, James Mulvey and Arlington Smith.

Doctors Have Own TV 'Idols'

By ILKA CHASE

Appendectomy, anyone? Tonsilectomy? Nice fresh lobotomy? Step right up folks old Doc Chase can tell you all about it. The American Medical Association has been convening in New York and Faithful Hack here, ever avid for scientific knowledge, has been right in the thick of it.

It was mighty interesting, too. Closed-circuit colored television certainly came into its own and I was in a somewhat privileged position for watching. The operations and panel discussions shown on the screen at the coliseum, headquarters for the convention attended by some 20,000 doctors, originated in Roosevelt Hospital.

My husband is on the staff, had originated the program and the day before the opening said to me with an eager light is his eye. "Wouldn't you like to come and watch the gastric resection we'll be doing first thing in the morning?"

It occurred to me fleetingly that cultivating roses in the country under sunny skies was something that appealed more, but when your dear one looks that hopeful and has been sweet enough to think of you in connection with his work, what are you going to do?

"Why darling," I said, it sounds lovely. I'll certainly come." I naturally wasn't allowed in the operating room but I was ushered into what they call the gallery which is merely a narrow glass enclosed section of the room with a raised floor so you can peer down into the innards of the fellow prone and fortunately unconscious on the table.

With the outer sheathing removed, I can't tell an abdomen from an arm, so I cannot review the caliber of the surgeon's performance — my husband told me later it was admirable—but it isn't too hard to recognize skillful manipulation and the way the operating crew wielded the scapels and retractors and swiftly tied dozens and dozens of knots was fascinating.

* * * *

Green, by the way, was the predominating color. The man in white is now passe. In the operating room, the doctors and nurses wear green gowns in which they look like frogmen after a rough night. The gowns are sterile all right, but they can't be pressed so the overall effect is pretty wrinkled.

Even the chap manipulating the color camera—the lens was on a sort of crane so it could look right down the patient's middle—wore green. There was a tiny monitor to his camera so he could see how it was doing out over the air.

In another room, a panel of doctors watched the operation and there was a two-way audio pickup so they could question the head surgeon and he could reply and explain what he was doing and why.

The thing that impressed me was the leisurely and informal manner in which the whole affair was conducted. I'd always thought there'd be an air of intensity and speed in a major operation but not at all. Behind the little screen that separates the patient's head from the rest of him, the anesthetist worked calmly, watching the gauges and the oxygen tanks and the surgeon probed and snipped and the assistants knotted with the greatest of ease.

* * * *

I left the operating gallery after a while and threaded my way along a maze of passages and up a flight of stairs till I finally came to a kind of old storeroom. Roosevelt, although one of the world's modern hospitals, is an old building and their storeroom is like anybody else's full of iron bedsteads and broken rockers and barrels and cartons of yellowing records that nobody ever looks at. This abode of antiquity had been installed as a temporary control room with the TV director, a young chap startlingly like Kirk Douglas, named Wesley, his assistants with their monitors and microphones working away under the eaves.

These fellows are experts at photographing surgery and their attitude toward what goes on before their lenses is nonchalant. "Come in on Elvis Presley" remarked the director as the learned doctor seated at the end of the panel put a question to the surgeon, or as a portion of the patient was removed, "Great show, laugh a minute." Highho, it was all in the day's work and they were on their way to the next convention in Canada.

O. E. Coles, Ben Knights Depart for Alaska Tour

For two well known Long Beach couples, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Knight, Friday marked the beginning of what promises to be an exciting tour of Alaska.

The travellers left Long Beach by car bound for Vancouver, British Columbia, where they will board the S.S. Coquitlam June 26 for Yukon circle cruise. Sailing the inside passage route they will touch at Ketchikan, Petersburg and Juneau.

From Juneau they will fly to Skagway and then, by train, journey on to Whitehorse where they will travel the Alaska Highway by motor coach to Fairbanks.

Fairbanks will probably be one of the most enjoyable stops of their tour for here they will spend five days with the Knights' son, John, who is serving at this post with the Air Force.

The homes of both couples will be occupied by out-of-town friends during their absence, a "seaside bonus vacation" in each instance! The Knights and the Coles are due to arrive back in Vancouver after which they will motor leisurely home.

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

LIKE OLD TENNESSEE Ernie Ford would say, this has been a week to make you feel "like your get up and go has got up and went"!

MAYBE WE should blame the weather on the Nightingales. They flipped the calendar last night and made it Fourth of July at the Petroleum Club for their annual summer cotton dinner dance. Obviously they didn't keep that Fourth stuff jugged up tight enough, and it exploded early!

"Calendar flip . . ."

The shindig was planned especially to honor the group's provisionals and their husbands including Barbara and Dixon Richardson, Margaret and Henry Hansen, Betty and Wayne Belden, Joan and Jerry Barber, Dorothy and Edward Grant, Mimi and Bernie Wishney, Nita and Rodger Engel, Lavon and Don Tosh and Betty and David Johnson.

LAST NIGHT at exactly 4220 Chestnut Ave. was a wonderful time to be! Mary and Red Whisenant's daughter and her husband, Jeanne and Dr. Richard T. Smith, are here from Minneapolis and what would a homecoming be without a reunion? So Mary and Red had a cocktail buffet for a gang of young couples, all friends of Jeanne's. Although the Smiths have been in California for two weeks, not much of it has been in Long Beach. First they went with Mary and Red to their place at Arrowhead and then to a medical convention in Carmel, just returning Friday. Be here just a few more days.

TABLE UMBRELLAS will bloom like roses in Portland today at "Jo" and Dr. George Paap's big, friendly house, 275 Nieto Ave. when they entertain 90 or so at an informal summer brunch during the "high noon" hours of 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Assisting will be Stella and Dr. Fred Kellogg, Drs. Geneva and Harriman Jones, Brownie and Dr. Ken Berkaw, Betty and Stillman Leveren, Sally and George Badenhausen and Clare and Lynn Hossom.

SPEAK OF PAAPS and another pair of Paaps pop into mind. Madaleine and John, no less. To say that they entertained at the "prettiest" party in town last night is no exaggeration! They were host to all the Miss Welcome to Long Beach contestants this year at a barbecue and swimpool-fest. If you don't think everyone of those gals isn't about the prettiest thing around town, you, sir or madam as the case may be, had better start carrying a white cane!

SPIRITS SPARKLED to match the bon voyage "sparkle" being poured in staterooms C-261 and C-246 aboard the Lurline Wednesday when Doris and Jim Wood sailed in company with Doris' son, Larry Olson, Billie and Murphy Fish and their daughter, Marilyn, bound for someplace or other called Honowaii, Luluha. Or is it Honolulu, Hawaii? Anyhow, they'll be at the Royal Hawaiian for three weeks, with tours of all the other islands planned.

IF THE MAYOR of Honolulu doesn't declare "Long Beach Day" soon he's missing an opportunity to flatter at least half his current "citizens!" Other localites, just back, are Murile and Glenn Scott.

TAKES THE PATIENCE of Job and the bank account of a panhandler to keep writing this stuff and not head for the nearest travel agent. For instance, Polly Chace and Cassieta Walker returned Stateside Tuesday, smiling like Chessie cats after a couple months-worth of Europe hopping. They trailed Burton and Gus home by two or three weeks in order to get in some good old fashioned type feminine shopping, sans husbandy interference!

OF ALL THE marvelous stories Betty and Dr. Bob Buffum have to tell about their meanderings over the face of the earth (they were gone three and half months) none has been more avidly heard since their return than a first hand account of Major Herb and Cecelia Lewin, Air Force stationed in Tokyo.

Betty and Bob learned that the Lewins missed being sent to Okinawa by a prop-wash—a fact they consider very fortunate, indeed.

LIGHT YOUR lamps, put 'em in the window and then don't turn them out until "Midge" and Ed DeMack are guided safely home three years from now! They leave tonight at 6:10 p.m. on a Western Airlines flight from International Airport on the first leg of the long trip to Manila via Seattle, Anchorage, Tokyo, Hong Kong and finally P.I.

"Guiding light . . ."

Won't be back until Ed completes the job of opening and managing the first overseas office his company, General Telephone Directory Co., is pioneering. A fine promotion for Ed—a sad loss for us.

CHARLES HENRY FABISH JR. arrived home Wednesday from Seaside Hospital with mother, Debbie, to raise the total Park Estates Fabish population to seven. Born June 13, little Charlie is now being well tended by his brother and three sisters at 5157 Vista Hermosa.

BARBARA AND Lt. Frank P. Schlosser (USN) arrived in Long Beach Thursday with young sons, Johnny, 5, and David, 2, from Monterey where Frank has just completed his second year at U. S. Naval Postgraduate School. They're staying with Barbara's parents, Olive and Les Smith, 3738 California Ave. while Frank has "summer duty" for the next five weeks before returning for his final year at Monterey to complete master's degree credentials in Naval engineering.

SELDOM HAS Virginia Country Club had such a day long fun-for-all as it did last Sunday during its Silver Fizz party which extended from early to late. The men golfed first, teeing off, all at the same time, from different holes at 8:30 a.m. To date, no fatalities have resulted from the grins-and-groans ordeal which included a holocaust of flying balls, an encounter with a superior force of silver fizzes and finally a skirmish with General Gin Rummy's brigands before a truce was reached in time for dinner with their wives, who golfed and "fizzed" separately during the afternoon.

Even though this was "Marge Ferrie Day" as Virginians honored their famous woman golf member, it was Naomi Wolf who stole the show with a dramatic hole-in-one on the 15th! Corks popped at next regular golf date for the women Tuesday as Naomi was champagne hostess.

Joan and Julie Bescos were co-chairmen of the golfing arrangements Sunday while dinner and dancing appointments (the Todd Trio played) were handled by Blanche and John Clock, Dorothy and Bill Cook, Dorothy and Milt McGrew, Pat and John Conley, Helen and Bob Buck, Thelma and Denny Evans, Berniece and Jack Watkins and Cleone and Sol Deeble.

AT HOME WITH THEIR 'FAIR LADIES'

Prominent Localites Wed in San Diego

Of great interest to a host of friends in Long Beach and throughout Southern California is announcement of the marriage of Mrs. William N. Deatherage, 841 Terraine Ave., and W. Ward Johnson, 4226 Country Club Dr.

The prominent pair exchanged wedding vows Saturday in an intimate afternoon ceremony conducted in the San Diego home of close friends Mr. and Mrs. Graydon Hoffman, formerly of this city.

Dr. Dean McBride, pastor of Point Loma Community Presbyterian Church, officiated in the presence of the bride's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Deatherage, her daughter, Miss Dorothy Deatherage, the bridegroom's son, George Johnson, Miss Helen Hoffman and Mrs. Patricia Geary Bartell.

Although unable to be with his father in person, the bridegroom's other son and his wife, Lt. Walter Johnson (USN) and Mrs. Johnson, were present, in absentia, their best wishes expressed in lovely flowers sent from Hawaii for the wedding, including the bride's corsage and beautiful arrangements for the Hoffman home.

Following the ceremony the newlyweds were feted by the host and hostess at a wedding luncheon. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will be at home at the Country Club Dr. address after July 1.

P-T.A. Slates Board Meet in Lynwood

Two important items of business will be on the agenda when the executive board of the 33rd District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, meets Monday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Fred W. Hosler Jr. High School, 11330 Spruce St., Lynwood.

A director of the communications department will be elected and chairmen of standing committees will be ratified for the year 1957-58. The director of communications is a new office created by vote of the delegates to the District Convention in Whittier last April.

Mrs. Everett M. Findlay, of Long Beach, president, will present the list of chairmen she has selected for the coming year for the approval of the executive board.

A committee was appointed last month to evaluate the problem of holding the executive board meetings in a central location as against holding them in the various Councils during the coming year. This committee, composed of Mmes. Albin Larsen, chairman; Jack Campbell; Charles Stone; Earl Orr and Howard Carlson, will report their findings.

Lynwood P-T.A. Council, under the leadership of Mrs. Charles Stone, president, will serve as hostess to the board at the meeting.

Martha Land to Lead Realettes

Martha Land, president-elect of Realette Toastmistress Club, will be installed in ceremonies at a 7 p. m. dinner at the Hawaiian Restaurant Wednesday evening.

Others to take office are Louise Wagner, vice president; Leona Lang, secretary; Helen Ends, treasurer; Marguerite Waters, club representative; and Gene Page, alternate representative.

Betsy Byrnes will be installing officer, Marguerite Waters will conduct and Leona Lang will be toastmistress. Speakers of the evening will be Mrs. Hazel DeLong, of Gardena Toastmistress Club, and Larry Miller, a national officer of Toastmaster Club.

Mrs. Roy Cox to Guide Auxiliary

Mrs. Roy Cox of San Pedro will take oath as president of the Auxiliary to the Painting and Decorating Contractors Association of the Harbor Area when the group meets for noon luncheon Thursday at Lillian Ekels, 347 E. 7th St.

Also slated to take office are Mrs. H. W. Giddings, vice president, and Mrs. Carl Jacobson, secretary-treasurer.

Hostesses for the day will be Mmes. L. H. Spainhower and Clifford Culp of Long Beach.

A Party Confection-- In Fact, Bon Bon!

Shades of pink and sugar candy turned Mildred Draper's home into a veritable confection of a party locale Wednesday when she entertained close friends at a garden coffee hour the French would describe as "bon, bon"!

"And sugar candy"

Luckily, ocean breezes came to Mildred's aid and the party remained informal, as she planned it, not an "inferno" summer gathering as she had qualms about during hot Monday and Tuesday!

Assisting were Helen Hamman, Virginia Stanton, Virginia Avery, Helen Fielding and Gertrude Guertin.

Miss Garverick Recites Vows

One of June's loveliest brides, Miss Polly Ann Garverick, exchanged wedding vows with William V. Ridgeway in flower bedecked Belmont Heights Methodist Church as 400 guests thronged the sanctuary to witness the nuptials.

The popular young Long Beach couple repeated their marriage lines after the Rev. Richard V. Kendall, officiant at the double ring evening service.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Garverick chose a graceful gown of fragile Alencon lace, its billowing tulle skirt deep-scalloped and inset with lace medallions. Tiny scallops edged the rounded neckline and abbreviated sleeves of the long-waisted bodice. A single strand of pearls circled her throat, and pearls trimmed the cap of matching lace which fastened a translucent veil of sheerest illusion. In her white-gloved hands, the bride held a delicate spray of stephanotis with a white orchid on a prayer book.

A white runner marked the bridal aisle, leading to the chancel banked with verdant woodwardia fern. Altar vases held white gladioli, stock and French iris, and two large urns on green marble pedestals were fern garlanded.

The bride's sisters, Miss Jo Ellen Garverick and Mrs. Robert F. Peyton of Palo Alto, were her maid and matron of honor. Her other attendants were Miss Paula Muench, Miss Shirley von KleinSmid and Mrs. W. A. Wiggins, sister of the bridegroom.

Their identical gowns of imported white batiste over pink taffeta were designed with scooped necklines and tucked bodices. White net picture hats trimmed with pink velvet streamers, and pink roses on the toes of their white shoes, were pretty accents. Miniature pink roses, pink carnations and stephanotis in colonial bouquets repeated the pink and white bridal theme.

The bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. V. W. Ridgeway of 3101 E. Ocean Blvd., asked John Orr to perform best man duties. Alan Peninger, Robert Peyton, John Rickette and W. A. Wiggins ushered guests to pews marked by clusters of white gladicli, stock, carnations and fern caught with satin ribbon.

At the conclusion of the wedding ceremony, guests drove to the Ridgeway residence, 298 St. Joseph Ave., where the justweds awaited them, receiving before a flower decked mantle. Mmes. Herbert Shannon, Cecil Ridgeway, William Zantiny, Edwin Harvey, Copeland Green, Owen Ridgeway, Sam Woolington, Elliston Farrell, Richard Hauck, H. M. Spears, Wayne Dow and Alan Howe; and Misses Gladys Ridgeway and Meredith Green assisted the hosts. Tiny rice bags were distributed by Marylou Hauck.

Both the bride and bridegroom were 1951 graduates of Wilson High School. She continued her education at Scripps College and took her B.S. degree at the University of Southern California in 1955. She is a member of Chi Omega.

Her husband attended Long Beach City College and is now a senior at USC School of Dentistry. He is affiliated with Psi Omega, dental fraternity.

Now honeymooning in Hawaii, Mr. and Mrs. Ridgeway will be at home to friends after July 15 at 701 W. 35th Place, Los Angeles.

Six Students Win DAR Medals at Flag Day Fete

Presentation of Good Citizenship Medals and a special observance of Flag Day highlighted the last meeting of the club year for Western Shores Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, in the Lafayette Hotel.

Mrs. Charles H. Tointon, new regent, presided at the brief business session, which was followed by awarding of the citizenship medals by Mrs. George Baumgartner to Diane Eldred, Jefferson Junior High School; Corene Aldrich, Stanford; Diana Christman, Will Rogers; Carole Ann Ricci, de Mille; Terrence Morgan, Southern California Military Academy, and Andrew Meinke, John Marshall.

Mrs. Rufus Gardner, new vice regent, introduced Homer F. Johnson, American Red Cross field director at Long Beach Naval Base and Ft. MacArthur, who spoke of the history of the American Flag. He pointed out that the U. S. flag is the oldest national flag, first being displayed in October, 1777.

It was not until 1789, he said, that the first French flag was displayed, and that the British Royal Standard was shown for the first time in 1801.

Johnson spoke of the thrill to see the American flag waving above American compounds when living in foreign lands. He has lived in nine countries in as many years.

He concluded with the wish "that homes of this land of great plenty would display the Flag on every holiday."

Chi Omegas

Long Beach Chi Omega alumnae will meet Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Edward J. Bragg, 1131 Ramillo Ave. Mmes. William H. Winston and Wayne Belden will be co-hostesses. All Chi Omegas in the area are invited.

July Date Announced

St. Anthony's Catholic Church will be setting July 13 for the marriage ceremony uniting Dianne Gaye Alexander with Victor William Porlier Jr.

Betrothal of the popular pair has been announced by parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Russel C. Alexander of 430 Rose Ave.

Miss Alexander was graduated from Wilson High School where she served as president of Girls League and as a member of Ming Leadership Club. She received her freshman year of college at Occidental, and her sophomore year at Long Beach City College where she was a member of Entre Nous and a flag girl. She is a former member of Long Beach Junior Philharmonic.

Her fiance, son of Mrs. Andre Porlier, 2650 Rutgers Ave., also is a Wilson alumnus, having served as vice president of the student body and as president of Lambda Sigma Fraternity. He served as president of the student body at LBCC during his sophomore year, was chairman of the home coming rally, and recipient of the Viking Award.

Gifts Given Bride-Elect

A kissing ring of circles to represent two wedding bands swung gently over guests attending a miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon honoring Miss Annetta Vardy, June 29 bride-elect of J. A. Horner.

Aunts of the bride-to-be, Mrs. D. D. Wells and Mrs. Betty Elmore, gave the festive party in the Wells home, 4455 Carfax Ave. A refreshingly cool color theme of silver and blue was employed.

Sharing a cake inscribed in icing, "Best Wishes, Annetta" were guests Mmes. Hanna K. Vardy, mother of the bride-elect; Jack Horner, mother of the prospective bridegroom, and Guy Rowden, W. L. Kellison, R. T. Kellison, James Lairmore, Ralph Tufts, W. H. Sheid, L. E. Edmonson, Juanita Donnelly and Gene Cima and Miss Audrey Johnson.

Tomato Flattery

Another use of herbs which Mrs. Earl Burns Miller recommended, when we asked for some personal favorite cooking tricks, was the use of sweet basil on sliced tomatoes, letting flavors blend a few minutes before serving.

Dumm-Keller Troth Revealed at Parties

The engagement of Miss Karen Keeler to Robert James Dumm was announced Saturday evening to relatives and friends of the betrothed pair gathered for a party at the home of the prospective bride groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dumm, 1052 Andrews Dr.

Guests at a simultaneous dinner party in the Denver, Colo., home of the bride-to-be's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey D. Keeler, also heard of the betrothal and plans for an Aug. 14 wedding in Long Beach.

Miss Keeler, a teacher at Garfield Elementary School here, was graduated from Colorado State College of Education where she was a member of Pi Kappa Sigma Sorority.

Her fiance was graduated in 1954 from UCLA and is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. He served as a Lt. (jg) with the Navy, stationed for two years in the Philippines.

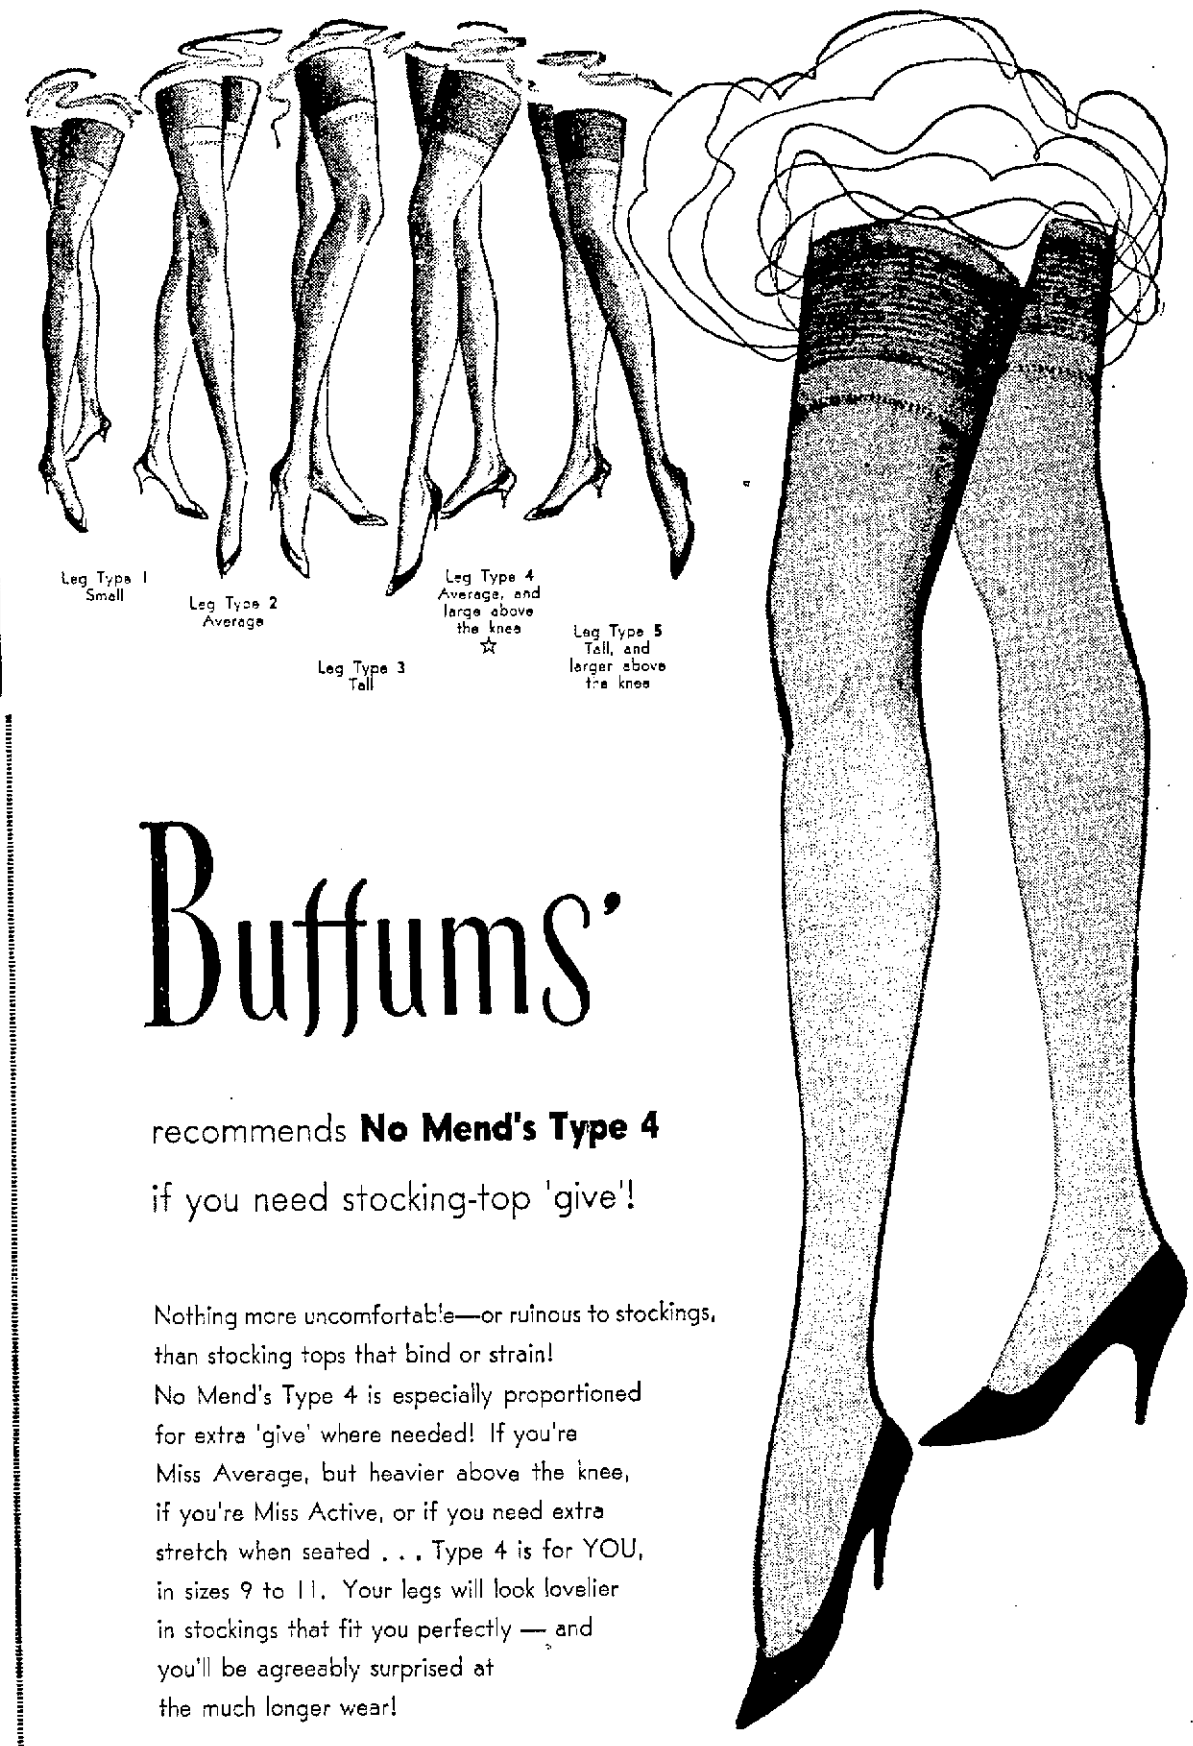

Dinner Heads Rebekah Events

Wide Awake Rebekah Lodge No. 71 will sponsor a public dinner from 6 to 8 p.m. Monday at Morgan Hall with Grace Lang as chairman.

The sewing and social club will meet Friday at Morgan Hall for a noon covered dish luncheon followed by a business session conducted by Lavina Newmaster. Sewing and canasta also are planned.

Old Spanish Hospitality at Conclave

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Long Beach Optometric Association will join other members of the California Optometric Association Auxiliary at the Statler Hotel in Los Angeles this morning where they will hostess the 60th annual congress of the American Optometric Association.

The initial social affair will be a Chocolatta, the conquistadores version of the modern "kaffee klatch." Mmes. D. L. Leatart and James E. Spencer will be official hostesses at this get-acquainted party in authentic Spanish style. Strolling musicians will provide typical Spanish music and decorative murals will depict the early history of California.

While their mothers are being entertained in the gracious manner of early Californians, children of out-of-state optometrists will enjoy a pinata party. Social events will continue throughout the Congress for the children, but when the last cup of chocolate is emptied, auxiliary members will begin four days of educational seminars and business sessions.

Bringing the Congress to a close will be a luncheon and installation of officers at which Mmes. S. H. Burgess, R. W. Anderson, Paul E. Wilkins and Donald L. Baker will be hostesses.

Reception to Fete Filbeys

Mr. and Mrs. James G. Ferguson, 4328 Galeano Ave., have invited 250 guests to an open house today to honor their daughter, Joan Marie, and her husband, Vernon Gilbert Flibey Jr., who were married May 30 in Las Vegas. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Gilbert Filbey Sr. of 274 Cummings Lane.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pink dress of raw silk with white accessories. The Rev. Lee W. Mooney officiated at the double ring service.

Among post-nuptial courtesies for the bride was a miscellaneous shower Friday, given by Miss Sandy Filbey and Miss Teresa Jones at the Filbey residence. An arrangement of gladioli, pink roses and white wedding bells on the attractively appointed table emphasized the bridal theme.

The former Miss Ferguson is a graduate of Millikan High School and is a member of Job's Daughters. Her husband was a member of Thadus fraternity at Jordan High School.

The newlyweds are now at home at 5955 John Ave.

Vows Taken by Pair in Nuptial Mass

A nuptial mass celebrated at St. Bartholomew's Catholic Church recently united in marriage Dorothy Jean Snitzler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Snitzler, 5615 Campo Walk, and Anthony J. Dauer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of peau de soie trimmed with Alencon lace encrusted with seed pearls. The full length bouffant skirt, which terminated in a chapel train, gained fullness from soft unpressed pleats caught together with medallions of the jewelled lace.

Attending the bride were Mrs. William E. Snitzler, matron of honor, with Mmes. Raymond C. Ball, James E. McGinty, Miss Anna Chick and Mrs. Chester J. Oleniacz, sister of the bridegroom, completing her entourage of attendants.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Dauer of Wheelock, N. D., asked his father to stand with him as best man. Ushering the 450 wedding guests to their places were Donald L. Geldbach, Richard D. Goul, Chester J. Oleniacz and William Snitzler, brother of the bride.

The new Mrs. Dauer is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School and attended Immaculate Heart College. Her husband is an alumnus of University of North Dakota where he affiliated with Tau Kappa Epsilon.

For their wedding the couple was honored by receiving the Apostolic Blessing from Pope Pius XII.

Following the 10 a.m. ceremony the newlyweds were feted at the Pacific Coast Club. Cousins of the bride, Misses Dianne and Linda Key, served at the punch bowls. Miss Frances Welty was in charge of the guest book. The newlyweds honeymooned in Mexico City and Acapulco.

Patrol Has Shower for Joan Smith

A surprise bridal shower with an international note took place Saturday afternoon when Mrs. David Singer and Mrs. Chet Blackburn entertained for Miss Joan Smith in the Singer home, 6120 Pageantry St.

Miss Smith, August 18 bride-to-be of Raymond Martin of Long Beach, is a member of the Long Beach Girl Scout International Patrol composed of women from foreign countries now residing here. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Smith, are former residents of London. They now live in Long Beach.

In addition to the mother of the bride-elect, those attending were Mmes. Robert Wright, Wayne Adams, Aldon Minton, Chet Jansen, Frank Snodgrass, John Weiland, Robert Golding and D. Bronac, all Patrol members, and Mmes. Lyman Lasy, James Gestice, John Kennedy and John Holden.

Plan to Wed in August

A wedding in August will take prospective bridegroom Edwin D. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon B. Johnson, 4518 Goldfield Ave., to El Paso, Texas, home of his fiance, Miss Carolyn Elizabeth Cole, daughter of the William M. Coles of that city.

The bride-elect was an ROTC Sponsor, member of Future Business Leaders of America and Tejasuque Tri-H-Y at her high school in El Paso.

After being graduated from Jordan High School and Long Beach City College, the bridegroom-elect served two years in the Army.

Dinner Monday

Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary No. 17 will meet Monday evening for potluck dinner at 6:30, with the parent chapter and an 8 o'clock business session to be presided over by Commander Lillian Karnes. Delegates Ethel Dold, state executive committeewoman, Emma Marshall, Lee Hanson, Ida Spencer, Ida Baker and Commander Lillian Karnes will attend the Department of California, DAV, convention at San Jose July 3 to 7.

Hmmm, Good!

A favorite hot hors d'oeuvres and one of the easiest to prepare, according to Mrs. Floyd W. Williams, 1121 Claiborne Dr., is prepared by wrapping water chestnuts in strips of bacon, skewering with toothpicks and then broiling until the bacon is cooked.

Goucher Club

Goucher Club of Southern California will meet at 2 p. m. Friday, July 5, with Mrs. Paul Armstrong, 235 La Vereda Rd., Pasadena, to honor Mrs. Louis I. Wilcox and Miss Ethel Cockey, alumnae secretaries, of the college in Baltimore, Md.

Honeymoon in Yosemite

Now on their honeymoon to Yosemite, newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Theodore William Walker (Patty Jo Ferguson) will be at home in Long Beach after July 1.

The son of Fred L. Walker, 3931 Walnut Ave., and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwin Ferguson, 1371 Roycroft Ave., exchanged wedding rings Saturday in East Long Beach Methodist Church before 125 guests. The Rev. F. B. Baldwin officiated.

A ballerina length gown of tulle and Chantilly lace over taffeta was chosen by the bride. A seed pearl crown held her fingertip length veil of silk illusion. In her cascade bouquet were a white orchid, stephanotis and white roses.

Attired in mint green French lace with chiffon cummerbund, Miss Fran Ferguson was her sister's maid of honor and Mrs. B. W. Ferguson Jr. the bridal attendant. Both carried Colonial bouquets of pale pink carnations.

The bridegroom asked his brother, Raymond Walker, to serve as best man. Ushers were Gilbert Walker, B. W. Ferguson Jr. and Jerome Lenorud.

A reception followed in the church parlors. Assisting were Mrs. Roy Mitchell, aunt of the bride, Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mrs. Wilfred Walker, Altadena, the bridegroom's aunt.

Both the new Mr. and Mrs. Walker were graduated from Wilson High School.

Good Sports

Good Sports of Long Beach will have a luncheon and card party at noon Monday at the home of Mrs. Robert Moore, 3525 Lemon Ave. The public is welcome.

Chance-Getz Names Link

Alpha Phi sorority sisters were thrilled with the recent surprise announcement of the engagement of Margie Getz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Getz, Harbor City, to Richard Chance, son of Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Chance, 3127 Artesia. The news was revealed in traditional candlelight ceremonies at a recent meeting of the LBSC sorority.

Nearly 50 family friends and relatives learned of the betrothal at a barbecue dinner hosted a few days later at the home of the bride-to-be's parents. The following night, the engaged pair was honored at a dinner party in the home of Paul McKee.

Both young persons are students at Long Beach State College where Miss Getz is secretary of her junior class and Alpha Phi sorority guard. Her fiance, a pre-med major, is a graduate of Jordan High School and recently completed two years military service.

A summer, 1958, wedding is being planned.

ROTARIANS TO HONOR PRESIDENTS

Finishing touches are put on a huge mural depicting the striking Long Beach shoreline at night. The mural will be used as head table backdrop when Long Beach Rotarians salute their new and retiring presidents at the 40th annual presidents party Wednesday at the Lafayette Hotel Grand Ballroom. Surveying her handiwork is Joan Arend Kickbush of Anchorage, Alaska, who painted the mural expressly for the party. Others pictured are (from left) Dr. H. J. Prichard, W. G. Bryant and Jack Merrick.—(Staff Photo)

Rotary Club to Salute New, Retiring Presidents

Regardless of what the calendar says, the New Year arrives next Wednesday for Long Beach Rotary Club, and will be met with a gala party at the Lafayette Hotel Grand Ballroom.

Colorful invitations which capture the festive air of a New Years Party have been mailed to members and their wives, and urges them to "start the Rotary Year with a bang!"

The event marks the 40th annual president's party, and serves a dual function — to honor and recognize with appreciation the outgoing president, Vaile G. Young, general merchandise manager of Buffums', and to welcome the new president, Douglas A. Newcomb, superintendent of the Long Beach Unified School District. Newcomb will take office July 1.

Activities will open with a social hour at 6:45 p.m. followed by 8 o'clock dinner and dancing to the music of Jimmie Whetmore and his orchestra with Ann Nayes as vocalist. Dancing will be interrupted for 30 minutes when Dr. John C. Cottrell, master of ceremonies, calls for a toast to the new and retiring leaders.

Heading plans for the event, to which members are invited to take guests, is Jack Merrick, special party committee chairman. W. G. Bryant is in charge of reservations and Dr. Hugh J. Prichard, decorations chairman, will be assisted by Don Bowers, W. H. Davidson, Victor K. Hart, William F. Jellick, Raymond H. Green Jr., and Charles F. Jackline.

While most of the planning and actual work on the party has been done by members, wives were called in for consultation and to "put the frosting on the cake."

Focal point in the lavish decor will be a huge mural depicting the Long Beach shoreline at night. The mural was painted especially for the party by Joan Arend Kickbush of Anchorage, Alaska, who spent two weeks in Long Beach painting murals for Buffums' Santa Ana store.

Will Attend Convention

Alphi Chi Omegas of California will be hostesses to the national convention of their sorority for the third time in 16 years when a delegation of nearly 500 members from across the nation assembles at the Huntington-Sheraton Hotel Tuesday for a five-day session.

Included in the assemblage of delegates from Alpha Chi's 83 collegiate and 75 alumnae chapters will be Mrs. Frank S. Sunofsky, representing the Long Beach Alumnae Club.

Mmes. Bruce Zacher, J. A. Bush, Edward McMahon and John W. Brady have been working on table decorations for the June 26 luncheon, and will also attend the convention from the local chapter.

GARDEN CEREMONY

Lovely flowers in pink and white banked the simulated altar in the garden at the West Los Angeles home of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Marinoff on June 9 as their daughter, Elaine Selma, exchanged nuptial vows with Robert Glen Good III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Good II of Long Beach. The newlyweds will reside in Westwood on return from a Carmel honeymoon while the bridegroom continues studies at the UCLA School of Medicine. He was awarded the August Gerome Lartigau Scholarship for a second year. His bride, also a UCLA graduate, studied fashion design in Paris.

'New Look' for Angel Food

When company surprises you, you can surprise them right back if you follow this dessert tip from Mrs. Gilbert Wagner, 5912 Bayshore Wk., among local homemakers who have graciously answered our request to share their ideas.

Mrs. Wagner bakes angel food cake in a large, flat pan (about 9½ by 13-inch size) instead of the conventional tube pan. When cool she splits it into two layers and uses sliced vanilla ice cream as filling. Then she pops it into the freezer until needed. To serve, just cut in squares and top with any favorite sauce or fresh fruit.

Social Club

Satellite Social Club of Palos Verdes Chapter 310, Order of Eastern Star, will meet for noon luncheon Tuesday at Machinists Hall. Beulah Broadwell will preside at the business session following.

Your Baby & Mine

Boy Has Own Way

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Here are two mothers of 26-months-old children both with bad habits the mothers do not know how to break. I suspect strongly, since both letters are in the same handwriting and come from the same city, that this is just one child.

One letter said, "My son at 26 months, still takes milk by bottle. I keep one full in the refrigerator and he gets it when he wants it and then lies down on the floor with it to watch TV. It does not spoil his appetite for his meals.

"I have thought of throwing away his bottles, or should I just wait until he gives it up? I am afraid of depriving him of something he enjoys so much."

The second letter said her 26-months-old boy used to cry so much in the night that she finally took him into bed with her.

"As long as he is in my bed he sleeps straight through the night.

"Some months ago I tried putting him in his bed again and he would sleep a couple of hours and wake up and cry again. I gave up and took him back in my bed again.

"I am beginning to wonder how and when I'll ever get him back into his own room. I'll appreciate your advice."

But maybe you won't like it. Whether these are two children or the same boy the habits have one common factor. The boy is doing exactly what he wants to do without regard to your comfort, convenience, or his own welfare.

Milk by bottle won't hurt him, but if you wait for him to give up willingly, it may be years. All bad habits are ways of acting which children enjoy. That does not make the habits good for them. They have to grow up, change and adopt more mature ways of eating, sleeping, etc.

A child has to learn about deprivation, too, and all he is being deprived of is an infantile way of drinking as compared to a more adult way of managing it.

All children like to sleep with their parents. But if you had six children you couldn't accommodate them — so why do it with one? You don't enjoy it and surely, if you have a husband, this isn't his idea of a comfortable way of sleeping.

You can take the easy road all the way along. But if you want your boy to become a controlled and disciplined child, you'll see that he does as you think best for him, even if, temporarily, it means more work for you.

Make sure, though, that his bed is comfortable and when it grows colder he has warm covers. The warmth of another human is very comforting to a child and we have to give him a good substitute for this, if he must sleep alone.

College Film Festival, Reception Planned

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent, Press-Telegram Art Editor

The sixth annual Conference and Festival of Films for Art Education, free and open to the public, is slated for July 6 in the Fine Arts Building of Long Beach State College, it is announced by John W. Olsen, coordinator of art at the college.

"The Adolescent," a film prepared by John Shelton Scott for the 1957 Conference of the National Art Education Assn., and a series of new films by Charles and Ray Eames will be shown in the morning. In the afternoon a new film by Rex Brandt will be shown and Brandt will discuss problems in the production of a film on water color.

Mosaics by students of Immaculate Heart College will be shown during the festival. This exhibit is planned in relation to the series of films on mosaics, for which Sister Magdalen Mary, head of the art department of Immaculate Heart College, will speak in the afternoon.

A reception for architects participating in the "Arts of Southern California Architecture" exhibit in Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., is announced for 2 to 5 p.m. today. It is free and open to the public.

Robert Ortlieb, Inglewood sculptor whose work has attracted attention when it has been displayed in the Long Beach Museum of Art, took first place for sculpture with a rosewood head of a young Negress in the Laguna Beach Art Assn. membership show in the Laguna Beach Art Gallery.

Leonard Kester took first for oil and Roland Strasser first for watercolor.

More than two million dollars worth of Vincent van Gogh paintings and drawings will be shown July 8-Aug. 4 in the Los Angeles Municipal Art Gallery in Barnsdall Park, Vermont at Hollywood Blvd. Prices of the individual works range from $5,000 to $200,000. Shown will be many of the most famous Van Gogh paintings in America and works from Honolulu and Paris, including the companion piece of a painting in the permanent collection of the Louvre. Van Gogh, who painted only six years, died in 1890. He lived in poverty and died in obscurity—never to know that some day, posthumously, he would become one of the most popular painters in modern times.

Work of three Southern California artists, Kieth Crown, Orval Dillingham, and John Martin, will be displayed at Exodus Gallery, 235 6th St., San Pedro, through July 12.

Kieth Crown, an instructor at the University of Southern California, has just returned from a year in Mexico. He has exhibited widely and has won several prizes for his work in oils.

Orval Dillingham is on the staff at Long Beach State College. His work is concerned with various problems of still-life.

John Martin, also on the art staff at Long Beach State College, works with figure studies, moving into dynamic patterns of color. He has exhibited throughout the United States. Paintings by the twelve Exodus directors also will be exhibited. An informal reception will be given for the artists today from 2-5 p. m.

Norwegian Pianist Plays in Concert Here Today

Music lovers of Long Beach and surrounding areas will have an opportunity to hear Mary Barratt Due, concert pianist of Oslo, Norway, when she appears today at 3 p. m. at Pacific Coast Club. There is no admission charge, but a silver donation will be made after the concert to be used by the sponsor, Soroptimist International of Long Beach, in its philanthropic work.

The artist, a past president of the European Federation of Soroptimist Clubs, is making a repeat appearance in Long Beach. She received enthusiastic acclaim a year ago in this city.

Her musical selections will be prefaced by review of the Grieg compositions she is to play in observance of the 50th year since the Norwegian composer's death. Her repertoire will also include folk numbers and compositions by Chopin. Arrangements for her appearance are being directed by Lola Stanley, a member of the local Soroptimist Club.

Bob Smart

Smart Sings in Kenton Recordings

Bob Smart is an enterprising young man who takes full advantage of his surname. Just graduated from UCLA with a degree in music, he plans to make singing his career. Already many of his hopes have been fulfilled, for he has sung with the Roger Wagner Chorale for three years and is now top tenor with the Modern Men quartet which has just completed an album with the Stan Kenton orchestra called "Kenton With Voices."

Son of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Smart, 625 W. 4th St., Smart affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon on the Bruin campus. He was graduated from Poly High School where he took part in operettas, and Long Beach City College. He has also served as soloist at First Congregational Church. With the Roger Wagner Chorale he has done motion picture work and recorded seven albums.

A student of Douglas Steade, Smart has been the recipient of several scholarships, among them being the Katherine B. Whitten scholarship awarded at LBCC, and those given by the Exchange Club and the Boyd Foundation.

Southwest Scenes Prevail In Lithographer's Works

Kenneth Adams, whose lithographs are on exhibit at Long Beach Museum of Art, is not the classic "misunderstood genius," neglected and ignored while he lives. He is very much noticed and honored, being represented in select permanent collections of The Whitney Museum of American Art in New York Public Library, and the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts. gress, The Carnegie Institute, Princeton University, the New York Public Library, and the Dalles Museum of Fine Arts.

Subject matter plays a minor role in Adams' work, and the inability of critics to classify his work is the least of his concerns. He prefers not to be limited by any strict credo of style or form, and the basis of his interest is in what he calls a "living experience" of his own. If his subjects suggest the Southwest, it is because he lives and work there. As resident artist and professor of art of the University of New Mexico, Albuquerque, he attempts to avoid exploitation of the region yet is an acknowledged master in his portrayals of the Southwestern scene.

Works of Kenneth Adams can be seen through July 21 at the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd.

Art Enters Architecture

Ever since that memorable day thousands of years ago when the occupant of a cave presumably felt an urge for more than shelter from the elements and reached for crude implements with which to decorate his drab stone walls, art has come to be a necessary part of living.

The practice of integrating sculpture, murals, ceramics paintings in plans for dwellings, factories, religious and educational buildings is one of the milestones in the progress of contemporary architecture which can be seen in the Arts of Southern California - I: Architecture exhibit at the Long Beach Museum of Art.

In the Police Facilities building in Los Angeles, designed by Welton Becket and Associates, Joseph Young has created a mural of a quarter-million hand-cut tesserae showing a panoramic view of the city in scintillating colors.

Sculptor Joseph Young, working with architects Smith and Williams, carved wooden Biblical figures for the doors of the Children's Chapel in Pasadena.

At University of Southern California's Founders Hall, the work of Smith, Powell and Morgridge, Merrell Gage designed and executed a striking sculptured figure of Prometheus bringing the fire of civilization, giving dramatic impact to the structure and its significance.

The trend toward integrating art and building design was established at the turn of the century and is evidenced in the Roots of Contemporary California Architecture, an exhibit on loan for the Los Angeles Municipal Art Department. Pioneers Frank Lloyd Wright, Greene and Greene, Richard Neutra did much to eliminate rococo curlecues and meaningless gingerbread embellishments which had been considered fashionable in Queen Victoria's day.

The architectural exhibits can be seen through June 30. Lithographs by Kenneth Adams, professor of art at the University of New Mexico, can be seen through July 21.

Broadway Exports

NEW YORK—Another season of top Broadway musical shows is being planned for Europe by Marcel Prawy, Viennese opera impresario.

Prawy, who scored a big hit by introducing Cole Porter's "Kiss Me Kate" to Vienna, said he has "Brigadoon," "The Pajama Game" and "Can-can" on the agenda.

His formula of success:

"Obtain good American talent and mix with the Europeans."

HI-FI FANFARE

That Clack of Castanets Is from New Long-Play Series

By PRESTON McGRAW
United Press Staff Correspondent

One of the most popular series of records among high fidelity equipment owners this year may turn out to be a five-volume set of long-plays called "Espana."

As the title of the series indicates, they are records of music about Spain, if not all Spanish. The fidelity and presence are exceptional for commercial records.

The music covers a wide range of tastes. It has the color, the clashes of cymbals, the brilliant, biting brasses that many high fidelity fanciers are looking for.

The records are on the London Label (RIAA curve). The conductor on all five records is Ataulfo Argenta, conductor of the Orquesta Nacional de Espagna.

Volumes 1 and 3 are recorded by the Orquesta Nacional. Volume 2 is recorded by the London Symphony Orchestra. Volume 4 by the Orquesta de Camera Madrid and Volume 5 by the Gran Orquesta Sinfonica.

The recording is about equal in quality on all the records, though the prize of the five is probably Volume 2, because it was recorded by the London Symphony Orchestra and benefits by the acoustics of Albert Hall.

The music on Volume 2 includes Rimsky - Korsakov's "Capriccio Espagnol"; Granados' "Andalusia"; Chabrier's "Espana Rhapsody," and Moszkowski's "Spanish Dances."

There are two new records in the Cook Catalogue for friends of Red Camp's piano playing. They are "Camp Has a Ball" (Cook 5005, 12-inch, lp, RIAA curve) and "Camp Inventions" (Cook 1087, 12-inch, lp, RIAA curve).

The "Camp Has a Ball" record is a limited edition disc for either monaural or stereophonic playback. One side of it includes, in addition to Camp's piano, a trumpet played by Dude Skiles.

Camp sings on the other side a piece called "Refugio Blues." "Camp Inventions" includes a zither and a voodoo drum used variously with some of the pieces.

One almost unvarying thing about Cook's records is their quality. From a biased viewpoint, Camp has never played better than when he was helping Lizzie Miles make her records in New Orleans for Cook.

On these two records, Camp strays away from the New Orleans kick. The novelty is intriguing for the time being; the kind of playing he did for Lizzie Miles wears better in the long run.

London also has a batch of new jazz and semi-popular music records. They include trombone-player George Chisholm's "Chis" (LL 1491, 12-inch lp, RIAA curve) and "Kinsey Rhythm" (LL 1517, 12-inch lp, RIAA curve).

Chisholm's playing is interesting, especially on old standards like "Lazy River." But a typical group of musicians playing with him—they vary from record to record — includes an alto saxophone, a tenor saxophone, piano, guitar, bass and drums.

The net effect of this is to produce an overall sound that seldom gets above mid-range and tends toward monotony. The Kinsey Quartet record — alto saxophone, drums, bass and vibraharp—is a good deal better.

Bowl Award Winner Slates Piano Recital

Sharon Jean Riopelle, 16, winner of a Hollywood Bowl Young Artist Award, will be heard in a piano recital Wednesday at 3 p.m. at Huffie's Caterer's, 1473 Atlantic Ave. Presentation of the award will be made to the artist by Mrs. Roxie Turpin of Studio City.

Presented by Jane Stanley, Miss Riopelle will be heard in works by Chopin, Beethoven, Grieg, Shubert, Liszt, Debussy, Juon, Niemann, Friml and Lecuna.

A tea will follow. Assisting will be Mrs. Elmer Joseph Riopelle, mother of the pianist.

TO BE AUTUMN BRIDE

After their marriage this fall, Peggy Chill and Paul M. Lloyd will make their home in Mexico City where he will engage in the export business. Both young persons are alumni of St. Anthony's High School and Long Beach City College; she also attended Wilson. Her parents are the Fred A. Chills, 4210 Patero Way; his are the Paul H. Lloyds, 1040 E. Ocean Blvd.

In the Long Beach Area

Susan's Window Shopping

"MANGOS, PAPAYAS—anything your heart desires" will be yours in this sprightly calypso cotton for the taller girl. Washable fast colors combine red with white braid and rick rack trim and yellow and turquoise sash, or turquoise with red and yellow sash. In sizes 10 through 18, it is priced under $18.

For the name of the store showing this style, phone Susan at HEmlock 5-1161, Ext. 249, from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday, or write Susan, Dept. A, Independent, Press-Telegram, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Junior 'Tidier'

When it's time to take very young children "out to dine" in a restaurant Mrs. R. W. Swigart, 1550 Hackett Ave., has found that carrying a damp washcloth in a plastic bag is a mighty handy "junior tidier." For three-year-old Douglas she also carries his own baby spoon and a couple of little books for him to study while he waits for his "entree."

Breakfast Set

Realette Toastmistress Club will entertain with a "chuck wagon" breakfast in true western style from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. June 30 at the garden of the home of Miss Betsy Byrnes, 231 Campo Dr. The public is welcome.

Claretian Party

Claretian Guild will entertain with a public card party and noon luncheon Wednesday at Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave., with Mrs. Josephine Kirstan as chairman.

Quotarians to Learn of Radar Use

Herbert L. Gordon, United States Coast Guard, will be guest speaker at the Monday night dinner meeting of Long Beach Quota Club in the Ballerina Room of the Lafayette Hotel at 7 p. m.

Helen Cameron, vice president, will conduct in the absence of President Virginia Youngquist who, with Mrs. Marguerite Wood, is attending international convention of Quota in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Gordon's talk will be a graphic explanation of the newest long range radar equipment now in use. He will supplement his remarks with films illustrating the use of radar.

Miss Rose Ann Wood, winner of the recent Long Beach Philharmonic Junior competitions, will entertain with piano selections.

Miss Amy Wick

Amy Wick Is Engaged

Miss Amy Wick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Wick of 2959 Long Beach Blvd., will marry Merle E. Erickson of Huntington Park on Aug. 17, her parents have announced.

The ceremony will be performed at 4 o'clock in First Baptist Church.

Miss Wick is an alumna of Polytechnic High School and William Jewell College in Liberty, Mo. She is a member of Ardis Toastmistress Club and is secretary to Walter Scott, director of municipal and school recreation. Her fiance received his education in Frederic, Wis.

Mrs. Wayne Fitzgerald

Journey to Convention

Alumnae of Alpha Xi Delta will journey to the Edgewater Gulf Hotel, Gulfport, Miss., for their 25th National Convention from Wednesday through Sunday.

The newly installed president of the Long Beach chapter, Mrs. Wayne Fitzgerald of 245 Park Ave., will be the official delegate. She will fly to New Orleans, meet friends, and will motor with them to Gulfport along the Gulf of Mexico via historic Highway 90, trail of the Conquistadors. At the close of the convention she will return to New Orleans for an extended visit and tour.

The alternate delegate, Mrs. Robert Pond, past president of the group, will fly to Phoenix, Ariz. and meet Miss Marilyn Francis. They will drive a party of Alpha Xi Deltas from the University of Arizona to the convention. Later Mr. and Mrs. Pond will meet in New Orleans for their vacation.

Emblem Events

Sewing group of Long Beach Emblem Club No. 106 will meet Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Fisher, 5431 La Pasada, Park Estates, with Mrs. Iva Jensen as co-hostess. Executive board members will gather Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John Cronin, 525 W. 10th St., with Mrs. Albert Menasmith assisting.

'Can't Cheat Honest Man,' Zontians Told

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Women executives, members of Long Beach Zonta Club, heard the old adage "you can't cheat an honest man," proved again by guest speaker Detective Inspector E. O. Carroll of the Long Beach Police Dep't Bunco Detail at the club's dinner meeting Thursday at Mon's Cafe.

Carroll titled his talk, "Something for Nothing." He advised his listeners (and proved it with examples of actual cases) that the confidence operator can only cheat those individuals who kid themselves that they can get "something for nothing,"... have a touch of larceny in their OWN hearts!

President Lucille Murdock conducted the meeting and welcomed special guests of Zonta, Mrs. Carroll and Elsie Rogers, executive secretary of Traveler's Aid.

Legal Secretaries

A filmed travelogue of England and Scotland will be shown by Rita Knight at Legal Secretaries next meeting Friday at the La Ronde Rue Restaurant on Pacific Coast Highway.

A social hour at 6:30 p. m. will precede the 7:30 dinner. Hostesses planning the evening are Barbara Smith, Edna High and Elsie Schenk with door awards to be provided by Vivian Crum and Ruth Stuart.

Executives Secretaries

A large white palette with red carnations for the artist's paint dobs centered the head table effectively at Executives' Secretaries dinner meeting Monday at Victor Hugo Restaurant. Miniature red palettes with dobs of gold glitter were used for place cards.

With Agnes Herbst conducting, reports were heard from all committee chairmen and officers to provide a verbal "painting" of E/S activities, past and future. Also heard were official reports on national convention by delegates Hazel Nowlin, Grace Cooney, "Vi" Dovey and President Agnes who attended the conclave in Salt Lake City last month.

Lawton Auxiliary

Henry W. Lawton Auxiliary No. 20 will meet for luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Friday at Linden Hall. A business meeting will follow.

ALPHA OMICRON PI DELEGATES

Three local delegates to next week's 7-day national convention of Alpha Omicron Pi to take place in Chicago are pictured at a recent luncheon for Southern California collegiate and alumnae members. From left are Miss Lillian Weller, president of the USC chapter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Weller; Mrs. Marshall J. Vatcher, president, Southern California Council, and Mrs. Milton L. Stannard Jr., California alumnae director. Also attending the eastern conclave, during which the 60th anniversary of the sorority's founding will be celebrated, will be Mrs. J. H. McLaughlin, representing Long Beach alumnae.

Adolescents Should Avoid Car-for-Two Auto Jaunts

By ANGELO PATRI

One hates to put a damper on youthful joy in good times, to put mistrust and fear into the hearts of young girls, but they certainly should be cautioned about the Car-for-Two rides that are so popular and so delightful on summer moonlit nights.

The man or the youth who drives the car and has the girl under his protection, or at his mercy, should be well-known and trustworthy before the girl accepts his invitation to "take a ride." This is accepted by common consent, yet every once in a while something terrible happens which sends shivers down parents' backs. Hence the necessity for repeated instructions, repeated warnings.

In my opinion, based on experience with boys and girls just passing through adolescence, there should be no "rides" for two in a car until they are, both of them, mature enough to understand the seriousness of sex relationships. Usually this is becoming apparent about the age of 18. Certainly, no girl younger than that should accept an invitation for such a ride of an evening, nor should a boy have the opportunity of offering it.

To say that the boys and girls of today are maturing earlier, marrying earlier, is not helpful. Too many youthful marriages end in divorce. And this is natural, for the youngsters are not prepared for marriage.

Such responsibilities include the ability to earn the money to support a wife, the children and the household. Too many of these young married people have to take their baby home to "mother," and sometimes the mother goes along, too. The "in-laws" who have already labored to rear one family now are burdened by another and also must endure the laments of both sides.

In connection with the Car-for-Two idea, one thing must be dinned into the ears of both the boys and girls, particularly of the girls: Never, never, accept the invitation of anybody who is a stranger, or of one not acceptable to the family, to "have a ride." Better walk. And keep walking until home is reached. It's good exercise and more likely to be safer in every way.

Molly Mayfield

His Excuses Are Mighty Flimsy

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have a gentleman friend. He is a salesman I've known for several years. For the past six months, he has been coming over to see me almost every night, usually after 10 o'clock.

He is interested in sports and he seldom pays for tickets because he always knows an usher or somebody. He attends all of the events but tells me he can't take me because, he says, I am a lady and it would be embarassing to me. That's how he explains never being able to arrive before 1° p.m.

He thinks he's fooling me, but he isn't. I know he has been playing around all the time I have been sitting at home waiting for him to get enough money for him to buy me an engagement ring. He keeps telling me he does not want me just to have an ORDINARY ring—it's got to be a great big one!

I have asked him about the girl he's currently chasing with. It's the same old story. She has been chasing him and he can't get rid of her. This time he had to stay with the girl for days as she was going to commit suicide and he was afraid to leave her. He had to talk her out of the idea.

He says I am just unreasonably jealous and I say he couldn't have gotten so involved with so many women if he didn't encourage them. He says it wasn't his fault—that they were neurotic, all eight of them.

Isn't it kind of unusual for one man to run into that many "neurotics" when he's supposed to be engaged and minding his own business.?—ANOTHER NEUROTIC.

DEAR ANOTHER NEUROTIC:

Unusual? It's downright phenomenal!

I'd thumb your sports-loving addict to the showers right now. He's left you sitting in the bleachers while he's out among 'em in the grandstand. In addition to his other pursuits, he seems to be making "sport" of you.

As soon as you toss him out of the game, you may find a renewed spectator interest. Betting on "sure things" like yourself seems to bore him. Reduce him to the status of a "long shot" and you may find him foregoing his "cinches" because you, Miss-Suddenly-Hard-to Get, intrigue the daylights out of him. Even then I doubt that he's worth a bet. —M.M.

DEAR MRS MAYFIELD:

We have a daughter, 16, and four younger sons. They all feel we are too strict because we do not want them running the streets after dark. We welcome all their friends into our home during the day and in the evening, and feel they can have their fun here.

We provide soft drinks and potato chips. They have a record player with all the latest rock 'n' roll records. We do not say they cannot visit their friends, only we don't want them running the streets after 9 o'clock. We would be glad to pick them up from where they are visiting.

Our daughter now is involved in her first case of puppy love. The boy is younger and is around our house all the time. She feels we are unfair because we don't approve of her and her boy friend hugging and kissing most of the time. We told her it is not proper.

She has always been a good girl but she is getting so headstrong that she won't listen to our advice. How can we make her understand? — DISTRAUGHT PARENTS.

DEAR DISTRAUGHT PARENTS:

You're trying so hard to do the right thing that I'm afraid you're trying too hard. The young invariably assume that they know more than their elders. If they weren't like that, they wouldn't be normal. We were all like that once.

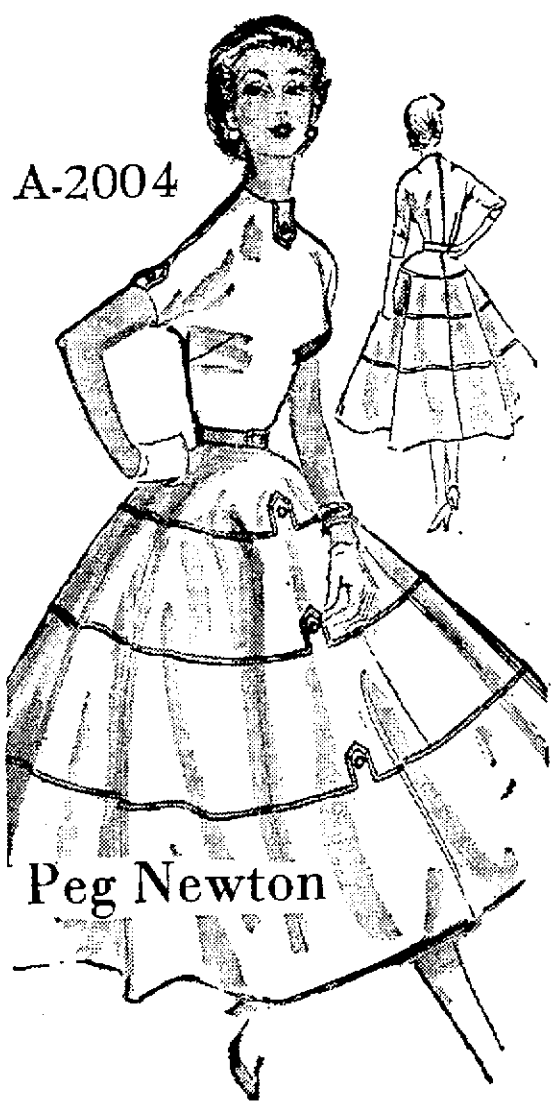

And when you try to regulate their lives so closely that they want to "escape," you're creating a dangerous situation.

I know your plight and I don't envy you. But you're simply going to have to allow a little more leeway.

If you have given your children a good moral sense through the years—and I'm sure you have—they're not going to go hog wild with just a little more freedom. And there will be plenty of nights when home and soft drinks and the record player will look pretty good to your children—when the routine isn't forced on them.—M.M.

Personalized Pattern

FOR THE TALL GIRL

Peg Newton who specializes in designing for the taller-than-average girl has put a great deal of ingenuity into this dress with its tabbed and tiered skirt, the tab detail repeated at the neckline and sleeve of the fitted bodice. The edging on the tiers may be in contrast, and the exclusively sized pattern with perforations so precisely placed that matching is always accurate, gives the yardage and instructions for this kind of trim. Make it in gingham, linen, chambray, novelty weaves, shantung, tie silk, smart new rayons or lightweight wool. From this chart select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips		of Neck to Waist Length From Nape
10	34	24	35	in.	17¼ in.
12	35	25	36	in.	17½ in.
14	36½	26½	37½	in.	17¾ in.
16	38	28	39	in.	18 in.
18	40	30	41	in.	18¼ in.

Size 12 requires 4⅝ yards of 36-inch material for dress with short sleeves. To order Pattern No. A-2004, state size; enclose $1.00. Address PERSONALIZED PATTERNS, P. O. Box 1005, G. P. O. Dept. LZ-13, New York 1, N. Y. Peronalized Pattern Booklet PZ available for 50c. If paid by check, add 4c.

Writers to Meet

Mrs. Mabel Weaks, instructor of journalism at Long Beach City College, B&TD, will discuss "Publications" when she appears as guest speaker before Long Beach Writers Club at their afternoon session Thursday at Woodland Clubhouse in Recreation Park.

Mrs. Weaks will be presented by Mrs. Helen Vind Ervin, program chairman, following luncheon recess.

The 10 o'clock morning session will feature work submitted by members and read by the directors, Miss Olive Breed, prose; Mrs. Alma Elliott, short stories; Mrs. Helen Gillum, articles, and Mrs. Elizabeth Wall, juveniles. Mrs. Don U. Billings, newly installed president, will preside.

Ives BPW Ends Year

The fiscal year—but not the "fellowship" year—ended for Margaret Ives Business and Professional Woman's Club with its June dinner meeting this week at the Lafayette Hotel.

Highlight of the evening was announcement by Hazel Fitzgerald of her engagement to A. O. Preil of Washington, D. C. who will, with her marriage, move to the capital in September.

President Maxine Hill conducted the "wrap up" meeting with Lillie Lee, vice president, in charge of the night's program which consisted of workshop discussion for each table.

Plans were completed for members to attend yesterday's workshop and district luncheon at the Lafayette Hotel. The next get-together will be an informal picnic July 15 at the home of Miss Lee.

District GAR

Members of Southern District, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday at Los Angeles Patriotic Hall, 1816 S. Figueroa St. Mrs. J. F. Zimmerman of Santa Monica will preside during annual election of officers. Luncheon will be served at noon.

Coast Guard Wives Undertake Brisk Schedule of Summertime Activities

By VIRGINIA NEWTON

Among parties with a distinct summertime theme was the recent coffee event given at Allen Center by present and past board members of Coast Guard Officers Wives Club for departing members. Honored were Mmes. W. C. Hogan, H. F. Walsh, T. G. Byrne, (former president of the group), B. M. Chriswell, P. R. Peak, H. C. Caffrey, F. A. Nichols, E. B. Copp and R. J. Krueger.

And not to be forgotten is the summer semi-formal dance which the group and their husbands and friends enjoyed last night at Lakewood Country Club.

Mrs. John Ronnau

Adoption Service Installs

Mrs. John Ronnau was installed as president of the Long Beach Branch of Holy Family Adoption Service at a recent luncheon meeting at Lakewood Country Club.

Mrs. Ronnau has served two years as treasurer of the Adoption Service. The active mother of six children and wife of an oral surgeon finds herself giving time to serve the community also as a member of St. Mary's Hospital Guild and the Long Beach Dental Auxiliary. Upon accepting the gavel, Mrs. Ronnau expressed the hope that Holy Family Adoption Service would be able to continue its excellent service to Long Beach and even increase the placement of adoptable babies in homes where there will be the love and understanding guidance that every child born into this world has a right to inherit.

Mrs. Jay Moorhead, first president, was the installing officer.

Annual reports were given by Miss Rose Hogan, acting administrator of Holy Family Adoption Service, and Mrs. William Wagner, retiring president.

Arrangements and decorations for the meeting were under the direction of Mrs. Milton Cooper.

Mrs. Wagner was hostess recently at the University Club honoring her retiring board.

Another event was a barbecue and bridge party at the home of Mrs. W. S. Heyer for the wives of officers attached to the USS Roanoke. This same group also had a most pleasant time Thursday evening at a bridge session in the home of Mrs. Jack Hilton.

Members who went to San Francisco for a few days to be with their husbands while the ship was there, were Mrs. R. W. Scott and Mrs. John S. Blake.

A benefit tea is scheduled for July 9 at noon by the Nautical Club. This tea, open to the public, will be given in the garden room at Mottell's & Peek and is under the chairmanship of the ways and means director of the club, Mrs. Roy Proudfoot, who will be assisted by board members and officers of the club. A gay highlight of the afternoon will be added to the group's Christmas charities.

On July 25 Navy Wives No. 1 will host a pot luck night for families at the Savannah Clubhouse from 6 to 8 p.m. Yesterday the group had a bake sale at the Naval Exchange, Long Beach Naval Station.

Recently officers and staff Non-Commissioned Officers of the Marine Barracks of Long Beach Naval Station had a luncheon party at the Hawaiian to bid farewell to Chief Warrant Officer B. D. Stone who retired recently.

Lillian Todd, secretary of the Navy Wives Club No. 123, recently enjoyed a ten-day vacation in Las Vegas and Reno.

Poor Cmdr. "Jack" Steltenkamp really didn't get to fully enjoy Father's Day. 'Twas his wife's birthday, too, and besides a surprise birthday party for her, given by Mrs. Oscar Ullery of 128 St. Joseph, and a dinner party at Allen Center for Mrs. Steltenkamp it was all "Pop's" day. Anyway he was happy over it all: his daughter Kay was home from college and Lt. Cmdr. and Mrs. Robert Slach dropped by to wish him well. They reported that their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Weitz and daughter, Susan, would be here from Tucson this week, Susan is going to celebrate her 11th birthday here next week.

Donald Hightower was in town a few days last week from Albuquerque, N.M., and visited with his wife's mother Mrs. Alberta Davis and children, and Mrs. Davis's genial dad, Ray Simpson.

Speaking of New Mexico, those dear friends of Cmdr. and Mrs. R. M. Whelpley, Capt. and J. C. Parham Jr., and children Marion and Lee of White Sands, are here as the Whelpley's house guests, enjoying our wonderful beach weather.

The Armed Service Y has a summer formal dance planned for the evening of June 29. On the Fourth of July the day will start with a volleyball game and will be climaxed by a picnic supper and patio dance.

Then on July 5 a repeat of the successful Scavenger Hunt will be held.

Wedding bells rang out not too long ago for Marine Sgt. T. L. Monstantino and Mrs. Monstantino, the former Janice Beach of Culver City. They honeymooned in Las Vegas. Another Marine who just left his bachelor days behind him is Cpl. Larry J. Harrington who married Peggy Huseman of Lakewood.

Allied Arts

Phillip Haynes will be featured soloist at the 8 p.m. meeting of Allied Arts International Tuesday in the Art Center, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Speaker will be Mrs. Logan W. Wheatley. The public is invited.

Vows Solemnized in Mission Nuptials

Mr. and Mrs. Leighton W. Hazlehurst

Historic Santa Barbara Mission provided a reverent setting for the wedding June 8 of Miss Patricia Anne Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Kennedy of San Mateo, and Leighton W. Hazlehurst, son of Mrs. Door Hazlehurst, 117-A Prospect Ave., and the late Col. Hazlehurst.

The young newlyweds honeymooned at Highlands Inn in Carmel and will summer in Long Beach. In the fall they will enroll at the University of California in Berkeley.

As they exchanged rings before the Rev. Gerald Ryan, the bride wore a white silk taffeta gown with chapel train and jeweled bodice. A queen's crown held her fragile fingertip length veil. On her prayer book she carried butterfly orchids and stephanotis.

Mrs. Frank Dobyns, Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority sister of the bride, and Mrs. Kim Munholland, sister of the bridegroom, matron of honor and bridal attendant respectively were attired in princess style ballerina gowns of ice blue silk taffeta, matching lace caps with veils and cascade bouquets of white begonias.

Jon Champeny, Kappa Sigma fraternity brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The 200 guests were seated by ushers, Gerald Michael Kennedy, brother of the bride, Anthony Brombilla and Richard Sibert, both fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

At the reception in Rockwood Woman's Club in the Channel City, Misses Mariam McFarland and Sally Phillips had charge of the guest book. The bridal couple cut a four-tier cake surrounded by bouvardia and placed on a point de venise cloth which had been shared by the bridegroom's sisters at their weddings. The bride's mother greeted guests in gray silk organza and the bridegroom's mother received in champagne lace. Both wore corsages of cymbidiums.

Among the wedding guests were Capt. and Mrs. B. J. Mead, Mr. and Mrs. John Munholland, Mrs. Dewey Mong of Long Beach and Mrs. Clark Burchfiel of Palo Alto.

The new Mrs. Hazlehurst was graduated this month from the University of California at Santa Barbara where she served as vice president of Kappa Alpha Theta and was a member of Cal Club, an honorary society. She will work toward her master's degree at UC, Berkeley.

After graduation from Wilson High School, where he excelled in track, the bridegroom continued his education at UC, Santa Barbara, where he was a Kappa Sigma and active in student body affairs. Grandson of Mrs. David Baker of Pasadena, he too will continue his education at UC, Berkeley.

All-White Theme for Sammons-Rudd Rite

Cascades of American beauty roses and pink carnations carried by her attendants were the only color accent in the all-white wedding theme which Miss Te Suzanne Rudd chose for her marriage to Barton Sammons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baird Sammons, 629 Ultimo Ave. The evening ceremony was performed in All Saints Episcopal Church by the Rev. Hiram B. Crosby in the presence of 250 guests.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rudd, 4231 Tulane Ave., selected a floor-length gown of imported Swiss organdy and a headpiece of seed pearls which fastened a fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a prayer book adorned with white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary Arthur Rudd, sister of the bride, was maid of honor; bridesmaids were Miss Ingrid Bloomfield, and Miss Karen Luberg; dainty Nancy Rudd, six-year-old sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

All wore identical dresses of white organdy, ballerina length. Seed pearl headdresses held their short illusion veils.

Completing the entourage were Baird Sammons, best man; and Gary Crawford, Ronald Beddow, James Thompson and Sheldon Gebb, ushers.

For the post-nuptial reception at Lakewood Country Club a pink and white theme was used in decorations and appointments. Mmes. Richard Kimball, Baird Sammons and Donald Drew assisted.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Wilson High School and attended Long Beach City College where she affiliated with Entre Nous and he with Order of Tilsmen. She completed her education at Long Beach State College and is a member of Alpha Phi.

After honeymooning at Las Vegas, the newly married couple will reside in Long Beach.

British Daughters to Host Anniversary Tea Tuesday

Celebrating their sixth anniversary, members of Cecil Rhodes Chapter of Daughters of the British Empire will sponsor their annual tea Tuesday at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, 7th and Atlantic Ave. Tea will be served between 1:30 and 3:30 p. m., and the public is invited for a nominal donation. Entertainment will be provided by the dancing troup of Yvonne Seymour of Bellflower.

The Daughters of the British Empire, a national organization, was founded in 1909 as the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, and in 1920 the group was renamed to its present title.

In March, 1951, a group of women met in the Lakewood Village home of Mrs. M. D. Tremellen to organize a chapter for the fast-growing north and eastern sections of Long Beach. Membership now covers the Los Altos, Lakewood, Bellflower, Artesia and Compton areas. Named after Cecil Rhodes, who established the Rhodes Scholarships at Oxford University in 1902, the chapter was granted its charter from the national society the following month.

The main objective of all DBE chapters is the support of homes in the United States for aged people of British birth. All units in the western district combine in various fund-raising activities that contribute to the four-unit home in Sierra Madre, which can house 30 guests.

Since its founding, the Cecil Rhodes Chapter has been active in other civic work. Educational scholarships have been given to three students at Long Beach City College; contributions have been made to the Lakewood Youth Canteen and the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation and many hours of service have been donated to the American Red Cross.

Women born in the British Isles or British possessions are invited to attend the meetings which take place the second Thursday of each month in members' homes. Such prospective members are Tuesday's tea, with further information available thorugh Mrs. R. J. Parsonson, regent. Mrs. C. E. Callison is in especially welcomed to attend charge of tea arrangements.

Open Meeting for Blue Star

All mothers of sons and daughters who have served in the Armed Forces are invited to attend a meeting of the Social and Sewing Club of Blue Star Mothers, Chapter No. 1 on Monday at 10 a. m. for a sandwich luncheon, in the home of Mrs. Beatrice Cather, 1421 Poinsettia St. There will be sewing for the Veterans Hospital.

Mrs. Agnes Reed will entertain the Night Group of Blue Star Mothers of America at her home, 2335 Cedar Ave., Monday at 7:30 p. m. for inducting new members before the social hour.

Jewell Club

MacArthur Park, Anaheim and Gundry, will be setting for an 11 a.m. meeting Thursday of the social and sewing club of Emily R. Jewell Tent No. 15, Daughters of Union Veterans. Sandwich luncheon will be enjoyed at noon.

Work Wins Gold Award

Mrs. Fred R. Schwarz, president of the Kenny Auxiliary, and auxiliary campaign chairman for the Foundation, received a gold candle award for meritorious service at the fourth annual Clubs Recognition Breakfast at the Statler Hotel, Los Angeles. Representatives attended from the 462 clubs in this vicinity which participated in the recent campaign.

Mrs. Stanley Solomon of Long Beach was given a special award for her poem, "Kenny Horizons," read by Mrs. C. J. Troost, president of CFWC Juniors.

Other Long Beach members who attended the affair were Mmes. Lester B. Cooper, Rose Gustafson, Robert G. Fussell, Thomas Carr, Walter D. Brown, Gertrude Winslow, Philip M. Thompson; and James R. Pino, campaign chairman for the Long Beach area.

Joseph R. Jones, chairman of the Kenny Foundation board was master of ceremonies. Featured entertainers were the Robert Mitchell Boys' Choir and Miss Marge Behan, vocalist. A polio victim, Miss Behan sang from her wheel chair. Among other numbers, the choir sang "Sunny Side of the Street," which they recently performed before the Pope at the Vatican during a tour of the Holy City.

FOR MERITORIOUS SERVICE

Admiring the gold candle award presented to Mrs. Fred R. Schwarz (second from left) at the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation clubs recognition breakfast in Los Angeles, are Joseph R. Jones (left), Mrs. Lester B. Cooper and James R. Pino. Silver and gold candle award shields were given to persons who had given outstanding service to the organization.

Hillman-Canfield Nuptials Read in German Chapel

Flying halfway around the globe to speak her nuptial vows, Barbara Jane Canfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dell Canfield, Compton, became the bride of PFC. Richard John Hillman in services at the Army post chapel in Darmstadt, Germany.

Following a honeymoon trip to Berchtesgaden, the couple is living in Bad Kreuznach, where the bridegroom is assigned to the 2nd Armored Division.

Given in marriage by her uncle and attended by her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Corey of Darmstadt, the bride wore a gown of white tulle and embroidered taffeta. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a headpiece of embroidery.

Private Hillman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hillman, Compton, selected Pfc. Jack Watkins as his best man.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Corey entertained at a reception in their home.

The new Mrs. Hillman is a graduate of St. Anthony's High School and Compton College. Her husband was graduated from Compton College and Long Beach State College.

Herald E. Jones

Chef of the Week

Here's 'Scoop' on Tamale Pie From Ice Cream Man

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

In this case, the profound declaration of a good wife is—"My Casey (not Willie) can do anything." And, says she, "the trouble is, he does."

Chef of he Week Herald E. (Casey) Jones gets paid, however, for being the metropolitan district manager of Golden State Dairies, the position to which he was just promoted on his fortieth anniversary with that company.

Jones' business has always been in the creamery field. He first managed a creamery in San Pedro, his birthplace, by the way, where he remained until 1928. 'Twas then that Golden State became the company's name, and he became manager at Santa Monica then on to Ventura before coming to Long Beach in 1935.

Not only does he produce the ice cream for Los Angeles and Orange Counties, but oversees two large milk production plants, as well. Jones is familiar, also, with each process — from cow to consumer, for he started as a milk route jockey, went on to the processed milk field, and finally to ice cream manufacturing. Incidentally, his career was interrupted for a time while he served with the 16th Ammunition Train during World War I.

As a boy, the San Pedro Harbor was "the ole swimmin' hole" for him and his row boat — and old Dobbin provided his transportation from San Pedro to Long Beach. That day came, however, when he became the proud owner of a Crow Elkhart—(that's an automobile) —in 1914.

Aside from protecting his harem — five little granddaughters—two daughters and his wife—(he does just happen to have a son)—he has found time to build both a rumpus room and a music room, and to encourage a garden second to none.

A member of the Arthur Peterson Post, he also belongs to the Long Beach Lions Club. He began roaring in 1929 with the Ventura Lions.

Today he's sharing his recipe for Tamale Pie with us.

TAMALE PIE

2 small onions
1 clove garlic
1½ lb. ground beef
⅓ cup salad oil or bacon drippings
1 can whole kernel corn
1 tblsp. salt
1 to 3 tsp. chili powder (depending on taste)
2 small cans tomato sauce
1 can ripe olives (drained)
1½ cups milk
1 cup yellow cornmeal
2 eggs, beaten

Fry onions, garlic and ground beef in oil. Mix dry cornmeal in remaining ingredients. Add all together, mix well, turn into greased casserole. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 min. Few minutes before removing from oven sprinkle grated cheese over top.

Transfer Bid Seldom Used

In this last article on the JTB for awhile I will bring up a few final features. The first feature is that the bid is only used in response to the opening bid of one no-trump. We may extend it to other no-trump situations some day, but so far it is only on the opening.

The second feature is that if second hand overcalls, the transfer bid is not made at the two level. You either abandon the transfer bid entirely or you move it up to the four level for use with hands such as spades K J 9 6 5 3 2, hearts 8 6, diamonds 5 4, clubs 2.

3 N.T.	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠ Q

Assuming that your partner's opening no-trump has been overcalled by a bid of two hearts you may bid four hearts as a transfer to spades. Obviously, business will be better if your partner played the hand and you do want to be in game.

In today's hand my son, Jim, opened an absolute maximum one no-trump. His partner's two spade response was the club transfer but Jim decided to mutiny and bid three no-trump. He was sure that his partner would hold six clubs and that meant six club tricks at no-trump. He hoped for three tricks in the other suits.

He was lucky. West had a natural spade lead and Jim romped home with his expected six club tricks and one in each of the other suits.

His bid of three no-trump had been a calculated risk that paid off.

Dear Abby

It All Depends on the Bar!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: After 12 years of marriage I find that my husband has been seeing other women. I could excuse the make-up and lipstick marks I found on his topcoat and on his suits and shirts, but, I have found make-up marks on the T-shirts he wears UNDER his shirt. Please tell me, Abby, could this happen in a bar?—UPSET WIFE

ABBY

DEAR UPSET: In any bar where a man is permitted to remove his shirt, this could happen.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a plump girl of ten years and every time my father gets near me he pinches me. It hurts and he won't stop. When I complain he says they are "love pinches," but they hurt just like "mad pinches." Please tell me what to do?—PINCHED

DEAR PINCHED: Bite his ear . . . and tell him they are "love bites."

* * * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO HARRY: A little "horse sense" could prevent many divorces—and also marriages. Watch out!

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 22 and very much in love with a boy who is not of my faith. I know my folks would never consider letting me marry him knowing this, so I have never introduced him to them. We plan to introduce him under a different name and let them get to know him and like him for what he is, and then later (when they approve of him as a person) we will tell them the truth. We feel he would have a fair chance this way. What do you think of our plan?—ROCHELLE

DEAR ROCHELLE: Not much! If you get away with it at first (which is doubtful) when it comes time to tell the truth, your parents will dislike him all the more for deceiving them. Better reconsider!

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 25 years old and have a good steady job, but outside of that I am nothing extra-special. I have been going with a nice, quiet girl for over a year. She is 17. Her father is dead so when I asked her to marry me she said, "Ask my mother," so I asked her mother. Her mother said yes, it was all right with her. Then I asked my girl how about setting a date and she said, "Now I am not sure about marrying you!" So I said, "Why didn't you tell me that before I asked your mother?" She got very red and said she only wanted to know if her mother would LET her get married—not especially to ME. Well, I blew my top. Should I see this girl again, or should I forget her?—GARY

DEAR GARY: This girl needs to grow up before marrying YOU or ANYONE ELSE. You were lucky to find out how childish she was before tying the knot.

Worry Clinic

Men Have Blame, Too, in Mental Upsets, Trials

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Case V-312: Mona M., 32, an irate wife who thinks I always pick on the wives.

If you have followed this clinical column in practical psychology for at least a full year, you will recall that I do not exempt the men from all blame.

True enough, my emphasis is usually on the part the aggrieved wife can play to regain her husband's devotion. But that's because I usually must work through the wife, since the husband may refuse to apply for advice.

Besides, there are about 5,000,000 more unmarried adult women than men, so there aren't enough husbands to go around. Women must thus fight harder to retain their claim to their husbands!

Women are generally more self-sacrificial in trying to hold their home together so they can thus furnish a happier place for their children to live.

I admit that wives are more openminded in seeking expert outside advice, and they are more diligent in trying to make a success of their marriage, when they have the full facts.

* * * *

I HAVE outlined many faults of husbands such as the following:

Many husbands are still tied to mama's apron strings, so I have advised prospective brides to visit their future in-laws and be sure to get the fullest possible picture of their mate's background;

Some husbands are also excessively stingy with money. This may stem from their deep inferiority complex which makes them believe they cannot hold the undying devotion of a wife against the bidding of other men. So such husbands hang on to the purse strings as a means of trying to keep wives in a suppliant position, thereby reassuring their wounded male ego.

Other men, after marriage, succumb to a belief they are sexually below par, so they also employ wealth as a symbol of male dominance. Smart wives reassure such frightened mates in the erotic realm, after which those husbands may become quite generous with money.

* * * *

HUSBANDS also are chronic buck-passers. They tend to blame their wives for everything that goes wrong. Adams started this fad by passing the buck to Eve regarding the forbidden fruit in the Garden of Eden.

Men crave far more gastric calories than do women. But there is an even greater disparity in the erotic realm, yet many old-fashioned wives refuse to admit this fact. So they try to ration their mates in the erotic realm and thus cause the men to become sarcastic, fault-finding and cruel even to the innocent children.

After the age of 45, men often get panicky about their masculine vigor and demonstrate what I have long termed the Ponce de Leon Complex. They start chasing around after younger, more seductive females, largely to reinflate their waning vigor. Smart wives can stop this rapidly.

Just send for the booklet "How to Prevent Impotence in Men." It's cheap insurance against divorce.

Please enclose a long, 3-cent stamped self-addressed envelope and 20 cents in requesting a Dr. Crane Bulletin. Address: Dr. George W. Crane, in care of Hopkins Syndicate, Mellott, Ind.

Why Grow Old?

These Three Ingredients Make Life Worth Living

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

If we are to keep our daily lives from falling into ruts, if life is to glow for us, we must see that our existence has certain ingredients. The first and most important one is a love of life. Those folks who find existence full of magic and fun and adventure bring zest to it because of their own attitude and approach.

Our lives also have a change of pace. In every career, whether it be that of a housewife, an actress, a writer or a musician must practice her scales and lessons just as the housewife must do the same chores over and over again.

If no new activities and interests and experiences are added we lose sight of the big view. We become caught in our little shells of fixed attitudes and activities. We become ingrown and our horizons narrow rather than expand. Just one simple new interest can make the day exciting.

The third thing life must have is melody. I mean this literally as well as figuratively. Since the beginning of time man has been stimulated, consoled and relaxed by music. I think many folks are starved for music and do not know it.

However there is melody of an even more important kind in daily living if you take time or have the approach to find it. There is the melody of laughter, of warmth, of understanding, of keen awareness of the wonderful people and the beautiful scenes about us.

There is the melody in sudden recognition of togetherness, or belonging, in the kindred spirit between two people. This may occur with an old friend, a new friend, a person you have just met.

There is the melody in sudslanting through the trees, of a robin on her nest, of seeds turning into flowers.

I thought of these three ingredients recently when listening to some classical music on our Hi-Fi. The change of pace in some compositions was intriguing and the melody pouring out was exciting.

I must have melody if life is to sing for me but I need have no worries on that score because it is all about me—in great music and popular music—in the people I know—in the world about me. All I have to do is find it! What about you?

Disaster on Mormon Island

By Alys Phreaner

NO ONE alive today knows exactly what caused the explosion aboard the 500-foot tanker Markay, early on the morning of June 22, 1947, but the entire Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor area is better safeguarded today as a result of the greatest disaster in local waterfront history.

"That was a night I'll never forget," says Joseph Smithers, chief pumpman of the ill-fated ship, who still visits this area two or three times a month on coastwise tankers.

At 2:05 on that Sunday morning 10 years ago, the Markay rested quietly at her moorings alongside the Shell Oil docks on Mormon Island, taking on a mixed load of petroleum products. That portion of the cargo which included diesel fuel, aviation gasoline and stove oil was already aboard and the third mate was supervising the loading of red ethyl gasoline and highly volatile butane-blended gasoline.

ALL OF THE required safety measures were being observed and, in addition, because of the high combustibility of the butane-blended commodity, further precautions were taken. All watertight doors were kept closed, the portholes were closed and dogged, and no smoking was allowed anywhere on the vessel. The galley was locked and crew members had been taken into Wilmington for their evening meal.

The night was sultry under a partially clouded sky. Such a faint breeze moved up the channel and across the ship toward the dock that it scarcely stirred the heavy vapors flowing out through the ullage holes of the Markay's tanks and they hung in a noxious blanket above the hot steel decks. The fumes pressed relentlessly into the officers' quarters in the midship housing, where the radio operator and the shipping company's port captain were sleeping.

AT MIDNIGHT, because of the stuffiness and the accumulated fumes in his room amidships, the chief mate had taken a pillow from his bunk and gone out to sleep in his car, parked in the terminal yard a hundred feet or so from the ship. And so his life was spared when, at approximately 2:06 a.m., the tranquil vessel shuddered with the impact of a violent explosion.

Instantly, the thick layer of gasoline vapors ignited and within seconds the ship was enveloped in fire as the flames roared upward from the tank tops like giant blowtorches. A great stream of burning gasoline spurted from a ruptured tank directly abaft the midship housing, and within three minutes it had swept across the smooth surface of the water to set afire the docks on the opposite side of the channel. As the gases in adjacent tanks ignited, explosion followed explosion in rapid succession, hurling blazing steel fragments into the air to spread destruction farther ashore. Newspaper accounts reported that the blasts were felt for at least 12 miles and the flames were visible for the same distance.

"I SPENT SEVERAL hours uptown that evening," Smithers said, "but got back to the Markay about 9:30 and went to bed. When the explosion woke me up, I ran back to the fantail and slid down a stern line to the dock."

More than a dozen other crew members who were also in the afterdeck housing reached shore as Smithers did, by sliding down the stern mooring lines or by diving into the water and swimming to safety, but three or four men were overcome by smoke in the dark passageways before they were able to escape. Eight crew members and the port captain, as well as three wharfingers working on the pier, were counted dead or missing in the catastrophe.

THE FIRE RAGED for 12 hours before it was brought under control, and the Markay's twisted hulk smouldered for two days longer as she lay at her berth. The shattered midship section settled to the bottom of the harbor.

The oil pier and installations alongside the tanker were completely destroyed. Six storage tanks in the vicinity and the freight warehouses across the channel were gutted by the fire. Including the ship itself, valued at 2½ million dollars, the total damage was estimated at 10 million dollars.

On Wednesday, June 25, a U. S. Coast Guard investigation board convened to determine, if possible, the cause of the explosion and "above all, to prevent further occurrence of such tragedies." For two weeks, the group of Coast Guard officers listened to the testimony of survivors and witnesses, visited the Markay's charred hulk and weighed their findings.

SO TWISTED and torn were the Markay's bulkheads that it was impossible to determine whether the initial blast had occurred within the tank being loaded with butane-blended gasoline or in the vapors accumulated in the midship housing, which was melted into an almost unrecognizable mass by the intense heat. Possibly a static electricity spark had ignited the vapors, or perhaps one of the men in the midship quarters awakened and turned on a light or flicked the switch of an electric fan. No one will ever know.

From the hearing, however, came recommendations concern-

Grandma's a Daredevil!

By Bob Whearley

AT THE MOMENT, Grandma Brown is retired to her cozy little honeymoon nest at 1080 Elm Ave. But if you peek under her rocking chair, chances are you'll find a pair of paratrooper boots, size 6, and a revised schedule of upcoming air shows.

If you're worried about the propriety of nosing about under the rocker—fear not. Grandma probably will be off having herself a ball up in the wild blue.

With 62 parachute jumps to her credit, 41-year-old Emily Brown now has left the air show circuit to become Mrs. James C. Myers, wife of a Long Beach Coast Guard chief yeoman.

The chief grounded Grandma right after their April 27 wedding, and she had to cancel her bookings for jumps at shows in Canada and Czechoslovakia. No more wing stands, either. But nothing was said about flying (Grandma's a pilot, too.)

JUST HOW LONG Grandma's retirement will last is a matter of speculation. And those who know her best—her three married daughters—won't even venture a guess. She's surprised them too many times.

A trim, well-groomed brunette who closely resembles comedienne Martha Raye, Emily got started on her career as a professional daredevil because she couldn't turn down a nickel bet.

In the fall of 1954, she was vacationing in Fowler, Mich. One day, she went flying with a friend who introduced her to an acquaintance of his.

Later, over coffee in the airport snack bar, the topic of conversation got around to parachute-jumping and just what special kind of courage it took to dive out of a plane from a couple thousand feet in the air.

"Oh, I don't know," said Emily, airily. "It doesn't sound very dangerous to me."

HER FRIEND'S FRIEND drew himself up.

"Young lady, I'll bet you couldn't do it!"

"How much do you bet?" demanded Emily, who never was able to turn down a dare.

"A nickel. And if you jump, I will, too."

"You're on," said Emily.

She was at the airport bright and early the next morning. She checked out a parachute, all the while "kind of hoping this fellow would back out."

There was no sign of the man. But Emily went ahead with her part of the deal.

Her friend flew her to 2,000 feet in his plane and patiently circled the field. Swallowing hard to keep her heart in place, Emily pushed open the door and crawled out onto the struts.

"I kept wondering if I was doing the right thing," she recalls. "But, doggone it, I had made myself a bet and I wasn't about to back down. Whatever I've set my mind to, I've been able to do."

ABOVE THE ROAR of the engine, the words of the pilot rang in her ears:

"Emily, you got to remember—pull that ripcord. When you jump, there's not a thing I can do for you. I'm not going to land until I see you're safe on the ground."

Only Emily Brown could have read any humor into this warning. ("What on earth would he have done if the chute hadn't opened?" she wonders.)

Summoning up all her courage, Emily took a long look down.

It didn't help.

She closed her eyes for a second and heard the pilot yell: "Are you going to jump?"

"Doggone it, yes!" cried Emily.

And down she went, feet first.

"It's hard to put into words exactly what it was like," she says. "When you clear the plane, somehow you begin to feel wildly independent; you're floating in air, the wind wailing past your ears, and you start wondering if you really will remember to pull that ripcord."

EMILY REMEMBERED. She's sure she would have done it unconsciously, even if she had blacked out on her way down.

The pilot chute sprang out of her backpack, pulling the main parachute after it. With a sudden, plopping sound, the white nylon canopy filled with air and put the brakes on her descent.

"It was the most glorious feeling I've ever had in my life," Emily says. "I knew right away that this was for me."

Her sudden addiction to parachute jumping came as much of a surprise to Emily herself as it did to her friends and family.

But, then, Emily had been doing the unexpected all of her life.

Born in Sneedville, Tenn., Emily left home at 13 to get married. Her first husband, an interior decorator, died five years ago.

IN THE SUMMER OF 1944, Emily began taking flying lessons at Kenilworth, Ill., where she was operating a restaurant.

"There was something strange and wonderful about the thought of flying," she says. "I don't want to say that it's like feeling you're mightier than anyone else, but that's as close as I can come to it."

When her husband died, Emily found the sedate life of a small town widow didn't appeal to her. Her three girls—Arabella, Mary and Lois—were married and raising children of their own. Emily's health was good and she always had liked outdoor activities.

What happened after that impromptu jump at Fowler gave her the idea of becoming a professional parachutist. She admits she "wanted to make some money and I didn't know of any other grandmothers in air show work."

AFTER THE JUMP, a man approached her and identified himself as a fair promoter. He asked her if she'd care to jump at one of his shows.

Emily said she would be happy to—for $500.

The promoter informed her the going rate was $200.

"It's a deal," said Emily.

A few days later, she made her second jump. No hesitancy this time. Grandma Brown was in business.

She made several other jumps in the Illinois-Michigan area, and in the summer of 1955 placed an advertisement in Trade-a-Plane, an aviation publication, seeking jobs as a professional jumper.

She received more than 100 replies—most of them "from people who wanted to offer me every kind of job under the sun except jumping."

Among the letters she received was one from John Fitzpatrick, a 34-year-old Emmetsburg, Iowa, air show performer who was looking for a partner. They arranged a meeting, and hit it off from the first.

IN THE SUMMER OF 1955, they made 10 jumps together at various shows from New York to Oklahoma City. Once on the air show circuit, Emily added a wing-riding act to the duo's repertoire.

For the act, she used a Stearman 450 monoplane which had a metal stand secured to the top of the fuselage. She strapped herself against the metal railing and hung on while the plane took off and circled the field. To top off the act, Emily plucked a handkerchief off the ground while the plane flew upside down.

She didn't use a parachute for that act.

"I really should have," she admits. "but I think it would have made it look like it was too easy. The more dangerous an act is, the bigger the crowds. Besides, at the altitudes we did our tricks a chute wouldn't have been much use."

In August 1955, while Emily and John were appearing in their 10th air show together at Escanaba, Mich., misfortune struck. Fitzpatrick's parachute partially collapsed in the air, and he hurtled to earth, breaking his back.

IT WAS THE FIRST serious parachuting accident Emily had witnessed. But it didn't change her mind about the business. She personally arranged a benefit air show for John in his home town, raising money to pay his medical bills.

Fitzpatrick was in a cast for four months. Doctors say he never will jump again.

Grandma Brown had to do her jumping alone after that.

In her performances, she jumped with two parachutes—a backpack carrying a canopy of 28-foot diameter and a reserve pack, attached to the front of her harness, carrying a 24-foot chute.

AFTER 62 JUMPS, Emily doesn't feel especially lucky in never having had a serious accident. Even in retirement (at this writing) she keeps in trim with an hour of pushups and other exercise each morning.

She's been injured only once in a jump—last June in an air show at Chicagoland Airport.

Emily had made a perfect landing and was gathering in the suspension lines when a nearby photographer yelled at her to look up.

"I looked," said Emily. "Before I knew what was happening, a guest of wind whipped open my chute

Dorene Porter, 18, Long Beach actress, improves her diction playing records.

Relaxing at home, Dorene keeps in touch with motion picture activities through fan magazines. Her favorite relaxing apparel is this filmy and wispy negligee.

Lakewood's MM Goes Hollywood

By Bob Shotwell

THE LATEST contribution that this area has made to the Hollywood motion picture industry is a shapely young Long Beach girl who was "discovered" by a Hollywood talent agency as she performed the leading role in the Lakewood Players production of "Bus Stop."

Dorene Porter, 6385 Lewis Ave., has been launched on a trip to stardom that reportedly will parallel or exceed the publicity campaigns utilized for Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield.

The attractive young lass has all the necessary qualifications to make the campaign a terrific success. She is 5 feet 5 inches tall and statistically measures 38¼-22½-35. Her age, 18, is one of the greatest factors in her favor.

Since her "discovery" she has appeared in two motion pictures, and on numerous television shows.

HER FIRST movie role was in "The Barney Ross Story" which later was changed to "Monkey on My Back." She said that during one of the shooting sessions for the movie there were from 25 to 30 fighters and ex-fighters on the set, in addition to the cast for the film.

Her last motion picture appearance was in the part of one of Cornel Wilde's girl friends in "Devil's Hairpin." The film is a Paramount production. During one of the scenes she was "on camera" alone with Wilde for a nightclub sequence.

ALTHOUGH her body falls in the category of "genus-M" (Monroe-Mansfield), she would like to be recognized for her acting ability. Most of the casting directors and producers in Hollywood refer to her publicity buildup and her appearance as "sexy" and her agent is glad that they recognize her physical value.

Dorene doesn't mind the reference, although her primary interest does lie in acting. The money is important, but it isn't as important as the art of acting.

Her acting career began in Long Beach, but the big break came with her "Bus Stop" appearance.

As a child, an attractive one, she attended school at Grant Elementary School, Lindbergh Junior High, and Jordan High School. She always has been interested in acting, and constantly has tried to improve herself in diction, poise, and appearance.

Most of her admirers feel that she has achieved the ultimate as far as appearance is concerned, and her acting efforts are bound to pay off.

APPARENTLY her admirers are many-fold because she was selected as the queen of the Southern California Boat Show held recently in the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles.

In addition, she was one of the finalists in the "Miss Welcome" contest for Long Beach this year. A technicality in the rules for contestants eliminated her in the final judging.

Dorene's latest motion picture interview was for a part in the next Elvis Presley movie. They needed a cute, petite blonde for the part, and Dorene certainly fills those qualifications. She doesn't know yet if she has been accepted for the role, but expects to be notified by the studio.

SHE PRESENTLY IS appearing in fashion shows conducted by Southern California clothing manufac-

Sparkling actress strikes a ballet pose before her mirror. She works hard to maintain versatility for roles in movies.

Underneath her voluptuous exterior, Dorene is a modest, demure young woman. At home she is free of pretense.

TELEVISION

They've Put Clint Walker in a Tux!

Clint Walker, western TV star, prefers informal garb (r.), but recently was buffaloed into putting on a tuxedo (left).

THE SIX-FOOT-SIX frame of Clint Walker, star of TV's "Cheyenne" series, has finally been draped in a tuxedo . . . and he doesn't like it.

The whole thing came about when he was told to attend a Hollywood premiere and that it was a formal affair. Since Clint owns cowboy outfits and his "formal" attire is strictly a Western-type garb, he figured that would suffice.

By Terry Vernon

Independent, Press-Telegram Television Columnist

His wife, Lucille, decreed otherwise since she had just purchased a new formal gown for the affair and thus it was that "Cheyenne" became a member of "tuxedo junction."

Clint did manage to wear black cowboy boots with his formal attire, and instead of the conventional tight black bow tie he used a black Western string bow.

ACTUALLY THE BIG star says he can tie almost any kind of knot known to seafaring men since he had lots of training in the Merchant Marine . . . but he just "ain't no hand at them bow ties."

"I thought I could attend the thing as a sort of ad for 'Cheyenne'" he recalls, "but Lucille, in her quiet way, had made other plans for me and, before I knew it, I was squeezing my frame into the monkey suit with the satin lapels.

"Before the evening was over I was fit to be tied. And, believe me, I was out of that thing and into my blue jeans as soon as we got home."

Walker loves blue jeans and wears them constantly.

PERHAPS HIS trouble with sartorial splendor stems from his early days in Alton, Ill. He was a big boy and the hand-me-downs from his six brothers wouldn't fit him at all. He did odd jobs around town and bought his first suit when he was 14, and he felt so uncomfortable in it that he wore it only for church and social occasions.

When he was 15, Clint was called "Sonny" or "Eugene" and left home for St. Louis seeking employment. His first job was as a busboy in a hotel, but the management couldn't fit his outsize frame in a white coat and he lost out.

Uniform troubles dogged him in other jobs, too—caddy, bellhop, Western Union messenger and Las Vegas deputy sheriff. However, the deputy assignment did lead him to Hollywood and stardom, and he still has his uniform in the closet, "just in case."

Pacific Run

Entry of one of the world's oldest and largest steamship groups into the Pacific trade has been announced by W. F. Hanniver, Los Angeles manager for the Cunard Line.

The Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Co., or "P&O," has scheduled its liner Himalaya for entry into a joint service with the Orient Line between San Francisco and the South Seas and Australia, to sail April 11, 1958.

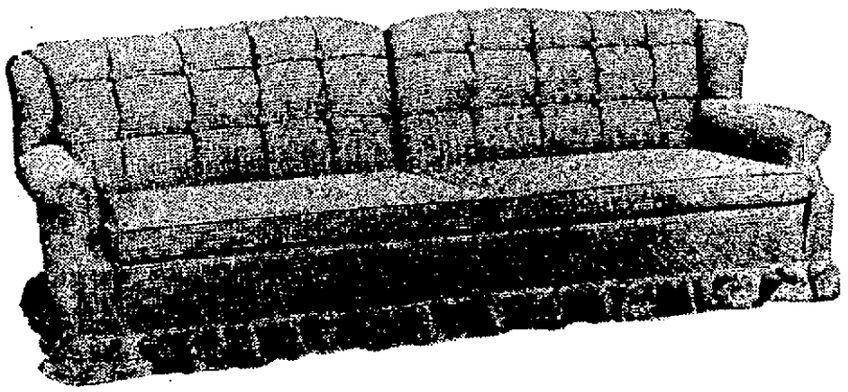

The Himalaya is 709 feet long, of 27,955 gross tons with speed of 22 knots and accommodations for more than 700 first class and 400 tourist class passengers.

This is a preliminary arrangement to the permanent joint service which will operate when the new 45,000-ton P&O liner and the new 40,000-ton Orient Line Orlana are completed about 1960.

The Orient Liner Orcades will be in Long Beach July 3 and will pick up nearly 400 passengers for the tropical cruise through the Panama Canal to Europe. The speed of these vessels permits the completion of the journey in 17 days with calls at the canal and Trinidad.

Fifteen Tips on How to Paint Your House

By Andrew C. Lang

THINKING ABOUT painting the outside of your house? Here are 15 tips that will help you to get a professional result:

Paint when the temperature is above 50 degrees, preferably somewhere near 70. You can paint successfully when the temperature is considerably higher than 70 if the humidity is not too high. Avoid painting when there is heavy dew, immediately after a rain or when a storm is in prospect.

If at all possible, try to paint the side of the house that is shaded, then follow the sun around so that you are always painting where the sun already has been. This prevents the hot sun from drying the paint too rapidly, as well as making it more comfortable for you.

Use a wire brush or a scraper to remove any old paint that is blistering, peeling or flaking. Follow with steel wool or sandpaper to smooth rough edges. And carry an old, clean paint brush in your back pocket to remove any accumulated dust.

MILDEW CAN be scrubbed off with a solution of trisodium phosphate and household ammonia or a special mildew remover. Where there is reason to believe the trouble may occur again, use a mildew-resistant paint. Mildew usually takes place on parts of the structure ordinarily not touched by the sun.

Calk thoroughly around window frames and doors and wherever one type of building material is joined to another. Replace "popped" nails and see whether any of the windows need reputtying.

All screens, shutters and other attachments of that nature should be removed, cleaned and repainted separately.

Get rust off all metal surfaces, using steel wool and following with red lead, aluminum paint or a special metal primer.

FOR SAFETY, the base of the ladder should be far enough from the house to equal one-fourth the height of the ladder. Thus, with a 20-foot ladder, the base of it would be five feet from the house.

Even though most stores now have agitators which mix the paint before you bring it home, the paint should be "boxed" by you. Boxing consists of pouring off most of the liquid into a second container and stirring the remaining pigment, then gradually pouring back the liquid as you keep stirring. The final step is to pour the paint back and forth between the two containers several times.

The siding usually should be painted first, all the trim and sash second. But there are times, when working on high peaks, when it is more practical to paint both the siding and the trim while the ladder is in the correct position. Dip the brush about half way, pat off the excess on the inside of the can, use wide, firm strokes and always work in toward the wet paint.

IF USING a roller, the regular type is fine for the flat surfaces, but a special, small lap roller should be used for getting paint on the underedges of clapboard and similar sidings.

Probably the fastest of all methods of painting the outside of a house is by spraying, but extra precautions must be taken

THE FRENCH HAVE A PHRASE FOR IT

'Le Jury Grand'

By Blaine Nels Simons

THE FRENCH have a phrase for it—"le jury grand." In this manner they differentiate between a large jury and a "petit," or small, jury.

The petit jury has, in name, generally disappeared today and has become, instead, a trial jury or coroner's jury. The grand jury, however, retains its name as it has through the centuries.

And there is something in the name to be kept. "Grand" is the French for large, and in the way the French say it there is a certain aura of magnificence and power in the name itself. The description fits present-day grand juries. They are, indeed, a magnificent and powerful bulwark of our democratic system.

THERE ARE two types of grand juries — those operating under state and those operating under federal law. The latter make the splashier national headlines. They indict for federal laws violated. In their nets are caught the big fish of interstate crime. They have nailed men like Al Capone on income tax evasion and, very recently, Dave Beck who, for all his maneuverings, could not escape the grand jury.

Locally, our Los Angeles County Grand Jury inquires into and investigates crimes closer to home, closer to us. They are constituted almost similarly with the Federal Grand Jury though operating under state law. Section 192 of the California Code of Civil Procedure defines a grand jury as:

"A body of persons, nineteen in number, returned in pursuance to law, from the citizens of a county, or city and county, before a court of competent jurisdiction, and sworn to inquire of public offense(s) committed or triable within the county, or city and county."

IN CONSIDERING the grand jury we here are more concerned with the operation and powers and limitations of this jury rather than how it is initially formed.

The definition of the grand jury defines its general powers. In a word, it "inquires." Through this simply given power, however, it has a broad field in which to exercise. All criminal offenses committed or that legally can be tried in court in this county can be investigated by the grand jury.

Of these, it may inquire into matters brought to their attention by grand jury members themselves, by private citizens, by the police or district attorneys.

Though it is generally supposed that their complete source of information comes from police or district attorneys and they sometimes are maliciously called the "tool of the D.A. and police," quite the contrary is true. In Los Angeles County and throughout the country there are cases where grand juries have indicted district attorneys, their staffs, or police figures for various crimes. They owe allegiance to no one when it comes to inquiring into local crime.

SECRECY is the keynote of the grand jury operation. As the trial jury decides its cases in secret, so does the grand jury accumulate its facts and decide on its indictments in secret. The reason is obvious. The public is protected from having pressures of various sorts placed on the grand jurors. Witnesses will talk more freely and juries inquire more freely where underworld reprisals and public limelight cannot interfere.

Persons under investigation cannot bring pressure, "cover their trails" or make a run for it to another country, for generally these people are as surprised as anyone else when indictments are returned against them; they didn't even know they were being investigated.

Unfortunately, there are particular instances in which witnesses' names are made public during investigations. Too, a bystander near the closed grand jury door can see witnesses come and go, and thus be apprised in some degree, perhaps, as to who is currently under investigation.

ONCE THE FACTS are gathered, the grand jury determines whether or not to return an indictment. The facts are, in brief, viewed from this point of view:

(1) Does it appear from them that a crime has been committed and

(2) if so, do these facts, as evidence in court, give the prosecuting attorney a probable chance to convict the accused.

If both are answered in the affirmative, the grand jury returns an indictment. Section 917 of the Penal Code describes an indictment as "an accusation in writing, presented by the grand jury to a competent court, charging a person with a public offense."

ONCE AN indictment is issued, prosecution commences. But under our system, only a grand jury can so inquire, only a grand jury can indict.

But with the power granted grand juries there also are limitations. It may "inquire of public offenses" only.

Fortunately, there are few "crusading grand juries" in the sense of stepping beyond specified powers. The vast majority of grand juries do their jobs well and are a distinct credit to the community.

THE GRAND JURY inquires and indicts, the trial jury listens to and decides particular cases before it, and the coroner's jury listens and recommends or advises as to particular cases. For other matters there is other legal machinery.

Aside form its usual duties, grand juries have also been given various similar powers. They have free access to public prison and public records. They have the full right to subpoena witnesses. It may investigate housing authorities, books and accounts of various county of-

What goes on behind this locked door? Secrecy is keynote of grand jury operation and of its success.

Modular Home Amid Old Trees

Interior of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Bengston, at 309 Roycroft Ave., is paneled in natural woods. This photo shows the comfortable living room.

JAPANESE builders have been utilizing the concept of modular buildings for ages, and now one of these structures has been constructed in Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Bengston, 309 Roycroft Ave., are living in such a delightful home. The exterior is redwood-and-batten stained a soft sage green. Its low pitched roof opens widely over the walls, giving it a secure, earthy appearance where Framed picture hangs from kitchen wall in way that frame forms legs and it can become breakfast table.

This view shows attractive yard around which the Bengstons' modular home is arranged in an L. Exterior of house is redwood and batten stained green.

it sprawls under the spreading boughs of many old trees. Actually, the placement of the house — the orientation of its rooms—was determined by the existence of these old trees.

This is the first home to be built in Long Beach under design of architect Cliff May.

The Bengstons have 1,600-square feet of space. All window, wall and door sections are five feet, four inches wide so that the sections may be interchanged according to the whims of the builder without upsetting the basic premise of the plan. Essentially modern in concept, the Bengstons chose to embellish the plan with provincial features which combine quite happily with the contemporary aspects of the structure.

THE FRONT DOOR opens to an entry hall which is, strictly, a hallway in the clearest sense of the word. At the end and to the left is the living room which, because of its placement off the street, has complete privacy despite the preponderant use of glass for double doors and windows.

Mahogany paneling surfaces the walls. Bengston, who did the building and all the finishing, has a strong affinity for woodwork and a great respect for a well-worked finish. Hence, the paneling throughout the house has a satiny texture which brings out the beauty of the wood.

Beige and tan long-looped wool carpet covers the floors, providing a practical and informal underfooting. The ceiling is pitched and finished smoothly in acoustical plaster.

Furnishings are Informal early American styling. Across from the brick fireplace stands a rust tweed-upholstered Lawson sofa flanked by unique step tables made by Bengston. Of unusual design, the maple tables have small drop leaves that flip up, when the occasion warrants, providing extra snack-surface space for televiewing. Over the sofa is a group of early American prints.

BEFORE A LONG glass expanse next to the fireplace is a pair of deep-cushioned chairs. One is a wide and high-backed wing chair upholstered in lime and hunter's green print fabric. The second is in soft lime green leather on squat provincial legs. Matching it is a large leather ottoman. Between the chairs is a quaint and lovely lyre table which has been in Mrs. Bengston's family for generations.

Opening to the living room from the kitchen is a service counter which may be closed off with folding shutters finished in a tone to match the mahogany paneling. It serves as a refreshment bar from the living room—a snack counter on the kitchen side.

THE KITCHEN IS paneled in honey-colored ash and floored in cork-patterned vinyl tile. Like the rest of the house, the kitchen, too, has large double glass doors opening to the exterior.

A vast amount of storage cabinets have been built in. Black hammered iron hardware highlights the light oak doors and drawers. A long, continuous counter surfaced in a glossy, pressed wood material spans across the shuttered pass-through into the living room. An assembly of short stools makes this an ideal place for breakfasting.

At one end of the long kitchen is the dining area. Hanging against the wall is a large picture framed in a heavy shadow box of ash. With the simple unhinging of this picture from the top, the frame swings away from the wall in such a way that it affords support for the "picture" which is backed with thick plywood. Hence, the dining table folds down off the wall and, when not in use, it conveniently attaches itself to the wall—out of the way, pictorially and practically.

OFF THE KITCHEN is the den. In here, a third choice of wood was made for the paneling. Knotty pine, rubbed to a glossy finish, surfaces the wall from floor to ceiling. On two sides of the room, glass panels in multiples of the module are curtained in burnt orange fabric that picks up and emphasizes one of the tones in the pheasant print fabric used on the sofa. A large drop leaf coffee table with lazy susan was made of maple by Bengston. High windows flood the area with light above "eye glare."

Three bedrooms complete the plan. The Bengstons' two sons, John and David, have their own rooms — each adequately supplied with hobby space in the form of built-in desks, model-display shelves and cabinet storage.

From Camera to Courtroom

Patrick B. Phelan, Long Beach attorney, hugs screen actress Mary Stewart in scene from his acting days.

By Don Maddock

HE'S ONLY 29 now, but Patrick B. Phelan already has marked up two successful careers.

The first was as a Paramount Pictures star.

The second, present, one is as a local attorney.

The high spot of Phelan's first profession was a lead role in a wartime film called "Miss Susie Slagle's." In that, he was paid to make love to Veronica Lake.

The major event to date in his life as a lawyer was a $163,000 judgment he obtained for his client in an assault and battery injury case. That still stands as the largest award to a single plaintiff in Long Beach court history.

PHELAN USED HIS own name in the movies, shortening Patrick to Pat. He was signed by Paramount to a seven-year contract in 1943, after a talent scout saw him at work in the Community Playhouse here.

"Miss Susie Slagle's" was his first picture. He made $85 a week for appearing opposite Miss Lake and with such other recognized stars as Sonny Tufts and Joan Caulfield.

He appeared in a Technicolor short — "College Queen" — in 1945. It was nominated for an Academy Award.

Pat sang and danced. He now admits he can't sing and isn't a very good dancer.

He said goodby to the movies and hello to the Army in January 1946. It really wasn't much of a change, though.

After basic training, Pat was assigned to Armed Forces Radio Service, obtaining talent for its shows. His station: Hollywood.

"Triple Threat" was on his calendar after he returned to civilian life in 1947. He played a halfback for the Los Angeles Rams, sharing the gridiron with such National Football League greats as Bob Waterfield.

PHELAN STARTED studying law at Southwestern University about the same time. By 1951, the pace was quite rough.

That year he worked in a television series, "Mysteries of Chinatown." Show work took all day Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. School work filled Monday night, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

He studied in his spare time.

The series eventually died for lack of a sponsor.

His transformation from actor to attorney was completed in 1952, when he was admitted to the California bar. Since Jan. 1, 1953, he has had an office in the Heartwell Building.

Phelan this year is attorney for Long Beach Board of Realtors. He served last year as president of the Barristers Club.

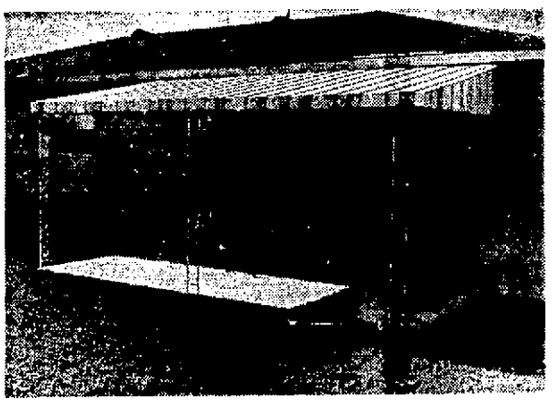

A Long Beach native, Phelan was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Long Beach City College. He and his pretty wife, Jerry, live at 1869 Pattiz Ave.

Brat From Bellflower

By Bob Houser

Melody Gale at 7: model, star of films, television.

MELODY Gale weighs a pound for each of her 43 inches—small for a moppet almost seven — but the brown-eyed, gold-blonde, winsome packaging of her has launched a career.

Melody, daughter of Jack and Connie Tregarthen, 8823 Flower St., Bellflower, plays a feature role in "The D.I.," Jack Webb's new Mark VII Ltd. film for Warner Bros. presentation June 19.

SHE PORTRAYS an incorrigible brat, a departure from her career in fashion modeling, movie and TV drama which started for Melody when she was three. Also a departure, says her mother, from her conduct at home where she mixes mud, climbs trees, bakes real cookies and tends a $200 Toy French Poodle she bought with her own substantial earnings.

Melody's career started with a still color photograph taken by a professional photographer. A woman agent saw the picture, interviewed Melody and family and won over her at-first-reluctant parents to a fashion and drama career.

Now she earns from $100 to $110 per working day and spends less than her $1 a week allowance. She did splurge on a new car for her parents, but it's in her name and referred to as "my car."

MELODY IDOLIZES her older sister, Gloria Carol, 11, more than any movie actress. She has a brother, Jack, 13, but does have a fairly solid crush on a Hollywood teammate of another movie she played in, "The Big Caper," with Rory Calhoun. She liked Rory before the film. The film cemented the romance.

Other Melody Gale credits include a Langendorf bread commercial on TV; "Crossroads" on TV with Stuart Irwin June 21; three parts in the "This Is the Life" Sunday television series; a "Whirlybirds" TV chapter due in a few weeks; "The Gallaghers Story" TV film with Bob Hope; a movie, "Uncle Charlie," with Walter Brennan, and others.

Jack Webb and Melody on "D.I." set. At home she mixes mud, plays with $200 poodle. She paid for family car.

La Reina Rule

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin and meansing of CROSTHWAITE and the coat-of-arms, if any. G.G., Garden Grove.

G.C.: Thank you for your complimentary letter which I have shortened. In northern England, which was heavily forested, clearings in the woods were called "Thwaites" from a Norse word "Thveit" meaning "open space." CROSTHWAITE was originally Crossthwaite, describing a clearing on which a cross had been erected as a shrine. The family home was built on the edge of this clearing. The Crosthwaite family originated in Cumberland, England, but the only recorded coat-of-arms is from a branch of the family in Ireland.It had a golden rampant lion between three gold crossespatte on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: .I would like your analysis of the name O'CONNOR—D. D'C., Long Beach.

D. O'C.—O'Connor is from the ancient Irish "O'CONCHAR." The family founder's name exemplified his mental and spiritual values, for O'Conchar meant "son of the man with high ideals." The progenitor of the Clan O'Conchar (later spelled O'Connor) was Terlagh O'Conchar who died in 1345. He was great-grandson of Roderick O'Chonchar, King of Connaught. The coat-of-arms of this family had a green oak tree on a silver shield. The original home of the O'Connors was in County Roscommon.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the analysis of the name CARR—Mrs. W. E. M.

Mrs. W.E.M.: CARR was introduced to England by Danish invaders in the 9th century. The Danish spelling was "Karr" which meant "marshy, swampy land." A family who living by a marsh took this word for their surname in the 12th century. "There is no deception." Gov. Caleb Carr of Rhode Island was the scion of the first family by this name in America. Among his descendants was Nicholas Carr, born in 1654.

DEAR MISS RULE: Will you please give the meaning and genealogy of the surname KIRCHHOFF or KIRKHOFF—R.K., Long Beach.

R. K.: KIRCHHOFF, shortened from the German name Kirch-Hoffer, was a name for a village churchyard attendant or warden. It was an honor in medieval times to be the trusted warden of the churchyard. In due course Kirch-Hoffer, his professional name, became his surname. The Kirchoff coat-of-arms from Bavaria proudly represents the source of the name. It has a little, picturesque stone church with a spired tower in the center of a silver shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give the origin, genealogy and coat-of-arms of the name ROGERS—Mrs. E.R.W., Bellflower; Mrs. E.L.R., Long Beach; Mrs. H.H.R., Lakewood.

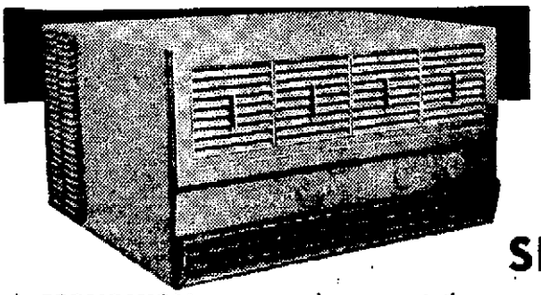

E.W., E. R. and H. R.:The Teutonic warrior-name 'ROGER' was brought to England from Germany by the Saxons early 12 centuries ago. It meant "famous spearman." One of the first men with the name is listed in the Domesday Book of 1066 as "Rogerus." The baronial coat-of-arms was granted the family in 1260, a silver shield with

Freak Steeple

Minus a church, this steeple in Dallington, Sussex, was built by an eccentric 18th century British squire who bet his friends that Dallington Church steeple could be seen from his lawn. When he discovered that he was wrong, he built a replica of the steeple (minus the church) in such a spot that the spire could be seen from his premises. Presumably his friends were hoodwinked into paying the bet.

Keep Calk Gun Handy

ONE OF THE most effective ways of protecting a house against the ravages of the weather is by calking all openings before they become too large.

Even a house that is completely weatherstripped is a long way from being weather-tight if there are dozens of crevices in it. These openings result from a number of causes, among them age, wear and contraction of certain materials.

In making a periodic check to determine whether, and where, these openings exist, look for these potential trouble spots:

THE SEAMS around windows and doors . . . the joints formed by the chimney against the house . . . the points where the front and back steps meet the outside wall . . . the places where wooden posts meet masonry walls and floors . . . joints where two different types of exterior finish are next to each other . . . where shingles overhang the edge of the roof . . . wherever there are vents or skylights . . . around basement windows . . . where shingles meet or are overlapped . . . and on farm buildings of all kinds.

Calking compound, which looks somewhat like putty, has one big virtue: it never dries completely. The surface becomes fairly hard, but underneath it remains flexible, expanding and contracting with the opening in which it is used. It is both airtight and watertight.

A CALKING GUN is the best way to apply the compound. A cartridge of the compound is inserted into the gun, which looks like the grease gun you may have seen your auto mechanic use. The gun pushes the material into an opening under pressure.

'Le Jury Grand'

ficials, certain sales or transfers of land, and report on the needs for increase or decrease in the salaries of county supervisors, district attorney or county auditors.

It can order the district attorney to institute suits for recovery of money due the county, and each member to inquire of all witnesses before them. Such powers, combined with their primary power earlier outlined herein, truly make the grand jury the "watchdog for the public," as they keep an eye on criminals and county officials alike.

AL CAPONE, Dave Beck, Art "Golden Boy" Aragon and H. J. "The Greatest" Caruso along with Confidential Magazine are but a few who have felt the sting of grand juries. Of the thousands who are indicted across the nation each year, some are freed by trial juries, others by appellate courts. Others, convicted, still maintain their innocence and of these many find public support.

But, by and large, indictments conclude in eventual convictions, attesting to the thoroughness of investigation and carefulness of deliberation of grand juries.

Being human, the jurors cannot be flawless, but in their devotion to their work and to protecting the public, they aid greatly in preserving our democratic system of government.

Old tire rim placed atop hole makes fine fire ring. An oven rack converts fire ring into an outdoor grill.

A Rim Full of Fun

By Marjorie Hall

AS OUTDOOR living is a must in California, we were anxious to join in this activity. Before the advent of the portable barbecue and with no finances to build a fancy brick one, we found we had a ready-made fire ring in our own back yard.

The removal of a dead tree in the yard had left a large hole, and no one ever seemed to get around to filling it up. We placed an old tire rim over the top of the hole, and by piling dirt around the top of it, found it served fine as a fire break and made the hole a bit deeper.

IT WAS THE answer to our ourdoor living, for we like hot dogs cooked over the coals of real burning wood.

Campouts in our back yard are enjoyed frequently by the neighborhood boys. By placing a discarded oven rack over the top of the rim, the boys are able to cook their own breakfast, which most certainly completes a camp out.

IN CASE you don't have any dead trees to remove, the tire rim can be placed anywhere in the yard. It can be picked up and moved when the lawn is mowed.

Tips on Painting

to protect surfaces which are not to be painted. Also, spraying outside should not be done on a windy day.

A good quality paint is a sound investment. Many house paints have a self-cleaning process . . . a controlled chalking which washes off when it rains, taking dust and dirt with it. Inferior-grade house paints chalk excessively, leaving unsightly streaks that do not always wash off with the rain.

GENERALLY, a gallon of undercoater will cover about 600 square feet of house. A gallon of finish paint, over an undercoater, will cover about 700 square feet.

Light colors will make a small house appear larger, especially if there is not too much contrast between the body and the trim. To make a tall house seem shorter, keep the upper part a dark color, the lower part light.

A NOTE TO EVERYONE WHO PLANS TO BUY OR SELL A HOME

a very safe place for your ESCROW

Let us first make it clear that an Escrow is not a bird. Escrow is part of the financial process of buying a home.* Between the time you make your down-payment and the time the seller receives the money, your funds are placed in Escrow with a third party, the Escrow-Holder.

WHY?

Escrow exists to protect both you and the seller. Your money in Escrow assures the seller that you have the purchase price for his property. Until the title is clear and all terms of the Escrow instructions are met, the Escrow-Holder will not turn your money over to the seller.

WHO IS THE ESCROW-HOLDER?

Selection of the Escrow-Holder is up to you. Naturally your major consideration is the safety of your money while it is in Escrow. For your protection, you will want to be sure of these three things:

- that the Escrow-Holder is stable and sound
- that the Escrow-Holder is fully experienced and can offer prompt service
- that the Escrow-Holder will completely protect your funds.

* Although we are talking here about buying or selling a home, Bank of America Escrow Service is available for the sale or purchase of any other form of real property, a business, and many forms of personal property.

REMEMBER: CONSULT WITH YOUR LOCAL REAL ESTATE BROKER.

Dean of the World's Travelers

By Garber Davidson
Associated Press Writer

A GREAT mechanical stream, the Hollywood Freeway, rushes through a gully and past a hill not far from the intersection of Hollywood and Vine.

On top of the hill lives Burton Holmes, an erect man of 87 summers—more than half of them spent in travel. Of his 87 winters more than half have been spent on the lecture platforms of America showing lantern slides and, later, movies of his travels.

Burton Holmes, dean of the world's travelers, is shown at Hollywood home, amid mementoes of a life of travel.

Holmes was the first man to use motion pictures to illustrate travel talks. But even that was more than half a century ago.

Today, he lives with his wife, Margaret, on his peaceful hill in a house he calls "Topside"—the former home of matinee idol Francis X. Bushman—and watches man hurry by.

THE QUIET, SHADED rooms of his rambling cottage are filled with figurines, pictures, scrapbooks, mementoes of a life of travel.

"The most sophisticated world traveler of them all," Lowell Thomas has called him.

His courtly airs, precise diction and witty and informative travel lectures delighted audiences as long as 58 years ago. His profile picture, dominated by his sharp goatee, was a trademark in his advertisements and literature.

Holmes' organization invented the word "travelogue." Holmes has defined it as: "The gist of a journey, ground fine by discrimination, leavened with information, seasoned with humor, fashioned in literary form and embellished by pictures that delight the eye, while the spoken word charms the ear."

IN 1950 HOLMES became ill and retired. His associates are carrying on. Each year audiences in nearly 100 American cities flock to rented halls to see the latest Burton Holmes travelogue. Narrated live by a lecturer.

Holmes can't give lengthy interviews. Briefly, he recalls a few high points. Where is his favorite place on this planet?

"The place I am going at the time is the most interesting."

HOLMES GOT HIS start in Chicago, where he was born Jan. 8, 1870, son of a family in comfortable circumstances. He quit school at 16 and his grandmother took him on a trip to Europe. With this the travel bug bit him and he never got over it. At the age of 20 he was taken again to Europe by his grandmother and this proved to be a decisive factor in his life.

Abroad, he took pictures with a box camera. Back home, he showed lantern slides from his travel negatives to the old Chicago Camera Club, of which he was secretary.

"To take the edge off the silence" and keep the show going he wrote a script and read it as the man at the stereopticon changed the slides.

This made a hit with the club members. In fact, the club in 1891 hired a hall to present Burton Holmes in his first travel lecture, called "Through Europe with a Kodak." It was a big success; $350 worth for the club treasury. But young Burton didn't immediately take up traveling lecturing as a career. He tried his hand at various jobs. In 1892 he induced his family to stake him to a five-month trip abroad.

IN JAPAN he made a significant discovery. There were artists there who could tint his slides with beautiful and lifelike colors. After that his lantern slide lectures were in color.

Upon his return to Chicago he rented a recital hall and sent 2,000 announcement cards to those on his mother's social list. It was a smash hit for the hometown boy and Burton Holmes was on his way.

ing the handling of highly inflammable cargoes that have been incorporated in the Coast Guard regulations for tankships, or have been adopted by the Harbor Patrol in their efforts to prevent disaster on the waterfront.

THAT THESE REGULATIONS are both wise and necessary is accepted by the men who sail the tankers, for all tankermen hold a very deep respect for the potentialities of their cargoes. They know that a disregard for the harbor regulations may too easily bring a far more disastrous result than mere discharge from their jobs or a rebuke from the authorities.

Approximately 100 tankers enter the Long Beach-Los Angeles port each month to load or discharge petroleum commodities, but there has not been a major disaster since that June morning, 10 years ago, when the Markay became a grim reminder of the need for caution.

Electric cooking keeps more juice in meat—because it's flameless!

When you cook electrically there's no draft of constantly changing air because there's no flame. (Flame, you see, needs air to breathe. So a flame-heated oven constantly inhales dry air, exhales moist air—literally cooks meat in a hot draft that evaporates good juices.) In an electric oven there's no draft of dry air. You cook with moist heat. As a result, more juice stays in the meat... and the meat tastes better.

Electric cooking is far cooler, too. As much as 16° cooler. The reason is obvious: electric cooking puts the heat directly into the food, not into the room. Electric cooking is cleaner, too, because it's flameless. There are no by-products of combustion to dirty walls and darken your bright pans. Truly, it's the only modern way to cook. Why not see your appliance dealer for a demonstration of the new electric ranges?

LOUIE: Am I supposed to watch the camera or the birdie?
CANDY. Psst! Why don't you snap a good-looking bird?

JAYNINE: Keep still now, while I get you in focus.
LOUIE: Gosh! You have to admit I'm a beautiful dog.

LOUIE: That darned old Candy is always playing hoosie.
JAYNINE: All I can see now is the back of his head.

A Treat for Cupid's Big Day

Small turkey, disjointed and cooked in sauce which includes white grape juice (or ginger ale) as an igredient, provides a family wedding feast.

By Mildred K. Flanary
Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

WHAT COULD be more heart warming, at a home wedding table, than having the service cozy . . . and with all guests can eat?

For the family wedding dinner, serve a small turkey baked in flavorful seasonings reserved for the happiest of occasions. Such a turkey weighs approximately six pounds, cut up, disjointed, and ready to cook. Prepare more than one if need be.

UNUSUAL FLAVOR is obtained by baking the individual pieces in white grape juice (or ginger ale), lemon juice, butter or margarine, green onions, parsley, salt, pepper and paprika. The tender, juicy, rich brown pieces are served with ultra good juices that have blended during the baking process.

Potatoes pick up the wedding theme. Duchess potatoes (rich whipped potatoes with egg yolks added) are shaped into a large large heart and caressed with almond butter. Miniature hot rolls will be just right for the festive note.

There will be, of course, the traditional wedding cake, beverages, candies and nuts that bespeak an important occasion for the family.

Wedding Feast Turkey

1 turkey, about 6 lb. ready-to-cook weight, cut up
2 cups white grape juice*
2 tblsps lemon juice
2 tsps salt
½ tsp ground pepper
1 tsp paprika
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
½ cup chopped green onion, including tops
½ cup minced parsley
Grape clusters for garnish

PLACE TURKEY pieces in shallow baking pan, skin side down. Blend all ingredients and pour over turkey. Bake in a moderate oven (275 degrees F.) for 1 hour. Turn turkey skin side up. Continue baking for an additional hour, or until thickest pieces are fork-tender. Baste two or three times. Pour pan drippings over turkey for service. Garnish with grapes. Makes 8 servings.

This recipe may be doubled or trebled without any change in quantity of ingredients provided shallow pans are used so as to permit only one layer of turkey.

*Available at fancy grocery or food shops. If not available, ginger ale may be substituted.

Crab Meat Salad

1 lb. Dungeness crab meat
4 hard cooked eggs
Salt and paprika
½ cup almonds
1 cup mayonnaise
1 pint heavy cream
1 green pepper or pimiento
Head lettuce

Cut the crab meat in large pieces. Cut the whites of the eggs into cubes. Blanch the almonds and cut into thin, lengthwise strips. Mix these ingredients. Whip the cream very stiff, fold into the mayonnaise, add salt and paprika. Add to crab mixture. Serve on salad plates on crisp lettuce; garnish with strips of green pepper or pimiento and top with riced egg yolk.

Serve With: Melon Cocktail and Wafers, Crab Salad, Cheese Sticks, Relish Tray, Strawberry Parfait, Coffee.

Grandma

and started dragging me face-first over the ground. The entire left side of my face was ripped open."

ANOTHER BAD MOMENT came a few weeks before the dragging incident at Chicagoland.

After pulling the ripcord, nothing happened.

Emily waited and prayed.

"Then I thought to myself, I'm not waiting any longer," she recalls.

She started to pull out the ripcord on her reserve chute. At the same instant, the backpack opened and her main chute spilled out and filled with air.

"THEY HAD PACKED the chute for a delayed jump," she remembers. "But nobody thought to tell me about it."

She had jumped from 2,000 feet and the chute didn't open until she had fallen to 800 feet.

But these are only memories now. Love has grounded Grandma Brown.

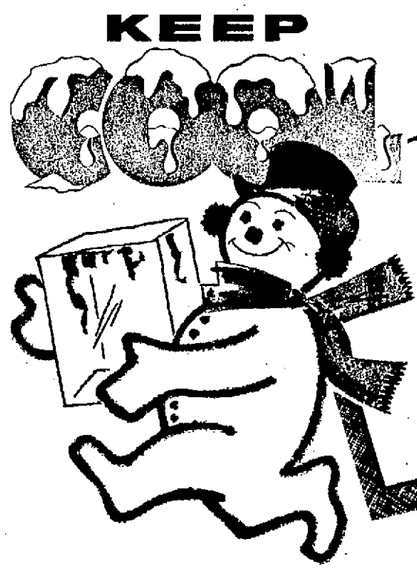

Take it cool and easy with salad suppers while the hot weather is with us. Crab makes a hearty salad and you'll love its fresh-from-the-sea sweetness with its tangy flavor that lasts, whether you cook it, combine it with other foods, or serve it chilled with cocktail sauce and diced celery, it's cold, firm and refreshing.

CRAB LOUIE

Lettuce
2 to 3 cups Crab Meat
3 Hard-boiled Eggs, sliced
Chopped Chives
½ cup French Dressing
½ cup Chili Sauce
2 tbs. Mayonnaise
1 tsp. Worcestershire Sauce
Salt and Pepper to taste

Arrange lettuce leaves around the inside of a salad bowl, with a few shredded leaves on the bottom. Put the crab meat on top of the shredded lettuce, and the hard-boiled eggs and chopped chives on top of the crab meat. In another bowl, mix the french dressing, chili sauce, mayonnaise, worcestershire sauce and seasonings and pour over the salad. Serve very cold. Crackers or the new Chippers are very good with this, along with honeydew and watermelon or fruit. SERVES 4 TO 6.

A true "jewel of the sea," at least, to this young beachcomber, is a starfish found on the Long Beach seashore.

Seastars in Their Eyes

By Ada M. Young

WITH warm weather, adults and children hie to the beach for swimming, picnics and sunbathing.

Children like nothing better than to gather "sea treasures." Shells are precious. Creatures such as sea snails are valuable to small fry.

But the real "jewel of the sea" to the little beachcomber is a starfish or, more properly, a seastar.

ITS NATURAL habitat is a rocky spot, but often the seastar is washed up on the sandy shore.

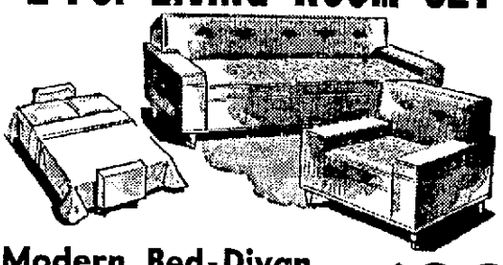

However, "jewel without price" at the moment, it often is left forgotten in car or closet. The resulting odor drives Mother to the edict: "This is the last time you bring home a starfish!"

Here is a solution to the problem:

Starfish should be placed in a tub of fresh water for about six hours, which will make it possible to arrange the star in the desired position. Meanwhile, prepare 1 quart commercial formalin (purchased at any drugstore), 9 quarts fresh or salt water and 2 cups glycerine (drugstore also). Starfish should remain in this solution five to 10 days, then be allowed to dry away from direct sunlight. A rack in a shed or garage area will do.

ROOM AIR CONDITIONER

Gives greatest comfort yet . . . but takes 1/3 space

This "years ahead" design is so thin it fits almost within the limits of your inside and outside walls—eliminating unsightly extensions. It can be installed in almost any type of window; in the upper or lower sash; even completely inside or outside — so windows can be raised or lowered — in casement windows and through the wall.

BOOK REVIEWS

The Human Side

WALTER SCHELLENBERG

First-hand details of Hitler's last days make fantastic reading in "The Labyrinth," the memoirs of Mr. Schellenberg, who was the Nazi leader's Secret Service chief (Harper, $4.95). Here, too, are bared for the first time Nazi espionage tricks that shrink into insignificance the imaged plots of leading fiction writers. A book worthy of the most discriminating reader's attention.

HOWARD SWIGGETT, whose technique for telling a story already has been proved, dwells on the human side of Big Business in a thoroughly satisfactory new novel, "The Durable Fire" (Houghton Mifflin, $4). That the book is the latest selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club is understandable. Here is shown the power of lasting love and friendship in the work-a-day world; the values that exceed the value of the dollar. It is the story of the men at the top of a great American business and their struggle for individual power, and the author indicates without being saccharine that some ordinary things such as honesty and sincerity still are winners in the long run. Also as the story moves to a climax that is exciting without being explosive the point is driven home that if a man wants to get atop the heap he should start by marrying a woman who loves and understands him. The main character of the story is Stephen Lowry, who leaves government service in Europe to take a job with Continental Industries Corp. in New York City. To America he brings his bride, Rosalie, who had fled her native Estonia to join the Norwegian Resistance. As Stephen forges ahead in his job he and his wife overcome numerous prejudices and pitfalls, and they manage to keep their sense of the fun to be had in life through it all. There are many threads to the story, such as the search that Rosalie keeps up for her mother and sister, missing since 1940; the friendship of Stephen and a college friend associated with him in his job who turns out to be something less than honest. And before the writing ends all the threads are accounted for. Altogether, it is a splendidly written tale and one that holds constant interest. The educated, cultured characters are a delight.

CAPSULE REVIEWS of newest books:

"A PECULIAR PIECE OF DESERT" by Lulu Rasmussen O'Neal (Westernlore Press, Box 41073, L. A., $7.50): About 25 miles north of Palm Springs, in a series of valleys surrounded by mountains, lies a strange desert—the Morongo Basin. Here, for the first time, in a book whose edition is limited to only 450 copies, is told the fabulous past of this desert of Joshua trees and cholla cactus, and its future (thousands of its acres are now being settled). As fascinating a bit of Californiana as will come your way, skillfully researched and nicely told, a book worthy of the best California libraries.

"A WOMAN DOCTOR LOOKS AT LOVE AND LIFE" by Dr. Marion Hilliard (Doubleday, $2.95): The publisher's blurb says that this book tells women what they should know about being female, and the publisher is right. Everything is here, from a woman and her first baby to the menopause and old age, and it's written in a language that any layman can understand.

"CLOSE TO COLETTE" by Maurice Goudeket (Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, $4): Colette gained fame as one of France's great 20th century writers with her spicy, racy stories in which Gigi and Claudine, French girls, cut a wide swath. This book by a lifelong friend gives an intimate portrait of Colette and her own colorful, eventful life.

"DON CAMILLO TAKES THE DEVIL BY THE TAIL" by Giovanni Guareschi (Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, $3): Mr. Guareschi introduced one of fiction's most lovable characters some years ago in "The Little World of Don Camillo." Don Camillo has returned several times since. Here he becomes embroiled with communists, but those who have learned to know and love him need no assurance that he handles the situation like a marine—and with quaint humor to boot!

"THE POPE SPEAKS" edited by Michael Chinigo (Pantheon, $4.50): Prepared with the cooperation of the Vatican Archives, this book brings together in a carefully and lucidly organized structure the most important pronouncements of the Holy Father on the many urgent issues confronting mankind today.

"GOLD IN THEM HILLS" by Phil Stong (Doubleday, $3.50): Undoubtedly the last important work by the author of the best-selling "State Fair" and many other books, before his recent untimely death, this one is a concise, accurate history of the Gold Rush but without the reverence that most historians have accorded this great event in California history. End papers are maps of the Gold Rush country.

ARTIST LEONARD BROOKS

BRIDGING THE gap between purely technical and elementary approaches—with some of the thinking processes which are at the foundation of all creative art—Leonard Brooks has come up with a down-to-earth how-to book for the man or woman who'd like to be a part-time painter in "Watercolor—A Challenge" (Reinhold, $12.50). Brooks, a Canadian artist of note now living in Mexico, takes beginners through the various steps in watercolor, casein and wax crayon, demonstrating that there are no superficial tricks or simple short cuts. He uses more than 200 reproductions of his own work, many of them in full color, to make his text easy to follow. Undoubtedly one of the best books of its kind, beautifully printed and bound.

Her Hair Sets Mood

Susan Harrison is a girl of many moods. The Bronx youngster, only 18, won a movie role in "Sweet Smell of Success" for United Artists. She has a different hair style for every occasion and change of mood—and it's all accomplished with nothing more than a comb and brush.

SULTRY—With hair swept forward on one side and back on the other, Susan has become a sultry siren.

SOPHISTICATED—For dates and formal affairs, she pulls back her hair tightly into bun or French knot.

SERENE—As a tree-climbing tomboy, Susan lets her hair fall loose, gaining that feeling of freedom.

Leth Eat!

GRANDMA was busy preparing Sunday dinner and Caren, 3, was getting a vocabulary lesson from her in an effort to straighten out the child's lisping speech.

As Grandma opened a can of apple sauce, Caren told her: "I like apple thauthe!"

Patiently Grandma tried to explain, for the umpteenth time, that in order to say "sauce" you must hold your tongue behind your teeth, not between them.

With this remark, the lesson was over for the day because Caren snapped back with: "I don't wanna thay it, I jutht wanna EAT it!"—AUDREY R. CORBETT, 4759 Premiere Ave., Long Beach, 8, Calif.

Doggone It!

I WATCHED her return a badly damaged book to the librarian.

"I'm sorry," she said, "but my dog got hold of it. How much do I owe?"

The librarian began filling out a small card. "Name? Address?" And the woman answered her firmly.

Then: "Name of book, please?"

The woman hesitated, face flushed. "It is 'Anyone Can Train a Dog'."

three black stag deer on it. The Rev. Nathaniel Rogers and his wife Margaret came from Essex, England, to Boston in 1638.

DEAR MISS RULE: I would appreciate your analysis of PHILLIPS. My grandfather came from England. —B. H. H., Harbor City.

B.M.H.: Phillip, a popular given name in ancient England, was used in memory of St. Philip the Apostle. Long ago, its Greek source-name meant "lover of horses." The Phillips ancestry begins with Simon, son of Philip, King of Kent, England, in the late 13th century. His descendants used the surname Phillips instead of "Son of Philip." The family coat-of-arms had a black rampant lion on a gold shield. The Phillips owned Picton Castle in Herefordshire. Nicholas Phillips came from England to Weymouth, Mass., about 1632. (For Mrs. W. M., Long Beach, the Phillips of Scotland are descendants of the English family.)

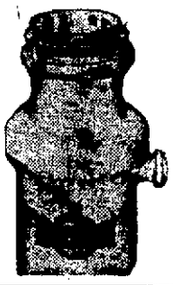

Send your names to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th & Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif., for analysis and brief genealogy, for publication in this column.

Popularity of the Bookmobile service of the Long Beach Public Library is seen in waiting line. Wide variety of books is brought to its borrowers.

Shakespeare Tours the City

By Vera Williams

SHAKESPEARE jaunts about Long Beach—and so do Dickens, Thackeray, Hemingway, Saroyan, Steinbeck and Pearl Buck.

So do a flock of dictionaries, encyclopedias, magazines, and how-to volumes.

Bookmobile service, established in July 1944 by the Long Beach public library, is considered one of the library's most valued services.

CARRYING 3,000 volumes—books and magazines—the bookmobile sallies out six days a week to take books to persons who do not live near the main public library or its branches.

Here is the bookmobile schedule:

Monday, 2:30-5:30, Lakewood and Stearns.

Tuesday, 2-5 p. m., Coolidge and Long Beach Blvd.

Wednesday, 1:30-5 p. m.; Williams and Willard.

Thursday, 2-5 p. m., 68th and Obispo.

Friday, 2:30-5:30 p. m., Long Beach Blvd and Del Amo.

Saturday, 2:30-5 p. m., Magnolia and Wardlow.

Beulah Nelson and Mildred Harrington are bookmobile librarians. Clerks are Josephine MacIntire, Fred West, George Harris. Jennie McCray is coordinator.

Books and magazines are issued under the usual library rules. Any Long Beach public library card is good on the bookmobile. Books and magazines from the bookmobile may be returned to the bookmobile, or to any local public library. On the other hand, books or magazines from any local public library here may be returned to the bookmobile.

There are a shelf of classics, a shelf of good reference books, such as atlases, dictionaries, encyclopedias; a Young Moderns shelf; a teenager shelf. The bookmobile has an excellent section for children.

CURRENT FICTION, of course, is most greatly in demand. Adventure, travel and mystery books also are high on the list, with demand also for biographies, and books on music and the arts.

Requests may be made for volumes not usually carried in the bookmobile.

Because there are many new homes in the areas served by the bookmobile, it carries an especially high percentage of how-to-do-it volumes: books telling about building, repairing, gardening, decorating, child-rearing, entertaining.

"You bring the library to us!" is the thankful greeting of many who would not be able to get library books if it were not for the bookmobile.

BOOKMOBILE librarians and clerks get on friendly terms with the readers they serve and know most of them by name.

Children often bring their pets to the bookmobile so the librarians and clerks may meet and admire them. (One youngster recently brought a pet King snake, which wasn't as welcome as most dogs or cats.)

One young father habitually brings a clothes basket and carries it home filled with books for every member of the family.

Photos by Skip Shuman

Stories of America's fabulous West are popular with young Bookmobile patrons. Above, Miss Beulah Nelson, Bookmobile librarian, and Russell Logan.

CALIFORNIA YESTERDAYS

Mail Went Through - - But How?

By Clarence Bernard Propes

COL. John O. Wheeler, merchant and Los Angeles postmaster, almost called the Post Office Department official out on the field of honor. The official had criticized the colonel for dumping mail in a wash tub and letting customers fumble for their own letters.

That year, 1848, the Los Angeles mail was moved from a wash tub to a soap box, neatly divided into compartments. The postmaster had other things to worry about: conducting auctions, superintendent schools, and making political speeches. He gave the mail only a casual sorting. The postal duties were light, but so was the pay.

Under the Spanish, the postal service was in the hands of the military. Soldiers were couriers and they were kept busy. They were allowed only an hour for each stop.

The job of postmaster was not a political plum, since there probably were no more than 20 literate people in the whole Southland. The postmaster received 8 per cent of the receipts and he earned about 10 pesos a year.

THE SERVICE was far from speedy. People were gratified, even amazed, when they received letters mailed from the East only four months before and were pleased to find an Eastern paper only a year old.

When the Americans took over there may have been an improvement, but it was barely detectable.

The service was still in the hands of the military and a system was established to speed the mail between San Francisco and San Diego. Soldiers started at either end and met in San Luis Obispo where they exchanged pouches and returned. They were allowed two weeks for the trip.

In 1848 a regular mail service was established on the Pacific Coast. A letter to or from the Atlantic Coast cost 40 cents, while mail on the Pacific Coast cost 12½ cents.

THE SOLDIERS finally were relieved of the mail-carrying duties and ships began to carry it. Wind and weather sometimes meant a letter could travel from San Francisco to San Diego in three days, but at times it took a week or more.

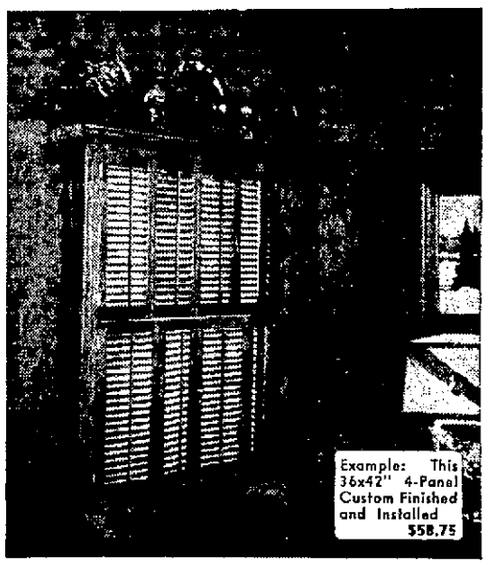

In 1858, an overland route was established with stagecoaches carrying the mail. The route ran from St. Louis to Los Angeles and then to San Francisco. The first run took only 20 days and Los Angeles newspapers praised the speed. Since their news was more fresh than that in San Francisco, they took on sophisticated airs.

In 1884, the first post office in Long Beach was opened in the store of W. W. Lowe at 18 Pine Ave. Washington sent him $3 worth of stamps and he was in business. The mail was brought from Wilmington by a neighbor who made a daily trip with butter and eggs.

THREE YEARS LATER a post office was built on Pine Ave. between 1st St. and Ocean Blvd. The postmaster paid $5 per month ground rent. His pay was about $1,000 a year—if business was good.

In 1903, the postal receipts in Long Beach were $16,888. In 1956, the total was $4,482,000. And the San Diego-San Francisco mail trip takes one day, not four.

Britain Bids for Fall Favor

WITH THE European travel year underway, indications are that Britain will attract a record number of American visitors — some 280,000 — during 1957, according to Laurie Priesack, western manager for the British Travel Assn.

Fall travel has been on the increase for several years, Priesack said, "because the public is becoming increasingly aware of the greater convenience and economy of travel at that time of year, and another factor is the great number of outstanding events offered in the fall."

The BTA spokesman listed some of them: the Braemar Games, best known of Scotland's Highland gatherings (September); the International Motor Show in London, featuring British, American and Continental cars (October); the Lord Mayor's Show (November), a display of civic pageantry dating back to 1215, and the Edinburgh International Festival of Music and Drama (August 18 to September 7).

Many travelers plan their itineraries around such events, he explained. "If you hire a car you can figure on an expense of 11 cents a mile and this includes all costs—the rental, gas, insurance — everything; and of course domestic gasoline rationing was ended in May. Railway and bus fares are equally low by American standards.

FOR THOSE looking for something different in tours, Priesack recommended the newly established "Heart of England" cruises, boat trips on inland waterways from Oxford to Birmingham. The leisurely trip takes five days, and stops are made to allow for visits at such famous places as Sulgrave Manor—George Washington's ancestral home — Leamington Spa, Warwick Castle, and the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-on-Avon. All meals and first-class hotel accommodations are included in the cruise price which is reasonable.

The British Travel Association, which is the official government tourist board, publishes a wide range of booklets covering all aspects of travel in Britain and these are available free from your local travel agent or direct from the West Coast office of the BTA at 606 S. Hill St., Los Angeles 14.

The Cuba Story

"Visit Cuba," a 32-page, multi-photo guide to tourist delights on the "Emerald Isle," and latest addition to the "Travel in the Americas Series," was published recently. It is available from the Pan American Union, Washington 6, D. C., at 15 cents per copy.

From beautiful, sun-splashed Varadero Beach into the glamour and excitement of world-famous "Tropicana" nightclub, and then for a look at the Morro Castle, ancient guardian of Havana Bay, "Visit Cuba" takes readers on a whirlwind tour of the wonders of this land where "yesterday meets tomorrow."

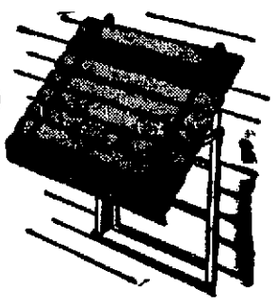

Sections of "Visit Cuba" tell you, briefly, of the history of Cuba, then how to get there, travel within the country, what you will see, tips on shopping (fine Havana cigars, rum, perfumes, alligator goods—to mention only a few!), and helps you plan your wardrobe and guide you in entry requirements and currency exchange. Whether imaginary or real, your trip to the Caribbean will be one which you will not soon forget when you visit Cuba.

Front Seat to Aquatic Thrills

Facing its own private beach and also affording a "front row" view of many aquatic sports of the island, the 159-room St. Catherine Hotel continues to be a popular spot for visitors to Santa Catalina. Built in 1919, the hostelry was occupied by the U.S. Maritime Commission during World War II. The hosts, Joe and Rose Arno, who have been on the island 23 years, plan extensive remodeling of the hotel this fall, after the tourist season ends.

Guns in Mexico

The growing interest of American sportsmen in Mexican big game hunting has caused a flood of queries to reach consular offices concerning the transportation of guns.

1. Have your local police chief or sheriff write a "To Whom It May Concern" letter that he knows you and that you have no criminal record.

2. Obtain five front-view passport size (3 inches long) photos of yourself.

3. Make a list of the guns, names, serial numbers, models and calibres.

4. Take the letter, pictures and gun list to your nearest Mexican consul and he will fill out an official paper."

5. Give this form to the customs official in Mexico and he will issue the final permit.

"My husband and I are making a flying trip to Lake Geneva in Switzerland in July or August. What kind of clothing, please?"

FIGURE on a climate of average 70 degrees. Sport clothing and one outfit for each of you suitable for cocktails and dinner. Dark suit for your husband. Dinner or cocktail dress for you.

Possible that you will have a few days rain. Light-weight raincoat or folding umbrella would be handy. Walking shoes. The Swiss sport is hiking around and it is usually up and down hill.

The language is French with enough English that you won't need a phrase book. French type food. Good hotels. Best buys are Swiss watches and clocks.

• • • •

"Can you tell me about applying for a passport?"

You have to be going some place. They'll ask you where and by what means. You make the application in person. Passport offices are in New York, Boston, Chicago, New Orleans, San Francisco and Washington, D. C. If you are not near any of these cities, apply to the clerk of any Federal Court. Or any State Court authorized to naturalize aliens.

You take proof of citizenship. That means a birth certificate. Take with you some American citizen who can swear he has known you for at least two years. Two photographs 2½x 2½ and $10.

Apply about four weeks in advance. If you are in a rush, you can pay a little extra — about $1 as I remember — and have your information wired to Washington and the passport airmailed to you. This takes about a week.

• • • •

"We will have a few weeks to look around after the convention in Europe. Any suggestions?"

SURE. Rent a car and drive around one country. Much more fun than the cities. Like England in the countryside the best. You can get all the information and maps you need in London, 64 St. James's St., British tourist office.

If you want a more foreign flavor: Portugal. Go to the government tourist office, though, and get maps and particularly a list of the government pousadas. There's no night life out in the country and very, very few hotels.

Your mailed questions will be answered (no phone calls). Send stamped and addressed envelope to Stan Delaplane, Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 6th and Pine, Long Beach 12, Calif.

Why Not File Your Negs?

Toes and negatives have something in common—they both need filing. Don't lose negatives of cute photos.

odd mixture of letters, notices, bills and assorted prints.

I'M GOING to plead now for a "file-as-you-go" system to take care of the current flood of negatives, pictures and color slides.

The first thing to get is a definite place to keep negatives. A negative file with ample drawers custom-built for your size is ideal—but we rarely live up to our ideals. So we make do what we can build or can adapt . . . for instance, a cardboard shoebox. The important thing is that when we deal with negatives, either to put them away or go looking for one, we head for one place.

Secondly, we should have uniform envelopes, something you can write on for quick identification. Camera stores have standard negative envelopes or they can be made from inexpensive manila envelopes.

FOR A VACATION TRIP, if your films are processed en route, you can carry a negative file book.

When you first examine each batch of new pictures, that's the time to discard the duds.

There are three usual filing systems — chronological, numerical, and by subject matter —but no one system pleases everybody.

By the Shutterbug

THE OPEN season of summer snapshooting is under way. Everywhere under the sun you will find its devotees pointing the familiar little box to the chorus of "Look at the camera!" as the snap! snap! and click! clicks! beat a steady tempo.

I sit here wondering and worrying: What's to become of all those negatives? Alas, some of them never fulfill their mission of producing a little image. Most of them do, however, but then what happens to them? Are they rewarded with a title, a birthday and a suitable place for retirement where they could welcome visitors in the future?

No . . . too many negatives become DPs, displaced pictures. They wait around in unmarked envelopes, jammed in with an

Outstanding New Fuchsias

By Murtha Hurley

FUCHSIAS have been popular in California since the 1850s when the plants first were introduced here from Europe. Since then, these colorful "dancing dolls" of the garden have lived through varying periods of acclaim and indifference.

Right now, fuchsias are high fashion.

The graceful flower even merits two societies here, one in the bay area, the other in Southern California, both with worldwide members. Meetings are held to stimulate interest in fuchsias and to exchange information about their culture, to learn of exciting new varieties and plan fuchsia flower shows to be held each year. Cups, prizes and ribbons galore have been won by the jewel-like plant. Even a monthly magazine is published, devoted exclusively to fuchsias.

Much of then interest in fuchsias is kept alive by California hybridists who lead the world in creating new and more beautiful varieties, each year.

Here are some of the outstanding new fuchsias for 1957, developed here in California:

California hybridists lead the world in creating new kinds of heat-resistant fuchsias each year.

BASKET VARIETIES

BLUEBIRD — A very pretty basket, displaying a new color in the trailing variety. The short tube and long pointed slender sepals are snowy white. The semi-double corolla of deepest violet blue has scalloped edges which overlap. Attached to the base of the sepals are some extra petals. As the flower matures, these petals turn a rosy hue, as does the corolla. The corolla petals stay folded, giving a trim appearance to the bloom.

FIREBALL—A large double trailing type, unusual for its many color changes as the flower matures. The short tube and broad upturned sepals are bright, carmine-tipped green. The buds and corolla are a ruddy purple with splashes of carmine at base of petals as flower matures. Some petals turn a dark bluish purple, and again change into a red of great brilliance.

FORT BRAGG — A sport of the beautiful fuchsia Enchanted. The tube and broad upturned sepals are a rose shade, the large double corolla of pale lavender rose has a bluish tinge, the petals slightly veined with rose.

EMBERGLOW—Large double dusky rose corolla, lush fast

Thrips are an enemy we think of particularly in regard to roses and gladioli, but actually, they infest just about everything in your garden. On roses, they prevent the bud from opening. They're so small you can scarcely see them and yet they're large enough to suck the vitality from the petals and to leave a sticky residue which causes the edges to cling together so that the rose cannot open. On gladiola sheaths, you can often see the scars or blotches caused by thrip injury and, of course, they destroy the appearance of the blossoms too.

One of the finest of the newer controls is the combination of malathion and dieldrin which is as near to being an all-purpose insecticide as I have found. Malathion acts quickly and dieldrin more slowly but lasts for a longer time.

Gladioli should be sprayed from the time they're only a few inches high and the spray should be applied deep down into the heart of the plant.

Tips on Fuchsia Culture

Fuchsias are ideal plants for Southland gardens, particularly in coast locations. They thrive in half-shade. All shade and they become leggy, have few blooms. All sun, they become stunted and bronzed, have small blooms. Good locations are on the east side for morning sun, under a tree for filtered sunshine or under lath. It is not the light, but the drying heat from direct sun rays that fuchsias object to. Also, the plants need protection from wind.

Red shades will stand the most sun. Big purples and whites require more shade, have larger blooms but fewer.

The plants require a rich, well-drained, slightly acid soil. Use 2 parts good garden loam, 1 part leaf mold, 1 part clean sand, 1 part well rotted manure. Organic fertilizer mixed with the loam is good, using about one-third.

In hot sections, it is good to line the planting hole with 1 inch of peat moss and, in summer, top mulch with 1 inch of moist peat. Avoid lime in the soil. In the ground set the plants about 3 feet apart.

The plants grow from dwarf trailing types to tall uprights 15 feet high. They can be trained as espaliers or tree shape and flourish in baskets.

Fuchsias are heavy feeders. For established plants in the ground, 4 inches of cow manure is not too much, applied in early spring. Feed often with commercial fertilizer. To get strong leafy growth in spring, use fertilizer, high in nitrogen. Later on, use super-phosphate to bring out the blooms. If potted, feeding once a week with liquid fertilizer is not too often. Fish emulsion is excellent. Fuchsias have a long period of bloom, which they can't keep up, unless fed often.

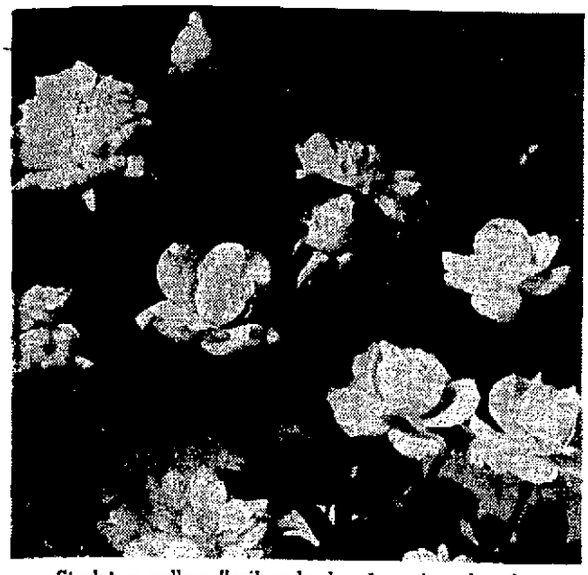

Watering is most important. Pots and baskets must be watered every day in warm weather, sometimes twice if the air is dry. Water not only the roots, give the foliage and blooms a fine spray. Don't let fuchsias in the ground dry out. When watering, send a fine sharp spray to the underside of the leaves to discourage aphids, white flies, thrips. Use a good all-purposes spray if plants become infested by chewing insects.

To prevent fuchsias in pots from becoming root-bound, repotting is necessary each year. Be careful not to disturb the roots any more than necessary. Use a slightly larger pot each year, but do not use a pot that is much larger than the previous container.

Fuchsias need to be pruned each year, late in February if the weather is mild, or in March. For baskets, cut the old growth to the edge of the pots. As branches grow, pinch out tips until you have obtained a leafy crown, then let the streamers grow. Cut back plants in the ground to about one-third of the height of the bush. Pinch back tips of the sidegrowth to form rounded, bushy plants.

New Rose Trio Bids for Favor

By David I. Gilfillan

Starlet, a yellow floribunda, has been introduced to Long Beach gardeners—one of trio of new roses.

REPORTS coming in from reliable sources indicate that we have a number of excellent roses on the way which will be ready for home gardeners during the coming season. In addition to the three All-America winners featured in this section three weeks ago, Armstrong Nurseries announces the introduction of two new hybrid tea roses and a new floribunda.

Isobel Harkness, an English rose hybridized by Albert Norman, is a bright yellow tea rose with beautiful long, pointed buds, borne on a free-branching shrub.

Aztec, another hybrid tea, is a flaming orange-scarlet rose with ovoid buds opening to extra-large flowers (up to six inches) and is rated exhibition quality.

Starlet, the new floribunda, has a profusion of little buds which open to fully double blooms about 2½ inches across. Characteristic of the floribundas, Starlet produces its flowers in great clusters and is excellent for cutting.

Rose Isobel Harkness

Rose Aztec

THESE ROSES, along with other new introductions, are available at many local nurseries, established in five-gallon containers, and can be planted in the garden now. Check the ads in today's garden section.

In setting out roses from containers, avoid the use of fertilizers around the root area. Equal amounts of leaf mold, peat moss and soil will give you a good growing medium. Be sure the peat moss has been soaked before using. Peat moss will hold about 90 times its own weight in moisture.

You will notice that the main bud or union is above the surface of the soil in the container and it should be in the same position when planted in your garden. When planted too deep the rose will send out adventitious roots from the union. When this happens, the main roots stop growing and the rose will deteriorate slowly.

AFTER PLANTING, give the rose a good soaking, then water only as the soil begins to dry. The rose receives very little if any shock at time of transplanting if handled properly, and too much water continually applied will cause the foliage to turn yellow and drop off. Feeding of the shrubs should not begin until about five weeks after planting.

With climbers, we find that most varieties have a tendency to send out whip-like branches upon which the roses are borne. To keep your climber in hand, cut back to just above the second or third leaf from the main canes in cutting the flowers.

IT NEVER IS advisable to incorporate manures and other fertilizers into the soil immediately before planting bare root stock. This practice can ruin the roses. On the other hand, by preparing the soil four or five months in advance you can plant your bare root stock safely next January knowing that they are planted in a productive soil. Steer manure, organic fertilizer, bonemeal and a little soil sulphur (three pounds to 100 sq. ft.) will give you an excellent growing medium.

DON'T FORGET DEPARTMENT . . . Don't forget that there are many plants which can be planted now to give almost immediate color. Fuchsias, tuberous begonias, asters, petunias, marigolds and annual phlox all are tops. . . . Don't forget to take care of your lawn, both grass and dichondra. In fertilizing use any of the plant foods containing insecticides. By doing so you can feed your lawn and control lawn pests in one operation. . . . Don't forget the Southland garden section next Sunday and don't forget that the man who goes to church on Sunday will enjoy his garden better on Monday.

Outstanding New Fuchsias

growing natural cascading basket.

LUNADO — Large double corolla of Tyrian purple with pronounced maroon overshadowing as blossoms mature. Sepals are pink and crimson. Long willowy branches arch gracefully from center stems. A good basket or can be espalliered. Quite heat resistant.

MASTER STROKE — Double corolla white. Sepals white with pink dots.

QUEEN BARBARA — Double corolla splashed with pink near base. Sepals flushed palest pink. A good basket or can be trellised upright.

SWEET LEILANI — Large soft silvery pink and orchid corolla with pale ivory flushed delicate pink sepals. Very compact in growth with lush green foliage.

THUNDERBIRD — Heat resistant in every way. A fine natural cascading, self-branching, profuse-blooming plant. Its large double cherry corolla with orange shadings makes a spectacular show. Very long, gracefully twisted sepals of pink and delicate crimson add much to an over-all lovely effect.

Upright varieties:

MABELLE EDWARDS — A single pink bell-shaped flower with long drooping stems. This fuchsia has daintiness and charm, is named for Mrs. John Paul Edwards. Buds are long white and pointed. Sepals of frosty white curl upwards, corolla of pale pink has four overlapping petals.

ROSECREST — A large double fuchsia, with striking and unique contrast between the color of buds and the open flowers. The medium-sized tube and broad upturned sepals are white, slightly tinged with pale pink underside. The open buds and corolla are a deep lilac mauve turning bright carmine rose as flower matures.

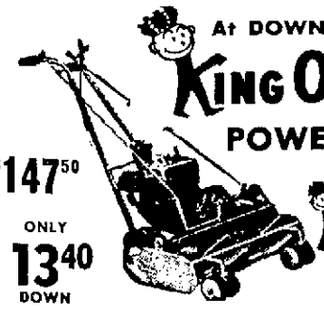

ROYAL ROBE — Vigorous, compact. Will take some sun; double dark purple; light sepals, almost white.

SHOW-OFF — Large single. Double size and coloring of Display fuchsia, which has saucer-shaped corolla with petals of deep pink. Clear pink sepals. A prolific bloomer.

SIERRA BLUE — A fine silvery blue, double variety particularly noteworthy for its beautiful coloring and form. The short tube and wide upturned sepals are white on the outer side, flushed palest pink underside. The corolla is a full double of silver blue gradually becoming soft lilac as the blossom ages.

TEMPERATURES are starting to rise and that means your plants will be requiring more water. Although some rain may still fall, this is a good time to determine when and where to water and how much moisture to apply at each application.

It is difficult to establish general rules covering the problem of watering. Actually any plan that provides the answer must consider various local growing conditions which include wind, temperature, soil, type of plant, exposure and humidity. In addition, a little experience will give you the knowledge as to when a plant is in need of water.

BEFORE STARTING on your watering program it might be wise to learn why plants require water in the first place; that is from a botanical point of view. One of the most vital plant processes is identified as transpiration during which the plant leaves exhale water vapor through tiny pores on their surface. This might be compared to perspiration in an animal. The process is relatively continuous.

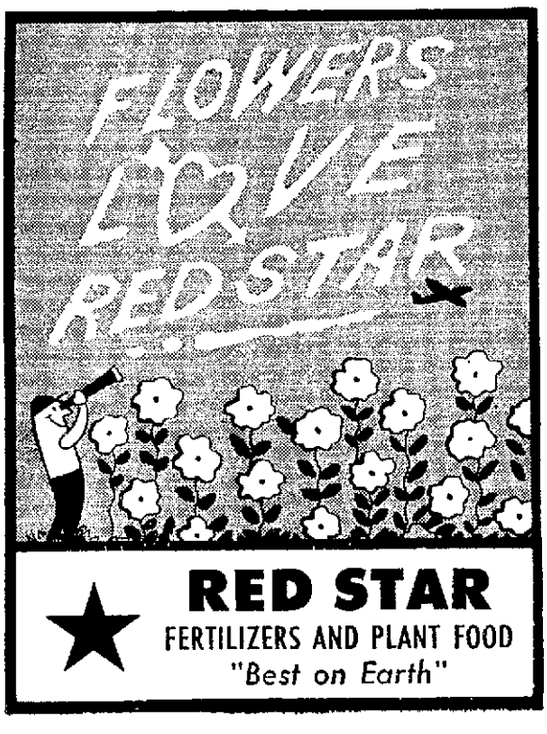

Very large quantities of moisture are given off daily. For example, an individual sunflower will sweat out a pint of water in 24 hours; during a warm summer day an average birch tree will give off about 1,000 pounds of water; and an oak tree during one growing season will lose close to 130 tons of moisture. If the moisture lost during transpiration is not replenished then the plant will eventually topple over and die.

ANOTHER RATHER interesting point concerning the necessity for watering plants is that without water they cannot eat. Most plants are unable to digest nutrients if they are not in a liquid state. This includes both root and leaf feeding. A dry food in an arid soil will probably remain locked in the soil. The food factors can be absorbed by the plant only when in solution. Thus without adequate soil moisture your plants will perish from starvation as well as from thirst.

Early morning watering is generally considered the best time. Evaporation then is at a low ebb and liberal applications of moisture should sustain established plants through the day, even in hot weather. Midday watering under a hot sun may scald the leaves and in addition this is the time of maximum evaporation. Watering at night is not advisable because moisture remaining on the leaves at night may encourage fungus.

THE TYPE OF PLANT being grown also determines the method of watering. Those growing actively require more water than those in a relatively dormant state. Soft stemmed varieties are heavy drinkers; woody types with sparse foilage require less moisture. Sandy soils, though which water drains rapidly should be watered lightly but at frequent intervals; heavy soil which has a high moisture retentive quality should be watered less frequently but more moisture should be applied each time.

The place where moisture does the greatest good is in the root zone, the deeper the better. Heavy applications force the water down into the soil and the roots naturally remain in this area. Thus deep rooting is encouraged. On the other hand, light sprinkling leads to surface rooting which is dangerous. Roots in that area may dry out during hot or windy weather.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . This is a good time to start bedding plants. The warm weather helps the tiny seedlings get off to a flying start. Varieties available at most garden supply stores include: Petunias, asters, zinnias, marigolds, annual phlox, lobelias and snapdragons.

Roses are flowering freely now and the blooms should be removed before going to seed. Always prune to an outside eye to prevent the center of the plant from becoming too dense; also to produce a more shapely plant.

Spraying or dusting now is practically a weekly necessity.

Dwarf Washington navel orange is typical of the type of dwarf citrus which may be grown in limited space.

Citrus Space-Savers

By Walter Finch

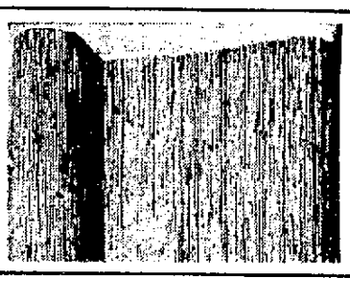

TRUE DWARF citrus trees are now available which bear superb fruit and foliage, fill the garden with the fragrance of their flowers and which may be raised virtually anywhere with minimum care. The citrus tree stands as the unofficial symbol of California, and visitors "expect" to see an orange or lemon tree in your garden. Now you may have one, regardless of the size or scope of your garden area, advises the California Association of Nurserymen.

True dwarf citrus were pioneered and developed by Floyd C. Dillon and his son, Don Dillon, of Mission San Jose. They now offer 30 true dwarf varieties, ranging from oranges and lemons to tangelos and kumquats, created by grafting choice "mother trees" onto selected dwarfing root stocks. The use of this special root stock is the key factor, and requires painstaking selection for each variety.

The remarkable dwarfs thus produced possess fruiting and appearance as desirable as the "mother tree" itself, and the "mother trees" were chosen from the most perfect of their strains.

WITH TODAY'S "garden living," trees and shrubs in boxes can become articles of furniture, to be lived with and moved around according to taste. Dwarf citrus trees fit this idea perfectly, as they thrive in containers. True dwarf citrus trees occupy less than one-fourth the space of orchard trees, but they bear up to 70 per cent as much fruit. They may be planted the year around in any sunny, wind-free location. At maturity, in about 15-years, they are some eight feet high and wide. (Standard citrus trees reach about 20-feet in height and width at the same stage.)

You may choose from 30 varieties of oranges, lemons, limes, grapefruit, tangerines, mandarins and kumquats—all available upon inquiry at your local nurseryman's. Grown in the can, they have all roots intact, and may be readily transplanted. Given light, heat, moisture, drainage and nutrient, they require but minimum care.

THESE REMARKABLE trees are adaptable to varied soils, but those rich in humus are best. Drainage is important: one way to provide for it is with a raised bed, with the tree entirely above grade. A liberal-sized basin is desirable for irrigation around the tree. Happily enough, watering is relative infrequent. The basic idea is to water thoroughly, letting it soak down deep. Once the tree is established water only when the tree needs it—the leaves will be in a wilting condition. During the dry season established trees need water once every month or six weeks. New insecticides make pest control easy for modern gardeners, and your local nurseryman can aid your selection.

Here are some planting instructions to follow. If you plant in a container, use ½ virgin soil, ¼ sand and ¼ peat moss. Use no manure. Fertilize only after your dwarf citrus has become established — about six months after planting. Once a month, use a balanced commercial fertilizer containing six per cent nitrogen; apply at the time of irrigation ½ cup the first year ¾ cup the second year; one cup the third year; increasing gradually in this proportion as the tree grows.

MULCH WITH PEAT moss, leaf mold, manures, shavings or sawdust, to conserve moisture, moderate heat and to retard soil crusting and keep down weeds.

Among the most popular varieties of true dwarf citrus are Robertson Navel, Washington Navel and Valencia oranges; Eureka and Meyer Lemons; Marsh Seedless Grapefruit; Kinnow Mandarins; Mexican and Rangpur Limes and Negami Kumquats.

Enjoy the pleasure of raising choice fruits in your garden now, with true dwarf citrus trees. Look for the graft, which indicates a true dwarf variety that will furnish superb fruit and foliage.

PET PARADE

Pups With a Future

By Eleanor Avery Price

MANY PERSONS, after attending one or more of the 350 dog shows held yearly in this country, have the inspiration to go right out and buy puppies in hope that they will eventually have top dogs for showing. Many phones will jingle and many an "oh" and "ah" will be said over puppies as a result of the Harbor Cities Kennel Club all breed dog show and obedience trial which will conclude this evening on the grounds adjacent to Municipal Auditorium, for this show is the largest of its kind west of the Mississippi and draws spectators from all over.

The desire to buy and raise a dog for show purposes is a good one, but the prospective buyers pause and give thought about several things.

For one, puppies for possible future showing should be purchased from reputable breeders who are striving for quality rather than quantity. Some breeders hold puppies until they are around four months old so as to be able to judge their show potentialities. Puppies with the best conformations and markings naturally command a higher price.

ANOTHER THING, the buyer should ask himself if he is prepared to give the dog, even though it does not turn out to be show material, the best care possible. We recall an individual who took her young dog to the late Dr. Milton Evans, Long Beach veterinarian, and asked, "Dr. Evans, just how good is my dog?" Dr. Evans slowly lifted his head and looked his questioner directly in the eyes. Said he: "Your dog is only as good as the love you give him."

A THIRD POINT the buyer should think about is that showing a dog, even though a handler of experience is hired, calls for a sportsmanlike attitude. Anyone who becomes furious at his dog or at the judges and at other entries and their owners has no business in the show ring.

When David Upright of the Harbor Cities Kennel Club started the Harbor Cities Kennel Club dog show in this area 22 years ago, beginning with an entry of only 400 canines, his ideal was to make this show one of the greatest ones in America, and he has said: "I've wanted it to exemplify the utmost in good sportsmanship, showmanship and fine entertainment for all who love and enjoy dogs."

People who buy puppies with hopes of eventually showing them would do well to ponder on these words, for dog showing is a sport, competitive to be sure, but one that calls for good losers as well as graceful winners.

ENTRIES FOR the Orange Empire Dog Club dog show and obedience trial to be held July 14 in John Galvin Park, Ontario, must reach Jack Bradshaw by noon, Tuesday, July 2.

HOW TO Put Lazy Susan Inside a Closet

1. THIS "CLOSET"—before it was remodeled—was a real storage problem for containers. Volume here was plentiful—but use of it was bad. It had only three selves. Now a lazy susan puts center space into action.

2. FURNITURE GLIDES support the lazy susan at outer edges. This type has a steel ball that rotates as lazy susan turns. Glides offer good support even when heavily loaded. When swinging a hammer to install the guides, support underside of shelf to prevent it from being knocked loose.

3-4. TO ASSEMBLE LAZY SUSAN, nail a ¾x3x3-inch block of solid wood to shelf after you insert bolt. Make sure skate wheel is tight fit in hole you counterbored in bottom of lazy susan. Expansive bit gives you the right diameter.

HAROLD A. JONES JR.
The Man in Charge

WITHOUT FANFARE or firecrackers, an important milestone was observed quietly last Sunday at Jones Cafeteria and Dining Room, 120 E. 5th St.

It was the 28th birthday of the cafeteria, first opened by Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Jones Sr. on June 16, 1929. One of Long Beach's finest success stories, the cafeteria has become an important landmark on 5th St., having been at the same location ever since its beginning, serving top quality foods year in and year out.

The man currently in charge of the cafeteria's cooking is Harold A. Jones Jr., working as vacation relief chef. Young Jones has helped his mother and father at the restaurant ever since he was a boy of 14. A senior at Long Beach State College, he is majoring in business administration.

The dining out public is being treated especially nice at the cafeteria these days thanks to $1 luncheon and dinner specials which are certainly a bargain. A different entree is served daily on the special, in this order: Monday, chicken fried steak; Tuesday, fried fresh chicken (each serving is ¾ of a three-pound chicken); Wednesday, pork tenderloin; Thursday, ground sirloin, and Friday, 12-ounce halibut steak. All are served with salad, vegetable, roll and butter.

The dining out public has also become increasingly aware of the wonderful dinner specials in the adjacent Jones Dining Room. The restaurant buys eastern choice beef in volume amounts and can thus serve steaks and prime rib at sensible prices.

A large 12-ounce cut of choice prime rib au jus is only $1.95 a la carte, served with potato, choice of salad from the large salad tray, roll and butter. A huge 16-ounce choice T-bone steak is only $2.25 a la carte.

The Dining Room also serves two dozen entrees daily on its famed super-complete dinner, priced at from $1.75 up.

FASHION PLATES, 1913 style: Tenor Enrico Caruso (l.) and brother Giovanni stroll New York's 5th Avenue.

I'll always remember...

Father's brother Giovanni

by ENRICO CARUSO, Jr.

THE AUTHOR

When I think of my late father, Enrico Caruso, the most famous tenor in history, my thoughts often turn to his younger brother Giovanni, my Uncle John. Though different by nature — father was energetic and dynamic, Uncle John rather less so — they became each other's alter ego. For in a very real sense, as you will see, each was his brother's keeper. Without my easy-going uncle, Father might never have become a singer. And without my ambitious father . . .

Back in 1894 my father, then 21, was drafted into the Italian army. Having taken vocal lessons, he began to practice. The result? In the barracks he met with a shower of boots and tin cups. Next he tried the washroom. Then the Commandant sent for him.

"What is that infernal screeching?" he demanded. "Another howl and into the guardhouse you go."

But Papa couldn't keep his mouth shut. The Commandant, who didn't really want to lock him up, finally sent him daily to practice — out of earshot — at the home of a baron. A month later he sent for Papa again.

"The baron says you have the makings of a singer. But you can't be a singer and a soldier, too. So your brother Giovanni is going to take your place."

Father was astounded. When two brothers were near the same age, the younger could take the elder's place. This, though, was rare. But Uncle John, in sympathy with his brother's dream of a career, had volunteered. So Papa left to conquer the world of music.

Uncle John? He went on to "conquer" the Abyssinians in 1898, the Turks in 1912. Between wars, wearing the finest clothes, he led the life of Riley at cafes, nightly poker games, trips to Paris and Monte Carlo — all with the zest his brother's money could bring. Papa kept him well supplied. Uncle John never earned a day's pay at a civilian job in his life.

Once a friend asked him, "Giovanni, why don't you do something worthwhile? Why don't you do some sort of work?"

"Work!" exclaimed Uncle John, paling at the thought. "Listen. God gave my brother a magnificent voice. But God gave me a magnificent brother!" ■

On Parade

ON THE COVER you see two happy honeymooners — Harold Connolly of Boston, Mass., and the former Olga Fikotova of Prague, Czechoslovakia. Front-page headlines bannered the romance of these medal-winning Olympic athletes, who were married in March despite official Red opposition. That done, the world thought the starry-eyed but determined pair had solved their final problem.

But had they? To find out, PARADE sent Sports Editor John Devaney and photographer Ben Ross to see the Connollys, now living in Boston. What they learned makes a surprising follow-up to the year's No. 1 East-West wedding. It's on pp. 16-18.

THE ARTICLE by Dr. Harry Lyons advocating fluoridation of drinking water (PARADE, May 12) created a not unexpected tempest. Letters, both favorable and critical, poured in from all over the U.S.

Though the "antis" offer various arguments, the main one seems to be that sodium fluoride, the chemical used in fluoridation, is a poison. Dr. Lyons acknowledged this, but maintained that "under prescribed conditions" (his words) it promotes health. In rebuttal, here is an excerpt from a letter from H. M. Tippett of Washington, D. C.:

"Thousands of reputable dentists, many of them as scientifically informed as Lyons may be, have repudiated fluoridation on the basis of what they have seen in their own practice. Lyons may scare some people from thinking by calling it emotionalism. But he isn't fooling a lot of smart dentists and doctors who don't swallow wholesale everything that is labeled 'scientific.'"

Taking no sides, PARADE leaves the argument to those disposed to carry it on.

A New York school shows a new way to get 6-year-olds to taste unfamiliar foods

by SILVIA BAKST

GREAT NECK, N.Y.

The traditional problem of getting Johnny to eat his spinach has been met head-on at a school in this New York suburb.

A tasting course for tots is making life easier for mothers whose youngsters shy away from unfamiliar foods. "Tasting parties" at the Kensington School, like the one pictured on this page, teach 6-year-olds that such strange things as fennel, avocado, cauliflower, turnips and watercress can be just as much fun to eat as hamburgers or hot dogs — or even ice cream (almost).

First the children clip pictures of fruits and vegetables from magazines, draw pictures of favorite foods, then learn the ABCs of vitamins and nutrition.

On "tasting day" they march up to the home economics room. There they are shown heaping trays of vegetables and fruits. Then, helped by the home-making consultant, the children clean, cut, scrape or peel and arrange the prepared foods on trays. These are taken back to the classroom and the party begins. As they eat, they learn — not only about new and strange foods but about good table manners.

Mothers report that these adventures in eating are all to the good. Says one: "Bobby is curious about new foods now. He doesn't give us that 'closed mouth' routine any more. At least he tastes everything, and we have even had great success with vegetables. That's a great victory." ■

CHEESE DIP gets thumb test from Julie Herzig, who helped make it for garnish. School's party idea has proved so successful that it now is part of regular curriculum for primary grades.

CLEAN CLEAR THROUGH —and Deodorized Too!

THAT'S A FAB WASH!

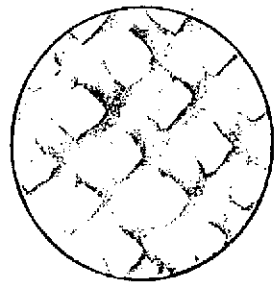

Microscope, magnifying fabric 100 times, shows the amazing difference between FAB-washed clothes and others washed with less effective products. FAB (see Picture No. 2) gets clothes clean clear through, not just surface clean . . . not just bleached white or blued white. Millions of women use washday products (see Picture No. 1) that leave hidden dirt in clothes. Do you? Dirt can cause odor! You don't have this problem with FAB-washed clothes. They're really clean, yes, clean clear through—and deodorized, too!

THE 6 MOST POWERFUL MEN IN THE WORLD

by H. V. KALTENBORN

. . . who, at 79, ranks as the dean of American news analysts. Long familiar to radio and television audiences, he still is active with NBC. In 60 years of journalism he has written millions of words, crisscrossed the globe, personally talked with most of the men he here discusses for PARADE.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

MARSHAL TITO

WHO ARE THE most powerful men in the world today? An intriguing question, and worthy of real thought. Part of the answer lies in the meaning of the word power — and how it is used.

For example, dictators like Generalissimo Franco of Spain or Colonel Nasser of Egypt exercise a closely limited kind of power. Pope Pius XII, head of the Roman Catholic Church, has a very different power — yet one both real and widespread. His moral influence affects the thought and action of millions. Yet during World War II, when the name of the Pope was mentioned at a meeting of the Big Three Allied leaders, Russia's Josef Stalin put the cynical question: "How many divisions will the Pope contribute?" — as though military manpower were the sole criterion.

When Dwight D. Eisenhower was head of NATO, he told me that three factors determined NATO's strength. One is the morale of the military force. Again, he believes that after the opening shock of any modern war the industrial power which feeds the military machine may well prove the decisive factor. And the old military maxim of "getting there fustest with the mostest" reminds us that power must be in the right place at the right time.

Nor is the mere possession of power enough. There must be the will to use it and the ability to supply it.

At the same time, not every man who occupies a seat of power is necessarily a man of power. Many times in history it was not the monarch but his chief minister who took over and exercised the real power.

With such considerations in mind, I submit the names of six men who, at this moment in history, exercise more power than any others that could be named.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States. At 66, he has been elected and re-elected leader of the world's most powerful country, enjoys wide popularity throughout the world. On top of his great military reputation, he brought to the White House an enormous personal prestige.

The terms of the Constitution give our President much more power than is accorded to the Prime Minister of Great Britain or the Premier of France. He cannot be ousted by the national legislature, except by impeachment. Congress has even given President Eisenhower special war-making powers not provided by the Constitution.

In the Far East, it has voted him a free hand to decide when aggressive actions of the Communist government of China imperil the security of the island of Formosa and call for our military intervention. In the Middle East, Congress has agreed to let the President use our military forces to repel an armed Communist attack against any country that asks us to intervene. Further, Congress has turned over to the President the exclusive right to determine when and where atomic weapons may be used in the national defense.

JAWAHARLAL NEHRU

POPE PIUS XII

NIKITA S. KHRUSHCHEV

MAO TSE-TUNG

The keys to their power

EISENHOWER heads the most powerful nation on earth . . . enjoys unique personal prestige . . . has great powers under the Constitution . . . has been given additional ones by Congress.

KHRUSHCHEV is chief of the Communist Party, which runs Russia . . . bosses the Kremlin inner circle . . . can decide whether Russia will start a war . . . is smart enough not to get too bossy.

MAO is dictator over 600 million people . . . is leading them in a drive to control Asia . . . runs Red China independently of Moscow . . . is growing stronger as China grows stronger.

THE POPE is moral leader of 500 million Catholics . . . carries great weight on both sides of the Iron Curtain — from influencing Italian elections to aiding a Hungarian cardinal.

NEHRU heads a nation of 375 million . . . has been Prime Minister 10 years . . . follows a policy that keeps him friendly to, and a possible mediator between, Communism and the West.

TITO is absolute boss of a highly strategic nation . . . has defied Moscow and modified Communism to his own country's needs . . . ably maintains his key position between two worlds.

All these special powers supplement the President's normal constitutional prerogatives. He is the Commander-in-Chief of America's military forces, and he controls our diplomatic action. He can influence public opinion through press conferences and talks over radio and television. No man in the world has greater personal power than Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The fact remains that ours is a government of laws and not of men. Therefore he must — and does — exercise his power with restraint and discretion.

NIKITA S. KHRUSHCHEV, chief of the Communist Party in the U.S.S.R. Though not Russia's top man in the "total" sense that Stalin was, he occupies the same position as Party leader and is the outstanding and most powerful member of the Kremlin Cabinet. This makes him, at 63, No. 1 in the world's No. 2 country.

In Russia, all power is centralized in the executive group headed by Khrushchev. The Soviet Union parliamentary groups have no real legislative or restraining power. The premier, foreign minister, defense minister and others have a certain amount of independent influence, but Khrushchev has emerged as the dominant government figure.

It was he who delivered the anti-Stalin speech of February, 1956, charging his former boss with a variety of crimes. It was Khrushchev who recently announced plans for decentralization of Soviet industry. It was he who led the Soviet delegation to Yugoslavia in the effort to work out a reconciliation with Marshal Tito. It is Khrushchev who gives the important interviews to foreign journalists.

Khrushchev headed last fall's delegation to Warsaw, which worked out the compromise under which Poland received a measure of local autonomy. He also led the delegation to Budapest, which decided on the ruthless use of Soviet military power to suppress the Hungarian revolution.

Obviously, Khrushchev knows how to be tough. With some reliance on his associates, he holds absolute power in a system that relies on secret police, censorship, brutal repression and slave-labor camps to retain its hold on a veritable empire—the Soviet Union and its European satellites. Nikita Khrushchev controls the decision as to when, where and whether Russia will launch aggressive war.

That fact alone makes him a man with enormous power. He is shrewd enough to know he can retain it only by showing a proper restraint in its use.

MAO TSE-TUNG, leader of Red China. Just a year older than Khrushchev, he is the dictator over 600 million people. He was born of peasant stock, but received a modern education. Later he read himself into Marxism and Leninism, but he never accepted Stalin's overlordship. He has become much more independent since Stalin's death.

LOUNGE ARTIST. A dog that climbs up on beds or furniture is a pest, not a pet. Help keep your home neat and tidy. Follow this simple MILK-BONE training plan.

TRAIN HIM. Point to the bed and say, "No," in a firm voice. Also give your dog a definite place to rest, such as a rug or an old blanket on the floor.

REWARD HIM. Most important. If your dog stays off the bed, follow the advice of dog training experts. Be sure to reward your dog with tasty, crunchy MILK-BONE DOG BISCUITS.

MILK-BONE WORKS. Your dog will love MILK-BONE so much he'll work hard to please you and earn another tasty reward. In no time at all, your dog will stay off beds.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR DOG BEHAVE:

Train him to stay off the bed—the Milk-Bone way

Follow the advice of dog experts such as Lee Duncan, trainer of Rin Tin Tin. Train your dog the MILK-BONE way for better behavior. After every trick or lesson, reward your dog with a MILK-BONE DOG BISCUIT. You'll find training is easier, faster, more fun—both for you and your dog.

Your dog will love the real tempting goodness of MILK-BONE. And remember, MILK-BONE is good for your dog. Gives him all-important chewing exercise that helps keep his teeth and gums strong and healthy.

Only MILK-BONE comes in three different textures and sizes. Look for circle on package front for size of biscuit that suits your dog best—LARGE, MEDIUM, or SMALL.

The world's 6 most

It is wrong to speak of Mao's China as a Soviet satellite. Red China is allied to the Soviet Union and depends on Russia for war material and machinery, but pursues an independent policy in seeking mastery of all Asia. Under Mao's leadership, it already has conquered Tibet, parts of Mongolia, Northern Korea, North Viet-Nam and certain islands in the Yellow Sea. It is infiltrating North Burma, Thailand and Laos. It has refused to make peace with the United States, and continues to hold American prisoners. It has openly vowed to conquer Formosa.

All these aggressive acts and threats have taken place under the direct leadership of Mao. He receives comparatively few headlines because this able and discreet leader prefers to work from behind the scenes. But as Red China grows stronger, so does Mao Tse-tung. He seems likely to remain one of the world's most powerful figures longer than several others on my list.

POPE PIUS XII, head of the Roman Catholic Church. Oldest (81) of the world's most powerful men, he relies almost entirely on moral influence and church discipline to exercise persuasion in a material-minded world. Repeatedly I have had the privilege of discussing with him the problems involved in Communism and the attainment of world peace. He impressed me as a man of great spiritual force with a keen sense of the practical.

The Pope's most successful direct exercise of political power came not long after World War II, when he used the influence of the Church to defeat the Communists in the Italian election. But he never misses an opportunity to attack Communism.

The Pope exerts an important influence even behind the Iron Curtain. The Communists did not dare prevent Cardinal Wyszynski, Primate of Poland, from making his recent visit to the Vatican. They have not dared remove Cardinal Mindszenty, Primate of Hungary, from his place of asylum in the American Embassy in Budapest. Five hundred million Catholics and 360,000 priests look to the Pope of Rome for moral leadership. The head of the Catholic Church is indeed a man of great power.

JAWAHARAL NEHRU, Prime Minister of India. Leader of some 375 million people, he reached that position by developing a kind of political split personality. Born in 1889, he was educated in England. Like Gandhi, he became a lawyer. But then the Amritsar massacre of his fellow Indians by British soldiers led him to devote his life to Indian freedom.

Four times he was elected President of the Indian National Congress. Where Gandhi was primarily a spiritual force, Nehru was a practical political leader. The British kept him in jail from 1930 to 1936, and like Mao Tse-tung he read himself into a belief in

Marxism. In 1947 he became the first Prime Minister of free India. He still is a Socialist — which has helped make him a neutralist. Neutralism is one source of his power. He has stood between capitalism and Communism, embracing neither. Today he is perhaps the only great political leader who is as welcome in Moscow as he is in Washington.

Known as a man of peace, he proved himself willing to use force by his insistence on India's control of the disputed province of Kashmir. He fights Communism in India, but objects to the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the Baghdad Pact — both directed against Communist aggression. He repeatedly has sought to mediate between the Soviet Union and the Western powers, and between Egypt and the users of the Suez Canal.

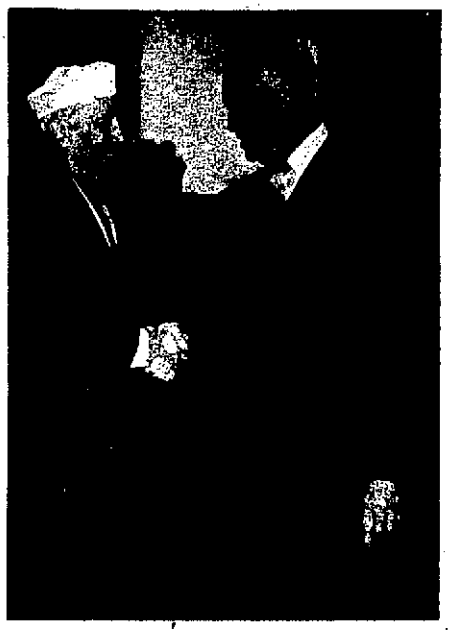

Because Nehru heads a great and growing nation, because he enjoys the respect of the world, because of his undoubtedly good intentions and because he occupies a strategic position of neutrality, he remains a man of power who may yet exercise decisive influence in the maintenance of world peace.

MARSHAL TITO of Yugoslavia. Though a minor dictator, he occupies — like Nehru — a strategic position between East and West. He stands between the Communist and the anti-Communist world of Europe.

Though trained in Moscow, he has abandoned many aspects of Communism in his own country — for example, his unsuccessful effort to communize agriculture. Years ago he did what Khrushchev is now trying to do in Russia: decentralize industry. He told me that the two great evils of Communism are bureaucracy and centralization, and explained how he sought to get rid of both in his own country. Tito admits that at first he copied too much from Russia. He welcomed his break with the Kremlin as an opportunity to turn his back on some Soviet methods.

At 65, Tito is an absolute dictator; he holds most of Yugoslavia's executive and legislative power in his own hands. But he uses it intelligently, and therein lies his strength. Years ago he found it expedient to give the various parts of Yugoslavia a good deal of the local autonomy they have always demanded. He has been able to relax police power without producing any revolutionary outbreaks. One source of his considerable personal popularity is that he is a true patriot; he risked his life time and again during the war against Germany, and the men who fought under him are loyal to him.

Tito plays the diplomatic game with considerable skill. He has secured hundreds of millions in American aid without turning his back on his Communist beliefs. He still is being wooed by both the Soviet Union and the United States. There is no denying that for the present he holds a position of great power in a very important part of Europe.

EAST AND WEST clasp hands during a visit to Washington by India's Prime Minister Nehru.

There you have my list of six. And why didn't I include the Prime Minister of Great Britain or Franco of Spain or Nasser of Egypt? The answer is that none of these men can exercise much power outside his own country or on his own initiative.

The British Prime Minister works with and through his Cabinet. He either works with them or they resign, and thus weaken his government. When a British Prime Minister steps out of line and makes an attempt to exercise power on his own account, he is apt to meet the fate that befell Prime Minister Eden. A great personality like Winston Churchill can exercise personal power, but the average British Prime Minister is controlled by public opinion, by Parliament, by his associates and by the Opposition.

Nasser's forces were beaten decisively by the Israeli Army last year and are no stronger today. His control of the Suez Canal is precarious. His political ambitions in the Near East have had a setback in Jordan. Egypt's economy is going downhill. Nasser's apparent power is due to the strength of his outside support; it does not come from within.

As for General Franco, when he finally emerged victorious in the long-drawn-out Spanish Civil War (thanks in large part to outside help), his country was not a sufficiently strong factor in European affairs to rank him as a man of great power outside of Spain. Nor is it today. Franco is boss in his own land. He is working with us in the battle against Communism. But he has no claim to rank among today's most powerful men.

So there they are — Eisenhower, Khrushchev, Mao Tse-tung, Pope Pius XII, Nehru, Tito. It probably would be better for the peace of the world if three out of six were not Communist dictators. We can console ourselves with the thought that in recent decades many dictators have disappeared almost overnight. So there is at least a chance for more democratic successors. ■

Last night I nearly died of embarrassment because of my LOOSE FALSE TEETH!

What a shame you didn't know!
No powder can hold loose false teeth like POLI-GRIP CREAM—so tight · so long · so snug!

Pleasant tasting Poli-Grip cream locks slipping, sliding dentures firmly in place, even anchors shallow lowers.

Unlike messy, hit-or-miss powders, Poli-Grip cream spreads evenly, smoothly... holds plates tighter, longer.

Snug, Tight-Fitting Comfort

The minute you use Poli-Grip you feel its snug, tight-fitting comfort. Poli-Grip lays a wonderful comfort cushion between plates and tender gums to eliminate the friction that rubs gums sore and raw.

Now you can eat steak, corn-on-the-cob...even bite into sticky taffy...without rocking, wobbling dentures embarrassing you. You can laugh out loud, cough, even sneeze. The fear of your plates dropping away from your gums is gone!

What's more, hot liquids like steaming coffee or hot soup will not melt Poli-Grip away as they do weak powders. Poli-Grip grips no matter what!

Start now to enjoy the assurance that comes only when you know your false teeth are locked firmly in place. Try Poli-Grip cream today. At any drug counter. If Poli-Grip doesn't hold your plates tighter, longer than powders...or anything you have ever tried, you get double your money back!

PETER PERCHES to sing with his owner. He usually keeps on after hymn ends.

MISSIONARY WITH WINGS

A parakeet helps spread the gospel

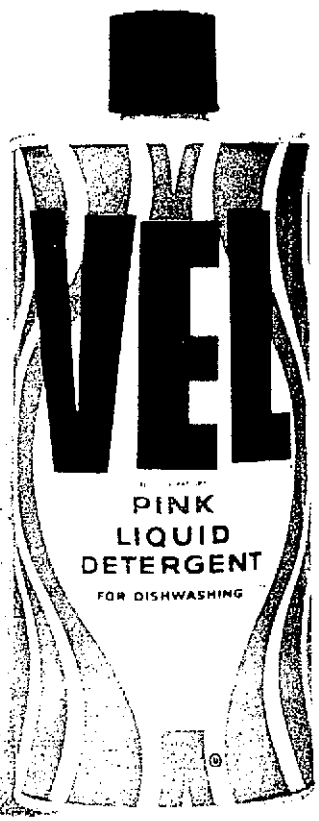

Perching, preaching and pecking in these photos is the nation's smallest — and flightiest — missionary: a blue-and-gray parakeet named Peter Piper. Peter became a man of the cloth two years ago, when an Alabama Sunday school donated him to the Rev. Leila Anderson of La Moille, Ill., a Congregational Christian missionary.

Since then, Peter has logged thousands of miles as "male companion" to Miss Anderson. She tours churches in remote areas in a specially designed station wagon to introduce new Sunday School materials, explain new programs, lead services and meetings. As she goes, her feathered friend has his own self-chosen duties. A born showoff, he entertains Sunday School children, leads hymn singing and peppers discussions with phrases like "Amen" and "Peter is a good boy. Praise the Lord."

He also has blossomed into a full-blown character with a mind of his own.

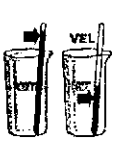

IN JUST ONE DAY...YOUR HANDS CAN TELL YOU'VE CHANGED TO NEW PINK LIQUID VEL!

Makes quick work of dishes and pans ...yet no 'detergent burn' to hands!

The very first time you touch the dishwater you'll notice the wonderful difference Vel makes. No "slippery" alkali feeling because unlike washday detergents for clothes, Vel contains no harsh alkalis to roughen, redden skin. Vel's active ingredient is 100% grease-cutter. No powder, no other liquid can match Vel's speed, economy, and liquid-pink mildness. It's MarVELous!

PROOF LIQUID VEL IS MILDER! When water hits washday detergents, their strong chemicals produce heat. But with new Liquid Vel . . . thermometer registers no heat . . . no "washday detergent burn." Vel's formula makes it milder than other liquid detergents, too!

VEL is the trade-mark of the Colgate-Palmolive Co.

PETER PERFORMS for fascinated Sunday Schoolers in a small Washington town.

He expresses a loud preference for church suppers. He swoops low over the tables, perching occasionally to sample the salad or pastry. Once he bathed in a minister's water glass.

Peter has appeared on TV and radio, in summer camps and at hundreds of Sunday Schools and informal church meetings. He also receives considerable fan mail. Miss Anderson answers it, adding his "signature" — the imprint of his claw dipped in shoe polish.

Keeping Peter's language clerical is a persistent problem. Pranksters often teach him salty phrases, which Miss Anderson then must winnow out of his 150-word vocabulary. But mostly, his talk is more brassy than scandalous.

Recently, at a church supper, Miss Anderson was chatting with a frosty spinster. Peter zipped across the room and landed on the lady's shoulder. As she recoiled, he nuzzled against her cheek. "Kiss me, kid," said Peter. ■

PETER POSES with a bill taken in after a service led by his owner.

Pillsbury creates 7 new miracle doughs and they are rapidly becoming...

America's new way

THE LEADER IN CONVENIENCE FOODS! Mr. Paul S. Gerot, Pillsbury President, (shown talking to the author, Ruth Andre, in the Pillsbury Home Service Kitchen) says, "Ten years ago we pioneered cake and other baking mixes. Today, they are in practically every home in America. Now, we have pioneered a complete line of companion products . . . fresh baking doughs that are all ready for the oven . . . kept fresh in your grocer's dairy case. This is another miraculous advancement for home bakers!"

Just imagine it . . . fresh baking doughs that are ready to bake! No ingredients to buy. No mixing. Just open the package—into the pan—into the oven! This new way to bake opens the door to a whole new world of baking ease.

What'll they think of next?

Quick caramel nut rolls with all their hot, crunchy nut meat flavor. Cookies that melt in your mouth. Noble biscuits (sweetmilk or buttermilk) and quick cinnamon rolls with old-fashioned home baked goodness.

Now brides are baking like old timers! Yes, even newlyweds are baking fluffy biscuits, fancy sweet rolls and crispy cookies on the very first try. And women who have baked every week since they were in their teens are now baking with Pillsbury's new miracle doughs . . . they've found they can save hours and still give their families wonderful home baked foods.

"Get set for super-cooking!"

Clementine Paddleford, the Food Editor of This Week magazine, says, "Get set for super-cooking . . . . Your family's living habits are headed for a revolution."

And that's the truth, Miss Paddleford! You could have been referring to the new way to bake that's taking over America! In one easy step, any girl with a baking pan, an oven and a few packages of the new Pillsbury fresh doughs can become an expert baker. With only minutes of preparation time, she can serve light and tender biscuits, luscious sweet rolls and crunchy-crisp icebox cookies.

Want to surprise the family tonight?

Get a can of Pillsbury Quick Cinnamon Rolls . . . and bring the hot, fine sweet-spice aroma of cinnamon to your dinner table.

Takes hardly any preparation time at all! You can have them in your oven in a minute or two. Every can has 8 sweet rolls of fresh dough . . . already spread with swirls of cinnamon and sparkly sugar. Out of the can and into the pan they go . . . 20 to bake!

minutes later open the oven door to sweet, spicy and oh-so-light cinnamon rolls.

As an extra treat, try them with your favorite fruit as a "cobbler" dessert.

Hot, country-fresh biscuits in just 10 minutes

Now biscuits are as easy to bake as making instant coffee. Each can holds ten unbaked biscuits. In one minute they're baking in your oven. Nine minutes later, pull out a pan of fluffy, tender biscuits . . . golden crusted, perfect.

How do you like your biscuits? With country-fresh sweet milk flavor or that fresh-from-the-churn buttermilk flavor? Now you can serve either . . . Pillsbury Sweetmilk or Pillsbury Buttermilk Biscuits. You can bake biscuits just like those from a country kitchen.

Best Sunday breakfast idea ever

There's a new miracle dough that makes wonderful sweet rolls . . . covered with caramel and crunchy nut meats. It's a quick way to turn breakfast into something special. And they take just minutes!

New Pillsbury Quick Caramel Nut Rolls have eight sweet rolls of fresh dough plus a luscious caramel and chopped nut topping in each can. Takes only two minutes to crumble the topping into a pan—sprinkle with a tablespoon of water—place the sweet rolls on the topping—and pop 'em into the oven. About 25 minutes later, breakfast is ready for a delighted family.

Would you believe it? Slice-and-bake cookies!

All you do is slice and bake this newest fresh dough from Pillsbury. Just like you'd make at home—long rolls of fresh icebox cookie doughs. And you can fill the cookie jar with three "Gimme one!" flavors: Butterscotch Nut, Crunchy Peanut and Coconut.

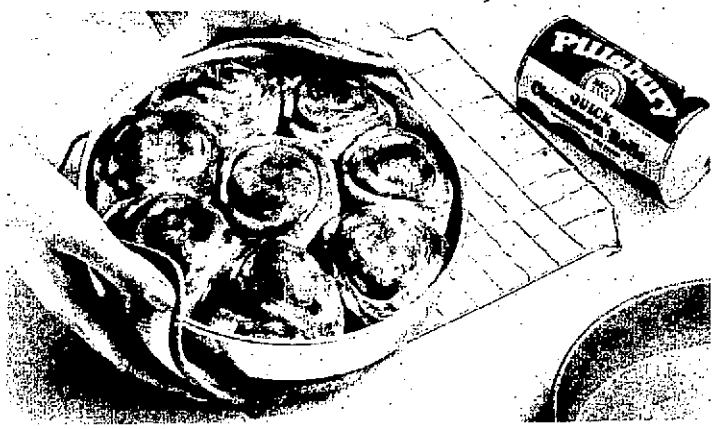

Each flavor of Pillsbury Icebox Cookies makes about 4 dozen delicious cookies, depending on whether you slice 'em thick or slice 'em thin. You keep them in the refrigerator like you would your own fresh cookie dough . . . you can slice and bake exactly what you need and put the rest of the roll back.

Pillsbury brings America a new way to bake

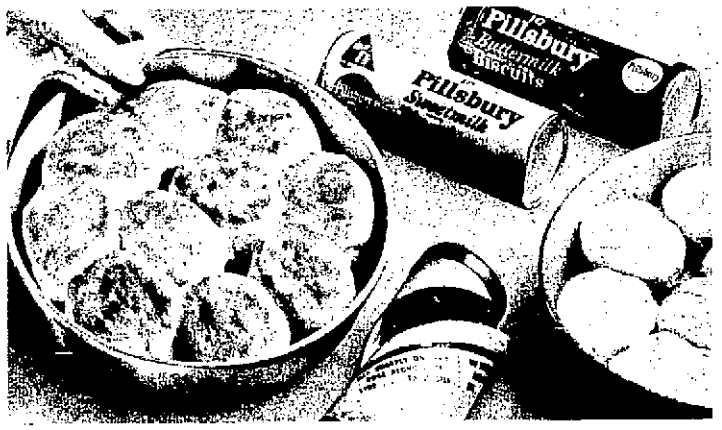

A wonderful new world of baking ease! Where brides bake like old timers . . . and experienced home bakers save hours each week. It's a world filled with the pride of serving your family from your own oven—golden-brown biscuits, glamorous sweet rolls and crispy cookies. And, it's just as close to you as your grocer's dairy case.

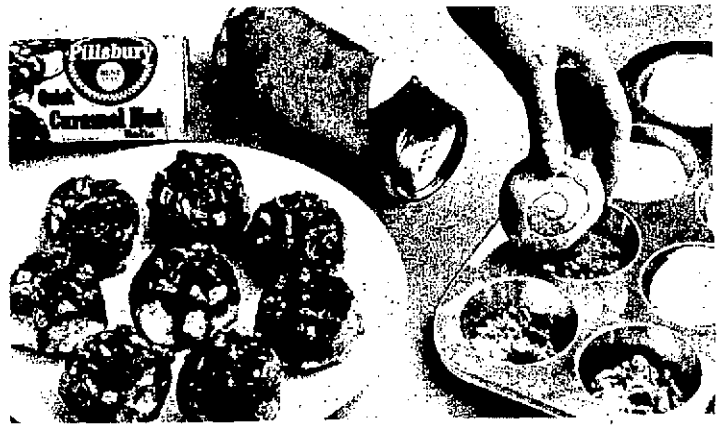

GET 'EM AT YOUR GROCER'S DAIRY CASE where you find the milk, cream, eggs, cheese and other fine fresh foods. Try these 7 new Miracle Doughs that are rapidly becoming America's new way to bake . . . Pillsbury Sweetmilk and Buttermilk Biscuits, Quick Cinnamon Rolls, Quick Caramel Nut Rolls and the three flavors of Icebox Cookies.

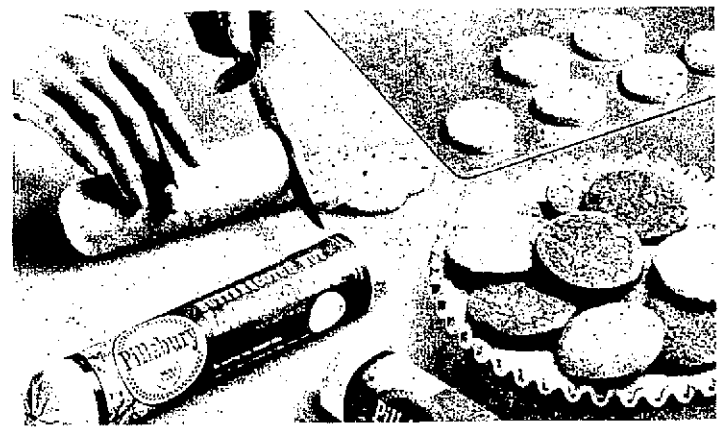

NEW DINNER IDEA READY FOR YOUR OVEN Just open the can and pop 'em in a pan . . . and bake. Please your family with hot and fresh Quick Cinnamon Rolls . . . home baked by you!

BISCUITS WITHOUT FLOURING A FINGER Hot and home baked . . . no mixing, no rolling, no cutting. There are 10 unbaked biscuits in each can . . . ready to bake up fluffy, light and golden crusted.

NOW BAKE YOUR OWN CARAMEL NUT ROLLS Only 2 minutes getting-ready time . . . you can bake 'em for breakfast. Serve the same buttery nut meat flavor Mother used to get the hard way.

NEWEST MIRACLE! JUST SLICE AND BAKE! Real icebox cookie dough . . . not a mix, not frozen! Comes in three "Gimme one!" flavors children love. Each flavor makes about 4 dozen.

IN PRAGUE, Communist police clear way for Olga and Harold through applauding crowds after their wedding this spring.

WHAT'S HAPPENED TO

THE OLYMPIC LOVERS?

Olga and Harold Connolly melted the Iron Curtain—but their problems have only begun

IN BOSTON, the Connollys stroll. Here too people still stop them to offer congratulations.

by JOHN DEVANEY

BOSTON, MASS.

In this month of brides — and grooms — probably no couple faces married life with more delicate adjusting to do than Olga and Harold Connolly, the athletes who fell in love at the Olympics last November and shattered the Iron Curtain with the strength of that love.

The two first met outside an equipment shed in Melbourne, Australia. Connolly and two other brawny hammer throwers were standing at the door, impatiently shifting from one foot to another, as Olga Fikotova, Czechoslovakia's top girl athlete, took her time about picking a discus. When she finally came out, she started to apologize.

"Then I saw Harold," she says, "and I forgot everything else."

The 25-year-old Connolly, America's best hammer thrower despite a left arm withered from a birth injury, felt the same way. He courted Olga, 24, during the Olympics (they both won first-place medals), then followed her to Czechoslovakia, where their entreaties won over Communist officials. This spring, to the delight of the entire world, Harold was allowed to marry Olga and take her with him to America.

This, it seemed, was the happy ending to their story. Actually, PARADE has learned, their problems have just begun. The Connollys face five obstacles that might dismay the most stout-hearted of lovers:

1) Olga, studying to be a doctor, had only 18 months to go to graduate from a Czech medical school; now she must take rigorous tests to enter jammed U.S. schools. These tests will be especially tough because her knowledge of English is only fair. And if she is admitted, she may be required to study longer than 18 months.

2) She must accustom herself to the ways of a democracy after living since she was 7 largely under the regimentation of dictatorships—first Nazi, then Communist.

3) Harold must find a new job. He had been a history teacher in the school system here, "but a teacher's salary," he points out, "isn't enough to send your wife through medical school."

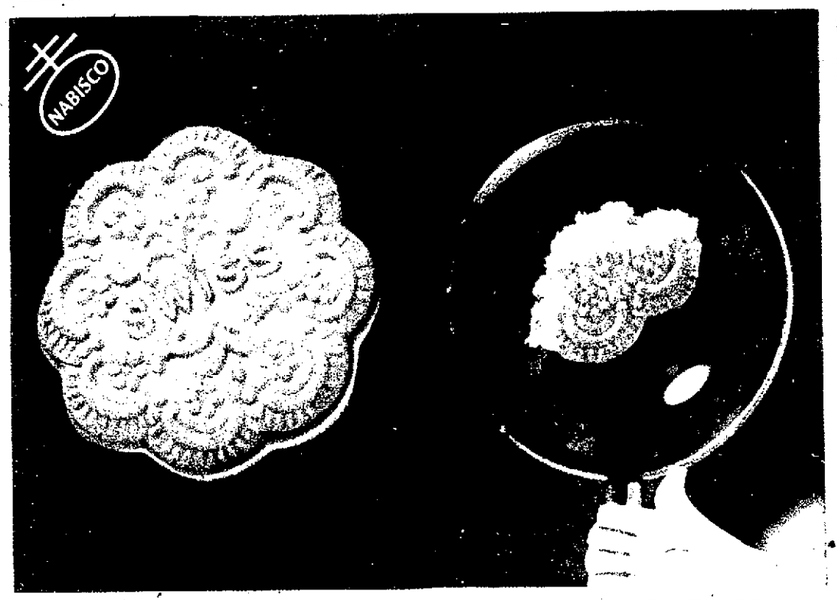

Peace and Time

4) Both must duck the avalanche of reporters, photographers, business agents and just plain well-wishers who have given them little peace, and less time for themselves, since they arrived here two months ago.

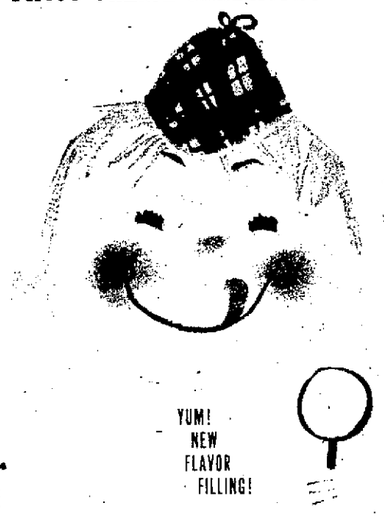

5) Each must learn to live with, and respect, the religious faith of the other. (Harold is a Roman Catholic, Olga a Lutheran.)

Above all else, like every other young

AT MEET, Harold hurls a hammer (l.) and Olga tosses a discus. Her best mark, 176', is 11' shy of the world record.

U.S. women's fashions don't impress Olga, but she calls baseball a 'perfect' sport couple, they must absorb the ordinary day-to-day bounces of marriage's often bumpy road.

"We'll be all right," says the 6', 220-lb. Connolly. "There's been an awful lot of kind people who have already offered to help us get started."

What will help most, believes Harold's mother, Margaret (they're staying at her apartment here till they can find one of their own), is Harold's "extraordinary patience. When he was going to Boston College," she says, "he'd come home after a hard day of practicing and teach every boy in the neighborhood, or so it seemed, how to throw the hammer. He's a natural-born teacher. He'll steer Olga through this period of getting adjusted to things."

Olga has a quicker temper. When photographers kept them posing for an unreasonable time after they landed in New York, she suddenly snatched the willing-to-oblige Harold by the arm, snapped, "Thank you, gentlemen," and stalked off.

A Big Tease

Around Connolly, though, his 5'10", 160-lb. (but slender) bride, who can sling a discus farther than any woman competing today, is a typical "clinging vine." When he's talking to somebody else, she hangs firmly to his arm, looks blissfully into his eyes. When they're together, she coos into his ear, nuzzles at his cheek. Before other people she teases him lovingly. (While PARADE's Ben Ross was taking today's cover, she giggled at Harold: "You look terrible.")

But she's no scatterbrain, has definite opinions. Examples:

• U.S. women's fashions do not impress her. "They're not cut the way I like," she says. (Her favorite dress is the yellow print she's wearing on the cover, on page 17 and below.) She's amazed, though, that well-dressed American women can buy ready-made clothes; in Czechoslovakia, where ready-made clothes are sack-like, she made all her own things herself.

• She's struck by men's fashions here. "In Europe," she says, "men do not dress nearly as well, mainly because they are not as interested as American men in clothes."

• Baseball enchants her. An avid follower of Ted Williams, she thinks baseball is a "perfect" sport — "because you've got to have good arms, good legs, good eyes, good everything."

• TV commercials irritate her, not because of what they proclaim but the way they are woven into programs. "When she's watching a baseball game on TV," says Harold, "and there suddenly appears a ball player smoking a cigaret, she thinks that's part of the game and gets confused."

• The contrasts in American living fascinate her. "It's hard to believe," she says, "that in 20 minutes one can go from the awful noise and dirt in the middle of Boston to Walden Pond [in the suburbs], where everything is so green and beautiful and peaceful." The Pond is her favorite spot, to date, in the U.S.; she and Harold go there often and take long walks around it, hand in hand.

Language, so far, hasn't been a great problem for her. Though she has a strong accent, she only occasionally has to call on Harold to supply her with a word.

In talking with people, however, she's sometimes confused by slang expressions. "It took her a couple of days," says Mrs. Connolly, laughing, "to get over the shock when she heard me say to somebody: 'Drop dead.' "

Will they continue active in sports? "Yes," says Harold, "as long as I can work at my job and Olga can finish her studies. We've accepted invitations to several track meets, in New York and California, but we've turned down others where the people invited us, not because they wanted us to compete, but because they wanted a sideshow to draw crowds.

"If possible, we'll enter the 1960 Olympics. Olga, however, won't be on the U.S. team; since she's still a Czech citizen, she will have to compete for her own country."

Right now, Connolly is wrestling with problems closer at hand: getting a job and getting his wife the education she needs. But, says Harold's mother, "If love always finds a way, then those two needn't worry about a thing." ■

CROWN JEWEL JELL-O

When you want a really special treat to draw admiring "ohs" from your guests . . . try this elegant new Jell-O gelatin dessert.

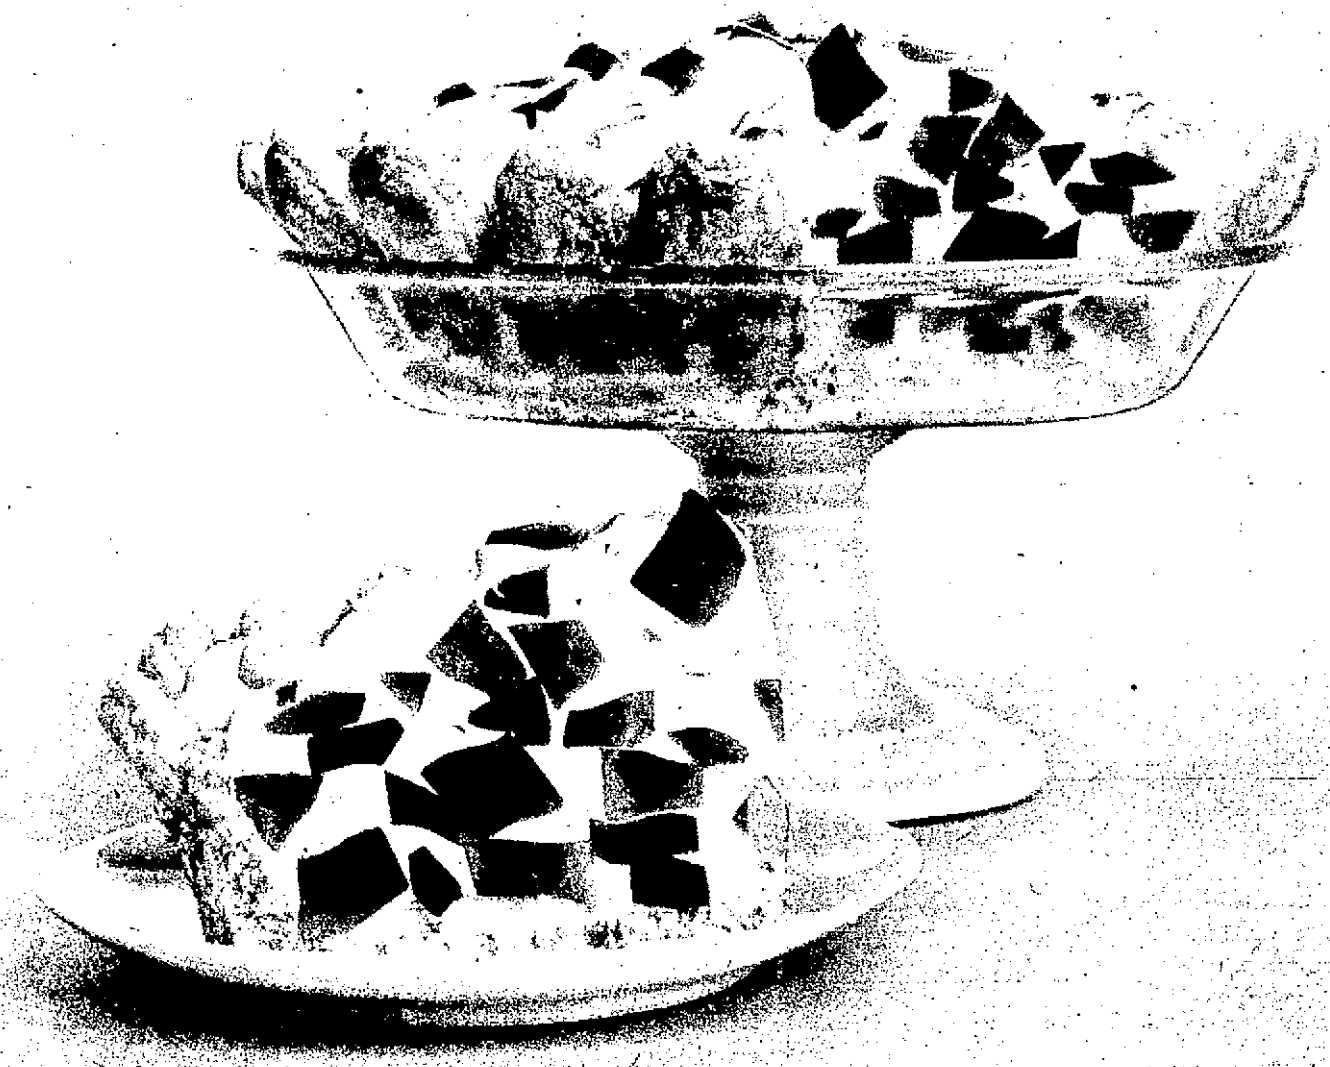

FIRST, prepare separately a package of Raspberry, Lime and Black Cherry Jell-O, using 1 cup hot water and ½ cup cold water for each. (Or create your own bright combination of flavors!) Pour into 3 shallow pans and chill until firm. Cut into ½-inch cubes.

NEXT, make the fluffy filling by heating ¼ cup sugar with 1 cup canned pineapple juice to boiling. Dissolve 1 package Strawberry Jell-O in the hot liquid. Add ½ cup cold water. Chill until just syrupy. Whip 2 cups cream (or non-fat dry milk, if desired) and fold it into the syrupy Jell-O. Fold in the little Jell-O jewels.

Now, line two 9-inch pie plates with ladyfingers (about 2 packages), and pour in the Jell-O mixture. Chill about 4 hours. Crown Jewel Jell-O serves 16 beautifully . . . and tastes every bit as delightful as it looks!

talks with teenagers

Shy boy: "I like a boy very much but he's too shy to speak to me. My girl friend and I spend most of our time at the beach giggling and talking. He seems to notice me then, but isn't friendly. What can I do?" — D.L., Knoxville, Tenn.

Older girls I talked to say you are doing just about the worst thing possible. When girls giggle, boys often feel they are being laughed at. And boys, especially shy boys, can't bear to be laughed at.

The girls suggest that you and your friends plan a picnic. Ask both boys and girls, being sure to include at least one boy this boy likes. To make him feel more at ease when you invite him, tell him who's coming. (If you don't want to invite him face to face, you may phone him.)

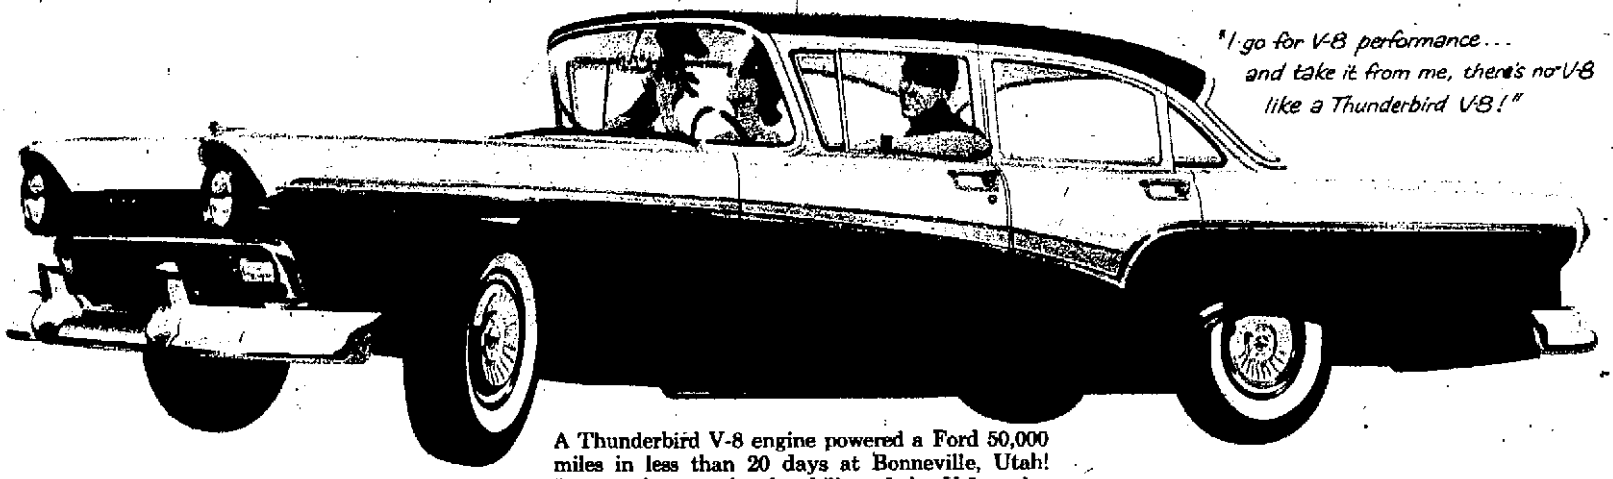

After the picnic, if he doesn't ask you out or show you any attention, don't continue to run after him. Shyness, especially in boys under 16, usually is just an indication that they are not ready to go out with girls.

Figure problem: "I have heavy thighs, and that's the one place I can't seem to lose weight. I'll be going to beach parties this summer and swimming at the club pool. What style bathing suit should I wear?" — Sheila Kay Neubauer, Indianapolis, Ind.

The advice of one girl I know is: "Buy a suit with a short, full skirt or 'little boy' shorts. Either will be more flattering than one which is skin tight about the thighs." She adds, "Tell Sheila to swim as much as possible; it's wonderful for reducing both hips and legs."

Girls in one Eastern boarding school do this exercise. Sit on the floor, supporting yourself with the palms of your hands — behind you. Bend left knee, keeping foot flat on the floor. Now slap your leg down hard. Repeat with the right leg. Continue doing this as fast as you can for five minutes each day. It helps!

Torta di Parma, a favorite from northern Italy, is a delicious change for outdoor eating

by BETH MERRIMAN
PARADE FOOD EDITOR

In the shadow of the United Nations Building in New York City is a cheerful restaurant called Antolotti's, where "home-style" dishes of northern Italy are served. One of these is Torta di Parma, a delicious blend of chopped vegetables, cheese and rice, baked in a special pastry. It offers such possibilities for American picnics that May Antolotti was asked to take over PARADE's test kitchen and demonstrate how to make it.

Plenty of "elbow grease" is needed — one is not gentle with this dough — but it's fun. And the finished Torta can be carried right in its pan (left). It goes wonderfully with hot dogs (below) or other picnic meat, taking the place of starchy foods and eggs. Suggestion: Try it after a brisk swim!

TORTA DI PARMA

- 1¼ cups sifted flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, unbeaten
- 3 T. lukewarm water
- 1 medium head Savoy cabbage
- 2 medium onions
- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese
- 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 4 cups cooked rice
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Few grains pepper
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten

Sift flour and salt together. Add 1 unbeaten egg; mix well. Add lukewarm water a little at a time. Now work the dough vigorously, lifting it up and "crashing" it down on a heavily floured board until it becomes elastic and cleans the board. Grease an aluminum tray or jelly-roll pan about 16" x 10" x 1". Roll dough paper-thin in a rectangle at least 4" longer and wider than the pan. Place in pan. Chop cabbage fine; wash thoroughly. Chop onions fine. Add to cabbage; saute in butter or margarine until soft but not brown. Add cheeses; stir until melted. Add rice, salt, pepper and beaten eggs; mix well; spread on dough in pan. Bring overhanging pastry up and over filling; pierce with tines of fork; pull away from sides of pan with fork. Break remaining egg on top; "scrub" over entire surface with a pastry brush. Bake in moderate oven (375°), 45 minutes or until golden brown. Cool, then chill. Serve cut into 12 squares.

What makes a MASS MURDERER?

FOUR DEAD: Daniel Woolridge, 14, of St. Joseph,Mo., killed both of his parents, a brother and a sister just a couple of months ago. The mass slaying was preceded by an argument between Daniel and his father. The boy wanted to go for a ride. His father insisted it was too cold.

Here is new insight into multiple killing – a sudden, savage crime that makes too many headlines

by ROBERT P. GOLDMAN

LAST MONTH, in Rye, N. Y., a 14-year-old boy shot his mother and sister dead with a .22 rifle. Police said his mother had "rebuked him mildly" for not doing his homework.

A little earlier, an Illinois businessman "couldn't stand to leave" his mother and three daughters in order to remarry — so he killed all four, then himself.

In St. Joseph, Mo., another 14-year-old "went crazy" and slew his mother, father, sister and brother.

In Gallion, Ohio, police mowed down a 28-year-old worker who had just killed three other persons.

These are typical recent cases of mass, or multiple, murder. And do you recall the name of Howard Unruh? Back in 1949, in Camden, N. J., he was seized by blind rage and shot down 13 people.

Fortunately, such outbreaks don't occur every day. But they do occur, and they keep occurring – year in, year out. You may read of one tomorrow morning. The killer, often considered "respectable" by those who know him, suddenly goes berserk. A whole family may be wiped out; passersby may be slaughtered. It is like the unplanned devastation of a volcano, a cyclone.

But we can understand natural disasters (even if we can't control them). What makes a seemingly "normal" human being turn mass killer? What triggers the deed? Are there danger signals that might be acted on to prevent the outburst and save innocent lives?

The answers are not easy, but intelligent students of human behavior are beginning to find them. PARADE has just talked with a top authority in the field, New York clinical psychologist Emanuel F. Hammer. For years Dr. Hammer has probed into mass murder. He has studied several such killers at close range. His findings throw new light on one of the most terrifying of all crimes.

First of all, the mass murderer rarely plans his act. When it is over, he can hardly remember it; indeed, he may be as shocked by it as any onlooker. Remember, he is a "respectable" citizen. Often he is so quiet, even prim, that no one – perhaps not even he – would picture him as a killer.

Thus he differs markedly from the murderer who plans, and kills, in cold blood. Arithmetically speaking, John Gilbert Graham — the young man who planted a bomb in an airliner to kill his mother and, in passing, 43 others — was a "mass" murderer. But he arranged his crime with cool foreknowledge of its outcome. So, of course, do the hired gunmen of the underworld.

The multiple killer we are considering here explodes in a dreadful moment. As one result, following his outburst of murderous fury, he almost invariably is caught. Or he may destroy himself along with his victims. He does not plan an escape, because he did not plan the murders in the first place.

Who the Killer Is

Let's get a close-up of a mass killer as disclosed by Dr. Hammer's studies.

First, the murderer is almost always a male – child or adult. (Women are much less prone to commit violent anti-social acts.) Second, the killer is likely to be afflicted with schizophrenia, a mental disease marked by loss of contact with reality, gradual mental breakdown and sometimes feelings of persecution and/or delusions.

For example, one mass murderer told Dr. Hammer: "The Claneys are after me; they're trying to get me." Another claimed that people persisted in "blowing poison dust under my door." A third, while talking to the psychologist, suddenly took off his shoe and smashed it down on the floor at some unseen "enemy," then calmly put the shoe back on. Still another said he heard religious voices which "told me to kill."

Such mental distortions are particularly tragic in children. One youngster examined by Dr. Hammer was only 8, but he had the makings of a killer. A farm child, he already had tried to do away with four other children "who wouldn't play with me." Lacking another weapon, he had released the brake on a tractor in hopes it would roll downhill and crush all four.

FIVE DEAD: Placid-looking Herman Behn, of W. Frankfort, Ill., posed for this photo with his mother and daughters. Later, he took their lives and his own.

A third point is that mass murderers seem not only meek and mild but extremely self-righteous. Their behavior is so exaggeratedly quiet that it caricatures morality itself. Some mass murderers are devoted Bible readers and quote Scripture readily.

Inside, however, the mass killer is — as noted — like a volcano waiting to erupt. His facade of restraint is merely a cover-up for hatred and resentment. Probably he has been tense his whole life.

Thus his all-pervasive "morality" is the unsteady lid which contains his rage and hatred. Because he is so self-righteous, he cannot allow himself the luxury of a mild show of temper. He cannot pound the desk, or even use profanity. If he could, perhaps he would not kill. Instead he bottles up his feelings until the pressure grows too great to bear.

Then, suddenly and unpredictably, the lid flies off with fantastic violence. The volcano erupts. The "good citizen" turns killer — because he no longer can restrain himself.

What is the spark that lights the fuse? It may be a series of arguments — over a brief period — with a parent or other relative. The tension within is so great that even a mild argument might be the last link in the chain leading to mass murder.

13 DEAD: This is the dazed expression Howard Unruh wore after his 1949 murder spree in Camden, N. J.

In one case, a man murdered three people after he was discharged from his job. The firing proved to be his emotional boiling point.

More likely, though, alcohol provides the spark. The mass murderer does not go on a real bender. He drinks just enough to dissolve his inhibitions. Then, he has the "strength" to kill. Alcohol is not a cause, but a contributing factor to his sickness.

Once the murderer's controls are dissolved — by whatever cause — the dam of emotions is sundered. Picture the killer in an uncontrollable "temper tantrum," only half-conscious of what he is doing. Later he may describe himself as having "seen red" or "seen white." He rushes to pick up whatever weapon is handy and blindly flays out.

Why He Keeps Killing

Such erupted rage usually can be sustained only a few minutes. Howard Unruh's lasted about an hour. In that time, he fired a .45 revolver crazily about in the street, in stores, in apartments. He did not even know many of his victims.

Usually the mass murderer seeks to kill only one person, the real object of his hatred. Failing to find that person, he becomes further enraged, crashes about wildly killing anyone in sight. One killer really sought to slay his mother. He picked up a weapon, frantically searched the house for her. She had hidden. Her son's rage mounted. Furiously, he tore into the street and murdered several other persons. Had he been able to find his mother, that man likely would have killed only her.

After the fury is released — by killing — the mass murderer is a completely changed person, for a while. He returns to his old, docile self. The volcano is quiet once again. When apprehended, the killer is in a kind of daze. Gradually he begins to feel greatly relieved. The tensions are gone for the moment. He is limp, without energy. His "steam" has been released. He does not hear the voices. He probably is more contented than at any time since his childhood.

Sooner or later he emerges from this "twilight" state. The law steps in. The killer's first reaction to his own crime is likely to be sheer disbelief. Once convinced that he actually has taken life, he still feels he should not be punished.

The mass killer usually is committed to a mental institution. In his state of "no-tension" he is harmless, having reverted to his former righteous self. But this state lasts only a few months at best. Gradually the tensions mount again. His hands may begin to shake, his eyes to dart from side to side, his feet to tap nervously. He becomes increasingly less responsive in casual discussion. The volcano is building up again.

Now, how does an individual start along this harrowing road? One answer — a partial one only — lies in what kind of parents he has. Parents of mass killers show many characteristics in common. Usually there is a domineering mother who runs the household with an iron hand. The father often is a passive nonentity who has little to do with rearing the child. Conversely, he may be a brutal type, sometimes an alcoholic, who beats the child and thus turns him toward his mother.

In this situation the son cannot follow the normal course and pattern himself after his father. Rather, he takes his cues from his mother. This can lead to deep-seated emotional conflicts involving the son's masculinity and his relationship to his mother. If the conflicts eventually lead to a homicidal outburst, the mother may well be the target.

What Can We Do?

Fortunately for society, mass killers are few and far between. For the most part, Dr. Hammer says, they exist because there are not enough mental-health facilities in the U. S. to spot the potential killer early in life. Dr. Hammer believes such persons can be detected through psychological tests. For example, he says the symptoms which ultimately led to Howard Unruh's shocking slaughter of 13 people could have been detected five years or more beforehand.

From this comes Dr. Hammer's suggestion for a way to prevent mass murders in the future — early detection via mental-health examinations in elementary and high schools. This calls for facilities, personnel — and money. But it would be worth it.

"Now we accept the once-a-year physical checkup," Dr. Hammer points out. "The day we learn to accept the once-every-five-years mental checkup, we will be on the way to preventing mass murder — and many other types of destructive behavior." ■

THE SCHNOZZ, shown here at a TV rehearsal, may be the one man in show business with all friends, no enemies.

MY PAL, JIMMY DURANTE

by EDDIE CANTOR

EDITOR'S NOTE: Eddie Cantor, one of America's all-time favorite entertainers, made his first money as a singing waiter at Coney Island in 1909. There he met a shy, big-nosed piano player who became his lifelong friend. This intimate account of that friendship — one of the warmest "profiles" of Jimmy Durante ever written — is condensed from Cantor's current best-selling autobiography, *Take My Life.

The piano player at Carey Walsh's saloon was a thin homely kid of 16 with brown hair and a good sized nose. He was shy, but he was a great improviser and had a flair for showmanship; he could fake through anything and make it sound like music. And generous! He was the kind of guy — if you brought him a sandwich he'd want to give you a whole roast beef. His name was Jimmy Durante.

We got along from the first night, and from the first night we never turned down a request. Jimmy tells the story this way: "Say a guy asked for Springtime in Kalamazoo, which neither of us even ever heard of . . . I'd fake a melody and Eddie'd turn to the customer and sing 'Oh, it's springtime in Kalamazooooo,' then turn away and double-talk softly, 'My thoughts go wandering back to you, I'll never ever be *no*thun but blue . . .' All the time I'm pounding away fortissimo, then Eddie'd swing back to the customer and moider 'em with 'When its springtime in Kal-a-ma-zoo.' Sometimes the guy was so drunk he wouldn't notice. But sometimes he wasn't that drunk. 'What you singing, kid?' Eddie'd get a bewilderin' look and say, 'Why, Springtime in Kalamazoo.' 'That ain't the song I know,' the guy'd say, and Eddie'd open his big eyes innocent-like and say, 'You mean there are two of 'em?' "

But Jimmy wasn't ambitious. He had taken music lessons as a kid; he didn't need them, his playing was spontaneous and it was just a way to earn spending money.

I used to say, "Jimmy, you've got to do something different if you're ever going to make a big hit. The audience likes you. Why don't you get up on the floor and say something to them, or just sit at the piano and make remarks while you play?"

"Gee, Eddie, I couldn't do that," he'd say. "I'd be afraid people would laugh at me."

He was so right; they were going to laugh and keep on laughing for a lifetime. But he didn't start talking until 1923 when Lou Clayton joined him at the Club Durant. Their act was a routine of songs, jokes and impromptu fun that caused an immediate sensation. The underworld and the upperworld discovered Clayton, Jackson and Durante at the same time.

Ad Libs — Plus

Because the trio had no material, they had to depend on the impromptu. Lou would stamp out on the floor yelling, "Where is he, where's Durante?" Eddie, from the kitchen, would come, yelling, "Where's Jimmy? Where's the Schnozz?" They'd look in the men's room, in the ladies' room, in the kitchen, then one of them would shout, "We've struck oil," and they'd come in leading Durante by the nose.

He'd point to his schnozz. "Dere it is, folks, de real thing. It ain't gonna bite 'cha and any famous personages in the dump can come up and autygraph it." They'd aim their quips at the Walter Winchells, the George M. Cohans, the Owney Maddens, the Damon Runyon characters of Broadway. At the end of the evening a fellow like George M.

People care about Durante

Cohan would leave $100 on the register and say, "Ring this up. I've had too much fun just to pay the check."

Lou Clayton was the most important person in Jimmy's life. A tough little guy with a sledge-hammer punch, he'd wandered into the Club Durant one night after dropping $98,000 in a floating crap game. He was a great gambler, he was also a great dancer. He did a little soft-shoe number at the club that night and Jimmy asked him to come in and join him.

From the day they started their partnership, Clayton handled all Jimmy's business and was responsible for bringing him up into the big time. They were always rowdy, always roughhouse. People think that breaking up a piano is new for Jimmy; but when I see him take an instrument apart I'm back in 1925 again. We're having the annual benefit for Surprise Lake Camp where I was sent as a kid. Clayton, Jackson and Durante play the show and Durante demolishes the piano. Wrecks it. The theater charges me $400.

Payment in Advance

Next day, when Jimmy and I lunch at the Astor, I say, "Thanks for coming to the benefit, Jimmy. Next time, do me a favor, stay home." I tell him about the piano and Jimmy sends me a check for $400 and a note; "This'll take care of the piano I'm gonna bust at the next benefit!" To this day, he's the biggest single contributor to Surprise Lake Camp.

The trio of friends never broke up. When Jimmy got too big for the act, Clayton stayed on as his business manager and Jackson stayed on as his friend. Both the boys were on the payroll of every Durante picture, but they were backstage. No man in show business ever had the intense loyalties Jimmy has had. He gave the word loyal a new dimension. To this day he pays Clayton's widow, Ida, a commission for every job he does. The cruelest blow in Jimmy's life was Lou Clayton's death. In his terrible grief, he retreated from show business.

What finally jolted Jimmy out of his apathy was television. We talked about it one day. "I'm gonna take a crack at it, Eddie," he said. "This is what Lou'd want. He told me before he died, he told me this thing was comin' along big and it was for me." Lou was right, the TV audience loved Jimmy.

You see, there's something that comes through the camera onto the screen — it's not just a phonograph, it's a fluoroscope. People laugh at Durante — but they care about him.

To me the answer is simple. Jimmy loves people. The minute they see that kisser they know he loves 'em. And that's why the end of his program where he walks away into the smaller and smaller pools of light, tugs at their hearts and brings tears. It's like Jimmy was leaving for good. They know instinctively that he'd rather be up there entertaining them than anything else in the world.

Let me show you what I mean. On New Year's Day 1943 Ida and I were down at Palm Springs. I'd gotten up early to take a walk, and of all the people to meet in the village, suddenly around the corner comes that nose.

"Eddie!" he yells.

"Jimmy! Happy New Year!" And we throw our arms around each other.

"Eddie," he says, in the middle of the embrace, "I'm just thinkin'. This must be a tough time for the guys over there in that hospital." The Government had taken over El Mirador Hotel and made it into Torney General Hospital. "Here it's New Year's Day, they're sick, some of 'em have amputations. What da ya say we go over and entertain 'em?"

I thought it was a great idea and suggested we stop off at his bungalow first to rehearse. His place is always full of pals: Jules Buffano, his piano player through the years, Eddie Jackson, who's been with him for 35 years, Jack Roth, his drummer from the old Club Durant, and Lou Cohn, who since Clayton's death has handled most of Jimmy's business. They're not at all surprised when we start in rehearsing at 9 a.m., New Year's Day. We go to the hospital at 10:30, stay till 5:00.

A Good Day's Work

We sing every song we ever sang in the days at Coney Island. Through the years Jimmy and I have appeared many times together at benefits, on radio and now on television, and we always go back into the old routine and have a ball. We clown, we kid, we reminisce about the time I convinced him we should run for President and Vice-President. By 5 o'clock it's time for the patients' dinner and we say good-by. We're both so hoarse we can hardly talk, especially Jimmy, who starts off hoarse. As we walk down the street, he can barely croak, "Eddie, tell me. Don't a t'ing like dis make ya feel good?"

—because he loves them

Still pals after 48 years, here are Jimmy and Eddie as they look today. They've come a long way from Walsh's Coney Island spot.

I know of no one as interested in giving of himself as Jimmy Durante. And it shows. He hasn't an enemy in the world and his friends don't just love him, they worship him. He sums up his philosophy this way, "I figger there are more good people in the world than bad ones. I don't mind if a gent scratches a match on my furniture so long as he's careful to go with the grain."

A Day at the Races

He has a quality of tenderness you seldom see in a man. If you're sad, he's sad. When I was in the hospital with a heart attack, Jimmy came every day. I was allowed no visitors, but he came every day and sat in the corridor outside my room.

After I was well enough to go out he invited me down to Del Mar. He spends part of every summer vacation there, playing the horses. "Ya gotta come, Eddie. It's wonderful for ya. Down here nobody bodders ya." So I went.

The first day at Del Mar he and I both lose on the first three races. Jimmy doesn't bet big, neither do I, but of course we like to win. So after the third race I run into a man I know from Louisville, Kentucky. This fellow owns a stable and he doesn't give tips; but he does tell me that they have a horse today and the horse is ready. I tell this to Jimmy.

"Jimmy, I'm going to bet $10."

"Eddie," he says, "ya mortify me. On this kind of a FBI inside I'll bet 50 bucks."

The horse comes in and pays $22. Jimmy sends me to look again for my friend from Louisville. This time he tells me about another horse. I bet $20, Durante bets $100. The horse comes in and pays $10. From then on we don't lose. We win on every race. Jimmy's elated, he's clowning, then suddenly he gets serious. He claps one hand on my shoulder and says, "Eddie, promise me one thing. No matter what happens today — we go back to show business."

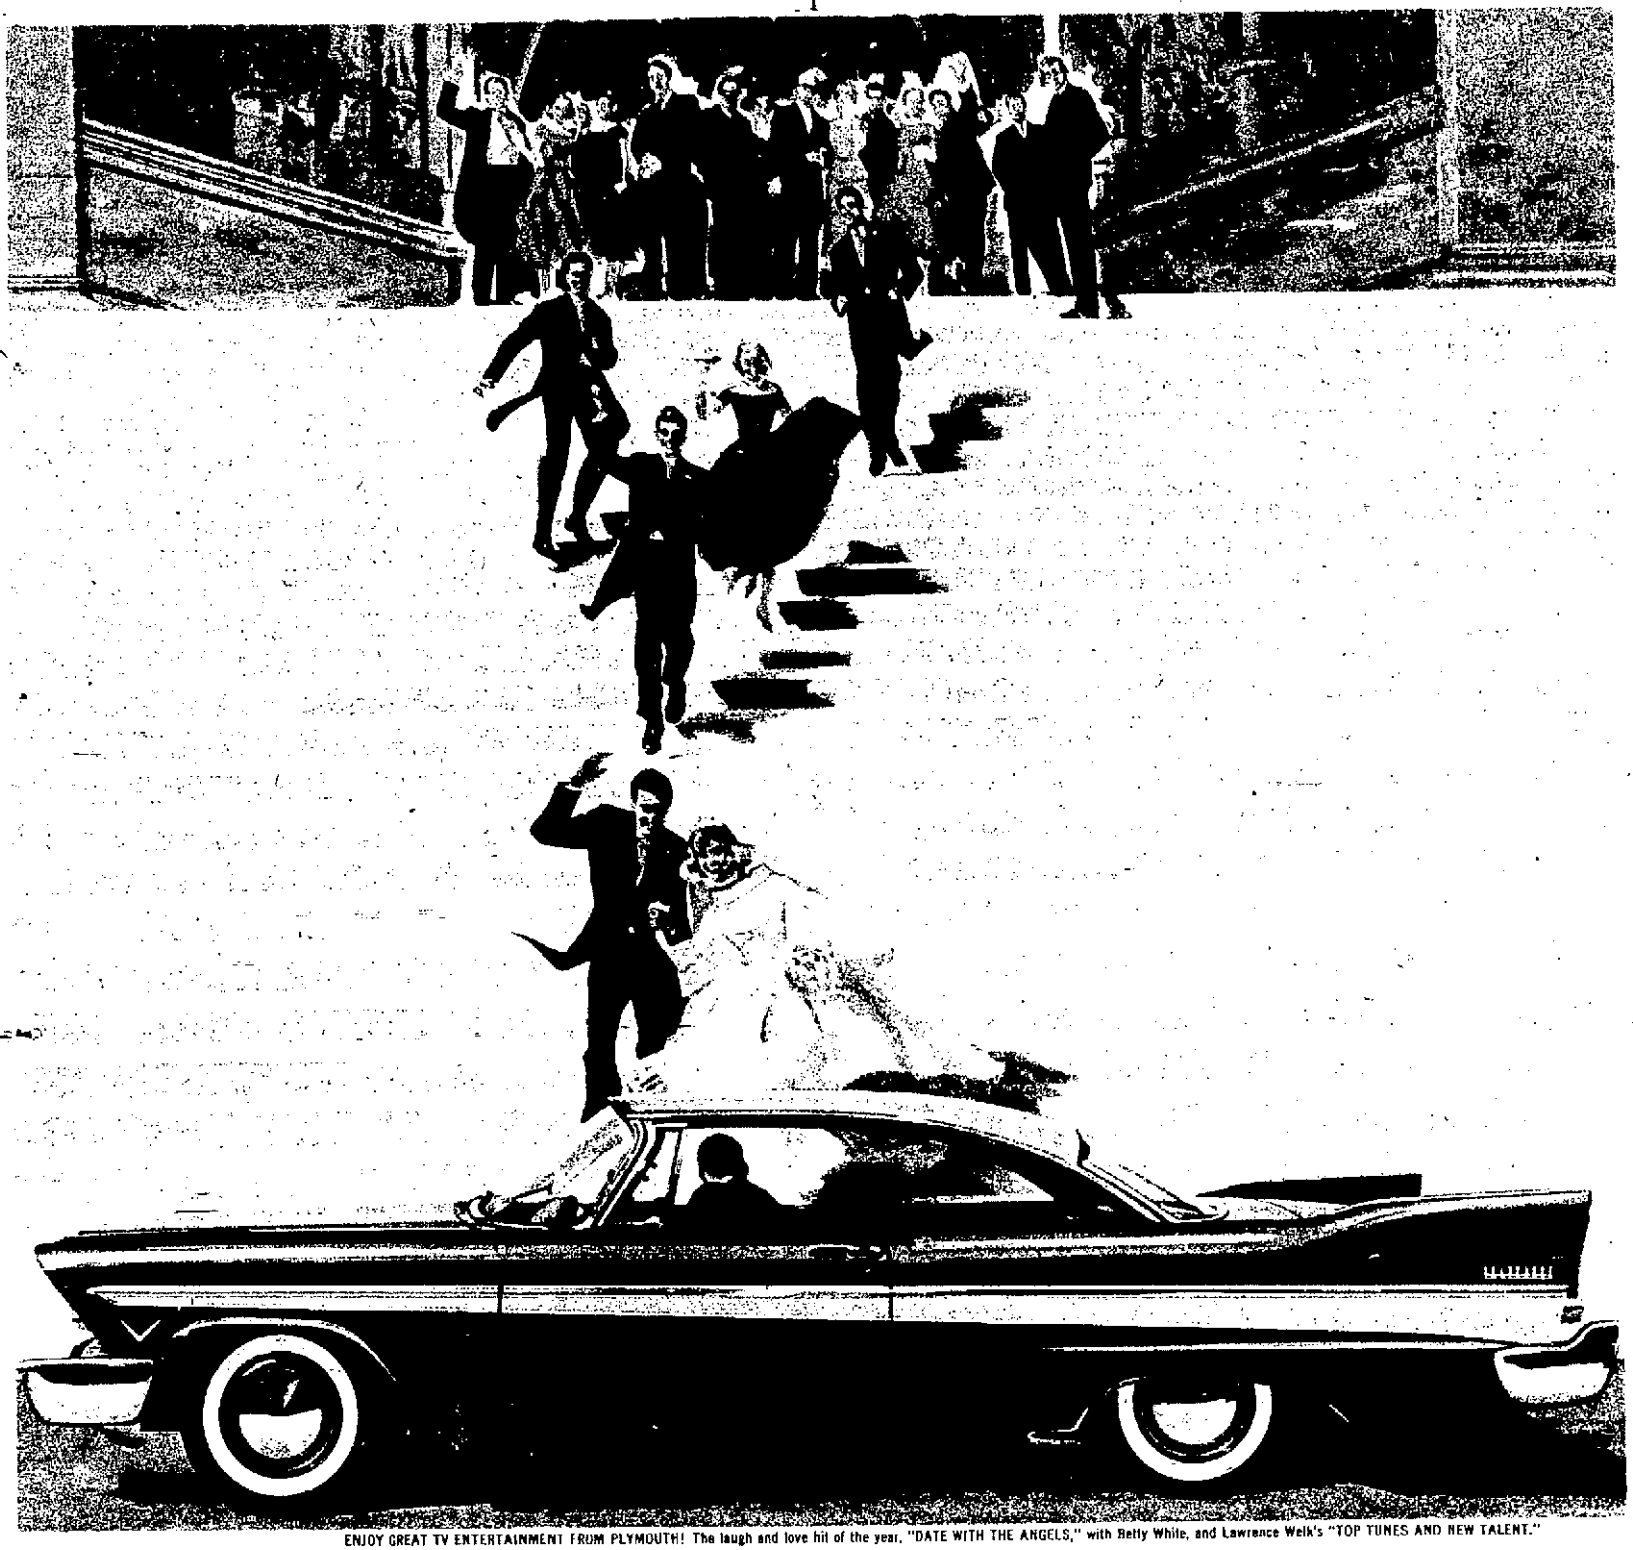

We both went back. It would be a great loss if Jimmy ever abandoned show business. There's just no one else who can send out those currents of fun and love. I, for one, never have missed (unless I've been on a plane) a Durante broadcast or his TV show. For me it has an added meaning. I hear and see this guy today and all the time I'm seeing double, another guy, a kid 16 with brownish hair, playing the piano like a son of a gun for the customers at Carey Walsh's. ■

PIKES PEAK—ANOTHER TEST GROUND FOR SUPERFUEL

To get fuel that makes cars really go, you've got to test where the going is toughest. We did just that. At Pikes Peak every racing car winner since 1946 used Mobil fuel; every stock car winner used Mobilgas Special.

So, out of the testing done at Pikes Peak, came the Superfuel—today's Mobilgas Special. For clean, quick getaway, safe passing on high speed highways, put Superfuel in your high horsepower car.

403 MPH AT BONNEVILLE! All important records on America's most tortuous test course, Bonneville Salt Flats, have been racked up with Mobil fuels. John Cobb's Railton Mobil powered car ran a cool 403 mph. A Renault gas turbine car reached 191.2 mph. Out of this know-how came the Superfuel—Mobilgas Special.

SPORTS CAR RACING—Mobilgas Special has been the fuel chosen in the West's major sports car races for five years. Out of this experience came Mobilgas Special—the Superfuel. We combined pass-power octanes in powerful gasoline with MC_4 chemical additives to give smooth, knock-free power in today's high horsepower cars.

JET BOAT RECORD—at Lake Mead, Donald Campbell's jet propelled Bluebird ran a record 216.2 mph. The fuel was Mobil! In the Gold Cup boat races, four out of five winners since 1952 were powered with Mobil fuel. Wherever races are to be won or records to be set, champions look to Mobil for the fuels that mean victory.
